

WILLIAM BLAKE AND HIS CIRCLE

Publications and Discoveries from 1992 including Addenda to Blake Records, Second Edition (2004)

by

With the Assistance of KEIKO AOYAMA (1992-2002)
and HIKARI SATO (2003 ff.) for Japanese Publications of LI-PING GENG (2011-2017) for Chinese Publications

平耿 and of FERNANDO CASTANEDO for Spanish Publications (2015-17)

Toronto, 2010, 2011, 2012, 2013, 2015, 2016, 2017

For

BBB

INVICTA

CONTENTS

Symbols

Abbreviations

Acknowledgements

Introduction

Organization

Exclusions

Discoveries

Electronic Publications

Reviews

Bibliographies of Blake

Table 1: Publications by and about Blake

Table 2: Foreign Languages of Blake Scholarship

Problems in Transliteration

Blake's Writings

Works in Illuminated Printing

Invention of Illuminated Printing

Printing Works in Illuminated Printing

Colouring Works in Illuminated Printing

Dates of Printing

Posthumous Printing

Posthumous Colouring

Blake's Art

Commercial Engravings

Catalogues and Bibliographies

Books Owned by William Blake

Scholarship and Criticism

Books about Blake

Essays about Blake

DIVISION I: William Blake

PART I

EDITIONS, TRANSLATIONS, AND FACSIMILES
OF BLAKE'S WRITINGS

Section A

Original Editions, Facsimiles, Reprints, and Translations

Table 3: Doctoral Dissertations by University

Table 4: Doctoral Dissertations by Year

Table 5: Watermarks Addenda

Table 6: Collections of Originals of Blake's Writings:
Addenda

Table 7: Private Owners and Public Institutions Which Have Disposed of Original Blakes: Addenda

Table 8: Titles and Copies: Addenda

Table 9: Copperplate-Makers' Marks

Table 10: Copperplate Sizes: Addenda

Table 11: Weight and Cost of Copperplates for Blake's Writing

Table 12: Watermarks in Works by Blake

Table 13: Stab Holes: Addenda

Section B: Collections and Selections

Table 14: Blake's Works Reprinted in Conventional Typography Before 1863: Addenda

Appendix: Writings Improbably Alleged to Be by Blake

Section B: Collections and Selections

PART II

REPRODUCTIONS OF HIS DRAWINGS AND PAINTINGS

Section A

Illustrations of Individual Authors

Section B

Collections and Selections

PART III

COMMERCIAL BOOK ENGRAVINGS

Section A

Illustrations of Individual Authors

Appendix

Books Improbably Alleged to Have Blake Engravings

PART IV

CATALOGUES AND BIBLIOGRAPHIES

PART V

BOOKS OWNED BY WILLIAM BLAKE OF LONDON (1757-1827)

Appendix

Books Owned by the Wrong William Blake in the Years 1770-1827

PART VI

CRITICISM, BIOGRAPHY, AND SCHOLARLY STUDIES

DIVISION II

Blake's Circle

Appendix

Blake Records Second Edition (2004): Addenda

Note: Collections of essays on Blake are listed under the names of the editors; issues of periodicals devoted extensively to him are listed under the titles; and reviews are listed under the book reviewed.

The illustrations printed in Blake are omitted because they would make a portly document dangerously obese.

SYMBOLS

- * An entry prefixed by an asterisk (*) contains one or more illustrations by or after Blake (or portraits of Blake). If there are more than 19 Blake illustrations, the number is specified. If the illustrations include all those for a work by Blake, such as Thel or the designs for Paradise Lost, the work is identified.
- § A section-mark (§) identifies printings which I have not seen and which I therefore record on secondary authority.
- 1834 Dates in bold face are for works referring to Blake printed before 1863
- “Complete” An italicized initial letter within a quotation was lower case in the original
In the checklist, English translations of the titles of articles, books, and journals in other languages are often contained in either parentheses or brackets. Parentheses indicate that the title is also included in English in the work; brackets that it is not.

ABBREVIATIONS

- BB* G.E. Bentley, Jr, Blake Books (1977)
- BBS* G.E. Bentley, Jr, Blake Books Supplement (1995)
- Biblioteca la Solana* The collection of Robert N. Essick
- Blake* Blake: An Illustrated Quarterly
- Blake* (1992 ff.) "William Blake and His Circle", Blake (1992 ff.) online
- Bodley* The Bodleian Library, Oxford University

Acknowledgements

|                        |   |
|------------------------|---|
| BR (2)          | G.E. Bentley, Jr, Blake Records , Second Edition (2004)  |
| BSJ             | G.E. Bentley, Jr, with the assistance of Keiko Aoyama, Blake Studies in Japan: A Bibliography (1994)   |
| Butlin                 | Martin Butlin, The Paintings and Drawings of William Blake (1981)  |
| DAI             | Dissertation Abstracts International ; note that DAI online now offers access to the entire thesis  |
| Fitzwilliam            | The Fitzwilliam Museum, Cambridge   |
| GEB                    | G.E. Bentley, Jr  |
| Gilchrist              | Alexander Gilchrist, Life of William Blake, "Pictor Ignotus" (London: Macmillan, 1863), Vol. I (the biography – Vol. II is Blake's writings, reproductions, and catalogues of his works)               |
| Index to Theses | Index to Theses with Abstracts Accepted for Higher Degrees by the Universities of Great Britain and Ireland and the Council for National Academic Awards   |
| ISBN                   | International Standard Book Number. Many books have from two to five ISBN numbers, for versions in hard-back, paper-back, &c. However, only one ISBN is reported here, generally the one beginning with "978" |
| l. or ll.              | line or lines   |
| Morgan                 | The Pierpont Morgan Library, New York   |
| NS                     | New series (when a periodical is numbered afresh)   |

|          |   |
|----------|---|
| pl.      | Plate or plates. I have tried to distinguish carefully between metal “copperplates” and paper “prints”, though it is common to use “plates” for each  |
| ProQuest | ProQuest Dissertations and Theses [sic] online largely replaces DAI for North American Ph.D.s  |
| Toronto  | In a list of copies seen, a single proper noun, such as Toronto, stands for the relevant University Library, e.g., University of Toronto Library. Occasionally, as in descriptions of dissertations, the name means the university in general rather than the library in particular |
| Viscomi  | Joseph Viscomi, Blake and the Idea of the Book (Princeton: Princeton University Press, 1993)   |

Note that characters in works in Chinese, Japanese, Latvian, Russian, and Ukrainian have mostly been transliterated to our familiar Roman script.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I am grateful to many helpers besides Keiko Aoyama, Hikari Sato, and Li-Ping Geng, and Fernando Castenado identified on the title page.

Of these I must isolate Ivana Bancevic Pejovic (for a surprising number of works in Serbian), Dr E.B. Bentley, Julia G. Bentley (for translations from Chinese), Sarah Bentley, Professor Robert Brandeis, Martin Butlin, Professor Ching-erh Chang (for works on Blake published in Taiwan), Dr Keri Davies, Dr D.W. Dörrbecker, Professor Robert N. Essick, Dr Francisco Gimeno Suances (for prolific assistance with Spanish publications), Professor Alexander Gourlay, Mrs Heather Howell, Professor Heather Jackson, Dr Mary Lynn Johnson, Sarah Jones (for superlative editing), Mr David Man (for his web-site about the Cumberland family), Stephen Massil, Dr Jeff Mertz, Paul Miner, Professor Karen Mulhallen, Professor Morton D. Paley, Professor Dennis Read, Anthony Rota, Mrs Margaret Sharman (for access to the Johnny Johnson papers), Professor Sheila Spector (for Hebrew works), Tom Simpson (Rare Book Cataloguer, E.J. Pratt Library, Victoria University in the University of Toronto), Marc Vaulbert de Chantilly (for information about the Blakes owned by Thomas Griffiths Wainewright, shown me in draft), Professor Joseph Viscomi, the late Ray Watkinson (for allowing me to see the Strange papers), Dr Angus Whitehead, and John Windle.

I owe special debts to Morris Eaves and Morton D. Paley, editors of Blake: An Illustrated Quarterly, where almost all the information here first appeared, and to the Quarterly's superlative copy-editors Patricia O'Neill and Sarah Jones, who have saved me from committing even more redundancies, inconsistencies, and errors.

N.B. There are minor differences, chiefly stylistic, between this Checklist and the versions in Blake (1994 ff.). Further, for reasons of space, beginning in 2014 (the issue for 2013), Blake omitted newly recorded works published between 1863 and five years before the current list. This cumulative checklist therefore records significantly more publications than appeared in the annual issues of Blake.

Places and Institutions of Research

Over the years, research for William Blake and His Circle has been carried out in La Biblioteca la Solana, The Bodleian Library, Brighton, The British Library, The British Museum Department of Prints and Drawings, "Citation Information by National Institute of Informatics" (Japan), Durham Cathedral Library, Durham University Library, Dutch Boys Landing, Blake's Cottage (Felpham), Friends House Library (London), General Library in the University of Tokyo (Japan), The Huntington Library and Art Gallery, The University of Miami Library, The National Diet Library (Tokyo), The National Gallery of Canada, The National Library of Australia, The National Library of Canada, National Library of China (Beijing),<sup>1</sup> The Osborne Collection

---

<sup>1</sup> The online catalogue of the National Library of China is not compatible with the soft-ware of many computers and requires a personal card from the National Library of China. It includes a search-and-down-load function for the texts of periodicals.

The data bases of Complete Texts for Periodicals in China, VIP Chinese Periodicals in Science and Technology, and Wan Fang Data (Digitized Periodicals) are very difficult of access.

Acknowledgements

[of Children's Books] of Toronto Public Library, The Pierpont Morgan Library (N.Y.), Princeton University Library, The Rosenbach Museum,<sup>2</sup> Sotheby's (N.Y.), Southwark Local Studies Library, The Taylorian Institution (Oxford), the Toronto Public Library, the University of Tokyo libraries, The University of Toronto Library, Victoria University Library in the University of Toronto, The Wellcome Library (London), The West Sussex Record Office (for William Muir publications), Yale Center for British Art, Yale University Art Gallery, Yale University Library (including Beinecke Library).<sup>3</sup>

In addition there are miscellaneous electronic archives such as COPAC (Consortium of [British] University Research Libraries On-Line Public Access), Google, Google Books, Google Scholar, National Library Catalogues Worldwide, RLIN (Research Libraries group), New York Times, the Times [London] (1785-1985),<sup>4</sup> and WorldCat (formerly OCLC).

Works published in Japan were found in "Citation

---

<sup>2</sup> According to an online press-release of 17 April 2013, the "Free Library of Philadelphia Foundation and the Rosenbach Museum & Library announce intent to join forces to create nation's preeminent rare book collection". It will create "The Rosenbach of the Free Library of Philadelphia Foundation". The Rosenbach Library has Descriptive Catalogue (M), For the Sexes (E), Poetical Sketches (R), and Visions of the Daughters of Albion (H) plus loose Blake prints, while the Free Library of Foundation has numerous books with Blake's commercial engravings.

<sup>3</sup> An anomalous online Catalogue of Uncatalogued Works in Yale University Libraries is the source of a few of the more ephemeral Blake works here.

<sup>4</sup> The Times Digital Archive is a marvellous resource. It is only through the Times that I know of Blake's Hotel, Jeremyn Street (1 May 1804), the launch of the 74-gun Blake (18 Aug 1808, with reports of her thereafter), and of other egregious William Blakes, such as "a conjuror's artist", accused of theft (25 Nov 1848).

Information by National Institute of Informatics", National Diet Library Online Catalogue, and in Komaba Library and General Library in the University of Tokyo, Komaba Library and General Library in the University of Tokyo, and the National Diet Library.

For publications in China, works were found in the CiNii (National Library of China, Beijing),<sup>5</sup> in the data bases of Complete Texts for Periodicals in China, VIP Chinese Periodicals in Science and Technology, and Wan Fang Data (Digitized Periodicals).

Research for works in Spanish was carried out in the Biblioteca Nacional de España.

Major Sources of Information

Art Index

Blake Newsletter (1967-1977)

Blake: An Illustrated Quarterly (1977 ff.)

Book Review Digest

Book Review Index

British Humanities Index

The Eighteenth Century: A Current Bibliography for 1975-99
(1978-2003)

English Literature 1660-1800, A Bibliography of Modern Studies ... Compiled from Philological Quarterly for 1926-70 (Princeton: Princeton University Press, 1950, 1952, 1952, 1962, 1962, 1972, 1972)

EThOS: Electronic Theses Online Service
<<http://ethos.bl.uk>>, mounted by the British Library. In

---

<sup>5</sup> The online catalogue of the National Library of China is not compatible with the soft-ware of many computers and requires a personal card from the National Library of China. It includes a search-and-down-load function for the texts of periodicals.

Acknowledgements

2014 it records 380,000 British theses, 65 of them about William Blake – but not that of GEB (1956). The details given are pretty minimal, but in some the full text is available, and it does not distinguish between Ph.D. and D. Phil.

Essick (Robert N.) Catalogue of his own collection (Privately printed, 2008)

Gallica Bibliothèque numérique of the Bibliothèque nationale de France<sup>6</sup>

Global Books in Print (511 under William Blake in 2008)

Modern Language Association International Bibliography

New York Times Index

The Romantic Movement Bibliography 1936-1970: A Master Cumulation from PHILOLOGICAL QUARTERLY and ENGLISH LANGUAGE NOTES for 1936-70), 5 vols. (1973), "The Romantic Movement: A Selective and Critical Bibliography for 1971[-1978]", English Language Notes, X-XVII (1972-79), and The Romantic Movement: A Selective and Critical Bibliography for 1979-93, ed. D.V. Erdman et al (N.Y. and London: Garland Publishing, 1980-87, and West Cornwall, Connecticut: Locust Hill Press, 1988-94)

Whittaker's Books in Print Year's Work in English Studies
Year's Work in Modern Language Studies

W.A.F.

A series new to me, is Ecco: Eighteenth Century Collections Online Print Edition, n.d., no other imprint information, published by Gale. The copies I have seen are for Bellamy's Picturesque Magazine (1793) and Flaxman's Letter to the Committee for Raising the Naval Pillar, or Monument (1799).

---

<sup>6</sup> Gallica Bibliothèque reproduces over 2,000,000 searchable documents.

They are "digitized from microfilm" made within the last 30-40 years -- and for anyone who has used microfilms extensively this is not very reassuring. These reproductions are better than nothing -- but not much better. They should be flagged with the booksellers' abbreviation "W.A.F.", standing for "With All Faults", meaning that the item cannot be returned.

A curious series of electronic books published by e-artnow in 2013-14 includes Milton, Das Verloren Paradies (Paradise Lost) mit Illustrationen von William Blake, All Religions Are One (with There Is No Natural Religion), America, The Book of Ahania, The Book of Thel, Europe, The First Book of Urizen, For Children, For the Sexes, Jerusalem, The Marriage of Heaven and Hell, Milton, The Song of Los, Songs of Experience, Songs of Innocence, Songs of Innocence and of Experience, Visions of the Daughters of Albion, and The Complete Illuminated Books of William Blake (Unabridged). Each work in Illuminated Printing is said to be an Illuminated Manuscript [sic] with the Original Illustrations of William Blake, and each copy is said to be a "carefully crafted ebook".

The series seems to omit all Blake's "Illuminated Manuscripts" such as Tiriel and Vala or The Four Zoas.

Books on Demand

The phenomenon of Books on Demand is becoming more common -- and more trying. When they come equipped with an ISBN, they have all the stigmata of a published book, though they may be no more than an M.A. thesis (Vassiliadias) or even a seminar paper (Bräur, Dürre, Laass).

PROBLEMS IN TRANSLITERATION

Japanese

The problem of transliteration of titles of books and essays in Japanese is formidable, and it is compounded by the fact that there are over a thousand Japanese publications recorded here and that the standard conventions of transliteration have changed over the years. The older, Hepburn, system was used for A Blake Bibliography (1964), and the newer Official System is used in the National Diet Library in Tokyo and in Blake Books (1977), Blake Books Supplement (1995), and in "William Blake and His Circle" (1992 ff.). For instance, the old, Hepburn, system recorded the Japanese pronunciation of Western names, as in "Bureiku ko Hoitsutoman", while the present Official System restored such names to their pronunciation in English, as in "Blake ko Whitman". The Japanese word pronounced "Bureiku" can also mean "Floating Soul Poems".

Further, Japanese proper names written in Chinese characters can often be pronounced and therefore transliterated in different ways. Thus the name of the most formidable Japanese Blake scholar is sometimes spelled "Zyugaku", though he himself gives it as "Jugaku", and the given name of Mr Yanagi can be pronounced as either "Mune" or "Soetsu".

In books printed in the traditional Japanese format, the Japanese characters are printed in vertical columns, the columns are read from top to bottom and from the right-hand column to the ones on the left. The pages are numbered from the right-hand end of the book. Text in European characters in such books is of course printed and read horizontally from left to right, but the pagination following the Japanese format seems to be backward. See Kobayashi below.

Chinese

Similar problems arise with the transliteration of titles in Chinese. The older, Wade-Giles system of transliteration from Chinese, was in use in China until 1949, when it was replaced by the Pinyin system. However, in Taiwan the Pinyin system was resisted for many years and has been adopted only fairly recently. It is still customary in Taiwan to give proper names of Taiwanese authors in the older Wade-Giles system. The same character for a proper name may therefore be transliterated differently in Japan, in China, and in Taiwan. This is particularly trying with family names, which may appear in different positions in an alphabetical list according to the system of transliteration used.

Cyrillic

For transliterations and translations from Cyrillic I am indebted to various assistants.

Serbian

Note that in Serbian, the poet's names are given variously as "Vilijam", "Vilijama", "Vilijem", "Vilijema", "Williama", "Blakea", "Blejk", "Blejka", "Blejku", "Blejkova", and "Blejkovom" because of the seven different cases in Serbian.

Languages of the Former Yugoslavia<sup>7</sup>

---

<sup>7</sup> The information here derives from correspondence with my generous friend Tanja Bakic.

Acknowledgements

The language of Yugoslavia was Serbo-Croatian. This is now archaic except in Macedonia and Slovenia.

| Country         | Language |
|------------------------|-----------------|
| Bosnia and Herzogovena | Bosnian         |
| Croatia                | Croatian        |
| Kosovo                 | Albanian        |
| Macedonia              | Macedonian      |
| Montenegro             | Montenegrin     |
| Serbia                 | Serbian         |
| Slovenia               | Slovenian       |

Macedonian and Slovenian differ a lot, but the variants in the others are chiefly in terms of spelling, dialect, and idioms.

N.B. Works published in countries derived from the former Yugoslavia have both an ISBN code and a COBISS code -- COBISS-BH for Bosnia-Herzogovena, COBISS-HR for Croatia, COBISS-MK for Macedonia, COBISS-SR for Serbia. I have omitted these COBISS numbers.

BIBLIOGRAPHIES OF BLAKE

The first comprehensive listing for Blake's works was in William Michael Rossetti's "Annotated Lists of Blake's Paintings, Drawings, [Writings], and Engravings" in Alexander Gilchrist's Life of William Blake, "Pictor Ignotus" (London and Cambridge: Macmillan, 1863), II, 199-264.

The most important bibliographical work was recorded by Geoffrey Keynes in A Bibliography of William Blake (N.Y.: The Grolier Club, 1921), which covers not only Blake's writings but books with his engravings and works about him. In particular, Keynes identified individual copies of Blake's literary works, e.g., America, with letters of the alphabet, a system which has been adapted and expanded in responsible subsequent works. The most important part of Keynes's Bibliography (1921) was carried further in Geoffrey Keynes and Edwin Wolf 2nd, William Blake's Illuminated Books: A Census (N.Y.: The Grolier Club, 1953).

The work of Keynes was extended (except for the works in Illuminated Printing) and consolidated in G.E. Bentley, Jr, and Martin K. Nurmi, A Blake Bibliography: Annotated Lists of Works, Studies, and Blakeana (Minneapolis: University of Minnesota Press, 1964).

All this was incorporated and brought up to date in G.E. Bentley, Jr, Blake Books: Annotated Catalogues of William Blake's Writings in Illuminated Printing, in Conventional Typography and in Manuscript and Reprints thereof, Reproductions of his Designs, Books with his Engravings, Catalogues, Books He Owned, and Scholarly and Critical Works about him (Oxford: Clarendon Press, 1977). In particular, Blake Books regularized the numbering of the prints in Blake's books. Keynes had sometimes numbered the preliminaries in roman numerals (e.g., America pl. i-iii) and the following text in Arabic numerals (pl. 1-15), and sometimes he numbered the prints all in Arabic numerals, including the preliminaries (e.g., Jerusalem pl. 1-100). Blake Books used Arabic numerals throughout, and this is now fairly standard practice, though a surprising number of works still number the prints in the idiosyncratic order of Keynes (1921) or even introduce new arrangements.

Blake Books was followed by Blake Books Supplement: A Bibliography of Publications and Discoveries about William Blake 1971-1992 being a continuation of BLAKE BOOKS (1977) (Oxford: Clarendon Press, 1995), and G.E. Bentley, Jr, with the assistance of Keiko Aoyama, Blake Studies in Japan: A Bibliography of Works on William Blake Published in Japan 1893-1993 (Tokyo: Japan Association of English Romanticism, 1994), and these in turn were continued in G.E. Bentley, Jr, "William Blake and His Circle: A Checklist of Publications and Discoveries [1992 ff.]" which appeared annually in Blake: An Illustrated Quarterly (1994 ff.).

Acknowledgements

These Checklists in Blake add four features not attempted in Blake Books (1977) and Blake Books Supplement (1995). In the first place, reviews of publications from 1992 onward are recorded in the Checklists though not previously attempted. In the second place, names of publishers were omitted in Blake Books (1977) and Blake Books Supplement (1995) for works after 1831 but are recorded in the Checklists. In the third place, Division II recording publications 1992 ff. by and about Blake's friends and patrons is added in the Checklists in Blake. And in the fourth place, the checklists from 2004 added Addenda and Corrigenda to G.E. Bentley, Jr, Blake Records Second Edition (2004).

The comprehensiveness of the checklists in Blake is significantly greater than in Blake Books and Blake Books Supplement.

INTRODUCTION

William Blake and His Circle originated in annual checklists in Blake: An Illustrated Quarterly, Volumes XXVIII-XLIII (1994 ff.). These have been consolidated, corrected, and amplified. In particular, the present work lists thousands of reviews, most of them not in Blake Books (1977), Blake Books Supplement (1995), or Blake (1994 ff). Blake Books and Blake Books Supplement ignored reviews except for catalogues and for works before 1863 (about 500).

William Blake and His Circle is a continuation of the records in

- (1) G.E. Bentley, Jr, Blake Books: Annotated Catalogues of his Writings in Illuminated Printing, in Conventional Typography, and in Manuscript, and Reprints thereof; Reproductions of his Designs; Books with his Engravings; Catalogues; Books He Owned; and Scholarly and Critical Books about Him (Oxford: Clarendon Press, 1977)
- (2) G.E. Bentley, Jr, with the assistance of Keiko Aoyama, Blake Studies in Japan: A Bibliography of Works on William Blake Published in Japan 1893-1993 (Tokyo: Japan Association of English Romanticism, 1994)
- (3) G.E. Bentley, Jr, Blake Books Supplement: A Bibliography of Publications and Discoveries about William Blake 1971-1991 being a Continuation of BLAKE BOOKS (1977) (Oxford: Clarendon Press, 1995)

It is also the successor of the wonderfully detailed and voluminous checklists of D.W. Dörrebecker in Blake: An Illustrated Quarterly (1978-1992), whose findings are incorporated in Blake Books Supplement.

Three scholars have produced series of essays in Blake Newsletter and Blake: An Illustrated Quarterly which cumulatively are more factually valuable than most books on Blake.

The first of these is R.N. Essick, whose "Blake in the Marketplace" began modestly in 1974 with an 8-page essay and in 2009 was 40 pp. This is an invaluable record of original books and pictures by Blake and his circle which have changed hands or been offered for sale or discovered. It is a record of the most basic elements of scholarship by an author who is both a major scholar and a major collector. The total number of pages from 1974 to 2009 was 558 pages, the equivalent of a very substantial book.

The second scholar is D.W. Dörrbecker, who for fifteen years (1978-1993) produced "Blake and His Circle: A Checklist of Recent Blake Scholarship". The first Checklist was published by Thomas Minnick in Blake Newsletter, X, 2 (Fall 1976), 59-62, and then he was joined by Dörrbecker in the issues in Blake for 1978-84. From 1987 to 1993 it was conducted by Dörrbecker alone. Under Dörrbecker it grew from 26 pages to the whole issue (1991, 1993), with more and more generous annotation and coverage of Blake's Circle from Flaxman to John Ruskin. Almost all the entries were annotated, and the annotations of some were so extensive as to constitute mini-reviews<sup>8</sup> which are succinct and shrewd, occasionally spiced with a touch of indignation. His coverage of Blake's circle and of art history is far more extensive than that of his successor. The essays by Dörrbecker alone would make a very substantial book (241 pages).

---

<sup>8</sup> Dörrbecker published 83 reviews in Blake alone, most of them part of "Blake and His Circle". Here regularly annotates dissertations extensively, but these dissertation-annotations are not reported below.

The third scholar is G.E. Bentley, Jr in "William Blake and His Circle" in Blake beginning in 1994 – with the assistance of Keiko Aoyama (1994-2003) and of Hikari Sato (2004 ff) for Japanese publications. In Bentley's administration the emphasis is far less on Blake's Circle and on annotation and a good deal more on Blake's books and prints and drawings. The cumulative bulk is substantial – 581 pages for 1994-2009.

No other author or artist known to me is as well served as Blake.

ORGANIZATION

Division I: William Blake

Division I of the checklist is as in Blake Books and Blake Books Supplement.

Division II: Blake's Circle<sup>9</sup>

Division II is organized by individual (say, William Hayley or John Flaxman), with works by and about Blake's friends and patrons, living individuals with whom he had significant direct and demonstrable contact. It does not include important contemporaries with whom Blake's contact was negligible or non-existent such as John Constable and William Wordsworth and Edmund Burke. Such major figures are dealt with more comprehensively elsewhere, and the light they throw upon Blake is very dim.

---

<sup>9</sup> There is nothing in Blake Books (1977) or Blake Books Supplement (1995) corresponding to Division II: Blake's Circle.

In general, Keiko Aoyama and Hikari Sato are responsible for works in Japanese and Li-Ping Geng for those in Chinese, and I am greatly indebted to them for their meticulous accuracy and their patience in translating the words and conventions of Japan and China into our very different context.

I take Blake Books (1977) and Blake Books Supplement (1995), faute de mieux, to be the standard bibliographical authorities on Blake<sup>10</sup> and have noted significant differences from them.

Blake's words are quoted from William Blake's Writings, ed. G.E. Bentley, Jr, (Oxford: Clarendon Press, 1978).

Dates and documents about Blake come from Blake Records Second Edition (2004).

EXCLUSIONS

I have made no systematic attempt to record several modes of publication, and I list below a few I have come upon accidentally.

---

<sup>10</sup> Except for the states of the prints for Blake's commercial book engravings, where the standard authority is R.N. Essick, William Blake's Commercial Book Illustrations (1991).

Significant further details, especially about collations, are given in Roger R. Easson and Robert N. Essick, William Blake Book Illustrator: A Bibliography and Catalogue of the Commercial Engravings, Volume I: Plates Designed and Engraved by Blake (Normal, Illinois: The American Blake Foundation, 1972), Volume II: Plates Designed or Engraved by Blake 1774-1796 (Memphis, Tennessee: The American Blake Foundation, 1979); Volume III never appeared. The standard authority for Blake prints issued separately is Robert N. Essick, The Separate Plates of William Blake: A Catalogue (Princeton: Princeton University Press, 1983).

"Audio Books"

William Blake: poems read by Nicol Williamson (Harper/Collins, ISBN: 156511163X; Findaway World Lic., 2009); William Blake: selected poems read by various readers (Penguin Audiobooks, ISBN 014086572), scathingly reviewed by Gilbert Francis, New Statesman, 4 December 1998, p. 63; §Mary Holmes, "William Blake", Trianon Press Archive exhibition: Talks presented 8-9 November 1990 at Special Collections, McHenry Library, University of California, Santa Cruz in connection with the exhibition of the Trianon Press Archive (2009), [Vol. III]; Ross Woodman, Jung and Blake (Carpinteria [California]: Pacifica Graduate Institute, 2009); and Blake: The Great Poets "(Unabridged Collection)", read by Robert Glenister, Michael Malone, and Stephen Critchlow (Naxos Audio Books, 2007), §"Blake's Cosmos", "Melvyn Hill interviews Dr Northrop Frye about 'the personal cosmos of the great visionary poet, William Blake'" ([?Toronto: ?Canadian Broadcasting Company, ?1972]) Broadcast 23 February 1972 Audiobook on Cassette. <See BB 5, BBS 4> See also §Margaret Florence Saumarez Bottrall, "A Lecture on William Blake's Songs of Innocence and [of] Experience" (London: Norwich Tapes, 1978), Phonotape Cassette; §Kathleen Raine, A Lecture on Blake and England (Battle [Sussex]: Norwich Tapes, 1984) Critical Forum Audiobook on Cassette, 94 minutes; §Kathleen Raine, "Blake and Maya [and] Yeats and Kabir" (Artarman [New South Wales, Australia]: Peter Leyden Publishing House, [?1980]) Norwich Tapes Audiobook on Tape, NT 65, 87 minutes; §Kathleen Raine, "Blake and Maya" (Battle [Sussex]: Norwich Tapes, 1984); §Poets for Pleasure. [Read by Nicol Williamson] ([No place]: Hodder Headline, 1995) ISBN: 9781859982211

"Audio Magazines"

Roger Lundin, "On the vision of William Blake", Mars Hill Audio Journal: A bimonthly audio magazine of contemporary culture & Christian conviction, LI ([Charlottesville, Virginia] July-August 2001), Disc 2.

"Blogs"

Zoamorphosis: The Blake 2.0 Blog, chiefly by Jason Whitaker, with, e.g., his "Tate buys Blake Works", 12 January 2010 (Small Book of Designs [B]), "Is Blake just bad, or crazy as well?", 10 February 2010, "William Blake's Life and Works" (21 August 2010) (part of "Zoamorphosis, Essential Introductions"), "Guided Tour of Blake's Lambeth", 1 May 2010, "A Vindication of Albion-Blake and Mary Wollstonecraft", 27 April 2012, Keri Davies, "The new Blakes at the Tate: prequel [sic]", 13 June 2010 (useful notes he made on Small Book [B] in 2007).

Broadcasts on Radio

"Masao Hataya ... was devoted to 'popularizing' Blake, and from 6 pm on August 12 [1927], the time of the artist's death, he broadcasted a 30-minute radio program [in Japanese] called '100 Years since Blake's Death'" (Yoko Ima-Izumi, Blake, XXXVIII [2004-5], 113); (2) Jacob Bronowski, "The Prophetic Books of William Blake", BBC Third Programme,

7:55-8:25 P.M. 25 June 1951 and (3) his "Invention and Imagination: 1. William Blake", BBC Third Programme 9:25-9:45 P.M. 9 October 1946 (typescripts in the University of Toronto Library); (4) Canadian Broadcasting Company, 10:30 P.M., 12 June 1995, Bank of Montreal Stratford Festival Series in The Arts Tonight: Monday Night Playhouse; (5) BBC online for 20 January 2006 lists Peter Ackroyd, "The Romantics", section on Blake; (6) BBC online press release of 21 August 2002: "The complete list of the top 100" Britons includes Alfred the Great, Julie Andrews, David Beckham, Tony Blair, and William Blake; (7) G.E. Bentley, Jr., was interviewed on Ottawa station CFRA on 17 February 2006; (8) "The Divine Mr. Blake", CBC radio, 18 November 2007, interviews with Dr Susanne Sklar, Dr Stephen Faulkner, Susan McCaslin, and G.E. Bentley, Jr.; (9) "Blake's Doors of Perception", BBC, four days in November 2007.

Broadcasts on Television

William Blake, The South Bank Show, ITV (London), 17 September 1995, largely narrated by Peter Ackroyd; (2) A.A. Gill, "English File: Poetry Backpack: William Blake. BBC 2 daytime educational program for television. Broadcast Friday, 23 May 1997", Sunday Times (London), Section 11, p. 31.

Broadsides

Calendars

- (1) **William Blake: Fitzwilliam Museum, Cambridge 1994 Calendar* (Rohnert Park, California: Pomegranate Calendars and Books, 1993); (2) 1995 Calendar; (3) William Blake. The Huntington Library (Rohnert Park, California: Pomegranate Calendars and Books, 1994) 4°, ISBN: 1566408237--an introductory statement by Robert N. Essick identifies the images correctly as "a small but sublime sample of the Blake treasures at the Huntington"; (4) William Blake Tate Gallery 1996 Calendar (Rohnert Park, California: Pomegranate Calendars and Books, 1995); (5) §Blake: Art of Imagination [for 2009] ([no place identified]: Amber Publishers [?2008]); §Art of Imagination: William Blake 2010 Calendar ([No place]: Amber Lotus, 2009).

CD-Roms

(1) Nicholas Barker, The Book of Urizen (2001), which accompanies a CD-Rom of Urizen (G); (2) *Stephen Nachmanovitch, Job Returns: a meditation on William Blake's ILLUSTRATIONS OF THE BOOK OF JOB. Music & Multimedia by Stephen Nachmanovitch. 11 minutes ([Charlottesville, Virginia: Stephen Nachmanovitch, 2002]); (3) *William Bolcom, SONGS OF INNOCENCE AND OF EXPERIENCE Soloists, Choirs, University of Michigan School of Music Symphony Orchestra, University Musical Society, Leonard Slatkin ([Ann Arbor: Live Concert produced ... April 8th 2004]) Naxos American Classics (the liner-notes include William Bolcom (b. 1938), "Songs of Innocence and of Experience: A Musical Illumination of the Poems of William Blake", 1984 [pp. 5-6] [when "I was seventeen, ... the reading of William Blake ... [made] a profound difference in my life"]]; (4) "Recollections on the Twentieth Anniversary of Songs of Innocence and of Experience", 2004 [p. 7]); and (5) Songs of Innocence and of Experience, Commentary by Stuart Curran (2003).

China-Ware

(1) The white bone china bud vase decorated with "The Sick Rose" apparently produced by Coalport for the 1978 Tate exhibition (see R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 1998", Blake, XXXII [1999]); (2) the decorated ceramic bowl by Bernard Leach with verses from Blake round the rim (reproduced in the Kyoto Blake exhibition catalogue [2003]).

Coffee Mugs

A mug with "I want! I want!" from The Gates of Paradise produced by the Fitzwilliam Museum, and a mug with a colour-reproduction of The Ancient of Days, marked "Bone China" (London: The British Museum [2002]); "William Blake: Comus with His Revellers Coffee Mugs", Zazzleproducts online.

Comic Books

Stan Lee presents Wolverine in Origin: Part V of VI: Revelation; Paul Jenkins, Bill Jemas and Joe Quesada, Plot; Paul Jenkins, Script; Andy Kubert, Pencils; Richard Isanove, Original Painting; JG and Comcraft's Wes Abbott and Saida Temofonte, Lettering ... (N.Y.: Marvel Comics, May 2002)--a well-made comic strip which begins (the first 18 panels) with a recitation of "The Tyger". My chief authority on comic books is my friend Professor Amir Hussein.

Computer Print-Outs (unpublished)

Conferences

(1) "Blake in Contexts: William Blake (1757-1827) His Life and Times", A conference at the Swedenborg Society (London), 2 November 2007, says a publicity release; (2) "Blake's Doors of Perception", BBC, four days in November 2007; (3) "Becoming Blake", 22 February 2008 at the University of Manchester, accompanying the exhibition 26 January-20 April 2008 of Blake's Shadow: William Blake and his Artistic Legacy; (4) "Burning Bright: An Evening for William Blake", 5 March 2007 at the British Library in conjunction with the exhibition of William Blake: Under the Influence, 11 January to 21 March 2007; (5) "Blake and His Influence" in Montreal 4-7 November 2009; "Blake, the Flaxmans, and Romantic Sensibility", Birkbeck College, University of London, 18-19 July 2014.

DVDs

*Swedenborg Foundation DVD Series Presents Blake: The Marriage of Heaven and Hell Featuring Academy Award winner Anne Baxter and Tony Award winner George Rose. Vivid Dramatization, Penetrating the Secrets of William Blake's Poetry and Art. Winner of: Gold Medal-Houston International Film Festival; "Chris"--Columbus Film Festival,

and the Cine Golden Eagle. Color / 29 Minutes; copyright 1984. ISBN: 0877854610

E-books

“eBooks” proliferate astonishingly. In January 2009 WorldCat reported hundreds of Blake “eBooks” dating as far back as Malkin (1806). I have usually ignored “eBooks”; the space to record them would be prodigious and the advance in knowledge trifling. For example William Blake: The Complete Works (<http://William-Blake.org.home-0-8-24-1-0.html>) which seems to include merely "William Blake Biography" (he was born at "28A Broad Street") and 180 reproductions in colour.

E-mail

Festivals and Lecture Series

(1) "Blake and the Book", Strawberry Hill (England), 18 April 1998; (2) "Blake Course at the Tate Gallery" (London, England), 12 May-9 June 1998; (3) "William Blake & His Circle", exhibition and lecture series at the Birmingham Museum and Art Gallery (England), 22 June-6 September 1998; (4) Blake Festival as part of the annual Olavfestdagene (Trondheim, Norway), 25-28 July 1998.

Flash Cards

There are flash cards with quotations from Blake's Songs

Furniture-with-Inscriptions

For a faux-antique wooden chest decorated with lines from "A Cradle Song", see R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 1997", Blake, XXXI (1998), 28."a beautifully crafted William Blake sofa" or chesterfield "by Guido J. Van den Elshout" was offered by *Chair Blog <online> (2008).

Home-Pages

The Blake List Home Page started in 1993 and is edited by Mark Trevor Smith. For the "Home Page" of the Blake Archive Hypertext prepared at the University of Virginia by Messrs Eaves, Essick, and Viscomi, see <http://jefferson.village.virginia.edu/Blake>, best viewed on Netscape Navigator.

Interactive Multimedia

Jewellery

Such as the Sterling silver ring engraved with "Exuberance is Beauty" advertised on the internet. Funkylove (on line) offered in 2010 Barrettes: "ANGEL LOVE", "Albion", "ALTAR PRAYER" [Song of Los pl. 1]; Ear Rings: "Infant Joy", "SNAKE Prophecy" [Europe title page], "ANGEL Prophecy", "Infant Joy", "The Garden" of Love, "The Sick Rose", "ANGEL LOVE" <Butlin #500>, "HEAVEN GOD", "Stairway Heaven" ["Jacob's Dream"], "Pegasus" <Butlin #547 6>, "The Tyger"; Finger Rings: Sterling silver ring engraved with "Exuberance is Beauty" advertised on the internet. Pendants or Pins: "PEGASUS", "The Tyger", "The Sick Rose", "Infant Joy", "HEAVEN-GOD", "STAIRWAY—HEAVEN", "RED DRAGON", "THE GARDEN" [of Love], "BLACK DESPAIR"; and Tie Tack Pins: Portrait of Blake by Phillips, “Green SNAKE” [Europe title page].

Lectures on Audio Cassettes

- (1) **“Blake’s Song of Liberty & America”*; (2) *Grevel Lindop, “Blake’s Vision of the Last Judgement”;
- (3) Dr Kathleen Raine, “William Blake’s Fourfold Vision of London” (presumably related to her “The Spiritual Fourfold London”, Aligarh Critical Miscellany, V [1992], 181-98); (4) her William Blake’s Fourfold London [1993]; (5) her “William Blake – Prophetic Voice of England”;
- and (6) her “The Imagination According to William Blake”; (7) Jonathan Wordsworth, “William Blake & the Romantic Imagination”, according to Temenos Academy Recorded Lectures: A Catalogue of Over three Hundred Lectures on Audio Cassette, from Our Programmes 1992-2005 an asterisk indicates “with slides”; (8) G.E. Bentley, Jr., “[Blake the Man:] The Public and the Buried Life”, Cassette of a lecture delivered 14 February 1986 at the University of California, Santa Cruz, in the Santa Cruz library;
- (9) §Désirée Hirst, and M.G. Matthews, Blake’s Long Poems (London: Audio Learning, 1978) Sound recording of instructional material.

Lipstick

See R.N. Essick, “Blake in the Marketplace, 2002”, Blake, XXXVI (2003), 129.

Manuscripts about Blake

Microforms

Guide to Microforms in Author Title Print. Vol. I A-K 1996
(München: K.G. Saur Verlag, 1996) records:

Blake Studies (1968-80) produced by University
Microfilms International;

America (O), Book of Thel (G), Europe (K), Jerusalem
(E), Milton (A), Small and Large Book of Designs, Song of Los (A), Songs of Experience (B), Songs of Innocence (B), Songs of Innocence and of Experience (AA), Visions (P), watercolours for Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress and Young's Night
Thoughts and the coloured copy (F) of Night
Thoughts from Sir John Soane's Museum, London, produced by Microform Academic Publishers (Wakefield, England);

Jerusalem produced by Library Preservation Systems
International Ltd (Reading, England).

See also Coloured Engravings to Edward Young's
"Night Thoughts" [F] from Sir John Soane's
Museum (Microforms Academic).

Mosaic Pavements

- (1) The mosaic pavement by Boris Anrep (1923) on the main floor of Tate gallery 2 illustrating proverbs from The Marriage of Heaven and Hell (William Blake: The Painter at Work, ed. Joyce H.
Townsend [2003], Fig 139 and pp. 170-71); (2) See *Anon., "William Blake's art and poetry featured in Lambeth railway tunnel. A mosaic and audio installation featuring the works of William Blake who lived in Hercules Road – can now be found in Centaur Street”, London Se2 Community Website, 16 June 2009.

Movies

- (1) Dead Man (1995), in which Johnny Depp plays William Blake, an accountant from Cleveland who becomes "un outlaw fameux"--see Anne Boulay, Marie Colmant, [interview with] Jim Jarmusch, "'Le western n'est qu'un point de depart': Pour Jim Jarmusch son cinquième film, 'Dead Man,' est un nouveau voyage imprégné de poésie épique", Libération [Paris], 3 janvier 1996, p. 26, and *Gérard Leforet, "Jarmusch, le baladin de l'ouest: [review of] 'Dead man', légende du Far West hantée par un Indien et un Blanc. Hallucinogène", Libération [Paris], 3 janvier 1996, pp. 25-26; (2) In 2006 an educational film of William Blake: Inspiration, 30 minutes, was available from Timely Television/American Montage; and (3) Joseph Viscomi's Island in the Moon, first produced in 1983, at <<http://www.ibiblio.org/jsviscom/island/>>, 45 minutes; (4) Blakeball. 1988. Directed by Emily Hubley Studios (Pyramid Film and Video, 1990) – according to WorldCat, it “explores the world of poet and painter William Blake using a baseball game’s nine innings as a metaphor for the nine nights of Blake’s poem” Vala; (5) Blake’s Striptease, Flashgun Films (2009), “an alternative interpretation of William Blake's poem [sic]: The Marriage of Heaven and Hell" through lap-dancing and sin; (6) The Vision of William Blake (Blake Film Trust, Contemporary Films/McGraw Hill, n.d.), 27 minutes, author and director Guy Brenton, music by Vaughan Williams, in colour; (7) "Ohio University: Aethelred the Unready", a short documentary (online) on Aethelred Eldridge in honor of receiving his Emeritus Status from Ohio University. Original Air Date: April 2012.

Multimedia

Blake Morrison, The Clod & the Pebble (Cambridge: ProQuest Information and Learning, 2004), Poets on Screen, Literature on Line.

Murals

A mural 12' x 24' by Ruth Weisberg for the Virginia Steele Scott Gallery at the Huntington was "sparked by" Blake's design for Dante Canto V: "A Whirlwind of Lovers", according to Artnews.com, 1999; (2) A 50' mural representing the tree with angels at Peckham Rye of Blake's vision was painted by Stan Peskett on Goose Green, Rotherhithe (David Yuill, "Artist to Return to Re-Paint Graffiti Mural", Southwarknews.org, 14 April 2009), plus CDs, LPs, &c.

Music

- (1) §Huib Emmer, Bethlehem Hospital: William Blake in Hell: Opera in Three Acts, 1985-1988 (Amsterdam: Donemus, 1990); (2) §Two Blake Settings For Unison Treble Chorus & Harp or Piano by Richard Wienhorst (Boston: Ione Press, 1992), score "Commissioned for Sammy Cowen by the Children's Chorus of Victoria, Texas", "Premiered by the Chorus at the Kathaumixw [sic] International Choral Festival, Powell River, B.C., July 9, 1988"; (3) §Dmitri Smirnov, Jacob's Ladder: Blake's Pictures for 16 Players, Op. 58 (N.Y., 1993); (4) §Dmitri Smirnov, Shest' Stikhoyvorenii ... Six Poems by William Blake: For Voice and Organ (1981); (5) §Dmitri Smirnov, Vremena Goda ...: The Seasons for Violin, Flute, Viola, and Harp (1986). (6) Blake's Greatest Hits (Kansas City [Missouri]: Blue Moon Records, 1982).

Hundreds of musical settings have been composed for Blake's poems – see Donald Fitch, Blake Set to Music (1990), Kevin Hutchings, "William Blake and the Music of the Songs", Romanticism on the Net, No. 45 (February 2007), and §Songs of Innocence and of Experience (Credencys Solutions Inc, 6 October 2010) which categorizes itself online among "Books" but seems to be entirely electronic and musical. In December 2012 there were 1,774 Blake music scores on World Catalogue.

Note-Books (blank)

To see a world in a grain of sand and a heaven in a wild flower, hold infinity in the palm of your hand and eternity in an hour (William Blake) ([No place:] Quotable journals from Quotable cards, [?2000]) Square 8°, lined pages; no ISBN.

Novels tangentially about Blake

- (1) §Severin Rossetti, The Marriage of Heaven and Hell (Kindle Edition, 1 December 2010), an E-book with a cover reproducing Blake's Ancient of Days (Europe pl. 1); (2) Russell A. Potter, ed., Pyg: The Memoirs of Toby, the Learned Pig (N.Y.: Penguin books, 2012); "winsom 18th-century pig ... encounters such luminaries as Samuel Johnson, Robert Burns and William Blake"; the work is "chiefly based on the 1817 ed. of The Life and Adventures of Toby the sapient pig."

Pageants

§Arthur Whiting, Golden Cage; A Dance Pageant Arranged from the Poems of William Blake by Catharine Cook Smith, Music for Small Orchestra by Arthur Whiting (N.Y.: G. Schirmer Inc., 1926), 77 pp.

Performances

- (1) The "literary freak-show" called "The Animated Blake" "created and performed by James Jay" at the Seattle Fringe Festival, March 1999; see Blake, XXXII, 3 (Winter 1998-99), 87; (2) "William Blake's Divine Humanity", performance 20 November-2 December 2007 at New Players

Theatre, Charing Cross, London by The Theatre of Eternal Values; (3) “Companion of Angels”, a new Chamber Oratorio in Eight Scenes based on the Lives of William and Catherine Blake, composed by Rachel Stott, Libretto constructed from the writings of William Blake and his contemporaries by Tom Lowenstein, performed 23 November 2007 at St James Church, Piccadilly, 25 November 2007 (five scene version) at the Fitzwilliam Museum, Cambridge, and 2 December 2007 in Felpham; (4) Double Bill: Songs of Innocence and of Experience read by Janet Whiteside and others (music by John Taverner and R. Vaughn Williams), and Elliot Hayes, Blake, with Peter Barnes as William Blake, performed at St Michael’s Church, Highgate, London, 24 November 2007, and at St John’s Church, Waterloo, London, 28 November 2007; (5) Music, Readings and History to celebrate Blake’s birthday at St Mary’s Church, Battersea, 25 November 2007; and (6) “William Blake: These Songs are Not Mine”: performed by Paul O’Hanrahan, music by John Goudie, in Torriano Meeting House, London, 28 November 2007, presented by Balloonatics Theatre Company, based on the life and work of William Blake, according to publicity releases.

Pillows

Such as the one embroidered with two tigers and "Tyger Tyger burning bright ..." bought in Pasadena December 1995

(R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 1996", Blake, XXX [1997]).

Places Named After Blake

For instance in Battersea (William Blake House, Bridge Lane; William Blake Secondary Modern School; William Blake Window by John Hayward in St Mary's Church); Felpham, Sussex (Blake's Cottage on Blake's Road); Lambeth (mosaic to Blake, Centaur Street, North Lambeth; William Blake Estate, Hercules Road; William Blake Ward in Lambeth Hospital); London (William Blake pub, 174-80 Old Street, EC1V 9BP); St James Parish (William Blake House [on the site of Blake's birthplace, now called Broadwick Street; also at 7 Marshall Street, W1F 7EI]).

Playing-Cards

The set of playing-cards sold at the British Museum with reproductions of Blake's Shakespeare designs.

Plays

For example, Trace Crawford, "Lady and 'The Tyger' or William Blake's 'How I met your mother'", in The Best 10-Minute Plays of 2011, ed. Lawrence Harbison (Hanover [New Hampshire]: Smith and Kraus, 2011).

Pod-Casts

"Fifteen video podcasts" accompany the exhibition 26 January-20 April 2008 of Blake's Shadow: William Blake and his Artistic Legacy. See the exhibition of 3 August-2 October 2010 called Remember Me! Blake in Our Time and Jason Whittaker, "Zoapod: Blake's Poems – The Lamb and The Tyger", Zoamorphosis: The Blake 2.0 Blog, 1 May 2010 from Zoamorphosis: Essential Introductions: The Songs of Innocence and of Experience, Chapter 4.

Poems about Blake

From Comprehensive Index to English-Language Little Magazines 1890-1970 Series One, ed. Marion Sader (Millwood, N.Y.: Kraus-Thomson Organization, 1976):

Etta Blum, "For Blake's Angels", Poetry, XCIV, 1 (April 1959), 22

N.K. Cruickshank, "God Creating Adam (After the Picture By William Blake)", Poetry Quarterly, XII, 3 (Autumn 1950), 140-41

Robert Duncan, "Two Dicta of William Blake: Variations", Poetry, XCIX, 3 (December 1961), 172-77

John Gould Fletcher, "William Blake", Poetry, LXXXIV, 5 (August 1954), 280 B. §"William Blake, 1923." In Selected Essays of John Gould Fletcher. Ed. Lucas Carpenter. (Fayetteville: University of Arkansas Press, 1989) John Gould Fletcher Series, Vol. 4

Scott Greer, "After Blake: 1944", Twice in a Year, No. 12-13 (Spring-Summer, Fall-Winter 1945), 387

Josephine W. Johnson, "On a Cartoon by Blake: Ancient of Days", Poetry, XIV, 1 (April 1939), 7

James Beverley Martin, "To William Blake", Poetry, XLV, 5 (February 1935), 253

Philip Murray, "Ah Blake, my bleating mystic, Little Lamb ...", Tyger's Eye, I, 4 (June 1948), 34

David Mus, "Blake's Seasons: From the English of Wm. Blake (1783)", Poetry, CXI, 4 (January 1968), 226-28

Marcia Nardi, "No Emily's and No Blake's", New Directions, XI (1949), 311

Charles Snider, "Blake", New Directions, XIII (1951), 58-59

John Tagliabue, "From 'An Outdoor Blake Festival' [collection]", Poetry, XIV, 4 (July 1964), 222-23

Allen Tate, "William Blake", Double Dealer, IV, 19 (July 1922), 28

John Ormond Thomas, "Personalization of a Theme of Blake", Life & Letters, XLIV (March 1945), 157-58

There are also

Tom Snyder, "William Blake Visits a Typewriter Store in the Late Twentieth Century" in Two Dogs and a Cigar: Poems (Omaha: Lone Willow Press, 2006)

Adam Zagajewski, "Blake", tr. from Polish by Clare Cavanagh, New Yorker, 13 August 2007, p. 55

Note the 4-page (1 folded leaf) work with Jack Beeching, "William Blake -- 200 years" [i.e., 1957] (p. [1]); Peter Dunbar, woodcut (p. [1]); Tom McGrath, "Proverbs of the Middle World" (p. [2]); Maurice Carpenter, "A Visit to William Blake" (pp. [2-3]); Gordon Harris, "Echoes from Blake's Mountain" (p. [3]); Jack Lindsay, untitled (incipit: "The clouds of witness ...") (p. [4]). A copy is in Victoria University in the University of Toronto. There are also § Heberto Padilla, "Infancia De William Blake", Justo Tiempo Humano: Poemas (1962) (in Spanish); § Adrian Mitchell,

Lullaby for William Blake (London: Ad Infinitum Ltd, 1968), 1 sheet 60.8 x 95 cm, illustrated by Patrick Procktor; John Reese Moore, "William Blake", Sewanee Review, CXVI, 2 (Spring 2008), 196; and William Rose Benet, Mad Blake: A Poem (Los Angeles: Printed at the Grey Bow Press, 1937), 23 cm, 4 pp.

See also Grzegorz Kwiatkowski, "Catherine Blake (born 1762 died 1831)", in English and Polish at <http://off.press.org/main/poetry/grzegorz-kwiatnowski-new-poetry>, seen 16 April 2011, and §Eleanor Cooke, "Mr. Blake and the Baglady" in her The Return (London: Salt, 2010) (about "the ghost of William Blake wandering the streets of contemporary London in the company of a Baglady").

Portraits of Blake

A bust of Blake carved in apple wood, 23 cm high, by Donald E. Boyd, offered at §Ro Gallery (Long Island City, N.Y.) Auction, 4 April 2007, lot 2015 ($350); F. Bacon, "William Blake", colour lithograph (1991) based on the life mask, one of 60 copies offered at §Christie's (London), 19 September 2007; A card [?]1950s] with a bad colour reproduction of the Phillips portrait of Blake, 5 x 8 cm, is inscribed: "120 William Blake ... A Man of Stamina ... [an advertisement for] Stamina Self-Supporting Trousers for Men and Boys" (copy in Victoria University in the University of Toronto). Advertisements for "Stamina Self Supporting Trousers" appeared in The Age [Melbourne, Australia], 18 June 1952 and 2 December 1953; the firm flourished 1946-1966.

Post-Cards

Blake Printed in Colours, British Museum Set C13, a portfolio(or rather envelope) with a note by Campbell Dodgson: “A Series of Postcards: Coloured Prints by William Blake (1757-1827)”, 2 pp.; (2) **William Blake Postcards: 24 Full-Color Cards* (N. Y.: Dover Publications, Inc., 1994) 4°, ISBN: 048627728--14 reproductions from the Dover reproductions of the Blake Trust reproductions of Songs, America, Europe, plus 10 from Song of Los, Urizen, Milton, and Jerusalem, perforated to be detached.

Posters

**The Tyger* (Ashington, Northumberland: MidNAG [c. 1976]) Poster No. 35, c. 12 x 18". From Funkylove (online) (2010): “LUCIFER-demon” [“The Ghost of a Flea”], “Laughing Song”, “DANTE & VIRGIL entering HELL”, “RED DRAGON”, “SATAN-Lucifer-demon”, “MALEVOLENCE”, [“The Tyger”], “STAIRWAY TO HEAVEN” [“Jacob’s Dream”], Songs of Innocence frontispiece, “SEPULCHER of CHRIST—Angels” <Butlin #500>.

See the Blake exhibition of Frankfurt am Main, 15 May-27 July 1975, and the Blake, Palmer and the English Visionaries exhibition, San Francisco, 6 September-31 October [1979].

The distinction between a poster and a broadside is not always easy to perceive. I take a poster to be a picture perhaps with incidental text and a broadside to be a text perhaps with incidental decorations. In general, I record broadsides but not posters.

Recorded Readings and Singings

- (1) §The Poetry of William Blake (Ocean, New Jersey: Musical Heritage Society, 1993), a sound cassette of readings by Wendy Hiller, Peter Jeffrey, David King, Peter Orr, (2) §Selected Poems (Ashland, Oregon: Blackstone Audio Books, 1992), two sound cassettes (180 minutes) of readings by Frederick Davidson; (3) "Sir Ralph Richardson reads William Blake" (Seland Publishing, 2001); (4) *Fernand Péna, "Ode to William Blake", "chansons rock avec les mots de l'Esprit" [in English "with Words from the Mind"] (www.myspace.com/fernandpna 2007[?]); "La langue de Blake, s'est adaptée naturellement au chant rock".

Refrigerator Magnets

"The Tyger" (4 lines), "The Sick Rose" (8 lines), and "Ah! Sunflower" (whole), with wall-paper-like designs unrelated to Blake's, were auctioned in 1999 for $15.64, according to R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 1999", Blake, XXXIII (2000): "The market for Blake refrigerator magnets is clearly heating up; I was outbid".

Stained-Glass Windows

In 1976, stained-glass windows with designs by John Hayward after Blake's portrait of Catherine and Catherine's portrait of Blake were installed in St Mary's Church, Battersea, where Catherine Boucher and her siblings were christened.

Stamps (Postage)

A black-and-white 40 kopek postage stamp of the U.S.S.R. (1958) representing the Phillips-Schiavonetti portrait of Blake, somewhat adjusted, acquired by R.N. Essick, is described and reproduced by him in Blake, XXXV (2002), 120. The only other Blake stamp recorded (Blake, XXVI [1993], 149) was issued in Romania in 1957.

Stamps (Rubber)

For rubber stamps of America and of Essick's portrait of Blake made by a Santa Barbara firm, see R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 1996", Blake, XXX (1997).

Stickers

Blake: 16 Art Stickers. (Mineola [N.Y.]: Dover Publications, 2003) 12° (4 1/16 x 5 1/4"), 6 pp. + covers; ISBN: 0486430685.

Sweatshirts

“I ♥ | WILLIAM | BLAKE” by Shop Zeus.

T-shirts Related to Blake

There is a William Blake T-Shirt Store in 2009, but such is the vagueness of the internet that I cannot determine even what continent it is on. They also sell other kinds of Blake memorabilia, most even sillier. Several T-shirts were available in 2010 at Zazzleproducts.

Tapestries

See Anon., "THEATRE. Blake remembered at West Dean [College]", Chichester Observer, 11 January 2009. The college has a tapestry of "The Ancient of Days woven by the West Dean Tapestry Studio".

Tattoos (Temporary)

**Blake Art Tattoos*. Designed by Marty Noble (Mineola, N. Y.: Dover Publications, Inc., 2002) 16°, 4 pp. (including covers and 4 removable "tattoos"); ISBN: 0486421996.

Tattoos (Permanent)

See the knee-tattoo of the Ancient of Days reproduced on the cover of Blake, XXX, 4 (Spring 1997).

Tiles

"Satan Watching the Endearments of Adam and Eve" (from the Thomas set of watercolours for Paradise Lost in the Huntington) reproduced in colour on 30 "tumbled Italian Botticino marble" tiles (?2003), each c. 10.2 cm square, is recorded in R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2004", Blake, XXXVIII (2005), 139.

Typescripts (Unpublished) Related to Blake

Video-Recordings

§Songs of Innocence and [of] Experience (Princeton: Films for the Humanities, Inc., 1992), a videocassette (VHS), 20 minutes, dealing with the two "Chimney Sweeper" poems, "The [i.e., A] Poison Tree", "The Sick Rose", and "[?A] Little Girl Lost"; (2) Professor Eugenie Freed, "States of the Human Soul: William Blake's Songs of Innocence and of Experience" (30 minutes, 1993, available from her from 2000 at P.O. Box 40492, Cleveland, South Africa 2022 or on E-mail at eugenief@netactive.ca.za) (see the review by Anon. [Nelson Hilton] in Blake, XXVII [1993-94], 99); (3) "Genie und Wahn: Johann Heinrich Fuessli 1741-1825: Maler und Literat", Ein Film von Gardenz Meili, Einfurung Prof. D.H. Weinglass, Music by Haendel, including choreography and animation (30 minutes VHS, 1999); (4) Pioneers of the Spirit: William Blake (Worcester [Pennsylvania]: Vision Video, DVD 1999; VHS 2005), 24 minutes; (5) Donald John, "Dante and Blake" at the Italian Cultural Institute (London), 2009?, online; (6) The Masonic William Blake Lodge Newsletter, e.g., II (September 2008); (7) The William Blake Lodge, Ordo Templi Orientis (Baltimore) web-site has reproductions from our William Blake.

The most comprehensive source of such frivolities in 2009 was CafePress online, which offers Blakean badges, bags (tote and messenger), bears (teddy, with "Blake" shirts), bibs (baby), body-suits (infant), boxes (keepsake), bumperstickers, buttons, caps, cards (postal and greeting), clocks (wall), coasters, license-plate frames (automobile), mousepads, mugs (coffee), notebooks, ornaments (Christmas tree), pillows (throw), posters, refrigerator magnets, steins (beer), sweatshirts, T-shirts (including Maternity T-shirts), and underpants (boxer and thong).

Red Herring

Robert Jobson, William and Kate: The Love Story (London: John Blake, 2009) is about Prince William, Grandson of Elizabeth II Queen of Great Britain, and Kate Middleton, not about William and Kate Blake.

ELECTRONIC PUBLICATIONS

The reliability of electronic "publications" is remarkably various. Some, such as Romanticism [and Victorianism] on the Net and Romantic Circles (for reviews) with juries of peers, are as reliable as conventionally printed scholarly journals. Others suggest no more knowledge than how to operate a computer, such as reviews invited for the listings of the book-sale firm of Amazon.Com, which are divided into those by (1) the author, (2) the publisher, and (3) other, perhaps disinterested, remarkers.<sup>11</sup> The Wikipedia has 3,800,000 articles in perhaps 130 languages with a motto "the free encyclopedia that anyone can edit".<sup>12</sup> Of course many periodicals are now issued online as well as in hard copies. Electronic sites may change their names or even cease to exist, leaving not an electronic wreck behind.

In my experience, they are frequently seeded with fool's gold. For instance, Google.com, the world's largest electronic scrap heap known to me, had (on 20 February 2003) 2,340,000 apparently unsorted entries for Blake, 625,000 for William Blake, and even 488 for Gerald Eades Bentley,

---

<sup>11</sup> The reviewer for Amazon.com of Bentley, The Stranger from Paradise (see below) may have no more authority than my son-in-law, who claims that the title should be The Stranger from the Parking Lot because, as everyone knows, paradise was paved over years ago.

Blake is in the "Self-Publishing Hall of Fame" online, and there is a Website called "Home-Essays" with more than 30 essays on Blake for "All Grade Levels"; volunteers can submit essays (6 March 2006).

<sup>12</sup> This may be the only site where one can learn that William Blake is recognized as a saint by the Ecclesia Gnostica Catholica founded on the principles of Aleister Crowley.

including Gerald Eades Bentley [Sr], author of The Jacobean and Caroline Stage, Gerald Eades Bentley, Jr, author of The Stranger from Paradise, and the 1919 University of Michigan football team. Similarly, on 3 March 2004 “Bentley, Stranger from Paradise” (without quotation marks in the search), had 772 Google entries which included catalogues (e.g., Tuscaloosa Public Library), academic-course prospectuses, Curricula Vitae, Town & Country Toy Dog Club of Greater Andover, Karaoke WOW!, and endless offers for sale, while “Stranger from Paradise” had 2920 entries.<sup>13</sup> I have not searched for electronic publications, and I report here only those I have happened upon which appear to bear some authority.

The Broken Virtual Fire Hydrant

A friend remarks that Google and its ilk are like a broken fire hydrant; they knock you down with a flood of information so voluminous and unsorted as to make it difficult to swallow any. Some examples on 23 October 2009:

| Blake-like word     | Examples in Google |
|----------------------------|---------------------------|
| Ariston                    | 9,980,000                 |
| e.g., Ariston Water Heater |                           |
| Robert N. Essick           | 296,000                   |
| Anthony Stephen Mathew     | 1,910,000                 |
| Nobodaddy                  | 779                       |

---

<sup>13</sup> On 19 December 2014, Google Books reported 2,260 books bearing “William Blake” on the title page and published in 2014. Of course, being Google, most of these were not published in 2014 and/or had nothing to do with William Blake. I looked at the first 5,000 [sic] of them and discovered that the vast majority of those really about William Blake published in 2014 are out-of-copyright reprints of small worth in 2014, such as facsimiles of facsimiles.

|   |           |
|---|-----------|
| e.g., Archibald Macleish, Nobodaddy, a Play  |           |
| Thel  | 1,500,000 |
| e.g., “Tactical High-Energy Laser” and “The L word” |           |
| Theotormon  | 12,100    |
| e.g., “Free term papers on Theotormon”              |           |

A problem of evanescent online works is illustrated by Lisa Guernsey, "Searchable Archive Zooms in on William Blake's Illuminated Books", Chronicle of Higher Education, Information, Technology, 17 September 1997, which is no longer visible.

On the other hand, Google Books, which reproduces photographically thousands of searchable books, has made possible the discovery of scores of new early references to Blake by such notable contemporaries as Lady Charlotte Bury (1830), Leigh Hunt (1810), John Landseer (1834), and Charles Romey (1833).

Many periodicals (including newspapers), books, and authors (e.g., Joseph Viscomi, q.v.) now have electronic echoes online; this duplication is recorded here only when my evidence comes from the electronic version or when the electronic version differs significantly from the three-dimensional copy.

New editions of works by or about Blake are of course reported here. There is, however, a grey area between new editions or impressions and reproductions of the original with no change on the title page, one hopes after the original has gone out of print. One phrase for this practice is "Books on Demand".

WorldCat under “William Blake” on 18 June 2008 recorded 7,000 books (12 in Braille, 8 in Large Print), 1,206 Musical Scores, 1,001 “Visual Materials”, 295 video cassettes, 153 DVD videos, 934 sound recordings, 582 “music”, 399 “CD Audio”, 371 “Audio book, etc.”, 300 cassette recordings, 192 LP recordings, 798 articles, 1,346 thesis/dissertations, 360 in languages “undetermined”. There were 433 Internet Resources, including

Carl Zigrosser Correspondence with Ruthven Todd, T. Edward Hanley, G.E. Bentley, Jr, Mrs. W.T. Tonner, Allan R. Brown <in the Van Pelt Library of the University of Pennsylvania>

Card Catalogue of the Library of William Augustus White (ca. 1926), 3,000 cards 5 x 8", 2700 titles (without the Blake entries) <Grolier Club>

S. Foster Damon Papers [c. 1930-70]

Kathleen Raine Papers (c. 1913-86), University of California (Irvine)

Basil Montague Pickering Miscellaneous Manuscripts, (1866-75)

Jean Hagstrum Papers

H. Buxton Forman Family Collection (1879-1939)

W. Graham Robertson Correspondence (1875-1948)

“The William Cowper Papers and Other Eighteenth Century Manuscripts”, Harvard College Library, microform, includes “Blake”

The Works of William Blake, notes and revisions of Ellis and Yeats

Poetry and Prose of William Blake, proofs corrected by Max Plowman

“Papers” of the Trianon Press: Stirling Jerusalem (1948-1952); America (1961-67); Cunliffe Jerusalem (1969-75); Milton (1962-68); Visions of the Daughters of Albion (1957-75); Europe (1964-73); Book of Urizen (1955-58); Book of Thel (1965)

Letters to John Sampson about William Blake

For some of these entries, no library is named.

Probably the most important background publication for study of British literary authors is the splendid new Oxford Dictionary of National Biography (2004).

REVIEWS

Reviews, listed here under the book reviewed, are only for works which are chiefly about Blake, not for those with only, say, a chapter on Blake. These reviews are listed in chronological order under the book reviewed. I ignore electronic reviews, for instance in Amazon.com, except for those of my own books. I also omit reviews for works listed in Blake’s Circle. Note that Blake Books (1977) and Blake Books Supplement (1995) normally do not include reviews.

Blake Books (covering publications to 1975) and Blake Books Supplement (to 1992) listed reviews only of exhibitions<sup>14</sup> and of works published before 1863,<sup>15</sup> whereas reviews of all works naming Blake on the title page are included in “William Blake and His Circle” in Blake: An Illustrated Quarterly (1994 ff.).

---

<sup>14</sup> A few reviews crept in because of the distinction of the reviewer, such as W.B. Yeats and Northrop Frye. BB and BBS omit reviews even in Blake Newsletter, Blake: An Illustrated Quarterly, and Blake Studies.

<sup>15</sup> I omit here contemporary reviews of books with Blake’s commercial engravings which do not name Blake.

The present checklist includes 595 reviews from Blake Books, 177 from Blake Books Supplement,<sup>16</sup> and over 3,500 reviews which I have not previously recorded.

However, I ignore here reviews which cover large numbers of works.

The list is certainly very incomplete.<sup>17</sup>

There are reviews of forty-four Blake exhibitions for which no catalogue is known.

Prolific Reviewers to 2006

|                    |    |
|--------------------|----|
| G.E. Bentley, Jr   | 56 |
| David Bindman      | 24 |
| Martin Butlin      | 18 |
| Irene H. Chayes    | 75 |
| D.W. Dörrbecker    | 83 |
| D.V. Erdman        | 81 |
| Robert N. Essick   | 21 |
| David Fuller       | 27 |
| Robert F. Gleckner | 25 |
| John E. Grant      | 37 |
| Nelson Hilton      | 30 |
| Désirée Hirst      | 24 |
| Mary Lynn Johnson  | 20 |
| Andrew Lincoln     | 15 |
| Martin K. Nurmi    | 21 |
| Morton D. Paley    | 31 |

---

<sup>16</sup> BB and BBS listed books under the name of the reviewer, whereas here they are gathered under the book reviewed.

<sup>17</sup> Blake Studies in Japan (1994) records 73 books on Blake published in Japan (not counting reprints, e.g., Blake's Poems, ed. Makoto Sangu, which had a 52nd printing in 1991), but I know of scarcely any Japanese reviews then or later.

|                 |           |
|-----------------|-----------|
| François Piquet | 17        |
| Mark T. Smith   | 34        |
| Brian Wilkie    | 27 |
| Total    | 666       |

These prolific Blake reviewers produced more than 18% of all the recorded signed reviews.

There is a significant and agreeable correlation between the number of reviews a book received, at least in intellectual journals, and the intrinsic or lasting importance of the book.

FREQUENTLY REVIEWED BOOKS Especially 1946-1992

| Author, Title, Date   | Number ofReviews |
|---|----------------------|
| WRITINGS, Original Editions  |                      |
| Jerusalem , ed. M.D. Paley (1991)   | 22                   |
| Letters , ed. Geoffrey Keynes (1956, 1965, 1980)  | 25                   |
| Notebook , ed. D.V. Erdman (1967)   | 20                   |
| Songs of Innocence and of Experience , ed. Andrew Lincoln (1991)  | 20                   |
| Vala or The Four Zoas , ed. G.E. Bentley, Jr (1963)   | 19                   |
| WRITINGS, Collections and Selections   |                      |
| The Illuminated Blake , ed. D.V. Erdman (1974, 1975)  | 19                   |
| The Writings of William Blake , ed. Geoffrey Keynes (1925); Poetry and Prose (1927-75); Complete Writings (1957-1989) | 27                   |

REPRODUCTIONS of Paintings and Drawings
William Blake's Designs for ... Night Thoughts, ed. D.V.

|   |     |
|---|-----|
| Erdman, John E. Grant, Edward J. Rose, and Michael Tolley (1980)   | 15  |
| William Blake , ed. Morton D. Paley (1978)  | 22  |
| CATALOGUES   |     |
| 1939 Philadelphia Art Museum , William Blake  | 18  |
| 1964 G.E. Bentley, Jr, and M.K. Nurmi , A Blake Bibliography  | 20  |
| 1964 An Exhibition of the Illuminated Books of William Blake Poet - Printer - Prophet and Geoffrey Keynes , A Study of the Illuminated Books of William Blake - Poet - Printer - Prophet | 23  |
| 1975 William Blake [exhibition at the Hamburger Kunsthalle; Städelches Kunstinstitut und Städtisch Galerie, Frankfurt am Main ]   | 110 |
| 1977 G.E. Bentley, Jr , Blake Books   | 16  |
| 1978 Martin Butlin , William Blake [exhibition at the Tate Gallery ]   | 62  |
| 1981 Martin Butlin , The Paintings and Drawings of William Blake  | 19  |
| 1982-1983 David Bindman , William Blake His Art and Times , exhibition at the Yale Center for British Art and the Art Gallery of Ontario   | 29  |
| 1983 Casa di Dante in Abruzzo Castello Gizzi , Blake e Dante  | 52  |
| 1996 Barcelona and Madrid , Visiones de Mundos eternos  | 98  |
| 2000-2001 Tate and Metropolitan Museum of Art , William Blake   | 143 |
| 2004 Grasmere , Paradise Lost   | 25  |
| 2006 Sotheby , William Blake Designs for Blair's  |     |

|  |    |
|--|----|
| Grave   | 50 |
| SCHOLARSHIP AND CRITICISM   |    |
| Ackroyd, Peter , Blake (1995)  | 59 |
| Bentley, G.E., Jr , Blake Records (1969)   | 18 |
| Bentley, G.E., Jr , The Stranger from Paradise (2001)  | 38 |
| Bindman, David , William Blake as an Artist (1977)   | 18 |
| Curran, Stuart , and Joseph Anthony Wittreich, Jred., Blake's Sublime Allegory (1973) | 16 |
| Damon, S. Foster , A Blake Dictionary (1965, 1967,1971, 1988)                                | 23 |
| Damrosch, Leopold , Symbol and Truth in Blake'sMyth (1980)                                  | 19 |
| David V. Erdman , Blake: Prophet Against Empire(1954, 1969)                                  | 32 |
| Essick, Robert N. , William Blake and the Languageof Adam (1989)                            | 15 |
| Essick, Robert N. , William Blake Printmaker (1980)  | 23 |
| Frosch, Thomas P. , The Awakening of Albion (1974)   | 18 |
| Frye, Northrop , Fearful Symmetry (1947 ff.)   | 16 |
| Gilchrist, Alexander , Life of William Blake (1863 ff.)  | 31 |
| Gleckner, Robert , Blake's Prelude (1982)  | 15 |
| Hagstrum, Jean H. , The Romantic Body (1985)   | 16 |
| Hirsch, E.D. , Innocence and Experience: AnIntroduction to Blake (1964)                     | 15 |
| Keynes, Geoffrey , Blake Studies (1949, 1971)  | 16 |
| Mitchell, W.J.T. , Blake's Composite Art (1978)  | 20 |
| Moskal, Jeanne , Blake, Ethics and Forgiveness(1994)   | 26 |
| Paley, Morton D. , The Continuing City: WilliamBlake's JERUSALEM (1983)                     | 17 |
| Paley, Morton D. , Energy and Imagination: A Study   |    |

|   |    |
|---|----|
| of the Development of Blake's Thought (1970)   | 20 |
| Paley, Morton D., and Michael Phillips, ed. , William Blake: Essays in Honour of Sir Geoffrey Keynes (1973) | 19 |
| Raine, Kathleen , Blake and Tradition (1963 ff.)  | 25 |
| Taylor, Irene , Blake's Illustrations to the Poems of Gray (1971)   | 19 |
| Thompson, E.P. , Witness Against the Beast (1993)   | 19 |
| Viscomi, Joseph , Blake and the Idea of the Book (1993)   | 25 |
| Wagenknecht, David , Blake's Night (1973)   | 7  |

I was surprised by a number of features of this list. In the first place, serious scholarship and criticism is often widely reviewed, even when it is on recondite subjects, such as Essick's William Blake and the Language of Adam.

In the second place, there are a surprising number of reviews of the best texts of Blake, as in those of Keynes, Erdman, and Bentley.

In the third place, major exhibitions are surprisingly widely reviewed in newspapers – 110 reviews for the one in Germany (1975), 98 for the one in Spain (1996), and 143 for the one in the Tate and the Metropolitan Museum of Art (2000-2001). This fecundity is significantly due to the publicity offices of the institutions sponsoring the exhibitions and to franchising. One review of the 1975 German exhibition was published in 9 different newspapers and another in 23.

Further, in at least a few cases, the list of exhibition-reviews derives from the institution itself which presumably has a pretty comprehensive clipping-service, while the information about book reviews never derives from the publisher or author.<sup>18</sup>

And at least occasionally the newspaper reviews may not be altogether disinterested. The 2000-2001 exhibition at the Tate (London) and Metropolitan Museum (N.Y.) had 68 reviews, puffs, etc. in The Independent and The Independent on Sunday as part of the Independent's acknowledged sponsorship of the exhibition.

Newspaper reviews often appear within months or even weeks of the date of publication of the book, whereas reviews in academic periodicals may not appear until years after the work first appeared. Frequently, however, academic reviews make up in judiciousness what they lack in promptness.

A curious feature of the reviews listed here is that the most ephemeral reviews were paid for by newspapers, while the ones of most lasting value by scholars in learned journals were written without remuneration. For scores of reviews I don't suppose I've been paid enough to cover the postage to send them to their editors.

All the most prolifically reviewed authors are scholars whose publications form the foundations of Blake knowledge: G.E. Bentley, Jr (178 reviews), David Bindman (186), D.V. Erdman (132), Robert N. Essick (148), Sir Geoffrey Keynes (148), and Morton Paley (120).

Of course a quantity of reviews is not normally associated with wide or repeated publication. Most of the works listed here appeared in only one edition. The chief exceptions are Blake's Letters, ed. Geoffrey Keynes, his

---

<sup>18</sup> Even authors are unlikely to have complete information. I learned while compiling this list of a few reviews of my own works and of a review I had written.

Writings, ed. Keynes, his Poetry and Prose, ed. D.V. Erdman, Damon's Blake Dictionary, Erdman's Prophet Against Empire, Frye's Fearful Symmetry, Gilchrist's Life of William Blake, Keynes's Blake Studies, and Raine's Blake and Tradition. All these works appeared in more than one edition.

But the reviews certainly insure that academic libraries acquire these frequently noticed works.

Most facsimiles, even the finest, were not widely reviewed – perhaps because very few expensive review-copies were sent out. Of 31 admirable Blake Trust facsimiles, I have records of only about five reviews each (159 in all), most of them after 1990.

However, facsimiles with a scholarly apparatus were sometimes widely reviewed, such as Bogen's Thel, Dörrbecker's Continental Prophecies, Eaves, Essick, and Viscomi's Early Illuminated Books, Phillips's Island in the Moon, Paley's Jerusalem, Essick and Viscomi's MILTON and the Final Illuminated Books, Erdman's Notebook, Lincoln's Songs, and Bentley's Tiriel and Vala.

The plethora of reviews recorded here is formidable. These reviews are chiefly valuable to indicate what readers are directed or encouraged to think about Blake. They rarely have much of value to say about Blake himself. And when they do have something to say about Blake, as with Blake and Catherine dancing naked in their garden, "'like Adam and Eve', as he put it",<sup>19</sup> we may be impressed more by the journalist's creative ingenuity or chutzpah than by his knowledge of what he is talking about. There is no more evidence that Blake and Catherine danced naked in the garden than that Adam and Eve did.

In collective bibliographies, such as The Years' Work in English Studies, it is sometimes not easy to distinguish between what might be called a notice, with only a sentence or a paragraph, and a review, which I take to require at least two paragraphs and an evaluation. I include "reviews" but omit notices.

Information about reviews with incomplete dates or even unidentified journals usually derives from clippings in the Essick Collection which were incompletely annotated when Professor Essick received them.

An Action of Remarkable Generosity and Usefulness

With extraordinary and characteristic munificence, the Yale Center for British Art has reproduced in colour on their web-site virtually all their images from Blake's prints and drawings<sup>20</sup> and made it possible to down-load them without charge. This is a munificent action truly appropriate for Paul Mellon, the founder of the Yale Center.

---

<sup>19</sup> Paul Johnson, "A very English genius who just loathed soap: A major exhibition now open shows how Blake's vision can still inspire us", Daily Mail, 10 Nov 2000, review of the Tate exhibition.

<sup>20</sup> The unique works reproduced include watercolours and sketches, America (M), Book of Thel (B, R), Descriptive Catalogue (J), Europe (A) and pl.

DISCOVERIES

“What is now prov’d was once only imagin’d”

Marriage pl. 8

Blake’s Writings

The only new piece of writing attributed to Blake (aside from inscriptions in the Small Book of Designs [B]) is The Sophocles Manuscript, but this is generally not accepted as by the poet.

Among Blake’s known writings, there are newly recorded copies of “Albion Rose” (E) with manuscript inscriptions, America (S), “Blake’s Chaucer: The Canterbury Pilgrims” (B), Book of Thel (S), Descriptive Catalogue (U, V), Europe (N) and pl. 13-14 plus four unidentified prints, First Book of Urizen (E and K), For Children (F) and pl. 18, For the Sexes pl. 2, letters of August(?) and 1 September 1800, 7 August 1804 plus four to Ozias Humphry, Small Book of Designs (B – newly recorded prints with inscriptions), Songs of Innocence and of Experience (CC, q, pl. 30) plus contemporary facsimile (Gamma), and Visions

---

1, First Book of Urizen (A, C), For Children (E), For the Sexes (I), Gray watercolours, Job watercolours (New Zealand set), Jerusalem (E) and pl. 28, 30, 35, Songs of Innocence (G), Songs of Innocence and of Experience (F-G, L, and Alpha), There is No Natural Religion (B), Tiriel Illustration 1, Visions of the Daughters of Albion (I), and coloured Young’s Night Thoughts (N, O).

There are also reproductions of ordinary copies of Blake’s commercial prints such as Blair’s Grave, Dante engravings, Gay’s Fables, Hayley’s Ballads, Cowper, Romney, Triumphs of Temper, Illustrations of the Book of Job, Ritson’s Select Collection of English Songs, Salzmann’s Gymnastics, Thornton’s Virgil, and Young’s Night Thoughts.

(S). Six of these newly recorded copies belonged to John Flaxman.

New printings of “Edward III”, “Mad Song”, “To the Muses”, (Poetical Sketches), “The Chimney Sweeper”, “Holy Thursday”, “Introduction”, “The Lamb”, “The Little Black Boy”, “The Little Vagabond”, “Night”, “Nurse’s Song”, “On Another’s Sorrow” (Innocence), “The Garden of Love”, “London”, “The Tyger” (Experience), and Blake’s letter of 20 September 1800 were discovered in publications of 1811, 1831, 1832, 1833, 1837, 1846, 1847, 1848, 1849, 1850, 1851, 1852, 1853, 1854, 1857, 1858, 1859, and 1861.

Blake’s Art

A remarkable discovery about Blake’s art concerns what has been called Blake’s Least Known, Most Seen Painting. This is his sign for the Talbot (formerly Tabard) Inn in Southwark, one of his largest paintings, which was displayed about 1810-1875.<sup>21</sup>

Blake’s Commercial Engravings

Newly-identified titles with Blake’s commercial engravings include (1) the Diamond Bible (1832-34; 1836-37; 1840) with a copy of Blake’s engraving of Job in Prosperity; (2) [Elizabeth Blower], Maria: A Novel (1785); The Cabinet of the Arts (1799); (3) Diario de los Niños (1839-40), with copies of Blake’s Blair designs via Mora’s Meditaciones Poeticas (1826) (4) a new printing (1835) of Stuart and Revett’s Antiquities of Athens; and (5) a new plate for The Wit’s Magazine (almost certainly a mistaken attribution).

The most remarkable of these is the Diario de los Niños which is only the second time Blake’s designs were lithographed (the first was in his “Enoch” [1807]) and the first printing of anything concerned with Blake in Mexico – the first by almost a century.

---

<sup>21</sup> See G.E. Bentley, Jr, “Pictura Ignota: Blake’s Most Seen, Least Known Painting.” Descant, XLI, 4 (Winter 2010), 73-103.

In addition, two new sets of Young’s Night Thoughts (1797) with coloured engravings have been located (AA, BB), and a new owner is recorded for the coloured copy (V) of Young’s Night Thoughts (1797).

A copy of Blair’s Grave (1813) was extensively extra-illustrated by Blake’s acquaintance William Thane with a pastiche of images from Blake’s engravings for Young’s Night Thoughts. Another copy of Blair’s Grave (1813) with colouring authoritatively attributed to William Blake appeared in the Vershbow sale of 29 October 2013. Only two other coloured copies of Blair’s Grave are known.

A proof of Blake’s unpublished self-portrait of George Romney for Hayley’s Romney (1809) was acquired by Robert N. Essick. No other version of this print has been known since Blake described it in his letters of 1803 and 1804.

Catalogues and Bibliographies

J.R. de J. Jackson, Bibliography of Romantic Poetry 1770-1835, online at the University of Toronto Library, presents 5,359 entries for 1770-1797 and 17,160 entries for 1798-1835. The Blake entries (Milton and Jerusalem) are derivative, but the thousands of other entries are de visu and wonderfully useful.<sup>22</sup>

Books Owned

Among newly-recorded books which Blake probably owned are George Cumberland’s Anecdotes of the Life of Julio Bonasone (1793) and his Captive of the Castle of Sennaar (1798), though his copies have not been located. Blake's own copies have been identified for [George Townshend], A Political and Satirical History of the Years 1756-1757 ([?1757]), John Dryden, Annus Mirabiles (1668), bound with [Jean Claude], An Account of the Persecutions and Oppressions of the French Protestants (1686), bound with Anon, Life & Death of ... Richard Baxter (1692), John Quincy, Pharmacopoeia (1733), and Raphael, Historia del Testamento Vecchio (1695).

---

<sup>22</sup> For instance, there were volumes of poetry with titles beginning Poetical Sketches in 1807, 1808 (2), 1813, 1822, 1823, 1824, 1825, 1828, and 1831.

Blake's Life

The most important discoveries about Blake's life concern his mother's previously-unknown first marriage to Thomas Armitage and their brief affiliation with the extraordinary Fetter Lane congregation of the Moravian Church, a context discovered and illuminated by Marsha Keith Schuchard and Keri Davies. David Alexander discovered that Blake took an apprentice in 1788. And thanks to Angus Whitehead, we also now know about Louisa Best, daughter of Catherine Blake's sister Sarah and her husband Henry Banes (the Blakes' landlord and landlady—land-peers?-in Fountain Court) and Louisa's five children, the only recorded descendants of the siblings of William and Catherine Blake. Henry Banes bequeathed property to the Blakes.

Another major discovery about Blake's life was that he took an apprentice named Thomas Owen in 1788.<sup>23</sup> Scarcely anything more is known about Thomas Owen or his apprenticeship.

---

<sup>23</sup> David Alexander, "William Blake, graveur d'interprétation" in the Petit Palais Blake exhibition, 2 April-28 June 2009, pp. 79-81, 210-11. See BR (2) online.

The term of Owen's apprenticeship (1788-1795) coincides with a period of enormous productivity for Blake. How much of this fecundity was fostered by the assistance of an apprentice able to take on some of the drudgery of polishing plates, sharpening gravers, mixing colours, and laying in outlines, not to mention casual carrying and fetching, which would otherwise have fallen upon Blake and Catherine?

Another new Blake reference is the long, wonderfully enthusiastic French essay on Blake by Charles Romey (1833), who had never before been recorded in a Blake context, and who adds new details to Blake's life and reveals that he was himself a major Blake collector. Alas, these new claims may be as fictitious as Cunningham's embroideries of J.T. Smith.

TABLE 1
PUBLICATIONS BY AND ABOUT BLAKE

|            | Books<sup>24</sup> | (Editions) | (Catalogues) | Essays | (ReviewsofWritings) |
|------------|-------------------------------|------------------------|--------------------------|---------------|---|
| BB  | 1,406                         | 573                    | 254                      | 3,218         | 595 <sup>25</sup>                         |
| BBS | 1,010                         | 354                    | 123                      | 4,069         | 177                                       |
| Miscel     | 1,951 <sup>26</sup>           |                        |                          |               |   |

<sup>24</sup> The books include reprints.

<sup>25</sup> One hundred reviews in BB were published before 1863.

<sup>26</sup> The miscellaneous sources include Robert Essick's Biblioteca La Solana, the online versions of the Times [London] and the New York Times, reviews in Philological Quarterly (1925-1969), and reviews listed in Blake

|                  |                   |              |            |               |              |
|------------------|-------------------|--------------|------------|---------------|--------------|
| -laneous |                   |              |            |               |              |
| 1992-93      | 54                | 21           | 15         | 279           | 62           |
| 1994             | 50                | 16           | 5          | 234           | 84           |
| 1995             | 56                | 22           | 12         | 239           | 74           |
| 1996             | 37                | 14           | 10         | 160           | 136          |
| 1997             | 75                | 29           | 11         | 135           | 178          |
| 1998             | 69                | 32           | 6          | 233           | 59           |
| 1999             | 46                | 21           | 3          | 235           | 71           |
| 2000             | 73                | 13           | 12         | 52            | 56           |
| 2001             | 57                | 23           | 3          | 181           | 175          |
| 2002             | 52                | 26           | 6          | 208           | 45           |
| 2003             | 50                | 17           | 8          | 205           | 47           |
| 2004             | 31                | 8            | 6          | 153           | 81           |
| 2005             | 43                | 9            | 6          | 139           | 79           |
| 2006             | 110               | 48           | 11         | 237           | 41           |
| 2007             | 118               | 70           | 17         | 336           | 100          |
| 2008             | 193               | 68           | 54         | 330           | 107          |
| 2009             | 122               | 32           | 30         | 621           | 239          |
| 2010             | 180               | 78           | 13         | 313           | 78           |
| 2011             | 110               | 23           | 21         | 224           | 43           |
| 2012             | 294 <sup>27</sup> | 54           | 70         | 805           | 228          |
| 2013             | 197               | 103          | 119        | 579           | 254          |
| 2014             | 163               | 79           | 21         | 347           | 98           |
| Totals    | 4,758      | 1,733 | 836 | 13,610 | 5,058 |

---

Newsletter and Blake: An Illustrated Quarterly before 1992, when I began reporting reviews in this Checklist.

<sup>27</sup> The books for 2012 include a number of dissertations.

From 2012 on, hundreds of entries are drawn from World Catalogue, an extraordinary Tom Tiddler's Ground of silver and fool's gold. On 11 December 2012 it listed 25,195 entries for William Blake.<sup>28</sup> I looked at the first 5,000 of them.<sup>29</sup>

Many of the newly-recorded works here are in periodicals that I rarely search in--indeed that I had never heard of--such as Classification Quarterly, Francis W. Parker School Year Book, Psychological Medicine, and Victoriographics.

In World Catalogue, I ignore archives (987 entries--I looked fruitlessly at the first 100 of them), audiobooks (511), images (617), interactive multimedia (12), music (1,775), sound recordings (18), and videos (1,176).

The languages of Blake criticism have multiplied in recent decades. Up to 1834, there were essays on Blake in English, French, German, Spanish, and Russian, and this pattern was not much altered in 1834-1970. Since that time the globalization of culture has multiplied the languages of Blake criticism, so that they included:

TABLE 2

---

<sup>28</sup> The list is not quite so formidable as it seems, for there is endless redundancy and irrelevance to our "William Blake" such as anthologies like The Poetry of Birds (1976), music and reviews of music, videos, Admiral Robert Blake (17th Century), William Blake Odgers (early 19th Century jurist), and books published by William Pyson Blake (Boston, c. 1800) and by William Blake and Co (Bordeaux, late 20th century). Many are spot on, and a significant number are so erratic as to be unusable.

<sup>29</sup> World Catalogue does not permit one to search beyond 5,000. The last 20,000 seem to be inaccessible. But I did get access to more by looking separately under books (13,792), articles (4,860), and dissertations (1,704, mostly M.A.s).

FOREIGN LANGUAGES OF BLAKE SCHOLARSHIP

| Language              | Blake Books1780-1975 | Blake BooksSupplement1975-1992 | Blake1994 ff. | TOTALS |
|-----------------------|---------------------------------|--|--------------------------|--------|
| Afrikaans             | -                               | 2  | 2                        | 4      |
| Arabic                | -                               | -  | 6                        | 6      |
| Bulgarian             | -                               | 2  | -                        | 2      |
| Catalan               | 1                               | 4  | 41                       | 48     |
| Chinese               | 14                              | 9  | 210                      | 233    |
| Croatian              | -                               | -  | 2                        | 2      |
| Czech                 | 5                               | 7  | 10                       | 22     |
| Danish                | 2                               | 9  | 22                       | 33     |
| Dutch                 | -                               | 6  | 13                       | 19     |
| Esperanto             | 1                               | -  | -                        | 1      |
| Estonian              | 1                               | -  | 1                        | 2      |
| Farsi <sup>30</sup>   | -                               | -  | 1                        | 1      |
| Finnish               | 3                               | 2  | 9                        | 14     |
| Flemish               | -                               | -  | 8                        | 8      |
| French                | 133                             | 104  | 201                      | 438    |
| Frisian <sup>31</sup> | -                               | -  | 3                        | 3      |
| Gaelic                | 3                               | -  | -                        | 3      |
| Galician              | -                               | -  | 2                        | 2      |
| German                | 58                              | 182  | 136                      | 376    |
| Georgian              | 2                               | -  | -                        | 2      |
| Greek                 | 7                               | 7  | 1                        | 15     |
| Hebrew <sup>32</sup>  | 6                               | 14   | 8                        | 28     |
| Hungarian             | 12                              | 1  | -                        | 13     |
| Icelandic             | 1                               | -  | 2                        | 3      |
| Indonesian            | -                               | -  | 1                        | 1      |
| Italian               | 27                              | 100  | 92                       | 219    |

---

<sup>30</sup> See Persian.

<sup>31</sup> Note also "De Sike Roas", HJIR, No. 6 (Dec 1996), 6 (English on p. 5), "De Tiger", HJIR, No. 1 (March 1997), 5 (English on p. 4)

<sup>32</sup> Note also the translations of "The Tyger" and the "Introduction" to Innocence into Yiddish by Joan Braman, Der Yiddish-Vinkle: A Weekly Briefing in the Mother Tongue, 17 July 2005, 30 June 2006.

|                          |     |     |       |                     |
|--------------------------|-----|-----|-------|---------------------|
| Japanese <sup>33</sup>   | 244 | 402 | 662   | 1,308               |
| Korean                   | -   | 16  | 41    | 57                  |
| Latin                    | 3   | 2   | -     | 5                   |
| Latvian                  | 2   | -   | 2     | 4                   |
| Lithuanian               | 1   | 1   | -     | 2                   |
| Macedonian               | -   | 1   | -     | 1                   |
| Mazahua                  | -   | -   | 1     | 1                   |
| Norwegian                | 3   | -   | 9     | 12                  |
| Polish                   | 3   | 5   | 27    | 35                  |
| Portuguese <sup>34</sup> | 16  | 1   | 22    | 39                  |
| Rumanian                 | 3   | 3   | 6     | 16                  |
| Russian                  | 27  | 19  | 97    | 147                 |
| Serbo-Croat              | -   | 1   | 23    | 24                  |
| Scotch                   | -   | -   | 1     | 1                   |
| Slovenian                | -   | -   | 10    | 10                  |
| Spanish <sup>35</sup>    | 103 | 71  | 250   | 399                 |
| Swedish                  | 1   | 3   | 19    | 23                  |
| Turkish                  | -   | -   | 1     | 1                   |
| Welsh                    | 3   | 7   | -     | 10                  |
| Yiddish <sup>36</sup>    | 1   | -   | -     | 1                   |
| TOTALS            | 576 | 981 | 1,652 | 3,666 <sup>37</sup> |

Of these non-English languages, by far the most extensively represented is Japanese, with almost half the publications on Blake in all non-English languages combined.

---

<sup>33</sup> The information on Japanese Blake publications in Blake Books (1977) and Blake Books Supplement (1995) is corrected and extended in Blake Studies in Japan (1994).

<sup>34</sup> Portuguese includes works published in Brazil and Portugal.

<sup>35</sup> Spanish includes works published in Andorra, Argentina, Chile, Mexico, Spain, and Uruguay

<sup>36</sup> Note also the translations of “The Tyger” and the “Introduction” to Innocence into Yiddish by Joan Braman, Der Yiddish-Vinkle: A Weekly Briefing in the Mother Tongue, 17 July 2005, 30 June 2006.

<sup>37</sup> See G.E. Bentley, Jr, “Blake and the Xenoglots: Strange-Speaking Critics and Scholars of Blake”, online at <http://www.blakequarterly.org/bentleyxenoglots.html> (2004), adapted here.

What began as a linguistic trickle with Soetsu Yanagi's William Blake (Tokyo, 1914) has become a flood. Among the Japanese scholars, the most valuable to western eyes, or at least to me, are Hikari Sato, writing about the contexts of The Marriage of Heaven and Hell, and Hisao Ishizuka demonstrating the fundamental importance in Blake's writings of Eighteenth-Century medicine.

Some of the Japanese scholars are remarkably prolific, such as Hatsuko Niimi (26 essays), Masashi Suzuki (28), and Kohei Koizumi (101, most also reprinted), but most of these essays save Niimi's are inaccessible to scholars who do not read Japanese.

In some years, for instance 2000, about a quarter of the recorded works about William Blake are in languages other than English.

Languages of the Former Yugoslavia<sup>38</sup>

The language of Yugoslavia was Serbo-Croatian. This is now archaic except in Macedonia and Slovenia.

| Country         | Language |
|------------------------|-----------------|
| Bosnia and Herzogovena | Bosnian         |
| Croatia                | Croatian        |
| Kosovo                 | Albanian        |
| Macedonia              | Macedonian      |
| Montenegro             | Montenegrin     |
| Serbia                 | Serbian         |
| Slovenia               | Slovenian       |

Macedonian and Slovenian differ a lot, but the variants in the others are chiefly in terms of spelling, dialect, and idioms.

---

<sup>38</sup> The information here derives from correspondence with my generous friend Tanja Bakic.

N.B. Works published in countries derived from the former Yugoslavia have both an ISBN code and a COBISS code -- COBISS-BH for Bosnia-Herzegovina, COBISS-HR for Croatia, COBISS-MK for Macedonia, COBISS-SR for Serbia. I have omitted these COBISS numbers.

The places of publication outside the English speaking world (Australia, Britain, Canada, India, Ireland, New Zealand, South Africa, the United States) are also surprisingly diverse. They included in 2001 Brazil (Sao Paulo), Denmark (Copenhagen), Japan (Kyoto, Osaka, Tokyo), Malaysia (Gombak), Mexico (Xalapa), Norway (Oslo), Portugal (Lisbon), and Spain (Barcelona, Bilbao, Castello de la Plana, Madrid, Valencia).

Gombak! I hear you cry; how wonderful that there should be publications about Blake in Gombak! Even more wonderful, the essay published in Gombak is entitled "The Road Not Taken".<sup>39</sup>

How provincial Anglophone Blake scholars must seem to those of Gombak and Xalapa!

One of the most remarkable developments in Blake studies is the multiplication of Chinese publications about Blake.

Publications about Blake in Chinese by Date Recorded in

| Blake Books(1977) | Blake BooksSupplement(1995) | Blake(1994-2012) | Blake(2013) |
|--------------------------------------|---|-------------------------------------|--------------------------------|
| 14                                   | 9   | 74 <sup>40</sup>                    | 112                            |

<sup>39</sup> Jalal Uddin Kahn, "The Road Not Taken: A View of William Blake's Originality", Gombak Review: A Biannual Publication of Creative Writing and Critical Comment, IV ([Gombak, Malaysia] (1999), 147-72.

<sup>40</sup> 44 of those for 2009-2011 and all those for 2012 were recorded by Dr

|                    |    |      |   |      |   |      |                   |
|--------------------|----|------|---|------|---|------|-------------------|
| 1920               | 1  | 1984 | 1 | 1995 | 1 | 2005 | 21                |
| 1921               | 1  | 1985 | 2 | 1996 | 3 | 2006 | 6                 |
| 1923               | 1  | 1986 | 3 | 1997 | 1 | 2007 | 20                |
| 1927 <sup>41</sup> | 6  | 1987 | 1 | 1998 | 5 | 2008 | 19                |
| 1928               | 1  | 1988 | 5 | 1999 | 6 | 2009 | 16                |
| 1957 <sup>42</sup> | 11 | 1989 | 1 | 1999 | 6 | 2010 | 27                |
| 1960               | 1  | 1990 | 1 | 2000 | 4 | 2011 | 20                |
| 1966               | 1  | 1991 | 1 | 2001 | 6 | 2012 | 112               |
| 1973               | 1  | 1992 | 3 | 2002 | 2 |      |                   |
| 1980               | 1  | 1993 | 3 | 2003 | 4 |      |                   |
| 1983               | 2  | 1994 | 2 | 2004 | 4 |      |                   |
| TOTAL:      |    |      |   |      |   |      | 327 <sup>43</sup> |

The frequent analyses of "The Tyger" and comparison of Blake's "London" with Wordsworth's "Composed Upon Westminster Bridge 1802" suggests that these themes are set topics in Chinese education.

Reprints

There is a flourishing industry of republishing works related to Blake whose chief virtue is that they are (deservedly) out of print. The chief practitioners in the Blake world seem to be Kessinger Publishing, Nobu Press, and General Books.<sup>44</sup> Note that the Kessinger editions below are mere digital reprints, with, as they admit, frequent defects. I have seen none of these reprints and confess my initial

---

Li-Ping Geng.

<sup>41</sup> Centennial of Blake's death.

<sup>42</sup> Bicentennial of Blake's birth.

<sup>43</sup> A third of these Chinese publications (123) were recorded by Li-Ping Geng.

<sup>44</sup> The author is often given as "William Blake, Jr. Ph.D.", but it is not clear whether the oddity originates with the publisher or with the agency such as Google Books which is reporting it.

incredulity about some of them, such as the four separate publications of 18-44 pages into which Emily Hamblen's On the Minor Prophecies of William Blake (1930) has been divided. However, as each has an International Standard Bibliography Number assigned to it, I take it that they were not only advertised but published.

TABLE 3
DOCTORAL DISSERTATIONS BY UNIVERSITY<sup>45</sup>

Over six hundred doctoral dissertations are recorded here (2009) from almost two hundred universities, most of course from the United States, Britain, and Canada:<sup>46</sup>

|                      |                              |
|----------------------|------------------------------|
| Aberdeen (Scotland)  | 2008                         |
| Adelaide (Australia) | 1985, 1988                   |
| Alberta (Canada)     | 1977, 1982, 2003             |
| Arizona State (USA)  | 2002                         |
| Arkansas (USA)       | 1971, 1975, 1977, 1978, 1985 |
| Auburn (USA)         | 1999                         |
| Australian National  | 1977                         |
| Ball State (USA)     | 1974                         |
| Bar Ilan (Israel)    | 2010                         |
| Barcelona (Spain)    | 2014                         |

---

<sup>45</sup> See also G.E.Bentley, Jr., "'The Eternal Wheels of Intellect': Dissertations on William Blake." Blake, XII (1979), 224-243, and D.W. Dörrebecker, "In ... Cambridge & in Oxford, places of Thought": Blake in British Theses, 1950-1994. (Trier an der Mosel, 1995).

<sup>46</sup> Dissertations for universities outside the Britain, Canada, and the United States are probably under-represented here.

|                           |   |
|---------------------------|---|
| Bergen (Norway)           | 2008  |
| Berlin (Germany)          | 1976  |
| Bern (Switzerland)        | 1956  |
| Birmingham (England)      | 1995, 2003, 2004                                  |
| Bonn (Germany)            | 1986  |
| Bordeaux (France)         | 1924  |
| Boston (USA)              | 1941 (2), 1991                                    |
| Boston College (USA)      | 1976, 1982  |
| Brandeis (USA)            | 1969, 1971, 1973, 1977,1984, 1999             |
| Bristol (England)         | 1964, 1966, 2011                                  |
| British Columbia (Canada) | 1977  |
| Brown (USA)               | 1954, 1971, 1974, 1976,1978, 1997             |
| Buffalo (USA)             | 1952  |
| Calicut (India)           | 1991  |
| California (USA)          |   |
| Berkeley                  | 1974 (2), 1975, 1976, 1977,1990 (2)           |
| Davis                     | 1969, 1977, 1978, 1982, 2012                      |
| Irvine                    | 1974, 1979, 1983, 1985,1988, 1998             |
| Los Angeles               | 1976, 1977, 1978 (2), 19801985, 1993, 1998    |
| Riverside                 | 1969, 1975, 1976, 1985,1992, 1997, 2000       |
| Santa Barbara             | 1970, 1976 (2), 1980, 1986,1993, 2006, 2008   |
| Santa Cruz                | 1974, 1975, 1977, 1979,1980, 1983, 1984, 1996 |
| San Diego                 | 1969, 1984, 1988, 1995                            |

|  |  |
|--|--|
| Cambridge (England)                                      | 1939, 1959, 1973, 1974,1980, 1981, 1984, 1986,1989, 1999, 2006, 2010       |
| Campinos, UniversidadEstadual de (Portugal)          | 2007   |
| Carlton (Canada)   | 1990   |
| Case Western Reserve (USA)(see also Western Reserve) | 1975, 1983 1   |
| Chicago (USA)  | 1954, 1968, 1969, 1974,1992, 1997  |
| Chile (Universidad de)                                   | 2009   |
| Chungang (South Korea)                                   | 1987   |
| Cincinnati (USA)   | 1931, 1989, 1990, 1997,2006  |
| City University of New York(USA)                     | 1976, 1977, 1987,1992, 1995, 2011, 2012  |
| Clermont-Ferrand (France)                                | 1981   |
| Coimbra (Portugal)                                       | 2009   |
| Colorado (Boulder) (USA)                                 | 1982, 1990   |
| Columbia (USA)   | 1952, 1953, 1954, 1958,1966 (2), 1969 (3), 1970,1972, 1974 (2), 1980, 1982 |
| Complutense (Madrid, Spain)                              | 1997, 1998   |
| Concordia (Canada)                                       | 1991   |
| Connecticut (USA)  | 1969, 1972, 1981, 2002   |
| Copenhagen (Denmark)                                     | 2001, 2005   |
| Cornell (USA)  | 1929, 1940, 1980, 1983,1985, 1992, 2014  |
| Dalhousie (Canada)                                       | 1991   |

|                                   |  |
|-----------------------------------|--|
| Dallas (USA)                      | 1998, 2002                                   |
| Drew (USA)                        | 2008   |
| Duke (USA)                        | 1983, 1985, 1992 (2), 1994, 2006             |
| Duquesne (USA)                    | 1984   |
| Durham (England)                  | 1995   |
| East Anglia (England)             | 1976   |
| Edinburgh (Scotland)              | 1970, 1974, 1975 (2), 1980, 1992             |
| Emory (USA)                       | 1967, 1977 (2), 1979, 1989, 1990, 1993, 2005 |
| Essex (England)                   | 1976, 1999, 2000                             |
| Exeter (England)                  | 1972 (2), 2010                               |
| Florida (USA)                     | 1967, 1985, 1989, 1993, 1999, 2002           |
| Florida State (USA)               | 1981, 1987, 1988 (2), 2011                   |
| Florence (Italy)                  | 1985   |
| Fordham (USA)                     | 1995   |
| Frei Universität Berlin (Germany) | 1956   |
| Georgia (USA)                     | 1974, 1997, 1998, 1999, 2010                 |
| Glasgow (Scotland)                | 1977, 1980, 2002, 2004, 2008, 2009, 2014     |
| Guelph (Canada)                   | 1988   |
| Harvard (USA)                     | 1950, 1963, 1976 (3), 1977, 1983, 2010       |
| Hamburg (Germany)                 | 1976, 1980                                   |
| Hawaii (USA)                      | 1995   |
| Hiroshima (Japan)                 | 1963, 2012                                   |
| Illinois (USA)                    | 1975, 1976, 2009                             |

|                            |  |
|----------------------------|--|
| Indiana (USA)              | 1965, 1969, 1978, 1999,2002, 2005 (2), 2011                  |
| Innsbruck (Austria)        | 1933   |
| Iowa (USA)                 | 1960, 1973, 1974, 1975,1981, 1982, 1985, 1989,1991, 1997 |
| Johns Hopkins (USA)        | 1960, 1968, 1969, 1974, 1975                                     |
| Joong-Ang (South Korea)    | 1982   |
| Kansas (USA)               | 1979, 1980, 1990, 2007, 2008                                     |
| Kansas State (USA)         | 1979   |
| Keele (England)            | 1979   |
| Keimyung (South Korea)     | 1986   |
| Kent State (USA)           | 1974, 1980, 1985   |
| Kentucky (USA)             | 1981   |
| Kolkata (India)            | 1999   |
| Korea (Seoul, South Korea) | 1991   |
| Kragujevac (Serbia)        | 2014   |
| Kyemyung (South Korea)     | 1986   |
| Kyoiku (Japan)             | 1967   |
| Kyoto (Japan)              | 1950, 2001   |
| Lancaster (England)        | 1971   |
| Leeds (England)            | 1970, 2001   |
| Leicester (England)        | 2005   |
| Liverpool (England)        | 1999   |
| London (England)           | 1967, 1968, 1970, 1971, 1994                                     |
| Lucknow (India)            | 1951, 1969   |
| Lyons (France)             | 1988   |
| Manchester (England)       | 1981, 1991, 1993, 2012   |
| Manitoba (Canada)          | 1981, 1991 (2)   |
| Maryland (USA)             | 1968, 1970, 1972, 1977,1979, 1988, 1989, 1993,               |

|                             |   |
|-----------------------------|---|
|                             | 2013  |
| Massachusetts (USA)         | 1973, 1974, 1975, 1978,1979, 1996 (2)             |
| McGill (Canada)             | 1981, 1992, 2003, 2010, 2011                          |
| McMaster (Canada)           | 1998  |
| Miami (USA)                 | 1976, 1989, 1994, 2003                                |
| Michigan (USA)              | 1978, 1979, 1984, 1985,1994, 1995, 1997, 2011 (2) |
| Michigan State (USA)        | 1974  |
| Middle Tennessee (USA)      | 2007  |
| Minnesota (USA)             | 1954, 1970, 1971, 1976                                |
| Mississippi (USA)           | 1998  |
| Missouri (USA)              | 1979  |
| Monash (Australia)          | 2003  |
| Munster (Germany)           | 1996  |
| Nanzan (Japan)              | 2001  |
| Nebraska (USA)              | 1969, 1970, 1976, 1987, 1999                          |
| New Brunswick (Canada)      | 1983  |
| New Mexico (USA)            | 1969, 1972, 1973 (2), 1975,1978, 1983, 2001       |
| New South Wales (Australia) | 1998  |
| New York (USA)              | 1915, 1941, 1947, 1975, 1976                          |
| Nihon (Japan)               | 1975  |
| Norfolk (England)           | 1967  |
| North Carolina (USA)        |   |
| Chapel Hill                 | 1951, 1968, 1972, 1992 (2),1998, 2000, 2001       |
| Greensboro                  | 1981, 2001, 2011                                      |
| North Texas (USA)           | 1996, 1997  |
| Northeastern (USA)          | 1997  |
| Northumberland (England)    | 2003  |

|                                       |   |
|---------------------------------------|---|
| Northwestern (USA)                    | 1954, 1956, 1958, 1971,1973, 1976, 2013   |
| Nottingham (England)                  | 1964  |
| Nottingham Trent (England)            | 2004, 2005 (2), 2008  |
| Ochanomizu (Japan)                    | 2011  |
| Ohio (USA)                            | 1967, 1970  |
| Ohio State (USA)                      | 1984  |
| Oklahoma (USA)                        | 1979  |
| Open University (England)             | 1993  |
| Oregon (USA)                          | 1963, 1967, 1973, 1974  |
| Oxford (England)                      | 1946, 1953, 1954, 1956 (2),1957, 1979, 1980, 1985 (2),1988, 1989, 1990 (2), 1991,1993, 2002, 2008, 2010, 2013 |
| Oxford Brookes (England)              | 1993  |
| Pacific (USA)                         | 1975  |
| Padua (Italy)                         | 2010  |
| Paris (France)                        | 1920, 1947, 1953, 1990  |
| Paris I Panthéon Sorbonne(France) | 1996  |
| Paris III Sorbonne (France)           | 1974, 1998, 2001, 2004  |
| Paris IV (France)                     | 1976  |
| Pennsylvania (USA)                    | 1971 (2), 1972, 1976, 1982,1986, 1989, 1995   |
| Pennsylvania State (USA)              | 1991  |
| Pittsburgh (USA)                      | 1974  |
| Poona (India)                         | 1984  |
| Princeton (USA)                       | 1968, 1975  |
| Purdue (USA)                          | 1981  |
| Queen's (Canada)                      | 1974  |

|                                    |  |                        |
|------------------------------------|--|------------------------|
| Queen's (Northern Ireland)         | 1970   |                        |
| Reading (England)                  | 1951   |                        |
| Rice (USA)                         | 1976   |                        |
| Rikkyo (Japan)                     | 1986   |                        |
| Rochester (USA)                    | 2005   |                        |
| Rostock (Germany)                  | 1936   |                        |
| Rutgers (USA)                      | 1968, 1974   |                        |
| St Andrews (Scotland)              | 1989   |                        |
| Saint Louis (USA)                  | 1995, 1997   |                        |
| St Petersburg (Russia)             | 1997   |                        |
| Salford (Manchester, England)      | 2014   |                        |
| Santa Catarina (Brazil)            |  | 2007, 2012 (2)         |
| Seoul National (South Korea)       | 1995   |                        |
| Shuto (Japan)                      | 2006   |                        |
| South Africa                       | 1983   |                        |
| South Carolina (USA)               | 1925, 1990, 1995   |                        |
| Southampton (England)              | 1989, 2001   |                        |
| Southern California (USA)          | 1968, 1987, 1990, 1996   |                        |
| Southern Illinois (USA)            | 1970, 1977   |                        |
| Stanford (USA)                     | 1967, 1990   |                        |
| State University of New York (USA) |  |                        |
| Albany                             | 1995   |                        |
| Binghamton                         |  | 1981, 2007 (2)         |
| Buffalo                            | 1974, 1979, 1981 (3), 1982, 1983 (2), 1993 (3), 1995, 1998, 2004 (2) |                        |
| Stony Brook                        |  | 1976, 1978, 1982, 1990 |
| Surrey (England)                   | 2003   |                        |
| Sussex (England)                   | 1971, 1990, 2012   |                        |
| Swansea (Wales)                    | 1991   |                        |
| Sydney (Australia)                 | 1978   |                        |
| Syracuse (USA)                     |  | 1969, 1980, 1987       |

|  |  |
|--|--|
| Tennessee (USA)                        | 1987, 1989, 1991, 2005, 2006, 2007   |
| Texas (USA)                            |  |
| Arlington                              | 2001   |
| Austin                                 | 1963, 1966, 1974, 1975 (2), 1976, 1987, 1997   |
| Dallas                                 | 1958, 1967, 1972, 1974 (2), 1996   |
| Texas A&M (USA)                        | 1989, 2003   |
| Texas Christian (USA)                  | 1973, 1984, 1989, 1991, 2011   |
| Texas Tech (USA)                       | 1988   |
| Texas Women's (USA)                    | 1974   |
| Tohoku (Japan)                         | 2007   |
| Tokyo Metropolitan (Japan)             | 2006   |
| Tokyo University of Education (Japan)  | 1967   |
| Toledo (USA)                           | 1970, 1976, 1981   |
| Toronto (Canada)                       | 1947, 1952, 1963, 1971, 1975, 1976 (2), 1977, 1978, 1982, 1983, 1985, 1986, 1988, 1993, 1998 |
| Tours (France)                         | 1971   |
| Trier (Germany)                        | 1985   |
| Tufts (USA)                            | 1971   |
| Tulane (USA)                           | 1972   |
| Tulsa (USA)                            | 1970 (2), 1975, 2006   |
| Ulster (Northern Ireland)              | 2006   |
| Universidad Autónoma de Madrid (Spain) | 1998   |
| Universidad Complutense                | 1998   |

|   |  |
|---|--|
| (Madrid) (Spain)                                      |  |
| Universidad Federal de Santa Maria (Brazil)           | 2012   |
| Valencia (Spain)                                      | 1988   |
| Vanderbilt (USA)                                      | 1973, 1974, 1979, 1981, 1990, 1997, 2004   |
| Veronezh State University (Russia)                    | 2005   |
| Victoria (Canada)                                     | 1999   |
| Victoria (Wellington, New Zealand)                    | 1952, 2000   |
| Vienna (Austria)                                      | 1939, 1954   |
| Virginia (USA)  | 1976, 1983, 1987, 1998, 2006   |
| Wales (Lampeter)                                      | 1978   |
| Wales (Swansea)                                       | 1999   |
| Warwick (England)                                     | 1992, 2000, 2013   |
| Washington (USA)                                      | 1941, 1954, 1968, 1970, 1972 (2), 1974, 1975, 1980, 1983, 1984, 1988, 1991 (2), 1995, 1996 (2), 1998, 2000, 2005 |
| Washington State (USA)                                | 1975, 1987, 1988   |
| Wayne State (USA)                                     | 1971   |
| Western Australia (Crawley)                           | 1998   |
| Western Ontario (Canada)                              | 1985, 1987, 1989, 1992 (2), 1995   |
| Western Reserve (USA) (see also Case Western Reserve) | 1963   |
| Wisconsin (USA)                                       |  |
| Madison   | 1924, 1962, 1963, 1971, 1973 (2), 1974, 1977, 1981, 1991   |
| Milwaukee   | 1976, 1979 (2)   |
| Wollongong (Australia)                                | 2008   |

|                        |   |
|------------------------|---|
| Wrocklawski (Poland)   | 2005, 2013  |
| Yale (USA)             | 1935, 1964 (2), 1969 (2),1970, 1972, 1973, 1978,1981, 1985, 1990 (2), 1993,1996, 2011 |
| Yeungnam (South Korea) | 1987  |
| York (Canada)          | 1974, 1981 (2), 1984  |
| York (England)         | 1971, 1974, 1988, 2004,2006, 2010   |
| Zurich (Switzerland)   | 1911, 1965, 1978  |
| TOTAL           | 696  |
| de Madrid (Spain)      | 1998  |

TABLE 4
DOCTORAL DISSERTATIONS BY YEAR

|      |   |      |   |      |   |      |   |      |   |
|------|---|------|---|------|---|------|---|------|---|
| 1910 | - | 1920 | - | 1930 | - | 1940 | 1 | 1950 | 1 |
| 1911 | 1 | 1921 | - | 1931 | 1 | 1941 | 3 | 1951 | 4 |
| 1912 | - | 1922 | - | 1932 | - | 1942 | - | 1952 | 4 |
| 1913 | - | 1923 | - | 1933 | 3 | 1943 | - | 1953 | 4 |
| 1914 | - | 1924 | 1 | 1934 | - | 1944 | - | 1954 | 8 |
| 1915 | 1 | 1925 | 1 | 1935 | 1 | 1945 | - | 1955 | - |
| 1916 | - | 1926 | - | 1936 | 1 | 1946 | 1 | 1956 | 5 |
| 1917 | - | 1927 | - | 1937 | - | 1947 | 1 | 1957 | 2 |
| 1918 | - | 1928 | - | 1938 | - | 1948 | - | 1958 | 2 |
| 1919 | - | 1929 | 1 | 1939 | 5 | 1949 | 7 | 1959 | 1 |

|      |   |      |    |      |    |      |    |      |    |
|------|---|------|----|------|----|------|----|------|----|
| 1960 | 2 | 1970 | 18 | 1980 | 18 | 1990 | 20 | 2000 | 12 |
| 1961 | 1 | 1971 | 17 | 1981 | -  | 1991 | 31 | 2001 | 16 |
| 1962 | 1 | 1972 | 15 | 1982 | 21 | 1992 | 25 | 2002 | 9  |

|      |    |      |    |      |    |      |    |      |    |
|------|----|------|----|------|----|------|----|------|----|
| 1963 | 9  | 1973 | 12 | 1983 | 29 | 1993 | 29 | 2003 | 9  |
| 1964 | 6  | 1974 | 29 | 1984 | -  | 1994 | 5  | 2004 | 8  |
| 1965 | 2  | 1975 | 23 | 1985 | 25 | 1995 | 16 | 2005 | 14 |
| 1966 | 5  | 1976 | 33 | 1986 | 13 | 1996 | 13 | 2006 | 8  |
| 1967 | 13 | 1977 | 22 | 1987 | 15 | 1997 | 16 | 2007 | 8  |
| 1968 | 10 | 1978 | 18 | 1988 | 21 | 1998 | 13 | 2008 | 9  |
| 1969 | 18 | 1979 | 18 | 1989 | 17 | 1999 | 11 | 2009 | 4  |

|      |   |
|------|---|
| 2010 | 8 |
| 2011 | 8 |
|      |   |
| 2012 | 3 |
| 2013 | 1 |
| 2014 | 5 |
| 2015 |   |

Notice how many authors of doctoral dissertations published nothing else on Blake.

WEB SITES ON BLAKE

Web sites are a problem. New ones pop up (many), and old ones die (not many). Some sites never change, and some change frequently.

Not only that but

Big sites have little sites upon their backs to fright 'em

And little sites have lesser sites, and so ad infinitum.

Web sites devoted exclusively or significantly to Blake included:.

Bentley Collection, a catalogue of the works related to Blake and his circle given in 2005 to the Library of Victoria University in the University of Toronto and subsequent additions thereto

Blake Digital Project, created by Nelson Hilton, with an electronic version of The Complete Poetry and Prose of William Blake, ed. David V. Erdman, the Concordance of D.V. Erdman et al, a "graphical hypertext" of Blake's Songs, and a hypertext edition of "The Everlasting Gospel" by David Owen "plus bibliographical material" The Blake Society (London), lectures, journal, and Blake advocacy

Blake 2.0: a list of sites devoted to Blake studies ed. Jason Whittaker and Robert Whitson, with a blog (Zoamorphosis, with daily entries), podcasts, "and a community portal"

The Cynic Sang, the "(un)official blog of the William Blake Archive" by Justine Ali McGhee and Rachel Lee

The Friends of William Blake with Luis and Carol Garrido, William Blake's Final Resting Place

An Island in the Moon, with video, photos, and a text of the 1983 Cornell theatrical production of Joseph Viscomi, with music by Margaret LaFrance (2003)

Project Blake, on Blake community events in London (distinct from The Blake Project of Karen Mulhallen)

Sale Catalogues of Blake's Works 1791-2015: A Catalogue Somewhat Raisonné by G.E. Bentley, Jr, 1,035 pp.

Tate Britain (London)

William Blake online exhibition from the Metropolitan Museum of Art (N.Y.)

William Blake and His Circle: Publications and Discoveries from 1991 including Addenda to BR (2), Second Edition (2004) by G.E. Bentley, Jr, With the Assistance of Keiko Aoyama (1992-2002) and Hikari Sato (2003 ff) for Japanese Publications, of Li-Ping Geng (2002-2014) for Chinese Publications, and of Fernando Castenado for Spanish Publications (2014) 3,217 pp.

William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi, with searchable electronic editions of Blake's literary and artistic works, bibliographies, collection-lists, and an electronic version of Complete Poetry and Prose of William Blake, ed. D.V. Erdman, a major scholarly resource

William Blake at the National Gallery of Victoria (Melbourne, Australia)

BLAKE'S WRITINGS

Many, perhaps most, institutions with copies of Blake's works in Illuminated Printing, like the Huntington, now treat Blake's works in Illuminated Printing as if they were collections of separate prints, not books, and have disbound and matted the prints individually. This has the great advantage of allowing all the prints to be exhibited at once, rather than only one or two at a time, as when they were bound, and it permits one to see easily the sewing or stab holes in the inner margin--even to perceive occasionally that the inner margins have deckled edges, indicating that they were the outside of the sheet. However, in disbound books facing pages no longer face one another, and the sense of the sequence of a book is lost.

Blake's long-lost letter of 7 August 1804, known previously only through catalogue snippets, was acquired in 2009 by Robert N. Essick and masterfully published in full in 2010 by Mark Crosby and Essick in Blake. It is an important letter, and the essay about it records a number of significant discoveries related only rather distantly to the text of the letter.

Untraced letters from Blake (11) and to him (15) were newly identified in 2012. Alas, the possibility of actually finding any of these letters is extraordinarily slight.

David Bindman's assemblage of the reproductions of the recent Blake Trust editions in The Collected Illuminated Books (2000) is extraordinarily valuable – and affordable. This includes reproductions in full size and in glorious colour of all eighteen of Blake's works in Illuminated Printing, along with transcriptions of the poems. However, the exceedingly useful editorial matter provided by the Blake Trust scholars as distinguished as Joseph Viscomi and Robert N. Essick have been abandoned entirely. The Collected Illuminated Books is likely to prove invaluable to all Blake students and irresistible to lovers of beautiful books.<sup>47</sup>

Blake Trust Publications 1992 ff<sup>48</sup>

The Early Illuminated Books: ALL RELIGIONS ARE ONE, THEREIS NO NATURAL RELIGION, THE BOOK OF THEL, THE MARRIAGE OF HEAVEN AND HELL, VISIONS OF THE DAUGHTERS OF ALBION, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi (1993)

MILTON: A POEM and the Final Illuminated Books: THE GHOST OF ABEL, ON HOMER'S POETRY [and] ON VIRGIL, LAOCOÖN, ed. Robert N. Essick and Joseph Viscomi (1993)

---

<sup>47</sup> The only previous comprehensive reproductions of Blake's works in Illuminated Printing were The Illuminated Blake: All of William Blake's Illuminated Works with a Plate-by-Plate Commentary, ed. David V. Erdman (1974) and The Complete Graphic Work with 765 illustrations, ed. David Bindman (1978). Both are in black-and-white, and the latter includes far more than the works in Illuminated Printing.

<sup>48</sup> For Blake Trust Publications 1951-1991, see BBS 13.

The Continental Prophecies: AMERICA: A PROPHECY, EUROPE: A PROPHECY, THE SONG OF LOS, ed. D.W. Dörrbecker (1995)

The Urizen Books: THE FIRST BOOK OF URIZEN, THE BOOK OF AHANIA, THE BOOK OF LOS, ed. David Worrall (1995)

The Complete Illuminated Books, ed. David Bindman (2000) from the Blake Trust facsimiles, including those above plus Jerusalem, ed. M.D. Paley (1991) and Songs of Innocence and of Experience, ed. Andrew Lincoln (1991), but omitting the learned apparatus

Samuel Palmer: The Sketchbook of 1824. Edited with an Introduction and Commentary by Martin Butlin and with a Foreword by William Vaughan (2005)

William Blake's Watercolour Inventions in Illustration of THE GRAVE by Robert Blair. Edited with Essays and a Commentary by Martin Butlin and an Essay on the Poem by Morton D. Paley (2009)

The most novel, extensive, and valuable reproductions of Blake's works appear in the William Blake Archive online, created by Joseph Viscomi, Morris Eaves, and Robert N. Essick. The wonderfully ingenious apparatus allows viewers to compare designs and details, magnify and juxtapose them. This is a major resource.

Nelson Hilton's Blake Concordance On-Line permits very elaborate searches for Blake's words. In the nature of such works, it is probably used far more often than it is acknowledged.

Some of the new editions recorded here are less important than others. My favourite is the edition of "The Lamb" (1995) in which the words "William Blake" are "signed by the author by spirit pen, through [the medium?] Madam Casarosa of Tooting".

WORKS IN ILLUMINATED PRINTING

Joseph Viscomi's epic Blake and the Idea of the Book (1993) created a salutary earthquake in Blake studies. Some of its more important findings, insofar as they relate to the bibliography of Blake, are presented here. I take the evidence and conclusions in Viscomi's book to be reliable, and I endorse those reported below.

Invention of Illuminated Printing

"The Approach of Doom", in which Blake adapted a design by his brother Robert, appears to have been Blake's first attempt at drawing in an "impervious liquid," perhaps shortly after his brother's death in 1787, and it seems to have evolved out of a planographic transfer print. Doom may not have evolved directly, though. The vignette known as Songs plate a [a naked man being carried upwards by cherubim] may have been an intermediate step [p. 194.]

Similarly, the separate prints of "Joseph of Arimathea Preaching" and "Charity" seem to be early experiments in relief etching, which in turn suggests that illuminated printing, the printing of illuminated poems and books, evolved out of relief etching, which was motivated by the desire to duplicate drawings in facsimile rather than to publish preexistent texts. [p. 195]

Blake probably composed his designs for works in Illuminated Printing directly on the copperplate (as he did the marginal designs to Job about 1824), rather than transferring designs created separately, and he may well have composed some of the text for works in Illuminated Printing in this way also, particularly in Milton and Jerusalem.

Blake's text could not have been [mechanically] transferred and ... preliminary studies or models of page designs could not have preexisted their execution. ... In other words, Blake's innovation lies not in writing backward or in inventing an "impervious liquid," let alone a supposedly new method of transferring text, but in appropriating as a printmaker the tools, materials, process, and, most significantly, the aesthetics of sketching. [p. 370]

Blake scholars have often assumed that the creation of a work in Illuminated Printing was a very laborious and time-consuming process, but "A printable intaglio plate can be produced in about thirty minutes because the lines do not need to be etched deeply in order to print" (p. 82).

Printing Works in *Illuminated Printing

Works in Illuminated Printing are printed from the surface of the copperplate, as in printing from conventional typography, rather than from the recesses incised in the copper, as in intaglio engraving and etching, and ordinarily different inks are used for printing relief and intaglio plates. However, in printing his relief plates

Blake appears to have used an intaglio rather than relief ink. Intaglio ink consisted of pigment ground with various grades of burnt oil ..., such as a walnut or linseed oil that had been boiled and then set on fire. Burnt oil was more viscous than boiled oil, making ink tacky and stiff [p. 95.]

Posthumous copies ... were printed with far greater pressure and, it seems, with machine-made relief inks [p. 10].

In printing his own works, Blake did not attempt to emulate the meticulous standards of the best of his contemporaries, and he seems to have capitalized upon the irregularities of his printing. In a letter of 22 March 1911 the facsimilist William Muir calls Blake's method "skilful carelessness",<sup>49</sup> and R.N. Essick says that Blake "expanded the circumference of the acceptable far beyond the limitations standard in the craft" (p. 102).

In ordinary printing, the printing surface (such as the copperplate) is placed face up on the bed of the press, and the paper is pressed down upon it. However, Blake appears to have placed the paper on the bed of the press, and the copperplate was imposed down upon the paper. For instance,

Plates 7-12 in Europe copy G have horizontal and vertical pencil lines (some partly erased) on their face that correspond to the size of the plates. If these lines were meant to register plate to paper, then the paper must have lain on the press bed facing up and the plate placed on top of it, or the lines would not have been visible. This reverse printing method ... would have prevented the paper from picking up any of the ink smudges in the shallows of the relief plate. Woodcuts were often printed [in relief] in this manner [p. 394.]

---

<sup>49</sup> R.N. Essick, William Blake and the Language of Adam [1989], 191.

One of Blake's problems was that his copperplates, even within the same work, were different sizes, and consequently the margins of facing pages have different dimensions.

Given that registration was done by eye [i.e., not mechanically] and that plates were various sizes, diverse margins were inevitable. Facing pages with exactly shared margins, then, appear to be intentional [p. 105.]

In ordinary printing in conventional typography, several pages of type (a forme) are printed on one side of a sheet of paper; for instance, in a folio with two leaves per folded sheet of paper, pages 1 and 4 would be printed on the outside of the sheet and pages 2 and 3 on the inside. Blake used this method at least occasionally and perhaps regularly for the copies he printed on both recto and verso of the leaf.<sup>50</sup> For instance, the proofs of Marriage (K) pl. 21-24 were printed with four prints on one piece of paper, and the copies L and M<sup>51</sup> with pl. 25-27 are the same (p. 107).

Occasionally Blake made mistakes. For instance, in Marriage (B),

He printed plates 5 and 7 as an outside form (they are in the same ink) and plates 6 and 8 as the corresponding inside form (they are also in the same ink). The leaf with plates 8 and 7 was reinserted into the binding, correctly, joined to the leaf with plates 5 and 6 by a strip of paper and stabbed three times with the other fourteen leaves.

---

<sup>50</sup> In most surviving copies of Blake's works in Illuminated Printing, each leaf is separate, not conjugate with its neighbour, but this may be the result of later trimming for binding rather than an indication of the manner in which the copperplates were printed.

<sup>51</sup> Copies L and M, rediscovered in 1993 and 1997, confirm Viscomi's hypothesis.

 ... Apparently Blake had forgotten which form he was inking when he printed these four plates.

Printing plates in folio format [i.e., four prints on a piece of paper folded once] on aligned leaves ... appears to have been Blake's standard practice for books with facing pages, which ... includes all copies of illuminated books produced between 1789 and 1793 [p. 109.]

In his early printing, Blake carefully wiped the ink from the margins of the plates so that the designs would appear without frames. However, in 1795 ... [Blake began] for the first time, to print the plate borders .... The borders invited or suited a more elaborate colouring style, since text and illustration were then framed and would have looked unfinished if the washes did not meet the border/frame. This is why washing and streaking the text--a method of washing that visually integrated text with illustration ...--became common practice in books printed in and after 1795 [pp. 160-61.]

The evidence which Professor Viscomi has so laboriously accumulated demonstrates abundantly that

The times at which Blake Books claims Blake's works were printed need to be adjusted, and the periods need to be redefined ... This [first] period can be broken down ... according to three distinct formats: recto/verso (1789 to 1793), color printing (1794 to 1795), and single-sided printing with borders and rich palettes (ca. 1795). After 1795 the format remained the same, though the coloring style continued to become richer and more elaborate [p. 372.]

Since each copy of a work in Illuminated Printing seems to differ from every other copy, Blake scholars often carelessly assumed that Blake normally printed one copy at a time in deliberately unique ways. However, Blake's early practice was to print half-a-dozen or more copies of each print at a time; "to imagine that illuminated books were produced one at a time makes illuminated printing and its inventor monstrously inefficient" (p. 374). Prints were later--sometimes years later--collated into books, using the best prints first; at the end of the process, only the inferior prints were left, and sometimes in these the printing was so weak or careless that Blake had to touch them up or retrace designs or letters extensively in order to make them acceptable.

Most copies of illuminated books were compiled from impressions printed and colored in small editions.<sup>52</sup> That Blake used this mode of producing books requires one to question the intentionality and significance of most variations, redate copies of nearly all illuminated books, reevaluate the role of illuminated poetry in Blake's life, redefine his period and book styles, and, ultimately, reedit his work [p. 153.]

Colouring Works in Illuminated Printing

---

<sup>52</sup> Viscomi uses "edition" to identify copies produced in one printing-session, rather than the standard bibliographical meaning of all copies printed from one setting of type – or from unchanged copperplates. A more conventional term would be "issue".

The conventional commercial method of coloring prints was for each worker to add a separate color; one would add the red according to a master copy and pass the print on to another who would add blue, and so on. However,

The limited palette used in early illuminated impressions suggests that labor was not divided according to the standard procedure of one color per person but by impression, and that Mrs. Blake coloured entire impressions and books herself [p. 133.]

It has often been assumed that the time necessary to color a print was very extensive, but, at least for early copies, this is not so. The early coloring was simple, and

In fact, many Innocence impressions colored before 1794, like “The School Boy,” “Holy Thursday,” or “The Chimney Sweeper,” have only one or two broad washes, which represent quick passes of a brush and nothing more. There is no outlining in pen and ink, no overlaying of colors, no treatment that was technically difficult or time consuming. ...

There is no reason to disbelieve [Blake's friends Frederick] Tatham or [J.T.] Smith about Mrs. Blake's having regularly colored impressions, though the quality of her work appears not to have been as high as Tatham states--and certainly not as high as Blake's. Indeed, it is the very unevenness of quality in many books that reveals the presence of two hands [p. 133.]

Catherine Blake probably colored Innocence (G-H), Songs (C, M, R [Experience only]) and early copies of Thel and Visions. I would even add to the list America copy K, which is loosely modeled on America copy A ..., Marriage copy C, and possibly Europe copy A; Mrs. Blake seems also to have helped in recoloring books, like Songs copy R, and coloring late copies, like Songs copy AA, ca. 1826. ... [Such copies have] fewer colors, washes applied very flat and solid, and weak or incorrect modeling. The second hand is also characterized by a palette consisting primarily of pink, purple, bright blue, and yellowish green. With the exception of the frontispiece, the impressions in Europe copy A reveal these traits. For example, in plate 14 ... the pope is an opaquish purple, his throne is yellow gold, the cloud is pink and dark gray, the wings are bright blue, and the bodies are bright yellow with heavy black and gray washes. The gray and black washes in the cloud and garments are most revealing: they are crudely applied, following the lines of the forms but failing in their structural purpose of modeling those forms. ... The colouring of Europe copy A may be the work of Mrs. Blake, when she worked without a model; at the very least, it is not exclusively Blake's [pp. 133-34.]

Copies of Visions pl. 7 (in copies A-E, H-M) were printed in raw sienna, yellow ochre, and green ink as three issues of the same edition. The impressions from plate 7 ... share the same palette, brush work, coloring techniques, and one of three compositions [i.e., arrangements of colours]. These compositions evolve one from the other and each composition includes impressions from at least two issues. The compositions are (1) purple clouds over light purple or blue sky, (2) purple clouds over a yellow sky with a rising (or setting?) sun, and (3) yellow sky with a rising (or setting?) sun with pronounced rays.

The first composition appears in copies H, C, B, and L ..., two copies printed in raw sienna and two in green. The second composition is found in copies K, M, D, and E ..., copies that were printed in all three colors. The third composition appears in copies I, J, and A ..., one copy in yellow ochre and two in green. ... The motifs, details, and coloring style appear to have been suggested by other impressions, since nothing in the original drawing (illus. 172 [which is a proof of the etching]) indicated sun or clouds or necessitated such simple coloring [p. 135.]

[In Visions pl. 7] Theotormon's right arm in copies C, E, J, K, L and M is cast in a purple shadow, with a touch of the same purple on the left elbow; technically, the shadow is one upward brush stroke, made in the same motion in nearly all of these copies. ... [In Thel pl. 7] The sky is formed in the same colors and manner in copies H, G, B, E, and M. Yet there is no printed line suggesting clouds; in copy O, printed years later, the background was painted in multiple bright colors to suggest twilight. The repetition of a form or gesture not part of the printed design suggests that it was generated by reference to other impressions, and thus sequentially and within an edition [p. 398.]

Mrs. Blake was probably responsible for the [VISIONS] copy C and H impressions, and possibly the copy L impression ... [plus for pl. 7 still] copy M and probably copy K ... [and] copies J and I [p. 142].

Dates of Printing

- 1789 Innocence<sup>53</sup> (U, V?; F, I-J, X; A-H, K-M, Z, B-E), Thel (a [proofs], + loose proofs, A-E, G-M, R, ?P, ?Q<sup>54</sup>)
- 1790 Marriage (K-M [proofs], A, C, B, H<sup>55</sup>)
- 1793 Visions (a [proofs], A-E, H-M), For Children (A-E), America (a [proofs], + loose proofs, C-I, K-L, R)
- 1794 No Natural Religion (A-D, G, M), Marriage (E-F), Visions (F, R), Experience (F, G-H, T<sup>1</sup>; B-E), Europe (a-c [proofs], + loose proofs, B-G), Urizen (H-I [proofs], A, C-F, J)
- 1795 All Religions (A), No Natural Religion (L), Innocence (J, N), Thel (F), Marriage (D), Visions (G, Q?), America (A-B), Experience (J, O, S), Songs (A, R; I, L, O/K, M, W/N,<sup>56</sup> BB), Europe (A,

---

<sup>53</sup> In recording copies of Songs of Innocence, letters in roman type indicate the independent copies of Innocence; letters in italic type indicate prints of Innocence in copies of Songs of Innocence and of Experience.

<sup>54</sup> The printing of Thel is dated no more precisely than 1789-90.

<sup>55</sup> In Marriage (B, H), "the inking accidentals shared by the two copies (in plates 11 and 13, for example) are lighter in copy H, which suggests that most of the copy H impressions were probably second pulls" (Viscomi, 112).

<sup>56</sup> Songs (O/K and W/N) are sets which were later separated.

- H), Urizen (B), Song of Los (A-F), Ahania (A-B), Book of Los (A-B)<sup>57</sup>
- 1796 Large Book of Designs (A-B); Small Book of Designs (A-B)
- 1802 Innocence (P, O, R/Y), Experience (P, Q)
- 1804 Innocence (P-Q, Q)
- 1807 America (M?), Jerusalem proofs
- 1811 Innocence (S, S), Milton (A-C)
- 1818 Thel (N-O), Marriage (G), Visions (N-P), Experience (T<sup>2</sup>, U), Urizen (G), Milton (D)
- 1820 Jerusalem (A, C-D)
- 1821 America (O), Songs (V), Europe (K), Jerusalem (B, E)
- 1822 ?On Homer (A-F), Ghost of Abel (A-E)
- 1825 Songs (W, Y), ?For the Sexes (J-M [proofs], C, D)
- 1826 ?For the Sexes (A, B), Songs (Z-AA)
- 1827 Marriage (I), Songs (X), Jerusalem (F)

Posthumous printing

Innocence (T), America (N, P-Q), Songs (a-o plus separate pulls including Tate and Theodore B. Donson Ltd), Europe (I, L-M), ?For Children (E-I), and Jerusalem (I-J).

Posthumous colouring

Some copies of Blake's works were colored after his death. These include Songs (E, M, e), thirteen Experience impressions in Songs copy K, plate 1 (if not also all) of Europe copy A, and the framelines and many of the blue and pink washes over interlinear decorations in Marriage copy E; some posthumous copies were colored very well: Songs copy e (in imitation of Songs copy Y) and Songs copy j [p. 367.]

---

<sup>57</sup> Of these works, All Religions (A), No Natural Religion (L), Thel (F), Marriage (D), Visions (G, Q?), America (A-B), Songs (A, R), Europe (A, H), and Urizen (B) were produced as a deluxe large-paper set with framing lines.

The full history of the Small Book of Designs (B) has been clearly established, at least so far as current information permits, in the major article by Martin Butlin and Robin Hamlyn in Blake,<sup>58</sup> with crucial evidence from stab-holes and inscriptions by Blake and Tatham.

DECORATION VERSUS ILLUSTRATION

The Function of Reproductions

Most visual illustrations in books also serve as decorations. Of course decoration is admirable in itself. Sometimes, however, the reproductions seem to serve little function other than decoration.

Relevance of Reproductions to Text

A number of books have covers with designs derived from Blake but no other connection with him, such as books on Newton or gay literature. Often the name of Blake does not appear even in the index of such books. The only function of the cover-reproductions is decoration.

Size Matters

Authors rarely have much control of the size of reproductions in their books and essays. Despite emphatic, nay urgent, directions to reproduce designs true size when possible, The Stranger from Paradise (2001) and Blake Records Second Edition (2004) are littered with reproductions misleadingly swollen or shrunk. In these books, falsification of verbal evidence would not have been tolerated, but the reproductions are regularly falsified in size.

---

<sup>58</sup> Butlin and Hamlyn, "Tate Britain Reveals Nine New Blakes and Thirteen New Lines of Verse", Blake, XLII (2008), 52-72.

Even when reproductions are intended as illustrations of the text, they may seriously mislead the viewer when carelessly treated by the person responsible for laying out the text and reproductions. Reproductions in books are rarely displayed true size, nor is there any evidence in most books that they are not true size. Usually the images are magnified or shrunk for reasons having to do with space available or, apparently, the whim of the lay-out person. If the dimensions of the original are not given below the reproduction, the reader cannot judge at all accurately the effect intended by the creator of the image. A pyramid or the Taj Mahal or the ceiling of the Sistine Chapel may become little better than comic when reproduced on a chocolate box lid.

What is the reader to make of the facts that in the volume accompanying the exhibition at the Petit Palais the image-sizes of the reproductions of the frontispiece and title page of Songs of Innocence (L) (pp. 88-89) at 12.5 x 19.5 cm are ten times the size of reproductions of the same images in copy P (p. 91) at 3.8 x 6.2 cm? Or that the most important visual feature referred to in the text – the cricket bat in the second plate of “Pré tintant” (“The Ecchoing Green”) – is not reproduced at all?<sup>59</sup> On p. 145, each of the six folio pages of Vala (c. 32 x 40 cm in the original) is reproduced so small (c. 5 x 7 cm) that the text is illegible except under high power magnification. And designs are repeatedly and silently cut down; for instance, some of the text reproduced on p. 161 is wantonly trimmed off.

---

<sup>59</sup> Thirty-one other plates are reproduced from the Songs.

Almost certainly these deformities are the responsibility of the person who laid out the text rather than the editor, Michael Phillips.

BLAKE'S ART

The most extraordinary Blake discovery of the last century and more was of Blake's nineteen lost designs for Blair's Grave. Twelve of them had been engraved for Cromek's edition of The Grave in 1808, but Blake's watercolours for them had not been traced since 1836. The drawings were brought, apparently in ignorance of their significance, to the Swindon auction-house of Dominic Winter, they were identified and authenticated by Martin Butlin, Robin Hamlyn, Robert Essick, Rosamund Paice, David Bindman, Morton Paley, GEB, and Dr E.B. Bentley. Seven of the designs had never been seen by Blake scholars, for most of them even the titles were unknown, and such titles as had been known were not very helpful, e.g., "Friendship" and "A characteristic Frontispiece". Some of the new drawings are very wonderful and surprising.

Perhaps the most surprising of them is that for "Death's Door". The version engraved by Schiavonetti for the 1808 Grave is of course very well known--it was copied again in 1816, and Whitman was buried under a version of it in 1892. It was also copied by Blake in a dramatic white-line version which apparently so alarmed the publisher R.H. Cromek that he took the commission for the engravings from Blake and gave it to Schiavonetti.

Until the watercolours were rediscovered, we did not know whether Blake's version of 1805 or Schiavonetti's version of 1808 corresponded to the drawing of "Death's Door" which Blake had sold to Cromek. Cromek's betrayal of Blake in depriving him of the promised commission to engrave his designs for Blair's Grave has long been known, but the rights of the case were obscure. The newly discovered drawing makes it plain that Schiavonetti was extraordinarily faithful to the watercolour which Cromek put before him. It is Blake's engraving of "Death's Door" which is eccentric, or at least which varies from his watercolour, not Schiavonetti's. Perhaps there is more to be said for Cromek than had previously been thought. But not much more.

One of Blake's largest paintings, an inn-sign made in 1812 for Chaucer's Tabard or Talbot Inn in Southwark, was for the first time identified and reproduced in 2010.<sup>60</sup> Alas, under out-door exposure for two-thirds of a century the picture deteriorated so extensively that at the end of its lifetime its features were virtually indistinguishable, and when the building ceased to be an inn the sign was probably abandoned. The inn-sign, as recorded in contemporary engravings, is disconcertingly different from Blake's familiar heroic art, and most Blake students are likely to be made uneasy by it if not incredulous of its connection with Blake.

Beginning about 1800, Blake made a number of miniatures for Hayley and his friends, but a number have been lost.<sup>61</sup> Two of Blake's lost miniatures seem to be

---

<sup>60</sup> G.E.Bentley, Jr, "Pictura Ignota: Blake's Most Seen, Least Known Painting", Descant, XLI, 4 (Winter 2010), 73-103.

<sup>61</sup> Blake's known miniatures are

|                                       |               |                                      |
|---------------------------------------|---------------|--------------------------------------|
| Mrs Hayley (1801)                     | <Butlin #346> | untraced andunreproduced |
| Johnny Johnson (1802)                 | <Butlin #347> | Mary Barham Johnson                  |
| George Romney (self- portrait) (1801) | <Butlin #348> | untraced                      |
| George Romney (self-portrait) (1801)  | <Butlin #348> | untraced                      |

reproduced in the European Magazine (1803) and in Hayley's Life of George Romney (1809), as Mark Crosby and Robert N. Essick demonstrated brilliantly.<sup>62</sup> This increases by a third the number of Blake's miniatures which have been reproduced.

Two of the most ambitious and successful reproductions of Blake's art are The Divine Comedy; Die Gottliche Komödie; La Divine Comedie, ed. David Bindman (2000), and Edward Young, NIGHT THOUGHTS: The Poem illustrated with Water Colours by William Blake, Commentary by Robin Hamlyn. [3 vols.] (2005).

Genesis: William Blake's Last Illuminated Work, ed. Mark Crosby and Robert N. Essick With an Essay by Robert R. Wark (2012) is a remarkable accomplishment.

The work had its genesis as part of the brave series of Materials for the Study of William Blake by The American Blake Foundation (Roger and Kay Parkhurst Easson). They commissioned from G.E. Bentley, Jr, texts for America (published 1974), Europe (published "1975", i.e., 1979), An Island in the Moon, The Song of Los, and Visions of the Daughters of Albion,<sup>63</sup> and from Robert R. Wark an essay for

---

|  |  |
|--|--|
| William Hayley (1801)                  | not in Butlin untraced and unreproduced |
| William Cowper (after Romney) (1801)   | <Butlin #353> Misses Cowper                    |
| William Cowper (after Romney) (1801-4) | <Butlin #354> Ashmolean                        |
| Thomas Butts (1801?)                   | <Butlin #376> British Museum Print Room        |
| Thomas Butts Jr (1809)                 | <Butlin #377> British Museum Print Room        |
| Mrs Butts (1809)                       | <Butlin #378> British Museum Print Room        |

<sup>62</sup> Mark Crosby and Robert N. Essick, "'the fiends of Commerce': Blake's Letter to William Hayley, 7 August 1804", Blake, XLIV [2010], 62-64).

<sup>63</sup> The completed typescript texts for An Island in the Moon, The Song of Blake's illuminated transcription of Genesis. Wark's essay was set up in type<sup>64</sup> but reached no further toward publication then.

Blake's transcription of Genesis had been reproduced, much reduced in size, in Martin Butlin, The Paintings and Drawings of William Blake (New Haven and London: Yale University Press, 1981), pl. 974-75, 1084-92, and in Robert N. Essick, The Works of William Blake in the Huntington Collections (San Marino: The Huntington Library and Art Gallery, 1975).

The 2012 edition of Genesis is a true facsimile, in colour and in the enormous size of the original--31.5 x 43.1 cm, almost as large as Vala.

Crosby and Essick identify "six layers of writing and letter-coloring .... With every layer, Blake reformatted and thus re-conceptualized his preliminary intentions" (p. 32). It is only in this edition that such details are visible and explored.

This is a meticulous,<sup>65</sup> fascinating, and fruitful facsimile.

COMMERCIAL ENGRAVINGS

New Titles

After a century and a half of Blake's fame, it is very surprising to find previously unknown books bearing his engravings. [Elizabeth Blower], Maria: A Novel (1785) and

---

Los, and Visions of the Daughters of Albion remain in Bentley's possession.

<sup>64</sup> Proofs of Mr Wark's essay are in the collections of Robert N. Essick and Victoria University in the University of Toronto.

<sup>65</sup> I noticed only two typographical errors: "srepent" for "serpent" (p. 5) and "scared codes" (a nice concept) for "sacred codes" (p. 34).

The Cabinet of the Arts (1799) were each was found by pure serendipity. I was looking somewhat idly in Bodley at books to which John Flaxman had subscribed and found with astonishment that Maria: A Novel had a print engraved by Blake. And Bob Essick bought a copy of The Cabinet of the Arts because it was said to have Stothard plates in it and discovered that it also included a print by Blake. In each case the print was known in other contexts, but the vehicle was new. I am particularly indignant about The Cabinet of the Arts, because I had looked decades earlier at the copy in the British Library and found, as I expected, no Blake print. But I could not tell from an examination of one copy that each known copy differs extensively from every other.

Two other newly-discovered works with copies of Blake's designs are The Diamond Bible (1832-34; 1836-37; 1840) with a small engraving of Blake's "Job and his Family" and Diario de los Niños (1839-40) with large lithographs from Blake's designs for Blair's Grave.

Mark Crosby and R.N. Essick identified for the first time prints of Blake's lost miniatures of Romney in the European Magazine (1803) and Hayley's Life of George Romney (1809).<sup>66</sup> The evidence is so plain that it difficult to understand why they were not identified long ago.

A proof of a newly-recorded engraving by Blake for the two title pages of Stedman's Surinam (1796) was acquired in 2014 by VICTORIA UNIVERSITY IN THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO. Before that, the last Blake plates newly recorded were for Rees's Cyclopaedia, pl. 3a (1819) <BBS> and the relief-etching (not a wood-cut like all the rest) for Virgil, Pastorals

---

<sup>66</sup> Mark Crosby and Robert N. Essick, "the fiends of Commerce': Blake's Letter to William Hayley, 7 August 1804", Blake, XLIV, 2 (Fall 2010), 52-72.

(1821) <Blake (1991)>.

New Editions

William Hayley, The Life ... of William Cowper (N.Y., 1803)

Josephus, The Genuine and Complete Works (London: J. Cooke [1785-87])

Josephus, The Whole Genuine and Complete Works (London: J. Cooke [?1789-90])

Newly Discovered Coloured Copies

William Hayley, Ballads (1805)

Edward Young, Night Thoughts (1797) coloured copies AA, BB

Newly Discovered Working Proofs

Blair, The Grave

Among books with Blake's commercial engravings is a newly recorded proof of Chaucer, Poetical Works (1782 [i.e., 1783]). Even more remarkable is the survival in the Huntington of the woodblock for one of Blake's designs cut down and copied by another hand.

A new copy of the proof of "Death's Door" (1806) for Blair's Grave (1808), only the third recorded, was discovered in 2012 and acquired by Victoria University in the University of Toronto. Perhaps Cromek used it to show to potential customers on his subscription tours in 1806-1808.

The plates in a French edition (1799) of Stedman's Narrative of a five years' expedition, against the Revolted Negroes of Surinam (1796) copy Blake's prints so closely that they must have been traced. Since Blake almost certainly made significant adaptations to Stedman's designs when he engraved them, does this mean that the French prints deserve to be recorded in a bibliography of Blake?

CATALOGUES AND BIBLIOGRAPHIES

One of Blake's most enthusiastic and colourful patrons was Thomas Griffiths Wainewright, dilettante, friend of Charles Lamb and Henry Fuseli, artist, charming essayist, forger, and poisoner. His enthusiasm for Blake has been previously known; he wrote that Blake's Job is "as exquisitely engraved as grandly conceived" (29 March 1826) and that "His Dante is the most wonderful emanation of imagination that I have ever heard of" (February 1827), and he apparently wanted to acquire "all M<sup>r</sup> Bs works executed by his own hand" (28 March 1826).

However, the remarkable extent of his collection was not known until 2001. Wainewright wrote of acquiring Marriage, Milton, and Songs in 1826 and 1827, and Blake Books and Blake Books Supplement speculated that he also owned Descriptive Catalogue (F), and perhaps the Riddle Manuscript. Now Marc Vaulbert de Chantilly has discovered the catalogues of 1831, 1835, and 1837 in which Wainewright's books were sold.<sup>67</sup> Wainewright's Blakes can now be shown to include America (G), Descriptive Catalogue (F), Europe (B), For Children (B), Jerusalem (B), Marriage (I), Milton (B), Songs (X), Job (1826), Blair's Grave (1808), and Young's Night Thoughts (1797). None of Blake's contemporaries is known to have owned so many of his printed works during his lifetime, not even his intimate friends and patrons George Cumberland and Thomas Butts.

---

<sup>67</sup> Marc Vaulbert de Chantilly, "Property of a Distinguished Poisoner: Thomas Griffiths Wainewright and the Griffiths family library", pp. 111-42 of Under the Hammer: Book Auctions Since the Seventeenth Century, ed. Robin Myers, Michael Harris, and Giles Mandelbrote (New Castle [Delaware]: Oak Knoll Press; London: The British Library, 2001). This is an exemplary essay.

Wainewright may have owned Jerusalem (B) as early as 1820, when he wrote in the London Magazine about the "newly discovered, illuminated manuscript, which has to name 'Jerusalem the Emanation of the Giant Albion!!!!'".

Almost as surprising was the discovery of the Willis and Sotheran catalogues of 25 June and 25 December 1862 which offered Flaxman's otherwise unknown copies of America (S), Book of Thel (S), Europe (N), First Book of Urizen (K), For Children (F), and Visions of the Daughters of Albion (S).

There were major Blake exhibitions in Madrid and Barcelona in 1996-1997 by Robin Hamlyn with 101 reviews recorded below, in Tate (London), in The Metropolitan Museum (N.Y.) in 2000-2001 with 159 reviews, in Le Petit Palais (Paris) in 2009, in Caixa Forum (Madrid) in 2012 with 51 reviews, and in the Ashmolean Museum (Oxford) in 2014-2015.

Important Blakes were offered in John Windle's catalogues of 1995, 1998, 2000, 2001, 2003, 2005, 2006, 2008 (with Henry Sotheran), 2009, 2011 (2), and 2014 (with Sotheran). But the most extraordinary Blake sales were at Sotheby's (N.Y.) in 1999 and 2006. In the 23 April 1999 sale of the works of Betsy Cushing Whitney, an anonymous collector bought Urizen (E), which had been lost to sight for three quarters of a century (1920-1998). The cost was $2,300,000 plus Sotheby and agent's fees. This was not only "a RECORD PRICE FOR A BLAKE", but "per square inch and even for number of pages, ... the highest price [for any book] in book auctions yet, over $100,000 per page".<sup>68</sup>

---

<sup>68</sup> E.B. Bentley, "Urizen in New York City", Blake, XXXIII (1999), 30. The copy of Visions of the Daughters of Albion (N) with 11 plates is reported to

Even more sensational was the sale of the nineteen watercolours for Blair's Grave which had disappeared in 1836, reappeared in 2001, changed ownership repeatedly under dubious or litigious circumstances, and advanced in asking-price from about £600 to $20,000,000. The set was then broken up, amid very wide-spread and public protests, and the watercolours were offered for sale at Sotheby's (New York) on 2 May 2006. From the point of view of the rapacious vendors, the sale must have been a disappointment, for the estimates were for $12,000,000 to $17,000,000, the sum realized was $7,102,640, and eight watercolours were not sold at all. Sensational though these prices seem, they were put in a different perspective when next day Sotheby's sold a Picasso for over $100,000,000.

Sotheby's (New York) broke up and sold in 2007 Songs of Innocence (Y) which had been reported as "on permanent deposit" in the Wallraf-Richartz Museum in Cologne.

Two complete copies of the important Edwards Catalogue (1821) were discovered in Yale; previously the only known copy was that in Bodley lacking a title page.

There is also the online Sale Catalogues of Blake's Works 1791-2013: A Catalogue Somewhat Raisonné by G.E. Bentley, Jr (Spring 2013), 1,219 pp. in 2017.

Two catalogues which cumulate and advance Blake studies were G.E. Bentley, Jr, with the assistance of Keiko Aoyama, Blake Studies in Japan: A Bibliography of Works on William Blake Published in Japan 1893-1993 (1994) and G.E. Bentley, Jr, Blake Books Supplement: A Bibliography of Publications and Discoveries about William Blake 1971-1992, being a Continuation of BLAKE BOOKS (1977) (1995).

---

have been sold in 2007 for $2,000,000 or about $200,000 per print.

The present William Blake and His Circle is a continuation of the records in these two works.

The vast and extraordinary Essick collection has been publicly visible chiefly in the records of exciting additions to it in Essick's annual essays for 1978-2008 on "Blake in the Marketplace" in Blake: An Illustrated Quarterly. Now the Biblioteca la Solana<sup>69</sup> is comprehensively visible in Essick's massive and wonderfully informative William Blake and His Circle and Followers: A Catalogue of the Collection of Robert N. Essick Compiled by the Collector (2008). Unfortunately this is visible only through the courtesy of the author and collector.

The largest collection of manuscript materials relating to Blake to appear for very many years is the Archive of Robert Hartley Cromek and Thomas Hartley Cromek which was described in the Hart and Johnson catalogue offering them for sale (2008) before the Archive went to Princeton.

BOOKS OWNED BY WILLIAM BLAKE

Newly Identified

[George Townshend], A Political and Satirical History of the Years 1756-1757 ([?1757])

George Cumberland, Anecdotes of Julio Bonasoni (1793)

George Cumberland, The Captive of the Castle of Sennaar (1798)

John Dryden, Annus Mirabiles (1668), bound with [Jean Claude], An Account of the Persecutions and

---

<sup>69</sup> I record here only the rarissima from La Biblioteca la Solana. I should confess that only GEB calls it the Biblioteca la Solana.

Oppressions of the French Protestants (1686), bound with Anon, Life & Death of ... Richard Baxter (1692)
Orpheus, The Mystical Initiations; or, Hymns of Orpheus, translated by Thomas Taylor (1787)
John Quincy, Pharmacopoeia (1733)
Raphael, Historia del Testamento Vecchio (1695)

Of these, copies of A Political and Satirical History of the Years 1756-1757, Dryden &c, Quincy, and Raphael have been traced, the Satirical History, Dryden, Quincy, and Raphael bear the signature of William Blake, and Orpheus has annotations by him. Nothing like any of these works had previously been associated with Blake. The two books by Blake's faithful friend George Cumberland can be associated with Blake only by indirect but good evidence; his copies themselves have not been traced, but his ownership of them is not surprising.

BOOKS OWNED BY THE WRONG WILLIAM BLAKE IN THE YEARS 1770-1827

NEWLY IDENTIFIED

William Barret, The History and Antiquities of the City of Bristol (1789)
Andrew Mackay, The Theory and Practice of Finding the Longitude (1793)
Horace Man, The Miscellaneous Works, in Verse and Prose (1802)
John Milton, Paradise Lost, ed. Richard Bentley (1732)
William Sotheby, The Siege of Cuzco: A Tragedy (1800)

PART VI

BIOGRAPHY AND CRITICISM

BOOKS AND ARTICLES ABOUT BLAKE

The most original and lastingly important book about Blake published in 1992 ff. was Joseph Viscomi's Blake and the Idea of the Book (1993).

The Foundations Move<sup>70</sup>

Some books mark epochs.

These are books which so persuasively and fundamentally alter the way the subject is comprehended that all successors consciously or unconsciously adapt their works to this new understanding or are ignored by posterity. Joseph Viscomi's Blake and the Idea of the Book is one of the epoch-marking books of Blake scholarship. He has created a salutary earthquake.

In Blake studies, the epoch-making works are those of Alexander Gilchrist, Life of William Blake, "Pictor Ignotus" (1863), Geoffrey Keynes, Bibliography of William Blake (1921) and his edition of Blake's Writings (... 1925), Northrop Frye, Fearful Symmetry ... (1947), David V. Erdman, Blake: Prophet Against Empire (1954), and Martin Butlin, William Blake's Paintings and Drawings (... 1981). To these must now be added

---

<sup>70</sup> This account is quoted from my review entitled "The Foundations Move", in A & B: Analytical & Enumerative Bibliography, NS IX, 1-2 (1995 [i.e., March 1997]), 68-79.

Joseph Viscomi, Blake and the Idea of the Book [1993, i.e., February 1994]”.

This is a remarkably fine book, profoundly original, ... drawing exceedingly novel and important conclusions. The most important of these conclusions are that Blake produced his works in Illuminated Printing in significantly long runs ... and that normally he colored them at the time – and colored all copies of one plate rather than all plates of one copy.

Blake and the Idea of the Book has changed fundamentally our understanding of why and how Blake produced his works in Illuminated Printing .... No longer may we assume that every jot and tittle of his printed words and images is pregnant with intellectual meaning, for many of Blake’s jots and tittles are incidental by-products of his experimental technology. No longer may we believe that creating works in Illuminated Printing was a life-long concern for Blake, for there were many years when he neither printed nor colored any of them. No longer may we conceive of Blake as a literary man who was also a painter, for plainly there were long periods when he neither wrote nor printed his poetry, though he was making pictures continuously. Blake was always a graphic artist but only sometimes a poet. ...

Joseph Viscomi’s accomplishment is to show us the real Blake as practical craftsman.

New Facts about Blake

A number of new records of Blake and his family have been found in contemporary Directories (1783-1821).<sup>71</sup>

Similarly there are voting records of Blake's father James (1749, 1774, 1780, 1784), his brother James (1784, 1788), and his brother John (1788), but apparently "The poet himself never voted",<sup>72</sup> though he was eligible to do so. This negative evidence has been used to reinforce the argument that Blake was aloof from practical politics, despite the fiery political strain in his writings and drawings.

However, Blake did vote, in 1790.<sup>73</sup> Perhaps his political activism should be re-appraised.

Madness

A good many of Blake's London contemporaries might have said, as Richard Twiss did, "I Suppose the man to be mad" (13 September 1794), and indeed he was reported to have been confined in a madhouse.<sup>74</sup> Students of Blake have been accustomed to conclude that the charge of madness was as absurd as the charge that he was confined in a madhouse.

But there is good evidence that "William Blake" was mad. Coroners' juries found that William Blake was a lunatic who had committed suicide in 1778 (by hanging), in 1783 (by drowning), in 1792 (by hanging), and in 1799 (by drowning).<sup>75</sup> But none of these William Blakes is known to have been a poet, a painter, or a visionary.

---

<sup>71</sup> These derive chiefly from BR (2) 735-6 and Angus Whitehead, "'William Blocke': New References to Blake in Boyle's City Guide (1797) and Boyle's City Companion (1798)", Blake Journal, No. 8 (2004), 30-46.

<sup>72</sup> BR (2) 736, I am sorry to say.

<sup>73</sup> See the Addendum to BR (2) 59.

<sup>74</sup> Anon., "Hôpital des fous à Londres", Revue Britannique, III S, IV (July 1833), 179-87.

<sup>75</sup> See the Addenda to BR (2).

Peter Ackroyd, a successful novelist and imaginative biographer, produced an elaborately detailed biography of Blake as a "Cockney visionary", an "urban genius", with a good deal of analysis of Blake's words (conventional) and designs (often ambitious and interesting). This is the most popular biography of the poet since Gilchrist (1863). Entitled simply Blake, it was published in 1995 and republished in 1996, 1997, 2000 (in German), 2001 (in Polish), 2002 (in Japanese), in 2004 (in German), and in 2008, and over sixty reviews of it have been recorded (2009). The reviews have varied between ecstatic, at first, to grumpy, particularly from Blake scholars such as Morton Paley and Aileen Ward. It was described as "lucid, ... intuitive and empathetic" (Bate), "a masterpiece" (Gowrie), "decently crafted fiction overwhelmed by an excess of tyrannical facts" (Sinclair), "a book with bounce and push" (Fraser), pervaded by "questionable statements" (Paley), and an "excellent" example of "haute vulgarization" (Fleming). It will continue to be widely read, Blake scholars, however, are likely to depend more extensively on G.E. Bentley, Jr, The Stranger from Paradise: A Biography of William Blake (2001). The consensus among scholars is that it is a "splendid" book (Bate, Anon., McIntyre, D'Evelyn, King); "Bentley has performed the highest service imaginable" for Blake scholars in "this impressive and summative master work" which evokes "continual excitement and perpetual discovery"; "One cannot ask more of a biography or more from a biographer" (Lussier). "No other biography on Blake stands this tall" (Miner). It is "a glorious capstone to his [Bentley's] labors" (Hilton). What author would contest such judgments of his work?

The book is based upon the then-as-yet-unpublished Second Edition of Blake Records ... Incorporating BLAKE RECORDS (1969), BLAKE RECORDS SUPPLEMENT (1988), and Extensive Discoveries since 1988 (2004). Any account of Blake's life is likely to be quietly drawn from Blake Records.

One of the most persuasive books about Blake since 1991 is E.P. Thompson's Witness Against the Beast: William Blake and the Moral Law (1993). It provides an admirably deft and just argument about Blake's connection with the traditions of the antinomians, who opposed the authority of "The Beast" of reason in established church and state; Blake's "writings contain the purest, most lucid and most persuasive statements that issued from that tradition in any voice and at any time"; in particular, "the Muggletonian Church preserved a vocabulary of symbolism, a whole cluster of signs and images, which recur--but in a new form and organisation, and in association with others--in Blake's poetry and painting. ... of all the traditions touched upon, I know of none which consistently transmits so large a cluster of Blakean symbols."<sup>76</sup>

Two works persuasively tracing Blake's sources are Sheila Spector's "Glorious Incomprehensible": The Development of Blake's Kabbalistic Language (2001) and her "Wonders Divine": The Development of Blake's Kabbalistic Myth (2001). The subject-matter is wonderfully arcane and the argument dense, but the two volumes “add immeasurably to our understanding of Blake” (Behrendt).

---

<sup>76</sup> GEB summary (see below). Thompson flirts with the idea that Blake's mother was a Muggletonian, but his evidence for this is flawed, and this conclusion is now largely dismissed.

Morton Paley, The Traveller in the Evening: The Last Works of William Blake (2003) is a comprehensively scholarly work, illuminating on every page, deft with Blake’s designs, a worthy continuation of a lifetime of criticism covering all Blake’s literary works, with Energy and Imagination: A Study of the Development of Blake’s Thought (1970) and The Continuing City: William Blake’s Jerusalem (1983) [see below].

More and more frequently Blake is the focus of novels, including among the works recorded here those by Tracy Chevalier, Michael Dibdin, Beryl Kingston, Ray Faraday Nelson, Kenzaburo Oe, and Janet Warner.

By far the most distinguished of them is by the Japanese Nobel Laureate Kenzaburo Oe. His Rouse Up O Young Men of the New Age! tr. John Nathan (2002; originally published in 1983 in Japanese) is an autobiographical novel about the fictional author's changing relationship with his severely handicapped son called Eeyore who is not "corrupted by Experience: in Eeyore, the power of innocence had been preserved". Blake's influence in the novel is pervasive and fundamental. The book- and chapter-titles are from Blake, and the fictional author says: "I have braided my life with my handicapped son and my thoughts occasioned by reading William Blake"; it is a "chronicle of William Blake superimposed on my life with my son".

ESSAYS ABOUT BLAKE

William Blake and His Circle records over 13,000 essays focusing on Blake. About a third of these appeared in collections of essays on Blake, including (2009) essays in Catalan (6), Finnish (8), French (15), Italian (10), Japanese (197), Polish (5), and Spanish (10) and reprints (161).

Of these collections of essays, the most impressive one technologically is William Blake: The Painter at Work, ed. Joyce H. Townsend and Robin Hamlyn (2003). This is a remarkably fine and original book dealing particularly with the constitution, use, and deterioration of Blake's pigments, the materials of the supports, and the framing of his pictures (no frame survives from Blake's time), with sections on the temperas and Large Colour Prints, and telling reproductions. Any study of the materials of Blake's art must consult, indeed depend upon, The Painter at Work.

Four essayists have made particularly important factual contributions to our understanding of Blake and his times.

Chronologically, the first of these is Robert N. Essick. His invaluable "Blake in the Marketplace"<sup>77</sup> has been appearing since 1974, often carrying with it the first news of Blake discoveries and wonderful oddities. After many years of brooding, he devised an admirably ingenious demonstration that the portrait of a man with commanding eyes which he owned not only represented William Blake but was painted by him as well.<sup>78</sup> And with Joseph Viscomi he produced overwhelming evidence that Blake's colour-prints were almost invariably printed with only one pass through the press rather than two passes, the second for the colours.<sup>79</sup> These are major achievements.

---

<sup>77</sup> Robert N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace" for 1978-2007, Blake, XIV-XLI (1980-2009), growing from 18 pp. to 34.

<sup>78</sup> Robert N. Essick, "A Self(?) Portrait of William Blake", Blake, XXXIX (2005- 6), 126-39.

<sup>79</sup> Robert N. Essick and Joseph Viscomi, "An Enquiry into William

Keri Davies has been crucially important in laying out the sensational facts that Catherine and Thomas Armitage joined the Moravian Church in 1750, that Thomas and their son Thomas died in 1751, and that Catherine Armitage married James Blake in 1752 and became the mother of the poet.<sup>80</sup> Blake's Moravian context is likely to be central to all future discussions of his religious ideas.

Keri Davies has also set out the context of Rebekah Bliss, one of Blake's earliest patrons, who made astonishing collections of books and pictures.<sup>81</sup>

G.E. Bentley, Jr has performed a chore like Robert Essick's in the annual survey of Blake publications and discoveries.<sup>82</sup> He has also published influential essays on the startling context of Blake's trial for sedition in 1804,<sup>83</sup> on false imprints on the editions of Lavater's Physiognomy

Blake's Method of Color Printing", Blake, XXXV (2002), 74-103, and "Blake's Method of Color Printing: Some Responses and Further Observations", Blake, XXXVI (2002), 45-64.

<sup>80</sup> Keri Davies, "William Blake's Mother: A New Identification", Blake, XXXIII (1999), 36-50; with Marsha Keith Schuchard, "Recovering the Lost Moravian History of William Blake's Family", Blake, XXXVIII (2004), 36-43; Keri Davies, "The Lost Moravian History of William Blake's Family: Snapshots from an Archive", Literature Compass (2006); Keri Davies, "Jonathan Spilsbury and the Lost Moravian History of William Blake's Family", Blake, XL (2006-7), 100-9.

I examined the Moravian records in 1955 but did not then have the crucial clue that Blake's mother had previously married Thomas Armitage. The Blake connection with the Moravians was discovered by Marsha Keith Schuchard, but Keri Davies has put it into a reliable factual context.

<sup>81</sup> Keri Davies, "'Mrs Bliss: a Blake Collector of 1794" in Blake in the Nineties, ed. Steve Clark and David Worrall (1999).

<sup>82</sup> G.E. Bentley, Jr, "William Blake and His Circle" (1992 ff.), Blake (1994 ff).

<sup>83</sup> G.E. Bentley, Jr, "Rex v. Blake: Sussex Attitudes toward the Military and Blake's Trial for Sedition in 1804", Huntington Library Quarterly, LVI (1993), 83-89.

bearing plates by Blake,<sup>84</sup> on Blake's print-selling partnership with James Parker,<sup>85</sup> and on the connection, or rather the irrelevance, of the so-called "Sophocles Manuscript" with William Blake.<sup>86</sup> But the most lastingly valuable of these essays are likely to be those on the economics and the materials of Illuminated Printing.<sup>87</sup>

Joseph Viscomi continues to do some of the most valuable basic research on Blake's graphic works. His essays on the Butts family and their ownership of works by Blake have thrown floods of light on the provenance of works by Blake.<sup>88</sup> He has demonstrated the influence of graphic technology on Gilchrist's epoch-marking Life of William Blake, "Pictor Ignotus" (1863).<sup>89</sup> And, most importantly, he has shown, through extraordinarily detailed and persuasive examination of the physical characteristics of Blake's works

---

<sup>84</sup> G.E. Bentley, Jr, "The Physiognomy of Lavater's Essays: False Imprints, '1789' and '1792'", Blake, XXIX (1995), 16-23.

<sup>85</sup> G.E. Bentley, Jr, "The Journeyman and the Genius: James Parker and His Partner William Blake With a List of Parker's Engravings", Studies in Bibliography, XLIX (1996), 208-231.

<sup>86</sup> G.E. Bentley, Jr, "William Blake and the Sophocles Enigma", Blake, XXXI (1997), 65-71.

<sup>87</sup> G.E. Bentley, Jr, "[']What Is the Price of Experience?['] William Blake and the Economics of Illuminated Painting [i.e., Printing]", University of Toronto Quarterly, LXVIII (1999), 617-41, and "Blake's Heavy Metal: The History, Weight, Uses, Cost, and Makers of His Copper Plates", University of Toronto Quarterly, LXXVI (2007), 714-70.

<sup>88</sup> Joseph Viscomi, "William Blake's 'The Phoenix / to Mrs Butts' Redux", Blake, XXIX (1995), 12-15; "Blake in the Marketplace 1852: Thomas Butts, Jr and Other Unknown Nineteenth Century Blake Collectors", Blake, XXIX (1996), 40-68; "A 'Green House' for Butts? New Information on Thomas Butts, His Residences, and Family", Blake, XXI (1996), 4-21.

<sup>89</sup> Joseph Viscomi, "Blake after Blake: A Nation Discovers Genius", in Blake, Nation and Empire, ed. Clark and Worrall (2006).

in Illuminated Printing, the evolution of separate designs into some of Blake's greatest achievements, from The Marriage of Heaven and Hell to The Song of Los and the Large Colour Prints.<sup>90</sup>

For a digital agnostic like myself, the most wonderful "virtual" book on Blake is Digital Designs on Blake, ed. Ron Broglio (2005). Its "MOO Space" and "MOOs in Blake's Milton" are irresistible invitations to frivolity.<sup>91</sup>

Scholars occasionally attempt linguistic ingenuity--one thinks of Nelson Hilton and Sheila Spector--but none has achieved the outrageous success of journalists--yet. My favourite is "O Rose thou art chic",<sup>92</sup> which has the double advantage of being hauntingly familiar and outrageously irrelevant to its origin.

One of the most curious discoveries recorded here is Miss Louisa Lane's poem about "The Last Scene in Blake's Life" published in the Guernsey and Jersey Magazine (1838). This is the only known connection of Blake with the channel islands and the only known drama-fragment about Blake.

BLAKE'S CIRCLE

Mary Lynn Johnson reports details about the school owned by the wife of Blake's patron Thomas Butts, née

---

<sup>90</sup> Joseph Viscomi, "The Evolution of The Marriage of Heaven and Hell", Huntington Library Quarterly, LVIII (1996), 281-344; "Blake's Virtual Designs and Reconstruction of The Song of Los", Romanticism on the Net, No. 41-42 (2006); "Blake's 'Annus Mirabilis': The Productions of 1795", Blake, XLI (2007), 52-83.

<sup>91</sup> It's like Old McDonald's Farm, with "here a MOO, there a MOO, everywhere a MOO-MOO" – a cheap witticism debased to a footnote.

<sup>92</sup> Marni Jackson, "O Rose thou art chic: A William Blake Web site prompts thoughts about the relationship between words and pictures," Globe and Mail [Toronto], 10 Feb 2001, p. D18.

Elizabeth Mary Cowper.

The archive of Blake's patron and nemesis Robert Hartley Cromeek was acquired by Princeton.

There are extensive records here of a newly discovered Cumberland Sketchbook acquired by Victoria University in the University of Toronto, his manuscript geological commonplace book, and numerous previously unrecorded periodical essays by Cumberland. The Sketchbook has very miscellaneous sketches of ruins in Italy (e.g., at Pompeii), buxom Italian maidens, scenery, and dreams, plus prints, and clippings. In particular, there are several very interesting finished watercolours for Paradise Lost. An admirable Cumberland web-site is maintained by David Man, and there is the first publication of his farce The Emigrants, ed. Elizabeth B. Bentley (2013).

Important new details are provided about John Linnell, including writings and drawings, A.S. Mathew (his will), Frederick Tatham (Tathamfamilyhistory, conducted by Robert Collingwood), and Charles Augustus Tulk (his album, with drawings by Blake and Flaxman).

An increasing proportion of Blake's writings are in public collections:

Ownership of Blake's Printed Writings in 2014

| Title                               | Copies in private hands | Copies surviving |
|--|--------------------------------|-------------------------|
| All Religions are One               | 0                              | 1                       |
| America                             | 2 (Q, S)                       | 18                      |
| "Blake's Chaucer: An Original Engraving"   | 0                              | 3                       |
| "Blake's Chaucer: The Canterbury Pilgrims" | 0                              | 2                       |

|   |   |            |
|---|---|------------|
| Book of Ahanian                      | 0   | 1          |
| Book of Los                          | 0   | 1          |
| Book of Thel                         | 2 (P-Q, S,U, V)                             | 21         |
| Descriptive Catalogue                | 3 (Q-S)   | 19         |
| Europe                               | 1 (N)   | 14         |
| "Exhibition of Paintings in Fresco"         | 0   | 2          |
| First Book of Urizen                 | 3 (E, K)  | 8          |
| For Children                         | 1 (C, F)  | 6          |
| For the Sexes                        | 4 (A, H,M-N)                                | 12         |
| The French Revolution                | 0   | 1          |
| Ghost of Abel                        | 0   | 4          |
| Jerusalem                            | 3 (B-C, G)                                      | 9          |
| Laocoon                              | 1 (B)   | 2          |
| Marriage of Heaven and Hell          | 1 (E)   | 9          |
| Milton                               | 0   | 4          |
| On Homer                             | 0   | 6          |
| Poetical Sketches                    | 5 (E, J, M,T, Y)                            | 23         |
| Song of Los                          | 0   | 5          |
| Songs of Innocence                   | 8 (A, H, J,P-Q, T, W,Y)                 | 24         |
| Songs of Innocence and of Experience | 15 (A, G-J,P-Q, V-X,BB-CC, h-i,p-q) | 39         |
| There is No Natural Religion         | 1 (E)   | 12         |
| "To the Public"                             | 1   | 1          |
| Visions of the Daughters of Albion   | 3 (N, Q, S)                                     | 19         |
| Totals                               | 53 (21%)                                 | 261 |

Of the fifty-three more-or-less complete copies of Blake's writings in private hands, only one has moved to a public collection: VICTORIA UNIVERSITY IN THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO. This is Songs of Innocence and of Experience (i), a posthumous copy watermarked with fragments of J WHATMAN | 1831, lacking ten of fifty-four prints. A curious feature of copy i is that one print (pl. 23) is watercoloured (see Illus. 1A), perhaps by Catherine Blake (d. 18 October 1831 [BR (2) 546]) or Frederick Tatham who printed the posthumous copies of Blake's works in Illuminated Printing. The colouring is distinct from the colour-printed copy of the same etching in VICTORIA UNIVERSITY IN THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO. The public appearance of Songs (i) has permitted the correction of minor errors in the account of it in Blake Books.

COPIES UNTRACED

America (S), Book of Thel (S), Descriptive Catalogue (V), Europe (N), First Book of Urizen (K), For Children (F), Poetical Sketches (Q), Songs of Innocence and of Experience (CC, q), "To the Public", Visions (S) are untraced.

Six of these ten untraced copies in Illuminated Printing - America (S), Book of Thel (S), Europe (N), First Book of Urizen (K), For Children (F), and Visions (S) -- have not been recorded since they were sold for the Flaxman family in 1862.

Some or all the untraced copies may have been destroyed.

Division I: William Blake

PART I

ORIGINAL EDITIONS, FACSIMILES,<sup>93</sup> REPRINTS, AND TRANSLATIONS

Section A: Original Editions

TABLE OF COLLECTIONS ADDENDA

|  |  |
|--|--|
| Biblioteca La Solana                                | ILLUMINATED WORK: For Children:The Gates of Paradise , pl. 15 |
| FITZWILLIAM MUSEUM   | LETTER: 4 November 1826; 25November 1827 (to CatherineBlake)      |
| HARVARD  | LETTER: 7 Oct 1803  |
| VICTORIA UNIVERSI-TY IN THE UNIVERSI-TY OF TORONTO | ILLUMINATED WORK: Songs (i)  |
| YALE   | LETTER: autumn 1800?  |

TABLE 5 WATERMARKS ADDENDA

W ELGAR

Enoch designs <Butlin #827 1-2 ( [1824-27]><sup>94</sup>

HAYES | 17

---

<sup>93</sup> I take "Facsimile" to mean "an exact copy" attempting very close reproduction of an original named copy including size of image, colour of printing (and of tinting if relevant), and size, colour, and quality of paper, with no deliberate alteration as in page-order or numbering or obscuring of paper defects, or centring the image on the page.

<sup>94</sup> Not recorded in Butlin's Table of Watermarks (I, 627).

Little Tom the Sailor

Large, decorative "W" within a circle similar to Whatman countermarks before c. 1760

A woman enthroned <Butlin #99> (c. 1775-80)

J WHATMAN | 1831

Songs of Innocence and of Experience (i) 1797

Little Tom the Sailor

fleur de lis<sup>95</sup>

with horizontal chain lines 2.9 cm apart

"Joseph Ordering Simeon to be bound" (1785?) <Butlin
#156>

TABLE 6
COLLECTIONS OF ORIGINALS
OF BLAKE'S WRITINGS
ADDENDA

|                            |  |
|----------------------------|--|
| Anon.               | ILLUMINATED WORKS: "Albion Rose" (E), Europe (c) pl. 1 (see "Order" of the Songs ), Urizen (E), For the Sexes (N), Jerusalem (c), pl. 6, Small Book of Designs (B) ( Thel pl. 7, Urizen pl. 7, 11-12, 17, 19, 23, Marriage pl. 7), Songs (Q), and pl. a, Visions (E, N)LETTER: 18 January 1808 (A) |
| ART INSTITUTE(Chicago) | ILLUMINATED WORK: Urizen pl. 9TYPE-PRINTED WORK: "Blake's Chaucer:The Canterbury Pilgrims" (B)  |
| Bloom, Harold       | ILLUMINATED WORK: For the Sexes pl. 2  |

---

<sup>95</sup> An Island in the Moon (1784?) has a watermark of a fleur de lis above a shield.

- BODLEY MARGINALIA: The Mystical Initiations or, Hymns of Orpheus, tr. Thomas Taylor (1787)
Kay and Roger Eason ILLUMINATED WORK: Songs pl. 23
Robert Essick ILLUMINATED WORKS: Book of Los pl. 5, Europe (c) pl. 1<sup>b</sup> (see “Order” of the Songs), 11<sup>c</sup>, 17<sup>c</sup>, and pl. 13-14, Jerusalem pl. 28, Marriage (L), Milton pl. 38, Small Book of Designs (B) – Urizen pl. 22, Marriage pl. 20; Innocence (Y) pl. 4-5, 9-10, 13-14, 18, No Natural Religion (G<sup>1</sup>) pl. a4, a6, b3
TYPE-PRINTED WORK: Descriptive Catalogue (U), Poetical Sketches (Y)
LETTERS: 1 September 1800, 7 August 1804
Fuss, Adam ILLUMINATED WORKS: Innocence (Y) pl. 11
HUNTINGTON RECEIPT: 9 September 1806
LIBRARY
Kain, Connie, David and Richard DRAWING: “Tiriel Led by Hela” KUNSTHALLE, ILLUMINATED WORK: America pl. 1
Hamburg
Larkhall Fine Art ILLUMINATED WORK: For Children pl. 15
Roger Lipman ILLUMINATED WORK: Songs pl. 30
MORAVIAN LETTERS: Catherine Armitage (later the poet’s mother) to the “Bretheren & Sisters”
CHURCH ?November 1750, and of Thomas Armitage (Catherine’s first husband) to the same, 14
ARCHIVES of November 1750
the Fetter
Lane Congregation,
(London)

- MORGAN (J. PIERPONT) LIBRARY LETTER: 12 March 1804
- NATIONAL LIBRARY OF SCOTLAND LETTER: 25? November 1826<sup>96</sup>
- NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY ILLUMINATED WORKS: Innocence (Y) pl. 6-7
- Parker, Alan* ILLUMINATED WORK: Innocence (Y<sup>1</sup>) pl. 12, 16-17
- TYPE-PRINTED WORK: Poetical Sketches (E)
- DRAWINGS: Larger Blake-Varley Sketchbook; Watercolours for Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress and Blair's Grave (2)
- PHILADELPHIA MUSEUM OF ART ILLUMINATED WORK: Songs (o) pl. 28, 52
- Rendel, Kenneth* RECEIPT: 5 July 1805
- Schiller, Justin* ILLUMINATED WORK: Songs pl. a
- Sendak, Maurice* ILLUMINATED WORKS: Urizen pl. 3, Innocence (J), Songs (H)
- VICTORIA UNIVERSITY IN THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO ILLUMINATED WORKS: Marriage (M), Innocence (Y) pl. 8, Songs (o) pl. 18, 24, 38-39, 53, electrotypes, and pl. 22-23, 28, 30, 40, 44-46, 48<sup>a-b</sup>
- MANUSCRIPT: The "Riddle Manuscript"
- WESTMINSTER LETTER: letter of James Blake (the poet's

---

<sup>96</sup> Virginia Murray, Archivist, John Murray Archive, tells me that there is no other Blake material in the Murray Archive which went to the National Library of Scotland.

(CITY OF)
ARCHIVES
CENTRE
Wormsley Foundation

brother), 1 April 1785

ILLUMINATED WORK: Songs (P)

Yale UNIVERSITY LETTER: Autumn? 1800

YALE CENTER ILLUMINATED WORKS: America (M), Thel
FOR BRITISH (B), Europe (A) and pl. 1, For the Sexes (G),
ART Jerusalem (E) and pl. 28, 35, and No Natural Religion (B)

DRAWINGS: Gray, Poems (with inscriptions and watercolours), Tiriel Drawing 1

Untraced ILLUMINATED WORKS: 4 Europe prints; Urizen pl. 9; For Children pl. 18, Innocence (Y) pl. 15, Songs pl. 32

TYPE-PRINTED WORK: Poetical Sketches (Q)

DRAWING: Tiriel Drawing 10

LETTERS: 22? August 1799 (from John Trusler), 17 April, August?, 12 September, 26 November 1800, January, November (from James Blake), 22 November 1802, January (from James Blake), late April (from James Blake), late April (from Thomas Butts), 16 August, December (from William Hayley) 1803, January, March, March (from Prince Hoare), March, 2 April, late May (from William Hayley), 21? October (from William Hayley), late Oct? (from William Hayley) 1804, 1804? (from Joseph Johnson), June 1805 (from Thomas Phillips), May 1807 (from Cromek), June 1818 (from Dawson Turner), 16 January (from John Linnell), 5 March

(from George Cumberland) 1827, 1829
(Catherine Blake to James Ferguson); 4 letters to Ozias Humphry

TYPE-PRINTED WORK: Descriptive Catalogue
(V)

TABLE 7
PRIVATE OWNERS AND PUBLIC INSTITUTIONS
WHICH HAVE DISPOSED OF ORIGINAL BLAKES
ADDENDA

|   |   |
|---|---|
| American Blake Foundation               | ILLUMINATED WORK: No Natural Religion (G <sup>1</sup> ) pl. 4, a6, b3   |
| Anonymous                        | ILLUMINATED WORK: Songs (P)   |
| Baskin, Leonard                  | ILLUMINATED WORK: Europe (c) pl. 1 <sup>b</sup>(see "Order" of the Songs )                             |
| Bentley, A.E.K.L.B. and G.E., Jr | ILLUMINATED WORKS: Marriage (M),Songs (o) pl. 18, 24, 38MANUSCRIPT: The "Riddle" manuscript |
| Joan Linnell Ivimy               | LETTER 4 November 1826; 25 Nov 1827  |
| Mrs Burton                       | to Blake)   |
| Lord Cunliffe                    | ILLUMINATED WORK: Songs (i)   |
| Dennis, Mrs Seth                 | ILLUMINATED WORK: Songs (Q)   |
| Hyde, Mary                       | LETTER: 7 October 1803   |
| Kain, Mrs Louise Y.              | DRAWING: "Tiriel Led by Hela"  |
| Roger Lipman                     | ILLUMINATED WORK: Songs pl. 30  |
| Lister, Raymond                  | ILLUMINATED WORK: America pl. 1   |
| Malone, Mary E.                  | LETTER: 12 March 1804  |
| Mellon, Paul                     | ILLUMINATED WORKS: America (M),Thel (B), Europe (A) and pl. 1, For the                   |

- Sexes* (G), Jerusalem (E) and pl. 28, 35,
No Natural Religion (B)
DRAWINGS: Gray, Poems (with inscriptions and watercolours), Tiriel
Drawing 1
Neuerburg family ILLUMINATED WORK: Innocence (Y) pl.
4-6, 8-16, 18 – pl. 7 is apparently still in the family
Ryskamp, Charles LETTER: 12 March 1804
WALLRAF-RICHARTZ MUSEUM (Cologne) ILLUMINATED WORK: Innocence (Y), thought to be “on permanent deposit” in the Wallraf-Richartz-Museum, was partly sold—see Neuerburg family above<sup>97</sup>
Whitney Family ILLUMINATED WORK: Visions (E)

TABLE 8
TITLES AND COPIES
ADDENDA

Letters of 22? August 1799 (from John Trusler), Aug?, 12
September 1800, November (from James Blake) 1800,
January, 22 November 1802, January (from James Blake), late April (from James Blake), late April (from Thomas Butts), 16 August, December (from William Hayley)
1803, January, March, March (from Prince Hoare),
March, 2 April, late May (from William Hayley), 21?
October (from William Hayley), late October (from William Hayley) 1804, 1804? (from Joseph Johnson), June (from Thomas Phillips) 1805, May 1807, June (from Dawson Turner) 1818, 16 January (from John Linnell), 5

---

<sup>97</sup> I have received no reply to my letter of enquiry to the Wallraf-Richartz-Museum.

March (from George Cumberland) 1827, 4 untraced
letters to Ozias Humphry
Songs of Innocence and of Experience contemporary facsimile (Gamma)
Sophocles Manuscript (probably not by the poet)<sup>98</sup>
Spectacles

New Copies and Prints

“Albion Rose” (E)
“Blake’s Chaucer: The Canterbury Pilgrims” (B)
Descriptive Catalogue (U, V)
Europe pl. 13-14 plus 4 unidentified prints
First Book of Urizen (E, newly traced)
For Children pl. 18
For the Sexes pl. 2

Blake’s Copperplates

By the end of his life, Blake had accumulated perhaps 113 kilograms of copperplates, most of it for works in Illuminated Printing.<sup>99</sup> At his death “a great number of Copper Plates” passed to his widow Catherine, according to her protector and Blake’s disciple Frederick Tatham,<sup>100</sup> and on her death in 1831 they passed, under uncertain authority, to Tatham, who printed copies of America, Europe, Jerusalem, and Songs of Innocence

---

<sup>98</sup> See Michael Phillips, “William Blake and the Sophocles Manuscript Notebook”, Blake, XXXI (1997), 44-49 (the handwriting is that of the poet), and G.E. Bentley, Jr, “William Blake and the Sophocles Enigma”, Blake, XXXI (1997), 65-67 (the handwriting is not the poet’s).

<sup>99</sup> G.E. Bentley, Jr, “Blake’s Heavy Metal: The History, Weight, Uses, Cost, and Makers of His Copper Plates”, University of Toronto Quarterly, LXXVI (2007), 714-70.

<sup>100</sup> BR (2) 688.

and of Experience on paper watermarked 1831 and 1832.<sup>101</sup> Later “all save these ten [copperplates]<sup>102</sup> were stolen by an ungrateful black he had befriended, who sold them to a smith as old metal.”<sup>103</sup> Electrotypes were made of the surviving Songs plates for printing in Gilchrist’s Life of William Blake, “Pictor Ignotus” (1863), and then the original copperplates too disappeared. Today the only surviving copperplate for Blake’s works in Illuminated Printing is a fragment from America pl. a, a rejected draft for pl. 5, which survives only because it was cut up and used for practice engraving under Blake’s tutelage by his student and patron Thomas Butts, who preserved it accidentally in a secret drawer in an engraving desk.

Calculations of the weight and cost of the copperplates used in Blake’s writings indicate a total weight of 141 pounds and cost of £50.5.1<sup>3</sup>/<sub>4</sub>.

Copperplate-makers' Marks

The manufacturers of copperplates of the kind used for engravings customarily or at least frequently stamped the back of the sheet of metal with their name and address, not unlike a watermark. The position of the mark is variable, and often it is incomplete because applied at an angle and not flush with the metal. Since such a mark defaced the copper, it prevented the use of that side for most engraving purposes. However, since copper was (and is) very expensive, Blake sometimes used the backs of copperplates for engraving his works in Illuminated

---

<sup>101</sup> BB 73.

<sup>102</sup> The ten copperplates consist of Songs pl. 3, (6, 43), 8, 16, 18, 24, (27, 33), 29, (34, 47), (36, 46), (48, 53) (those within parentheses are back-to-back). Pl. 29, Experience titlepage, is in fact a facsimile by William Muir, so only nine of Blake’s original copperplates were preserved in the electrotypes.

<sup>103</sup> Alexander Gilchrist, Life of William Blake, “Pictor Ignotus” (London: Macmillan, 1863), I, 127; see also II, 267.

Printing.<sup>104</sup> Indeed, it is likely that he did so a good deal more frequently than surviving evidence indicates, for when a large copperplate sheet was cut into, say, four pieces, the maker's-mark would ordinarily be visible on only one of them<sup>105</sup> (just as a watermark will appear on only half or fewer of the leaves cut from a sheet of watermarked paper), and, even when the copperplate-maker's-mark did survive on the print, Blake ordinarily took pains to conceal it by printing very lightly, by wiping ink from the area, and especially by colouring the area after printing. Note that the copperplate-makers'-marks listed below are reported chiefly from posthumous copies (America [N], Europe [I], Jerusalem [H-J], Songs [a-c, e, g, i, k]) which were printed more heavily and carelessly than Blake's own copies, and generally were not coloured. When the copperplate-maker's-mark is visible on a print, of course it is in mirror-writing, and ordinarily it is very difficult or impossible to decipher.

TABLE 9
COPPERPLATE-MAKERS' MARKS<sup>106</sup>
Cumulative

---

<sup>104</sup> No copperplate-maker's-mark has been reported for any of his commercial engravings, but the versos of copperplates from Innocence (1789) were apparently used in Experience (1794), from Marriage (1790) plus "The Approach of Doom" (?1788) in Urizen (1794), from America (1793) in Europe (1794), from Ahania (1795) in Ahania, from Milton (1804[-11]) in Milton, and from Jerusalem (1804[-20]) in Jerusalem.

<sup>105</sup> For instance, the surviving copperplates of Job pl. 14, 16 are on the versos of pl.II-III of Henri Louis Duhamel du Monceau, A Practical Treatise of Husbandry [tr. John Mills] (1762), but they exhibit no copperplate-maker's mark.

<sup>106</sup> Copper-plate maker's marks were previously recorded in BB 86 n4, 145, 235-236, 381 n4, 518-19, 532, 545, and BBS 195 n10.

G. HARRIS

N° 31

SHOE LANE

LONDON

Job copperplate (1826) verso of pl. 1

JONES No 4[7?]

SHOE LANE LONDON<sup>107</sup>

First Book of Urizen (1794) (E)

Gough, Sepulchral Monuments (1796) pl. 5-8 (copperplate versos [N°. 48])

Songs (1794) pl. 1 (copy c), 28 (a, c, g, i, Victoria pull), 29 (b-c, e, k, Harvard pull), 32 (b-c), 33 (a), 37 (b-c, Harvard pull), 46
(a, electrotpe), 47 (a, electrotpe), and 49 (c).

JONES AND

PONTIFEX N° 47

SHOE LANE LONDON

Europe (1794) (I) pl. 1-2, 4-18

Urizen (1794) (E)

R PONTIFEX & C<sup>o</sup>

22 LISLE STREET

SOHO, LONDON

Job copperplates (1826) versos of pl. 2-13, 15, 17-21

Dante copperplates (1827) versos of pl. 1-7

WILL<sup>m</sup> & BUSS

PONTIFEX & COMP<sup>ny</sup>

N<sup>os</sup> 46 47 & 48

SHOE LANE, LONDON

---

<sup>107</sup> The plates in Bodley which Blake is thought to have engraved as an apprentice for Gough's Sepulchral Monuments (1786) pl. 5-8 bear on the versos the mark of "JONES No 48 | SHOE LANE LONDON".

"Christ Trampling Satan" (Blake-Butts) (copperplate verso)

WHITTOW & HARRIS

No 31 SHOE LANE

LONDON<sup>108</sup>

Jerusalem (1804[-20]) pl. 33 (J), 56 (D, F, J), 63 (J), 72 (C, I-J), 92? (H, J), 100 (H, J)

OW & SON

[SH]OE LANE

LONDON

Jerusalem (1804[-20]) pl. 71

Copperplate-Maker's Mark too obscure to read

America (1793) (N, Q) pl. 6

First Book of Urizen (1794) (A) pl. 2, 19, 28

Jerusalem (1804[-20]) pl. 5 (A), 29, 52, 56, 57 (H), 62-4, 92, 93 might be either of the WHITTOW stamps

Milton pl. 26

Plate-Sizes

Joseph Viscomi points out that Blake's colour-print of "God Judging Adam" (43.2 x 53.5 cm), almost certainly printed from copper, is practically identical in size to his colour-prints of "Satan Exulting Over Eve" (43.2 x 53.4 cm) and "Elohim Creating Adam" (43.1 x 53.6 cm), suggesting "that one of these designs is on its recto and the other on a copper sheet acquired at the same time",<sup>109</sup> though previously it been assumed that the supports were millboard.

---

<sup>108</sup> The same mark appears on all the copperplates etched by Schiavonetti with Blake's designs for Blair's Grave (1808) (Rosenwald Collection).

<sup>109</sup> Joseph Viscomi, "Blake's Annus Mirabilis", Blake, XL (2007), 63.

TABLE 10
COPPERPLATE-SIZES
ADDENDA

|   |  |
|---|--|
| “God Judging Adam” (1795),colour-print        | 43.2 x 53.5 cm   |
| “Satan Exulting Over Eve”(1795), colour-print | 43.2 x 53.4 cm   |
| “Elohim Creating Adam”(1795), colour-print    | 43.1 x 53.6 cm   |
| Small “Pity” (1795), colour-print             | 19.75 cm high at left, 19.5 cmhigh at right,27.2 cm wide at top, 27.4 cmwide at bottom |

Calculating the Cost and Weight of Copper

The large plates of America pl. a and Job (16.1 to 17.1 cm wide by 20.0 to 22.8 cm) are about the same thickness (0.141 and 0.145 cm), while the much larger plates of Dante (27.5 to 28.0 cm wide by 34.5 to 35.4 high) are 30% thicker (0.183 cm), the greater thickness being needed to sustain the rigidity of the plate.

I assume therefore that plates smaller than 17.4 x 24.6 (including all Blake’s works in Illuminated Printing) are 0.141 cm thick, as America pl. a is, and the larger plates are 0.183 cm thick.

The three plates for Flaxman’s Naval Pillar (1799) weighed 0.944 kilograms and cost 12s 8d or 6.2 grams for a penny. The 37 large plates for Flaxman’s Hesiod (1817) weighed 42.471 kilograms and cost £13.13.0 or 13 grams for a penny. Assuming that these are representative prices, a penny bought 6.2 grams of copper before 1814 and 13 grams after 1814.

Weight and Cost of Copperplates<sup>110</sup>

The weights of the copperplates calculated below are derived from the surface dimensions of the prints (recorded in BB 67-70), the presumed thickness of the plates (based on the fragment of America pl. a, the only surviving copperplate for illuminated printing, 0.141 cm thick), and the weight of copper (8.93 grams for each cubic centimetre).

By these calculations, the 261 copperplates of Blake's writings weighed 63.1766 kilograms = 139 pounds.

The known cost of the copper (£5.15.10) for Blake's plates 13, 15-18, 22, 24, 28-35, 37 for Flaxman's Hesiod (BB 557-58) with a surface area of 10,276 cm<sup>2</sup> gives an average copperplate price of 0.135d/cm<sup>2</sup>.

TABLE 11
WEIGHT AND COST OF COPPERPLATES
FOR BLAKE'S WRITINGS

| Title                             | Number ofNew Plates | Weight inGrams | Cost |
|--|---------------------------------|----------------------------|-------------|
| "The Accusers"; see "OurEnd is Come" |                                 |                            |             |
| "Albion Rose"                            | 1                               | 688.3                      | £ 9.3       |
| All Religions are One             | 10                              | 241.2                      | £ 3.3       |

---

<sup>110</sup> See "Blake's Heavy Metal: The History, Weight, Uses, Cost, and Makers of his Copperplates", University of Toronto Quarterly, LXXVI (2007), 714-70.

William Blake and His Circle
Part I: Editions of Original titles

141

|   |            |                 |                 |
|---|------------|-----------------|-----------------|
| America                              | 23         | 10,196.6        | £ 6.17          |
| “The Approach of Doom”                      | 1          | 1,014           | £ 13.7½         |
| Book of Ahania                       | 5          | 844.2           | £ 11.4          |
| Book of Los                          | 0          |                 |                 |
| Book of Thel                         | 8          | 1,496.1         | £ 1.0.1¼        |
| Europe                               |            | 162.0           | £ 2.2           |
| First Book of Urizen                 | 5          | 1,001.4         | £ 13.5½         |
| For Children: The Gates of Paradise  | 18         | 1,065.1         | £ 14.3½         |
| For the Sexes: The Gates of Paradise | 3          | 254.3           | £ 3.5           |
| Ghost of Abel                        | 1          | 269.8           | £ 3.6           |
| Jerusalem                            | 52         | 22,474.9        | £15. 2.1        |
| “Joseph of Arimathea”                       | 1          | 102.4           | £ 1.4¼          |
| “Laocoon”                                   | 1          | 729.3           | £ 10.7¾         |
| Marriage of Heaven and Hell          | 23         | 5,443.6         | £ 2. 1.3        |
| Milton                               | 30         | 6,380.9         | £ 4.5.9¼        |
| “Mirth”                                     | 1          | 304.0           | £ 4.1           |
| On Homer                             | 1          | 173.5           | £ 2.4           |
| “Our End is come” or“The Accusers”      | 1          | 332.1           | £ 4.5½          |
| Song of Los                          | 8          | 3,583.6         | £ 2. 8.2        |
| Songs of Experience                  | 2          | 153.0           | £ 2.0¾          |
| Songs of Innocence                   | 31         | 3,016.7         | £ 2.0.6½        |
| There is No Natural Religion         | 19         | 537.3           | £ 7.2¾          |
| To the Public                               | 2          |                 | £ 15.0          |
| Visions of the Daughters of Albion   | 11         | 2,708.9         | £ 1.16.5        |
| TOTALS                               | 261 | 63,176.6 | £53.4.7¼ |

The measurements suggest that the versos of most plates of Milton are etched with other Milton plates.

Watermarks in Paper Used by Blake

This table provides only very crude evidence. Paper watermarked W ELGAR | 1796 is of course different from paper watermarked 1794 | J WHATMAN. However, some paper watermarked 1794 | J WHATMAN may be quite distinct from other paper watermarked 1794 | J WHATMAN, for “there are some forty different papers, several of which were used by Blake, watermarked 1794 / J WHATMAN”,<sup>111</sup> differing in size, paper-materials, thickness, &c.<sup>112</sup>

Blake wrote, drew, and printed on many sizes, kinds and shades of paper and on canvas, card, cardboard, copper, ivory, linen, mahogany, muslin, and pine. Of these, only paper is very precisely identifiable because of the watermarks almost always placed in fine paper, though the watermark may not show when the paper is less than a whole sheet.

All Blake's manuscripts and his works in Illuminated Printing were created entirely by Blake, with the assistance of his wife, and we can confidently assume that copies which are not demonstrably posthumous are on paper chosen by Blake or his wife. Most of his Separate Prints were also almost certainly on paper chosen by Blake, as of course were his drawings and paintings.

---

<sup>111</sup> Peter Bower, “The Vivid Surface: Blake’s Use of Paper and Board”, p. 55 in William Blake: The Painter at Work, ed. Joyce H. Townsend (2003).

<sup>112</sup> For information on the makers and mills of paper used by Blake, see the table of “Blake’s Papermakers: Watermarks found in Papers used by William Blake (1757-1827)” (pp. 72-73) in Peter Bower, “The Evolution and Development of ‘Drawing Papers’ and the Effect of their Development on Watercolour Artists, 1750-1850”, pp. 61-74 of The Oxford Papers: Proceedings of the British Association of Paper Historians Fourth Annual Conference, Held at St. Edmund Hall, Oxford, 17-19 September 1993, ed. Peter Bower (Oxford and N.Y.: British Association of Paper Historians, 1996) Studies in British Paper History Vol. I.

Blake's commercial book engravings are not included in this Table because he rarely did the printing, and, even when he did, as with Hayley's Cowper (wove paper without watermark) and his own Job (J WHATMAN | 1825 and J WHATMAN | TURKEY MILL | 1825), the publisher would have chosen the paper. However, Hayley's Little Tom the Sailor (1800) was printed by Blake presumably with paper he chose, and probably Blake pulled working proofs of most of them at his own press. Hayley's Designs to a Series of Ballads (1802) is an exception, for not only did Blake print the plates on paper watermarked "1802" which he had ordered<sup>113</sup> but he also used the remainder for scrap paper--see BB 574-75 and BBS 221-22.

In Table 12, Blake's writings in manuscript and in print derive from Blake Books (1977), Blake Books Supplement (1995), and the supplements thereto in "William Blake and His Circle" from Blake (1994 ff.). An asterisk indicates that more than one kind of watermark has been found in that copy.

Records of Blake's separate prints of "Canterbury Pilgrims", "Christ Trampling Satan" (Blake-Butts), George Cumberland's card, "Earl Spencer", "Falsa ad Coelum", "Joseph of Arimathea Preaching", "Lavater", "Lear and Cordelia" (Blake-Butts), "Wilson Lowry", "The Man Sweeping", Moore & Co advertisement, and "Mrs Q" are taken from Robert N. Essick, The Separate Plates of William Blake (1983). The dates

---

<sup>113</sup> Hayley wrote on 6 July 1802 that Blake "deal[s] with his own stationer in London, & [has him] send it down as He thought proper".

attached to these separate prints are for the specific state on that paper; however, a few prints, such as "Canterbury Pilgrims", Cumberland's card, and "Christ Trampling Satan", were pulled long after Blake's death. Paper with watermarks dated after Blake's death such as J WHATMAN | 1828, 1831, and 1832, were clearly not chosen by Blake.

Blake's drawings and paintings are recorded ("Butlin #") from Martin Butlin, The Paintings and Drawings of William Blake (1981); the table of watermarks on p. 627 in Butlin was correlated with the entries themselves for the dates. N.B. Most of the entries in Butlin imply but do not say that they are on paper, and very few of those so identified record anything about a watermark.

Works in Blake Books (&c) which are also recorded in Butlin and Essick are taken from Blake Books.

TABLE 12 WATERMARKS IN WORKS BY BLAKE<sup>114</sup>

A

Cumberland card* (1827)

AP | 1807

"Blake's Chaucer: The Canterbury Pilgrims", Descriptive Catalogue

C BALL

Marriage (L)

R BARNARD | 1827

Letters (1, 4 August 1829)

---

<sup>114</sup> Incorporating BB (1977), 71-73, BBS (1995), 40, and Butlin, 627.

BASTED MILL 1820<sup>115</sup>

Butlin #714 (1820)

A B[LACKWELL?]

Letter (7 October 1803)

A BLACKWELL | 1798

Letters (10 January 1802; 25 April, 6 July, 13 December 1803;
14, 27 January 1804)

C BRENCHLEY | 1804

Butlin #725, 731, 738, 741 (1820)

W BRIDGES 1794

Butlin #503 (1800-3)

Britannia design | 17[ ]

Cumberland card* (1827)

Britannia design in a circle beneath a crown

Cumberland card* (1827)<sup>116</sup>

BUTTANSHAW

Innocence (Y), Songs (3 pl.); "Lear and Cordelia" (1806-1808);

Butlin #531 (1806)

BUTTANSHAW 1799

Butlin #358 (1802)

BUTTANSHAW | 18[ ]

Letter (19 October 1801)

BUTTANSHAW | 1802

Innocence (?O), Songs (P, *Q)

Crown design

---

<sup>115</sup> BASTED MILL is the watermark used by John Pine and William Thomas at their Basted Mill, Hertfordshire.

<sup>116</sup> The Sophocles MS is on paper with a watermark of Britannia and a crown and a countermark of GR, but I do not think the Sophocles MS has anything to do with the poet William Blake.

"Falsa ad Coelum" (1790); "Christ Trampling Satan"* (1806-1808)

CURTEIS & SON

Letter (18 October 1791)

W D[ICKI]E<sup>117</sup> | 1803

Letters (4 December 1804; 25 March 1805)

W DI[CKI]E & CO | 1804

Letter (4 December 1804)

E & P

Innocence (*E-F, I-J, M), Marriage (A, F), Visions (J-K, M), America (C-E, G-K, *R), Europe (H), Songs (C-D, F, 2 pl.), Vala?, "Man Sweeping" (1822)

E & P | 1802

Innocence (*P), Jerusalem pl. 28 (Morgan)

EDMEADS & [PINE]

Innocence (*Q), Jerusalem (pl. 9 [Library of Congress]), Blair watercolours No. 3, 5, 6(?), 7, 11

EDMEADS & PINE 1802

Innocence (*Q), Jerusalem (pl. 28, 45, 56 added to copy F), Self-portrait (?1802) (Essick Collection)

W E[LGAR] + fleur de lys

Butlin #812 passim (1824-7)

W ELGAR 1796

Butlin #812 passim (1824-27)

F in a circle

Butlin #214 (1793-4)

---

<sup>117</sup> The watermark, misread, or rather misreported, in BB 71, 272 as 'W DA[CI]E', was commissioned by William Dickie, Bookbinder, Paper Maker, and Stationer of the Strand; he did not have his own mill.

FAO

"Christ Trampling Satan"* (1806-1808)

GATER 1805

Butlin #621 (1805), 771 (1820)

GR and coat of arms

Island, Tiriel; Butlin #12, 15, 17, 25-28, 30, 34, 37-38, 40-42, 45-46 (1774-7)

GR and PRO PATRIA

Butlin #R8 (n.d.)

J GREEN | 1819

Butlin #709, 736, 763 (1820)

[ J EEN | ]9

Butlin #792 (1820)

FRANCE

"Canterbury Pilgrims" (1820 ff.)

JH in monogram

Butlin #693 (1818), 699 (1820)

F HAYES | 1798

Letters (11 September 1801; 22 November 1802; 16 August 1803)

[HAYES] & WISE

Butlin #619 (1805)

HAYES & WISE | 1799

America (M)

F J Head & Co

"Christ Trampling Satan"* (1806-1808)

N HENDON[?]

"Exhibition of Paintings"

IVY MILL | 1806

Letters (18 January 1808 [A-C])

JUBB and PRO PATRIA

[not, as stated, in Butlin #120]

M & J LAY 1816

Butlin #543 1-2, 6, 9, 12, 544 1, 6, 11, 704, 712, 715, 768
(1816-20); Butlin #830, 832 (1824-27)

[LE]PARD

*Vala**

MA[FRIN]S

For Children (A)

MD or ND

Cumberland card* (1827)

[ ]ORA[ ]

"Mrs Q" (1820)

HP

Butlin #120 (1780-85)

PRO PATRIA

Butlin #R1 (1777-78); Butlin #85-86 (1785-90)

PRO PATRIA with Britannia and a lion rampant

"Resurrection of the Dead" (Butlin #79 [1802])<sup>118</sup>

J RUSE | 1800

"Lavater" (1801)

[ ]R (perhaps I TAYLOR)

*Vala**

R & T

*Europe (*I)*

RUSE AND TURNERS

Butlin #757 (1820)

---

<sup>118</sup> Pencil sketch, watermark and drawing reproduced in John Windle Catalogue 46 (2009), p. 2.

RUSE& TURNERS | 1810

Letters (31 January, 16 July 1826; 12 April 1827)

RUSE& TURNERS | 1812

America (N), Europe (*I)

RUSE& TURNERS | 1815

Thel (N-O), Marriage (G), Visions (N-P), Songs (T, U), Urizen (G), Milton (D)

S| |

No Natural Religion (F)

SMITH & ALLNUTT | 1815

Letter (14 July 1826); Butlin #703, 713, 730, 728 (1820)

T STAINS

America (*Q), Europe (*L)

T STAINS | 1813

America (*Q), Europe (*L); "Paolo & Francesca" (Butlin #816)

[ |TH

Letter (6 December 1795)

T above an arch

"Wilson Lowry" (1825)

I TAYLOR

No Natural Religion (B, L<sup>1</sup>), All Religions Are One (*A), Thel (F), Marriage (*D), America (*R), Songs (A, *C, R), Europe (B, *C, D-G, c), Urizen (A, *B, J); Butlin #229, 337 141[?] (1793); Butlin #614 (1806)

1794 | I TAYLOR

All Religions Are One (*A), Marriage (*D), Urizen (B)

W TURNER & SON

Butlin #708, 711 (1820)

IHS IxVILLEDARY

Butlin #636 (1805)

JW

Letter of 7 August 1804<sup>119</sup>

W [Whatman countermark]

Sketch of a Woman Enthroned (Butlin #142), Essick Collection<sup>120</sup>)

W 1815

Butlin #700 (1820)

J WHATMAN

Thel (a), Innocence (C, *E, G, U, W), Marriage (C), Visions (G-E, H), America (*R), Songs (*C, E, H, o, pl. 44 [Library of Congress]), Urizen (*D, E, pl. 21); Moore & Coadvertisment(1797-98); "Christ Trampling Satan"* (1806-1808); "Man Sweeping" (1822); Butlin #2, 13-14, 16, 18-20, 22-24, 29, 31-33, 35-36, 39, 44, 47 (1774-77); Butlin #167-68 (1785); Butlin #140 (1780-90); Butlin #820 (1785-97, 1824-27); Butlin #56, 58 (1793); Butlin #315 (1795); Butlin #826 (1800-10, 1824-27); Butlin #77 (1805-10); Butlin #582 (1807); Butlin #654 (1809-10); Butlin #679 (1815); Butlin #698, 788 (1820); Butlin #175, R11 (n.d.); Blair watercolour backing mats No. 16, 18 (No. 18 in smaller letters)

J WHATMAN | 1[ ]

Innocence (*P), Songs (e, pl. 45, 46, 48 [Victoria University])

1794 J WHATMAN<sup>121</sup>

---

<sup>119</sup> See the note to the letter below.

<sup>120</sup> R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2011", Blake, XLV, 4 (Spring 2012), 113.

<sup>121</sup> According to Peter Bower, "The Vivid Surface: Blake's Use of Paper and

Visions (F-G, R), America (A-B, *R, pl. d), Europe (A, *C), Urizen (B, *D, J, pl. 17 [British Museum Print Room]),
*Vala**, "Albion Rose" (D); "Lavater" (1801); Butlin #316
(1795); Butlin #330 passim [Young] (1795-97); Butlin #335 1-
116 [Gray] (1797-98)

J WH[ATMAN] 18[ ]

Butlin #802 1 (1825)

J WHATMAN | 1800<sup>122</sup>

Blair watercolour No. 11 (backing mat)

J WHATMAN | 1801

Milton (B)

J WHATMAN | 1804

Innocence (*Q, ?T), Songs (*Q); "Newton"

J WHATMAN | 1808

Innocence (S), Songs (*R, S), Milton (A-B, *C<sup>123</sup>)

J WHATMAN | 1811

*Flaxman, Hesiod (1817) proofs

J WHATMAN 1813

*Flaxman, Hesiod (1817) proofs; Butlin # 678A (1815)

J WHATMAN | 1815

---

Board", p. 55, in William Blake: The Painter at Work, ed. Joyce H. Townsend (2003), "there are some forty different papers, several of which were used by Blake, watermarked 1794 / J WHATMAN" (p. 55), though in records of Blake's watermarks these forty different watermarks are not distinguished from one another (e.g., BB 71-73).

<sup>122</sup> J WHATMAN | 1800 has not been recorded in another work by Blake.

<sup>123</sup> Viscomi, 328, argues plausibly that the size and position of the fragmentary watermarks ("J W", "T", "TMAN", and "8") and the comparative thinness of the paper in pl. c and e in Copy C are unlike the 'J WHATMAN | 1808' paper of pl. 4, 7, 26, 41 and "exactly like" the "J WHATMAN | 1818" paper of Jerusalem (F) and Songs (V).

Marriage (I); *Flaxman, Hesiod (1817) proofs

J WHATMAN | 1816

*Flaxman, Hesiod (1817) proofs

J WHATMAN | 1818

America (O), Songs (V, *W), Europe (*K), For the Sexes (B), Jerusalem (*A, B, *C, pl. 58 [Library of Congress], Milton (*C)

J WHATMAN | 1819

Europe (*K), Jerusalem (*A, *C)

J WHATMAN | 1820

America (*O), Europe (*K), Jerusalem (*A, *C, D-E), Ghost of Abel (D); Butlin #552 (1821); Butlin #825 (1824-27)

J WHATMAN | 1821

Ghost of Abel (A), Illuminated Genesis MS; "Man Sweeping" (1822)

J WHATMAN TURKEY MILL 1821

Butlin #828 1 (1826-27)

J WHATMAN | 1824

Jerusalem (*F); Butlin #802A (1825), 819 (1824-27)

J WHATMAN | 1825<sup>124</sup>

"Joseph of Arimathea Among" (E), Songs (*W, X-AA), For the Sexes (C-D); Butlin #688 (1825)

J WHATMAN | 1826

For the Sexes (F, H-*J), "Laocoon" (B), Jerusalem (*F), Illuminated Genesis MS; Butlin #828 2, 7 (1826-27)

---

<sup>124</sup> J WHATMAN |TURKEY MILL | 1825 is on Blake's Job(1826), but he probably did not choose the paper.

J WHATMAN 1828

"Joseph of Arimathea Among" (E); Butlin #546 (on mount) (1820-25)

J WHATMAN | 183[ ]

Songs (n)

J WHATMAN | 1831

America pl. 14-16; Songs (*a, b-d, ?e, f-i, *j, k, m, *o, p, pl. 22, 48 [Tate]), Jerusalem (*H, *I, J, 1 pl.)

J WHATMAN | 1832

America (P), Europe (b, ?M), Songs (*a, h, p), Jerusalem (*H, *I, pl. 51 [untraced])

J W[HATMAN] | TURKE[Y MILL] | 18[ ]

Songs (pl. 29 [Harvard])

H WILLMOTT | 1810

"Blake's Chaucer: An Original Engraving"

179[ ]

Letter (16 September 1800)

1794

Thel (*F), Urizen (pl. 22 [Essick]), "Accusers" (G), "Joseph of Arimathea Preaching" (1793-96); Butlin #656 (1809)

[17]96

Letter (16 September 1800); George Cumberland's card*
(1827)

1797

Tasso MS

1798

List of Apostles

[ ] 18[ ]

Butlin #535 (1807)

|   |                |
|---|----------------|
|   | 180[2?] |
| Letter (14 October 1807)  |                |
|   | 1802    |
| Hayley, Designs to a Series of Ballads (1802); Butlin #683 (1805); Butlin #781 (1825) <sup>125</sup> |                |
|   | 1806    |
| Butlin #692 (Smaller Blake-Varley Sketchbook) passim (1819)   |                |
|   | 1808    |
| "Canterbury Pilgrims" (1810 ff.)  |                |
|   | 1810    |
| Butlin #748 (1820)  |                |
|   | [18]11  |
| No Natural Religion (H-J)  |                |
|   | 1811    |
| "Earl Spencer" (1813)   |                |
|   | 1815    |
| Butlin #916 (1824-27); Butlin #801 (1825)   |                |
|   | 1818    |
| "Everlasting Gospel" MS; letter (March 1825)  |                |
|   | 1821    |
| On Homer (C)   |                |
|   | 1832    |
| Songs (*b, o)  |                |
|   | 19[?]   |
| Songs (*j)   |                |

Crown and Shield

---

<sup>125</sup> "1802" is also the watermark in the paper for Blake's List of Apostles and his letter of 14 Oct 1807.

Letter of 1 September 1800

fleur-de-lis

“The Approach of Doom” (British Museum Print Room)

Three curved lines enclosing a rampant lion or dragon

Letter (25 November 1825)

TABLE 13
STAB HOLES
ADDENDA

TWO STAB HOLES

3.9, 4.3 apart

Urizen pl. 22 (Small Book [B])

THREE STAB HOLES

3.9, 4.4<sup>126</sup>

Small Book of Designs (B)<sup>127</sup>

Thel pl. 7 (Anon.)

Urizen pl. 1 (Keynes Family Trust)

Urizen pl. 2 (Tate)

Urizen pl. 5 (Yale)

---

<sup>126</sup> A fourth stab hole is 0.2 cm below and to the right of the third. (In Urizen pl. 22, the fourth hole is 1.5 cm below and to the right of the third.) Visions pl. 10 lacks the extra hole.

<sup>127</sup> Urizen pl. 2, 5, 10 and Marriage pl. 11 were recorded in BB. All the new information about stab holes comes from Butlin and Hamlyn. The newly-discovered Urizen pl. 12 has no stab hole.

No stab hole is recorded for the other prints which were probably in Small Book (B) – Urizen pl. 3 (Keynes Family Trust), 9 (Princeton), 12 (Morgan), and Marriage pl. 14 (U.S. National Gallery) – perhaps because they were trimmed off or simply not noticed.

Urizen pl. 7 (Anon.)
Urizen pl. 10 (Yale)
Urizen pl. 11 (Anon.)
Urizen pl. 17 (Anon.)
Urizen pl. 19 (Anon.)
Urizen pl. 22 (Essick)
Urizen pl. 23 (Anon.)
Marriage pl. 11 (Princeton)
Marriage pl. 16 (Anon.)
Marriage pl. 20 (Essick)
Visions pl. 10 (Keynes Family Trust)

THREE STAB HOLES

4.4, 3.0 c, apart

Poetical Sketches (Y)

THREE STAB HOLES

Descriptive Catalogue (F) <BB 138>

FIVE STAB HOLES

1.2, 3.1, 11.1, 1.2 cm apart

Innocence (J)<sup>128</sup>

Part I

“The Accusers”; see “Our End is come”
"Albion Rose"

---

<sup>127</sup> For conflicting reports on these stab holes, see Songs of Innocence (J).

(?1796, ?1804)

Weight and Cost of Copperplate<sup>129</sup>

The copperplate weighed 688.3 grams = 1½ pounds and cost 6s. 1d.

For the copperplate from which “Albion Rose” may have been cut, see Book of Ahania.

COPY A

HISTORY: (1) This is presumably the copy described in Gilchrist, 32, and reproduced in 1880, I, 28 (it omits most of the inscription uniquely trimmed off in this copy), and lent by Mrs Gilchrist to the Boston exhibition (1880), lot 114 ....

COPY B

Copy B is reproduced in the National Gallery of Art (Washington, D.C.) online catalogue.<sup>130</sup>

NEW COPY

COPY E

WATERMARK: None

BINDING: Trimmed to 25.2 x 19 cm (removing the engraved inscription) and folded neatly into quadrants; unfolded and framed in the autumn of 1995. On the verso is a pencil inscription in a hand which resembles Blake's:

Does the unblemish'd Lamb subjected to | Baker's
Practice bring delivrance | With His Suffering?
Might He Save | Jerusalem from destruction, or wilt | Thou have Thy vengeance for man's |

---

<sup>129</sup> For calculations about weight and cost of copper, see G.E. Bentley, Jr, see “Blake’s Heavy Metal: The History, Weight, Uses, Cost, and Makers of his Copperplates”, University of Toronto Quarterly, LXXVI (2007), 714-70.

<sup>130</sup> “Albion Rose” is traced to the Library of Congress in BB p. 78.

outrages? Wouldst Thou make a full | end of the remnant?

The passage alludes to Ezekiel xi, 13; xlvi, 13: "Ah Lord God! wilt thou make a full end of the remnant of Israel?"; "Thou shalt daily prepare a burnt offering unto the LORD of a Lamb of the first year without a blemish"; and to Ezekiel Baker, Thirty-Three Years Practise and Observations with Rifle Guns (1813), into which the print was once folded.

HISTORY: (1) Inscribed apparently by Blake and folded into Ezekiel Baker (Gun-Maker, and Rifle-Gun-Maker to his Royal Highness the Prince Regent), Thirty-Three Years Practise and Observations with Rifle Guns, The Fifth Edition (London: Printed by T. Woodfall; Sold by E. Baker, 24, Whitechapel-Road, 1813) to which the inscription refers; (2) Acquired by an inveterate Spanish hunter, who died in 1994; (3) Given by his widow in the autumn of 1995 with a group of twenty-four other hunting books (mostly French and Spanish of the late Nineteenth Century) to their nephew, (4) An Anonymous resident of a suburb of Barcelona, who allowed it to be described but not reproduced by William Cole, "An Unknown Fragment by William Blake: Text, Discovery, and Interpretation", Modern Philology, XCVI (1999), 485-97, whence all this information derives (the watermark information derives from a private communication from Dr Cole).

COPY F

Copy F is reproduced in the National Gallery of Art

(Washington, D.C.) online catalogue.<sup>131</sup>

COPY I

It is reproduced online by the Whitworth Art Gallery.

All Religions Are One
(1795)

Weight and Cost of Copperplates

The ten small plates weighed 241.2 grams = 0.53 pounds and cost 3s 9d.

The only known copy of "All Religions was reprinted with No Natural Religion ca. 1794" (Viscomi, 229); no copy survives of the (presumed) earlier printing.

COPY A

Reproduced in colour in The Early Illuminated Books, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi (1993), in The Complete Illuminated Books, ed. David Bindman (2000), online in Huntington Digital Images, and in Todas las religiones son una / No hay religión, tr. David Francisco (2014).

EDITIONS

All Religions are One (1970) The William Blake Trust <BB>

REVIEWS

§Anon., "The Composite Art of Blake", Times Literary Supplement, 10 December 1971, pp. 1537-39 (with 12 others)

Kay Parkhurst Easson, Blake Studies, V, 1 (1972), 168-74 (with another)

---

<sup>131</sup> "The Accusers" (F) is wrongly located by BB in the Library of Congress; the reference is corrected in BBS p. 51.

§Anon., “The Processes of William Blake”, Times Literary Supplement, 15 February 1974, pp. 1537-39 (with 6 others)

§”Le Romantisme Revolutionnaire: Toutes les religions sont une.” Europe: revue littéraire mensuelle, LXXXII, 900 (2004), 57. In French

America
(1793[-1831?])

TABLE

| Copy | Plates | Leaves | Water-Blake | Leaf Size in cm | Printing Colour |
|------|--------|--------|-------------|-----------------|-----------------|
|      |        |        | mark        | Num-ber     |                 |

|   |    |    |  |  |  |
|---|----|----|--|--|--|
| S | 18 | 18 |  |  |  |
|---|----|----|--|--|--|

Untraced

|         |   |    |    |                            |                          |
|---------|---|----|----|----------------------------|--------------------------|
| #Fogg 1 | 1 | ?? | -- | 16.8 x 23.3 <sup>132</sup> | dark blue <sup>133</sup> |
|---------|---|----|----|----------------------------|--------------------------|

Weight and Cost of Copperplates

The 23 copperplates weighed 10,196.6 grams = 22.4 pounds and cost £6.15.1.

Copies were apparently printed in 1793 (a [proofs] plus loose proofs, C-I, K-L, R), 1795 (A-B), ?1807 (M), 1821 (O), and posthumously (N, P-Q) (Viscomi, 376-80).

A drawing (c. 1793)<sup>134</sup> has sketches related to America pl. 2 (running woman [top right]), pl. 5 (man in chains [top

---

<sup>132</sup> Trimmed to the image.

<sup>133</sup> Copies printed partly in blue were produced in 1793 (C-D, H) and ?1807 (M), according to Joseph Viscomi, Blake and the Idea of the Book (Princeton: Princeton University Press, 1993), 376-81.

<sup>134</sup> Butlin #226, pl. 259-260, acquired at the sale of the late Charles Ryskamp at Sotheby's (N.Y.), 25 January 2011, lot 209, by R.N. Essick and reproduced with his “Blake in the Marketplace 2011”, Blake, XLV, 4 (Spring 2012), 111-12.

middle], running woman [bottom left]), pl. 6 (arm with clenched fist), and pl. 8 (bent leg).

Viscomi, 389, reports a copperplate-maker's-mark on pl. 6 in copy M which I did not see when examining the original and cannot see in the Blake Trust facsimile of it (1963). N.B. Since America pl. 6 has a copperplate-maker's-mark (BB 86 n4), it cannot be the recto of Europe pl. 17 (BB 145), which also has a copperplate-maker's-mark (as Viscomi, 389, points out). Keynes and Wolf, William Blake's Illuminated Books: A Census (1954) report a platemark on America (Q) pl. 2 which is invisible to me.

In [America] plate 3 ... the blemish next to the word 'Dark' of line 11 appears in both copies A and B, though it is darker in A; the same is true of the blemish at the end of the tendril from the A in line 16 and the traces of ink in the shallows of the lower tree trunks and inside of the border. The sequentiality of the copies is even clearer in plate 5, where the bottom border is half-wiped in the same manner (and with the same gesture) in both copies, and the same wove pattern of the paper or backing blanket--a very distinctive mark--is present, as it is in the left bottom corner of plate 6 and in lower left and right corner of the flames in plate 12 [Viscomi, 392.]

Plates 7-12 in Europe copy G have horizontal and vertical pencil lines (some partly erased) on their face that correspond to the size of the plates. If these lines were meant to register plate to paper, then the paper must have lain on the press bed facing up and the plate placed on top of it, or the lines would not have been visible. This reverse printing method was used to print engravings on “paper, pastboard, Satin or any other thing you print upon” (Faithorne 70). In illuminated printing, it would have prevented the paper from picking up any of the ink smudges in the shallows of the relief plates. Woodcuts were often printed in this manner [Viscomi, 394.]

COPY A

BINDING: It was "in portfolio" when offered in Quaritch Catalogue (June 1904), lot 1602.

HISTORY: (3) Offered by Quaritch (June 1904), lot 1602, for £260.

It is reproduced online by the Pierpont Morgan Library and the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi.

COPY B

BINDING: (1) America (B, printed 1795), probably then lacking pl. 4 and 9, was stabbed through three holes 6.5 and 7.7 cm apart apparently with Europe (C, printed in 1794); (2) America (B) was separated from Europe (C) by 1799 (when it was inscribed to C.H. Tatham) and probably sewn through three new stab holes 10.7 x 12.9 cm apart; it was presumably in this state, or possibly unstitched, when sold “unbound” in 1874; (3) By 1878 it was “BOUND BY F.BEDFORD” in citron morocco and, after being bound thus, excellent photolithographic facsimiles of pl. 4 and 9<sup>135</sup> (probably copied by its owner A.G.

---

<sup>135</sup> While pl. 4 and 9 were missing, the prints were numbered 2-16 in pencil by an unknown hand on pl. 2-3, 5-8, 10-18 below the bottom left platemark. (BBS

Dew-Smith from copy F in the British Museum Print Room), marked “F” (?for “Facsimile”), were tipped in at the appropriate places to perfect the copy.<sup>136</sup>

It is reproduced online in the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi.

COPY C

HISTORY: (2) ... offered by Henry G. Bohn (1848)

COPY E

It is reproduced online in the Library of Congress and in the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi.

COPY F

Reproduced in the William Blake Archive in 2007.

COPY G

HISTORY: (1) Bound about 1821 perhaps for Thomas Griffiths Wainewright and sold with Europe (B) and Jerusalem (B) on 4 August 1831 by Benjamin Wheatley, lot 426 ("Three of the rarest of this singular Artist's Productions") [for £4.4.0 to Bohn].<sup>137</sup>

---

p. 54 footnote 23, erroneously described the first numeration as “Blake’s page-numbers”.) Pl. 1-18 (including the facsimile pl. 4 and 9) were later correctly numbered 1-18 at the top right corner of the leaf by a Quaritch assistant.

<sup>136</sup> The new information here about numeration and facsimiles derives from Joseph Viscomi, “Two FakeBlakes Revisited; One Dew-Smith Revealed”, pp. 35-78 in Blake in Our Time, ed. Karen Mulhallen (Toronto, Buffalo, London: University of Toronto Press, 2010). BBS 54 suggests erroneously that pl. 4 and 9 were added after 1878.

<sup>137</sup> According to Wheatley's file copy of the catalogue in the British Library: S.C. Wheatley17 (12); see Marc Vaulbert de Chantilly, "Property of a Distinguished Poisoner: Thomas Griffiths Wainewright and the Griffiths family library," pp. 111-42 of Under the Hammer: Book Auctions Since the Seventeenth Century, ed. Robin Myers, Michael Harris, and Giles Mandelbrote (New Castle [Delaware]: Oak Knoll

COPY H

HISTORY: It was reproduced in colour in The Continental Prophecies, ed. D.W. Dörrbecker (1995) and in The Complete Illuminated Books, ed. David Bindman (2000).

COPY I

BINDING: (2) It was disbound by the winter of 1993-94, according to Anon., "Blake at the Huntington, Fall 1994", Blake, XXVII, 3 (Winter 1993-94), 98.

It is reproduced online at the Huntington and in the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi.

COPY L

Reproduced online at the New York Public Library website("NYPL Digital Gallery").

COPY M

The leaves were "trimmed and gilded along the top (pace BB 88)" (Viscomi, 312).

HISTORY: (4) Mrs Emerson lent it to the exhibition at the Boston Museum of Fine Art of December 1929,... (5) By 1977 Mr Mellon had given it to (6) The YALE CENTER FOR BRITISH ART.

Reproductions of it were added online to the William Blake Archive (2004)and by the Yale Center for British Art (accession number: B1992.8.2 (1-18), and in Libros Proféticos, tr. Bernardo Santano (2013), Vol. I.

COPY N (bound with Europe [I])

HISTORY: (1) Perhaps America (N) and Europe (I) were among the "three or four of the Engraved books" which Catherine Blake sold about 1831 to the artist James Ferguson (1791-1871), "a gentleman in the far north";<sup>138</sup> (2) Acquired by Sir George Grey (1779-1882) of Falloden, Northumberland, who wrote in it: "I purchased this book at the sale of the effects of a deceased artist, (I now forget his name), who had obtained it direct from Blake" (the posthumous character of the printing of America suggests that it was obtained from Catherine after Blake's death) ....

COPY O

It is reproduced online in the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi.

COPY R

HISTORY: (1) "Almost certainly"<sup>139</sup> this is the copy of Edward Vernon Utterson with 18 pl. "printed in tints" (like America (R) in blue and green) in the Sotheby sale of 5 July 1852, lot 251 [sold for £2.7.0 (?to James Holmes)]; (2) Quaritch offered it with Thel (J) in his General Catalogue (1886), lot 29,489 (printed in blue, bound in half morocco, gilt edges) for £42, and in his Catalogue of Works on the Fine Arts ... On Sale by Bernard Quaritch October 1883, lot 10,251, £36.

NEW COPY

COPY S

BINDING: Bound with Thel (S), Europe (N), Urizen (K), and

---

<sup>138</sup> Gilchrist, 366 (BR (2) 481).

<sup>139</sup> Joseph Viscomi, "Two Fake Blakes Revisited; One Dew-Smith Revealed", p. 43 of Blake in Our Time, ed. Karen Mulhallen (Toronto, Buffalo, London: University of Toronto Press, 2010). It is probably not copy B as in BB and BBS.

Visions (S) in half calf with the autograph of John Flaxman.

Most copies of America (B-M, R), Europe (A-G), and Visions of the Daughters of Albion (B-D, F, H-M, R) are printed on leaves c. 26 x 37 cm. Often America (A-B, F-H, N-Q) was bound with Europe (A-D, I, K-M), twice (C, F) it was bound with Visions (B-C), twice (A, F) with Song of Los (B, D), and once each (G-H) with the Large Book of Designs (A) and Jerusalem (B). Once Europe (G) was bound with Song of Los (C) and Visions (H).

HISTORY: (1) Acquired by John Flaxman after his return in 1794 from seven years in Italy – perhaps this is the work for which Flaxman paid Blake £2.2.0 in October 1797;<sup>140</sup> (2) At Flaxman's death in 1827 the collective volume was probably inherited by his half sister-in-law and adopted daughter (2) Maria Denman (1776-1861); on her death on 23 December 1861 the volume probably passed to her family;<sup>141</sup> (3) Offered in Willis and Sotheran Catalogues (25 June 1862), lot 116, and (25 December 1862), lot 117; (3) Untraced.

PLATE 2

HISTORY: (1) Crabb Robinson wrote to Mrs Barron Field on 11 November [1863]): "I found lately one of Blakes coloured drawings [i.e., prints?] which I have set apart for Il marito [i.e., Barron Field;] it's headed America";<sup>142</sup> (2) Untraced.

---

<sup>140</sup> BR (2) 758.

<sup>141</sup> Christie's sold the Whole of the Remaining Original Models, by John Flaxman (9 April 1862), the Whole of the Celebrated Drawings and Remaining Works of John Flaxman (10-11 April 1862), and the Whole of the Drawings and the Remaining Works of John Flaxman, R.A., the Property of the Denman Family (26-27 Feb 1863; lots 244-246 were Songs[O]).

PLATE a

The surviving copperplate fragment is 8.2 wide cm by 5.8 cm high by 0.141 cm thick and etched (in two bites, 0.005, then 0.007) to a depth of 0.012 cm.<sup>143</sup>

Seven versions of pl. a are reproduced online in the National Gallery of Art (Washington, D.C.) online catalogue.

PLATES a-c

Pl. a-c are reproduced online in the Library of Congress.

EDITIONS

America (1963) The William Blake Trust <BB>

REVIEWS

§Anon., "A Prophet's Eye", Times [London], February 1964

*Laurence Whistler, "The William Blake Trust's facsimile of 'America, A Prophecy'", Connoisseur, CLVI (July 1964), 182-83 (Blake's books are "twinkling") <BB #2947>

America: A Prophecy, introduction by G.E. Bentley, Jr (1974) American Blake Foundation <BB>

REVIEWS

---

<sup>142</sup> Osborne Collection, Beinecke Library, Yale University. In America, only the title page (pl. 2) is "headed America", and no known loose print of it could have been seen by Robinson in the 1850s.

<sup>143</sup> Michael Phillips, "The Printing of Blake's America a Prophecy", Print Quarterly, XXI (2004), 31.

David V. Erdman, “America, Everyone?”, Blake Newsletter, IX, 4 (Spring 1976), 123-26 (with another)

Ronald Paulson, Georgia Review, XXX (Summer 1976), 466-67 (with 3 others)

America a Prophecy, the Blake Newsletter reproduction (1975)
<BBS>

REVIEW

David V. Erdman, “America, Everyone?”, Blake Newsletter, IX, 4 (Spring 1976), 123-26 (with another)

§*Steil, Juliana. "Profecia poética e tradução: America a Prophecy, de William Blake, trazida de commentada." Universidade Federal de Santa Catarina Dissertação (Florianapolis, Brazil), 2007. In Portuguese

**America A Prophecy (Illuminated Manuscript [sic] with the Original Illustrations of William Blake)*. (e-artnow, 2013)
ISBN: 9788074844119

Probably America (F) -- see The Complete Illustrated Books of William Blake.

§America: A Prophecy. (Charleston [South Carolina]: BiblioLife, 2014) 44 pp.; ISBN: 9781293813065

“The Approach of Doom”

Weight and Cost of Copperplate

The experimental plate, cut up and etched with 4 plates for the Marriage, weighed 1,620.7 grams and cost 6s 11<sup>3</sup>/<sub>4</sub>d.

“Blake's Chaucer: The Canterbury Pilgrims” (1809)

NEW COPY

| Copy | Collection | Correction | Contemporary Owner |
|------|------------|------------|--------------------|
| B    | Bodley     |            | Francis Douce      |

COPY B

SHEET SIZE: 18.65 X 22.7 cm.

WATERMARK: Invisible because pasted down.

BINDING: Pasted to the verso of the last fly-leaf of Vol. I of The Canterbury Tales of Chaucer, ed. Thomas Tyrwhitt (1798), facing Cromek's prospectus for Stothard's Canterbury Pilgrims ("London, Feb. 10th, 1807").

HISTORY: (1) Francis Douce bought "Blake's Canterbury Pilgr." from the firm of Hurst and Robinson in March 1825,<sup>144</sup> to go with his copy of "Blake's print of Canterbury pilgrimage" which he had bought from them in November 1824, and pasted the prospectus in his copy of The Canterbury Tales, ed. Tyrwhitt (1798); (2) Bequeathed by Douce in 1834 to THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY, reproduced in J.B. Mertz, "Blake v. Cromek: A Contemporary Ruling", Modern Philology, XCIX (2001), 69.

"Blake's Chaucer: An Original Engraving" (1810)

DATE: It was in circulation by 20 June 1810 when the publisher Robert Bowyer sent to Earl Spencer "a prospectus" of an "Engraving in the line manner ... a very fine Etching" by Blake.<sup>145</sup>

---

<sup>144</sup> Bodley: Ms Douce e 68, f. 3<sup>v</sup>, cited, like all the other information about this copy of Blake's prospectus, from J.B. Mertz, "An Unrecorded Copy of Blake's 1809 Chaucer Prospectus", Blake, XXXII (1998-99), 73-74.

<sup>145</sup> BR (2) 300.

COPY C

It is reproduced online by Harvard Libraries.

COPY D

HISTORY: (1) It was sent 20 June 1810 by Robert Bowyer to Earl Spencer; (2) Untraced.

The Book of Ahania
(1795)

Weight of and Cost Copperplates

Pl. 2-6 weighed 844.2 grams = 1.86 pounds, not counting pl. 1, which seems to have been etched on the verso of Europe pl. 3 (see BB 113), and the cost would have been 18s.9d.

According to Viscomi, Blake acquired a sheet of copper 39.4 x 54.5 cm with rounded corners. "This sheet was cut exactly in half and each half was cut in half, hence each of the four quarters has a side 27.2 cm. wide or high. ... each small plate has just one rounded corner". On these quarter-sheets Blake etched (1) The Book of Los (text pl. 2-5), (2) The Book of Ahania (text pl. 3-6), (3) "Albion Rose", and (4) "Pity",<sup>146</sup> the last always previously assumed to be on mill-board. (The prints from mill-board sometimes, as in "Christ Appearing to the Apostles" and "The Night of Enitharmon's Joy", exhibit striations from the mill-board, despite its sealing with glue-size or gesso. "Pity" exhibits embossing characteristic of copper but not of mill-board.) As The Book of Ahania and The Book of Los are both dated 1795 by Blake, the first state of “Albion Rose” is almost certainly also 1795, not 1794 as previously assumed.

---

<sup>146</sup> Joseph Viscomi, "Blake's 'Annus Mirabilis'", Blake, XL (2007), 69-71. The sizes are The Book of Los (19.6 x 27.2 cm), The Book of Ahania (19.8 x 27.3 cm), "Albion Rose" (27.2 cm high at left, 27.3 cm at right, 19.75 cm wide at top, 19.95 cm at bottom), and "Pity" (19.75 cm high at left, 19.5 cm high at right, 27.2 cm wide at top, 27.4 cm wide at bottom). Note that Blake did not bevel the edges or round the corners of the newly-created plates.

Both copies of “Albion Rose” were apparently printed in 1795 (A-B) (Viscomi, 376).

The six prints of Ahania are all 13.5 to 13.7 cm high by 9.8 to 10.0 cm wide, while the five Book of Los prints are all identical in height and almost identical in width (9.8 to 9.9 cm). With little more evidence than these coincidences in size, BB 113, suggested that Ahania pl. 2-6 "may have been" on the other sides of Book of Los pl. 3-4, 2, 5, 1, and Viscomi, 287, says that "The six Ahania designs were executed on three plates, with plates 1 and 5, 6 and 2, and 3 and 4 etched back to back", and each plate has one rounded corner. Therefore the five plates of The Book of Los (1795) plus Europe pl. 3 cannot be on the versos of The Book of Ahania, as in BB 113, 145.

COPY A

HISTORY: It was lent to the University of Pennsylvania Blake exhibition (17-21 October 1936).

Reproduced in colour in The Urizen Books, ed. David Worrall (1995) and in The Complete Illuminated Books, ed. David Bindman (2000) and online in the Library of Congress.

EDITIONS

The Book of Ahania. (London [1892]) <BB>

For Quaritch's business records of the edition, see February 2007 Charles Cox Catalogue.

§Kniha Ahanie. ([No place: No publisher] 1963) In Czech.

Perhaps it is related to the Czech translations by O.F. Babler of The Book of Thel (1935), The Marriage of Heaven and Hell (1931), and Tiriël (1927) <BB>.

The Book of Ahania (1973), The William Blake Trust <BB>

REVIEW

§Anon., “The Processes of William Blake”, Times Literary Supplement, 15 February 1974, pp. 145-47
(with 6 others)

**The Book of Ahania*(Illuminated Manuscript [sic] with the Original Illustrations of William Blake). (e-artnow, 2013)
ISBN: 9788074844157

Probably Book of Ahania (A) -- see The Complete Illustrated Books of William Blake.

Book of Los (1795)

If, as Viscomi argues (287), the six plates of The Book of Ahania were on only three copperplates, etched back-to-back, the Ahania versos cannot have had The Book of Los pl. 1-5 and Europe pl. 3 (pace BB 145, 113). The Book of Los prints are so similar in size--9.7 to 9.9 cm wide by 13.5 to 13.7 cm high – that any one of them could have been on the verso of any other of them. Perhaps four plates were etched back-to-back, and Europe pl. 3 (13.4 x 9.6 cm), the only Europe plate without a copperplate-maker’s mark, was on the recto of the fifth plate.

Both copies were apparently printed in 1795 (A-B) (Viscomi, 376).

See The Book of Ahania for the copperplate from which The Book of Los plates were cut.

COPY A

Reproduced in colour in The Urizen Books, ed. David Worrall (1995) and in The Complete Illuminated Books, ed. David Bindman (2000) and online by the Pierpont Morgan Library.

PLATE 5

HISTORY: The copy of Urizen pl. 3 removed at an unknown date before 1976 from the collection of Blake prints and manuscripts including Book of Los pl. 5 <BBS> may be the one acquired in 2001 by Professor Robert N. Essick.

The Book of Thel (1789[-1818])

TABLE

| Copy | Plates             | Leaves |
|------|--------------------|--------|
| S    | 2-8 <sup>147</sup> | 7      |

Untraced

Weight and Cost of Copperplates

The eight plates of The Book of Thel weighed 1,496.1 grams = 3.3. pounds, and the cost would have been £1.10.0.

According to Joseph Viscomi, Huntington Library Quarterly, LVIII (1996), 344, the copperplates for The Book of Thel were cut from a single sheet of copper in the following pattern:

|                     |   |   |   |   |   |
|---------------------|---|---|---|---|---|
| Thel pl.     | 4 | 5 | 6 | 1 |   |
| Marriage pl. |   |   |   |   | 4 |
| Thel pl.     | 3 | 2 | 7 | 8 |   |

---

<sup>147</sup> The print missing may be pl. 1, “Thel’s Motto”, also omitted from Copy E.

Thel pl. 1 and Marriage pl. 4 being especially small plates, and Thel pl. 1 and 8 being etched last.

Copies were apparently printed in 1789-90 (a [proofs] plus proofs, A-E, G-M, R, ?P, ?Q), 1795 (F), and 1818 (N-O) (Viscomi, 376-79).

According to Viscomi, 253, 254,

That the raw umber impression preceded the raw sienna impressions is verified by traces of the former ink in plate 7 of copy B, which indicates that the umber had not yet dried. On the other hand, traces of green ink on plates 4 and 8 of copies M and E indicate that green precede[d] raw sienna for these plates. Raw sienna appears to have been followed by yellow ochre, in that plates 1 and 7 of copy D have traces of raw sienna. Moreover, plate 4 in copies E, B, and R are especially close: they share blemishes under the word “shrine” (line 2) and next to “spring” (line 9), and traces of ink along the inside top plate border. Plates 4 and 8 of copies M and E were probably the first pulls and printed together; that they are in different copies reinforce[s] the theory that most copies of illuminated books were collated from piles of impressions and not produced individually. ...

Blake appears to have printed a pair of plates in the five colors before moving to a second pair; because the color sequence could vary among plate pairs, it is not possible to sequence the issues, let alone the copies, of the edition. ... The five inks of Thel required five different dabbers, otherwise one dabber would have had to have been cleaned five times for each plate pair.

VARIANT

Pl. 2: Prints from "Thel's title plate, when seen in raked light, reveals embossments absent in the proof (copy a); these embossments suggest that the plate may have been rebitten to deepen the shallows" (Viscomi, 92).

COPY A

HISTORY:(3)Offered with First Book of Urizen (F) and the Marriage of Heaven and Hell (A) in Quaritch Rough List, No. 73 (November 1885), lot 51, for £150; ... (5) Mrs John Briggs Potter lent "a number of leaves" from it to the exhibition at the Boston Museum of Fine Art in December 1929.

COPY B

HISTORY: (4) By 1977 Mr Mellon had given it to (5) The YALE CENTER FOR BRITISH ART.

It was reproduced online by the William Blake Archive (2013) and the Yale Center for British Art.

COPY C

HISTORY: (2) Offered in Quaritch Catalogue No. 190 (July 1899), lot 165: "7 engraved pages ... COLOURED BY BLAKE, UNCUT, in paper cover, preserved in a morocco case, by Rivière", "IT WAS STOTHARD'S", £25.

It is reproduced online by the Pierpont Morgan Library.

Copy D

HISTORY: It was reproduced in the William Blake Archive in 2011.

COPY E

HISTORY: The statement that "The Book of Thel ... with the titles [sic], consists of seven quarto pages of verse and figures in metallic relief" in John C. Jackson [and William A. Chatto], A Treatise on Wood Engraving (1839), 715 note, must refer to copies E, as only it has seven rather than eight prints. (No copy has more than one title page.) The history of Thel (E) is not known before 1853, though it may once have been "Stothard's Copy" and later belonged to "Hamilton[?]", as contemporary inscriptions in it suggest.<sup>148</sup>

HISTORY: (1) This was "'Stothard's Copy'" (according to a note on the fly-leaf); (2) It was "Bot[?] of[?] Hamilton[?] 1853" (according to an erased pencil note on the fly-leaf), evidently by Alexander Gilchrist, who described it (p. 77),<sup>149</sup> and whose widow lent a copy to the Boston exhibition (1880), lot 43; ...

COPY F

It is reproduced online in the Library of Congress and the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi.

COPY G

---

<sup>148</sup> The only references to Thel in print before 1839 appear to be (1) Quotation and description in Anon., "The Inventions of William Blake, Painter and Poet", London University Magazine, II (March 1830) (see BR (2) 515-17), (2) The sale of "Book of Thel [A], &c. coloured" with George Cumberland's Collection at Christie's, 6 May 1835, lot 61; (3) The sale of "Blake's Milton [D] and Thel [O], h.b. [half bound]" with James Vine's Collection at Christie's 24 April 1838, lot 297.

<sup>149</sup> "The original quarto consists of seven engraved pages, including the title; copy E has 7 prints, and all other copies have eight. The size Gilchrist gives for the "pages", "some six inches by four and a quarter" (15.2 x 11.8 cm), is the size of the copperplates (c. 15.3 x 10.8 cm) rather than the leaves of copy E (30 x 24 cm) or of the smallest of the other extant copies (A: 26.5 x 18.2 cm).

It was reproduced in the William Blake Archive in 2011.

COPY H

Reproduced in black-and-white in Jordi Doce's translation of Tiriel, el libro de Thel (2006) and online in the Library of Congress.

COPY I

It is reproduced online in the William Blake Archive.

COPY J

BINDING: The Book of Thel (J) and Visions of the Daughters of Albion (G) were interleaved with tissue paper watermarked "J WHATMAN | 1811" and bound by C. Lewis (according to the 1864 Quaritch catalogue) but by John Hering (according to Quaritch catalogues of 1880, August 1883, October 1883, and 1896) after 1816 (the third flyleaf is watermarked "S S | 1816") in old straight-grain brown morocco, t.e.g; Quaritch catalogue No. 62 (June 1893) and Miscellaneous Catalogue (November 1893) call it "olive morocco extra".

HISTORY: (2) Thel (J) and Visions (G) were offered for £15.15.0 in Quaritch's Catalogue of Books (1864), lot 6,522, at £85 in Quaritch catalogues Catalogue 350 (10 August 1883) and his Catalogue of Works on the Fine Arts ... (October 1883), both lot 13,845, catalogue (1887), lot 13,845, No. 62 (June 1893), Miscellaneous Catalogue (1893), Miscellaneous Catalogue (November 1893), catalogue 157 (March 1896), lot 36, Catalogue No. 178 (March 1898), and Catalogue No. 203 (December 1900).

Reproduced in The Early Illuminated Books, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi (1993) and in The Complete Illuminated Books, ed. David Bindman (2000) and online in Harvard Libraries and the William Blake

Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi.

COPY K

HISTORY: (3) Offered for £700 by Quaritch in No. 633 (November 1945), lot, 13, No. 665 (1949), No. 672 (1949), Catalogue 638 (?May 1946), lot 648, Catalogue 665 (1949), $2,800, One Hundredth Anniversary Catalogue (1947), lot 30, Catalogue 672 (1949), Catalogue 679 (1949), lot 122, for £700, and Catalogue 678 (1951), lot 35.

COPY L

BINDING: (3) It was disbound by the winter of 1993-94, according to Anon., "Blake at the Huntington, Fall 1994", Blake, XXVII, 3 (Winter 1993-94), 98.

It was reproduced online in the William Blake Archive (2008) and in Huntington Digital Images.

COPY N

It was reproduced in the William Blake Archive in 2014.

COPY O

HISTORY: (2) Offered by Henry G. Bohn ... (1848), lot 259 (8 engraved plates, bound – two volumes in one – with Milton [D], "exquisitely finished in colours by Blake himself, hf bd" for Mr Vine) [as in his 1847 catalogue]) for £10.10.0.

It is reproduced online in the Library of Congress and the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi.

COPY R

BINDING: It was still in "original paper wrappers, uncut" when offered in Quaritch No. 203 (December 1900), lot 194.

HISTORY: (2) Offered at £63 in Quaritch catalogue No. 203 (December 1900), lot 194.

It is reproduced in 2008 in the William Blake Archive and by the Yale Center for British Art (accession number: B1992.18.3 (1-8)).

NEW COPY

COPY S

BINDING: Bound with America (S), Europe (N), Urizen (K), and Visions (S). No other copy of the quarto Thel was bound with the folios America and Europe, but two copies of Thel (J, N) were bound with the folio Visions (G, P).

HISTORY: For the History, see America (S) with which it was bound.

PLATES 2, 4, 6-7

See Small Book of Designs (A).

PLATE 6

A new sketch on the verso of the previously-known one was reported and reproduced by Robert N. Essick and Rosamond A. Paice, "Newly Uncovered Blake Drawings in the British Museum", Blake, XXXVII (2003-4), 84-100.

PLATE 7

HISTORY: (4) Thel pl. 7, Urizen pl. 7, 11-12, 17, 19, 23, and Marriage pl. 16 from the Small Book of Designs (B) were sold "at a book sale<sup>150</sup> in North London around 1972-77"<sup>151</sup> to (5) An ANONYMOUS collector who took them to the Victoria & Albert Museum, where they were identified, and lent them to the Tate Britain exhibition of 2007.

---

<sup>150</sup> According to Anon., "Long-lost Blake watercolours shown for 1st time", CBCNews, 12 Nov 2007, it was a furniture sale.

<sup>151</sup> Butlin and Hamlyn p. 57.

It is reproduced online in the Tate Britain catalogue in 2013.

EDITIONS

The Book of Thel, Gollancz facsimile (1928) <BB>

REVIEW

§Anon., Glasgow Herald, 26 April 1928

Thels Bog. Tr. Kaifriis Møller. Illustreret af Lis Tveden. (København: Carit Andersens Forlag, 1945) 4°, 23 pp., in Danish <BB§>

Møller's "Forard" is pp. [3-6]. The illustrations are not related to Blake's.

The Book of Thel [O] (1965) The William Blake Trust <BB>

REVIEWS

Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 2 December 1965, p. 1,104 (with another)

Anon. (Your Reviewer). "From Blake's Trust." Times Literary Supplement, 9 December 1965, p. 1168 (an apology for his "thoughtless error" in overlooking the facsimiles of Thel of Muir (1884, 1920) and of Hollyer (1924) in his review)

§Anon., Times [London], December 1965 (with another)

§Laurence Whistler, Connoisseur, CLXI, 650 (April 1966, American Edition) (with another)

§Donald Ault, Modern Philology, LXXI, 2 (November 1973), 218-21

The Book of Thel, ed. Nancy Bogen (1971) <BB>

REVIEWS

Andrew Wright, Blake Studies, IV, 2 (Spring 1972), 162-63

§Anon., "Disorientation", Times Literary Supplement, 29 September 1972, p. 1145 (with another)

I.H. C[hayes], English Language Notes, X (September 1972), 32

§W.H. Stevenson, Studies in Romanticism, XI, 1 (Winter 1972), 71-72

§John E. Grant, Philological Quarterly, LI (1972), 643-44 (with 2 others)

§Kerry McSweeney, Queen's Quarterly, LXXIX (1972), 236-37

Francis Wood Metcalf, Blake Newsletter, VII, 1 (Summer 1973), 17-19

Donald D. Ault, Modern Philology, LXXI, 2 (November 1973), 218-21 (this "impressively authoritative edition of Thel is flawed by a bulky critical apparatus that, at times, all but explains away the significance" of Thel)

§Max F. Schultz, Eighteenth-Century Studies, VII, 1 (Fall 1973), 120-23 (with 6 others)

§Steven R. Phillips, Studies in Burke and His Time, XV (1974), 301-5

**The Book of Thel*, Copy D. William Blake Archive. Ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi (2011)

**The Book of Thel*, Copy G. William Blake Archive. Ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi (2011)

§**The Book of Thel* [?J]. (Adelaide: University of Adelaide Library, 2012) An eBook

A reproduction with a transcription.

The Book of Thel(Illuminated Manuscript [sic] with the Original Illustrations of William Blake). (e-artnow, 2013)
ISBN: 9788074844058

Probably Thel (F, H, or O) -- see The Complete Illustrated Books of William Blake.

Descriptive Catalogue
(1809)

MANUSCRIPT

In a letter of 5 August 1914, Richard C. Jackson said that "My Father [Francis Jackson] had Blake's M/S of this [Descriptive Catalogue], and I may have it still" (Victoria & Albert Museum Archives), but no other record is known of the manuscript of the Descriptive Catalogue. Jackson also said in a letter of 14 June 1913 to Mr Palmer (Victoria & Albert Museum Archives) that many of his [Blake's] relics are here which my father acquired of M<sup>rs</sup> Blake & Tatham--and here are his Clock and watch & chain & Seal--Still going & keeping fairly good time--

It seems possible that all these Blake treasures are the products of the fertile imagination of Mr Jackson (father or son).

Patrons of Blake's exhibition who did not buy the Descriptive Catalogue itself were offered "an index to the Catalogue gratis". No separate copy of this Index has been traced, but presumably it is identical with the "Index" to the Descriptive Catalogue itself (Signature G6).

Copies of the Index for separate distribution could have been created by printing extra copies of Sheet G from which leaf G6 with the Index could be cut. However, it is much more likely that the Index leaves were amputated from whole copies of the Descriptive Catalogue in order to have them to sell to non-catalogue-buying patrons of the exhibition. The amputation method would have left some copies of the Descriptive Catalogue lacking the Index leaf.

Confirmation of this speculation is found in Descriptive Catalogue copy U, which was bought in November 1809 for George Cumberland by his son, who had already seen the exhibition and the catalogue, and which lacks the Index leaf (G6). If other copies of the Descriptive Catalogue appear without the Index leaf, we may presume that they were bought at 28 Broad Street by individuals who did not propose to see the exhibition; untraced copy V, which was bought in November 1809 by George Cumberland Jr for Mr Barry's library in Bristol, should lack the Index.

REVIEW

[Archibald G.B. Russell], "The Visionary Art of William Blake", Edinburgh Review, CCIII, 415 (January 1906), 161-79 (with 5 others) <BB>

COPY F

HISTORY: (1) This copy, which apparently belonged to Thomas Griffiths Wainewright, was sold by Wheatley on 4 August 1837, lot 665 ("green morocco"<sup>152</sup>) [to Money for 12s], from whom it was acquired by (2) The bookseller James Weale, for whom it was sold in 1840 ....(3) Offered in Quaritch, Catalogue of Works on the Fine Arts (October

---

<sup>152</sup> Only copies F, I, and L were bound in green; F went to Bodley in 1834, and L was bound by Zaehnsdorf long after this sale in 1837.

1883), lot 12,295, for £10.10.0, at £10.10.0 "from the Beckford Library", in his catalogue No. 178 (March 1898), his No. 190 (July 1899), "green morocco extra, from the Beckford Library", £10 and Catalogue 197 (1 March 1900), lot 3659.

COPY J

It is reproduced online by the Yale Center for British Art.

COPY N

The title page is reproduced online by the Pierpont Morgan Library.

NEW COPY

COPY U

BINDING: (1) Watermarked "AP" and "1807" (as usual), leaves 11 x 19 cm, lacking the index leaf (G6),<sup>153</sup> with the corrections Blake made in copies distributed at the exhibition (B-D, F-H, J, L, O) on the title page ("^At N 28 Corner of Broad Street, Golden Square^") and on p. 64 ("idea of want" altered to "want of idea"), plus unique alterations by Blake on pp. iv<sup>154</sup> and 3,<sup>155</sup> plus minor underlining and notes probably

---

<sup>153</sup> According to the advertising flyer for A Descriptive Catalogue, patrons paying for admission but not for a catalogue were given "an Index to the Catalogue gratis", which served as a hand-list for viewers of the exhibition. However, as copy U was bought by George Cumberland Jr to send to his father in Bristol, he did not need the Index.

<sup>154</sup> "Till we get rid of Titian ~~and~~ Correggio, Rubens and Rembrandt, We shall never equal Rafael ~~and~~ Albert Durer, Michael Angelo, and Julio Romano."

<sup>155</sup> In the couplet, "and the mole" is altered to "mole ^& Bat^" in order to make it rhyme with "fat" and to make it correspond to the draft in Blake's Notebook p. 36.

by George Cumberland; (2) Rebound c. 1830 in grey boards, with blue cloth spine; with tipped-in letters from (A) John Linnell [to George Cumberland], 18 March 1833; (B) John Linnell to George Cumberland [Jr], 4 January 1876; (C) Dora Greenwell of 27 December 1875 (printed) on "Vivisection" quoting 26 lines of "Auguries of Innocence"; (D) Dora Greenwell [to George Cumberland Jr], 25 January 1876; plus (E) A note by "GC Nov [180]9"<sup>156</sup> on the back flyleaf.

HISTORY: (1) In November 1809 George Cumberland Jr paid 5s for two copies of the Descriptive Catalogue<sup>157</sup> and sent them to (2) His father George Cumberland in Bristol,<sup>158</sup> who gave one to B. Barry (see below) and kept the other; (3) Cumberland's copy was bought "many years ago" by a man, (4) Whose daughter sold it through Marlborough Rare Books

---

<sup>156</sup> The date looks like "1849", but as George Cumberland died in 1848, this seems impossible. The "Nov 9" is pretty speculative; Professor Essick thinks it might be "1842".

<sup>157</sup> George Cumberland Jr wrote to his father on 14 Oct 1809 about Blake's Catalogue of Pictures being the ancient method of Frescoe Painting Restored.--you should tell Mr Barry to get it, it may be the means of serving your Friend[;] it sells for 2/6. and may be had of J. Blake. 28. Broad St Golden Square at his Brothers – the Book is a great curiosity. He [h]as given Stothard a compleat set down--

Three weeks later, on 5 Nov, Cumberland asked his son to "send by Abingdon 2 vols of Blakes work & make my regards to Blake – MC will pay you the 5/- for them--".

George Cumberland Jr had clearly seen the Descriptive Catalogue and may therefore have possessed a copy of it, but, if so, it has not been identified.

<sup>158</sup> George Cumberland Sr wrote to his son on 13 Nov 1809:

Blakes Cat. is truly original– part vanity part madness– part very good sense – is this the work of his you recommended, and of which I gave you a Comm<sup>n</sup> to buy two sets one for me and one for Mr Barrys Library? ...

and John Windle in August 1997 to (5) Professor Robert Newman Essick.<sup>159</sup>

The title page, p. 33, and Cumberland's note are reproduced in Blake, XXXI (1998), 117, 119, 120.

NEW COPY

COPY V

BINDING: Unknown.

HISTORY: (1) Sent by George Cumberland Jr in November 1809 to (2) His father (as in Copy U) for (3) The Bristol publisher and circulating library owner B. Barry;<sup>160</sup> (4) Untraced.

REVIEW

[Robert Hunt], "Mr. Blake's Exhibition", Examiner, 17 September 1809, pp. 605-6 (a violent attack on Blake) <BB>

EDITIONS

A descriptive catalogue [H] (Oxford and N.Y.: Woodstock Books, 1990) <BBS>

REVIEW

D.W. Dörrbecker, Blake, XXV, 1 (Summer 1991), 8-9
*"Catalogue Descriptif de Scenes, Inventions Historiques et Poétique Peintes par William Blake a l'Aquarelle, Restaurant

<sup>159</sup> For the intermediaries between George Cumberland and Robert Essick, see Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 1997", Blake, XXXI (1998).

<sup>160</sup> Advertisements for Blair's Grave with Blake's designs in June 1808 said that it could be had "At Mr. Barry's Reading Rooms, Bristol" (BR (2) 252). Barry's role as a publisher and a portrait of him are recorded in G.E. Bentley, Jr, A Bibliography of George Cumberland (1754-1848) (N.Y. and London: Garland, 1975), 25, 115.

l'ancienne Methode de la Peinture a Fresque; ainsi que des Dessins Presentes au Public [sic] et Offerts a l'achat sous contrat privé." Cahiers du Musée National d'Art Moderne [Paris], No. 56/57 (1996), 188-209. In French

The translation by Christine Savinel includes the separate advertisement, "A Descriptive Catalogue", and reproductions from surviving paintings exhibited in 1809.

Europe
(1794[-1831])

| Copy                | Plates          | Leaves | Water-mark | Blake Number     | Leaf size in cm | Printing Colour          |
|---------------------|-----------------|--------|------------|------------------|-----------------|--------------------------|
| N                   | ?2-8,           | 15     |            |                  |                 |                          |
| Untraced            | 11-18           |        |            |                  |                 |                          |
| Anon.               | #1              | 1      | -          |                  |                 | dark blue <sup>161</sup> |
| cHarvard | 15 <sup>b</sup> | 1      | -          | - <sup>162</sup> | 22.6 x 31.3     | brown <sup>163</sup>     |
| Anon                | 1               | 1      | Wove paper | -                | 24.2 x 17.7     | dark grey-blue           |
| Essick              | 13-14           | 1      | -          | -                | 25.1 x 19.5     | greenish grey            |
| Untraced            | [4]             | 4?     | ?          | ?                | ?               | ?                        |

Weight and Cost of Copperplates

The 18 plates of Europe seem to be etched on the versos of plates from America except for pl. 3, which seems to have Ahania

<sup>161</sup> The dark blue copy of Europe pl. 1 has a brown ink framing line round the print.

<sup>162</sup> Pl. 15<sup>b</sup> is numbered "36" in ink at the top right (see the "Order" of the Songs below) and "24" in pencil at the top left.

<sup>163</sup> Pl. 15<sup>b</sup> has rough green colour printing at the bottom. The plate is poorly inked, and the text and parts of the design are gone over in black ink. There are two framing lines round the print and stab holes in the left margin.

pl. 1 on it (see BB 149). Therefore the only previously unused plate in America seems to have been pl. 3 which weighed 162 grams = 0.36 pounds and would have cost 1s. 6d.

If, as Joseph Viscomi argues (287), the six plates of The Book of Ahania were etched back-to-back on three copperplates, Europe pl. 3 cannot be on the verso of one of them (pace BB 145, 113). Perhaps Europe pl. 3, the only Europe plate without a plate-maker's-mark (BB 145), has a Book of Los plate etched on the verso. Note that Europe pl. 3 appears only in copies H and K printed in 1795 and 1821 (Viscomi, 279, 376, 380).

Copies were apparently printed in 1794 (a-c [proofs] + loose proofs, B-G), 1795 (A, H), 1821 (K), posthumous (I, L-M) (Viscomi, 376-81). Copies B-G appear to have been color-printed at the same time (Viscomi, 277), though BB 142, does not note that Copy F is color-printed.

ETCHED VARIANTS<sup>164</sup>

PLATE 1

State 1 (copy a): The white line hatching in the clouds to the left of the figure's right leg does not extend to the left margin. At the top of this cloud, the gap between the margin and the left end of the white line hatching is c. 1.6 cm.

State 2 (all other copies): The white line hatching in the clouds to the left of the figure's right leg has been extended to within 0.2 cm of the left margin.

---

<sup>164</sup> The modifications here of BB and BBS derive, mostly word-for-word, from an unpublished essay by Robert N. Essay called "Miscellaneous Plates from Europe a Prophecy" generously sent me in 2009. There is no etched variant in pl. 2-3, 6, 8, 12-16. Some of the variants noted in BB are due to differences in inking and colouring rather than to etched changes to the plate.

PLATE 4

State 1 (Copy b, pl. 4<sup>a-b</sup>): There are no white lines in the road-ruts to the left of the walking figure's foot or on the walking figure or on the plants to the right of his foot.

State 2 (Copy a, copy c pl. 4<sup>c</sup>): White line work has been added to the ruts, to the strip across the right side of the walker's chest, to the plants to the right of the walker's foot, to his right knee and inner right thigh, to his left thigh, to his lower torso, and to his upper right arm.

State 3 (all other copies): White line hatching has been added to the bundle on the walker's back, to the locks of hair below his hat, to the small area of the bundle visible above and to the left of his right shoulder, now defined with a line that clearly separates the shoulder from the bundle.

PLATE 5

State 1 (Copy b): Lacks the white line work added in State 2.

State 2 (all other copies): Extensive white line hatching and cross-hatching have been added to the clouds above, below, and to the right of the three struggling figures, to the clouds above the final two lines of text, and to the sky right, left, and above the man at upper right. White lines have been added to the lines defining the interior modeling of his back and hips and to the head of the struggling figure on the left in the group of three.

PLATE 7

State 1 (Copy a): The prone young man has a halo of three concentric lines round his head.

State 2 (all other copies): The halo has been removed.

PLATE 9

State 1 (Copy b, pl. 9<sup>b</sup>): Lacks the white lines added in State 2.

State 2 (Copy a): Curving white lines have been added to the smoke above and on both sides of the pot. White lines have been added to the three lines defining the neck of the woman on the left and to the folds of her garment where it falls over her lower back, hip, and below her hip, to the supine child's right shoulder, torso, and hip, and to the cloth surrounding his body. White line hatching has been added to the garment worn by the woman on the right where it covers her legs and right knee and to the part of her garment below her right leg.

State 3 (all other copies): White line hatching has been added to the garment of the woman on the right where it falls to the left of her left ankle and foot. Two small patches of white line hatching (not printed or poorly printed in some copies) have been added to the left foot of the woman on the right. Two white lines (not printed or poorly printed in some copies) have been added to her garment where it falls below her lower left leg. The relief lines extending from the supine child's right shoulder towards his chest and a few of the relief hatching lines just above his biceps have been cut away.

PLATE 10

State 1 (Copy a): Lacks the white line work added in State 2.

State 2 (all other copies): Considerable white line hatching has been added to the bellman's hat (upper left crown and brim above his hair), to his coat over his chest, upper stomach, and the left side of his arm, to the relief line just above the lower edge of his bell, to the chest, back, shoulder, and arm of the man lower left, to the hair and gown of the woman lower left (particularly evident below her legs), to the gown of the woman on the right where it falls to the left and below her left leg and right of her left foot, and to the lines extending upward from her waist.

PLATE 11

State 1<sup>165</sup> (Copy a): There is no white line work in the relief area below the woman's right foot and ankle, lower left.

State 2 (all other copies): A few white line strokes have been added to the relief area below the woman's right foot and ankle, lower left.

PLATE 17

State 1 (Copy a, Copy b, pl. 17<sup>a-b</sup>, Copy c ([all three copies], and Essick copy): Line 6 from the bottom reads "She ceas'd, and all went forth to sport beneath the solemn moon" and line 3 from the bottom reads "Till morning ope'd the eastern gate, and the angel trumpet blew."

State 2 (all other copies): Line 6 from the bottom has been altered to read: "She ceas'd, for All were forth at sport beneath the solemn moon",<sup>166</sup> and line 3 from the bottom reads "Till morning ope'd the eastern gate."

PLATE 18

State 1 (Copy a): Line 1 reads "Shot from the heights of Enitharmon, before the trumpet blew;".

State 2 (Copy c, pl. 18<sup>a</sup>): The small areas of relief lines on the woman's back, just above her neck, and on her left shoulder have been modified with white line work. The relief areas on the back of the child's raised right hand have been cut away and the middle finger divided into two fingers with white line work. An "S" shaped relief line below "all" in the penultimate line of text left of the final line (“FINIS”) has been cut away.

---

<sup>165</sup> Not recorded in BB or BBS.

<sup>166</sup> Copy b, pl. 17<sup>c</sup>, Line 6 from the bottom has been altered in ink (not on the etched copperplate) to read: "She ceas'd. All were forth in sport beneath the solemn moon".

State 3 (all other copies): The final four words in the first line of text and the terminal punctuation have been cut away, so that the line reads “Shot from the heights of Enitharmon,”. White lines have been added to the woman’s dangling hair, just left of her elbow, and the next lock to the left has been narrowed. A few white lines have been cut into the relief areas right and left of the top of the man’s penis.

PLATE 1

Europe pl. 1 (The Ancient of Days) was described in BB (1977) as if it were etched on two copperplates, one 16.8 x 23.2 for The Ancient of days and the other 16.9 x 23.4 cm for Europe pl. 1. The prints differed particularly in “the shorter beard of the god” not extending out of the sun and “the greater extension of the sun’s rays at the bottom” for The Ancient of Days. These details were particularly remarked in the Goyder and Keynes copies of The Ancient of Days.

In The Separate Plates of William Blake (1983), 258-60, R.N. Essick demonstrated that most separate prints of the Europe frontispiece are Muir lithographic facsimiles, not Blake’s originals.

In “Blake in the Marketplace, 2006”, Blake, XL (2007), 146, he demonstrates that the copies formerly in the Goyder and Keynes collections are, like a newly discovered copy acquired by Essick, Muir watercolours with no printed base at all.

I suspect that all the Muir facsimiles of “The Ancient of Days” with framing lines have a lithographic base, while those lacking the framing lines were completely executed by hand.

PLATE1 (The Ancient of Days [A], Rosenbach Museum)
<BB>

“The [brick-red] ink color and flat printing suggest that this is probably a posthumous impression. The broad, thin [gray] washes are similar to those found in some posthumous impressions of plates from Songs of Innocence and of Experience”, e.g., copy h, pl. 40 (“The Fly”), according to R.N. Essick, “Blake in the Marketplace, 2005”, Blake, XXXIX (2006), 149 n1.

PLATE 1 (The Ancient of Days [D])

BINDING: “printed by Blake, but probably hand-colored, at least in part, by someone other than Blake and his wife Catherine”--note “the careless handling of the rose-red tints in the clouds”--though “the coloring on the figure is more controlled and convincing; perhaps two different artists were responsible for these different styles”.<sup>167</sup> The leaf with a hand-drawn brown ink border just beyond the print was mounted, probably for George A. Smith about 1853, in a window cut in a larger sheet 30.7 x 23.7 cm, with stitch marks at the left of the host leaf and inscribed (probably by George A. Smith about 1853) “2” and “From Europe, frontispiece”.

HISTORY: See the “Order” of the Songs.

PLATE 13 (Essick)

COLOURING: SNAKE black, jade-green, and yellow.

---

<sup>167</sup> R.N. Essick, “Blake in the Marketplace, 2005”, Blake, XXXIX (2006), 156, thesource of all the information here.

PLATE 14 (Essick)

COLOURING: WINGS bluish green, robe tomato red, cloud brown, background black (bottom) and dark brown. The intriguing washes of colour suggest the preliminary hand of Mrs Blake. "The dark coloring of the background, the tomato red gown on the bat-winged Pope, and the general extent of hand coloring ... are very similar to what we find in Europe copy D",<sup>168</sup> q.v.

COPY A

Pl. 1 "copy A has red and black opaque paint applied to the impression by someone other than Blake" (Viscomi, 398).

HISTORY: (6) By 1977 Mr Mellon had given it to (7) The YALE CENTER FOR BRITISH ART.

It is reproduced online in the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi and the Yale Center for British Art.

COPY B

It was reproduced in colour in The Continental Prophecies, ed. D.W. Dörrbecker (1995), in the 1996 February 2-April 7 catalogue of the Fundación "la Caixa" in Madrid, plates 28a-q, in The Complete Illuminated Books, ed. David Bindman (2000), in the Petit Palais exhibition catalogue of 2 April-29 June 2009, online in Glasgow University Library and in the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi, and in various sizes in the 2014-2015 Ashmolean catalogue.

---

<sup>168</sup> R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2001", Blake, XXXV (2002), 109.

COPY C

HISTORY: (5) Mrs Emerson lent it to the exhibition at the Boston Museum of Fine Art in December 1929.<sup>169</sup>

COPY D

COLOURING: Copy D contains "at least two coloring styles, one characterized by rather flat, even washes ... and a second featuring smaller brushstrokes and a higher degree of skill and finish. Joseph Viscomi has suggested ... that Mrs. Blake was responsible for the first style. ... We should not, however, exclude the possibility that husband and wife shared coloring responsibilities on any given impression. In some examples, Catherine may have executed the larger areas of wash ... and William added the more detailed coloring, at least on some impressions."<sup>170</sup>

It is reproduced online in the Library of Congress and in the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi (2012).

COPY F

Reproduced online at the New York Public Library website ("NYPL Digital Gallery").

COPY G

Pace BB 142, copy G is not colour-printed (Viscomi, 126).

HISTORY: (4) Mrs Emerson lent it to the exhibition at the Boston Museum of Fine Art in December 1929. The work has been since 1972 in the PIERPONT MORGAN LIBRARY(see Visions [H]).

---

<sup>169</sup> N.B. Keynes and Wolf, William Blake's Illuminated Books: A Census (1953), quoted in BB 158, says that W.A. White gave copy H to his son-in-law F.M. Weld, Jr, but Ann Karnaghan says clearly that White's daughter Frances White Emerson lent two copies of Europe to the 1929 exhibition.

<sup>170</sup> R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2001", Blake, XXXV (2002), 109.

It was reproduced online in the William Blake Archive in 2009 and by the Pierpont Morgan Library.

COPY H

HISTORY:(6) Mrs John Briggs Potter lent "Uncolored pages" from it to the exhibition at the Boston Museum of Fine Art in December 1929. Reproductions of it were added to the William Blake Archive in 2004.

COPY I

HISTORY: For the possibility that it was first bought by James Ferguson, see America (N) with which it is bound.

COPY K

It is reproduced online in the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi.

COPY L

BINDING: By 1999 the leaves were individually mounted and matted, and the former binding by Riviere was carefully preserved separately.

NEW COPY

COPY N

BINDING: Bound with America (S), Urizen (K), Visions (S), and Thel (S) – see America (S).

In the 1862 catalogues, Europe (N) is said to have “15 engravings”, but all other copies of Europe have 17 prints (pl. 1-2, 4-18 in copies A-G, I, L-M) or 18 prints (copies H, K). The prints omitted in Europe (N) may be pl. 3 (lacking in most copies) and pl. 9-10, which are full-page prints without text.

HISTORY: For its provenance, see America (S) with which it was bound. It is now Untraced.

COPY a

Previously unknown sketches on the versos of pl. 1 and 18 were reported and reproduced by Robert N. Essick and Rosamond A. Paice, "Newly Uncovered Blake Drawings in the British Museum", Blake, XXXVII (2003-4), 84-100.

COPY c

For new details about pl. 1, see "The 'Order' of the Songs".

COPY b

It is reproduced online by the Pierpont Morgan Library.

PLATE 1 (with Jerusalem pl. 30 on the verso)

HISTORY: (5) By 1977 Mr Mellon had given it to (6) The YALE CENTER FOR BRITISH ART.

It is reproduced online by the Yale Center for British Art.

PLATE 1

It is reproduced online by the Whitworth Art Gallery.

PLATE 2

HISTORY: (2) Lady Cameron lent it to the exhibition described in §Catalogue of the Loan Collection of English Water-Colour Drawings Held at the Institute of Art Research, Ueno, Tokyo October 20-24th, 1929 ([Tokyo]: Privately Printed for the Binyon Reception Committee [1929]), p. 7.

PLATE 2 (with Jerusalem pl. 1 on the verso)

HISTORY: (4) Lent by "The Keynes Family Trust on deposit at the Fitzwilliam Museum" to the 1996 February 2-April 7 exhibition of the Fundación "la Caixa" in Madrid, No. 53a (Jerusalem pl. 1).

PLATES 6-7

In the pull of pl. 6 in Tate Britain, the leaf is cut off in mid-angel, and the vivid colouring is not Blake's. It is reproduced online by Tate Britain.

PLATE 11

It is reproduced online by the National Gallery of Victoria (Melbourne, Australia).

PLATES 11<sup>c</sup>, 17<sup>c</sup>

HISTORY: (1) The leaf with pl. 11<sup>c</sup>, 17<sup>c</sup> was acquired from Allen of New York about 1964 by (2) Mr Charles Ryskamp;<sup>171</sup> (3) Acquired by the dealer Nicholas Lott, who sold it to (4) A private collector, who sold it back to (5) Nicholas Lott, who sold it to in July 1994 to (6) Professor Robert N. Essick.<sup>172</sup>

NEW COPIES

PLATES 13-14

BINDING: Mounted in a window of a larger sheet of paper.

HISTORY: (1)Pl. 13-14 were sold anonymously at Christie's (London), 18 December 2001, lot 85 (reproduced, ESTIMATE: £10,000-£15,000) [for £26,000 to Edward Maggs acting for John Windle on behalf of Professor Robert N. Essick].

PLATE 18

HISTORY: (2) On 29 July 1942 Percy E. Lawler of the Rosenbach Company offered the print to Joseph Holland for $58.50 (according to the letter now in the collection of R.N.

---

<sup>171</sup> The HISTORY thus far derives from BBS 69; in BB 341, Europe pl. 11<sup>c</sup>, 17<sup>c</sup> were erroneously supposed to belong with Europe (c).

<sup>172</sup> The History of the leaf after it left the hands of Charles Ryskamp derives from a letter from Professor Essick to GEB of 1 Aug 1994.

Essick--see his "Blake in the Marketplace, 1995", Blake, XXIX [1996]), before the firm sold it on 7 April 1947 to the RHODE ISLAND SCHOOL OF DESIGN. <BBS>

NEW PRINTS

DESCRIPTION: Four monochrome plates from Europe.

HISTORY: Untraced.

On 20 February 1968, Mr Robert Nikirk, then a cataloguer for Parke-Bernet in New York, wrote to me that when he was a student at New York University in 1958-60 he had a part-time job with a bookseller downtown who shared a warehouse with the old customs brokerage firm of Tice and Lynch. They happened to be, along with mundane bread-and-butter business, the brokers for the leading museums, libraries, collectors, art dealers, and booksellers in the USA. I knew the owners, Mr. Weber and Mr. Weber, Jr., very well.

When I returned to NY in 1965 after Army service, I joined a friend in a bookselling business, from whence I moved to Parke-Bernet last fall. Early in 1965, Mr. Weber, Jr. asked me to look at a closet full of items which had been forfeited for non-payment of invoices or had remained unclaimed. It included several books and some drawings. Among these items (which included a battered leaf of the 42-line Bible) were 4 monochrome pages from Blake's Europe, and other oddities. Mr. Weber wanted me to undertake to sell these things, which I did, on a commission basis. The Blake item you saw [the Riddle Manuscript, which I bought] is the residue of this cache.

Although I feel that my situation in relation to being a vendor is somewhat changed now that I am no longer a bona fide bookseller, I suppose that I could still continue to sell what was consigned to me originally. But the problem is complicated by the fact that Mr. Weber's business went to pieces when he had a nervous breakdown late in 1965, and he has literally disappeared. I have money for him in a savings bank.

Mr Nikirk wrote again on 28 March 1968:

The original owner [of the Riddle MS and the Europe prints] in Europe<sup>173</sup> and the buyer here for these plates consigned to Tice and Lynch for customs clearance will remain unknown as the firm is out of business and the business records gone forever.

It is tempting to associate the Riddle Manuscript and the Europe prints with the venerable Dutch firm of Martinus Nijhoff, whose catalogues, at least in 1957,<sup>174</sup> bore the address of Tice and Lynch. The firm of Nijhoff flourished in the Hague with publications beginning in 1857.

---

<sup>173</sup> "in Europe" implies to me "on the Continent"; if the owner had been from the United Kingdom, Mr Nikirk probably have written "in England" or "in Britain".

<sup>174</sup> Martinus Nijhoff's Standard Catalogue 1957-1958: An Important Collection of Old and New Books, Standard Works and Periodical Sets. Temporary address in U.S.A.: Mr H.B. Corstius and Mr K. Kooijmans c/o Tice and Lynch Inc. 21 Pearl Street, New York 4, N.Y. [1957] [Grolier Club].

The Riddle Manuscript with which the four untraced monochrome prints from Europe were found is first recorded in a collection of over a hundred very miscellaneous Blake prints and drawings listed in BB under The Order of the Songs. That collection included monochrome prints of Europe (c) pl. 1-2, 4<sup>a</sup>, 4<sup>b</sup> (verso pl. 9<sup>b</sup>), 4<sup>c</sup> (verso pl. 9<sup>c</sup>), 5<sup>a</sup>, 6 (verso pl. 7), 9<sup>a</sup>, 10 (verso pl. 5<sup>b</sup>), 11<sup>b</sup> (verso pl. 17<sup>a</sup>), 11<sup>c</sup>, 12 (verso pl. 11<sup>a</sup>), 13-14, 15<sup>a-b</sup>, 16 (verso pl. 17<sup>b</sup>), 17<sup>c</sup>, and 18<sup>a-b</sup>. Of these, only pl. 15<sup>b</sup> is untraced. The four untraced monochrome Europe prints are unlikely to have come from the miscellaneous prints with The Order of the Songs.

I bought the Riddle Manuscript but neglected either to follow up on or to record the “4 monochrome pages from Blake’s Europe”. Robert Nikirk died on 5 September 1990, so the trail is now cold.

The Riddle Manuscript came with the large group of miscellaneous Blake prints sold with “The Order” of the Songs <BB 339>. This collection also included 27 prints from Europe (mostly from copy c) on 19 leaves. However, the histories of all these Europe prints save pl. 1 and 15<sup>b</sup> (which are untraced) indicate that they could not be the four Europe prints with which Mr Nikirk was entrusted.

EDITIONS

Europe a Prophecy (1969), The William Blake Trust <BB>

REVIEWS

§Anon., “Blake’s Political Disillusion”, Times Literary Supplement, 22 January 1970, p. 14

G.E. Bentley, Jr., “Blake Scholars and Critics: The Texts”, University of Toronto Quarterly, XXXIX (1970), 274-87 (with 5 others)

Europe: A Prophecy. Introduction by G.E. Bentley, Jr (1975)
The American Blake Foundation <BB>

REVIEW

D.V. E[rdman], Romantic Movement ... Bibliography for 1980 (1981), 72-73

§Europe: en profetia. Tr. Peter Glas. (Lund: Bakhåll, 1994)
26 cm, 47 pp.; ISBN: 9789177421245 In Swedish

**Europe A Prophecy (Illuminated Manuscript [sic] with the Original Illustrations of William Blake)*. (e-artnow, 2013)
ISBN: 9788074844102

Probably Europe (E) -- see The Complete Illustrated Books of William Blake.

“Exhibition of Paintings in Fresco”
(1809)

COPY A

HISTORY: (2) Sold with Blake’s letters to John Linnell of 11 October 1815 and to Ozias Humphry of May 1809 at Sotheby’s, 3-4 June 1907, lot 385 [for £10.15.0 to B.F. Stevens]

“A Fairy leapt”
(1793)

HISTORY: (1) Acquired by Dante Gabriel Rossetti, from whom it passed to (2) his brother William Michael Rossetti, who apparently gave it to (3) his physician; (4) James Rimell and Son, No. 288 Illustrated Catalogue of Rare Books (London, 1933), lot 64, offered at £225 on one leaf:

“A Fairy leapt upon my knee”, “1 page, small 4to.” (reproduced here in Plate IV), the first two lines quoted, with, on the verso, a pencil sketch of 'The Infant

Hercules Throttling the Serpents' <Butlin #253> with ruled scaled lines for engraving plus another leaf with a pencil sketch for “‘LOS IN HIS RAGE’ <#561 verso>, engraved as a decoration for the lower half of page 6 of ‘Jerusalem,’ 1804 (8 x 6¼ inches); on reverse:-

PENCIL SKETCH, also with ruled scalar lines for engraving, his interpretation of Fuseli’s design for SHAKESPEARE’S HENRY VIII, Act IV, Scene II, ‘Queen Katherine Awakening from her dream,’ which Blake engraved for Chalmers’ Shakespeare, 1805 (vol. 7, p. 235).” <#561>

The two leaves were "given by William Rossetti, taken from the collection of Blake Manuscripts which had been in possession of Dante Gabriel Rossetti,’ in return for professional services rendered to William Rossetti’s daughter when she dislocated her arm. A written declaration of authenticity by the late owner-recipient to this effect will be passed to the purchaser.”

The First Book of Urizen
(1794[-1818?])

TABLE

| Copy | Plates  | Leaves | Watermark         | BlakeNumber | BindingOrder   | Leaf Sizein Cm | PrintingColour  |
|------|---|--------|-------------------|-----------------|--|--------------------|---|
| E    | 1-3, 5-,15, 17-23, 26-28 <sup>175</sup> | 24     | J WHATMAN(10) | ---             | 1, 3, 5, 9, 2, 6,14, 7, 10, 8, 11,22, 13, 15, 18,17, 19, 12, 20- | 29.6 x 23.8        | green (2-3,5-8, 10-11, 13, 15,18-20, 23, |

---

<sup>175</sup> Pl. 9 is present and the duplicate pl. 12 is absent, pace Keynes, Bibliography (1921) and Keynes and Wolf, William Blake’s Illuminated Books: A Census (1953).

|               |        |    |     |     |  |                              |                          |                    |
|---------------|--------|----|-----|-----|--|------------------------------|--------------------------|--------------------|
|               |        |    |     |     |  | 21, 23, 26-28 <sup>176</sup> |                          | 28)                |
|               |        |    |     |     |  |                              |                          | orangish    |
|               |        |    |     |     |  |                              |                          | brown       |
|               |        |    |     |     |  |                              |                          | (1, 14,            |
|               |        |    |     |     |  |                              |                          | 27) <sup>177</sup> |
| K             | 11-15, | 27 |     |     |  |                              |                          |                    |
| Un-           | 17-28  |    |     |     |  |                              |                          |                    |
| traced        |        |    |     |     |  |                              |                          |                    |
| pl. 3         | 3      | 1  |     |     |  |                              | 9.9 x 6.1 <sup>178</sup> | colour-     |
| Sendak |        |    |     |     |  |                              |                          | printed     |
| pl. 3         | 3      | 1  | --- | --- |  |                              | 15.6 x 11.2              | pale        |
| Essick |        |    |     |     |  |                              |                          | orange      |

Weight and Cost of Copperplates

Five new plates weighed 1,001.4 grams = 2.2 pounds and would have cost 8s.11<sup>3</sup>/<sub>4</sub>d.

Urizen pl. 1, 3-5, 7-11, 13-16, 18, 20-21, 23-25, 27-28 are apparently etched on the versos of plates from the Marriage (see BB 166-67), and Urizen pl. 22 and 26 on the versos of Urizen pl. 12 and 17. Therefore only Urizen pl. 2, 6, 12 (with pl. 22 on the verso), 17 (pl. 26 on verso) and 19 required new pieces of copper.

According to Joseph Viscomi, Huntington Library Quarterly, LVIII (1996), 313 n38, it is Urizen pl. 21 (10.2 x 16.6) which is probably on the verso of Marriage pl. 19 (10.2 x

---

<sup>176</sup> Confirmed by the offsets on both print-versos and guard-leaves. N.B. Pl. 2 (the Preludium) is very lightly colour-printed and left no offset to confirm its very peculiar position.

<sup>177</sup> Most full-page designs (9, 12, 17, 21-22, 26) are coloured so heavily that the outline colour is invisible. In many prints, the design seems to be basically ochre. The ink was pressed so hard in printing that it sometimes oozed beyond the plate-mark, e.g., pl. 7 bottom.

<sup>178</sup> Design only when printed for A Small Book of Designs (B).

16.4) rather than Marriage pl. 16 (10.2 x 16.6 cm), as in BB 167.<sup>179</sup>

Copies were apparently printed in 1794 (H-I [proofs], A, C-F, J + separate pulls), and 1818 (G) (Viscomi, 376, 379).

The prints of pl. 4 in copies H-I appear certainly to have been printed with the impression in copy C: all three are printed in green ink with the illustration printed in shades of raw sienna and yellow ochre, the combination of inks characteristic of green copies C and F. These separate prints [in H-I] appear to have been extracted from copies E and F--or excluded from them when they were collated [Viscomi, 281].<sup>180</sup>

COLOURING

Pl. 3 The FLAMES are bronze, dark red, and black, and the MAN'S SKIN is greyish pink, his HAIR dark brown;

---

<sup>179</sup> The dimensions of prints in the Marriage given in Viscomi differ slightly from those in BB partly because he gives four dimensions (height on left and right sides, width at top and bottom) rather than two (width at bottom and height at right) and partly because he gives individual measurements for five copies, whereas BB gives average measurements for each print in all copies. However, the differences are not significant.

<sup>180</sup> Viscomi argues that in Urizen pl. 25 there are three etched faces in copy A and that a fourth is added to the copper in copies C-D, F. ("The added (or 'middle') face is not 'obscured' in copy A (BB 179); it is simply not there" [p. 413].) The absence of this fourth figure "in the proofs and copy A and its presence in the other impressions indicate that the copy A impression was the first pulled" (p. 282).

However, this fourth figure (like the others) appears only in the colour-printing -- of course we don't know what was etched -- and in A it seems to be present but ill-defined. If the presence of three or four figures is determined by the coloring, not the etching, the copperplate of pl. 25 is not in two states, though the order of printing may be determined by the presence or absence of this fourth figure in the coloring added in the process of printing.

DECORATIVE ELEMENTS in the design touched with brownish green (Essick copy).

Viscomi, 389, 413, refers to copperplate-makers' marks on Urizen (A) pl. 2, 19, and 28 which I did not record in my notes of the original and cannot find on the Plowman facsimile of copy A (1929).

COPY A

It was reproduced in The William Blake Archive (2002), by the Yale Center for British Art, and in Libros Proféticos, tr. Bernardo Santano (2013), Vol. I..

COPY B

It is printed in black with a brownish tint or in green (pl. 2, 4) (Viscomi, 126), not color-printed in brown (pl. 1, 3-7, 9-17, 19, 21-22, 24-28) and green (pl. 2, 8, 18, 20, 23) as in BB 168.

HISTORY: (5) A.E. Newton lent it to the Philadelphia Museum of Art exhibition (1926) ...

It was reproduced online in the William Blake Archive (2003) and by the Pierpont Morgan Library.

COPY C

BINDING: It was disbound at the YALE CENTER FOR BRITISH ART.

It was reproduced in The William Blake Archive (2002) and by the Yale Center for British Art.

COPY D

Reproduced in colour in The Urizen Books, ed. David Worrall (1995) and in The Complete Illuminated Books, ed. David Bindman (2000) and in 2006 in the William Blake Archive.

NEW COPY

COPY E

COPPERPLATE-MAKER'S MARK: On pl. 28 is a very clear copperplate-maker's mark of Pontifex (as in Jones and Pontifex in Europe pl. 1-2, 4-18, and I Pontifex and Co in Job pl. 2-13, 15, 17-21, and Dante) which has apparently not been previously recorded and which is not visible in reproductions of copies A-B, D, and G. It is another indication that this plate, and probably the others in Urizen, were etched on the versos of the Marriage (see BB 166-67).

COLOURING

The text is never coloured except for occasional brown touches on the vines and birds, though the designs are very heavily coloured. Most pink flesh seems to be watercoloured.

The work was probably colour-printed at the same time as copies A, C-D, F, and J, about 1795.

However, some colours were apparently added much later. There are black splotches, especially on pl. 1 and 21, as if from oxidized white lead, a colour not used in the other copies of Urizen printed at the same time. Pl. 9 and pl. 21 exhibit a strange raspberry red which is not found in the other copies of this print-run--or perhaps elsewhere in Blake's colouring. On pl. 7 and 21 the flesh is heavily coloured in an unBlake-like way so that the muscles and underlying printing are invisible.

These oddities on pl. 1, 7, 9, 21 and elsewhere suggest, as R.N. Essick points out ("Blake in the Marketplace, 1999", Blake, XXXIII [2000]), that Urizen (E) was touched up by someone other than the Blakes after the first colouring.

The guard-leaf facing pl. 21 was added when the ink was still moist enough to transfer to it. As the guard-leaves were apparently added when Clarke and Bedford bound the book c. 1841, this suggests that the colouring of pl. 21 and probably the other late colouring such as the raspberry red and the lead white were added about 1841.

Perhaps the person who commissioned the binding of Urizen (E) about 1841 was the one who arranged for the new colouring of it. This person may have been Charles Wentworth Dilke (1789-1864), whose son Sir Charles Wentworth Dilke (1810-69) is the first recorded owner of Urizen (E).<sup>181</sup> About 1840, the first Charles Wentworth Dilke "formed one of the best collections of Blake's drawings, and was one of the earliest admirers of his poems".<sup>182</sup> Certainly he was interested in Blake at this time, for about 1843 he visited John Linnell "to have another morning with Blake",<sup>183</sup> he bought Blake's Job and Dante engravings from Linnell in <sup>181</sup> Similarly the first Charles Wentworth Dilke may have commissioned Charles Murton about 1838 to bind the copy of Songs of Innocence (K) later owned by his son. The colouring of Innocence (K) seems quite unrelated to that of Urizen (E).

---

<sup>182</sup> The Papers of a Critic: Selected from the Writings of the late Charles Wentworth Dilke [1789-1864], ed. by his Grandson, Sir Charles Wentworth Dilke [1843-1911] (London, 1875), I, 51; insofar as the implied date of 1840 is valid, it must apply to books, for the Blake drawings of the original Charles Wentworth Dilke were acquired at the Butts sale in 1852 (Butlin #446, 463, 484, 489, 494, 548); his son acquired two more (Butlin #441, 807) by 1876.

<sup>183</sup> BB 784.

February 1843 and November 1844,<sup>184</sup> and Linnell wrote to Dilke about the Job borders on 27 September 1844.<sup>185</sup>

Pl. 1 There are oddly-placed black splotches as if of oxidation, especially on the MAN'S HAIR, CLOTHES, and BOOK.

Pl. 2 The woman's DRESS is yellow, and the SKY is streaked with red, pink, grey, and blue.

Pl. 5 The BOOK is mottled very dark brown, and the SKY at top left is dark to pale blue, top right black. The patterns of white at bottom are very similar to those in D.

Pl. 6 The RIGHT MAN is blond, and the one on the left has black hair; the SERPENTS are black and red.

Pl. 7 The MAN is purplish pink, his HAIR is brown, and the FLAMES are orange and salmon red.

Pl. 8 The SKELETON is brown, the BACKGROUND very dark blue with green and brown at the bottom.

Pl. 9 The MAN is pink; above him is mottled dark brown, blue, and orange; the ROCK below him is dark orange; the rest is mostly black.

Pl. 10 The MAN is greyish pink; the near ROCKS are brown, the far ones dark brown.

Pl. 11 The MAN is pink; his BACKGROUND is very dark bluish brown; the SKELETON is grey and brown; his BACKGROUND-FLAMES are orange and tawny brown; the CHAIN and HAMMER are black.

Pl. 12 The WATER is black with green.

---

<sup>184</sup> BR (2) 795.

<sup>185</sup> BR (2) 869.

Pl. 13 The PERSON is grey and blue; the CLOUDS to right are dark blue, while those to left are black; and the BUTTERFLIES are black and red.

Pl. 14 The SKY to right is black, the rest mostly grey; the ROCKS under each hand are grey.

Pl. 15 FLESH is greyish purple, the MEN to right and left have white HAIR and BEARDS, and the middle MAN has yellow and brown HAIR; the BACKGROUND is tawny orange and red; the SEA is dark blue; and the PLANTS are touched with brown.

Pl. 17 The GLOBE, SASH, and FLAMES are shades of red; the person has dark brown HAIR and greyish pink FLESH.

Pl. 18 The MAN is pink and his HAIR ochre; the FLAMES are tawny orange and brown (top right red); the HAMMER is black; and the BACKGROUND black and greyish green.

Pl. 19 The woman's HAIR is yellow, the MAN's brown; the BACKGROUND at right is dark purple; the ROCKS (or CLOUDS) to left and bottom are brown; the VINES are touched with brown.

Pl. 20 The FLAMES round the child are lemon yellow, others tawny brown and orange to dark brown; the VINES are touched with brown.

Pl. 21 FLESH is pink, the MAN darker than the WOMAN and BOY; the MAN has brown HAIR, the others are blond; the CHAIN is an odd red; the HAMMER is brown; the BACKGROUND is dark brown, orange, and at top is some red and orange.

Pl. 22 The MAN is pink and brown, and the CHAINS are black; the LIGHT from his head is orange, the BACKGROUND black.

Pl. 23 FLESH is pink, the CLOTHES uncoloured; the GLOBE and RAYS are red; the very clear LION is brown; the BACKGROUND is mostly mottled brown; above the rocks is purplish blue.

Pl. 26 The BOY'S HAIR is brown, his CLOTHES uncoloured; the DOG is black and white, the BACKGROUND mottled brown.

Pl. 27 The man's FLESH is pink, his HAIR brown, his CLOTHES uncoloured; the BACKGROUND is mottled brown to blue.

Pl. 28 The MAN is outlined in brown, his FLESH is pink, and his CLOTHES uncoloured; the ROPE is black, and the BACKGROUND is black (bottom) and very dark blue (top).

VARIANTS: The control text was the Blake Trust facsimile (1995) of copy D. Features such as faces, toes, and hands, are mostly NOT touched up by hand as in copy D. The running-head is clear on pl. 5, 10, 12 (not visible in D), 14 (very faint in D), 16, 18, 20, 26.

Pl. 2 There is a crease in the paper across the woman's back and arm, and the plants are quite thin and slight.

Pl. 5 The man looks at the viewer (not down as in D).

Pl. 6 Vine-flourishes (added by hand on the paper, not printed from the copperplate) cover the gap in text at the right.

Pl. 9 The head of a grazing horse is fairly clear to the right of the man. In copies A-B, D, G that area is plainly rocks.

Pl. 10 "Chap: IV" has been altered to "Chap: III", apparently by scratching out the "IV" on the paper and altering it in the colour of the printing-ink to "III".

Pl. 11 There is no sign of the tree(?) above the right man's knee which is clear in copy D.

Pl. 14 There is striation similar to that in copy D on the cloud over the man's leg and in his hair but little elsewhere.

Pl. 15 The old men's eyes look down (left) or are closed (right), not looking forward as in D. The right man's beard overlaps the sea, and there are swirls as of cloth above his head.

Pl. 17 The object which is fairly clearly a sash (leaving buttocks and legs bare) is blood or veins in D; the globe is not luminous. There is no hint of bloody veins flowing from the person's head to the globe.

Pl. 18 There is a shadow to the left from his left leg.

Pl. 21 There is disfiguring Black on Enitharmon's cheek, perhaps oxidation. Los looks at Orc (not at Enitharmon, as in D).

On pl. 21, at the left side about a third of the way from the top, is a patch of very dark brown colouring with some fragments of paper clinging to it,<sup>186</sup> which corresponds to a discoloured hole in the facing guard-leaf and to dark brown fragments opposite the guard-leaf hole on the verso of the previous leaf (pl. 20). This suggests that the guard-leaf was there when the colouring was still wet or humid. However, the print-versos have offsets from the facing prints, indicating that these offsets occurred before the guard-leaves were added. Apparently part of the colouring was added about the same time as the guard-leaves, c. 1841.

Pl. 23 There are six spikes from the globe (rather than eight as in D) and a line on the man's left wrist as of a gown or an anachronistic wrist-watch (not visible in D).

---

<sup>186</sup> There is a similar defect in the Brown of the man's left knee on pl. 21 but nothing corresponding on the guard-leaf.

Pl. 26 Light comes from the top left.

Pl. 27 There are very few of the striations visible in D.

Pl. 28 Yellow lines flow unambiguously from the man's head.

BINDING: Bound about 1841 by "CLARKE & BEDFORD" (partners in 1841-50), whose names are stamped on the verso of the first fly-leaf, with three fly-leaves at front and three at the back (the last watermarked "J WHATMAN | TURKEY MILL | 1839") and with unwatermarked guard-leaves,<sup>187</sup> in brown morocco, elaborately gilt, all edges gilt<sup>188</sup> (including the fly-leaves), scattered foxing. The spine at front is separating from the text. No stab hole from the previous sewing is visible.

HISTORY: (1) Acquired by Sir Charles Dilke (according to the 1886 catalogue below); (2) Acquired by Frederick Locker-Lampson, who added his elaborate bookplate ("Frederick Locker Fear God Fear Nought"), lent it to the Burlington Fine Arts Club exhibition (1876), No. 313, had it listed in his catalogue (1886), and sold it with the Rowfant Library through Dodd, Mead & Co in 1905 to E.D. Church (it is not listed in G.W. Cole, A Catalogue of Books ... Forming a Part of The Library of E.D. Church [1909]); (3) Acquired by Mrs Harry Payne Whitney, who lent it to the Grolier Club Blake exhibition (1919-20), No. 13; after her death in 1942 it passed to (4) Helen Hay Whitney, who added her bookplate, and passed it to (5) John Hay Whitney and from him to his widow

---

<sup>187</sup> The presence of offsets on the versos of the print-leaves indicates that the guard-leaves were not present when the work was first bound. Sometimes there is surprisingly-heavy show-through on the versos of heavily printed leaves.

<sup>188</sup> The leaves with pl. 7 and 15 are slightly shorter than the others, ragged at bottom, and therefore not gilt. This suggests that the trimming in 1841 was not very drastic.

(6) Betsey Cushing Whitney, after whose death in 1998 it was sold at Sotheby's (N.Y.), 23 April 1999, lot 535 (pl. 1, 9, 12, 18, 22, 26 reproduced) (ESTIMATE: $500,000-$700,000) for $2,300,000 (plus $200,000 Sotheby fee plus 10-15% agent's fee) to Nancy Bialler of Sotheby's on the telephone for (7) an Anonymous collection.

For an account of the 1999 sale, see Dr Elizabeth B. Bentley, "Urizen in New York City", Blake, XXXIII (1999), 27-30.

COPY F

HISTORY: Offered with Book of Thel (A) and the Marriage of Heaven and Hell (A) by Quaritch, November 1885, lot 51, for £150.

It was reproduced online in The William Blake Archive (2002 and by Harvard Libraries.

COPY G

Reproduced, in reduced size and black-and-white, in Christian Frommert, Heros und Apokalypse (1996), as a CD-Rom in 2001 by "Octavo" with a 12-page accompanying booklet by Nicholas Barker, and with a translation by José Luis Palomares in 2002, in El Libro de Urizen, ed. José Luis Palomares (2002), and online in the Library of Congress and in the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi..

NEWCOPY

COPY K

BINDING: Bound with America (S), Europe (N), Thel (S), and Visions (S) – see America (S). Among previously recorded copies, only Urizen (F) was bound with other works – with Thel (A) and Marriage (A).

Urizen (K) is reported in the 1862 sale catalogues (see HISTORY below) as having 27 prints;<sup>189</sup> it probably consisted of pl. 1-15, 17-28.

HISTORY: For its provenance, see America (S) with which it was bound. It is now Untraced.

PLATES 1-3, 5, 7, 9, 11-12, 17, 19, 22-23

See Small Book of Designs (B).

PLATES 1, 5, 7, 11, 17

See Small Book of Designs (A).

PLATES 2, 7, 11-12, 17, 19, 23

The prints are reproduced in the Tate Britain online catalogue in 2013.

PLATE 3

BINDING: Loose; when the design (only) was printed for the Small Book of Designs (B), a breast was added in the colouring, and at some point the leaf was cut down to the image; on the verso is a slight sketch.<sup>190</sup> The print and the design on its verso are described and reproduced in Martin Butlin, "Another Rediscovered Small Color Print by William Blake", Blake, XXVII, 3 (Winter 1993-94), 68, suggesting that the print was intended for the Small Book of Designs (B).

---

<sup>189</sup> Two previously recorded copies of Urizen (A-B) have 28 prints;; one (G, 1818) has 27; two (D, F) have 26; two (C, J) have 25 (not counting the duplicate pl. 2 in copy C); and one (E) has 24). All but copy G with fewer than 28 prints lack pl. 16, and probably pl. 16 is the print omitted from copy K.

<sup>190</sup> Details of Urizen pl. 3 here derive from Martin Butlin, "Another Rediscovered Color Print by William Blake", Blake, XXVII (1993-94), 68, the Christie catalogue (1995), and R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace 1995, Blake, XXIX (1996).

HISTORY: (1) ... Lent to the exhibition of §A Peculiarly English Art, Gainsborough's House (Sudbury), 20 August-9 October 1994, No. 1, and (2) Sold anonymously at Christie's, 25 April 1995, lot 52 (the design only reproduced) ESTIMATE: £30,000-£50,000) for £32,000 (plus commission) to (3) Maurice Sendak.

PLATE 3

HISTORY: It was lent by the Keynes Family Trust to the Tate Exhibition (9 November 2000-11 February 2001) as No. 286.

PLATE 3

BINDING: Loose.

HISTORY: (1) This may be the print of Urizen pl. 3 (15.8 x 11.0) which was removed (leaving behind an offset) at an unknown date before 1976 from f. 21<sup>r</sup> of a volume of miscellaneous prints and manuscripts now in the Pierpont Morgan Library <BBS>, (2) Sold anonymously at Christie's (London), 18 December 2001, lot 84 (reproduced, ESTIMATE: £25,000-£35,000) [for £40,000 to Edward Maggs acting for John Windle on behalf Professor Robert N. Essick].

PLATES 5, 10

HISTORY: (3) Offered, in James Tregaskis Caxton Head Catalogues 815 (30 June 1919), lots 1 (£65) and 2 (£70) and 830 (September 1920), lots 41 (£65) and 42 (£70).

PLATE 9

HISTORY: (3) After its sale in 1967 it was acquired by Dorothy Braude Edinburg (of Brookline, Massachusetts), who lent it in 1998 as a promised gift to the Harry B. and Bessie K. Braude Collection of the ART INSTITUTE OF CHICAGO (accession No. 94.1998).

PLATE 9

BINDING: This loose copy of Urizen pl. 9 has one ink framing-line (visible in the Parsons reproduction) and apparently no inscription (at least none is mentioned in the Parsons catalogue).

It is distinct from the Newton-Princeton loose copy of pl. 9, probably made for the Small Book of Designs (B), which has three framing-lines and an inscription <BB>.

The Leathart copy (on loan, and promised as a gift, to the Art Institute of Chicago) has one black ink framing line <BB> and no inscription, and the reproduction of it in the Christie catalogue of 14 March 1967, lot 85, demonstrates (as Professor Essick tells me) that the pattern of colouring in it is quite distinct from the copy of Pl. 9 reproduced in the Parsons catalogue.

None of these copies of Urizen pl. 9 can be associated with Urizen copy E, which Keynes (1921), Keynes and Wolf (1953), and BB (following them) reported to be missing pl. 9, for when Copy E turned up in 1999 it proved to have pl. 9 after all.

HISTORY: (1) Offered in E. Parsons & Sons Catalogue 37 (1921), lot 23 (reproduced), at £68.5.0; (2) Untraced.

PLATE 9

HISTORY: (4) given by Dorothy Braude Edinburg in 2012 to The ART INSTITUTE (Chicago, Inventory Number 2012.74), where it is reproduced online.

PLATE 9 (or 22)

HISTORY: This or pl. 22 may be the [?print from] "the beautifully drawn and coloured 'Urizen'" which A.E. Newton lent to the Philadelphia Museum of Art exhibition (1926) ....

PLATE 21

It is reproduced online by the National Gallery of Victoria (Melbourne, Australia).

EDITIONS

El Libro de Urizen. (Traduccion y Noticia de N.N.) (San Sebastian: Grafico-Editora, S.L., 1947) 52 pp. In Spanish

"Noticia" (pp. 5-9). The prose translation of Urizen seems to be little more than an adaptation of the translation of Edmundo Gonzalez-Blanco (1928). <BB>

The Book of Urizen (1958), The William Blake Trust <BB>

REVIEWS

§Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 28 November 1958, p. 690

§Bernard Blackstone, New Statesman, LVI (13 December 1958), 861-62

§Martin Butlin, Burlington Magazine, CI, 676/677 (July-August 1959), 301-2

§Vivian de S. Pinto, Modern Language Review, LXIV (1969), 404-7

§"A Critical Variorum Edition of William Blake's The Book of Urizen." Ed. Patricia Dell Elliott. Arkansas Ph.D., 1978. 305 leaves.

The Book of Urizen, ed. Kay Parkhurst Easson and Roger R. Easson (1978, 1979) <BBS>

REVIEWS

§Elizabeth Sewell, Notre Dame English Journal, NS XII, 1 (October 1979), 74-77 (with another)

*Stuart Curran, Blake, XIV, 3 (Winter 1980-81), 138-43

§The Book of Urizen: A Facsimile in Full Color. ([N.Y.: Dover Publications, 1997) ISBN: 0486298109, $4.95. B. §(2007)

§Primiero Livro de Urizen. Tr. [&c] João Almeida Flor. (Lisbon: Assirio and Alvim, 1983) 19 cm, 67 pp. B. [Second Edition] (Lisbon: Assirio and Alvim, 1993) 8°, 69 pp.; ISBN: 9723701367 In English and Portuguese

**El Libro de Urizen (The Book of Urizen).* Ed. and tr. José Luis Palomares. Edición Facsímil y Bilingüe. (Madrid: Ediciones Hiperión, septiembre 2002) 8°, 189 pp.; ISBN: 8475177379 In Spanish

*"Estudio Preliminar: Urizen: La Creación como Catastrofe" (pp. 7-56), colour reproduction of Copy G, the plates printed back-to-back (pp. 59-86), English transcription and Spanish translation on facing pages (pp. 87-137), "Notas y Comentarios" (pp. 139-84), "Bibliografía: [3] Ediciones Existentes de El Libro de Urizen an Castellano" (p. 185).

§The First Book of Urizen. ([Whitefish, Montana]: Kessinger Publishing, 2010) 28 pp.; ISBN: 9781161463293

**The [First] Book of Urizen (Illuminated Manuscript [sic] with the Original Illustrations of William Blake).* (e-artnow, 2013) ISBN: 9788074844096

Probably Urizen (G) -- see The Complete Illustrated Books of William Blake.

For Children: The Gates of Paradise
(1793)

TABLE

| Copy     | Plates | Leaves |
|-----------------|---------------|---------------|
| F               | 1-18, +       | 19            |
| Untraced | another pl.   |               |

(1793)

Weight and Cost of Copperplates

The 18 plates in For Children (1793) weighed 1,065.1 grams = 2.34 pounds and cost £1.13.9.

All copies were apparently printed in 1793 (A-E) (Viscomi, 376).

COPY B

HISTORY: (1) It is perhaps Thomas Griffiths Wainewright's copy<sup>191</sup> which was sold with Wheatley's own library by Fletcher and Wheatley, 12 December 1837, lot 363;<sup>192</sup> (2) Perhaps this is the copy acquired by T.J. Denman, nephew of Flaxman's wife Anne and sister-in-law Maria Denman (1779-23 December 1859) and probably son of Thomas Denman (1786-28 September 1851) Flaxman's studio assistant; "Mr Denman's copy" was used or acquired by Gilchrist's widow Anne,<sup>193</sup> for whom W.J. Linton made kerographs from pl. 2, 4,

---

<sup>191</sup> Like America (G), Descriptive Catalogue (F), Europe (B), Jerusalem (B), Marriage (I), and Songs (X) which were sold for Wainewright by Wheatley. The histories of the other copies of For Children exclude them conclusively (A, D-E) or probably (C) from this 1837 sale.

<sup>192</sup> See Marc Vaulbert de Chantilly, "Property of a Distinguished Poisoner: Thomas Griffiths Wainewright and the Griffiths family library," pp. 111-42 of Under the Hammer: Book Auctions Since the Seventeenth Century, ed. Robin Myers, Michael Harris, and Giles Mandelbrote (New Castle [Delaware]: Oak Knoll Press; London: The British Library, 2001).

<sup>193</sup> Anne Gilchrist: Her Life and Writings, ed. Herbert Harlakenden Gilchrist (1887), 123, a reference missed by GEB but quoted in Joseph Viscomi, "Blake after Blake: A Nation Discovers Genius", p. 225 in Blake, Nation and Empire, ed. Steve Clark and David Worrall (2006). T.J. Denman was "owner of the richest collection of his [Flaxman's] drawings and other memorials" (The Drawings of Flaxman in the Gallery of University College London, ed. Sidney

7, 9-10, 14, 16 for Gilchrist (1863); (3) Sold by Colnaghi and Co on 12 July 1862 to (4) The BRITISH MUSEUM PRINT ROOM.

COPY C

HISTORY: (5) A.E. Newton lent it to the Philadelphia Museum of Art exhibition (1926) ...

COPY D

HISTORY: Reproduced in Michael Bedard, The Gates of Paradise (2006).

The History of For Children (D) as given in BBS should rather apply to For the Sexes (D).

NEW COPY

COPY F

BINDING: A small square octavo with 19 prints. If it was acquired in 1794 (see HISTORY below), the work must be For Children: The Gates of Paradise (1793) with 18 prints rather than For the Sexes: The Gates of Paradise (1826 and later) with 21 prints. The 19th print in Flaxman's Gates of Paradise may have been a duplicate.

HISTORY:(1) Acquired by John Flaxman, probably about 1797 when he bought America (S), Thel (S), Europe (N), Urizen (K), and Visions (S) bound together;<sup>194</sup> (2) Probably inherited by Flaxman's adopted daughter Maria Denman (1776-1861) (see America (S)); (3)Offered "From Flaxman's library" in Willis and Sotheran catalogue of 25 June 1862, lot Colvin [1876], 3; see pp. 44-45). His aunt Maria Denman owned Blake's Descriptive Catalogue (N) (given to Crabb Robinson in 1842), letters of Autumn 1800, 19 Oct 1801, and 18 March 1827 (sold 1883), and Songs (O) (sold in 1876).

---

<sup>194</sup> Or perhaps "Blake's Engravings" for which Flaxman paid 4s in October 1795 (BR (2) 758) were for For Children plus an extra print. In "To the Public" (1793), For Children is priced at 3s. Flaxman was in Italy 1787-1794 when For Children was published.

117, £3.10.0 (q.v.) but not in that of 25 December 1862;
(3)Untraced.

NEW IMPRESSION

PLATE 15

BINDING: Loose, inscribed "13" at the lower left, second state.

WATERMARK: Laid paper without watermark; vertical chain-lines 2.75 cm apart. (For Children (A-B, D-E) are on wove paper.)

LEAF SIZE: 7.4 x 8.5 cm. Plate-mark: 7.2 x 8.1 cm. Second state.

HISTORY: (1) Sold anonymously at Rosebery Auctions (London), autumn 2011, to (2) Nicholas Lott of Larkhall Fine Art (Bath), who sold it on 30 December 2011 to (3)Robert N. Essick.<sup>195</sup>

This is the only known loose print from For Children; all the known copies are complete. However, there are numerous loose prints from For the Sexes: The Gates of Paradise. The leaves for the known prints from For Children are significantly larger than pl. 15 here, and in For the Sexes only pl. 6-7 (Keynes-Fitzwilliam) are this small (8.3 x 8.9 cm). The fragmentary For the Sexes copies J and L (far larger) lack pl. 15.

NEW COPY

PLATE 18

---

<sup>195</sup> All the information about For Children pl. 15 derives from Robert N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2012", Blake (2013), who reproduced it.

HISTORY: (1) Offered and reproduced in Folio Fine Art Ltd Catalogue 5 (January 1968), No. 22, "second or third state ... with 1" margins" for £38; (2) Untraced.

EDITIONS

The Gates of Paradise (1968), The William Blake Trust <BB>

REVIEWS

§Anon., "William Blake in Collotype and Correspondence", Times Literary Supplement, 20 March 1969 (with 2 others)

§L.W., Connoisseur, 171 (July 1969), 188

D.V. E[rdman], English Language Notes, VII (1969), 22-23

G.E. Bentley, Jr., "Blake Scholars and Critics: The Texts", University of Toronto Quarterly, XXXIX (1970), 274-87 (with 5 others)

**For Children: The Gates of Paradise (Illuminated Manuscript [sic] with the Original Illustrations of William Blake)*. (e-artnow, 2013) ISBN: 978807484413

Probably For Children (A or D) -- see The Complete Illustrated Books of William Blake.

For the Sexes: The Gates of Paradise
(1826-1831?)

Weight and Cost of Copperplates

The three additional copperplates in For the Sexes (?1826) weighed 254.3 grams = 0.56 pounds and cost 5s.7½d.

Copies were apparently printed in ?1820 (A, B), ?1825 (J-M [proofs], C, D), and ?posthumously (E-I) (Viscomi, 380-81). A copy of pl. 18 offered at §Swann Galleries, "Works of Art on Paper" (12 November 1998), No. 185 (called "Second state", platemark 11.5 x 9.0 cm, ESTIMATE: $1,200-$1,800, not sold), is shown to be an imitation by R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 1998", Blake, XXXII (1999).

COPY A

Copy A is reproduced in colour online in the Library of Congress.

COPY D

HISTORY: (4) It was offered in The Rosenbach Company's Catalogue of the Exhibition of Manuscripts and Rare Books (January-February 1931), 28, no number or price; in A Catalogue of Rare Books of Six Centuries (1935), lot 148, for $2,465; in The World of Yesterday (1939), lot 43, for $2,750; in A Bibliophile's Miscellany (1941), lot 56, for $2,750; and in The March of Books Through the Ages (1945), lot 47, for $2,750.<sup>196</sup>

It is reproduced online in the Library of Congress.

COPY E

It is reproduced online by the Yale Center for British Art.

COPY F

Reproduced in The Complete Illuminated Books, ed. David Bindman (2000) and online in Huntington Digital Images.

COPY G

HISTORY: (2) Offered in Quaritch's catalogue (1864), lot 6,522, for £6.15.0 <see under Catalogues>; ... (4) By 1977 Mr Mellon had given it to (5) The YALE CENTER FOR BRITISH

---

<sup>196</sup> In BBS this History is mis-attributed to For Children: The Gates of Paradise (D).

ART.

It is reproduced online by the Yale Center for British Art.

COPY H

HISTORY: After its sale at Sotheby's, 29 July 1925 [for £31 to Parsons], it was sold anonymously at American Art Association, 14 January 1926, lot 40 (title page reproduced) [for $400 to Phenix, according to the Essick copy of the catalogue].

COPY K

Copy K is reproduced in colour online in the Library of Congress.

COPY M

HISTORY: For the Sexes: The Gates of Paradise pl. 3-8, 13-15, 17 (called Copy M in BBS p. 79), which were offered anonymously at Sotheby's, 17 March 1966, lot 92 [bought for £180 by the dealer Christopher Mendez] and sold to various buyers, were from the Muir facsimile (1888).<sup>197</sup>

Copy M, therefore, is a ghost, here laid to rest.

COPY N

HISTORY: (4) The anonymous collector <BBS> evidently passed it to an Anonymous New York private foundation which lent it to the exhibition at the University of Virginia Art Museum, 2002 January 26-March 31.

NEWLY DISCOVERED PRINT

PLATE 2

HISTORY: (1) Sold, with George Richmond's sketch of Blake on his death-bed, by a London dealer in 1942 to (2) William Inglis Morse, the son of Samuel F.B. Morse the painter and inventor, from whom they passed to Morse's son-in-law (3)

---

<sup>197</sup> Robert N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2012", Blake (2013), reporting what "Nicholas Lott tells me".

Professor Frederick Hilles, who gave them about 1955 to (4) Professor Harold Bloom (from whose letter to me of 22 July 2003 all this information derives). It is to go with Bloom's archives and "personal library" of 25,000 books to (5) St Michael's College, Colchester, Vermont.<sup>198</sup>

PLATE 14

HISTORY: ... (2) Sold at Sotheby's, 19 January 1885, lot 575 (The Ghost of Abel erroneously described as a "Facsimile") for £1.16.0 to J. Pearson, who offered them in his Catalogue 58 at £12.12.0.

EDITIONS

For the Sexes: The Gates of Paradise [B]. (London: Frederick Hollyer, 1925) <BB>

According to a prospectus (?1925), ordinary copies of this facsimile of the copy of Miss C. Carthew were for sale at 15s and 55 copies (only 50 of which were for sale) on "platinotype paper" at £4.4.0.<sup>199</sup>

Pour Les Sexes: Les Grilles de Paradise, tr. Denis Roche (1976) <BB>

REVIEW

Anon., Nouvelles Littéraires, No. 2534 (26 May 1976), 32, tr. in Blake, XI, 2 (Fall 1977), 119

**For the Sexes: the Gates of Paradise (Illuminated*

---

<sup>198</sup> Divitia Smith, "Critic's Books to Go to Small College", New York Times, 12 April 2003, p. A9.

<sup>199</sup> A copy of the prospectus for all Hollyer's Blake reproductions is with the Muir facsimile of For the Sexes in the West Sussex Records Office; the prospectus presumably pre-dates Hollyer's reproduction of All Religions are One (1926), which is not mentioned there.

Manuscript [sic] with the Original Illustrations of William Blake). (e-artnow, 2013) ISBN: 9788074844201

Probably For the Sexes (K) -- see The Complete Illustrated Books of William Blake.

The Four Zoas; see Vala

“Genesis The Seven Days of the Created World.”

[transcript from Tasso]

HISTORY: (4) Offered in Rosenbach catalogue (November-December 1921), p. 4, no price named.

Genesis: Verses from a Manuscript of William Blake (1952)
<BB>

REVIEW

§Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 12 September 1953, p. 594

See K. Povey, “Blake’s ‘Genesis’”, 3 October 1953, p. 645 (Blake was the transcriber, not the author)

The Ghost of Abel* (1822)

Weight and Cost of the Copperplate

The two pages of The Ghost of Abel, probably etched on recto and verso of one copperplate (see BB 208), weighed 260.8 grams = 0.58 pounds and cost 15s.

All copies were apparently printed in 1822 (A-E) (Viscomi, 380).

COPY A

HISTORY: Lent to the University of Pennsylvania Blake exhibition (17-21 October 1936).

Reproduced in MILTON A POEM and the Final Illuminated Books, ed. Robert N. Essick and Joseph Viscomi (1993), in The Complete Illuminated Books, ed. David Bindman (2000), and online by the Library of Congress and in the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi.

COPY B

It was reproduced in the Petit Palais exhibition catalogue of 2 April-29 June 2009.

COPY C

The work is reproduced online in Huntington Digital Images.

EDITION

§The Ghost of Abel: A Revelation in the Visions of Jehovah. Transcribed by Algernon Charles Swinburne, Presented in 1939 by C.A. Stonehill to Lessing J. Rosenwald. 2 pp., 33 x 21 cm. There are copies in Alberta, Huntington Library, Library of Congress, and Nebraska (Lincoln).

**The Ghost of Abel: A Revelation in the Visions of Jehovah Seen by William Blake (Illuminated Manuscript [sic] with the Original Illustrations of William Blake)*. (e-artnow, 2013) ISBN: 9788074844195

Probably Ghost of Abel (A) -- see The Complete Illustrated Books of William Blake.

INSCRIPTIONS ON DESIGNS

Blake's Illuminated Manuscript of Genesis. Ed. Robert R. Wark (American Blake Foundation [?1975]), 28 x 38 cm, 14 pp. with full-size colour reproductions of the 11-leaf MS, in a cloth portfolio gilt-stamped "William Blake | The Genesis | Manuscript", unpublished proofs, never published. Sold by John Windle to Robert N. Essick. Another set was sold by Windle to the Library of Victoria University in the University of Toronto.

Poems and Descriptions of Designs for Gray's Poems
(1797)

HISTORY: (6) Paul Mellon lent them to the Yale University Art Gallery exhibition of Blake Illumines Gray (16 March-23 April 1972); by 1977 Mr Mellon had given them to (7) The YALECENTER FOR BRITISH ART.

"Mother & Father, I return From flames of fire, tried & pure & white"

The inscribed drawing is reproduced in colour online in the Library of Congress.

An Island in the Moon*
(?1784)

EDITIONS

En ö på månen, ed. and tr. Göran Malmqvist (1979) <BBS>
REVIEW

*Erik Frykman, Blake, XIV, 4 (Spring 1981), 217-18

An Island in the Moon, ed. Michael Phillips (1987) <BBS>
REVIEWS

D.W. Dörrbecker, Blake, XXII, 2 (Fall 1988), 39

§David McKitterick, Book Collector, XXXVII, 3
(Autumn 1988), 423-24

§Michael Baron, English, XXXVII (1988), 82-88 (an omnibus review)

M[ark] T. S[mith], *Romantic Movement ...
Bibliography for 1987* (1988), 123

*G.E. Bentley, Jr, Blake, XXII, 3 (Winter 1988-89), 103-5

Reply in Michael Phillips, "An Island in the Moon", Blake, XXII (1988-89), 110-11

§Jonathan Wordsworth, Review of English Studies, XL, 160 (November 1989), 571-73

§Robert N. Essick, Huntington Library Quarterly, LII, 1 (Winter 1989), 139-42

§Peter L. Caracciolo, Library, 6 S, XI (1989), 172-74

David V. Erdman, Eighteenth Century ... Bibliography for 1988 (1989)

§Ken Edward Smith, British Journal for Eighteenth-Century Studies, XII (1989), 231-32

§Martin Bidney, Studies in Romanticism, XXIX, 1 (Spring 1990), 317-23 (with another)

David V. Erdman, Eighteenth Century ... Bibliography, NS XIII (1994), 384-85

**Uma Ilha na Lua*. Tr. [&c] Manuel Portela. (Lisboa: Edições Antígona, 1996) 8°, 110 pp.; ISBN: 9726080770 In Portuguese

The preface is pp. 9-32.

An Island in the Moon. Ed. and Decorated by Gavin O'Keefe. ([Newport News (Virginia), later in 1998 Lilburn, Georgia:] Purple Mouth Press, 1998) 8°, iv, 28 pp.; ISBN: 0960330054

In "The Work" (p. 28), O'Keefe says that he has tried "to present as readable a version of the story as is possible"; some of his designs show a moon-scape.

§An Island in the Moon. Illustrated by Nicholas Parry. (Market Drayton [Shropshire]: Tern Press, 2007) 36 pp., 35 signed copies

§An Island in the Moon: Eine Insel im Mond. Tr. Gernot Krämer and Jan Weinert. Mit Anmerkungen und einem Nachwort von Gernot Krämer sowie Illustrationen von Horst Husserl. ([?Munche]: Bin Matthes and Seitz, 2007) 8°, 126 pp.; ISBN: 9783882218992 In English and German

An Island in the Moon. William Blake Archive. Ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi (2010).

**Una isla en la luna.* Edición bilingüe de Fernando Castanedo. Traducción de Fernando Castanedo. (Madrid: Cátedra, 2014) Colección Letras Universales 8°, 239 pp., 88 illustrations, including all of An Island in the Moon and the formation of letters and words in it; ISBN: 9788437633343 English and Spanish on facing pages

"Introducción"

"Vida de William Blake" (pp. 9-37)

"Una isla en la luna" [description of the text] (pp. 38-41)

"Fecha de composición" (pp. 41-48)

"Historia y características del manuscrito" (pp. 47-54)

"La inscripción a lápiz del folio 9 recto" (pp. 54-66)

"Género literario" (pp. 66-71)

"La Laguna fingida" (pp. 71-79)

*"Una isla en la luna: lo ordinario y lo respetable" (pp. 79-86)

"Esta edición" (pp. 87-89)

"Bibliografía" (pp. 91-99)

Text of An Island (100-209)

"Manuscrito de Una Isla en la Luna" [reduced size colour reproductions of the manuscript, 8.3 x 14.0 cm vs 18.3 x 30.8 cm in the original] (pp. 211-30) Argues for 1786 as the date of composition and attributes to Blake the diagonal pencil inscription on f. 9<sup>r</sup>.

"Apéndice 1" [texts of "Holy Thursday", "Nurse's Song", and

"The Little Boy Lost" from Songs of Innocence] (pp. 233-36)
"Apéndice 2" [names of persons in the Island and of those they represent: "Quid the Cynic Quid el Cínico William Blake"] (pp. 237-38)

A sophisticated and meticulous edition.

Jerusalem

(1804[-20?][-1832?])

Weight and Cost of Copperplates

The 100 pages of Jerusalem seem to be etched on 52 copperplates (see BB 235-36). These 52 copperplates weighed 22,474.9 grams = 49.44 pounds and would have cost £18.

Copies were apparently printed in 1807 (proofs), 1820 (A, C-D), 1821 (B, E), 1827 (F), and posthumously (J-I) (Viscomi, 376-81).

COPPERPLATE-MAKERS'-MARKS

To the copperplate-makers'-marks on Jerusalem pl. 33, 56, 63-64, 71, 72, 92-93, 100 reported in BB 235, Viscomi adds pl. 29 and 52 (without saying in what copies he found them or where on the prints) and ignores pl. 33, 56, 64, 71, 93. It may therefore be useful to provide a list of where on the prints the copperplate-makers'-marks are to be found and in which copies:

- |        |   |
|--------|---|
| Pl. 29 | Viscomi; not found by GEB   |
| Pl. 33 | in front of the man-headed creatures pulling the plough: "... M HAR..S   [illeg]" (J) |
| Pl. 52 | Viscomi; not found by GEB   |
| Pl. 56 | in the middle of ll. 7-8 from bottom: "...OE LANE[?]   ... NDON" (D, F, J)            |

- Pl. 57 straight white lines beneath the bottom woman's right elbow are perhaps a plate-maker's mark (H) <not recorded in BB>
- Pl. 63 between the woman's feet: "N" (J)
- Pl. 71 to right of the inter-linear woman: ".H...OW & SON | ...OE LANE | LONDON" (D, I)
- Pl. 72 in the right margin beside the interlinear design: "WHITLOW<sup>200</sup> & ... | N<sup>o</sup> 31 SHO. | LO..." (C, I-J)
- Pl. 92 over woman's head: "LANE | LONDON" (H, J)
- Pl. 93 above woman's head (H)
- Pl. 100 above and to the left of the head of Los: "... S[?] | ... LANE | ...DON" (H-J)

NUMBERS ON THE COPPERPLATES

As may be seen especially in copy J, the plates, with the exception of plates 12, 14, 22, 40, 51, 54, 57, 81, 82, and 92, were numbered [on the copper] in the top right corners, either in white line ... or in black line ... [the latter on pl.] 8, 9, 10, 28, 46, 52, 56, 65, 68, 72, 74, 75, and 96 ... a few numbers were scratched or gouged off the plates, as in Plate 28 ... and ... a few plates have numbers or traces from an earlier numbering that do not correspond to the final position or numbers of the plates. Plate 50, for example, was initially numbered as 19, and plate 18 as 20.<sup>201</sup>

VARIANTS:

---

<sup>200</sup> This should be "'WHITTOW'".

<sup>201</sup> Viscomi, 340. This list is more extensive than in BB. 233, with more detail of where numbers are visible in which copies.

Pl. 17: In l. 21, "labour" was altered in pen to "labours" ("make himself fit for labours") in copy B, probably not by Blake (Viscomi, 147).

Pl. 18: In l. 36, "cry Hand" was changed in pen to "Cry Thou!" in copy B, probably not by Blake (Viscomi, 147).

Pl. 20: The differences between the Library of Congress proof and copies A and C on the one hand and copies D-F, H-J on the other are created on the paper, not on the copper (pace BB 237); flames in the top right corner are more extended in copies D-F and H-J than in copies A and C, with copy B being indeterminated .... Yet one of the flames is extended further in copy C than in A, while another is extended further in both copies than in copy D--that is, their final shapes were determined by pen and ink finishing, and there is no change in the plate [Viscomi, 342].

Pl. 25: Toomey claimed that pl. 25 was in three states,<sup>202</sup> but in fact one "state" of the print is created by pen-and-ink changes; the plate "exists in two states instead of three, and copies A and C-D are in the first state and copies E and F are in the second" (Viscomi, 342).

Pl. 96: There are irregularities on pl. 96, such as the white-line striations as of shading at the bottom left of the design and a strong – and graphically irrelevant – horizontal line across the knee of the man, which suggest that Blake's relief etching is over an intaglio engraving. Blake Books, p. 225, says merely that “Something else seems to have been originally engraved under the present etching”, and none of the facsimiles I have now looked at – C (1955), D (1877), E (1955, 1991, William Blake Archive), and H (William Blake’s Writings [1978]) – enables me to be more precise.

---

<sup>202</sup> Deirdre Toomey, "The States of Plate 25 of Jerusalem", Blake Newsletter, VI (1972), 46-48.

However, David V. Erdman, “The Suppressed and Altered Passages in Blake’s Jerusalem”, Studies in Bibliography, XVII (1964), 36-38, says that he sees in Jerusalem pl. 96, a good deal of submerged cross-hatching in the area below the center of the picture and along its left side near the text, the only distinguishable form being a perspective drawing of what looks like a small Grecian temple. From the top to the center of the picture some 7 irregularly spaced lines of cursive italic writing are fragmentarily visible, as white loops across the thick outlines of Blake’s drawing. In the Rosenbloom copy [of Jerusalem (J), pl. 96] the first words are decipherable as “The Greatest” ... the first words, in the same cursive engraver’s lettering, of a commercial manifesto ... for “Moore & Co’s Manufactory & Warehouse of Carpets”

which Blake engraved in 1797 or 1798. He identifies the readings of “The visible seven lines” from Blake’s “Moore & Co” advertisement, though he does not actually say that they are legible. And he concludes that “Jerusalem 96 is etched on a piece of copper cut from the lower left quarter (roughly speaking) of the [Moore & Co] plate.”

After careful study with a magnifying glass, I can see the features of pl. 96 which suggest that the plate was previously used for something else but can neither read any of these words nor even find precisely where they appear on the plate.

Pl. 6. A pencil sketch “with ruled scale lines for engraving, the draft for his vigorous illustration of ‘LOS IN HIS RAGE’ <Butlin #561 verso> engraved as a decoration for the lower half of page 6 of ‘Jerusalem,’ 1804 (8 x 6¼ inches)” was offered with “A Fairy leapt” in 1933 (q.v.).

COPY A

HISTORY: The copy bought by William Young Ottley was probably F (see below), rather than A (as in BB 258) ... (2) Offered in A.E. Evans and Son Catalogue ([1845]), lot 718, 100 plates, quarto, half calf “neat” for £7.7.0.

COPY B

HISTORY: (1) Bound about 1821 perhaps for Thomas Griffiths Wainewright and sold with his books by Benjamin Wheatley on 4 August 1831, lot 426 [£4.4.0 to Bohn]; ...

COPY C

BINDING: The leaves were “skilfully reglued into the casing, resewn with original stab-holes partly visible, and rebaked at the British Museum in 1926 in white morocco, the original backstrip and lettering piece laid down”, according to the 1993 Christie catalogue below.

HISTORY: (1) Sold posthumously for the Linnell estate at Christie's, 15 March 1918, lot 194 [for £89 to (2) The dealer (Francis) Edwards]; (3) Acquired by the dealer James Tregaskis, who sold it on "2/4/[19]19" for £155.17.4<sup>203</sup> to Frank Rinder ... from whom it was inherited by (4) His daughter Mrs Ramsay Harvey, after whose death it was sold for (5) The heirs at Christie's, 30 November 1993, lot 3 ("estimate on request"<sup>204</sup>) [sold for £560,000]; (6) Acquired at or shortly after the Rinder sale by a remarkable Anonymous U.S. collection, according to R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 1995", Blake, XXIX (1996).

COPY E

BINDING: (4) It was disbound again at the Yale Center for British Art.

HISTORY: (3) William Fuller Maitland acquired Jerusalem (E) bound with Tatham's life of Blake at or very shortly after the Blamire sale at Christie's on 6 November 1863, as Anne Gilchrist told W.M. Rossetti on 23 November 1863,<sup>205</sup> and he permitted Swinburne to see the life, for Swinburne quoted it (silently) in his William Blake (1868), 77-78, 82n; ...<sup>206</sup> ... (6) It

---

<sup>203</sup> The receipt is reproduced in the 1993 Christie catalogue.

<sup>204</sup> "Christie's now expect it to sell for as much as a million pounds" (H.P. Woudhuysen, "Blake's books", Times Literary Supplement, 26 Nov 1993, p. 16).

<sup>205</sup> Rossetti Papers 1862-1876, ed. W.M. Rossetti (London: Sands and Co., 1903), 43. On 6 Nov 1863 she wrote to W.M. Rossetti:

So the MS. Life of Blake by Tatham, so fruitlessly searched for by my dear Husband, has come to light at last. Both Mr Palmer and Tatham himself put my husband on a wrong scent by being positive it was in the hands of Sir Robert Peel -- to whom, of course, both he and I applied in vain. [p. 41]

<sup>206</sup> According to the account of Maitland (1813-76) in the Dictionary of National Biography, "After his death, the bulk of his collection was exhibited at the South Kensington Museum" (now called the Victoria & Albert Museum), but the authorities at the Victoria & Albert Museum library can now find no record of such an exhibition.

Quaritch, who acquired it in 1887, allowed it to be cited in Works of William Blake, ed. E.J. Ellis and W.B. Yeats (1893), I, 4, and Poems of William Blake, ed. W.B. Yeats (1893), with acknowledgement to Tatham.

was reproduced again in colour in the Italian facsimile (1994) and in The Complete Illuminated Books, ed. David Bindman (2000); (7) By 1977 Mr Mellon had given it to (8) The YALE CENTER FOR BRITISH ART.

It is reproduced online the Yale Center for British Art.

COPY F

There are two sets of numbers in Copy F, a shaky set in the second order in which Blake arranged the prints of Chapter II and a firm set in the first order:

the firm and emended numbers are neither in Blake's hand nor in the same medium as the weak numbers. The weak numbers (set 1) are in an intense black oil-based printing ink, while the firmly written numbers (set 2) are all in a light black water-based writing ink. [The set 1 numbers are completely opaque and shiny, while the set 2 numbers are mostly a light black stain. The different media is [sic] especially apparent in set 1 numbers that were gone over or repaired in pen and ink.] The numbers of the first set are generally larger than those in the second set, but they are poorly formed, even ragged and wavering, an appearance caused in part by the viscous medium but also possibly by Blake's weakened state. These numbers, though, are unmistakably Blake's, whereas the 2s, 4s, 6s, and 9s of set 2 are distinctly and consistently different from Blake's in all other books--including Marriage copy I, which was executed a few months before Jerusalem copy F ....

For example, Blake's 4 is always closed [or rather the top left member is at a sharp angle] and the stem of his 9 is always extended and curved under.

...

Blake's numbers ... are 2, 5, 6, 8 [gone over in pen and ink], 10, 13, 17, 22, 23; ... 33, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 43 ... 52 [gone over in pen and ink], 56, 57 [the 7 is Blake's and looks like an 8], 63, 64, 65, 66, 70 ... 77, 82, 88, 89, 96. The rest of the numbers are in set 2.

The second, firm set of numbers, sometimes altering the first, is by Linnell, following the (first) order of the prints in his own copy of Jerusalem (C).

Linnell appears, then, to have received a partially numbered copy of Jerusalem in loose leaves, which required him to finish numbering the pages in pen and ink, using his own copy, copy C, as the model. ... perhaps what reveals copy C as the model and Linnell's hand most clearly is the Chinese white used extensively in plates 39, 76, 84, 87, 99, and 100 to create highlights and to model figures. This pigment was not used in any other copy of Jerusalem (or any other illuminated book that I know of) except [Linnell's copy] C (... plates 32 and 47) ....

It is not clear why Blake numbered only 29 prints, a few in each chapter, "But what is clear is his intention regarding this copy's order: he meant it to follow copies D and E, an intention that Linnell apparently ignored or misunderstood".<sup>207</sup>

---

<sup>207</sup> Viscomi, 357-358, 360, 426.

HISTORY: (1) It is probably copy F (not copy A, as in BB 258) for which "M<sup>r</sup> [William Young] Ottley [gave Linnell £5.5s.] for M<sup>rs</sup> Blake for a copy of Jerusalem" on 11 August 1827, the day before Blake died (BR (2) 458, 464, 790); Linnell probably collected the loose leaves of Jerusalem from Mrs Blake, collated them with his own copy, and delivered them to Ottley, with whose library they were sold at Sotheby's, 21 July 1837, lot 306, for £3.18s. to Bohn; (2) Acquired by the dealer James Toovey, who added his "BURNHAM ABBEY BUCKS" bookplate and sold it in 1899 to (3) The PIERPONT MORGAN LIBRARY.

Reproduced in the William Blake Archive.

COPY I

It is reproduced online in the Library of Congress.

Plate 1

HISTORY: It was lent by the Keynes Family Trust to the Tate Exhibition (9 November 2000-11 February 2001) as No. 289.

PLATE 6

HISTORY: (8)Sold by Dian and Andrea Woodner at Christie's (New York) on 11 May 1993, lot 85 (ESTIMATE: $50,000-$60,000) for $156,500 to (9) An Anonymous collection.

PLATES 8-9, 19-20, 38<sup>a-b</sup>, 48, 50, 58, 78

They are reproduced online in the Library of Congress.

PLATE 9

It is reproduced online by the Metropolitan Museum (N.Y.).

PLATE 28

HISTORY: (4) After the death of Mrs Ramsay Harvey, it was sold for (5) The heirs at Christie's, 30 November 1993, lot 4 (misdescribed as pl. 25) (ESTIMATE: £2,000-£3,000) [for £2,760 to John Windle for] (6) Professor Robert N. Essick] PLATES 28, 35

HISTORY: (6) By 1977 Mr Mellon had given them to (7) The YALE CENTER FOR BRITISH ART.
PLATE 28

It is reproduced online by the Yale Center for British Art.

PLATE 51

It is reproduced online by the National Gallery of Victoria (Melbourne, Australia).

EDITIONS

Jerusalem: The Emanation of the Giant Albion [D], 1804 (London: Pearson, 1877]) <BB, BBS>

The facsimile is mostly reproduced in Andrew Solomon, William Blake's Great Task: The Purpose of JERUSALEM (2000).

Jerusalem. Ed. E.R.D. Maclagen and A.G.B. Russell. (London, 1904) The Prophetic Books of William Blake <BB #77> B. §The Prophetic Books of William Blake: Jerusalem. Ed. E.R.D. Maclagan. ([Whitefish, Montana]: Kessinger Publishing, 2010) Legacy Reprint Series 152 pp.; ISBN: 9781163448021 C. §Jerusalem the Emanation of the Giant Albion. ([Whitefish, Montana]: Kessinger Publishing, 2010) 72 pp.; §ISBN: 9781161437607

REVIEW

[John Bailey], Times Literary Supplement, 6 May 1904.

B. Partially reprinted, with the author's name, in Times Literary Supplement, 17 January 2014, p.

16

Jerusalem [E] (1951) The William Blake Trust <BB>

The Jerusalem Papers, 1948-1952, from the Trianon Press Archive were published by 2009 as an E-book.

REVIEWS &c

§Geoffrey Keynes, “Blake’s ‘Jerusalem’”, Times Literary Supplement, 16 June 1950, p. 373 (announcement) <BB>

§Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 20 July 1951, p. 453

§Burlington Magazine, XCIV, 587 (February 1952), 62

Jerusalem [C] (1952) Foreword by Geoffrey Keynes The William Blake Trust <BB>

REVIEWS

Anon., “Rare Blake Poem Is Issued in Facsimile: Limited Edition ‘Jerusalem’ Is Out Today”, New York Times, 10 April 1952

Harvey Breit, "Repeat Performances", New York Times, 4 December 1955, p. 410 (with another)

Jerusalem: A Simplified Version, ed. William R. Hughes (1964) <BB>

REVIEWS

§Anon., Times Educational Supplement, 2 October 1964

§Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 12 November 1964, p. 1,023

G.E. Bentley, Jr, Modern Language Notes (1965), 112-13

§Arnold Goldman, Notes and Queries, XIII (1966), 196-98

§Stanley Wells, Modern Language Review, LXI, (1966)

§Campos Villanova, Xavier. "La traducció Semántica de Jerusalem, the Emanation of the Giant Albion (1804-1820), poema de William Blake (1757-1827)." Universitat de València [Spain] Ph.D., 1988. In Spanish <BBS>

Published in Jerusalén, la Emanación del Gigante Albión (1997).

**Jerusalem: The Emanation of the Giant Albion* [E]. Ed. Morton D. Paley. (London: The William Blake Trust, 1991) B. (Princeton: Princeton University Press in conjunction with the William Blake Trust, 1991) Blake's Illuminated Books Volume I. 4<sup>o</sup>, 302 pp., 105 reproductions, ISBN: 0691069352 "(cloth)", i.e., 06911029075, paper. B. §(London: The Tate Gallery for the William Blake Trust, 1991) <BBS> C. (Princeton: Princeton University Press in conjunction with the William Blake Trust, 1991 [i.e., 1997]) ISBN: 0691069352 "(cloth)", i.e., 06911029075, paper. D. (London: The Folio Society in association with the William Blake Trust "on the 250th anniversary year of Blake's birth" 2007) Blake's Illuminated Books Volume 1

See Morton D. Paley, "Corrections to the Blake Trust Jerusalem", Blake, XXVI, 1 (Summer 1992), 34

The 1997 paperback has the same imprint and ISBN number as the 1991 cloth issue ("$75.00"); the presumably-more-accurate information about the 1997 issue ($29.95) derives from Books in Print 1997.

The same ektachromes were used in the facsimile edited by Marcello Pagnini (1994) and in The Complete Illuminated Books, ed. David Bindman (2000).

The 2007 Folio Society edition is a facsimile of the Blake Trust facsimile of Jerusalem Copy E, apparently without change.

REVIEWS

- §Los Angeles Times Book Review, 1 December 1991,
Section D, p. 6 (with another)
- §Christian Science Monitor, LXXXIV (6 December 1991), p. 11 (with another)
- §Anon., Library Journal, CXVI (December 1991), 150
(with another)
- §Anon., Print Quarterly, VIII (1991), 440
- §*Lars Lönnroth, Svenska Dagbladet, 5 January 1992,
Section 2, p. 3
- *Andrew Barnet, "From the Dark Satanic Mills", New York Times, 15 March 1992 (with another) ("exquisite")
- §Wilson Library Bulletin, LXVI (April 1992), 106 (with another)
- David Fuller, Book Collector, XLI, 1 (Spring 1992), 121-23 (with another) ("the quality of facsimile ... is excellent" [p. 121])
- §Religious Studies Review, XVIII (October 1992), 321
(with another)
- *Terence Allan Hoagwood, Blake, XXVI, 2 (Fall 1992), 61-69 (with another) (includes praise for this "remarkably good reproduction" and for Paley's generally admirable text [p. 62])
- D.W. Dörrbecker, Blake, XXVI, 3 (Winter 1992-93),
81-82 (a very substantial review)

Michael Ferber, Word and Image, IX, 1 (January-March 1993), 87-90 (with another)

Peter Kitson, Year's Work in English Studies, LXXII (1993), 276 ("stunning")

J[ohn] P[eter] L[undeen], I[rene] H. C[hayes], and M[ark] T[revor] S[mith], Romantic Movement for 1992 (1993), 68-70 ("gorgeous volume", J.P.L.; needs "a new convention of annotation and of commentary", I.H.C.; it "will more than satisfy most of us", M.T.S.)

§Jon Mee, Australian Journal of Art, X (1993), 105-6 (with another)

Iain Sinclair, "Customising Biography", London Review of Books, XVIII, 4 (22 February 1996), 16-19 (with 6 others) (there is no indication that Sinclair has looked at Jerusalem)

See John Commander, "Dereliction", London Review of Books, 21 March 1996, p. 5 (deplores the absence of "critical comment on, or response to" the scholarship in the Blake Trust volumes which Iain Sinclair was purporting to review)

Dennis M. Welch, English Studies, LXXVIII (1997), 90-93 (with 2 others) (all the Blake trust volumes display "consistently meticulous" scholarship)

Michael Phillips, Burlington Magazine, CXXXIX (1997), 338-39 (with 8 others) (all six Blake Trust publications are "extraordinarily faithful to the originals", and the apparatus is "exemplary")

§Grevel Lindop, Times Literary Supplement, 26 September 1997, 18+ (with 4 others)

§Book World, XXVIII (1998), 12

§Jason Whitaker, BARS Bulletin and Review, No. 17
(March 2000), 22-24 (with 6 others)

Deirdre Toomey, “Printed Perfect”, Yeats Annual, No. 14 (2001), 360-64 (with 5 others) (The Blake Trust volumes are produced “to an almost unbelievably high standard” [p. 361])

**Jerusalem* [E]. Introduzione, traduzione, note e glossario a cura di Marcello Pagnini. (Firenze: Giunti, 1994) 4°, 2 vols., Vol. [I] 104 pp., Vol. [II] 312 pp.; ISBN: 8809205073
In Italian and English

Vol. [I] is a facsimile of copy E using the same photographs as the Blake Trust facsimile (1991) but with the plates printed back-to-back rather than on one side only as in the original; Vol. [II] has an "Introduzione" (pp. 5-23), the text of Jerusalem in English and Italian on facing pages with Italian notes, and a "Glossario" (pp. 399-309).

*Andrew Solomon. William Blake's Great Task: The Purpose of JERUSALEM. (London: Palamabron Press, 2000) 4°, 248 pp.; ISBN: 095221128

The work consists of

"Preface" (pp. vii-viii)

"Introduction" (pp. 1-20)

A reproduction (pp. 22-121) of the Pearson facsimile (1877) of Jerusalem (D), though with the plates printed back to back, except for pl. 51 and 76 which are from the Blake Trust facsimile [1952]; the size is reduced from 16.2 x 22.3 cm to 6.4 x 11.7 cm

A transcription with adjusted punctuation and paraphrases in notes (pp. 122-239)

"Glossary" (pp. 240-46)

REVIEW

Michael Grenfell, Blake Journal, No. 6 (2001), 81-82
("An excellent annotated reader on Blake's Jerusalem. ... a veritable torchlight to lead the way")

Jerusalén: La Emanación del Gigante Albión. Introducción, notas y glosario a cargo de Xavier Campos Vilanova; Prólogo de Francisco Fernández. (Castelló de la Plana: Publicacions de la Universitat Jaume I, D.L. 1997) Col·lecció "Estudis de la traducció" Núm. 4. 8º, 447 pp.; ISBN: 8480211229 In Spanish

It consists of the

"Prólogo" (pp. 13-16)

"Introducción" (pp. 17-56)

Jerusalén in Spanish (pp. 57-190)

"Notas" (pp. 191-256)

"Glosario" (pp. 257-84)

Jerusalem in English (pp. 285-477)

Originally a dissertation at the Universitat of València.

<BBS>

William Blake's "Jerusalem" Explained: the first full-scale line by line analysis. Transcription and exegesis by Dr. D. Whitmarsh-Knight. (Cambridge: The William Blake Press, "Published 28th November 2007 in celebration of the 250th Anniversary of the birth of William Blake") 8º, 611 pp.; ISBN: 9781434821010

It consists of intermingled text and explication (pp. 32-583)

“Preface” (pp. 9-14)

“Introduction” (pp. 15-31) about “Blake’s Golden String”, “Blake’s Cosmology”, and “The Emanative Principles”

“Conclusion” (pp. 584-611), concerning “Methodology”, “The World of Ulro”, “The World of Eden”, “The World of Generation”, and “The World of Beulah”.

The designs are neither reproduced nor discussed.

‘My focus is the plot ... as a consciously crafted literary chronological sequence of events that connect all parts into a whole’; “Once the reader has grasped the ‘games-rules’ of his myth, Blake’s work reads fluently and clearly” (pp. 10, 18).

REVIEW

Jason Whittaker, Year's Work in English Studies,

LXXXIV (2010), 637-38 ("I am unconvinced")

§Jerushlayim: ha'atsalato shel ha-'anak albiyon [Jerusalem: The Emanation of the Giant Albion]. Tr. Ruth Blumert. (Tel Aviv: Keshv le-shivah, 2012) 23 cm, 215 pp. In Hebrew
**Jerusalem (Illuminated Manuscript* [sic] with the Original Illustrations of William Blake). (e-artnow, 2013) ISBN: 9788074844171

Probably Jerusalem (I) -- see The Complete Illustrated Books of William Blake.

Joseph of Arimathea Among the Rocks of Albion
(1773, ?1785, ?1809)

Weight and Cost of Copperplate

The copperplate weighed 102.4 grams = 0.23 pounds and would have cost 4s ¼d.

See Part III, Commercial Engravings

COPY D

HISTORY: (1) Offered in Quaritch Catalogue 62 (June 1893).

COPY G

HISTORY: (1) Perhaps this is the copy quoted in Gilchrist, 19, and lent by Mrs Gilchrist to the Burlington Fine Arts Club exhibition (1876), lot 281; ....

COPY L

HISTORY: Offered in Quaritch's Catalogue 350 (10 August 1883), and his Catalogue of Works on the Fine Arts ... (October 1883), both lot 13,844, for £4.

"Laocoon"– "J& his Two Sons Satan and Adam"

(?1826)

Weight and Cost of Copperplate

The copperplate weighed 792.3 grams = 1¾ pounds and would have cost 7s.

DATE: ?1826. The discovery by Robert Essick of the watermark "J WHATMAN | 1826" in his copy (B) gives a strong indication that "Laocoon" was completed and printed in that year. Confirmation of the later date may be found in the close similarities of lines from the "Laocoon" to works of known late date:

|  |                                  |
|--|----------------------------------|
| Job proof of pl. 2 (c. 1824)                            | "Laocoon"                        |
| Prayer to God is the Study ofImaginative Art               | Prayer is the Study ofArt    |
| Job proof of pl. 22 (c. 1824)                           |                                  |
| Praise to God is the Exercise ofImaginative Art            | Praise is the Practise ofArt |
| Marginalia (1827) to Thornton'sLord's Prayer (1827) |                                  |
| If Morality was Christianity                                   | If Morality was Socrates         |

Socrates was the Saviour Christianity was The Savior
On Homer (?1820), Blake's annotations (?1820) to Berkeley's Siris (1744), and "The Everlasting Gospel" (?1818). which helped to date "Laocoon", should probably themselves be dated later, as R.N. Essick and Joseph Viscomi suggest in their edition of MILTON A POEM and the Final Illuminated Books, ed. Robert N. Essick and Joseph Viscomi (1993), 241-43.

COPY B

HISTORY: It may be copy B which, according to the Journal of C.J. Strange on 11 May 1859, Blake had "given him [Samuel Palmer] ... saying at the same time 'you will find my creed there'". Nothing is known of copy B before 1928; ... (5)R.N. Essick lent it to the exhibition (24 June-27 August 1995) **In Celebration of Collecting: Selected Works from the Collections of Friends of The Huntington*, ed. Edward J. Nygren (San Marino: The Huntington Library, 1995), No. 70 and to the exhibition §D'Après L'Antique [exhibition] Musée du Louvre, Paris, 16 October 2000-15 January 2001.

It was reproduced in MILTON A POEM and the Final Illuminated Books, ed. Robert N. Essick and Joseph Viscomi (1993) and in The Complete Illuminated Books, ed. David Bindman (2000).

Large Book of Designs (1796)

COPY A

| Platein Cm | Leaf Size   | WatermarkColour | Printing              |
|----------------|-------------|---------------------|-----------------------|
| "Accusers" (B) | 24.7 x 34.5 | 1794                | Colour-printed |

|  |             |         |   |                       |
|--|-------------|---------|---|-----------------------|
| "Albion Rose" (C)                        | 24.2 x 34.6 | ---     |   | Colour-printed |
| America pl. d                     | 24.8 x 34.7 | 1794    | J | Colour-printed |
|  |             | WHATMAN |   |                       |
| Urizen pl. 14                     | 24.5 x 34.6 | ---     |   | Colour-printed |
| Urizen pl. 21                     | 24.5 x 34.6 | ---     |   | Colour-printed |
| "Joseph of Arima-thea Preaching" (A) | 24.6 x 34.9 | 1794    |   | Colour-printed |
| Visions pl. 1                     | 24.5 x 34.5 | ---     |   | Colour-printed |
| Visions pl. 7                     | 24.5 x 34.5 | ---     |   | Colour-printed |

The prints were stabbed together in 1796; they are now in the British Museum Print Room.

COPY B <BBS 51, 89>

| Plate                                    | Leaf Sizein Cm | Watermark      | Location              | Printing Colour       |
|--|--------------------|----------------|-----------------------|-----------------------|
| "Accusers" (H)                           | 4.0 x 32.0--       | National       | Gallery (U.S.)        | Colour-printed |
| "Albion Rose" (D)                        | 26.3 x 36.7        | 1794   WHATMAN | Huntington            | Colour-printed |
| America pl. d                     | 23.8 x 21.2---     | National       | Gallery (U.S.)        | Colour-printed |
| Urizen pl. 21                     | 10.3 x 16.6        | WHATMAN        | National              | Colour-printed |
| Gallery ofVictoria                   |                    |                |                       |                       |
| "Joseph of Arima-thea Preaching" (F) | 16.1 x 25.3--      | National       |                       | Black                 |
| Visions pl. 1                     | 26.7 x 34.5        | -- Tate        | Colour-printed |                       |
| Visions pl. 7                     | 24.5 x 28.4        | -- Tate        | Colour-printed |                       |

Large Book (B) differs from A in lacking Urizen pl. 14. Urizen pl. 22 is not in Large Book (B), as in BB 269; it is in Small Book (B), as in BB 357.

The "9" on America pl. d derives from when it was bound at the end of Song of Los (D).

Both copies of the Large Book of Designs were apparently printed in 1796 (Viscomi, 377).

In "the two copies of Visions plate 1 from the Large Book copies A and B ..., the highlights at the right corner and at the waves are exactly the same", thus proving that they were printed at the same time (Viscomi, 303-4).

Large Book of Designs (1796)

COPY A

Copy A was reproduced in The William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi (2012).

LETTERS<sup>208</sup> ADDENDA TABLE

Symbols

(Ph) Transcribed from a photograph

† A wax seal is on the letter. Wax seals are recorded only on Blake's letters of 1 April, 6 May, 22 September 1800, 7, 19 October 1801, 25 April, 16 August, 13 December 1803, 27 January, 31 March, 22 June, 4 December 1804, 22 March, 11 December 1805, [?May 1809]. Of these, the only ones which are fairly clear are those on letters of 19 October 1801 (an owl), and 27 January, 7 August 1804 (a classical head, perhaps Jupiter).

| Date | Postmark | WatermarkLocation |
|-------------|-----------------|--------------------------|
|-------------|-----------------|--------------------------|

---

<sup>208</sup> The letters of 14 Sept 1800, 26 Oct 1803 (signed "W. and C. Blake"), 9 Aug 1804 (ibid), 11 Dec 1805 ("Will. Blake & his Wife Catherine Blake"), [4 Aug 1824] ("C. Blake"), and [1] and 4 Aug 1829 are signed by Catherine Blake; all save the last two seem to have been composed and written out by William Blake; those of 1829 may be in the hand of Frederick Tatham except for the signatures.

1796 May 12 letters from J.G. Stedman Untraced<sup>209</sup>
 1800 Sept 1 SE[PT] | [1]800 | C Crown R.N. Essick
                     Fragments of                      and shield
                     BRIDGE |
                     Westminster A.S.A.
 1804 Aug 7†AU                      JW[hat-                      R.N. Essick
    [1]804
    man]<sup>210</sup>                      (Ph.)
 1808 January 18 To Ozias Humphry Roy Davids<sup>211</sup>
 1825 Nov [ ] Three curved NATIONAL
 [25?]* | TP | lines enclosing                      LIBRARY OF a rampant lion                      SCOTLAND
    [ ]
    | Strand CO | or dragon
    [ ]
    8 MORN 8
    25 · NO
    1825<sup>212</sup>

<sup>209</sup> According to J.G. Stedman's Journal, in May 1796 "I wrote ... 12 letters to Blake" (BR (2) 70).

<sup>210</sup> According to Mark Crosby and Robert N. Essick, "'the fiends of Commerce': Blake's Letter to William Hayley, 7 August 1804", Blake, XLIV (2010), 54,

A large watermark in the center of the full sheet shows a shield with a horn within, the shield surmounted by a crown and with a finial at its lower termination. Below these motifs is an elaborate JW cipher that identifies the paper as Whatman ... the chain lines are 2.4 cm. apart.

<sup>211</sup> R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2011", Blake, XLV, 4 (Spring 2012), 115; offered at Bonham's Auctions (London), 29 March 2011, lot 264 (ESTIMATE: £50,000-£60,000, not sold).

<sup>212</sup> The postmarks are like those in the letters of 11 Oct, 10 Nov 1825, 31 Jan, 19 May, 2, 16, 29 July, 1 Aug 1826; only the letter of 10 Nov 1825 has a watermark with a design. The upper postmark has "6" scrawled across it. The size of the leaf is 16.5 x 20.3 cm.

* A wafer sealed the letter.

The letters from Hayley to Blake of 17 April 1800 and from Blake to Hayley of 11 December 1805 which belonged to Sir Geoffrey Keynes did not go with his collection of Blake's graphic works to the Fitzwilliam Museum or with his collection of Blake's purely literary works to Cambridge University Library (as I am informed by Mr David Scrase of the Fitzwilliam Museum); they did not stay with the works (such as prints from Europe, Urizen, Ghost, Jerusalem, Songs, and Visions) in the Keynes Family Trust, which is on long-term deposit in the Fitzwilliam Museum, and the Keynes family retained nothing relevant to Blake (as I am informed in a letter of 8 August 1997 from Sir Geoffrey's son Stephen Keynes).

Blake repeatedly referred to money received or parcels sent (e.g., with proofs or books), and these were probably accompanied by letters, but they are not included here unless a letter is mentioned.

Letters (1791-1827)

| Date     |      | Recipient         | Collection          |
|----------|------|-------------------|---------------------|
| 2 July   | 1800 | George Cumberland | LIBRARY OF CONGRESS |
| 30 Jan   | 1803 | James Blake       | LIBRARY OF CONGRESS |
| 28 Sept  | 1804 | William Hayley    | LIBRARY OF CONGRESS |
| c. March | 1825 | John Linnell      | HUNTINGTON          |
| 7 June   | 1825 | John Linnell      | HUNTINGTON          |
| 11 Oct   | 1825 | Mrs John Linnell  | HUNTINGTON          |
| 10 Nov   | 1825 | John Linnell      | HUNTINGTON          |
| 31 Jan   | 1826 | John Linnell      | HUNTINGTON          |

|          |        |  |             |
|----------|--------|--|-------------|
| 5 Feb    | 1826   | Mrs John Linnell                                       | HUNTINGTON  |
| 31 March | 1826   | John Linnell   | MORGAN      |
| 19 May   | 1826   | John Linnell   | HUNTINGTON  |
| 5 July   | 1826   | John Linnell   | HUNTINGTON  |
| 14 July  | 1826   | John Linnell   | MORGAN      |
| 16 July  | 1826   | John Linnell   | HUNTINGTON  |
| 29 July  | 1826   | John Linnell   | HUNTINGTON  |
| 1 Aug    | 1826   | John Linnell   | HUNTINGTON  |
| 27 Jan   | 1827   | John Linnell   | HUNTINGTON  |
| c. Feb   | 1827   | John Linnell "I thankyou"                          | HUNTINGTON  |
| c. Feb   | 1827   | John Linnell "I calldthis Mor-ning"            | HUNTINGTON  |
| 15 March | 1827   | John Linnell   | FITZWILLIAM |
| 12 April | 1827   | George Cum-berland                                 | HUNTINGTON  |
| 25 April | 1827   | John Linnell   | FITZWILLIAM |
| 3 July   | 1827   | John Linnell   | HUNTINGTON  |
| 15 Aug   | 1827   | George Richmondto Samuel Palmer                    | HUNTINGTON  |
|          | [1827] | George Cumber-land note aboutCumberland's card | HUNTINGTON  |

The letters in the Fitzwilliam, Huntington, and Morgan Library are reproduced online in the William Blake Archive; those in the Library of Congress are reproduced online in "William Blake Digital Materials from the Lessing J. Rosenwald Collection" in the Library of Congress, and those in the Morgan by the Pierpont Morgan Library.

NEWLY RECORDED LETTER

1799 August 22? from Dr John Trusler

HISTORY: (1) Between 16 and 23 August 1799, Dr Trusler sent Blake "a Letter full of Criticisms" of Blake's art which is quoted and paraphrased in Blake's letters of 23 and 26 August; (2) Untraced.

1800 April 1

HISTORY: (2) Offered in Quaritch Rough List 201 (October 1900), lot 1077, for £5.5.0 ...; (4) Offered by James Tregaskis<sup>213</sup> in Caxton Head Catalogue 655 (14 September 1908), lot 41; Catalogue 720 (1912), lot 80; Catalogue 733 (18 November 1912), lot 65; and Catalogue 800 (4 February 1918), lot 55.

1800 April 17 [Hayley to Blake]

HISTORY: (5) Untraced.

NEWLY DISCOVERED LETTER

1800 August?

HISTORY: (1) Sent by Blake to [John Aiken], the editor of The Monthly Magazine (who did not publish it) and quoted by Blake in his letter to Cumberland of 1 September 1800; (2) Untraced.

NEWLY DISCOVERED LETTER

1800 September 1 to George Cumberland

---

<sup>213</sup> According to Keynes, Bibliography (1921), Keynes, ed., Letters (1956, 1968), it was "Offered for sale in several catalogues of ... James Tregaskis about 1910) (with a facsimile). Keynes, Letters (1968) says it was sold at Sotheby's, 5 July 1909, lot 106, for £3.18.0 to Quaritch; BB p. 275 fn 4, comments: "the only Sotheby sale of this date which I can trace consists entirely of coins".

HISTORY: (1) Perhaps this<sup>214</sup> is the "long and very interesting letter" to George Cumberland inserted in Cumberland's copy of Songs (F) which was offered in Thomas Kerslake's catalogue of Valuable Books Manuscripts Literary Curiosities (after December 1857), lot 733; (2) Acquired from a private British Collection in November 1997 through John Windle by (3) Professor Robert Newman Essick.<sup>215</sup>

The letter is reproduced in Blake, XXXII (1998), 6-9 (illustrating Robert N. Essick and Morton D. Paley, "'Dear Generous George Cumberland': A Newly Discovered Letter and Poem by William Blake").

1800 September 12 to John Flaxman

HISTORY: (2) Acquired by 1885 by B.B. Macgeorge.<sup>216</sup>

NEWLY RECORDED LETTER

1800 September 12 to William Hayley

HISTORY: (1) In his letter of 12 September 1800, Blake asked Flaxman, "Be so kind as to Read & then Seal the Inclosed & Send it on its much beloved Mission"; perhaps the intended recipient was Hayley; (2) Untraced.

1800 September 22

HISTORY: (1) Blake's letters of 22 September, end of September, 2 October 1800, 10 May, 11 September 1801, 10 January, 22 November (both parts) 1802, 25 April, 6 July, 16 August 1803 were offered in Quaritch Catalogue 317 (1878).<sup>217</sup>

---

<sup>214</sup> Rather than the letter of 12 April 1827, as BBS 96 speculates.

<sup>215</sup> See his "Blake in the Marketplace, 1997", Blake, XXXI (1998).

<sup>216</sup> The letter of 12 Sept 1800 was first(?) printed in the account of "The collection of Blake's works in Mr. Macgeorge's possession" in Thomas Mason, Public and Private Libraries of Glasgow (Glasgow: Thomas D. Morison, 1885), 291-293.

<sup>217</sup> Not first sold "about 1906", as in Keynes, ed., Letters (1968).

[Autumn 1800? to Thomas Butts]

DESCRIPTION: A small piece of unwatermarked wove paper 10.9 x 17.9 cm, folded approximately in thirds. It was pasted to a larger piece of paper until it was dismounted in 1992. At the top it is marked lot 22, corresponding with the sale below, and when it was dismounted it was inscribed on the verso "cons 920317-a".

HISTORY: Blake's undated letter was offered by H.V. Morten at Sotheby's, 5 May 1890, lot 22; it was the "Gift of Mrs Richard Gimbel, 1973" to YALE UNIVERSITY LIBRARY where it was briefly described in the Yale University Library Gazette for April 1974. For twenty years it lay there unremarked by Blake scholars, who have depended instead upon a normalized version in the Sotheby catalogue of 3 December 1888, lot 13, printed in Letters of William Blake, ed. Geoffrey Keynes (1968), 49-50. (I have been unable to trace this 1888 catalogue.) A description and verbatim transcription are given in the Yale University Library Gazette (1993).

1800 November 26

HISTORY: (1) The letters of 26 November 1800, 26 October 1803, 4, 20 May, 9 August, 23 October, 18 December 1804, 22 January, 17 May, 4 June 1805 were sold with the Hayley Correspondence at Sotheby's, 20 May 1878, lots 33 (£3.14s.), 32 (£3), 17 (£4), 18 (£5.10s.), 32 (£3), 23 (£6.14s.), 27 (£5.10s.), 30 (£4.8s.), 25 (£5.5s.), 31 (£3.15s.) to Quaritch and (2) Were offered in Quaritch's Catalogue of Works in European Philology and the Minor European Languages

(1879), lot 12,893, for £52.10.0 and Quaritch's General Catalogue (1880), lot 12,803 (only the first and last letters dated<sup>218</sup>) for £52.10s.; (3) Apparently bought by Alexander Macmillan;<sup>219</sup> (4) Untraced.

1800 September 14

HISTORY: (2) Sold at Sotheby's, 3-4 June 1907, lot 384 (partly quoted) [£15.10.0 to Pearson].

1801 October 7

---

<sup>218</sup> In the 1880 catalogue, eleven letters are offered, but, though Quaritch is known to have bought eleven Blake letters at the 1878 sale, the letter of 23 Feb 1804 was sold promptly to the British Museum Library. The unidentified letter in the 1880 catalogue may have been that of 18 Feb 1800, which is known only from the transcript in Gilchrist (1880), I, 143.

<sup>219</sup> In the second edition of Gilchrist (1880), I, v, Anne Gilchrist gives thanks for permission to print a number of letters [18 of 34] sold at Sotheby's in 1878 to Locker-Lampson (5 letters), the British Museum Library (1), Mr Kirby (?4), and "Mr. Alexander Macmillan" (?8 letters, all bought in 1878 by Quaritch). However, Keynes, Bibliography (1921), Letters of William Blake, ed. G. Keynes (1968), BB, and BBS ignore this provenance, though Keynes (Letters [1968], 13) says, not very helpfully:

Eleven [letters from the 1878 sale] were bought by Bernard Quaritch, who disposed of them soon afterwards to Alexander Macmillan .... Of the eleven acquired by Macmillan ten are missing. Present members of the Macmillan family have kindly answered my enquiries, but no clue as to the fate of these letters since 1880 has been found.

Keynes does not detail which letters he thinks Macmillan owned, or how he knows Macmillan owned them, and he apparently did not notice that, of the eleven Blake letters acquired by Quaritch at Sotheby's in 1878, one was promptly sold to the British Museum Library in 1878, did not appear in the 1880 catalogue, and could not have been owned by Macmillan.

Macmillan also owned Songs (P) in 1863, the Second Folio Shakespeare (1632) with Blake's watercolours in 1880 (reproduced in Gilchrist [1880], I, 270), two copies of Europe pl. 1 (The Ancient of Days) (lent to the Burlington Fine Arts Club [1876], lot 209) and Jerusalem pl. 4, 18-19, 28, 35-37 (lent to the 1876 exhibition, lot 220).

HISTORY: (2) Maggs Bros permitted Thomas Wright to publish it for the first time in his Life of William Blake (1928), II, 183-84 ....

1801 October 19

HISTORY: According to the Rosenbach Acquisition card, it was bought at the sale of William Harris Arnold at Anderson Galleries, 10-11 November 1924, lot 53, for "HKSNS" ($190.00), and offered for $350.

NEWLY RECORDED LETTER

1802 January

HISTORY: (1) In his letter to Butts of 10 January 1802, Blake referred to and partly paraphrased "Your very kind & affectionate Letter"; (2) Untraced.

NEWLY RECORDED LETTER

1802 November from James Blake

HISTORY: (1) Blake wrote on 22 November 1802, "My Brother tells me ...", presumably in a letter; (2) Untraced.

NEWLY RECORDED LETTER

1802 November 22

HISTORY: (1) In his letter to Butts of 22 November 1802, Blake wrote: "I have taken the liberty to trouble you with a letter to my Brother which you will be so kind as to send or give him"; (2) Untraced.

NEWLY RECORDED LETTER

1803 January from James Blake

HISTORY: (1) "Your Letter mentioning M<sup>r</sup> Butts's account of my Ague" is mentioned in Blake's letter to his brother James of 30 January 1803; (2) Untraced.

NEWLY RECORDED LETTER

1803 late April from James Blake

HISTORY: (1) In his letter to Butts of 25 April 1803 Blake referred to "a pressing Letter from my Brother"; (2) Untraced.

NEWLY RECORDED LETTER

1803 late April from Thomas Butts.

HISTORY: (1) Blake referred in his letter to Butts of 25 April 1803 to "your kind & heartening Letter"; (2) Untraced.

NEWLY RECORDED LETTER

1803 August 16 to James Blake

HISTORY: (1) In his letter of 16 August 1803 Blake asked Butts "to cause the Enclosed Letter to be deliverd to my Brother"; (2) Untraced.

1803 October 26

HISTORY: See Letter of 1800 November 26

NEWLY RECORDED LETTER

1803 December from William Hayley

HISTORY: (1) "Your Letter has never arrived to me" (letter to Hayley, 13 December 1803); (2) Untraced.

NEWLY RECORDED LETTER

1804 January to Samuel Rose

HISTORY: (1) For "the Writing" on "your noble present to M<sup>r</sup> Rose", "I was fortunate in doing it myself & hit it off excellently" (letter to Hayley 27 January 1804); (2) Untraced.

NEWLY RECORDED LETTER

1804 March to Prince Hoare

HISTORY: (1) "I left it [your Elegant & Heart lifting Compliment] with a short note" to Mr Hoare (Blake to Hayley, 16 March 1804)); (2) Untraced.

NEWLY RECORDED LETTER

1804 March to William Hayley

HISTORY:(1) "I now send you his [Prince Hoare's] note to Me" (Blake to Hayley, 21 March 1804); (2) Untraced.

1804 March 12

HISTORY: (1) Sold with the Hayley Correspondence at Sotheby's, 20 May 1878, lot 7, for £2.15s. to Waller; (2) Apparently acquired (with the letters of 31 March, 2, 27 April, 28 September 1804) by [?J.R.] Kirby;<sup>220</sup> .... (5) Mrs John Malone (Mary E. Malone) sold it (according to the Pierpont Morgan Library's records) in 1976 to (6) Charles Ryskamp, who gave it in January 2005 to (7) The PIERPONT MORGAN LIBRARY.<sup>221</sup>

NEWLY RECORDED LETTER

1804 March 19 to Mr Dally

---

<sup>220</sup> In her Preface to Gilchrist, (1880), Anne Gilchrist thanks "Mr. Kirby" for his "courtesy" in allowing her to print several unidentified letters sold in 1878. Presumably Kirby bought all the letters acquired at the 1878 sale by Waller (listed above), all of which were later sold by Joseph Mayer at Sotheby's, 19 July 1887. All the other letters from the 1878 sale printed in the 1880 Gilchrist come from the collections in the British Museum Library (1), Frederick Locker-Lampson (5), and Macmillan (9).

N.B. The letters of 12 March, 2, 27 April, 28 Sept 1804 were printed in Gilchrist (1880), but that of 31 March 1804 acquired by Waller and presumably by Kirby is not given by Gilchrist, perhaps because it is concerned merely with business.

J.R. Kirby lent Blake's copy of Swedenborg, Divine Providence (1790) and an oil portrait of Blake by Thomas Phillips to the Burlington Fine Arts Club Blake exhibition (1876), No.333.

<sup>221</sup> R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2005", Blake, XXXIX (2006), 156.

HISTORY: (1) In his letter of 2 April 1804 Blake wrote of "Mr. Dally, to whom I inclosed £15 in a letter a fortnight ago"; (2) Untraced.

1804 March 31

HISTORY: (1) Sold with the Hayley Correspondence at Sotheby's, 20 May 1878, lot 14 (with the letter of 2 April 1804), for £4 to Waller; (2) Apparently acquired (with the letters of 12 March [q.v.], 2, 27 April, 28 September 1804) by [?J.R.] Kirby ....

1804 April 2 to William Hayley

HISTORY: (1) Sold with the Hayley Correspondence at Sotheby's, 20 May 1878, lot 14 (with the letter of 31 March 1804), for £4 to Waller; (2) Apparently acquired (with the letters of 12 March [q.v.], 31 March, 27 April, 28 September 1804) by [?J.R.] Kirby ....

NEWLY RECORDED LETTER

1804 April 2 to Mr Dally

HISTORY: (1) "I write to him [Mr Dally] by this post to inquire about it" (the £15 he had sent about 19 March 1804) (Blake to Hayley 2 April 1804); (2) Untraced.

1804 April 27

HISTORY: (1) Sold with the Hayley Correspondence at Sotheby's, 20 May 1878, lot 16 (with the letter of 2 April 1804), for £2.10s. to Waller; (2) Apparently acquired (with the letters of 12 March [q.v.], 31 March, 2 April, 28 September 1804) by [?J.R.] Kirby ....

1804 May 4

HISTORY: See Letter of 26 November 1800.

1804 May 20

HISTORY: See Letter of 26 November 1800.

NEWLY RECORDED LETTER

1804 late May from William Hayley

HISTORY: Blake wrote to Hayley on 28 May 1804, "I thank you heartily for your kind offer of reading, &c."; (2) Untraced.

1809 May

HISTORY: (2) Sold with "Exhibition of Paintings in Fresco" (1809) (A) at Sotheby's, 3-4 June 1907, lot 385 [for £15.10.0 to B.F. Stevens].

1804 August 7

HISTORY: ... (2) Sotheby's, 27 July-1 August 1885, lot 1,031 for £3.18.0 to Molini; thereafter it passed to (3) Robert Griffin (c. 1840-1921) of Court Garden, Marlow, Bucks and "thence by descent" to (4) an Anonymous owner, for whom it was sold at Sotheby's (London), 17 December 2009, lot 72 (partially quoted and reproduced) (ESTIMATE: £25,000-£30,000) [for £46,850 to John Windle] for (5) Robert N. Essick.

1804 August 9

HISTORY: See Letter of 26 November 1800.

1804 September 28

HISTORY: (1) Sold with the Hayley Correspondence at Sotheby's, 20 May 1878, lot 24 (with the letter of 2 April 1804), for £2.13s. to Waller; (2) Apparently acquired (with the letters of 12 March [q.v.], 31 March, 2, 27 April, 28 September 1804) by [?J.R.] Kirby; ....

NEWLY RECORDED LETTER

1804 October 21? from William Hayley

HISTORY: "I received your kind letter", and "I write immediately" (Blake to Hayley 23 October 1804); (2) Untraced.

1804 October 23

HISTORY: See Letter of 26 November 1800.

NEWLY RECORDED LETTER

1804? from Joseph Johnson

HISTORY: (1) "Mr. Johnson has, at times, written such letters to me as would have called for the sceptre of Agamemnon rather than the tongue of Ulysses" (Blake's letter to Hayley of 28 May 1804). The dates of Johnson's letters could be any time from 1779 to May 1804; (2) Untraced.

1805 January 22

HISTORY: See Letter of 26 November 1800.

1805 May 17

HISTORY: See Letter of 26 November 1800.

1805 June 4

HISTORY: See Letter of 26 November 1800.

NEWLY RECORDED LETTER

1805 June from Thomas Phillips

HISTORY: Blake wrote in his letter to Hayley of 4 June 1805 that Phillips "sent to me the last sheet [of Hayley's Ballads [1805]] ... desiring that I would forward it to Mr. Seagrave. But I have inclosed it to you"; (2) Untraced.

NEWLY RECORDED LETTER

1807 May to R.H. Cromek

HISTORY: (1) Cromek's letter to Blake of May 1807 referred to "your letter" and paraphrases it; (2) Untraced.

1807 May from Cromek<sup>222</sup>

---

<sup>222</sup> The History in BB 280, is simplistic.

HISTORY: (1) Cromek's original letter does not survive.

(A1) Cromek's transcription of his letter was lent by Cromek's son T.H. Cromek to Allan Cunningham, a family friend; "The letter he was never able to get back",<sup>223</sup> and it is not known to survive.

(B1) T.H. Cromek wrote in his manuscript "Memorials" (c. 1865) that "Mr. Cunningham made [a copy] from the original [i.e., from R.H. Cromek's own transcription of the original] which I lent to him"; "Mr. Allan Cunningham told me (in 1833) that he regretted not having seen [it] until after his 'Life of Blake' was finished" (in 1829); Cunningham's transcription of R.H. Cromek's transcription of the original sent to Blake passed from Allan Cunningham, presumably in 1842 when he died, to (B2) his son Peter, who allowed it to be printed in Anon., "The Life and Works of Thomas Stothard, R.A.", Gentleman's Magazine, NS XXXVII (1852), 149-50 (a review of Mrs Bray's Life of Thomas Stothard [1851]).

(C1) T.H. Cromek transcribed the letter to Blake, extensively normalised, in his manuscript "Memorials" (c. 1865) in Princeton; the source of the letter is obscure, since R.H. Cromek's transcription (A above) and Allan Cunningham's transcription of it (B above) were not accessible to him.

(D1) Another copy of the manuscript "Memorials" made by T.H. Cromek passed to his descendant Wilfred Warrington (cited in BR (2) 262 footnote); presumably this too has a transcription of Cromek's letter to Blake of the same authority as C.

---

<sup>223</sup>John Bell, "Blake and Cromek", Spectator, No. 1836 (4 Nov 1882), 1411.

The Authority of T.H. Cromek's Transcription

In comparison with the first paragraph of the Gentleman's Magazine version, T.H. Cromek (1) alters the lay-out of the place, date, and first line; (2) expands many abbreviations ("rec<sup>d</sup>", "with<sup>t</sup>", "ded<sup>n</sup>", "w<sup>h</sup>" [i.e., "with"], "c<sup>d</sup>", "w<sup>h</sup>" [i.e., "which"], "w<sup>d</sup>", "exclus<sup>y</sup>"); (3) divides the first paragraph into three; (4) does not underline "Newman Street", "May"; (5) gives "4" for "four"; (6) changes "sketched vignette" for "sketched Vignette"; (7) makes minor changes to punctuation; (8) does not italicize or underline "under any circumstances" and "her" and gives underlining in "me" (twice), "you", "ten"; (9) adds a long "s" in possibly"; (10) alters "yours exclus<sup>y</sup>" to "exclusively yours"; (11) does not have superscript letters in "Mr." (twice); and capitalises "guineas".

Of the two versions, that of T.H. Cromek is much more normalized than that in the Gentleman's Magazine. The alteration of underlining to italics, the beginning lay-out (and perhaps the reduction of three paragraphs to one), and the conversion of long "f" to short "s" might be standard manuscript-to-print normalization.

I conclude that the Gentleman's Magazine version is the more authoritative one and suspect that T.H. Cromek was copying from it.

HISTORY: The copy sent by Cromek to Blake has disappeared. However, Cromek's "duplicate copy" was (1) "found ... amongst his father's papers by the late T.H. Cromek", who (2) "knowing Mr. Allan Cunningham personally, and as an old friend of his father, lent it to him at his request ... in 1833 .... The letter he was never able to get back";<sup>224</sup> (3) The letter was lent by Peter Cunningham for publication in Anon., "The Life and Works of Thomas Stothard, R.A.", Gentleman's Magazine, NS XXXVIII (1852), 146-50; (4) Untraced.

1808 January 18 (A)

HISTORY: (5) Sold at Sotheby's (N.Y.), 14 December 1988, No. 58, to the dealer John Wilson for stock; (6) Sold at Sotheby's (London), 14 December 1992, No. 16 (p. 1 illustrated, ESTIMATE: £18,000-£20,000) for £19,800 to Camelia P.L.C.; (7) Offered in Roy David's exhibition (3-14 April 2000) and sale catalogue (March 2000) of The Artist as a Portrait, No. 10 (first and last pages reproduced) for £40,000 [sic] and sold to (8) An Anonymous private collector, according to R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2003", Blake, XXXVII (2004), 120; The anonymous private collector returned the MS to (9) Roy Davids, who offered it to John Windle in October 2008 for £55,000 (Windle declined the offer);<sup>225</sup> Offered from the stock of Roy Davids at Bonham's (London), 29 March 2011, lot 264 (ESTIMATE: £50,000-£60,000 [not sold]).

1815 July 29, Josiah Wedgwood to William Blake

Corrigenda

Stamped, like all the Wedgwood manuscripts here, with "THE PROPERTY OF | JOSIAH WEDGWOOD & SONS, LTD., | ETRURIA MUSEUM". Annotated in modern ink at the top right corner with the Wedgwood Museum reference number: "4382-6". The text is as in William Blake's Writings (1977) p. 1647, except that (1) there is no comma after "together"; (2) after "two or three drawings" for "[.]" read "&"; (3) for "vessell" read "vejsel"; (4) at the conclusion, for "I am Sir | Your mo obt Serv<sup>t</sup>" read: "I am Sir Your mo. obd Serv<sup>tn</sup>".

---

<sup>224</sup> John Bell, "Blake and Cromeek", Spectator, No. 1,836 (4 Nov 1882), 1411.

<sup>225</sup> Robert N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2008", Blake, XLII (2009), 122.

29 July 1815, William Blake to Josiah Wedgwood

Corrigenda

Annotated in modern ink at the top right corner with the Wedgwood Museum reference number: "4383-6". Along the right margin is show-through, presumably a docket: "W Blake | 15 Sept 1815". The text is as in William Blake's Writings (1977) p. 1648, except that the lineation of the conclusion is different:

17 South Molton Street

William Blake

8 Septemb<sup>r</sup> 1815

1809 May

HISTORY: (2) Sold with "Exhibition of Paintings in Fresco" (1809) (A) at Sotheby's, 3-4 June 1907, lot 385 [for £15.10.0 to B.F. Stevens].

NEWLY RECORDED LETTER

1818 June from Dawson Turner

HISTORY: (1) In his letter to Dawson Turner of 9 June 1818, Blake referred to "the different Works you have done me the honour to enquire after" with "very Polite approbation of my works"; (2) Untraced.

1819 October 11

HISTORY: (1) It was sold anonymously at American Art Association auction of 14 January 1926, lot 39 [for $100, according to the marked copy of the catalogue in the Essick

Collection].

NEWLY DISCOVERED LETTER

[25?] November 1825

HISTORY: (1) Acquired presumably by John Murray (1778-1843), bookseller, or his son and successor John Murray (1808-92), both of them keen collectors,<sup>226</sup> and inscribed "Crazy Artist"; it was lent from the John Murray Archive to the Wordsworth Trust exhibition of Paradise Lost: The Poem & Its Illustrators (6 July-31 October 2004), in whose catalogue, item 54, it was partially transcribed and reproduced;<sup>227</sup> it went in 2006 with the rest of the Murray Archive to (2) THE NATIONAL LIBRARY OF SCOTLAND.

1826 March 31

HISTORY: (6) Offered in Charles Boesen, Rare Books, Manuscripts, Autograph, First Editions, Letters From the Estate of the Late Gabriel Wells Catalogue I (N.Y., 1948), lot 28, for $350, bought by Rosenbach (according to his acquisition card), and offered for $575.00; (7) Offered in John F. Fleming catalogue of Books, Manuscripts and Autograph Letters (January 1961).

NEWLY RECORDED LETTER

---

<sup>226</sup> According to Virginia Murray, Archivist, John Murray Archive.

<sup>227</sup> It is also reproduced in G.E. Bentley, Jr, "William Blake and His Circle", Blake, XXXI (July 2005), cover (recto) and p. 11 (verso); Angus Whitehead, "William Blake's last residence: No. 3 Fountain Court, Strand, George Richmond's plan and an unrecorded letter to John Linnell", British Art Journal, VI, 1 (2005), 27 (recto), and Michael Phillips, "The Printing of Blake's Illustrations of the Book of Job", Print Quarterly, XXII (2005), 139 (recto) ("a previously unrecorded letter ... not ... known to scholars before", pp. 138, 140).

1827 January 16 from John Linnell

HISTORY: (1) In his letter of 27 January 1827, Blake's apologised to Linnell for not having acknowledged the receipt of "your Letter" with the "Five Pounds from you on 16 Jan<sup>y</sup> 1827"; (2) Untraced.

1827 March 18

HISTORY: (3) W.T. Spencer allowed it to be published for the first time in Thomas Wright, Life of William Blake (1928), II, 113-14 ....

NEWLY RECORDED LETTER

1827 March 5 from George Cumberland

HISTORY: (1) In his diary for 5 March 1827 Cumberland noted that he had "Sent ... Lett[er] to Blake", and Blake paraphrases it in his letter of 15 March 1827; (2) Untraced.

?1829 Catherine Blake to James Ferguson in Tynemouth

HISTORY: (1) About 1829<sup>228</sup> Catherine Blake sent to the artist James Ferguson<sup>229</sup> of Tynemouth "a List of Works by Blake, offered for sale by his widow";<sup>230</sup> (2) Untraced.

---

<sup>228</sup> The date may be about 11 April 1829 when Tatham wrote to John Pye "in behalf of the widow of the late William Blake" with a list of "works for sale" (the works are not detailed in the only known MS of the letter) (BR (2) 495). It is possible that the letter to Ferguson was written on behalf of Catherine Blake (like this one by Tatham) rather than by her.

<sup>229</sup> Ferguson "took three or four of the Engraved Books" (according to Gilchrist, 366), perhaps including "A work called Outhoon. 12 Plates, 6 inches more or less" which was offered to him (II, 262). BB guesses this to be Visions (N) but does not notice that Ferguson also owned two or three other unnamed books.

Apparently W.M. Rossetti asked Tatham to reconstruct the list of seven colour-prints offered to Ferguson, and Tatham replied a little uncertainly on 9 Nov 1862:

Nebuchadnezzar was one <Butlin #302 or 304>; Pity like a New-born Babe <#311 or 312>; Newton <#307>; The Saviour <"Christ Appearing to the Apostles after the Resurrection", #326 or 327> another, Eve with the Serpent <"Satan Exulting Over Eve", #292>

NEWLY RECORDED LETTERS

4 letters to Ozias Humphry

HISTORY: (1) Offered with the extra-illustrated set of Nollekens (no date or edition identified) expanded to 9 volumes<sup>231</sup> with 450 portraits and 200 letters including four from Blake to Humphry, among the autographs of Joseph Mayer of Liverpool, after whose death it was sold at Sotheby's, 21 July 1887, lot 189; (2) These letters from Blake to Humphry are otherwise unknown and Untraced.

n.d., recipient unknown

HISTORY: (1) When the manuscript of "Thomas Dodd, Memorials of Engravers that have practised the Art in Great Britain from the Year 1550 to 1800" was offered with the MSS of Joseph Mayer in the Sotheby catalogue of 21-25 July 1887, lot 730, it included "Letters or Signature by Bewick, Blake ... in 50 [quarto] portfolios"; (2) Untraced.<sup>232</sup>

LETTER OF Catherine Wright Armitage (later Blake)
(1723-1792), the poet's mother

another, Elijah in the Chariot <"God Judging Adam", #295 or 296> another; and the seventh I do not remember .... [ROSSETTI PAPERS 1862-1876, ed. W.M. Rossetti (1903), 16-17]

None of Ferguson's copies has been traced -- indeed, it is not clear that he bought any separate print.

<sup>230</sup> Gilchrist, 366.

<sup>231</sup> This is probably not the unbound copy of Nollekens, Second Edition (1829) in William Upcott's auction by Evans, 15-19 June 1846, lot 910, with a letter to J.T. Smith from William Twopenny about Blake's widow (see Nov 1828 in BR (2)).

<sup>232</sup> Dodd's Memorials of Engravers went to the British Library (Add. MSS 33,397, ff. 140-42), but the Blake MS did not accompany it.

[1750 November?]

DESCRIPTION: A single leaf written on one side only, without date or address (beyond “My Dear Bretheren & Sisters” of the Fetter Lane Moravian Congregation), reproduced online in Keri Davies, “The Lost Moravian History of William Blake’s Family: Snapshots from an Archive”, Literature Compass (2006), 1309. The hypothetical date derives from that of her husband’s very similar letter dated 14 November 1750 in the same Archive.

HISTORY: (1) In the MORAVIAN CHURCH ARCHIVE (London) since its receipt.

LETTER OF James Blake (1753-1827) the poet’s brother

1785 April 1

DESCRIPTION: A letter to the Directors and Governors of the Poor of St James Parish.

HISTORY: By descent to the CITY OF WESTMINSTER ARCHIVES CENTRE, quoted in BR (2) 38-39.

Letters to William Blake of Aldersgate Street

8 January 1792, office draft from Josiah Wedgwood (Wedgwood Museum) -- see BR (2) below.

7 February 1820[?], office draft from Josiah Wedgwood (Wedgwood Museum) -- see BR (2) below.

24 January 1822, office draft from Josiah Wedgwood (Wedgwood Museum) -- see BR (2) below.

EDITIONS

The Letters of William Blake: Together with a Life [by Frederick Tatham, ed. A.G.B. Russell, (1906) <BB> B. § Volume 1 (Charleston [South Carolina]: BiblioLife, 2014) 312 pp.; ISBN: 9781295534098

I have no record of a second volume.

REVIEW

§Anon., “William Blake”, Times Literary Supplement,
11 January 1907 (with 3 others)
The Letters of William Blake. Ed. Geoffrey Keynes, (1956, 1968) <BB #93A-D> E. **Blake no Tegami* [Blake’s Letters].
Tr. Narumi Umetsu. (Tokyo, 1970) <BB #90> F. Third Edition. (Oxford: Clarendon Press, 1980)

REVIEWS

1956

§K. Raine, New Statesman and Nation, 3 November 1956, p. 558 (with another)

§Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 9 November 1956,
p. 667 (with another)

§John Bailey, Spectator, 30 November 1956, p. 797
(with another)

§Kenneth Young, “Imaginative Cockney”, Daily Telegraph, November 1956 (with another)

*Charles Poor, “He disliked some Londoners”, New York Times, 22 January 1957, p. 26

§Alfred Kazin, “He found a World of Imagination ... In Blake’s Letters is Stated the Creed Of a Great Poet
...”, New York Times, 27 January 1957, p. 1

For a protest, see Karl Kiralis, “Blake”, New York Times Book Review, 24 March 1957, p. 43 <BB #2054>

§Anon., New York Times Book Review, 17 February 1957, p. 12

§Kenneth Rexroth, Nation, 2 March 1957, p. 194

§ Hazard Adams, American Scholar, XXVI, 3
(Summer 1957), 384-85

§ L. Bonnerot, Etudes anglaises, XL (1957), 263, in French

§ Günther Klotz, *Zeitschrift für Anglistik und
Amerikanistik*, V (1957), 337-38, in German

§ Anon., Yale Review, XLVI (1957), xii-xvii

§ H.M. Margoliouth, Review of English Studies, NS,
IX, 33 (February 1958), 94-95

§ R.T.F., Personalist, XXXIX (1958), 197-98 (with another)

§ Karl Kiralis, College English, XX (1958), 98

Anthony Blunt, Burlington Magazine, XCIX, 648

(March 1961), 101-2 (with two others) ("a well-printed edition")

1968

§ Anon., "William Blake in Collotype and Correspondence",
Times Literary Supplement, 20 March 1969, p.
308 (with 2 others)

W.E. Stevenson, Blake Newsletter, II, 4 (1 April 1969), 71-72

D.V. E[rdman], English Language Notes, VIII (1969), 23

Winston Weathers, Blake Studies, II, 1 (1969), 101-2

G.E. Bentley, Jr., "Blake Scholars and Critics: The Texts", University of Toronto Quarterly, XXXIX
(1970), 274-87 (with 5 others)

1970

Kohei Koizumi, "Umetsu Shi no Koseki [Mr Umetsu's Achievement]", pp. 83-88 of his William Blake Shoyo [William Blake Essays] (1982) in Japanese 1980

§Peter Quennell, Apollo, CXIV (August 1981), 137
(with 3 others)

G. E. Bentley, Jr., "Blake's Letters and Literals", Blake, XV, 3 (Winter 1981-82), 138-39

§Anthony Payne, "Conversing in Paradise", Antiquarian Book Monthly Review, IX, 5 (May 1982) (with 2 others)

§Jacques Blondel, Etudes anglaises, XXXV (1982), 331-32, in French

§Sheila M. Smith, British Journal of Aesthetics, XXII (1982), 90-91

§Mary Ellman, Sewanee Review, XCI (1983), 120-28

§John Beer, Modern Language Review, LXXIX (1984), 425-30

The Marriage of Heaven and Hell
([?1790][1827?]) <BBS>

Weight and Cost of Copperplates

The 23 new plates<sup>233</sup> weighed 5,443.6 grams = 11¾ pounds and would have cost £2.1.3.

---

<sup>233</sup> Marriage pl. 12-13, 20, 27 are cut from Blake's private plate of "The Approach of Doom" (?1788) (see BB 167). The verso of Marriage pl. 6 had something else on it before Urizen pl. 20 was etched there, but it is not clear whether the palimpsest under Urizen pl. 20 preceded Marriage pl. 6 or succeeded it.

TABLE

| Copy Plates | Leaves | Water- Blake | Binding | Leaf Size | Printing |
|-------------|--------|--------------|---------|-----------|----------|
| Mark        | Number | Order        |         | in Cm     | Colour   |

E

M 25-27 2<sup>235</sup> ---<sup>236</sup> --- 25-27 10.5-15.2<sup>237</sup> Black

VICTORIA
UNIVER-
SITYIN
THE UNI-VERSITY OF TORONTO

PLATE 6

It is reproduced online in the Tate Britain.

The plates of the Marriage seem to have been cut out of seven sheets of copper in the following patterns and perhaps in the following order, according to Joseph Viscomi, Huntington Library Quarterly, LVIII (1996), 337:

|       |       |      |     |      |       |       |          |       |
|-------|-------|------|-----|------|-------|-------|----------|-------|
| Sheet | I     | II   | III | IV   | V     | VI    | II verso | VII   |
| Plate | 22 24 | 12 x | 2 3 | 6 7  | 15 9  | 17 16 | x 27     | 25 26 |
| Plate | 23 21 | x 13 | 1 5 | 8 11 | 14 10 | 19 18 | 20 x     | -- -- |

Bold-face indicates plates upside-down; "x" and apparently "--" identify unknown plates.

Sheet II was originally used for "The Approach of Doom", and Marriage pl. 4 came from the sheet from which Thel was cut (see above).

<sup>234</sup>Geoffrey Keynes and Edwin Wolf II ed., William Blake's Illuminated Books: A Census (N.Y.: Grolier Club, 1953), report a watermark of “E&P” (as in Copy F) on 3 leaves, but this was not visible to GEB (BB 386) or Michael Phillips (ed., The Marriage of Heaven and Hell [Oxford: Bodleian Library, 2011], 161).

<sup>235</sup> Copy M consists of two leaves on a half-sheet of paper, pl. 26-27 printed back to back (not pl. 25-26 as in BB), the front page of the folded gathering blank.

<sup>236</sup> It is wove paper, with two deckled edges.

<sup>237</sup> The piece of paper as a whole (bearing two leaves) is 24.3 x 19.9 cm.

Copies were apparently printed in 1790 (K-M [proofs], A, C, B, H), 1794 (E-F), 1795 (D), 1818 (G), 1827 (I) (Viscomi, 376-80).

The conventional dating of the Marriage has long been c. 1790-93, but, according to Viscomi, 237-40,

In the course of 1790, apparently within two or possibly three different but not necessarily widely separated plate-making sessions, Blake wrote and executed three sets of Marriage plates. [I] Plates 1-3, 5-6, 11-13, and 21-24 have the rightward g<sup>238</sup> and appear to have been written first; [II] Plates 4, 7-10, and 14-20 have the leftward g and appear to have been written second. ... [III] Plates 25-27 ("A Song of Liberty") appear to have originated as an autonomous work, which was attached to the narrative as a kind of coda ....

Plate 7 is the transitional plate ..., with its first g tilting to the right like the g in Plates 5 and 6, and its second [in the same line!] and subsequent gs tilting to the left. ...

Most of the [copperplate] sheets for Marriage were approximately 30 x 21 cm. Most of the sheets can be reconstructed according to the self-contained units; Plates 16-19, for example, share the same widths and heights and together form one 33.0 x 20.7 cm sheet, while Plates 7-10 were probably cut out of one 30.1 x 20.7 sheet. It is therefore significant when plates made from the same sheet have both kinds of g, as with plates 12, 13, 20, and 27, which appear to have been etched on the backsides of four plates cut from the 29.7 x 21 cm plate used for Doom. Plates 12 and 13 form a self-contained unit with the rightward g, and Plates 20 and 27 both end sections (14-20, 25-27) that are self-contained but have differently formed gs. Assuming that the plates were prepared at the same time, it follows that their texts were probably written close to each other in time as well. In other words, if the use of the two gs did not overlap in Marriage, then the one could not have been employed very far from the other. ...

---

<sup>238</sup> D.V. Erdman, "Dating Blake's Script: The 'g' Hypothesis", Blake Newsletter, III (1969), 8-13, had argued that Blake formed his "g" with an unconventional leftward serif at the top from "the middle of 1791" until between "Nov 5 1802 ... and March 25 1804" or until 18 June 1805, and made a conventional rightward serif before and after these dates, but "Erdman's hypotheses ... on the formation of Blake's g ... are wrong" (Viscomi, 234); see also "Blake's Sinister 'g', from 1789-93 to ?1803", Blake Newsletter, III (1969), 43-45.

Apparently they [both kinds of g] overlapped with one another and with the serifless g of the Thel plates, which shows up in nine of the twenty-seven plates of Marriage ....

The new leftward g was most likely introduced after the rightward g, and, regardless if early use was variable or exclusive, the new g made its first appearance in Thel Plates 1 and 8 and in the second set of Marriage plates, presumably late in 1789 or early 1790.

PLATE 7

See Small Book of Designs (B).

PLATES 16, 19

According to Viscomi, ut supra, 313 n38, Marriage pl. 19 (10.2 x 16.4 cm) was "likely paired with [i.e., etched on the verso of] Urizen pl. 21 [10.2 x 16.6]" rather than Marriage pl. 16 (10.2 x 16.6 cm), as in BB 167.

PLATE 21

According to Joseph Viscomi, ut supra, it is Urizen pl. 21 (10.2 x 16.6) which is probably on the verso of Marriage pl. 19 (10.2 x 16.4) rather than Marriage pl. 16 (10.2 x 16.6 cm), as in BB 167.<sup>239</sup>

SIGNIFICANT VARIANTS

Pl. 10-11, 15, 21: The etched "cave and rock formations" were masked in all save copies G and I; "The traces of ink on Plate 10 of Copy B ... and especially those in Plate 11 ... reveal that the ink was wiped off the forms to prevent them from printing .... The [cave and rock] forms are also revealed as slight embossments in the versos of copies A and F".<sup>240</sup>

Pl. 21: "the engraved white lines in the hill and ornament over the i of the first line" are missing in Copy K (Viscomi, 91).

---

<sup>239</sup> The dimensions of prints in the Marriage given in Viscomi differ slightly from those in BB partly because he gives four dimensions (height on left and right sides, width at top and bottom) rather than two (width at bottom and height at right) and partly because he gives individual measurements for five copies, whereas BB gives average measurements for each print in all copies. The differences are not, however, significant.

<sup>240</sup> Viscomi, 110-11; the slight smudge visible on Viscomi's illus. 134 is not clearly identifiable as the rocky island of the colored designs. BB 290 had recorded the rock formations as effects of colouring only for pl. 10-11, 21.

Pl. 26: In the section numbered 15, "chariots" was crudely altered in pen to "charots" in Copy B, probably not by Blake (Viscomi, 147).

Pl. 26, l. 6: Copy M reads "And weep and bow thy reverend locks!" as in Copy L, rather than "And weep!" as in other copies. In Copy M, there is a pencil "x" beside the line.

N.B. When these letters were etched out, they were not replaced with flourishes to fill in the empty space, though every other such space is so filled. The erasure had to be done extremely carefully, for, in the erased "thy" (l. 6), the riser of "h" is on the same level as the flourishing descender of the "y" in "eternity" above it (l. 5), the ornamental descender of the "y" in the same "thy" actually touches the riser in of the "h" in "hands" below it (l. 7), and the riser of the "k" of "locks" (l. 6) overlaps the descender of the "g" of "falling" (l. 7)--and the overlap is still visible on copies such as B where the end of l. 6 is erased.

Pl. 27: The 8-line Chorus is not inked in Copy M. However, the tops of the first two letters of "Chorus" and of the flourishes round it are inked. The obscuring was probably not achieved by masking (by laying a piece of paper between the bottom of the plate and the paper-to-be-printed-on), for there is no indentation from this masking-leaf, and the portions omitted are not in a straight line--the missing word "Chorus" is between the unobscured rearing horses.

Further, the flourish below the word "Chorus" is visible in indentation. Even more strikingly, in sharply-raking sunlight (but not in artificial light), faint hints of the rest of the text of the "Chorus" are also discernable; the "L" of "Let" in the first line, the "dl" of "deadly" in the second line and the exclamation-point after "not" in the seventh line are particularly clear.

If these ghost-letters are truly there, this means that (1) The plate was not masked, for this embossing would scarcely show through a layer of paper; (2) The letters are not black either because (a) they were never inked or (b) the ink was wiped off or (c), probably, a combination of the two, as must be the case with the "C" of "Chorus", which is inked at the top and only embossed at the bottom; (3) The text was complete when the print was inked; it is not merely waiting for a design or inspiration to fill the space.

But of course we must be cautious about concluding just what was written in this early version of the "Chorus". All this evidence shows clearly is that "deadly" (or at least "dl") and "not!" (or at least "l") were present when pl. 27 of Copy M was printed.

COPY A

HISTORY: Offered with Book of Thel (A) and First Book of Urizen (F) by Quaritch, November 1885, lot 51, for £150.

COPY B

BINDING: The leaf with pl. 7-8 was apparently at first reversed; then the "leaf with plates 8 and 7 was reinserted into the binding correctly, joined to the leaf with plates 5 and 6 by a strip of paper and stabbed three times with the other fourteen leaves".<sup>241</sup>

---

<sup>241</sup> Viscomi, 109; Blake seems to have been printing the work as if it were a folio, with two prints on each side of the paper:

He printed plates 5 and 7 as an outside form (they are in the same ink) and plates 6 and 8 as the corresponding inside form (they are

HISTORY: (1) ... perhaps acquired by Charles George Dyer;<sup>242</sup> (2) “Blake’s mar. of heaven hell [was acquired from] Dyer” in April 1821 by (3) Francis Douce ....

It is reproduced online in the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi (2010), and in The Marriage of Heaven and Hell, ed. Michael Phillips (2011).

COPY C

Apparently reproduced in the Brazilian facsimile (2004); it is reproduced online in the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi.

COPY D

HISTORY: Lent to the University of Pennsylvania Blake exhibition (17-21 October 1936).

It was reproduced in black-and-white in 2010 and online in the Library of Congress and in the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi.

COPY E

HISTORY: Offered in Quaritch in Catalogue No. 62 (June 1893), Miscellaneous Catalogue (November 1893), and Miscellaneous Catalogue (1893), Catalogue 157 (March 1896), lot 37, for £60, “n.d. (1800)”, “4to. 27 unnumbered leaves ... coloured by Blake, hf. bd. uncut” in each ...(3) Mrs also in the same ink). ... Apparently Blake had forgotten which form he was inking when he printed these four plates.

---

<sup>242</sup> C.G. Dyer’s intimate friend the engraver and painter Richard Bean (1792-1817) profoundly admired “the sublime conceptions of Blake” (Gentleman’s Magazine, LXXII [Oct 1817], 369), and Dyer dedicated to Bean his Biographical Sketches of ... Eminent Men (1819). Perhaps Bean was the first owner of Marriage (B).

Emerson lent it to the exhibition at the Boston Museum of Fine Art in December 1929.

Copy E was reproduced online by Art Cyclopedia under Fitzwilliam Museum, in the William Blake, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi(2010).

COPY F

HISTORY: (5) A.E. Newton lent it to the Philadelphia Museum of Art exhibition (1926) ....

Reproduced in colour in The Early Illuminated Books, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi (1993), in The Complete Illuminated Books, ed. David Bindman (2000), and online in the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi and the Pierpont Morgan Library..

COPY G

Reproduced online in the William Blake Archive and by Harvard Libraries.

COPY H

It was reproduced in colour in the Spanish edition (2000, 2001) and online in the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi.

COPY I

HISTORY: (1) This is probably the copy ordered by T.G. Wainewright by February 1827; (2) It was sold by Benjamin Wheatley on 4 August 1831, lot 395 ("The Marriage of Heaven and Hell, coloured by the author, scarce") [for £2.3.0 to (the booksellers John and Arthur) Arch)].<sup>243</sup>

---

<sup>243</sup>According to Wheatley's file copy of the catalogue: British Library:

It is reproduced online in the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi.

COPY K

A reproduction was added in 2008 to the William Blake Archive.

COPY L

HISTORY: (1) Sold posthumously with the John Linnell Collection at Christie's 15 March 1918, lot 197 [for £11.11.0 to Tregaskis] on commission for (2) Frank Rinder,<sup>244</sup> from whom it was inherited by (3) His daughter Mrs Ramsay Harvey, after whose death it was sold for (4) The heirs at Christie's, 30 November 1993, lot 1 (ESTIMATE: £8,000-£10,000 [sold for £32,200 to John Windle for]) (5) Professor Robert N. Essick, who lent it to the Tate Blake exhibition (9 November 2000-11 February 2001), No. 192a.

It is reproduced in pl. 9-10 of Michael Phillips, "Blake and the Terror 1792-93", Library, 6 S, XVI (1994), showing the watermark and chain-lines, in Robert N. Essick, S.C. Wheatley.17 (12) (see Marc Vaulbert de Chantilly, "Property of a Distinguished Poisoner: Thomas Griffiths Wainewright and the Griffiths family library," pp. 111-42 of Under the Hammer: Book Auctions Since the Seventeenth Century, ed. Robin Myers, Michael Harris, and Giles Mandelbrote (New Castle [Delaware]: Oak Knoll Press; London: The British Library, 2001). In the same sale, and presumably also Wainewright's, were lot 424, Blair's Grave (1808) [Rich, £1.6.0] and lot 1746 (11 Aug), Young, Night Thoughts "with the singular designs by Richard [sic] Blake" [Williams, £1.13.0]. Wainewright is also probably the vendor of the Job proofs (1826) sold by Wheatley on 20 Dec 1832 (S.C.Wheatley 20.(4)), lot 1313, property of W[heatley] [Molteno £1.9.0].

---

<sup>244</sup>The Tregaskis bill for Marriage (L-M), with a £2 commission fee, is dated 16 March 1918, and Rinder's payment was received three days later, according to the Christie catalogue of the sale 30 Nov 1993. The information in this note is not in BB.

"Representation, Anxiety, and the Bibliographic Sublime", Huntington Library Quarterly, LIX (1998), 503-28, Figures 9-10, in the Tate catalogue (2000), and in 2008 in the William Blake Archive.

COPY M

BINDING: Three plates are printed on two integral leaves (one folded half-sheet); the page left blank is, very oddly, the first one.<sup>245</sup> The first (blank) page is perhaps somewhat dirtier than others, and it seems slightly foxed.

PAPER SIZE: The paper is somewhat irregular in shape, 24.3 cm wide (measured at the bottom) or 23.8 cm (at top) x 20.0 cm high (at right of the inner folding) or 19.6 cm (at left). The original deckled edges are still on the right (when looking at pl. 25-26) and top; the bottom and left edges are slightly crooked as if cut with scissors (a knife would surely have been drawn along a straight edge, as of a ruler). The paper was folded not quite in the middle--who is to say when and by whom it was folded? The crease is now very firm, and there is a tiny tear at bottom of the crease. The leaf with pl. 25 is 11.7 cm wide at the top, and that with pl. 26-27 is 12.1 wide at top.

REGISTRATION: Pl. 25-26 are carefully registered top and bottom--the plate-marks are very clear. Pl. 27 is pretty carefully registered with pl. 26--it is very slightly higher. It is unlikely that copies K (pl. 21-24), L (pl. 25-27), and M (pl.

---

<sup>245</sup>Copy M is on one sheet folded to make two leaves with (blank, pl. 25) and (pl. 26-27), not (pl. 25-26) (pl. 27, blank) as in BB287 fn1.

25-27) were produced together, for the paper sizes are quite different.

HISTORY: (1) Sold posthumously with the John Linnell Collection at Christie's, 15 March 1918, lot 197, for £8.18.6 to the firm of Tregaskis, for (2) Frank Rinder, who offered it to an unidentified friend in an undated note<sup>246</sup> still with the prints at £9.18.6 (the purchase price of £8.18.6 plus 10%); (3) Found by John Windle in a copy of Blake's Job<sup>247</sup> brought to Christie's with a furniture consignment and sold anonymously at Christie's, 26 November 1997, Lot 166 (pl. 25-26 reproduced) (ESTIMATE: £10,000-£15,000) for £9,000 to (4) John Windle for Dr A.E.K.L. Bentley, who lent it to the Tate Blake exhibition (9 November 2000-11 February 2001), No. 192b; (5) Dr A.E.K.L.B. Bentley and G.E. Bentley, Jr gave it in October 2005 with the rest of their collections to (6) VICTORIA UNIVERSITY IN THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO.

It is reproduced in Blake, XXXI (1998), 116, 139, 144. in the Tate catalogue (2000), in 2008 in the William Blake Archive, in the Petit Palais exhibition catalogue of 2 April-29 June 2009, and in the catalogue of the 2 August-3 October 2010 exhibition at Victoria University Library in the University of Toronto.

PLATE 6

---

<sup>246</sup> The letter is unsigned and unaddressed, but it is on the letterhead and in the hand of Frank Rinder, as is demonstrated by comparison with examples in the collection of Professor R.N. Essick. At the 1918 sale, Rinder bought Marriage (L) listed in the same note at the purchase price of £11.10.0 + 10%.

<sup>247</sup> The Job was "in contemporary red linen box ... as described by John Linnell" (according to the Christie catalogue below) with an inscription by Frank Rinder and was sold in the same 1997 sale as the Marriage, lot 168. The Linnell description and box are otherwise unknown to GEB.

It is reproduced online in the Tate Britain.

PLATES 11, 14, 16

See Small Book of Designs (A).

PLATES 11, 14, 16

See Small Book of Designs (B).

EDITIONS

The Marriage of Heaven and Hell [F] (London: [Camden Hotten, 1871]. <BB #99>

In Very Important New Books (added to works published by John Camden Hotten, 1868 ff.) is an advertisement for Original Editions of Blake's Works.

NOTICE.—Mr. Hotten has in preparation a few facsimile copies (exact as to paper, printing – the water-colour drawings being filled in by an artist) of the ORIGINAL EDITIONS of the Books written and Illustrated by WILLIAM BLAKE. As it is only intended to produce – with utmost care – a few examples of each work, Mr. Hotten will be glad to hear from any gentleman who may desire to secure copies of these wonderful books. The first volume, "MARRIAGE OF HEAVEN AND HELL," 4to, is now being issued, price 30s, half morocco ... [quotation from Charles Lamb]

No other facsimile was issued in this series.

In Quaritch's New Catalogue of Miscellaneous Works (1876), lot [16,078], the [Camden Hotten] facsimile was dated "1871", "Only 100 copies of this facsimile were printed, and of these only 25 copies were coloured.”

REVIEW

Anon., North American Review, CVIII, 223 (April 1869), 641-46 (with two others) (the Camden Hotten facsimile was “made from a fine copy in the possession of Lord Houghton” [F]; “the artist by whom the hand-work in the facsimile was executed has lately died”)

The Marriage of Heaven and Hell. (Chelsea: [Printed by Jacques Raverat] 1910) 8°, i, 21 pp. (plus 5 blank leaves at each end)

According to the colophon, it was “Printed at Chelsea by J.P. Raverat. January 1910”; a MS note in the copy “ex dono impressionis” to “Sydney Cockerell” (in the collection of Mr James Schaffner) says it was printed in “24 copies” “by M<sup>r</sup> Hornby’s permission at the Ashendene Press. | SCC”.

“Le Mariage du Ciel et de l’Enfer.” Tr. André Gide. Nouvelle revue française, N.S., No. 107 (1 August 1922), 129-47. B. (Paris,<sup>248</sup> 1922) C. (Paris: Chez Claude Aveline, 1923<sup>249</sup>) ...
<BB, BBS>

The Marriage of Heaven and Hell, Note by Max Plowman (1927) <BB>

REVIEWS

---

<sup>248</sup> Not “Charlot” (a publisher, not a place), as in BB #111B.

<sup>249</sup> The title page is dated “MCMXXIII”, but the colophon (p. 65) says it was printed “a Abbeville, le XXX Novembre MCMXXII”.

Anon., "Shorter Notices. Blake's Work, Law, and Bible Studies", Times [London], 5 August 1927, p. 13

(with another)

§B.S., Nottingham Gazette, 26 August 1927 (with 3 others)

§George Sampson, Observer, 1927(?) (with 6 others)

Le mariage du ciel et de l'enfer, tr. André Gide (1927)

REVIEWS

Joseph Aynard, "William Blake", Chronique des lettres françaises, No. 3 (mai-juin, 1923), 424 (from Joseph Aynard, Journal de Débats, 30 mars 1923), in French

*Mark Porée, Quinzaine littéraire, No. 769 (1999), 19-22 (with 2 others), in French

La boda del Cielo y del Infierno. (Primeros libros proféticos) Versión castellana con introducción y notas por Edmundo González-Blanco. (Madrid: Editorial Mundo Latino, 1927) In Spanish <BB>

"Introducción del Traductor" (pp. 5-82). The prose translations are organized into "Dogmas y Principios": Marriage, All Religions are One, and There is No Natural Religion; "Leyendas Simbólicas": Tiriel, Thel, and "Vision of the Last Judgement"; "Los Acontecimientos Contemporáneos": "A Song of Liberty" [from the Marriage] and The French Revolution; "Las Cosmogonías y los Grandes Símbolos": Urizen, Ahania, The Book of Los, The Song of Los, and Europe.

There is no explicit connection between this volume of "Primeros libros proféticos" (1927) and Premiers livres prophétiques, tr. Pierre Berger (1927). <BB>

The Spanish translation by N.N. (1947) seems to be adapted from this translation.

The Marriage of Heaven and Hell (Maastricht, Holland, 1928)
<BB>

It was edited by P.N. van Eyck, printed by John Enschedé with Jan van Krimpen's Lutetia type, and published by Alexandre Alphonse Marius Stols at his Halcyon Press in 325 copies, "a brilliant example of their superior craftsmanship", according to Oskar Wellens, "A Dutch Bibliophile Edition of The Marriage of Heaven and Hell (1928)", Blake, XXXVII (2003-4), 104-7.

§**Snoubeni Nebe a Pekla*. [Tr. Otto F. Babler]. (Olomaue [Czech Republic]: Bera, 1931) 8°, 23 pp. In Czech B. §Tr. Jaroslava Skalickho and Otto F. Babler. (Liberec [Czech Republic]: Dauphin, 1994) 20 cm, 207 pp.; ISBN: 8090184251 In Czech

§El matrimonio del Cielo y del Infierno. Traducción de Xavier Villaurrutia. With a Prefatory Note taken from G.K. Chesterton. ([México], 1942) In Spanish <BB> B. §El Matrimonio del Cielo y El Infierno ... (1998) C. §Second edition (2003) D. §Second Edition. (Mexico City: Ediciones Coyoacán, 2004) Colección Reino Imaginario 70 pp.; ISBN: 97063313476 E. El matrimonio del Cielo y del Infierno. Xavier Villaurrutia (Sevilla: Editorial Renacimiento, 2007, 2010) Colección "El Clavo Ardiendo", a reprint of the Editorial Séneca (México) edition, 12°, 64 pp.; "G.K. Chesterton", with the correct initials, does not include "A Song of Liberty" or the "Chorus"; ISBN: 9788484723363 In Spanish

Preface (1½ pp.) by "C. [sic] K. Chesterton". [Professor Castanedo (2013) has found the original text in English in G.K. Chesterton's William Blake (London: Duckworth and Co, and New York: E.P. Dutton and Co, 1910?), 208-10.]

§The Marriage of Heaven and Hell ... 1790. (Roma: De Fonseca Editore, 1945) Phoenix No. 1 28 cm, 38 pp.

**The Marriage of Heaven and Hell* [D]. (London, 1960) The William Blake Trust <BB>

The Blake Trust facsimile is reproduced in reduced size in the Dover publication of 1994.

REVIEWS

§[Kathleen Raine], Times Literary Supplement, 21 December 1960, p. 840

Martin Butlin, Burlington Magazine, CIII, 701 (August 1961), 368 ("The quality of the ... facsimile is once again such that one need make no allowance when using it as a work of reference")

**Nisu'e ha-'eden veba-she'ol*. Tr. Giora Leshem (Tel Aviv: Eked, 1967/68) In Hebrew <BBS> B. §(Tel Aviv: G. Leshem, 1997)

§The Marriage of Heaven and Hell. Drawings by Clark Stewart. (Knoxville [Tennessee]: Darkpool Press, 1972) 29 cm, 35 pp., "limited to 100 copies" <BB #109, here amplified>

REVIEW

*Judith Ott, Blake, XI, 2 (Fall 1977), 117-19

The Marriage of Heaven and Hell (1974) The William Blake Trust <BB>

REVIEWS

*Brian Alderson, "Blake in the original", Times [London], 22 December 1975, p. 9 (with 3 others)

*John Beer, Blake, XI, 1 (Summer 1977), 42-44

The Marriage of Heaven and Hell, ed. Geoffrey Keynes (London and N.Y., 1975) <BB #A109> B. Die Vermählung von Himmel und Hölle, ed. Geoffrey Keynes (1975)

REVIEWS

§Anon., National-Zeitung [Basel], 27 March 1975, in German

§E[duard] B[eaucamp], Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung, 8 August 1975, in German

§Anon., Freie Presse/Prensa Libre [Buenos Aires], 8 January 1976

§Times of India Magazine, 10 October 1976, pp. 6-8 (with another)

§Ronald Paulson, Georgia Review, XXX (1976), 466-67 (with another)

§Graham Reynolds, Apollo, CV (1977), 147

§John Beer, Blake, XI (Winter 1977-78), 42-44 (English version)

§Detlef W. Dörrbecker, Blake, XI (Winter 1977-1978), 44-49 (German version)

§**Cielo e Inferno*. Introduzione, Traduzione i Nota di Pasquale Maffeo; con Cinque Disegno e Due Acquaforti Originale de Sandro Stenico. (Napoli: Fiorentino, 1977) 22 cm., 69 pp. In Italian

§El matrimonio del cielo y del infierno. Traducción de Soledad Capurro y prologo de Luis Cernuda. (Madrid: Vissor, 1977) In Spanish

The prologo was reprinted from Luis Cernuda, "William Blake", Pensimiento poético en la lirica inglesa (Siglo XIX) (Mexico [City]: Imprenta Universitaria, 1958).

The work was apparently reprinted in El Matrimonio del Cielo y del Infierno y Cantos de Inocencia y de Experiencia. Tr. Soledad Capurro. (Madrid, 1979) Colección Visor de Poesía Vol. 87. <BBS>

§Il Matrimonio del Cielo e dell'Inferno. A Cura di Paolo Manelli. (Firenze [Italy]: Nuovedizioni E Vallecchi, 1979) Biblioteca della Doppia Lettere 18 cm, 82 pp. In Italian

A União do Céu e do inferno. Tr. [&c.] João Ferreira Duarte. (Lisbon: Via Editoria, 1979). 8º, no ISBN In Portuguese and English B. *(Lisbon: Relógio D'água, 1991) 79 pp.; ISBN: 9727081444

Die Hochzeit von Himmel und Hölle: Eine Auswahl aus den prophetisch-revolutionären schriften, ed. Silvia Leutjohann (1987) In German <BBS>

REVIEW

§Ksc., Rurh-Nachrichten, 24 July 1989, in German
Äktenskapet mellan Himmel och Helvete, tr. Folke Isaksson, met efterord av Gören Malmqvist (1988) <BBS>

REVIEW

*Morton D. Paley and Gunnel Tottie, Blake, XXIII, 4
(Spring 1990), 209-10

**Tengoku to jigoku no kekkon* [The Marriage of Heaven and Hell]. Tr. Mikihiko Ikeshita. (Tokyo: Kindaibungeisha, 1992) 88 pp. In Japanese.

The work consists of "Sakuhin shokai [Introduction of the Work]" (pp. 5-13), "Sakuhin [Work, i.e., the Marriage in English]" (pp. 15-35), "Sakuhin no Nihongo yaku, Tengoku to Jigoku no kekkon [Japanese translation of The Marriage]" (pp. 37-57), "Sakuhin kaisetsu [Commentary]" (pp. 59-84), "Atogaki [Afterword]" (pp. 85-88).

§**Giftarmålet mellom Himmel og Helvete*. Tr. Hanne Bramness and Erling Indreeide. (Oslo: Cappelen, 1993) 63 pp.; ISBN: 8202144884 In English and Norwegian

A "faks".

N.B. Blake (2000) erroneously lists is as "a book about Blake" by June Giftarmålet.

**The Marriage of Heaven and Hell* [D] In Full Color. (N. Y.: Dover Publications, Inc., 1994) 12°, ISBN: 0486281221 (pbk) B. §(2007)

The work consists of (1)Anon., "Note" (p. [iii]); (2)a reproduction acknowledged on the back cover (of the paperback edition) to be from the Blake Trust facsimile (1960) of Marriage (D) <BB>, though reduced in leaf-size from 37.5 x 26.0 cm to 17.8 x 13.2 cm (the images reduced from c. 10 x 15 cm to c. 9 x 12.8 cm), and the designs reproduced back-to-back rather than on one side only of the leaves; and (3) a transcription of Blake's text with "Blake's spelling, punctuation and use of capital letters ... retained wherever possible" (sic) (pp. 28-43).

The work is boxed with Favorite Works of William Blake (1997).

Il Matrimonio del Cielo e Dell'Inferno. Traduzione e Nota di Giuseppe Ungaretti, con uno scritto de Brunilde Neroni. (Milan: Studio Editoriale SRL, 1994) Piccola Enciclopedia 100 Narrow 8°; ISBN: 8877102888 In Italian and English §**Matrimonio del cielo e dell'inferno.* ([by 1998]) Piccola enciclopedia 100. ISBN: 8877102888 In Italian.

§**Ægteskabet mellem Himmel og Helvede.* Tr. Niels Bronse, Eftorord by Mawanne Lindgren. (Roskilde [Denmark]: Batzeer and Co, 1995) 72 pp.; ISBN: 97887988218845 In Danish

A facsimile.

**Le Mariage du Ciel et de l'Enfer.* Postface de Giuseppe Ungaretti. Tr. Alain Suied. (Paris: Arfuen, 1996) Arfuen Textes anglais cahier n° 106. 8°, 72 pp.; ISBN: 290882549X In French and English

English and French texts are on facing pages; "Petit glossaire du Ciel et de l'Enfer" (pp. 61-62); Ungaretti, "Sur William Blake", tr. Gerard Pfister (pp. 63-66); "Note Biographique" (pp. 67-70).

§**Snoubeni Nebe a Pekla = The Marriage of Heaven and Hell.* Tr. Sylva Ficová. (Praha and Litomšl [Czech Republic]: Paseka, 1999) 23 cm, 77 pp.; ISBN: 8071852341 In Czech

It is a "faksim".

§**El Matrimonio del Cielo y del Infierno (The Marriage of Heaven and Hell [H]) (1790-1792).* Estudio Preliminar, Traducción y Notas de José Luis Palomares. Edición Facsímil y Bilingüe. (Madrid: Hiperión, 2000) poesía

Hiperión 8º, 310 pp., 32 pl.; ISBN: 8475176461 In Spanish
B. (2001) C. 3a edición. (2005)

It consists of "Cronología" (pp. 7-16); "Estudio: La Génesis del Pensamiento Radical en William Blake" (pp. 17-184) stressing Diggers (pp. 81-92), Ranters (pp. 106-35), and Muggletonians (pp. 135-76); colour reproduction of Marriage (H) (pp. 185-213); English and Spanish texts on facing pages (pp. 215-65); "Notas y Comentarios" (pp. 267-300); and "Bibliografía" (pp. 301-6).

§Zawāj al-Jannah wa-al-Jahīm [Marriage of Heaven and Hell]. Tr. Ḥasan Ḥilmī. (Cairo, 2000) In Arabic<sup>250</sup>

§Himlens och Helvetets äktenskap. Tr. Johan Hammarström. (Umeå:h: ström, 2000) ISBN: 918944700X
In Swedish

**Los bosques de la noche (Poemas, canciones y epigramas)*.
Edición bilingüe y anotada de Jordi Doce. (Valencia: PreTextos, 2001) Colección la Cruz del Sur # 524, 8º, 328 pp.; ISBN: 8481914029 In Spanish

It consists of "Introducción" (pp. 7-42), "Cronología" (pp. 43-48), "Nota a la edición" (pp. 49-50), "Bibliografía consultada" (pp. 51-55), lyrical poems in English and Spanish on facing pages (pp. 56-242), "Notas a los poemas" (pp. 243-54), "Correspondencia escogida" (pp. 255-88), "Blake y sus contemporáneos" (pp. 289-328).

REVIEW

---

<sup>250</sup> This is the official Arabic transliteration used by OCLC. The translator's name could also be given as Hassan Helmi.

*Angel Rupérez, “El viento del invierno”, El País
[Madrid], 17 de noviembre de 2001, p. 12 In Spanish

§Het Huwelijk van Hemel en Hel. Tr. S. Koetsier. (Utrecht: Bijleveld, 2001) In Flemish?

**El matrimonio del cielo y el infierno (The Marriage of Heaven and Hell [H])* Ed. and tr. Fernando Castanedo. (Madrid: Ediciones Cátedra, 2002) Colección Letras Universales 341 8º, 152 pp., 28 pl.; ISBN: 8437620007 In Spanish, with facing English for Marriage B. (2007) C. (2010) D. 4a edición revisada (2012)

It consists of “Introducción” (pp. 7- 46), divided into “Vida de William Blake” (pp. 9-26) and ““El Matrimonio del cielo y el infierno”” (pp. 26-46), including sections on “Fecha de composición” (pp. 27-30), “Génesis y estructura” (pp. 31-35), “Género literario” (pp. 35-37), “Los discursos enlazados. Entusiasmo y revolución” (pp. 37-46), and followed by “Esta edición” (pp. 47-48); “Bibliografía” (pp. 49-54); colour reproduction of Marriage (H) (pp. 55-81), English and Spanish texts on facing pages (pp. 84-145). “The edition is based upon the best and most recent Blake scholarship.” (G.E. Bentley Fonds, William Blake’s writings #406).

REVIEWS(in Spanish)

Fietta Jarque, “Pasión sobre papel”, El País (Babelia) [Madrid], 2 de noviembre de 2002, p. III (with another)

*José M. Goicoechea, “Inconformismo religioso”,
Tiempo [Madrid], 23 de diciembre de 2002, p.
119

Jorge Carrión, “La poesía y la hipnosis”, Lateral [Barcelona], enero de 2002, p. 23 (William Blake’s modern project is “claramente un proyecto religioso. Que se circunscribe, no debe olvidarse, en las tensiones políticas y teológicas de la época que le tocó vivir. Estas son brillantemente resumidas en el prólogo a esta edición.”)

*J.L.C., “William Blake poeta, pintor, visionario y librepensador”, Diario Palentino [Palencia], 24 de abril de 2008, p. 42 B. Also published in La tribuna de Albacete [Albacete] 20 de abril de 2008, p. 48

**Matrimônio do Céu e do Inferno*. Tr. Julia Vidili. (São Paulo [Brazil]: Madras, 2004) 8º, 59 pp.; ISBN: 8573748028 In Portuguese

A colour facsimile [unidentified but apparently of copy C] with translation on facing pages.

§Die Hochzeit von Himmel und Hölle. Tr. Kai Grehn mit Musik von Sandow. (Vevais: Edition Minotaurus in der Galerie Vevais, [2005]) 19 cm; ISBN: 39361652262 In German B. Limited Edition mit Collectors Print: Hörspiel – CD mit Musik von Sandow unter der Regie von Kai Grehn. (Bliesdorf, Oder [Germany]: Edition Minotaurus, 2006) ISBN: 3936165777 In German

§The Marriage of Heaven and Hell. An illustrated transcription online at The Alchemy Web Site.

§**The Marriage of Heaven and Hell (Text and Facsimiles)*. (Oxford: Benediction Books, 2010) 60 pp. ISBN: 9781849026864

A murky black-and-white reproduction of Copy D with facing transcriptions and no other added text besides the 2010 title page.

The Marriage of Heaven and Hell, copy B. Ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi (William Blake Archive, 2010)

The Marriage of Heaven and Hell, copy E. Ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi (William Blake Archive, 2010)

**The Marriage of Heaven and Hell. Edited with an Introduction & Commentary by Michael Phillips.* (Oxford: Bodleian Library, 2011 [distributed in North America by University of Chicago Press]) 4<sup>o</sup>, ix, 193 pp. + 52 colour reproductions of copies B, K, and M and of pl. 14 in copies A, C-I + pl. 15, 14, 12-13 in copy G, plus 117 miscellaneous reproductions; ISBN: 9781851243419

“Acknowledgements” (pp. vii-viii), “Introduction” (pp. 1-47) and its Notes (pp. 47-58), “Transcript” of text of copy B (pp. 59-86), colour reproductions, “Commentary”<sup>251</sup> (pp. 87-154), “Checklist of Copies” (pp. 155-63), and “Bibliography” (pp. 164-73) but no index.

This is a long-announced, detailed, and careful study of the Marriage. Much of it aims, often silently and rather ineffectively, to correct Joseph Viscomi, Blake and the Idea of the Book (1993). The detailed arguments about dates of composition, etching, and printing are not persuasive.

---

<sup>251</sup> It includes the loose pulls of pl. 3-4 (Fitzwilliam) but not those of pl. 5-6, 11 (2), 14 (2), 16, 20 in BB et seq.

REVIEWS

Alexander Gourlay, Notes and Queries, LIX, 4 (December 2012), 606-7 ("a striking book" with "excellent high-resolution colour facsimile pages";
the editorial matter "is rich with new information, but it is marred by incautious pronouncements ... questionable logic, and ... gratuitous resurgences of long-standing disputes", while "perplexed readers' most urgent questions are barely addressed")

*J.B. Mertz, Blake: An Illustrated Quarterly, XLVII, 1 (Summer 2013), 84-86 (This is "a valuable tool", though "I find several places where Phillips's transcription does not agree with ... this reproduction of copy B")

Julianne Simpson, Library, 7S, XV, 3 (September 2014) 363 (one paragraph description)

§**Le mariage du ciel et de l'enfer*. Tr. Jean-Yves Lacroix.
(Paris: Editions Allia, 2011) 14 cm, 69 pp.; ISBN:
9782844854124 In French and English

§**The Marriage of Heaven and Hell*. Ed. Jason Whittaker.
Revised Edition.([No place]: Kindle ["Publisher: None";
"Published by Rintrah Books"], 29 April 2011) Zoamorphus Essential Introductions

I do not know the meaning of "Revised Edition" here.
The work is apparently available only electronically.

§Les Noces del cel i l'infern. Tr. Segimon Serrallonga, ed.
Francesc Codina. (Barcelona: Café Central, 2012) Jardins de Samarcanda, 63 In Catalan and English 21 cm, 115 pp.;
ISBN: 9788497664226

§**Le mariage du ciel et de l'enfer*. Bilingue anglais-français,

tr. Patrick Bryand. [Kindle Edition, 2013] In French and English

**The Marriage of Heaven and Hell (Illuminated Manuscript [sic] with the Original Illustrations of William Blake)*. (e-artnow, 2013) ISBN: 9788074844065

Probably Marriage (D) -- see The Complete Illustrated Books of William Blake.

**The Marriage of Heaven and Hell*. ([No place: No publisher [copyright Will Jonson], 2014) 8°, 24 pp.; 9781495923869 (1 leaf blank), 1 illustration.

§The Marriage of Heaven and Hell. (Charleston [South Carolina]: BiblioLife, 2014) 60 pp.; ISBN: 978129380099

Milton (1804[-1811-18])

Weight and Cost of Copperplates

Most of the plates of Milton seem to have been etched on the versos of other Milton plates. In the list below, perfect matches are in italics, and an asterisk (*) indicates the presence of a copperplate-maker's-mark. In a number of instances (e.g., pl. 18-20, 23, 28), more than two plates have the same dimensions and the matches proposed below are somewhat arbitrary. For the close but not precise matches, I have allowed a tolerance of 0.1 centimetres on the grounds that one of the surfaces may have bevelled edges and that paper dampened for better printing shrinks differently in different circumstances.

| Plate           | Matches Plate    |
|------------------------|-------------------------|
| 1 (11.2 x 16.0) | 29 (11.2 x 16.0) |
| 2 (10.4 x 14.9) | 3 (10.4 x 14.9)  |

|                               |                                 |
|-------------------------------|---------------------------------|
| 4 (9.5 x 15.7)                | 16 (9.6 x 15.7)                 |
| 5 (10.5 x 15.4)               | 12 (10.5 x 15.4)                |
| 6 (10.4 x 14.9)               | see pl. 2-3                     |
| 7 (10.5 x 15.3)               | 14 (10.6 x 15.3)                |
| 8 (11.3 x 16.8)               | 40 (11.3 x 16.8)                |
| 9 (10.4 x 13.6)               | 38 (10.5 x 13.6)                |
| 10 (10.8 x 14.3)              | 11 (10.8 x 14.2)                |
| 13 (11.1 x 16.0)              | 21 (11.1 x 16.0) <sup>252</sup> |
| 15 (11.0 x 16.9)              |                                 |
| 17 (11.5 x 16.0)              | 28 (11.5 x 16.0)                |
| 18 (12.0 x 16.0)              | 19 (12.0 x 16.0)                |
| 20 (12.0 x 16.0)              | 23 (12.0 x 16.0)                |
| 22 (11.9 x 16.0)              | 27 (11.8 x 16.0)                |
| 24 (12.0 x 16.0)              | 28 (12.0 x 16.0)                |
| 25 (12.0 x 16.2)              |                                 |
| *26 (10.6 x 14.3)             | 42 (10.7 x 14.3)                |
| 30 (10.2 x 14.4)              | 43 (10.2 x 14.4)                |
| 31 (12.1 x 16.0)              |                                 |
| 32 (11.4 x 16.9)              | 37 (11.3 x 16.9)                |
| 33 (11.3 x 16.9)              | 39 (11.3 x 16.9)                |
| 34 (10.8 x 14.0)              | 44 (10.8 x 13.9)                |
| 35 (10.8 x 16.8)              |                                 |
| 36 (10.2 x 14.1)              | 45 (10.2 x 14.0)                |
| 41 (11.5 x 16.0)              | see pl. 17, 28                  |
| a (11.3 x 16.1)               |                                 |
| b (11.0 x 14.5)               | e (11.1 x 14.4)                 |
| c (9.9 x 15.3) <sup>253</sup> |                                 |

---

<sup>252</sup> Notice that Blake's first plate for Hayley's Little Tom the Sailor (1800) is this size: 11.1 x 16.0 cm.

d (11.0 x 15.5)

Total plates 30; Total weight 6,380.9 grams = 14 pounds. The cost of the new plates would have been £5.8.9.

Copies were apparently printed in 1811 (A-C<sup>254</sup>) and 1818 (D) (Viscomi, 378-79).

VARIANT

Pl. 3 In l. 21, "What" on the copper was altered on the paper to "That" in copy A; all other copies (B-D) give "What".<sup>255</sup>

COPY A

HISTORY: (1) Probably acquired by Philip Hurd, in whose posthumous sale by Evans on 30 July 1845, lot 162 it was described as "Blake's Illustrations of Milton, &c. COLOURED PLATES, 1834 [sic]", when it sold to Bohn for £6.17.6.<sup>256</sup>

COPY B

HISTORY: (2) Offered by Quaritch catalogues No. 61 (1891), £180, Rough List 122 (end of March 1892), £180, and No. 62 (June 1893), £180, each described as "large 8vo. 45 leaves ... coloured by the hand of William Blake; calf, neat".

COPY C

According to Viscomi, 325-26,

<sup>253</sup> Pl. c seems to be etched over another design.

<sup>254</sup> Copy C was apparently finished in 1811 (Viscomi, 328).

<sup>255</sup> Viscomi, 420; Erdman, Keynes, and BB 309 n1, 311 record this as a change in the copper.

<sup>256</sup> The date is of course wrong, perhaps a misprint for the "1804" on the title page. The fact that the work is described as "PLATES" indicates that it consists of prints rather than watercolour designs for a poem by Milton, such as Comus. Milton (A) was bound in half Green morocco, like Jerusalem (A) which was lot 161 in Hurd's 1845 sale <BBS>.

The single frame line given the plates in copy C--the only copy of Milton with frame lines -- indicates that copy C was probably finished in or after 1818, when this stylistic feature first began to be used .... Copy C, in other words, was reworked and restructured more than once, probably before and certainly after--but not at the same time as--copy D.

In copy C, plates a-e can be divided into two sets. The leaves of plates a, b, and d are slightly smaller than the others and were apparently cut with a knife, whereas the other leaves were torn in the usual manner from larger sheets. The bottom edges of these leaves are only half gilt because they were not level with the other leaves. ... plates 4, 7, 25, and 41 ... are watermarked "WHATMAN / 1808"; in all four the mark runs vertically at the outside edge of the leaf, either from bottom corner up to the middle of the leaf (4 and 25) or from the top corner down to middle of the leaf (7 and 41). The "1808" is positioned under "HATM"; the "8" is 1.75 cm high, and the "W" is 3.0 cm high. Plates c and e, which were printed on slightly thinner paper, are recorded as having the same mark (BB 305), but in them the mark is smaller and runs horizontally across the top right corner. The marks are fragments: "J W" in plate e and "TMAN" with an "8" under the "T" in plate c. The "8" is 1.6 cm high and the "W" is 2.25 cm high. The size of the "W" and size and position of the "8" correspond exactly to the "J WHATMAN / 1818" paper used in Songs copy V and the first copies of Jerusalem. (The Whatman 1824 and 1826 papers used in Jerusalem copy F have an "8" that is 1.7 cm high.) ... [The numbers echo these divisions.] Plates b, a, and d were numbered 2, 3, and 17, whereas plates c and e were numbered 8* and 32*, denoted as supplementary plates. The first set of plates were [sic] numbered in pen and ink like the other impressions, but plates c and e were numbered in an oil-based printing ink and are ragged-looking. These five plates were added to Milton C after it was initially collated. All five extra plates, along with plate f, were numbered integrally with copy D, ca. 1818, at which time plate 2 was not printed.<sup>257</sup>

Reproduced in colour in MILTON A POEM and the Final Illuminated Books, ed. Robert N. Essick and Joseph Viscomi (1993), in The Complete Illuminated Books, ed. David Bindman (2000), and online at the New York Public Library web-site under "NYPL Digital Gallery".

COPY D

HISTORY: Offered by Henry G. Bohn (1848) with Thel (O) for £10.10.0.

---

<sup>257</sup> Viscomi, 328, argues that Wainewright's copy of Milton was copy C, not Copy B as in BB 319. However, in his letter of 28 March 1826, Wainewright says that in the copy of Milton which he has "lately purchased" "The Title says in 12 books" (BR (2) 440), and this is only true in copies B and D, and copy D was "finished" for Mr Vine, not for Wainewright.

It is reproduced in black-and-white (from the Blake Trust colour facsimile [1967]) in 1995, in The William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick and Joseph Viscomi (2010) and online in the Library of Congress, and published by 2009 as an E-book.

PLATE 38

HISTORY: (5) After the death of Mrs Ramsay Harvey, it was sold for (6) The heirs at Christie's, 30 November 1993, lot 2 (ESTIMATE: £20,000-£30,000) [for £62,000 to John Windle for] (7) Professor Robert N. Essick who lent it to the Tate Blake exhibition (9 November 2000-11 February 2001), No. 278.

EDITIONS

**Milton, a Poem*. London, 1967. The William Blake Trust
<BB>

It is reproduced in Milton, ed. Hans-Ulrich Möhring (1995), q.v. under Collections.

REVIEW

[Kathleen Raine], Times Literary Supplement, 14 September 1967, p. 820

For protests, see John E. Grant, Our Reviewer, "Illuminations", Times Literary Supplement, 14 September 1967, p. 820; 7 December 1967, p. 1197 (Grant objects to the inaccuracy of the review of Milton; the reviewer says Blake "and virtually all European major poets and painters ... derived from" Plato, Plotinus, Boehme, et al. For earlier episodes of this firefight, see Grant, Our Reviewer, and Geoffrey Keynes, "Illuminations", Times Literary

Supplement, 2, 9 November 1967, pp. 1045, 1069
<BB #1725, 1730>

§The Prophetic Books of William Blake: MILTON. [Ed. E.R.D. Maclagen and A.G.B. Russell (London, 1907)] (Charleston [South Carolina]: BiblioLife, 2014) 90 pp.; ISBN: 9781294798804

Milton: A Poem, ed. Kay Parkhurst Easson and Roger R. Easson (1978, 1979) <BBS>

REVIEWS

*Joseph Anthony Wittreich, Jr, Blake, XIII, 1 (Summer 1979), 49-51, with a note on the quality of the reproductions by Morton D. Paley, p. 51

I.H. C[hayes], English Language Notes, XVII (September 1979), 63

§Elizabeth Sewell, Notre Dame English Journal, NS XII (1979), 74-77 (with another)

"Shiyaku. W. Blake no Milton (1[-2]): A Translation of Blake's Milton (1[-2])." Tr. Seiichi Miyamachi. Otaru Joshi Tankidaigaku Kenkyu Kiyo: Journal of Otaru Women's Junior College, XII (1981), 51-72; XIII (1982), 55-74. In Japanese <BSJ>

**Milton: Un Poema*. Ed. and tr. Bel Atreides. (Barcelona: DVD ediciones, S.L., April 2002) DVD poesia, 47 8º, 395 pp.; ISBN: 849500769X In Spanish and English

"Introducción (pp. 11-106), Milton in English facing Spanish (pp. 107-257), "Notas y Comentarios" (pp. 259-387), "Bibliografía (de los libros citados)" (pp. 390-92). This is a reliable translation and an up-to-date introduction which is especially remarkable (in Spain) for its study of Blake's polysemic language and dialectical narrative.

REVIEWS

Angel Rupérez, “Conquistas iluminadas”, El Pais (Madrid), 25 de mayo de 2002, 3 pp. (with another), in Spanish (the translation is reliable and the study well-informed)

*Ramon Andrlat Ramon Andsin sue is r El Periódico [Barcelona], 28 de junio del 2002, 26 (with another) In Spanish

Jordi Doce, “Fabula de una posesión”, Letras libras [Madrid], Año 1, Número 12 (Septiembre 2002), 79-81 In Spanish (the introduction and translation by Bel Atreides “nos ofrece, no sólo un estudio soberbio, sino una traducción fluida y rigurosa” [p. 81])

*Milton Un Poema. Edició Bilingüe. Traducció I postfaci d'Enric Casassas Figueres. (Barcelona: Edicions dels Quaderns Crema, 2004) In Amicorum Numero 20 4º, 252 pp.; ISBN: 8477274223 In English and Catalan

English and Catalan text, print by print, on facing pages, with an “Appendix: Planxes Suplementàries” including the Preface (pp. 226-35). There are also “Postfaci del Traductor” (pp. 237-42) and “Notes” (in Catalan) (pp. 243-52).

§"Tradução Comental de Milton de William Blake." Universidade Federal de Santa Catarina [Brazil] doctoral thesis. 34 pp. In Portuguese

*Milton A Poem (Illuminated Manuscript [sic] with the Original Illustrations of William Blake). (e-artnow, 2013) ISBN: 9788074844195

Probably Milton (D) -- see The Complete Illustrated Books of William Blake.

Milton,
L'Allegro and Il Penserso,
Descriptions of the Designs

Reproduced online in the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi.

“Mirth”

(?1820)

Weight and Cost of Copperplate

The copperplate of “Mirth” weighed 304 grams = 0.67 pounds and would have cost 2s 8½d.

Notebook
(?1793-?1818)

CONTENTS: P. 74: The full-face pencil portrait in the top row is identified (correctly) as Tom "Paine-like" by John Keane, Tom Paine: A Political Life (Boston, N.Y., Toronto, London: Little Brown and Company, 1995), photograph after p. 426;<sup>258</sup> the subject was not identified at all by Keynes, Erdman, Bentley, &c.

If, as seems probable, Blake's portrait was drawn from the life, it must have been made before 13 September 1792 when Paine left England. This is the only contemporary evidence that Blake was in direct contact with Paine.

---

<sup>258</sup> For engravings of 1792-1793 of Paine by William Sharp after George Romney and by A. Schule after C. Schule, see Jack Fruchtman Jr, Tom Paine, Apostle of Freedom (N.Y., London: Four Walls Eight Windows Press, 1994) (at p. 274) and Keene (after p. 426).

The fact that the sketch is in Blake's precious Notebook suggests that Paine was at Blake's house in Lambeth rather than Blake in Paine's lodging in Bromley, Kent (about 8 miles south-east of Lambeth, beyond Camberwell and Dulwich), where he was staying inconspicuously with the engraver William Sharp in the spring of 1792.<sup>259</sup> Sharp was probably engraving Romney's portrait of Paine at the time.

HISTORY: (9) Mrs Emerson lent it to the exhibition at the Boston Museum of Fine Art in December 1929.

EDITIONS

The Note-Book of William Blake Called the Rossetti Manuscript, ed., Geoffrey Keynes (1935, 1970) <BB>

REVIEW

Robert Essick, Blake Newsletter, IV, 4 (Spring 1971), 142-44

The Notebook of William Blake, ed. David V. Erdman and Donald K. Moore (1973) <BB> B. (1977)

It was reproduced online by the British Library in 2006 <<http://www.bl.uk/onlinegallery/ttp/ttpbooks.html>>.

REVIEWS

§Raymond Williams, "Radical Blake", Guardian, 29 November 1973, p. 15 (with another)

§D.A.N. Jones, Listener, XCI (10 January 1974), 53-56

§Anon., Economist, CCL (26 January 1974), 105

---

<sup>259</sup> John Keane, Tom Paine: A Political Life (Boston, N.Y., Toronto, London: Little Brown and Company, 1995), 342; Joseph Johnson had advised Paine to lie low because of the furor caused by his writings.

- §Anon., “The Processes of William Blake”, Times Literary Supplement, 15 February 1974, pp. 145-47 (with 6 others)
- §Frank P. Riga, Library Journal, XCIX (11 March 1974), 657
- §Anon., Choice, XI (April 1974), 256
- §Dewey R. Faulkner, “Secrets of Dark Contemplation”, Yale Review, LXIII (Summer 1974), 590-99 (with 5 others)
- I.H. C[hayes], English Language Notes, XII (September 1974), 31
- §G. Ingli James, Apollo, XCIX (November 1974), 428
- §Kenneth Garlick, Modern Language Quarterly, LXX, 1 (January 1975), 158-60
- §W.H. Stevenson, Studies in Romanticism, XIV, 2 (Spring 1975), 201-5 (with another)
- *Robert N. Essick, Blake Newsletter, VIII, 4 (Spring 1975), 132-36
- §Jean H. Hagstrum, Philological Quarterly, LIII (1975), 132-36
- §R.B. Kennedy, Notes and Queries, NS XXII (1975), 79-82 (with 3 others)
- §Harvey Stahl, Print Collector's Newsletter, VI, 2 (1975), 132-36 (with 3 others)
- G.E. Bentley, Jr., Journal of English and Germanic Philology, LXXV (1976), 427-44
- §Leonard M. Trawick, Studies in Burke and His Time, XVII (1976), 71-74

§Thomas L. Minnick, Studies in Romanticism, XVI, 2
(Spring 1977), 267-68

§John E. Grant, Modern Philology, LXXV, 2
(November 1977), 196-201

**William Blake's Notebook*. [Ed. Jamie Andrews.] (London: British Library Publishing, 2008) The British Library treasures in Focus 12 x 10 cm, 64 pp.; ISBN: 9780712309608

Reproduces fragments from the Notebook with brief comments and etched versions of some designs. Preface (pp.
2-6).

**William Blake's Notebook (Enhanced)*. ([London: Online
"Publisher: The British Library", 8 September 2011) 109 pp.

A facsimile "with audio and text commentary on selected pages" available apparently only on special versions of iPhone, iPad, and iPod.

Blake's Notebook seems to be reproduced entire in the British Library's online Discovering Literature: Romantics and Victorians.

On Homer's Poetry (?1822)

Weight and Cost of Copperplate

The copperplate weighed 173.5 grams = 0.38 pounds and would have cost 3s 9d.

All copies were apparently printed in ?1822 (A-F) (Viscomi, 380).

COPY A

Reproduced in MILTON A POEM and the Final Illuminated Books, ed. Robert N. Essick and Joseph Viscomi (1993), in
The Complete Illuminated Books, ed. David Bindman (2000), and online in the National Gallery of Art (Washington, D.C.).<sup>260</sup>

COPY F

It is reproduced online by the Pierpont Morgan Library.

"The Order in which the Songs of Innocence and Experience ought to be paged"
(?after 1818)

<BB 338-41>

It is reproduced online in the Library of Congress.

(27) [?Europe (c) pl. (4<sup>c</sup>, 9<sup>c</sup>)]

(*36) Europe (c) pl. 15<sup>b</sup> (Harvard)<sup>261</sup>

(*38) Europe (c) pl. (11<sup>c</sup>, 17<sup>c</sup>)

According to Viscomi, 336, "The Order" was made not for James Vine, whose copy of the Songs (V) is the only one so ordered, but for Blake himself after he'd sold his own copy of the Songs (R) and had no copy left to serve as a model.

HISTORY: (1) Sold by §Puttick and Simpson, 3-4 July 1863 ("Blakiana, The Life of William Blake in MS., extracted from Allan Cunningham, with curious plates, drawings, and scraps") for £15.15.0;<sup>262</sup> (2) Offered in Bernard Quaritch,

<sup>260</sup> On Homer (A) is erroneously traced to the Library of Congress in BB p. 335.

<sup>261</sup> Europe (c) pl. 15<sup>b</sup>, newly recorded here, is numbered "36"; the leaf with Europe (c) pl. (11<sup>c</sup>, 17<sup>c</sup>) is numbered "38" <BBS 104>; Europe (c) pl. (4<sup>c</sup>, 9<sup>c</sup>), listed under 36 in BB 338, should perhaps be listed under 27, where 11<sup>c</sup>, 17<sup>c</sup> were.

<sup>262</sup> Anon., "Fine Arts Record", Fine Arts Quarterly Review, I (Oct 1863), 434-35. Geoffrey Keynes, Engravings by William Blake: The Separate Plates: A Catalogue Raisonné (Dublin: Emery Walker, 1956), 6, says George A. Smith (who sold the collection in 1880) collected the contents of the volume "About 1853", and Keynes, A Bibliography of William Blake (N.Y.: Grolier Club, 1921), 319, cites "a prefatory note signed 'G.A.S. 1855'" (which is not now with the collection). However, the references in Puttick and Simpson (1863) and Quaritch (1864) contradict this history for the 1850s. Note also that the sketch of Thomas

Catalogue of Books (1864), lot 6,521 <see under Catalogues> including “14 portraits of the artist; his friends and contemporaries” (among which is “THOMAS HAYLEY, AN ORIGINAL DRAWING, BY W. BLAKE”) and the huge “Canterbury Pilgrims” print ... (3) Offered in Bernard Quaritch, Catalogue of Works on the Fine Arts (October 1883), lot 10,252, for £80.

(F1) At the George C. Smith sale at Parke-Bernet, 2 November 1938, lot 28, Europe (c) pl. 1 (called “The Ancient of Days” (D) in BB) sold for $300; (F2) Sold by A.E. Newton at Parke-Bernet, 16 April 1941, lot 130, for $175 (probably bought in<sup>263</sup>); (F3) Acquired by A.E. Newton’s daughter Caroline Newton; (F4) Bequeathed by W.H. Auden (1907-73) to (F5) “a New York Private Collector”, identified to me by R.N. Essick in 2009 as an Anonymous collector of New York.<sup>264</sup>

(G1) At the George C. Smith sale at Parke-Bernet, 2 November 1938, lot 29, with Europe (c) pl. 1<sup>[b]</sup> [apparently uncoloured], 4<sup>a</sup> and 5<sup>a</sup>, was sold for $245 to the firm of

---

Hayley (No. 99 among the "Order" materials, BB 339) is probably the "Portrait of Hayley the Sculptor" <Butlin #345, now in the Yale Center for British Art> sold at Sotheby's, 29 April 1862, lot 178 (with 7 others including the portrait of Romney, <Butlin #349>).

<sup>263</sup> BB suggests that the copy sold in 1941 [now identified as a Muir facsimile] went to George Goyder.

<sup>264</sup> The information about the history after 1941 derives from the owner via R.N. Essick, “Blake in the Marketplace, 1997”, Blake, XXXI, 4 (Spring 1998), 113, with a black-and-white reproduction (carelessly overlooked by GEB); the identity of the anonymous New York collector was given me by Professor Essick in 2009.

Sessler's of Philadelphia for (G2) Moncure Biddle; pl. 1 was consigned to Sessler's for sale, where it was acquired on 28 March 1957 by (G3) Dan[s?] Grubb, who consigned or sold it to Sessler's again on 13 February 1964 for $60; sold by Sessler's on 30 June 1964 for $175 to (G4) Mr Leonard Baskin, who sold it in May 1997 to (G5) The dealer John Windle, who sold it that month to (G6) Professor Robert Newman Essick.<sup>265</sup>

Europe (c) pl. 4<sup>a</sup> and 5<sup>a</sup> went to Professor Essick in 1989. <BBS>

(J3b) Europe (c) pl. 15<sup>b</sup> was acquired by Mr and Mrs Philip Hofer and given by Mrs Frances Hofer in 1979 to (J4) HOUGHTON LIBRARY, Harvard University.<sup>266</sup>

(M) DESCRIPTION: Marriage pl. 5-6 on the recto and verso of a leaf 11.7 x 16.0 cm, are printed probably about 1790 in reddish-brown (pl. 5)<sup>267</sup> and red (pl. 6); pl. 5 has blue

<sup>265</sup> The history here for 1957-1997 is revised on the basis of Essick's "Blake in the Marketplace, 1997", Blake, XXXI (1998). His information for 1957-1964 is based on "Sessler's acquisition and sales records, xeroxed or carefully transcribed for me years ago by Michael Young". Mabel Zahn of Sessler's had told GEB that Sessler's sold Europe pl. 1<sup>[b]</sup> to Moncure Biddle and bought it again at Biddle's sale (BB 340). Professor Essick points out that Biddle's sale at Parke-Bernet, 29-30 April 1952 did not include Europe pl. 1.

<sup>266</sup> All the information here about Europe (c) pl. 15<sup>b</sup> was recorded by R.N. Essick, "New Information on Blake's Illuminated Books", Blake, XV, 1 (Summer 1981), 8 and Illus. 5, scandalously overlooked by GEB until 2009.

<sup>267</sup> Not "Sepia" as in BB 287. Marriage, copy B, pl. 1, 3, 6, 8-9, 12, 14-15, 18-19, 22-23, 26-27 were also printed (?in 1790) in reddish brown, as were copy H, pl. 1-9, 12, 14-15, 18-19, 22-23, 25-27, and all of copy G (watermarked 1815). Essick (see below) writes: "Neither Joseph Viscomi nor I have been able to find a close match for the red ink of this impression among Blake's other printings of Marriage pls. datable to c. 1790."

I am grateful to Robert Essick for many of the new details about pl. 5-6.

wash for sky behind the falling man and horse.

WATERMARK: Wove paper without watermark.

BINDING: The leaf is mounted on an unwatermarked leaf (23.8 x 31.2 cm), with two brown lines boxing pl. 5. At the top right of pl. 5 is written "90" in pen and brown ink. The host-leaf and number were probably added "About 1853" (BB p. 337) by George A. Smith.

The mount was stabbed at least twice: "Eight stab holes, cut into by the left edge of the mount, measure from the top hole 4.0, 3.8, 1.9, 2.5, 4.7, 5.4, and 4.15 cm apart. A second set of 18 much smaller holes is about 3 mm. within the left edge of the mount; these are all about 1.5 cm apart. The mount [is] inscribed in pencil below the print, 'from Marriage of Heaven & Hell page 5'; the verso inscribed in the same position by the same hand 'Heaven & Hell page 6.'<sup>268</sup>

The leaf with Marriage pl. 5-6 was acquired in a frame with glass on both sides but the glass was removed by Essick.

HISTORY: ... Sold posthumously for George C. Smith at Parke-Bernet, 2 November 1938, lot 36, for $40 to the dealer Jacob Schwartz<sup>269</sup> for (M2) John Germain Slocum (1914-97),

---

<sup>268</sup> R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2013", Blake, XLVII, 3 (Winter 2013-2014), where the prints are described minutely. The plates were "printed with greater pressure than usual. I hesitate ... to attribute the washes to either Blake or his wife Catherine. ... Text from pl. 5 shows through as a blind embossment ... [on pl. 6], particularly lower left."

<sup>269</sup> A manuscript note with Marriage pl. 5-6 reads: "Purchased for John J. Slocum by Dr. Jacob Schwartz at the Smith Sale, Nov. 2, 1938, for $45.00. [including his commission], at Park-Bernet galleries[.] J.J.S. attended Sale with his Aunt Olivia & Uncle Sherman Flint."

Everything after "40" above is new.

(M3) whose heir in October 2013 consigned it to Commonwealth Books (Boston) which sold it to for $20,000 John Windle for (M4) Robert N. Essick.

(S1) The leaf numbered 97 with Hayley's Designs to a Series of Ballads (1802) pl. 14 on one side and the "Riddle Manuscript" on the other acquired by Dr A.E.K.L.B. Bentley and G.E. Bentley, Jr <BB> was given by them with the rest of their collections in October 2005 to (S2) VICTORIA UNIVERSITY IN THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO.

The "Order" was reproduced in the William Blake Archive in 2006.

"Our End is come" or "The Accusers"

Weight and Cost of Copperplate

The copperplate weighed 332.1 grams = 3/4 pounds and would have cost 2s 11½d.

The Pickering [Ballads] Manuscript (?after 1807)

PAPER: The Pickering Manuscript p. 16 has a printed catchword ("With") from Hayley's Designs to a Series of Ballads (1802) p. 20 (E3<sup>v</sup>) <BB>. Therefore the 22 pages of the Pickering Manuscript probably came from Designs Ballad #1, pp. 5-10 (B2<sup>r</sup>-B4<sup>v</sup>) and Ballad #2, pp. 11-26 (D1<sup>r</sup>-E4<sup>v</sup>).<sup>270</sup> The Designs paper sometimes shows a watermark of "1802".

PAPER SIZE: 12.5 x 18.4 cm <BB>. Since the leaves were from Hayley's Designs, which are 23.5 x 29.4 cm, therefore 11 cm was trimmed from each dimension of the Designs leaves to make the Pickering Manuscript leaves. The outer margins were trimmed to remove irrelevant printed text, but why were 11 cm cut off the tops or bottoms?

---

<sup>270</sup>The paper in the Pickering Manuscript is uniform, but it is only an hypothesis that it all comes from Hayley's Designs to a Series of Ballads (1802) and that the leaves are in the same order as in the Designs. The paper comes from the inner margins of conjugate unfolded, sheets with the text cut away..

BINDING: The leaves have stab-holes in the inner margins 3.9 cm from the top and 4.5, 4.6 cm apart <BB 342>. If they had been stabbed when they were part of Designs to a Series of Ballads, one might expect to find two sets of stab holes, the first from when they were part of Hayley's Designs and the second from when they became part of the Pickering Manuscript. The absence of duplicate stab holes suggests that the Designs leaves were loose when they were converted to the Pickering Manuscript.

HISTORY: (6)Acquired by William Mitchell, who added his bookplate:<sup>271</sup> "Liber Willemi Mitchell" ....

The Pickering Manuscript was added to the William Blake Archive in 2011 and reproduced on line by the Pierpont Morgan Library.

EDITIONS

The Pickering Manuscript, introduction by Charles Ryskamp (1972) <BB>

REVIEW

Morton D. Paley, Blake Newsletter, VI, 3 (Winter 1972-73), 78-79 (with another)

§The Pickering Manuscript. ([Whitefish, Montana]: Kessinger Publishing, 2010) 24 pp.; ISBN: 9781161473339

---

<sup>271</sup>Mitchell's ownership of the Pickering Manuscript was accidentally omitted when the History was revised in BBS 207, as my friend Bob Essick points out to me.

The Pickering Manuscript. William Blake Archive. Ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi (2011)

Poetical Sketches

(1783)

TABLE OF CORRECTIONS

| Copy Collection | Corrections on page | Contemporary Owner |
|------------------------|----------------------------|---------------------------|
|------------------------|----------------------------|---------------------------|

|         |                       |  |
|---------|-----------------------|--|
| M Anon. | 12, 15 <sup>272</sup> |  |
|---------|-----------------------|--|

COLLATION: 8° in 4s (half-sheet imposition)<sup>273</sup>

FACSIMILE PAGES

The facsimile leaves (H1-K4) in copies K-L, P (I1-K4), and U are distinguishable from the originals by

- (1) P. 59, the penultimate “Prepare” is under the “c” of “welcome” rather than under the “w” as in the originals (as in BB)
- (2) P. 59, there is no catch-word (it should be “THE” for “THE COUCH OF DEATH”)
- (3) P. 65, in “Samson” is “honfte-feeming” rather than “honeft-feeming”
- (4) The paper in facsimile leaves (copy K) differs from that in the originals in having somewhat dimmer chain-lines, and it seems a trifle thicker

---

<sup>272</sup> The situation is further confused by the claim of the anonymous owner to William Wyer of Ursus Books that Poetical Sketches (M) has corrections on pp. 4, 9, 12, and 15 (according to R.N. Essick, “Blake in the Marketplace, 2009”, Blake, XLIII [2010], 120).

<sup>273</sup> R.N. Essick, “Blake in the Marketplace, 2011”, Blake, LXV (2012), 115n, properly corrects BB 343: “4° (half sheet imposition)”. The chain lines run vertically, as in an octavo in half-sheets, not horizontally as in a quarto in half-sheets.

Note that the facsimile type of c. 1880 uses the archaic “f” for “s” and ligatures for “ct”, “fl”, “fh”, “fi”, “fk”, “fl”, “ff”, and “ft”, as in the original.

THE POSTHUMOUS DISTRIBUTION

Copies of Poetical Sketches distributed by Blake (B-F, O, Q, S-T, V-W<sup>274</sup>) have manuscript corrections in them. Copies which lack Blake's corrections (A, G-N, P, R, U, X) are thought to have been distributed after his death.<sup>275</sup>

One uncorrected copy of Poetical Sketches(R) still survives in the original unstitched sheets in which it was given to Blake in 1783. This copy belonged to Blake's young friend Samuel Palmer, and so did half a dozen other copies which were still in sheets as late as 1862.

John Linnell Jr wrote on the fly-leaf of Poetical Sketches copy G:

I found in Mr S. Palmer's store room at Furze Hill House [where Palmer lived 1862-1881], 3 copies of this book in sheets [copies G, H?, U?], (one [U?] not quite perfect)-- S.P. told me to take one for my self – I had this copy half bound ... A.H. Palmer sold one of his copies for £20 ....<sup>276</sup>

---

<sup>274</sup> Linnell bought copy T from Mrs Blake in 1831. This suggests that the corrections to copy T were added (1) by Blake before 1827, (2) by Catherine Blake perhaps in 1828-1831, or (3) by Linnell after 1831. Corrected copies B-F, and S went to Thomas Butts, Charles Tulk, George Cumberland, John Flaxman, Nancy Flaxman, and William Hayley.

<sup>275</sup> BB 346; Blake Books is the source of most of the bibliographical information given here. None of the uncorrected copies has a known history earlier than 1885, except for those belonging to Samuel Palmer.

<sup>276</sup> BB 349 n1.

And nine years after Samuel Palmer died, his son A.H. Palmer wrote to the antiquarian book firm of Pearson on 5 May 1890:

The two copies of Blake's Poetical Sketches [copies A, N], you have just purchased, are, to the best of my belief, all that [still] existed among my father's papers or books. Upon searching through them before giving up the house at Red Hill last March [1890], I found the copies in a parcel of old letters which had been put away in 1861 [when Samuel Palmer moved to Furze Hill House], and evidently forgotten. One sheet was missing, but this I afterwards found among other papers.<sup>277</sup>

We do not know when and under what circumstances Samuel Palmer acquired these copies of Poetical Sketches in sheets, but we may speculate. Since Linnell bought a copy from Mrs Blake in 1831, perhaps Palmer acquired all those left at her death that year.

What Copies Did Palmer Own?

Samuel Palmer's own copy of Poetical Sketches was copy R, and he gave copy G to John Linnell Jr. Samuel Palmer was probably the friend of Blake who lent a copy of Poetical Sketches to Alexander Gilchrist (d. 1861); this is apparently copy I, which was sold uncut in 1888 as Gilchrist's copy.

Among Samuel Palmer's papers, his son A.H. Palmer found a number of copies of Poetical Sketches. "One of these copies [Copy A] afterward [June 1890] was sent to the British Museum", as Pearson annotated the May 1890 letter above.<sup>278</sup>

---

<sup>277</sup> The letter with Poetical Sketches copy N is transcribed in Willis Vickery, Three Excessively Rare and Scarce Books and Something of Their Author (Cleveland: Printed for the Author, 1927), 19.

A second copy of Poetical Sketches found by A.H. Palmer in his father's collection is copy N, referred to in the 1890 letter; it was in the sale of Thomas Gaisford on 23 April 1890.

A third is copy U (with the last three leaves in facsimile) sold by A.H. Palmer to John Pearson, who offered it in his Catalogue 60 (?1885).

In addition, A.H. Palmer may have been the source of copy H which Pearson sold in 1916.

Samuel Palmer thus owned copies A, G, I, N, R, and U and perhaps copy H as well. This includes all the uncorrected copies of Poetical Sketches save copies K-M, P, and X whose histories are not known before the 20th Century; perhaps Palmer owned them as well.

The Condition of Palmer's Copies

All the copies of Poetical Sketches which Palmer certainly owned were in sheets when he got them.

Since one of the two copies found by A.H. Palmer [copies A, N] lacked a sheet which was later located, presumably these two copies were still in sheets when he found them.<sup>279</sup>

---

<sup>278</sup> Copy A was sold by Quaritch to the British Museum (now the British Library) on 15 June 1890.

<sup>279</sup> The two copies in sheets "forgotten" since 1861 and found in 1890 by A.H. Palmer must be different from the three copies in sheets found between 1862 and 1881 by John Linnell Jr.

Copy U was defective, missing the last three leaves;<sup>280</sup> these were replaced in facsimile before 1885. With copy U should be associated copies K-L, and P which also have leaves supplied in facsimile. It seems exceedingly likely that these defective copies came from Samuel Palmer. This would mean that copies A, G, I, K-L, N, P, R, and U all belonged to Samuel Palmer.

All Palmer's copies A, G, I, N, R, and U were in sheets. It therefore seems likely that copies K-L, and P were also in sheets when Palmer received them.

"The facsimile pages were printed ... before 1887, when they were described in a Pearson catalogue, and probably before the death in 1883 of Francis Bedford, who bound copies K and U."<sup>281</sup> It seems virtually certain that the facsimile leaves were provided either by Samuel Palmer or after his death in 1881 by his son A.H. Palmer.

COPY A

HISTORY: (1) Acquired by Samuel Palmer, perhaps after the death of Catherine Blake in 1831, put away with old letters in 1861, and rediscovered in March 1890 by his son (2) A.H. Palmer (according to the letter he wrote now with copy N); A.H. Palmer sold it to the dealer John Pearson; (3) Sold by the dealer Quaritch on 19 June 1890 for £42 to (4) The BRITISH MUSEUM.<sup>282</sup>

---

<sup>280</sup> In Copies K-L, P, U, gatherings H, I, and K are in facsimile. (In copy P, only gatherings I and K are in facsimile.) Copy Q has leaf [A2] in facsimile, probably supplied at a different time for a different owner, for Blake's manuscript corrections in copy Q indicate that he prepared it for a friend.

<sup>281</sup> BB 345. Bedford also bound copies H-I, N, and X.

<sup>282</sup> The copy which Crabb Robinson gave in May 1848 to J.J.G. Wilkinson cannot be copy A, as BB suggests. Perhaps it was copy Q.

COPY E

HISTORY:(8) Acquired from Pickering and Chatto Catalogue No. 686 (1991), lot 164 <BBS 107> for $170,000 by (9) James Edwards of Potomac, who sold it for $250,000 through John Windle in January 2007 to (10) Alan Parker.

COPY J

HISTORY: (6) A.E. Newton lent it to the Philadelphia Museum of Art exhibition (1926) ....

NEWLY RECORDED COPY

COPY K

HISTORY: Perhaps this is the copy<sup>283</sup> sold with William Beloe, Poems and Translations (1788), Borrow, Romantic Ballads from the Danish (1826), [Henry Card (1779-1844)], Brother-in-Law, a Comedy (Lee Priory Press, 1817), and Boyd, Plays (1793) in the Catalogue of the Valuable Library of the Late William Holgate, Esq. of the General Post Office ... S. Leigh Sotheby, June 8-11 [1846], lot 47 [for 7s to the dealer Rodd].

COPY N

HISTORY: (1) Acquired by Samuel Palmer, perhaps after the death of Catherine Blake in 1831; tucked away "in a parcel of old letters which had been put away in 1861" and found in March 1890 by (2) A.H. Palmer (according to his letter of 5 May 1890 still with copy N), who sold it and copy A to the dealer John Pearson; (3) Acquired by Thomas Gaisford, who added his book-plate, and sold it at Sotheby's, 23 April 1890, lot 184, for £48 to Quaritch ....

---

<sup>283</sup>It could also be copies E, L-M, O-Q, V-Y. N.B. The five works are not said to be bound together.

COPY Q

Reproduced in facsimile by Tate Publishing in 2007.

NEWLY DISCOVERED COPY

COPY Y<sup>284</sup>

BINDING: (1) Probably first stabbed (by Mrs Blake) close to the gutter through three holes 7.0 cm from the top and 4.4 and 3.0 cm apart.<sup>285</sup> Dust and damp-stains on the title page (A1<sup>r</sup>) suggest "that it was exposed without a cover for some years"; perhaps the blank last leaf (K4) (lacking here) was similarly stained and discarded.

(2) "BOUND BY WOOD,<sup>286</sup> LONDON" (stamped in gilt on the inside front cover) in dark blue crushed morocco, gilt, with stamped ruled lines on the front, back, and spine, the spine stamped in gilt "POETICAL | SKETCHES | W.B. | 1783". There are marbled end-papers, a blue cloth place-mark ribbon, and added flyleaves of "off-white machine made

---

<sup>284</sup>Most of my information derives from letters to me from Robert N. Essick (May and August 2011), the basis of his description in "Blake in the Marketplace, 2011", Blake, LXV (2012).

<sup>285</sup>All three holes are visible in I2, I4, K3; only the top and bottom holes are seen in D3 and E2; only the top hole shows in C1-2, D2, D4, F2; and only the bottom hole shows in H1. No other work exhibits this pattern of stab-holes (see BB 55-56). The commercial way of binding was to sew through the gutters rather than stabbing from the sides, which, in a work in 4s, required piercing four times as many leaves.

<sup>286</sup>According to Essick, "The present binding may have been produced by Harry Wood, active in London in the 1890s, or (more probably) by the successor firm continued by Henry Thomas Wood that operated under the name H.T. Wood from 1900 to the early 1930s. See Maurice Packer, Bookbinders of Victorian London (London: British Library, 1990) 166, and Mirjam M. Foot, Studies in the History of Bookbinding (Aldershot: Scolar P, 1993) 74."

paper", two at the front and two at the back. It lacks the final leaf (K4, blank) as in all but 7 copies. Leaf B4 is pasted to a stub.<sup>287</sup> Some leaves have deckled fore-edges, and one leaf (D2) has a deckled bottom edge, indicating that the trimming was very light.

HISTORY: (1) Acquired by 1784 (the last year Blake lived at the manuscript address on the title page) probably by John Hawkins (see below); (2) Acquired by Frederick R. Jones, bookseller and antiques dealer of "Eastbury", Thames Ditton, Surrey and later at Adwell House, Torre, near Torquay [Devon], from whom it passed to a "Descendant";<sup>288</sup> (3) Sold at Bonham's (London), 22 March 2011, lot 24 (ESTIMATE: £60,000-£80,000), the source of the information above, for £72,000 to (4) John Windle for Robert N. Essick.

Of course in 1782-84 when he lived in Green Street (the manuscript address on the title page), Blake had scarcely any fame--or Latin either for that matter. He had exhibited a few pictures at the Royal Academy in 1780 (1) and 1784 (2), and he had signed 58 commercial engravings (none invented by him).<sup>289</sup> In 1782-84 only an enthusiastic admirer could have called him undeservedly obscure, and only a scholar would have done so in Latin (see below).

These qualities are conspicuous in the man whom Blake later called "Our Dear Friend Hawkins".<sup>290</sup> According to John

---

<sup>287</sup>The stub for B4 (width 1.0 mm [top] to 5.0 mm [bottom]) corresponds to the portion missing from B1.

<sup>288</sup>According to Essick, "Bonhams has no earlier ownership information."

<sup>289</sup>See BR (2) 813-16.

<sup>290</sup>Letter of 28 Dec 1804. Hawkins subscribed to [Elizabeth Blower],

Flaxman's letter of 18 June 1783, John Hawkins called on Flaxman, "& at my desire has employed Blake to make him a capital drawing for whose advantage in consideration of his great talents he seems desirous to employ his utmost interest".<sup>291</sup> Perhaps Flaxman or Blake gave a copy of Poetical Sketches to Hawkins before 10 May 1784, though no work by Blake has previously been associated with him.<sup>292</sup> The handwriting in the book corresponds to that of John Hawkins.

SIZE: 12.7 x 21.8 cm (B1 is narrower, and B4, D1, D4, E1, F1-2, G2, I2-3, K1 are shorter). The tall leaves seem to have deckled fore-edges, suggesting that they have not been trimmed. (The foot of D2 seems to be deckled.) The upper fore-edge corner of B1 and the lower fore-edge corner of F1 are torn off (not affecting the text), perhaps during printing.

PAPER: Laid paper without watermark, vertical chain lines 2.8 cm apart. The paper is 0.11-0.12 mm thick (like copy C; copy S is 0.09-0.11 mm thick), normal variants for hand-made paper.

MANUSCRIPT ADDITIONS

On the title page "W.B." is extended in MS in a contemporary hand (not Blake's<sup>293</sup> but quite like it) to "W.

Maria: A Novel (1785) with Blake's plate.

<sup>291</sup>BR (2) 28-29. On 26 April 1784, Flaxman wrote to Hayley that "M.<sup>r</sup> Hawkins is going out of England" on "the 10th of May next" (BR (2) 31).

<sup>292</sup>A Catalogue of Rare and Valuable Books Selected from the Libraries of John Hawkins (1758-1841), removed from Bignor Park, Sussex, Hodgsons, 16-17 Dec 1926, has no Blake in it.

<sup>293</sup>Comparing it with the reproduction of An Island in the Moon, p. 1 (William Blake's Writings [1978] II), the "G", "k", "M", "S", and "y" are significantly different. Professors Robert Essick, Alexander Gourlay, and Joseph Blake", and below it in the same hand is at M<sup>r</sup> Taylors

Green St Leicester fields<sup>294</sup>

Below this, in the same colour ink and probably in the same hand,<sup>295</sup> is Paulum sepulta distatinertiae celate virtus<sup>296</sup>

The handwriting of these inscriptions is very similar to that of John Hawkins.<sup>297</sup> In particular, the "G" and "T" are convincingly similar.

There are corrections in black ink on

p. 4 "To Winter", l. 11, the "in" of "in his hand" deleted as in copies B-C, E-F, O, Q, S-T, V-W

p. 7 "Fair Elenor", l. 6, "cheeks" altered to "cheek" as in copies C, E, Q, S, V

p. 9 "Fair Elenor", l. 61, "I am" altered to "behold" as in copies B, D-F, O, Q, S, W

---

Viscomi also believe it is not Blake's hand.

<sup>294</sup>The last two words appear to be spelled "Leicesterfeilds" because of misplaced dots over the "i"s. In 1782-84 Blake lived at 23 Green Street, Leicester Fields, where his landlord was Thomas Taylor (not the Platonist) (BR (2) 740-41).

<sup>295</sup>As Bentley, Essick, Gourlay, and Viscomi believe. The Bonhams catalogue said that the Latin inscription is "in a different hand".

<sup>296</sup>The passage is from Horace, Odes, Book 4, Ode 9, ll. 29-30. The context is that brave men are unknown unless their deeds are celebrated by poets. "When courage lies hidden, it is little better than shame hushed up in the grave".

<sup>297</sup>See the examples reproduced in The Letters of John Hawkins and Samuel Lysons, ed. Francis W. Steer (Chichester: West Sussex Record Office, 1966). R.N.
Essick, Alexander Gourlay, and Joseph Viscomi agree that the hand of the inscriptions in Poetical Sketches (Y) is that of John Hawkins (as Professor Essick writes to me).

p. 15 "Mad Song", l. 4, "unfold" altered to "infol" as in copies B, E-F, O, Q, S, W

p. 15 "Mad Song", l. 7, "beds" altered to "birds", as in copies B-F, O, Q, S-T, V-W

p. 29 "King Edward the Third", stage direction, "before | it" deleted, as in copy S

The only other copy with these corrections--and no other--is copy S, sent on 26 April 1784 by Flaxman to Hayley.<sup>298</sup>

COPY Z?

HISTORY: A previously unknown copy, not corresponding to the ones still in private hands,<sup>299</sup> was evaluated by Ursus Books (N.Y.), according to R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2003", Blake, XXXVII (2004), 116-17.

EDITIONS

Poetical Sketches [facsimile by William Griggs, 1890]

REVIEW

Times, 22 July 1891

Poetical Sketches Now First Reprinted from the Original Edition of 1783. Ed. Richard Herne Shepherd. (London, 1868) <BB #129> B. §([Charleston [South Carolina]: BiblioBazaar, 2009) 5.8" x 8.5", 110 pp.; ISBN: 9781117078304 C. (Napu Press, 2014) 116 pp.; ISBN: 978129575236

REVIEW

Anon., North American Review, CVIII, 223 (April

<sup>298</sup>BR (2) 310.

<sup>299</sup> Copy E, sold from Pickering & Chatto Catalogue 686 [1991], lot 164, to a Private American collector, and copy M, the Buxton Forman copy, not traced since it was sold at Anderson Galleries, 15 May 1920, lot 35.

1869), 641-46 (with two others)

Reproduced online from the copy F in Turnbull Library (Wellington, New Zealand).

Poetical Sketches. Decorations Designed and Cut on the Wood by Charles Ricketts. (London: Ballantyne Press, 1899)
<BB>

§Sotheran's Private Press catalogue (2011), lot 330, offers copy 1 of 8 printed on and bound in vellum.

Poetical Sketches (1927)

REVIEWS

§ Review of English Studies, V, 19(July 1919), 364-65

S. Foster Damon, Modern Language Notes, XLIV, 6 (June 1929), 415-17 (with another) (Lindsay is "Opinionated ... wordy, and often deliberately irritating")

§Poetical Sketches. ([?Sydney, Australia]: Objective Systems Pty Ltd, 2006) EasyRead Comfort Edition 8°, 80 pp.; ISBN: 1425084885

Poetical Sketches. Introduction by Robin Hamlyn. (London: Tate Publishing, 2007) 8°, xxi, 70 pp.; ISBN: 978154377685

Facsimile of copy Q; Robin Hamlyn, "William Blake: From Sketches to Songs." Pp. vii-xxi.

Receipts Signed by Blake

| PAYER        | DATE        | SUM    | LOCATION              |
|--------------|-------------|--------|-----------------------|
| Thomas Butts | 5 July 1805 | £5.7.0 | Kenneth Rendle |
| Thomas Butts | 9 Sept 1806 | £6.6.0 | HUNTINGTON            |

1805 July 5

HISTORY: (1)Acquired by Joseph Holland; (2) Offered with the collection of Joseph Holland and Vincent Newton in John Windle Catalogue 26 (December 1995), lot 1 (with Keynes, Bibliography [1921] and other ephemera, reproduced, Price on Enquiry [sold], i.e., kept for the Windle collection), sold by Windle in June 1996 (according to R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 1996", Blake, XXX [1997]) to (3) The autograph dealer Kenneth Rendell; it was offered on consignment in John Windle Catalogue 40 (November 2005), lot 1 ("Price on application"), for (Mr Windle tells me) $45,000 by Kenneth Rendell; (4) It was sold in March 2009 to a "museum", according to Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2009", Blake, XLIII (2010), 120.

1806 September 9

HISTORY: (1) Owned by Ruthven Todd; (2) Sold at Sotheby-Parke Bernet, 23 May 1979, lot 1; (3) Offered in The Rendells' Catalogue 152 (October 1980), lot 3, for $25,000; (4) Sold at Christie's, 27 March 1985, lot 146A, for £5,184 to Rendell; (5) Sold from Marvin Sadik Fine Arts, Catalogue 1 (April 1998), no price named (6) to John Windle, who sold it (with funds provided by Robert N. Essick) in May 1998 to (7) The HUNTINGTON LIBRARY.

It is reproduced in Blake, XXXII (1999), 119.

"Riddle" MS (?1802)

See the "Order" of the Songs.

Small Book of Designs (1796)

In 1794, when Blake was printing The First Book of Urizen, he apparently made extra copies of pl. 9 (Princeton), 12 (Morgan), 14, 21, and 22 (Essick), all full-page designs without text. He used pl. 14 and 21 in the Large Book of Designs (A), but pl. 9, 12, and 22 he put aside with his stock of miscellaneous prints.<sup>300</sup>

About 1796,<sup>301</sup> the texts of Thel pl. 7 (Anon.), Urizen pl. 1 (Keynes Family Trust), 2 (Tate), 3 (Keynes Family Trust), 5 (Yale), 7 (Anon.), 10 (Yale), 11 (Anon.), 17 (Anon.), 19 (Anon.), 23 (Anon.), Marriage pl. 11 (Princeton), 14 (U.S. National Gallery), 16 (Anon.), 20 (Essick), and Visions pl. 10 (Keynes Family Trust) were masked with canvas or linen (identifiable on the versos of Urizen pl. 1-2, 7, 19 [the last three reproduced in Blake, XLII (2008), 72, 70, 62]), colour-printed on unwatermarked<sup>302</sup> wove paper (for the dimensions, see the table above) as duplicates of the prints in The Small Book of Designs (A), and hand-coloured.

Perhaps at this time ink numbers were added to Marriage pl. 14 ("9"), Urizen pl. 9 ("13"), Marriage pl. 20 ("16"), Urizen pl. 10 ("~~20~~"), and Visions pl. 10 ("22").

On 9 June 1818, in reply to Dawson Turner's letter enquiring about works for sale, Blake described the Large (A) and Small Books of Designs (A) which he had made for Ozias Humphry. Probably he then looked over the duplicate prints he had made in 1794 and 1796, chose out the best or most appropriate of them, drew three framing lines round each design,<sup>303</sup> added a watercolour wash between the two inner

---

<sup>300</sup>The account of The Small Book of Designs (B) in this paragraph is largely due to correspondence with Robert N. Essick. His thesis is set out succinctly in Blake, XLII, 4 (Spring 2008), 142 note 10.

<sup>301</sup>On Urizen pl. 1, the printed date "1794" is altered to "1796".

<sup>302</sup>Marriage pl. 16 is watermarked "E&P".

<sup>303</sup>Urizen pl. 11 and 23 have 4 framing lines. When Urizen pl. 3 was framing lines, pale yellow on Urizen pl. 1 and 7 and pale blue on Urizen pl. 22, and below the outer framing line wrote inscriptions in ink<sup>304</sup> (for the inscriptions, see the Table above).

Probably at this time he or Catherine stabbed the leaves through three holes, about 8 cm from the top and 3.9 and 4.4 cm apart (with an extra stab hole 0.2 below and to the right of the third hole) and sewed them together.

After the pamphlet was disbound, pencil numbers were added at the lower left corner on Urizen pl. 19 ("1"), Urizen pl. 1 ("3"), Marriage pl. 16 ("4"), Thel pl. 7 ("3 [altered to] 5"), Urizen pl. 11 ("6"), Urizen pl. 23 ("7"), Urizen pl. 17 ("8"), and Urizen pl. 7 ("9").

About 1831 the versos of Thel pl. 7, Urizen pl. 1, 7, 11-12, 19, 23, and Marriage pl. 16 were inscribed in ink at the bottom left: "This Coloured Print by Wm Blake | was given to me by his Widow | Frederick Tatham | Sculptor" (see Blake, XLII [2008], 66 for a reproduction of the inscription on the verso of Urizen pl. 11). Presumably the prints were separated by this time.

COPY A BRITISH MUSEUM PRINT ROOM

| Plate              | Leaf Sizein Cm | Watermark | Printing Colour       |
|--------------------|--------------------|---------------|-----------------------|
| Thel pl. 2# | 22.5 x 29.2        | ---           | Colour-printed |
| Thel pl. 4# | 19.0 x 26.0        | ---           | Colour-printed |
| Thel pl. 6# | 19.0 x 26.0        | ---           | Colour-printed |
| Thel pl. 7  | 19.0 x 26.0        | ---           | Colour-printed |

---

trimmed, the hypothetical outer two framing lines were removed.

<sup>304</sup>There is no inscription on Visions pl. 10.

|                        |             |          |                       |
|------------------------|-------------|----------|-----------------------|
| Urizen pl. 1    | 16.6 x 26.1 | ---      | Colour-printed |
| Urizen pl. 2    | 19.0 x 26.0 | ---      | Colour-printed |
| Urizen pl. 3    | 19.0 x 26.0 | ---      | Colour-printed |
| Urizen pl. 5    | 19.0 x 26.0 | ---      | Colour-printed |
| Urizen pl. 7    | 19.0 x 26.0 | ---      | Colour-printed |
| Urizen pl. 8#   | 19.0 x 26.0 | ---      | Colour-printed |
| Urizen pl. 10   | 19.0 x 26.0 | ---      | Colour-printed |
| Urizen pl. 11   | 19.0 x 26.0 | ---      | Colour-printed |
| Urizen pl. 17   | 19.0 x 26.0 | 1794   J | Colour-printed |
| WHATMAN                |             |          |                       |
| Urizen pl. 19   | 16.1 x 26.1 | ---      | Colour-printed |
| Urizen pl. 23   | 19.0 x 26.0 | ---      | Colour-printed |
| Urizen pl. 24#  | 19.0 x 26.0 | ---      | Colour-printed |
| Urizen pl. 27#  | 19.0 x 26.0 | ---      | Colour-printed |
| Marriage pl. 11 | 18.9 x 26.0 | ---      | Colour-printed |
| Marriage pl. 14 | 18.9 x 26.0 | ---      | Colour-printed |
| Marriage pl. 16 | 18.9 x 26.0 | ---      | Colour-printed |
| Marriage pl. 20 | 18.9 x 26.0 | ---      | Colour-printed |
| Visions pl. 3#  | 19.0 x 26.0 | ---      | Colour-printed |
| Visions pl. 10  | 17.8 x 26.0 | ---      | Colour-printed |

Not in Small Book (B)

All are reproduced in Butlin, pl. 308-30.

COPY B<sup>305</sup>

| Plate | Dimensions of the image afterthe text was masked out <sup>306</sup> | Number |
|-------|---|--------|
|-------|---|--------|

<sup>305</sup>Corrections of Small Book (B) for 2007 (Blake, XLII[2008]) are on the basis of Martin Butlin and Robin Hamlyn, "Tate Britain Reveals Nine New Blakes and Thirteen New Lines of Verse", Blake, XLII (2008), 52-72, especially the reproductions.

|                        |                         |                        |                            |                            |
|------------------------|-------------------------|------------------------|----------------------------|----------------------------|
| Thel pl. 1      |                         | 10.6 x 8.2 cm          |                            |                            |
| Thel pl. 4      |                         | 11.0 x 7.4 cm          |                            |                            |
| Thel pl. 6      |                         | 10.8 x 8.9 cm          |                            |                            |
| Thel pl. 7      |                         | 10.8 x 8.2 cm          |                            |                            |
| Urizen pl. 1    | 110.3 x                 | 8.4 cm                 |                            | 13a                        |
| Urizen pl. 5    |                         | 10.7 x 7.7 cm          |                            |                            |
| Urizen pl. 7    |                         | 10.6 x 11.8 cm         |                            |                            |
| Urizen pl. 11   |                         | 11.0 x 10.3 cm         |                            |                            |
| Urizen pl. 17   |                         | 9.0 x 14.8 cm          |                            |                            |
| Marriage pl. 11 |                         | 10.4 x 4.4 cm          |                            |                            |
| Marriage pl. 14 |                         | 10.1 x 3.8 cm          |                            |                            |
| Marriage pl. 16 |                         | 10.2 x 6.0 cm          |                            |                            |
| Visions pl. 3   |                         | 11.2 x 8.6 cm          |                            |                            |
| Visions pl. 6   |                         | 12.0 x 5.4 cm          |                            | 10a                        |
| Plate           | Collec-tion | Water-mark | Leaf-Sizein Cm | PrintingColour |
| Thel pl. 7      | Anon.            | wove paper      | 18.6 x 25.7                | colour printed      |
| Urizen pl. 7    | Anon.            | wove paper      | 18.5 x 25.0                | colour printed      |
| Urizen pl. 11   | Anon.            | wove paper      | 18.5 x 26.4                | colour printed      |
| Urizen pl. 17   | Anon.            | wove paper      | 18.1 x 25.85               | colour printed      |
| Urizen pl. 19   | Anon.            | wove paper      | 18.5 x 26.3                | colour printed      |
| Urizen pl. 23   | Anon.            | wove paper      | 18.4 x 26.7                | colour printed      |
| Marriage pl. 16 | Anon.            | E&P                    | 18.7 x 25.9                | colour printed      |

Urizen pl. 1-3, 5, 9-10, 12, 22, Marriage pl. 11, 14, and Visions pl. 10 are reproduced in Butlin, pl. 350-60, and Thel pl.

---

<sup>306</sup> All the image-dimensions derive from Butlin.

7, Urizen pl. 7, 11-12, 17, 19, 23, and Marriage pl. 16 in Butlin and Hamlyn.

The versos of Thel pl. 7 (Anon.), Urizen pl. 1 (Keynes Family Trust),<sup>307</sup> 7 (Anon.), 11 (Anon.), 12 (Anon.), 19 (Anon.) and 23 (Anon.) are inscribed “This Coloured Print by Wm Blake | was given to me by his Widow | Frederick Tatham | Sculptor”. There is a pin hole, perhaps for hanging the unframed print, on Urizen pl. 11-12, and 23.

ORDERS

| Offset order <sup>308</sup> | British Museum Print Room Accession Number <sup>309</sup> | Pencil Number on verso |
|-----------------------------|---|------------------------|
| Marriage pl. 11      | 426   |                        |
| ? Urizen pl. 7442    |   | 15a                    |
| ? Marriage pl. 20    | 430   |                        |
| Urizen pl. 17427     |   | 8a                     |
| Urizen pl. 10439     |   | 16a                    |
| ? Marriage pl. 14429 |   | B9                     |
| ? Urizen pl. 24      | 432   |                        |
| Thel pl. 2434        |   |                        |
| ? Urizen pl. 2       | 436   |                        |
| Urizen pl. 19        | 438   |                        |
| ? Visions pl. 10444  |   | 10a                    |
| Urizen pl. 1         | 425   | 13a                    |

<sup>307</sup> Urizen pl. 1 (Keynes Family Trust) is inscribed “Moses” and “192” in pencil at the lower right.

<sup>308</sup> Most versos are invisible because they are pasted down.

<sup>309</sup> The British Museum Print Room accession numbers all begin with 1856-2-9.

|                        |     |     |
|------------------------|-----|-----|
| Marriage pl. 16 | 428 |     |
| Urizen pl. 23   | 431 |     |
| Urizen pl. 3    | 433 | 14a |
| Urizen pl. 27   | 435 |     |
| Urizen pl. 8    | 437 |     |
| Thel pl. 6      | 440 |     |
| Visions pl. 3   | 441 |     |
| Urizen pl. 11   | 443 |     |
| Urizen pl. 5    | 445 |     |
| Thel pl. 7      | 446 |     |
| Thel pl. 4      | 447 |     |

The orders given by the offsets (Copy A), the accession numbers (Copy A), the pencil numbers (Copy A), and the ink numbers (Copy B) are quite irreconcilable one with another. Only the offsets in Copy A and the ink numbers in Copy B bear Blake's authority – Urizen pl. 10 comes before Marriage l. 14 in the offsets in copy A but the same plates are numbered 20 and 9 in Copy B.

BINDING: All these prints were stabbed together through three holes 7.2 and 8.8 cm apart; the distance of the top hole from the top of the leaf varies from 2.2 cm (Urizen pl. 8) to 4.3 cm (Urizen pl. 10), suggesting either that the leaf-size was variant when bound or that they have been trimmed since they were stabbed. They bear no Blake number or inscription.

COPY B

| Plate        | Collection   | Water-mark | Leaf-Size in Cm | Printing Colour |
|---------------------|---------------------|-------------------|------------------------|------------------------|
| Thel pl. 7   | Anon.??      | c 18.5 x 26.0@    |                        | colour printed  |
| Urizen pl. 1 | Keynes Trust | --18.2 x 26.0     |                        | orangish brown  |

|                                    |                     |                              |                       |
|------------------------------------|---------------------|------------------------------|-----------------------|
| Urizen pl. 2                | TATE                | ---18.7 x 20.8               | colour printed |
| Urizen pl. 3 <sup>310</sup> | Keynes Trust | --15.0 x 9.9                 | orangish brown |
| Urizen pl. 5                | YALE                | ---19.0 x 16.0               | colour printed |
| Urizen pl. 7                | Anon.??      | c 18.5 x 26.0@               | colour printed |
| Urizen pl. 9#               | PRINCETON           | invisible 15.6 x 20.7 | colour printed |
| Urizen pl. 10               | YALE                | ---9.0 x 16.0                | colour printed |
| Urizen pl. 11               | Anon.        | ??c 18.5 x 26.0@             | colour printed |
| Urizen pl. 12#              | MORGAN              | ---10.2 x 15.1               | black          |
| Urizen pl. 17#              | Anon.??      | c 18.5 x 26.0@               | colour printed |
| Urizen pl. 19               | Anon.??      | c 18.5 x 26.0@               | colour printed |
| Urizen pl. 22#              | Essick 1794  | 18.3 x 26.2                  | colour printed |
| Urizen pl. 23               | Anon.??      | c 18.5 x 26.0@               | colour printed |
| Marriage pl. 11             | PRINCETON           | invisible 17.9 x 12.9 | colour printed |
| Marriage pl. 14             | LIBRARY OF CONGRESS | --18.8 x 12.1                | colour printed |
| Marriage pl. 16#            | Anon.??      | c 18.5 x 26.0@               | colour printed |
| Marriage pl. 20             | Essick       | 5.6 x 10.3 <sup>311</sup>    | colour printed |
| Visions pl. 10              | Keynes Trust | -- 18.4 x 27.0               | colour printed |

| Plate  | Dimensions of the image after the text was masked out <sup>312</sup> | Number |
|--|--|--------|
| Thel pl. 7 <sup>313</sup> ( Anon )   | 10.7 x 8.3 cm  |        |
| Urizen pl. 1 ( Keynes Family Trust ) | 10.25 x 9.1 cm   |        |
| Urizen pl. 2 (TATE)                         | 10.2 x 10.9 cm   |        |

<sup>310</sup> Another copy of Urizen pl. 3 (Sendak Collection) was cut down to 9.9 x 6.1cm, eliminating any framing-lines, numbers, and inscriptions, if they existed.

<sup>311</sup> The original size of Marriage pl. 20 is found by combining the present dimensions of the separated print-leaf (18.9 x 13 cm) with those of the fragment with the inscription once pasted to its verso (18.9 x 2.5 cm).

<sup>312</sup> All the image-dimensions derive from Butlin.

<sup>313</sup> Unfinished ruled pencil lines are drawn outside the ink framing lines.

|  |                             |
|--|-----------------------------|
| Urizen pl. 3 ( Keynes Family Trust )   | 9.6 x 6.1 cm <sup>314</sup> |
| Urizen pl. 5 (YALE)                           | 10.7 x 7.7 cm               |
| Urizen pl. 7 ( Anon )                  | 10.4 x 11.4 cm              |
| Urizen pl. 9 (PRINCETON)                      | 15.4 x 14.8 cm              |
| Urizen pl. 10 (YALE)                          | 10.0 x 6.5 cm 20 |
| Urizen pl. 11 <sup>315</sup> ( Anon )  | 10.0 x 10.8 cm              |
| Urizen pl. 17 ( Anon )                 | 9.1 x 14.8 cm               |
| Urizen pl. 19 ( Anon )                 | 10.4 x 7.3 cm               |
| Urizen pl. 22 ( Essick )               | 10.0 x 15.4 cm              |
| Urizen pl. 23 ( Anon )                 | 10.2 x 10.1 cm              |
| Marriage pl. 11 (PRINCETON)                   | 10.0 x 4.8 cm               |
| Marriage pl. 14 (U.S. NATIONAL GALLERY)       | 10.1 x 4.2 cm               |
| Marriage pl. 16 ( Anon )               | 10.2 x 5.8 cm               |
| Marriage pl. 20 ( Essick )             | 10.5 x 5.5 cm               |
| Visions pl. 10 ( Keynes Family Trust ) | 10.1 x 5.7 cm               |

@ The newly-discovered prints are 18.2 to 18.7 by 25.0 to 26.7 cm.

Not in Copy A.

---

<sup>314</sup>The leaf has been trimmed, perhaps removing stab holes and framing lines.

<sup>315</sup>Faint, unfinished ruled pencil lines are drawn outside the ink framing lines. The verso is inscribed "Q<sup>y</sup> Heaven & Hell".

Urizen pl. 1-3, 5, 9-10, 12, 22, Marriage pl. 11, 14, and Visions pl. 7 are reproduced in Butlin, pl. 350-60.

The facts that one plate is numbered "22" but that there are only 20 prints traced suggests that at least two prints are missing from Copy B.

Small Book of Designs

| Plate                | Inscription <sup>316</sup>                                | InkNum-ber |
|----------------------|---|--------------------|
| Thel pl. 7    | "Doth God take care of These"                             |                    |
| Urizen pl. 1  | "Which is the Way""The Right or the Left"             |                    |
| Urizen pl. 2  | Teach these Souls to Fly                                  |                    |
| Urizen pl. 3  | O flames of furious desire <sup>317</sup>                 |                    |
| Urizen pl. 5  | The Book of my Remembrance                                |                    |
| Urizen pl. 7  | "I sought Pleasure & found Pain""Unutterable"         |                    |
| Urizen pl. 9  | #Eternally I labour on                                    | 13                 |
| Urizen pl. 10 | "Does the Soul labour thus","In Caverns of The Grave" | 20                 |
| Urizen pl. 11 | "Every thing is an attempt"                               |                    |

<sup>316</sup>The inscriptions are in black ink in Blake's hand below the outer framing line except for those on Urizen pl. 3 and 12 which are heavily trimmed; the inscriptions in a modern hand are on the versos, perhaps repeating those trimmed away.

<sup>317</sup>The pencil inscription on the verso is not in Blake's hand, but it may have been transcribed from a Blake inscription. Another copy of Urizen pl. 3 (Sendak Collection) was cut down to 9.9 x 6.1 cm, eliminating any framing-lines, numbers, and inscriptions, if they existed.

|                        |   |    |
|------------------------|---|----|
|                        | "To be Human"   |    |
| Urizen pl. 12#  | I labour upwards intofuturaityBlake <sup>318</sup>                    |    |
| Urizen pl. 17   | "Vegetating in fibres of Blood"   |    |
| Urizen pl. 19   | "Is the Female death""Become new Life"                                    |    |
| Urizen pl. 22#  | "Frozen doors to mock""The World: while they withintorments up lock." |    |
| Urizen pl. 23   | "Fearless tho in pain""I travel on"                                       |    |
| Marriage pl. 11 | "Death & Hell""Teem with Life"  |    |
| Marriage pl. 14 | "A Flaming Sword""Revolving every way"                                    | 9  |
| Marriage pl. 16 | "Who shall set""The Prisoners free"                                       |    |
| Marriage pl. 20 | "O revolving serpent""O the Ocean of Time & Space"                        | 16 |
| Visions pl. 10  | "Wait Sisters""Tho all is Lost" <sup>319</sup>                            | 22 |
| # Not in Copy A        |   |    |

---

<sup>318</sup>Another copy of Urizen pl. 12 (Anon.) is inscribed "The floods overwhelmed me"; this was associated with Small Book (B) in Blake, XLII (2008), but Butlin and Hamlyn and now GEB are persuaded that it does not belong there.

<sup>319</sup>The pencil inscription is not in Blake's hand.

COPY B

BINDING: Each print in copy B “is a repeated pull from the same coloring” as in Copy A.<sup>320</sup>

Probably stabbed together through three holes 3.8 and 4.3 cm apart (as in Thel pl. 7, Urizen pl. 2, 5, 7, 10-11, 17, 19, 22-23, and Marriage pl. 7, 11) but now disbound. There are three or four framing lines round Thel pl. 7, Urizen pl. 1-3, 5, 7, 9-11, 12 (2 lines), 17, 19, 21, 22 (1 line), 23, Marriage pl. 7, 14, 20 (2 lines), and Visions pl. 10, and the surviving numbers are in the top right corners in black ink.

HISTORY: (1) Copy B was almost certainly created about 1796 – the Urizen title page is here dated “1796”, though the etched date was “1794” – at the same time as Copy A, but with the addition of three or four framing lines, numbers, and inscriptions on each print; R.N. Essick, “Blake in the Marketplace, 2007”, Blake, XLI (2007), speculates that “Blake may have begun, c. 1818 or later, to assemble two sets of A Small Book of Designs” (Copies B and C) “using illuminated-book illustrations color printed c 1794-96” – Urizen pl. 9, 12, 22, which are not in copy A, “have thinner color printing, but more extensive hand coloring, than their companions”; at Blake’s death in 1827, the collection was inherited by (2) His wife Catherine; at her death in 1831 they were (3) Acquired by Frederick Tatham, who wrote “This Coloured print by W<sup>m</sup> Blake | was given me by his widow | Frederick Tatham Sculptor” on the versos of Thel pl. 7, Urizen

---

<sup>320</sup> Martin Butlin, “A New Color Print from the Small Book of Designs”, Blake, XXVI (1992), 29. Viscomi, 376, dates them all to 1796.

pl. 1, 7, 11-12, 19, 23, and Marriage pl. 7 and sold the prints piecemeal.<sup>321</sup>

Book of Thel pl. 7 (Anonymous)

See Thel pl. 7 below

NEWLY DISCOVERED PRINTS

Thel pl. 7, Urizen pl. 7, 11-12, 17, 19, 23, and Marriage pl. 16

HISTORY: (4) Acquired at a furniture auction (?in London) “many years ago” by an Anonymous collector who took them to the Victoria & Albert Museum, where they were identified,<sup>322</sup> and offered them at an [unidentified] auction in 2007,<sup>323</sup> the prints were sold by the Anonymous owner in 2009 for £441,000 to the Tate.

They were reproduced in the William Blake Archive in 2009.

There are pencil numbers 1, 4-10 in the bottom right corners of Urizen pl. 19, Marriage pl. 7, Thel pl. 7, Urizen pl.

---

<sup>321</sup>BBS 108 suggests that Small Book (B) may be the “prints” referred to in the letter of 15 Aug 1797 from James Currie in Kettering (near Northhampton) to Ozias Humphry (who owned Small Book [A]):

As poor Blake will not be out of need of money, I shall beg you to pay him for me, and to take the trouble when you return to town of having a box made for the prints, & sending them by the Kettering Coach from the White Hart S:<sup>t</sup> John Street Clerkenwell.--

However, the clear association of many of the prints with Tatham and Blake’s other disciples suggests that the Currie prints are not Small Book (B).

<sup>322</sup>R.N. Essick, “Blake in the Marketplace, 2007”, Blake, XLI (2008).

<sup>323</sup>Anon., “Long-lost Blake watercolours shown for 1st time”, CBC News, 12 Nov 2007.

11, 23, 17, 7, and 12. This suggests that this group once had ten prints, two of which, numbered 2-3, are now missing.

Urizen pl. 1 (Keynes Family Trust)

HISTORY: (4) Acquired by Lord Killanin, who lent it to the Carfax Exhibition (1906), No. 79a, and sold it at Sotheby's, 28 July 1947, lot 166, for £65 to (5) Geoffrey Keynes, who reproduced it in Keynes and Wolf (1953), p. 84, and lent it to the exhibitions of the British Museum (1957), No. 27 1a, (anonymously), the Whitworth Art Gallery (1969), No. 82, and the National Library of Scotland (1969), No. 51, described it in his catalogue (1964), No. 522; at his death in 1982 it passed to The Keynes Family Trust, which lent it to the 1996 February 2-April 7 exhibition of the Fundación "la Caixa" in Madrid, No. 30a; it is deposited in and still promised to (6) The FITZWILLIAM MUSEUM. <BB, BBS>

Urizen pl. 2 (TATE)

HISTORY: (4) Acquired by Samuel Palmer's cousin John Giles, who sold it posthumously at Christie's, 4 February 1881, lot 440, to (5) Dr Richard Sisley,<sup>324</sup> from whom it was acquired by his daughter (6) Mrs John Richmond, who sold it in 1922 to (7) The TATE GALLERY. <BB>

Urizen pl. 3 (Keynes Family Trust)

HISTORY: (4) It was sold "by either Mrs. Blake or a relation of hers" to (5) "E. Danniels, 53 Mortimer Street",<sup>325</sup> perhaps related to E.T. Daniell who bought a copy of Job in September 1827 (BR (2) 791, 798, 801); acquired successively by (6) "Ogden, Oxford" (according to Preston), (7) Mr C. Layle Trumpington in whose catalogue it was described (Preston), (8) "Mrs. Pollitt, 1897" [Preston], and (9) W. Graham Robertson, who lent it anonymously to the Carfax exhibition (January 1904), in whose catalogue it was described, and who sold it posthumously at Christie's, 22 July 1949, lot 87 (for £78.15.0 to Eames [Preston]); (10) Acquired by Geoffrey Keynes, who described it in his catalogue (1964), No. 522; at his death in 1982 it passed to The Keynes Family Trust, which lent it to the Tate Exhibition (9 November 2000-11 February 2001), No. 286; it is deposited in and still promised to (10) The FITZWILLIAM MUSEUM. <BB, BBS>

---

<sup>324</sup> According to Martin Butlin, William Blake [Tate catalogue] (1971), 33.

<sup>325</sup> According to a note on the verso presumed to be by C.L. Trumpington – see The Blake Collection of W. Graham Robertson, ed. Kerrison Preston (1952), No. 136*.

Urizen pl. 5, 10

HISTORY: (4) Acquired by the Revd. Stopford Brooke, who sold them posthumously at Sotheby's, 9 April 1919, lots 448, 450, for £26 and £29 to (5) James Tregaskis, who offered them in his Caxton Head Catalogue 815 (23 June 1919), lots 1 (£65) and 2 (£70); (6) Acquired by Templeton Crocker, who lent them to the Philadelphia exhibition (1939), No. 78, and sold them to (7) Chauncey Brewster Tinker, described in his catalogue (1959), No. 261-62, and bequeathed at his death in 1963 to (8) YALE UNIVERSITY. <BB>

Urizen pl. 7 (Anonymous)

See Thel pl. 7 above

Urizen pl. 9

HISTORY: (4) Sold posthumously by the Revd Stopford Brooke at Sotheby's, 9 April 1919, lot 451, for £38 to the dealer Tregaskis, who apparently sold it to the U.S. dealer(5) Gabriel Wells, who in turn sold it to (6) A.E. Newton, who wrote in a notebook with it: "I bought it from Gabriel Wells when we were in London together in the summer of 1921, and I paid a pretty stiff price for it, too"; Newton lent it to the Philadelphia Museum of Art exhibitions (1926 – "the beautifully drawn and coloured 'Urizen'" – which could also be Newton's Urizen pl. 22) and (1939), No., 80, and sold it at Parke-Bernet, 16 April 1941, lot 133, for $150 to the dealer Sessler, apparently for Newton's daughter (7) Miss Caroline Newton, who place it on deposit in and then bequeathed it to PRINCETON UNIVERSITY. <BB>

Urizen pl. 10 (YALE)

See Urizen pl. 5, 10 above

Urizen pl. 11 (Anonymous)

See Thel pl. 7 above

Urizen pl. 11 (Anonymous)

See Thel pl. 7 above

Urizen pl. 12 (Anonymous)

See Thel pl. 7 above

Urizen pl. 12

HISTORY: (4) Acquired by William Bell Scott, who evidently lent it to the Victoria & Albert Museum in 1860,<sup>326</sup>

---

<sup>326</sup> Anon., "Water-Colour Drawings at South Kensington", Critic, XXII (1860), 467.

and sold it at Sotheby's, 21 April 1885, lot 177 ("Man sinking in Water"), for £6.6.0 to Fawcett; (5) Acquired by the Revd Stopford Brooke, who sold it posthumously at Sotheby's, 9 April 1919, lot 449, for £32 to Tregaskis; (6) Acquired by Herschel V. Jones, who gave it to his daughter (7) Miss Tessie Jones, who bequeathed it in 1968 to (8) The PIERPONT MORGAN LIBRARY. <BB, BBS>

Urizen pl. 17 (Anonymous)

See Thel pl. 7 above

Urizen pl. 19 (Anonymous)

See Thel pl. 7 above

Urizen pl. 21

HISTORY: (4) Acquired by John Linnell, listed in Gilchrist (1863), II, 202, and sold posthumously at Christie's, 15 March 1918, lot 177, for £94.10.0 to Martin; (5) Presented by The Felton Bequest to (6) The NATIONAL GALLERY OF VICTORIA, Melbourne, Australia. <BB>

Urizen pl. 22

BINDING: There are three stab holes, 3.9 and 4.3 cm from the top, corresponding to those in Urizen pl. 2, 5, 10, and Marriage pl. 11 from the Small Book of Designs (B).

HISTORY: (4) Sold for H.B. Forman at Anderson Galleries, 15 March 1920, lot 66, for $1,060 to Rosenbach; (5) Acquired by A.E. Newton, who lent it to the Philadelphia exhibition (1939), No. 82, and sold it at Parke-Bernet, 14 April 1941, lot 132, for $300 to "private", i.e., (6) Mr Joseph Holland, who lent it to the exhibition at the National Museum of Western Art (Tokyo), 25 September-25 November 1990, No. 25d; after his death in 1994, it was (7) Offered with the Collection of Joseph Holland and Vincent Newton in John Windle Catalogue 26 (December 1995), lot 1 (reproduced in colour, Price on Enquiry) and sold to (8) Professor Robert N. Essick.

<BB, BBS, Blake>

Urizen pl. 23 (Anonymous)

See Thel pl. 7 above

Marriage pl. 11 (PRINCETON)

HISTORY: (4) Acquired by Alexander Gilchrist's son H.H. Gilchrist, who lent it to the Pennsylvania Academy Exhibition (1892), No. 159; (5) "Bought by Carl Edelman from H. Gilchrist in 1895" (according to A.E. Newton's note on the back of the frame); Edelman gave it (according to Keynes and Wolf) to his son-in-law (6) A.E. Newton, who lent it to the exhibitions at the Philadelphia Museum of Art (1926) and (1939), No. 81, and from him it passed to his daughter (7) Miss Caroline Newton, who lent it to the Princeton exhibitions of 1967 and 1969 (No. 52) and then bequeathed it to PRINCETON UNIVERSITY. <BB>

Marriage pl. 14

HISTORY: (4) Acquired by John Varley (according to Keynes and Wolf); (5) Sold by Sydney Morse at Christie's, 26 July 1929, lot 19 (described as "The Soul hovering over the Body") for £78.15.0 to Colnaghi; (6) Acquired by Mr Lessing J. Rosenwald, who gave it to (7) The LIBRARY OF CONGRESS.
<BB>

Marriage pl. 16 (Anonymous)

See Thel pl. 7 above

Marriage pl. 20

BINDING: (1) The design from the bottom of Marriage pl. 20 was colour-printed about 1796 onto a leaf at least 18.9 x 15.5 cm;<sup>327</sup> (2) Perhaps about 1818,<sup>328</sup> Blake took up the print again, drew four Black framing lines round the design, wrote "16" in the top right corner, and inscribed it in the same black ink:

"O revolving serpent"

"O the Ocean of Time & Space"

(3) A ragged-edged pink masking-leaf c. 16.5 x 12.2 cm with a window exactly the size of the print was pasted to the print-leaf, and the mount was touched up with washes of the same colours as the print, some of the colour lapping over and disfiguring the masking-leaf;<sup>329</sup> (4) A cardboard backing was pasted to the verso of the print; (5) A strip 2.5 x 18.9 cm bearing the inscription and the outer two framing-lines was cut off the bottom of the print-leaf and pasted to the bottom of the

---

<sup>327</sup> The size is a combination of the present dimensions of the separated print-leaf (18.9 x 13 cm) with those of the fragment with the inscription once pasted to its verso (18.9 x 2.5 cm).

<sup>328</sup> In his letter of 9 June 1818 to Dawson Turner, Blake mentioned the copy of the Small Book of Designs (A) which he had made in 1796 for Ozias Humphry and which Turner had apparently seen in the collection of Humphry's son William Upcott who was, like Turner, a keen autograph collector. Perhaps in 1818 Blake took up again the prints for Small Book (B).

<sup>329</sup> This ragged-edged pink masking-leaf seems to be an expendable device to keep the margins of the print neat; presumably it was to be discarded, as were similar windows (if they were used) in all other cases. Its preservation here must be an accident.

verso of the cardboard backing; (6) Apparently a leaf with a window exactly the size of the print was pasted to the recto of the print-leaf, presumably to obscure the colouring which laps outside the print-area onto the masking-leaf and which would have obscured the inscription had it not been trimmed off and pasted to the verso; (7) The (hypothetical) outer window was removed from the masking-leaf (leaving behind a good deal of disfiguring paste) and discarded; (8) In 1995, the paper strip was heavily cleaned<sup>330</sup> in order to return its colour to match the portion of the sheet bearing Blake's print, the strip was re-attached to the print, the masking-leaf, and the two other fragments of pink paper were removed (and preserved).<sup>331</sup>

HISTORY: (4) Probably acquired by John Varley; (5) Acquired by Varley's wife Delvalle (daughter of Wilson Lowry), who gave it on 31 March 1856 to (6) Adam White – the verso is inscribed "Drawing of Blake's given to A White by Mrs Varley March 21 1856"; (7) Acquired by Sir Joseph Noel Paton (1821-1901); (8) Paton's anonymous heir<sup>332</sup> sold it at Sotheby's, 7 July 1995, lot 71 (ESTIMATE: £20,000-£30,000) for £36,700 to (9) John Windle for Professor Robert N. Essick.
<BBS, Blake>

---

<sup>330</sup> In the process of cleaning, the inscriptions in three non-Blakean hands -- "8623", "Drawing of Blake's given to A[dam] White by M<sup>rs</sup> Varley March 31 1856", and "evidently printed in oil & touched with colour afterwards" – were lost.

<sup>331</sup> For almost all the information and deductions here, I am indebted to correspondence with Professor Essick and to "Blake in the Marketplace 1995", Blake, XXIX (1996).

<sup>332</sup> See Martin Butlin, "A New Color Print from the Small Book of Designs", Blake, XXVI (1992), 19-21.

Visions pl. 10

HISTORY: (4) Perhaps this was the unidentified plate from Visions lent by H.H. Gilchrist to the Pennsylvania Academy Exhibition (1892), No. 147; (5) Perhaps it was among the thirty leaves of Blakeana (see Urizen pl. 19, BB 185) sold anonymously at Sotheby's, 24 February 1897, lot 809, for £60 to Quaritch; (6) Acquired by Dr Greville Macdonald, by whom it was sold to (7) Francis Edwards, who offered it in a catalogue (1931), No. 2, for £60, and sold it in 1936 to (8) Geoffrey Keynes, who listed it in his catalogue (1964), No. 522; at his death in 1982 it passed to (9) The Keynes Family Trust, though deposited in and still promised to (10) The FITZWILLIAM MUSEUM. <BB, BBS>

Song of Los (1795)

Weight and Cost of Copperplates

The 8 prints of Song of Los derive from 4 copperplates; pl. 1 and 8 are recto and verso of a plate 17.6 x 23.5 cm; pl. 2 and 5 are recto and verso of a plate 17.3 x 24.2 cm; pl. 3-4 are side by side on a plate 27.2 x 21.4 cm; and pl. 6-7 are side by side on a plate 28.0 x 22.2 cm – see Viscomi, 287, and BBS 39. The weight would have been 3,014.9 g and the cost £2.0.5¼.

According to Viscomi, “Blake’s ‘Annus Mirabilis’”, Blake, XL (2007), the full-page designs in The Song of Los (pl. 1-2, 5, 8) were colour-printed from mill-board, as may be seen in the striations on pl. 8 (copy B), and not from copper, as had always previously been assumed (e.g., BB 70).

All copies were apparently printed in 1795 (A-B) (Viscomi, 376).

According to Viscomi, 287,

The sequence of plate 4 impressions can be established by tracing the changes in the cloud line trailing from the A in “Albion” in the last line. It is printed in the gray of the text in copy C, as are the birds. This is the first impression pulled. The second impression is copy F; the plate is again inked in gray and painted in colors, only here the trailing line is half-wiped, its lower portion is dabbed in red, and the birds are wiped away. The third impression, copy D, has the same gray and red cloud line, and the birds have been reinserted in a dark brown. In the fourth impression, copy A, Blake dabbed the top portion of the cloud line blue. In the fifth, copy B, the cloud line is printed in blue, the gap between Los's head and the cloud is filled in, and the birds are reinked in brown. The sixth and last impression pulled was copy E; there are traces of the blue ink, but here Blake has color printed the shallow between the cloud and the woman's head in red. This has to be the last copy, since the red ink is substantial enough to have left traces in subsequent impressions. The sequence of impressions for plate 4 is not the same as that for plate 1, which can be traced according to the color, disappearance, and reappearance of the birds. Their order appears to be copies F, B, A, C, D, and E. Essick found a slightly different order (Printmaker 129), but the point remains the same: the different printing orders of plates 1 and 4 indicate that copies were collated from sets of impressions and not printed one at a time.

COPY A

It was reproduced in colour in The Continental Prophecies, ed. D.W. Dörrbecker (1995) and in The Complete Illuminated Books, ed. David Bindman (2000). In 2004 reproductions of it were added to the William Blake Archive.

COPY B

BINDING: "bound in contemporary half morocco" with Europe (A) and Visions of the Daughters of Albion (F), according to Quaritch Catalogue No. 203 (December 1900), lot 193.

HISTORY: (3) Offered at £315.0.0 in Quaritch Catalogue No. 203 (December 1900), lot 193.

It was reproduced in Joseph Viscomi, "Blake's Virtual Designs and Reconstruction of The Song of Los", Romanticism on the et, No. 41-42 (2006), and online in the Library of Congress and in the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi.

COPY C

It was added to the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi in 2009.

COPY D

It was added to the William Blake Archive ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi in 2004.

COPY E

BINDING: (4) It was disbound by the winter of 1993-94, according to Anon., "Blake at the Huntington, Fall 1994", Blake, XXVII, 3 (Winter 1993-94), 98.

It was reproduced in Joseph Viscomi, "Blake's Virtual Designs and Reconstruction of The Song of Los", Romanticism on the Net, No. 41-42 (2006), added to the William Blake Archive ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi in 2009, and reproduced online in Huntington Digital Images.

EDITIONS

"The Song of Los: Pesn' Losa." Tr. into Russian with commentary by V.V. Serdechnaya. Volshebnaya gora [Moscow], No. 15 (2009), 461-68.

Reprinted in Russian in her Malye poemy Uil'yama Bleika: Povestvovanie, tipologiya, kontekst [Small Poems of William Blake: Narrative, Typology, Context] (2012).

**The Song of Los (Illuminated Manuscript [sic] with the Original Illustrations of William Blake)*. (e-artnow, 2013)
ISBN: 9788074844140

Probably Song of Los (B) -- see The Complete Illustrated Books of William Blake.

Songs of Experience
(1794 [-1802])

Weight and Cost of Copperplates

Songs of Experience (Songs pl. 1, 28-33, 37-52, b) are etched on the versos of the copperplates of Songs of Innocence (see BB 382) except for pl. 29-30, which are on recto and verso of the same copperplate (7.2 x 12.4 cm) and pl. a. They would have weighed 153 grams or 1/3 pound and cost 1s. 4½d.

N.B. Songs pl. a (5.2 x 6.3 cm), with only a design, known in one copy, is not matched in size by any other print from the works in Illuminated Printing and would have cost 4½d. Pl. b, "A Divine Image" (7.0 x 11.2 cm), may be on the verso of Innocence pl. 17, "A Cradle Song" (7.1 x 11.1).

Copies were apparently printed in 1794 (F, G-H, T<sup>1</sup>; B-E), 1795 (J, O, S), 1802 (P, Q) (Viscomi, 376-77). Note that numbers of copies of Experience were produced separately but later added to Innocence to form Songs of Innocence and of Experience.

In Songs (B-D), "The Little Girl Lost" and "The Little Girl Found" (pl. 34-36) were "borrowed from copies of Innocence", but in Songs (A, R) they are printed integrally with Experience. However, "in both copies A and R, plate 34 was printed in the ink of Experience but plates 35-36 are in the ink of Innocence, as though Blake momentarily forgot about the transfer" (Viscomi, 294, 415).

COPY N

The work is reproduced online in Huntington Digital Images.

EDITIONS

Songs of Experience [Z]: Facsimile Reproduction with 26 Plates in Full Color. (N.Y.: Dover, 1984) ISBN: 048624361
<BBS> B. §(1985) C. §(1997) D. §(2007)

The work is boxed with Favorite Works of William Blake (1997).

REVIEW

Jenijoy La Belle, Blake, XIX, 2 (Fall 1985), 83-84
(with another)

**Les chants de l'expérience*. Tr. Alain Suied. (Paris: Arfuen, 1993) Arfuen Textes anglais cahier n° 91. 8°, 94 pp.; ISBN: 2908825295 In French and English

English and French texts are on facing pages; "Abstrait humain, concret divin" (pp. 83-88).

See below for Chants d'innocence, tr. Alain Suied (1992).

§Songs of Experience. (N.Y.: Dover, 1997)

Apparently first published with the Dover Favorite Works of William Blake ([?1997]).

§Cantos de la Experiencia Translation and notes by Roberto Diaz. (Barcelona: Editorial Astri, S.A., 2000) 91 pp.; ISBN: 8446908123 English and Spanish on facing pages.

§Songs of Experience. Photographs by Joel-Peter Witkin. Poems by William Blake. Essay by John Wood. (No place: Leo and Wolfe Photography, Inc, 2002) Platinum Series

Edition of 65 copies, "Opened at $7500 – SOLD OUT – Closed at $18,000 ... 18" x 15" and weighs over 14 pounds", according to The Journal of Contemporary Photography 21st online.

See also Innocence (2002) and Songs (2004).

§ William Blake Songs of Experience. ([Great Britain:] Narbone Publishing, [?2004]) 31 pp., no ISBN, letterpress text only

§*[Songs of Experience called] William Blake (An Introduction) by Steve Phillips. (Great Britain: Narbone Publishing, 2004) 34 pp.; ISBN: 9780954530235 27 indifferent reproductions apparently from different copies

§ Cantares de Experiencia. (Mexico [City] Vico, 2005)
Internet Resource In Spanish

An electronic book.

See also Contares de Innocencia (2005).

**Songs of Experience (Illuminated Manuscript [sic] with the Original Illustrations of William Blake)*. (e-artnow, 2013)
ISBN: 978807484409

Probably from Songs (C or Z) -- see The Complete Illustrated Books of William Blake.

Songs of Innocence (1789[-1808?])

Weight and Cost of Copperplates

The 31 copperplates of Songs of Innocence (Songs pl. 2-27, 34-36, 53-54) weighed 3,016.7 grams = 6.6 pounds and would have cost £2.13.6.

Copies were apparently printed in 1789 (E, V?; F, I-J, X; A-H, K-M, Z, B-E), 1795 (J, N), 1802 (P, O, R/Y<sup>333</sup>), 1804

---

<sup>333</sup> Innocence (R/Y) was apparently printed as one copy but was later separated into two fragments.

(P-Q, Q), 1811 (S, S), and posthumously (T) (Viscomi, 376-78).

PRINTING: In early copies, "Many of the impressions contain the same accidentals. 'The Lamb' of Innocence copy E ..., for example, has the same traces of ink along the inside of the wiped border as 'The Lamb' in Innocence copy B ... and other copies" (Viscomi, 115). Similarly, an ink blot in the leaves beside stanza one of "Night" (plate 20) occurs with diminishing strength in Songs copy E, Innocence copy I, and Songs copy F, which reveals that the three impressions shared the same ink, dabbers, paper, and printing pressure [Viscomi, 243].

ORDER OF THE PLATES

|                    |       |      |                |            |       |     |
|--------------------|-------|------|----------------|------------|-------|-----|
| Copy               |       |      |                |            |       |     |
| R/Y <sup>334</sup> | R     | Y-Y  | R-R            |            | R-R   | R-R |
| Plates             | 2 [3] | 4-18 | 19-20 [21, 53] | 22-25 [54] | 26-27 |     |
| Numbers            | 1 [2] | 3-17 | 18-19 [20-21]  | 22-25 [26] | 27-28 |     |

TABLE

| Copy | Prints   | Num-ber ofleaves | Watermark         | Bind-ingOrder | BlakeNum-bers | Leaf Sizein Cm | PrintingColour |
|------|----------|--------------------------|-------------------|-----------------------|-----------------------|--------------------|--------------------|
| #R/Y | 2, 4-20, | 24                       | BUTTA[N-SHAW] | Loose                 | 1, 3-19.              | 14.5 x 20.9 (2)    | pale brown         |
|      |          |                          |                   |                       | 22-25,                | 14.5 x 20.3 (4)    | (2, 4-7, 10, (4,   |
|      |          |                          | 7, 16-17)         | 27-28                 | 14.0 x 20.3           | 12-14,             | 16-17              |

---

<sup>334</sup> The plates are now loose, and some are missing, but the order is established by Blake's numbers. The plate following pl. 20 ("Night" pl. 1) must be pl. 21 ("Night" pl. 2) numbered 20. The plates following pl. 21 and 25 are probably pl. 53 and 54 (as in Innocence [S] and Songs [S] on paper watermarked 1808), numbered 21 and 26.

|                |                              |   |
|----------------|------------------------------|---|
|                | (5) <sup>335</sup>           |   |
| R              | 13.5 to 15.0 x reddish-brown |   |
| FITZ-2,        | 19-20, 920.0 to 21.2         | (8-9, 15)                                     |
| WILLIAM        | 22-27                        | (6, 8, 11, 13- bluish-grey                    |
| Y <sup>1</sup> | 15)                          | (11, 18)                                      |
| Essick  | 4-5, 9-10, 5                 | 14.3 x 20.8 (9) blue (19-20,                  |
|                | 18                           | 14.2 x 20.7 (10) 24)                          |
| Y <sup>2</sup> |                              | 15.0 x 21.4 (12)                              |
| Parker  | 12, 16-17 3                  | 14.9 x 20.8 (16)                              |
| Y <sup>3</sup> |                              | 14.4 x 20.9 (17)                              |
| Neuer-  | 6-8, 11, 7                   | 13.6 x 20.1 (18)                              |
| burg    | 13-15                        | 14.5 x 20.9 (19-20, 22-27) <sup>336</sup> |

Watercoloured by Blake or his wife.

SIGNIFICANT VARIANTS:

Pl. 9: In the first plate for "The Little Black Boy",

From the earliest to the last impressions ..., which were produced ca. 1795 and ca. 1825, the woman's back is arched and her hair is in a bun. This is how Blake drew her on the plate. In all posthumous copies ..., her back and hair have been altered on the plate. [Viscomi, 248]

There does indeed seem to be a difference, though the "bun" is at the bottom of her neck or the top of her shoulder rather than

---

<sup>335</sup> Pl. 5 has a deckle edge at the bottom. According to the 2007 catalogue, the deckle edges are "above and below" on pl. 5 and "below" on pl. 18. Deckle edges appear on the margins of the original uncut sheet of paper, and no sheet was manufactured only 20.3 cm high, as in pl. 5.

<sup>336</sup> Pl. 20 and 23 are smaller than the others. Presumably the different sizes are to be explained at least in part by the need to trim them after they were scorched in a bon-fire in the 1890s.

on her head (where one might expect to find a "bun"). There seem to be very faint traces in the posthumous copies of the former larger outline.

Pl. 12: In "The Chimney Sweeper" of Innocence in copy AA, the first word of l. 20 ("And the Angel told Tom if he'd be a good boy | He'd have God for his father & never want joy") was changed in pen to "But" ("But have God ..."); the change, "which makes little sense", may have been made by Catherine Blake, who perhaps helped in the coloring of this copy (Viscomi, 146).

Pl. 25: According to Viscomi, 245-46,

"Infant Joy" ... in [Innocence] copy U is an unrecorded first state: the bottom of the J of "Joy" crosses into the flower in this but not in any of the subsequent copies .... The presence of this first state and the very poor inking throughout the book indicate that copy U was the first copy of Innocence printed.

In Viscomi's reproductions (illus. 251-52, 274-77) of Innocence (N) and Songs (C, I, L, O), the "J" appears to be merely colored over, but in posthumous copies b (reproduced in the edition of Ruthven Todd [1947]) and c (reproduced in William Blake's Writings, ed. G.E. Bentley, Jr [1978], 48) it is clear that curve of the "J" crossing the petal was removed from the copperplate.

COPY A

HISTORY: (6)Lent by Colonel and Mrs. David McC. McKell of Chillicothe, Ohio, to the exhibition of §The Printmaker 1450 to 1950 [21 September-3 November at the] Achenbach Foundation for Graphic Arts, California Palace of the Legion of Honor [San Francisco], 1957).

It was reproduced in The William Blake Archive ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi in 2012.

COPY B

BINDING: The watermark on the front fly-leaf is "BEILBY | & | KNOTTS | 1825", a Birmingham firm, not "BEILK | & KNOT | 1825" as in BB, as I am told by my friend Stephen Massil.

HISTORY: Acquired by "R H Clarke",<sup>337</sup> who signed the first fly-leaf; W.E. Moss sold it at Sotheby's, 2 March 1937, lot 143, for £750, to Rosenbach. ...

It is reproduced online the Library of Congress and in the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi.

COPY E

HISTORY: The "C. Newman Born July 21st 1804", whose birth is recorded on the leather label, is Charles Newman, son of Joseph and Ann Newman, who was born on 21 July and baptised in St Martin's in the Fields on 12 August 1804, and Charles R. Robson, who acquired Innocence (E) "at Leicester in or about the year 1899" and sold it at Sotheby's, 15 December 1926, lot 612, is probably Charles Raynor Robson (1869-1947), schoolmaster of Leicester and cricketer, as I am told by my friend Stephen Massil.

---

<sup>337</sup> BB 405, silently following Geoffrey Keynes and Edwin Wolf 2nd, William Blake's Illuminated Books: A Census (1953), identifies R.H. Clarke as "the son of Hayley's friend J.S. Clarke [1765?-1834]". However, my friend Stephen Massil of the Garrick Club Library (London) tells me that R.H. Clarke does not appear in the Will of James Stanier Clarke or in that of his widow. The identification of the Blake collector as the son of J.S. Clarke therefore seems implausible. He is probably Robert Henry Clarke (1818-1906), son of Henry and Margaret Clarke, baptised March 1818 at Manchester Square Wesleyan Church, St Marylebone, recorded as "clerk in stationers" in the 1881 census, buried Jan 1906 at Camberwell Old Cemetery, near his wife Harriet (1812-98), who was buried in Nov 1898, aged 86.

COPY G

HISTORY: (4) Mrs Emerson probably lent it to the exhibition at the Boston Museum of Fine Art in December 1929.<sup>338</sup>

It was added to the William Blake Archive ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi in 2012 and reproduced online in the Yale Center for British Art.

COPY I

BINDING: (3) It was disbound by the winter of 1993-94, according to Anon., "Blake at the Huntington, Fall 1994", Blake, XXVII (1993-94), 98.

The work is reproduced online in Huntington Digital Images.

COPY J

STAB HOLES: There are five stab-holes 1.2, 3.1, 1.1, and 1.2 cm apart.<sup>339</sup>

---

<sup>338</sup> See Anne Webb Karnaghan, "Blake Exhibition at Boston Museum", Art News, 28 Dec 1929, p. 11; the owner of the copy of Innocence in the exhibition is not identified in the article, but Mrs Emerson lent other works to the exhibition and may well have lent her copy of Innocence as well.

<sup>339</sup> According to David Swinford, as reported by R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2001", Blake, XXXV (2002), 108. When Innocence (J) was sold at Christie's (N.Y.) on 8 Oct 2001, lot 6, it was said to have a set of "stab-holes in

FRAMING LINE: The single red ink line (not mentioned in BB) surrounding each of the first four prints (pl. 2-5 – the frontispiece, title page, "Introduction", and "The Shepherd") is rather crudely drawn, perhaps intended to make the images appear straighter on the page. The lines are practically on the plate-marks, on the title-page they go through some of the colouring and divide the imprint from the design, and I should be very surprised were they Blake's.

HISTORY: (2) Offered in Quaritch Catalogue 197 (1 March 1900), lot 3651, frontispiece, title page plus 10 leaves, for £20; while it was on loan to the Wallraf-Richartz-Museum, prints from it appeared in the Wallraf-Richartz-Museum exhibition of 27 January-28 March 1982; ... (9) Abel Berland sold it at Christie's (New York), 8 October 2001, lot 5 [for $941,000 to Anon. [Justin Schiller for (10) Maurice Sendak].

COPY Q

Exhibited and reproduced in colour in the Syracuse University exhibition, 31 March-2 May 2003.

COPY R/Y

According to Viscomi, 308,

The facts that three of the nine extant impressions of Innocence copy R are blue and that all nine impressions constitute thirteen [sic] impressions the gutter margins ... which appears to match" those of the Innocence prints in Songs (E); BB, which does not report the stab holes in Innocence (J), gives those in Innocence of Songs (E) as 3.5 and 3.4 cm apart. As Essick remarks succinctly, "I cannot reconcile any combination of these holes [in Innocence(J)] with those present in the green-ink plates in Songs copy E."

---

missing from copy Y strongly suggest that these two fragmented copies once formed a single copy. ... The paper size of Innocence copies Y and R is the same, approximately 20 x 15 cm, but what proves conclusively that the two copies were once joined is the fact that both sets of impressions were stabbed three times, 2.8 and 3.4 cm apart.<sup>340</sup> Copy Y/R was presumably broken up while in the Dimsdale family, perhaps at the time of or because of the fire damage. If so, then Innocence Y/R was first acquired by someone other than the first Baron Dimsdale, since it was produced after the baron died.

Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2007", Blake, XLI (2008), suggests that the plates were printed in different colours and coloured and collated (and numbered) at several different periods. (1) The pale brown prints, some watermarked BUTTANSHAW,<sup>341</sup> were printed about 1802. (2) The reddish-brown and blue prints were printed somewhat

---

<sup>340</sup> "Blake Books measures the stab holes in copy R as 2.6 cm and 3.5 cm apart (55). But those in the middle impressions – plate 18 of copy Y and plate 19 of copy R – are exactly the same" (Viscomi, 418). Copy Y was still "UNTRACED" when Blake Books was published; its stab holes are not reported in Blake Books Supplement, pp. 119-20, but copies R and Y are linked there.

<sup>341</sup> Blake used paper marked BUTTANSHAW about 1801-1808:

|            |        |  |
|------------|--------|--|
| BUTTANSHAW |        | Innocence (Y), drawings (1806-8)      |
| BUTTANSHAW | 1799   | drawing (1802)                               |
| BUTTANSHAW | 18[ ]  | Letter of 19 Oct 1801                        |
| BUTTANSHAW | 180[ ] | Innocence (O)                         |
| BUTTANSHAW | 1802   | Songs (P, Q) dated by Viscomi to 1802 |

later, perhaps at the same time (?1807) as the blue plates in America (M) and Jerusalem proofs. (3) Blake numbered the plates 1-28 in black ink at the top right corners in the order of Innocence (S) and Songs (S) on paper watermarked 1808 (printing dated 1811 by Viscomi) and stabbed them in the left margin through three holes 2.6 and 3.5 cm apart. The (hypothetical) presence in Innocence R/Y of pl. 53-54, which Blake moved to Experience in late copies, suggests that Innocence R/Y was collated before this transfer took place in 1818 (Songs [T<sup>2</sup>, U]). Pl. 34-36, not found in Innocence (R/Y), appear in early copies of Innocence but later were placed in Experience. The liquefied gold in Innocence R/Y implies a late date for some of the colouring, as in Innocence (S) and Songs (S).

In the 1890s the volume was damaged in a bonfire,<sup>342</sup> the leaves were removed, and some were trimmed (pl. 18 partially through the stab-holes). Pl. 3, 21, 53-54 were lost, probably through fire-damage. The remaining leaves were hinged at the corners of the versos (leaving paste-marks on the versos of pl. 10, 12, 18) “into a 4to album, green straight-grained morocco–gilt” (1952 catalogue). (4) By 1952 the leaves were separated into 9 leaves (pl. 2, 19-20, 22-27, here called copy R) and 15 leaves (pl. 4-18, here called copy Y). After 1952 Geoffrey Keynes had the leaves of copy R matted and bound. In April and May 1962 the margins of copy Y were cleaned by Mrs Kastner of Wolfenbuttel (according to letters kept with the prints).

---

<sup>342</sup> According to the 1952 catalogue, in copy R “some leaves [are] stained by fire”.

HISTORY: (1) Copy R/Y was acquired by Baron Dimsdale;<sup>343</sup> the leaves were “rescued by their owner from a bonfire”<sup>344</sup> “in the 1890s”;<sup>345</sup> at some time thereafter the twenty-four surviving leaves were separated into Copy R (pl. 2, 19-20, 22-27) and copy Y (pl. 4-18); (2) Sold by Major T.E. Dimsdale at Sotheby’s, 24 November 1952, lot 99, for £240 to Armstrong; (3) Acquired by Geoffrey Keynes, who lent them to exhibitions in the British Museum (1957), No. 32 2-4, 6-7, No. 33 2-6, and (anonymously) the National Library of Scotland (1969), No. 28, the Whitworth Art Gallery (1969), No. 3, described them in his catalogue (1964), No. 508, and bequeathed them to (4) The FITZWILLIAM MUSEUM.

For the history of the rest of Copy R/Y, see Copy Y.

COLOURING:

Pl. 4-5, 9, 12, 17-18 have liquefied gold.

Pl. 10        The boy on the left has darker skin than the other boy. The bottom 0.7 cm is uncoloured – in later copies it is coloured to represent earth or water.

COPY T

According to Viscomi, 247,

---

<sup>343</sup> According to the family tradition reported in the 1952 catalogue, the purchaser was first Baron Dimsdale (1712-1800), but, as the volume seems to have been produced in c. 1802-1811, the purchaser was more probably his son.

<sup>344</sup> According to Geoffrey Keynes and Edwin Wolf 2nd, William Blake’s Illuminated Books: A Census (1953).

<sup>345</sup> According to Geoffrey Keynes, Bibliotheca Bibliographici: A Catalogue of the Library Formed by Geoffrey Keynes (1964).

The plates of Innocence copy T ... were printed posthumously and colored in imitation of Innocence copy B. For example, the figures in "The Ecchoing Green" plates 1 and 2 are colored in the same five and eight colors as copy B; the difference is that in plate 1 the old man and the faces are pink in copy T and white in copy B. The shapes and colors (blue, pink, and orange) of the very distinct tripart [sic] sky of "Spring" plate 1 are duplicated exactly, as are the shapes and colors (blue and pink) of the sky in "The Shepherd." Copy T also imitates the plate order of copy B, except that the frontispiece and title plate are reversed and plates 53 and 15 are missing. The coloring model is not always so readily apparent because the undercoloring in imitation of copy B was touched up and supplemented with superfluous ornamentation and because an early coloring style was combined with a late printing style.

All other posthumous printings of Innocence are combined with copies of Experience to form Songs of Innocence and of Experience, which are distinguished by lower cased identifying-letters (e.g., "Songs copy c").

BINDING: Copy T is carelessly described in the Christie catalogue of 8 October 2001, lot 6, as a "forgery", but this probably means no more than that it was printed after his death from Blake's copperplates and coloured, as Joseph Viscomi suggests (381).

COPY U

It is reproduced online in the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi.

COPY W

The list of prints missing from the untraced copy W included pl. 18 ("The Divine Image"), though this is not mentioned in BB 366, as Viscomi, 416, points out.

COPY X

HISTORY: Pl. 9-10 from the Fitzwilliam and pl. 13-14, 16-19, 23-25, 27, 34-36, 53-54 (the rest) from the National Gallery of Victoria (Melbourne) are reproduced together in the 1996 February 2-April 7 catalogue of the Fundación "la Caixa" in Madrid, plates 17a-q.

COPY Y (Pl. 6-8, 11, 13-15)<sup>346</sup>

DESCRIPTION: Pl. 6-7, 13-14 were printed in light brown ink c. 1802, like Innocence (O), and partly coloured then; hand-colouring with shell gold and numbers was added c. 1811.

Pl. 8 was printed in grey-black c. 1802, like Innocence (O), and coloured and numbered c. 1811.

HISTORY: (2) Sold by "a gentleman" at Sotheby's, 12 March 1962, lot 151, for £1,000 to Fairbrother (i.e., the dealer

---

<sup>346</sup>Pl. 6-8, 11, 13-15 are reproduced and extensively described in Robert N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2012", Blake, XLVI, 4 (Spring 2013), from which much of the present account derives.

Nicholas Rauch of Geneva)<sup>347</sup> apparently for (3) Dr Walter Neuerburg, who acquired it in March 1962, blind-stamped each print at the lower right with the collection mark of his father Heinrich Neuerburg (d. 1956),<sup>348</sup> and “placed it on permanent deposit in 1978[according to Detlef Dörrbecker] in the WALLRAF-RICHARTZ-MUSEUM, Cologne” <BBS 120>; while it was in the Wallraf-Richartz-Museum, prints from it appeared in the Wallraf-Richartz-Museum exhibition of 27 January-28 March 1982; by 2007 copy Y was divided into eight prints with pl. 4-5, 9-10, 12, 16-18 (here called Y<sup>1-2</sup>), and seven prints with pl. 6-8, 11, 13-15 (here called Y<sup>3</sup>).

DESCRIPTION: Pl. 6-7, 13-14 were printed in light brown ink c. 1802, like Innocence (O), and partly coloured then; hand-colouring with shell gold and numbers was added c. 1811.

Pl. 8 was printed in grey-black c. 1802, like Innocence (O), and coloured and numbered c. 1811.

COPY Y<sup>1</sup>

HISTORY: (4) The Neuerburg family sold pl. 4-5, 9-10, 12, 16-18 at Sotheby's (N.Y.), 1 November 2007, lots 16-21, to Professor Robert N. Essick (pl. 4-5, 9-10, 18, Copy Y<sup>1</sup>) and Alan Parker(pl. 12, 16-17, Copy Y<sup>2</sup>).

---

<sup>347</sup> M. Rauch's sale records were not preserved after his death by his successor, André Cottet.

<sup>348</sup> Fritz Lugt, Les Marques de Collections de Dessins & d'Estampes Supplément (LaHaye: Martinus Nijhoff, 1956), 190 #1344a, cited by R.N. Essick, “Blake in the Marketplace, 2007”, Blake, XLI (2008), the source of much of the information here about copy Y.

COPY Y<sup>2</sup>

HISTORY: Pl. 6-8, 11, 13-15 were sold at Sotheby's (New York) on 26 April 2012, lot 42 (pl. 11, "The Blossom" [$74,500 to Adam Fuss]), lot 43 (pl. 8, "The Lamb" [$40,625 to Victoria University in the University of Toronto]), lot 44 (pl. 15, "Laughing Song" [$80,500 to an anonymous private collector]), lot 45 (pl. 6-7, "The Ecchoing Green" [$116,500 to the dealer James Cummins for Northwestern University]), lot 46-47 (pl. 13-14, "The Little Boy Lost" and "The Little Boy Found" [$59,375 and $68,500 to John Windle for Robert N. Essick]).<sup>349</sup>

COPY Y<sup>2</sup>

HISTORY: Lent anonymously by Alan Parker to the Petit Palais exhibition of 2 April-29 June 2009.

COPY Y<sup>3</sup>

HISTORY: (4)According to Essick, the Neuerburg family reclaimed Copy Y about 2004-2005 and sold pl. 4-5, 9-10, 12, 16-18 at Sotheby's on 1 November 2007 but in December 2007 the "owners", plural, "had no plans to sell the seven remaining plates".

COPY Y

Pl. 13, 16, 18-19, 23-24, 35 are reproduced online by the National Gallery of Victoria (Melbourne, Australia).

EDITIONS

§Songs of Innocence. (London: Robert Scott [c. 1900-1910])

---

<sup>349</sup> Pl. 6-8, 11, 13-15 are reproduced and extensively described in Essick's "Blake in the Marketplace, 2012", Blake (2013), from which much of the present account derives..

The Gem Booklets, ed. Oliphant Smeaton 5.6 x 8.5 cm, 22 pp.
“Introduction” (2 pp.)

Songs of Innocence. Decorated by Charles Robinson and Mary H. Robinson. (London and N.Y. [1912]) <BB> B. (Mineola, N.Y.: Dover Publications, 2011) vii, 66 pp.; ISBN: 9780486476049

Songs of Innocence. Decorated by Charles Robinson and Mary H. Robinson. [London and N.Y.: Dent, 1912] <BB> B. §(Mineola [N.Y.]: Dover Publications, 2011) 20 cm, vii, 66 pp.; ISBN: 9780486476049

Nine poems from Experience are included (not noted in BB).

Songs of Innocence [I] (1923) Frederick Hollyer facsimile
REVIEW

§Burlington Magazine, XLVI,267 (June 1925), 320-321

Songs of Innocence (1926), Benn reproduction <BB>
REVIEWS

§Anon., Observer, 5 December 1926

§George Sampson, Observer, 1927(?) (with 6 others)

Songs of Innocence, illustrated by Jacynth Parsons, preface by W.B. Yeats (1927) <BB>

REVIEW

§Anon., Observer, 4 December 1927

Songs of Innocence. (London and Glasgow: Collins' Clear Type Press [1928?]) 16 pp., 16 cm, unpaginated; the anonymous illustrations are pasted in.

§Announcing the Felpham Edition of Songs of Innocence by William Blake: An Intaglio Plate Book Designed & Printed in Colour at the Pear Tree Press and Now Offered for Subscription. (Flansham, Bognor Regis, Sussex: Pear Tree Press, 1937) 4 leaves

There seems to be no record of the publication of such an edition.

Songs of Innocence [Written out by Helen Hinkley and decorated by James Guthrie] (Flansham, Bognor Regis: Pear Tree Press, 1939) Guthrie's Felpham Edition <BB #63>

REVIEW

Edward Larocque Tinker, New York Times, 19 May 1940, p. 97 (charming) §Songs of Innocence. (Stoke Park, Guildford, Surrey: Guildford School of Art and Crafts, 1947) 22 pp.

According to the colophon it was “Produced under the direction of Thomas J. Cowley”.

Songs of Innocence (1954), The William Blake Trust <BB>

REVIEWS

§Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 31 December 1954, p. 850

§J. Bronowski, New Statesman and Nation, 14 May 1955, pp. 691-92

§L.W., Connoisseur, CXXXVIII (1956), 133-34

Songs of Innocence (1971) Dover facsimile <BB>

The work is boxed with Favorite Works of William Blake (1997).

§Cantos de Inocencia. Tr. Mirta Rosenberg. ([N.p.:] Adiax, 1980) 77 pp. B. (Buenos Aires: NEED, 1998) In Spanish

**Les chants de l'innocence*. Tr. Alain Suied. (Paris: Arfuen, 1992) Arfuen Textes anglais cahier n° 83. 8°, 80 pp.; ISBN: 2908824201 In French and English

English and French texts are on facing pages. "Révélation et Révolution" (pp. 71-74); biography of Blake (pp. 75-79).

See above for Chants d'expérience, tr. Alain Suied (1993).

REVIEW

§François Hàn, Europe, No. 772 (1994), 206-7.

§Songs of Innocence. Photographs by Joel-Peter Witkin, Poems by William Blake. (No place: Leo and Wolfe Photography, Inc., [2002], Platinum Series

"65 numbered copies and 5 lettered copies, 10 initialed, bound platinum prints" in a "Basilwood clamshell box 18 x 15" ... Currently $12,000", "Text by John Wood" [sic], according to The Journal of Contemporary Photography 21st online.

See also Experience (2002) and Songs (2004).

§Cantares de Inocencia. (Mexico [City]: Vico, 2005) Internet Resource In Spanish

An electronic book.

See also Cantares de Experiencia (2005).

**Songs of Innocence (Illuminated Manuscript [sic] with the Original Illustrations of William Blake)*. (e-artnow, 2013) ISBN: 9788074844027

Probably Songs of Innocence (B) -- see The Complete

Illustrated Books of William Blake.

Songs of Innocence (L), "never before reproduced", ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi, was added to the William Blake Archive.

§Songs of Innocence [with illustrations by Geraldine Morris (1902)]. (Charleston [South Carolina]: BiblioLife, 2014) 68 pp.; ISBN: 9781293456392

Songs of Innocence and of Experience*
(1794[-1831?])

ORDER OF THE PLATES IN *Songs of Innocence

Copy

i 1-11, 13-14, 16-25, 48, 26-27

ORDER OF THE PLATES IN *Songs of Experience

Copy

i 28, 33, 29, 34-36, 38-43, 46, 49, 52-54

TABLE

| Copy        | Plates missing        | Num-   | Leaf        | Size in Cm                | Watermark | Blake Printing |
|-------------|-----------------------|--------|-------------|---------------------------|-----------|----------------|
|             | or added              | ber of |             |                           |           | Num- Colour    |
|             | leaves                |        |             |                           |           | bers           |
| CC          | -1, 3952??3-28, 30-53 | ?      |             |                           |           |                |
| Un-traced   |                       |        |             |                           |           |                |
| i           | -15, 30-32, 44        |        | 19.8 x 24.1 | WHATMAN   1831            | --        | Grey           |
| VICTORIA    | 38, 44-45,            |        |             | 1831 (pl. 39)             |           |                |
| UNIVERSITY  | 51                    |        |             | J WH   18 (pl. 6, 13, 28) |           |                |
| IN THE UNI- |                       |        |             | J WH   1 (pl. 19 29)      |           |                |
| VERSITY OF  |                       |        |             | J WH (pl. 14)             |           |                |
| TORONTO     |                       |        |             | J W (pl. 11, 20)          |           |                |
| HATMAN      | 1831 (pl. 16-17)      |        |             |                           |           |                |
| ATMAN       | 1831 (pl. 8, 10,      |        |             |                           |           |                |
|             |                       |        |             | 22, 27, 33)               |           |                |
| TMAN        | 831 (pl. 42)          |        |             |                           |           |                |

O23-24, 30, 5 7.5 x 2.8 (23)<sup>350</sup>--<sup>351</sup>-- colourprinted (23)<sup>352</sup>
 VICTORIA38, 53 9.7 x 14.0 (24) -- -- dark grey (24)
 UNIVERSITY38, 53 11.0 x 17.9(30)---- grey (30) in the Univer-18.3 x 28.5 (38) -- -- reddish brown city of Toronto 18.4 x 27.8 (53)<sup>353</sup>-- --(38, 53)
 o 28,<sup>354</sup> 52 2 18.8 x 24.1(28) J WHA[T-- black (28)
 PHILADELPHIA 11.3 x 14.8 (52)MAN] 18[ ] brownish-red (52)
 MUSEUM OF (pl. 28)
 ART J W[HAT-
 MAN] (pl. 52)
 q -1-2, 28- 25 -- unknown<sup>355</sup>
 54
Untraced 22, 28, 30, 9 -- small 4to.
 40, 44-46, 48 (2)

PLATES 25("Infant Joy"), 39 ("The Sick Rose"), b ("A Divine Image")

According to Joseph Viscomi, Huntington Library Quarterly, LVIII (1996), 301 n28, "A close examination of the shapes of the plates" reveals that "Infant Joy" (6.8 x 11.1

<sup>350</sup> The paper was trimmed to exhibit the design only, giving it a very irregular shape with vines hanging loose at the top corners. No other Blake print is known to have been so trimmed.

<sup>351</sup> The paper is stiff, rather like WHATMAN paper.

<sup>352</sup> Pl. 5, 22-23 (designs only) are the only plates from Innocence known to have been colour-printed.

<sup>353</sup> N.B. The sizes in centimetres measured by GEB (like those in the table above) are discrepantly reported as

| Plate | BBS  | Essick, "Marketplace 2006" |
|-------|-------------|----------------------------|
| 24    | 7.8 x 11.6  | 9.9 x 13.8                 |
| 38    | 18.7 x 28.1 | 18.7 x 27.9                |
| 53    | 7.2 x 11.2  | 18.4 x 28.0                |

<sup>354</sup> Pl. 28, like 5 other copies, has the plate-maker's-mark of "JONES No. 4[?]| SHOE LANE LONDON".

<sup>355</sup> It was described as "high 4to." in the Quaritch catalogues of 1871 and 1873.

cm) has on its verso "A Divine Image" (7.0 x 11.2 cm) rather than "The Sick Rose" (6.8 x 11.1 cm) as in BB 382.

ORDER OF THE PLATES in Songs of Experience

CC The last plate is pl. 39; no other copy ends with pl. 39

NEWLY RECORDED VARIANT

PLATE 30 (Songs of Innocence and of Experience title page)

State 2: In posthumous copies h (2 examples) and p, a tool has cut into the relief surfaces, most notably on the heads of the two figures at the bottom and on the woman's left upper arm.<sup>356</sup>

NEWLY RECORDED VARIANT

PLATE 48 ("Infant Sorrow")

Quaritch, Rough List, No. 73 (November 1885), lot 53, records untraced copies of pl. 48 in "two states".

The only variant recorded in Blake Books, p. 402, is in the colouring: "The woman's cap has been suppressed in J, R, W-X".

PRINTING

According to Viscomi, 416,

"The Lamb" of Innocence copy N ... features the same inking patterns (words darker and lighter) as "The Lamb" of Songs copy O. "The Tyger" of Songs copies L and N has the same ink splatters under the tiger's neck and the word "fearful," and the e of "fearful" is touched up in both. In Songs L, N, and S, the letters O and W of "On" and "What" of lines 3 and 4 of the second stanza did not print and had to be touched up; in copy N, they were touched up in the same black ink used to number the copy.

---

<sup>356</sup> As Bob Essick reported to me in an e-mail of 2 March 2013.

Copies were apparently printed in 1795 (A, R; I, L, O/K, M, W/N, BB<sup>357</sup>), 1818 (T<sup>2</sup>, U), 1821 (V), 1825 (W, Y), 1826 (Z-AA), 1827 (X), and posthumously (a-o plus separate pulls including Tate and Theodore B. Donson Ltd; the colouring of K and M is also posthumous) (Viscomi, 376-81).

According to Viscomi, 269-74, "The Sick Rose", "The Garden of Love", "The Little Vagabond", and "Infant Sorrow" (pl. 39, 44-45, 48) were etched on four plates cut from "the full 22.2 x 13.7 cm sheet" of copper. The fact that these four poems are not included in Songs (F-H, T<sup>1</sup>) signifies that these specific plates had not yet been prepared, that the sheet had not yet been cut, which in turn indicates that copies F-H and T1 were printed before copies B-E, which include these plates.

Therefore copies F-H, T<sup>1</sup> "were the first copies of Experience printed".

Experience (B-E) were color-printed from the surface only (unlike F-H, T<sup>1</sup> which are color-printed from both surface and shallows) because they had to match back-to-back Innocence prints, and shallow-printed designs can only be printed on one side of the leaf.

PLATE a

---

<sup>357</sup> Copies A and R were produced in a different print-run from the rest. Copies O/K and W/N are sets which were later separated.

Plate a "may originally have been executed for There is No Natural Religion, series b, but rejected", according to R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 1995", Blake, XXIX (1996).

COLOURING

Viscomi, 416, says that the stream at the bottom of "The Lamb" [pl. 8] and "The Little Black Boy" (plate 2) [pl. 10] is painted as green ground (in the same green color) in both Songs copy L and Innocence copy N, which strongly indicates that the one was painted with reference to the other, and thus at the same time. Songs copy L was acquired by 1799 (BB 417), which means that both copies were colored between 1795 and 1799.

FRAMING LINES

"Copies W and Y were printed in the same orangish brown ink and were given the same kind of elaborate scroll and foliage borders"; "The changes in frame styles suggest this order: W and Y; Z and AA; X" (Viscomi, 365, 366).

Though they are possibly the work of Mrs. Blake, the frames [in W and Y] were not added after Blake's death, since the numbers are Blake's and they were written after the frames were drawn, as their placement out of the way of the scrolls and flourishes makes evident. Blake intended the designs to be framed more elaborately than ever before, and he may have drawn a few of the frames himself [as he did for Job] [Viscomi, 366].

COPY A

HISTORY: BB does not note that between 1882 (when copy A was described as having 50 prints) and 1924 (when it was given to the British Museum Print Room with 54 prints), it was supplied with "a hand drawn copy" of pl. 2 and uncolored lithographs [of pl. 50-52, b] printed in light black or reddish brown ink on unmarked paper. The leaves are the size of the authentic impressions, which indicates that the four facsimiles were specially produced to complete the copy [Viscomi, 412].

Reproduced in the William Blake Archiveed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi in 2007.

COPY B

Reproduced in the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi, in 2007, the first time in colour.

COPY C

Reproduced in the CD-ROM (2003) and online in the Library of Congress and in the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi.

COPY D

HISTORY: (6) A.E. Newton lent it to the Philadelphia Museum of Art exhibition (1926) ....

COPY E

Copy E, which was made from impressions printed and colored at different times, "was made visually coherent by being recolored in a consistent palette" (Viscomi, 145).

BINDING: By 1999 the leaves were individually mounted and matted, and the former binding by Bedford was carefully preserved separately.

HISTORY: (3) A note about it appears in §Augustine Birrell, Frederick Locker-Lampson: A Character Sketch with ... Notes on a Few of the Books Formerly in the Rowfant Library (N.Y.: Charles Scribner's Sons, 1920) ...

It is reproduced in the Huntington publication edited by R.N. Essick (2008 and online in the William Blake Archive ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi and in Huntington Digital Images.

COPY F

"The Experience plates are printed on one side of the leaf only" (BB 373 n27), not "on both sides of the leaf" (BB 383 n3), as Viscomi, 412, points out.

HISTORY: (1) Cumberland may have acquired Songs (F) in August 1800. On 2 July 1800, Blake wrote to Cumberland about the "deep pit of Melancholy" from which "I begin to Emerge". Cumberland may have tried to lift Blake from his depression by offering to sell Blake's books and by buying Songs (F), which was "prepared by him [Blake] expressly for an intimate friend [Cumberland]",<sup>358</sup> and with which Blake's thankful letter of 1 September 1800 was apparently kept. Cumberland may even have acquired at the same time the copies of America (F), Europe (C), Song of Los (D), Visions

---

<sup>358</sup> Kerslake's Catalogue (after Dec 1857), lot 733. However, Songs (F) is fairly clearly a made-up copy, for the Innocence leaves are printed (early?) on both sides of the leaves and water-coloured in a late style, while those in Experience are colour-printed on only one side of the leaf.

(B) (these four works bound together), Thel (A), and For Children (C) which he also owned.<sup>359</sup> In August Cumberland apparently told Blake of his ill-success in trying to sell Blake's works, and on 1 September Blake replied: "To have obtained your friendship is better than to have sold ten thousand books". ... (4) The Scribner Book Store Catalogue 135 (1947), listed it as lot 37, "sold".

It is reproduced online in the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi and in the Yale Center for British Art.

COPY G

BINDING: (1) Described in Quaritch's catalogue of Books in All Classes of Literature (1860, lot 5400, as bound with Songs (N) and "coloured by the Author, 2 vols. in 1, 4to 40 most remarkable engravings, half red morocco, uncut ... Bound up with the volume is a scarce work, 'The World turned upside down,' in 28 plates, from the designs of G. Salviati, engraved by F.C. Lewis, 1822", "inlaid on folio size cardboards, with guards, half morocco, g.e." when sold at Sotheby's (19 January 1885), lot 309.

HISTORY: (1) Copies G and N were listed in A Catalogue of Books in All Classes of Literature ... Offered for Sale by Bernard Quaritch (London, 1860), 320, lot 5400, "2 vols. in 1, 4to, 40 most remarkable engravings, half red morocco, uncut, £8.10s" bound up with The World Turned Upside

---

<sup>359</sup> Cumberland owned no work of Blake in Illuminated Printing written after 1800, though he did acquire Descriptive Catalogue (U) in 1809 and Job in 1828.

Down (1822); (2) after the leaves of Copy N were separated, copy G was offered by Quaritch in A New Catalogue of English Books ... October 1875, lot 9,426* (small octavo, "15 plates of 17 poems ... printed in colours on thick paper, on one side only, hf. calf", with a list of the poems, £25); (3) Sold by Sotheby's with the Library of the Late Alfred Aspland at Sotheby's (19 January 1885), lot 309, for £7.10.0 to Suarez.

Pl. 37-38, 42, 47, 50-51 were lent by the Keynes Family Trust to the Tate Exhibition (9 November 2000-11 February 2001) as No. 152, 118b, 163, 198, 150, 147.

COPY H

HISTORY: (8) From Justin Schiller it passed in August 1994 (according to R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 1995", Blake, XXIX [1996]) to (9) Maurice Sendak.

COPY I

BINDING: Described in Quaritch Catalogue No. 217 (July 1902), lot 130, as "'coloured by the author, comprising 54 leaves printed on one side of the paper only; bd. ... A flyleaf bears the signature of H.W. Phillips, the painter".

HISTORY: (1) Probably acquired by Thomas Phillips<sup>360</sup> when he painted Blake's portrait in April 1807<sup>361</sup> and inherited by his son (2) H.W. Phillips ... (4) Offered in Quaritch Catalogue No. 217 (July 1902), lot 130, for £315.0.0.

Reproduced in Stanley Gardner, The Tyger, the Lamb, and the Terrible Desart (1998) and online by Harvard Libraries.

COPY L

---

<sup>360</sup>Viscomi, 307

<sup>361</sup>BR (2) 232.

It is reproduced online in the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi and in the Yale Center for British Art.

COPY N

HISTORY: (1) Offered in Quaritch catalogue (1860).

BINDING: (4) It was disbound by the winter of 1993-94, according to Anon., "Blake at the Huntington, Fall 1994", Blake, XXVII (1993-94), 98.

**Songs of Innocence and of Experience* [N]. William Blake Archive. Ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi (2012)

COPY P

BINDING: Pl. 34-36 are numbered in the style of the Innocence plates though bound with Experience, as Joseph Viscomi points out in The Wormsley Library (below).

HISTORY: (7) ... Lent to the exhibition at the Pierpont Morgan Library 27 January-2 May 1999 and described in **The Wormsley Library: A Personal Selection by Sir Paul Getty, K.B.E. Catalogue by H. George Fletcher, Robert J. D. Harding, Bryan D. Maggs, William M. Voelkle, & Roger S. Wieck*, ed. H. George Fletcher (London: Published for the Wormsley Library by Maggs Bros. Ltd; N.Y.: The Pierpont Morgan Library, 1999), No. 69; Sir Paul Getty lent it to the exhibition at Grasmere where it was described in Robert Woof, Stephen Hebron, with Pamela Woof, English Poetry 850-1850: The First Thousand Years with some Romantic Perspectives ([Grasmere:] The Wordsworth Trust, 2000); on the death of Sir Paul Getty on 17 April 2003, the Wormsley Estate and Library passed to (8) The WORMSLEY FOUNDATION, perhaps permanently. It was lent by the Wormsley Library to the Petit Palais exhibition of 2 April-29 June 2009.

COPY Q

HISTORY: (8) When Gertrude Weyhe Dennis died suddenly in May 2003, Songs (Q) passed to (9) An Anonymous collection.

COPY R

It is reproduced online in the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi.

COPY T

The first copy of Muir's facsimile of Songs of Experience was coloured after Copy T in the British Museum Print Room and sent in October 1884 to The Times (according to Muir's letter of 28 November 1885 to the editor of The Times in the collection of R.N. Essick), but the other copies were coloured after Copy U <BB 422>.

It is reproduced online in the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi.

COPY T<sup>1</sup>

The tiny "pin-holes" in the upper margins of pl. 28-30, 46 (title page, "Introduction", "Earth's Answer", and "London") reported by Michael Phillips, William Blake: The Creation of the SONGS From Manuscript to Illuminated Printing (2000), 98, do not exist; there is no "pin-hole" in the prints in Songs (T<sup>1</sup>).

There is, however, in the top left corner of the plate-mark in three of these prints a very small ink-mark, and a similar ink-mark appears just outside the plate-mark in the fourth. I cannot determine whether these marks are accidental or purposeful. At any rate, they could scarcely have been used for registering the paper to the copperplates. These ink-marks (rather than "pin-holes") are reported by Robert N. Essick and Joseph Viscomi, in "Inquiry into Blake's Method of Color Printing", www.iblio.org/jsviscom [2001]. I am grateful to Mr Morrow (Senior Conservator of Prints, Drawings, and Photographs at the National Gallery of Canada) for his generosity in showing me these prints and for discussing them with me.

On the title page, the white-lead pigment on hands and faces had turned black (to black lead sulphide); at the National Gallery of Canada, "With the application of hydrogen peroxide it was converted to lead sulphate, a white compound".<sup>362</sup>

COPY T<sup>2</sup>

HISTORY: (2a1) It was sold at Sotheby's on 20 January 1852, lot 45, for £4.14s. to Evans, evidently then incomplete;<sup>363</sup> ....

COPY U

BINDING: Described in Quaritch Catalogue No. 62 (June

---

<sup>362</sup> Michael Phillips, William Blake: The Creation of the SONGS, From Manuscript to Illuminated Printing (2000), p. 106 and pl. 52-54 (before and after photos).

<sup>363</sup> The catalogue specifies "Fifty-four" designs (presumably because the last print is numbered "54"), but the British Library copy of the catalogue is emended to "Fifty-two", and Anon., "Notes of the Month", Gentleman's Magazine, NS XXXVII (Feb 1852), 165 <BB>, says it was "wanting three plates out of fifty-four".

1893) and Miscellaneous Catalogue (November 1893), as "coloured, and gilt by the Author, green morocco super extra, gilt edges, by C. Lewis, extremely rare, from the Beckford Library, Hamilton Palace ... Pages 1-54, title included".

HISTORY: (5) Offered for £170 in Catalogue of Works on the Fine Arts ... On Sale by Bernard Quaritch (October 1883), lot 10,250, and in Quaritch Catalogue No. 62 (June 1893), and Miscellaneous Catalogue (November 1893).

COPY V

HISTORY: (3) Perhaps this is the copy "coloured by the Author", 2 octavo volumes half-bound in morocco, gilt edges, offered in John Bohn's Catalogue (1843), lot 1,123, for £5.5.0; ...

It was reproduced for the first time in the William Blake Archive in 2006.

COPY W

Reproduced from the Blake Trust reproduction (1991) in Eskylde og som viser menneskes: elens to motstridende tistander, tr. Geir Uthaug (1997), in colour in The Complete Illuminated Books, ed. David Bindman (2000), in a smaller size in the Tate edition (2006-7), and in the Russian facsimile (2010).

COPY X

HISTORY: (1) Wainewright's copy<sup>364</sup> was sold by Wheatley, 2 May 1835, lot 833 [for £2.6.0 to W]<sup>365</sup> apparently to (2) The bookseller James Weale, for whom it was sold in 1840.

---

<sup>364</sup> The owner listed on the printed title page is Joseph Earle, but the manuscript list of owners gives "Wright M<sup>rs</sup>", and beside lot 833 in Wheatley's master copy is "W-ght", i.e., Wainewright.

COPY Y

It was reproduced online in the William Blake Archive ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi in 2006 and in the Metropolitan Museum (N.Y.).

COPY Z

The copy of the Songs which Blake showed to Crabb Robinson on 10 December 1825 (BR (2) 435, 786) was probably Blake's own copy (W), rather than copy Z, which Crabb Robinson paid for on 15 April 1826) (Viscomi, 365).

HISTORY: (4) Sold posthumously for Charles Fairfax Murray at Sotheby's, 7 July 1919, lot 8, for £600 to Sabin, "who sold it to [5] Mr. Gabriel Wells of New York ... [who] sold it to [6] Colonel H.D. Hughes of Armore, Pennsylvania, from whom [7] Mr. Wells afterwards repurchased it and subsequently placed in the hands of Miss Frances M. Allen, now [1927] of the Fenway Hall, but then of The Korner and Wood Company, from whom [8] I [Willis D. Vickery] received it".<sup>366</sup>

Reproduced in the CD-ROM (2003) and in colour online in the Library of Congress.

<sup>365</sup> According to Wheatley's file copy of the catalogue: British Library: S.C. Wheatley.26 (4). See Marc Vaulbert de Chantilly, "Property of a Distinguished Poisoner: Thomas Griffiths Wainewright and the Griffiths family library," pp. 111-42 of Under the Hammer: Book Auctions Since the Seventeenth Century, ed. Robin Myers, Michael Harris, and Giles Mandelbrote (New Castle [Delaware]: Oak Knoll Press; London: The British Library, 2001).

<sup>366</sup> Willis Vickery, Three Excessively Rare and Scarce Books and Something of Their Author (Cleveland: Printed for the Author, 1927), 28; none of the information in bold face above is in BB. Hughes also owned America (C), Ghost of Abel (C), Poetical Sketches (E), No Natural Religion (F), Blake's letter of May 1809, and a coloured set of Job prints.

COPY AA

The copy of the Songs which Blake showed to Mrs Charles Aders on 10 December 1825 (BR (2) 431-32) was probably Blake's own copy (W), rather than copy AA, which Mrs Aders paid for on 29 July 1826) (Viscomi, 365).

It is reproduced online in the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi.

COPY BB

BINDING: According to Viscomi, 416,

In the right margin of plate 3 is the date "1789," written in the same ink and by the same hand [i.e., Balmanno's]. Under "89" is "37" written in another hand and ink, which, as suggested by its former owner Justin Schiller, may refer to thirty-seven years, thereby dating the binding 1826.

NEWLY DISCOVERED COPY

COPY CC

BINDING: Described in Quaritch Rough List, No. 73 (November 1885), lot 52, as bound in "12mo. calf gilt": "COLLATION; Songs of Innocence, 1789: Plate 1 (frontispiece [pl. 2]), plate 2 (title [pl. 3]), plates numbered<sup>367</sup> 3-28 (no 29) and plate 30--Songs of Experience, 1794, the plates numbered on 31-53.

"On comparing this copy<sup>368</sup> with that from Hamilton Palace [U] (priced £170), it appears to want the general title [pl. 1] and the plate 'The Sick Rose. [pl. 39]'<sup>369</sup> Plain copies are scarcer than those issued in a coloured state."

---

<sup>367</sup> The fact that the plates are numbered indicates that this is not a posthumous copy.

<sup>368</sup> "this copy" has 52 plates, lacking pl. 1, 39.

"12mo calf gilt", 50 "plates numbered" 3-28, 30-53, lacking pl. 1, 28, 39, and another, not coloured.

HISTORY: (1) Offered in Quaritch Rough List, No 73 (November 1885), lot 52, for £31.10.0; (2) Untraced.

COPY b

Reproduced in Stanley Gardner, The Tyger, the Lamb, and the Terrible Desart (1998).

COPY e

The plates were all posthumously printed and coloured (pl. 30-33, 37, 41, 44-47, 50-52 were not "coloured by Blake" as in BB 417, 427), but not all were colored similarly. Indeed, at least two colorists were involved. The two sets are similar only in that both are richly colored and use gold, but the colors in the thirteen impressions are deeper, more opaque, and were applied with a drier brush.

---

<sup>369</sup> "The Sick Rose", which is missing, must have been numbered "54". No extant copy of the Songs has pl. 39 as the last leaf.

“The Lamb” of Songs copy e ... imitates “The Lamb” of Songs copy Y .... The colorist of copy e, in other words, used Songs copy Y as the model, copying the palette, technique, placement and shape of colors, as exactly as the colorist of Innocence copy T copied Innocence copy B and the colorist of America copy Q copied America copy A. [Viscomi, 299]

COPY g<sup>1</sup>

HISTORY: (2) A.E. Newton lent it to the Philadelphia Museum of Art exhibition (1926) ("another volume ... [with] some impressions from plates engraved for these books [?Songs] – uncolored") ...

COPY i

BINDING: Loose, never sewn, printed on one side only. The uncut prints regularly show the irrelevant borders. The last verso (pl. 54) is somewhat browned.

The prints are uncoloured except for pl. 25 ("Spring" second print) where the text is watercoloured faintly pink, yellow and grey, the vines green, the orange-haired child is strongly pink, his sky blue, his ground green. <Cp. the colour-printed copy of the design only in VICTORIA UNIVERSITY IN THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO in which the child's hair is brown and the sky pale blue.>

The copperplate-maker's mark ("LONDON") is clearly visible at the top left of pl. 28 (the frontispiece to Experience). This is not visible in copies printed by the Blakes.

HISTORY: It was sold for a descendant of Henry Cunliffe (1826-94) on 18 June 2014 at Bonhams (London), lot 73 [to VICTORIA UNIVERSITY IN THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO].

COPY j

HISTORY: (4) A.E. Newton lent it to the Philadelphia Museum of Art exhibition (1926) ...

COPY o

Pl. 24, 38, 53

HISTORY: (5Diii) They were offered in §Antique & Book Collector (July 1995), No. 25-27 at £2,250 each; Pl. 24, 38, 53 were sold by N.W. Lott of Larkhall Fine Art in 2006 to (5Div) John Windle, who offered them in his Catalogue Forty-Two: Blake Plates (2006), lots 77-79 (each Price on Request), from which they were bought by (5Dv) VICTORIA UNIVERSITY IN THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO.

NEWLY RECORDED PRINTS

COPY o pl. 28 (frontispiece to Experience), and pl. 52 ("To Tirzah")

HISTORY: (5Bi) Pl. 28 and 52, with notes about the Charles Eliot Norton collection, were acquired by Carl Zigrosser<sup>370</sup> and given by him in 1975 to (5Bii) The PHILADELPHIA MUSEUM OF ART.<sup>371</sup>

The traced prints of Songs (o) in 2011 are pl. 13, 20-21, 24, 28, 36, 38-39, 46, 49, 52-53.

COPY o pl. 30

BINDING: Rebound by 1857 in 3/4 calf over cloth boards, the spine elaborately gilt with "SONGS | OF | INNOCENCE |

---

<sup>370</sup>Carl Zigrosser was Director of the Weyhe Gallery until 1940 when he became curator of prints at the Philadelphia Museum of Art. Several of the prints in Songs (o) came from Weyhe.

<sup>371</sup>They were not in the catalogue when I enquired in 1962, 1977, and 1980. The Philadelphia Museum identification codes for Songs pl. 28, 52 are 1975-226-19 [and 18]. Their rediscovery was made by Joseph Viscomi, who told me of them. Most of my information about them comes from the generosity of Shelley Langdale of the Philadelphia Museum.

ETC.”, with red marbled paste-downs and endpapers, all edges marbled, with pl. 30 tipped in as the frontispiece in the Pickering edition of Songs of Innocence and of Experience (1839);<sup>372</sup> the preface (p. xxi) is signed by the editor “J.J.G. Wilkinson” “Finchley Road & | 76 Wimpole St.” (DNB says he lived at 4 Finchley Road from about 1848). F. 1<sup>v</sup> is inscribed in pencil:

Poet, Artist & Musician

Roger Langois died 10th Decr 1859 exactly 100 y<sup>rs</sup> old to an hour; leaving his wife Kate, a son 75, and a Grandson 50. He was a pupil of Flaxman’s— He left 49 Portraits of his wife

“Times 15 Dec 1859”

HISTORY: (1) Acquired “From a Print shop in West Street,
| given me by my Bro<sup>r</sup> in Law | M.<sup>r</sup> W.M.H. | 1857, | A.H.”
(according to the pencil inscription on the verso of pl. 30); (2)
Acquired by “Adelaide A.L. Hewetson.”<sup>373</sup> | From her husband, with affection. | 15th Nov. 1861” (according to the ink inscription on f. 2<sup>r</sup>); (3) Sold at Bloomsbury Auctions (London), 25 November 2005, lot 746 (ESTIMATE: £200-£300) for £2,618 to (4) John Windle in partnership with Maggs Brothers; sold by John Windle in February 2006 to (5) Roger Lipman,<sup>374</sup> (6) Listed in John Windle Catalogue 46
(November 2009), lot 5 (sold), and sold in January 2010 to (7)

---

<sup>372</sup> It is inscribed in pencil “See P. 37”, where the poem is printed.

<sup>373</sup> Her husband John Hewetson (d. 1876) may be related to H. Bendelack Hewetson who published The Influence of Joy upon the Workman and his Work: Illustrated by Autotype Facsimiles of Drawings by William Blake [and others] (1880).

<sup>374</sup> The History for 2005-2006 derives from R.N. Essick, “Blake in the Marketplace, 2005”, Blake, XXXIX (2006), 150.

the Library of VICTORIA UNIVERSITY IN THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO.

COPY o pl. 39

HISTORY: (5a) Dr A.E.K.L.B. Bentley and G.E. Bentley, Jr <BB #139; BBS 129> gave it with the rest of their collections in October 2005 to (6) VICTORIA UNIVERSITY IN THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO.

The locations of the scattered prints of copy o are

- |        |   |
|--------|---|
| pl. 13 | BROWN   |
| pl. 18 | Untraced   |
| pl. 20 | BROWN   |
| pl. 21 | BROWN   |
| pl. 24 | VICTORIA UNIVERSITY in the University of Toronto(acquired from Windle 2006 catalogue) |
| pl. 31 | Untraced   |
| pl. 36 | DARTMOUTH   |
| pl. 38 | VICTORIA UNIVERSITY IN THE UNIVERSITY OFTORONTO                                       |
| pl. 39 | VICTORIA UNIVERSITY IN THE UNIVERSITY OFTORONTO (Bentley Collection)                  |
| pl. 46 | WESLEYAN UNIVERSITY   |
| pl. 49 | WESLEYAN UNIVERSITY   |
| pl. 53 | VICTORIA UNIVERSITY IN THE UNIVERSITY OFTORONTO (acquired from Windle 2006 catalogue) |
| 3 pl.  | Unidentified and Untraced   |
- COPY p<sup>375</sup>

BINDING: Bound in "late-19th-century English green roan, sides panelled with triple gilt fillets and blind roll-tooled border, spine gilt in compartments with fleurons and lettering, gilt edges, marbled endpapers, laid-paper flyleaves", "printed in grey-black ink", "brief autograph description of the book laid in". The otherwise unique selection of prints "corresponds precisely with copy d (printed in sepia ...)".

---

<sup>375</sup> All the details of the binding and sale of copy p derive from the Christie (N.Y.) sale catalogue of 9 April 2013, lot 64, superseding BBS, pp. 113, 130.

Songs pl. 1 (the title page)

is in a previously unrecorded 2nd st. ... work with a tool has cut away some of the relief surfaces of the upper figure's left upper arm, above his head (thereby eliminating part of his left hand), and along the lower edge of his left leg and foot. Similar work appears on the lower figure's left upper arm, above and to the left of her head, and on her left upper leg and foot. A relief patch in the upper outline of her back, just below the man's right knee, has been almost completely cut away. ... I have found this 2nd st. only in other posthumous copies (e.g., copies b and h); it does not appear in late copies printed by Blake, such as Z and AA of 1826. The 2nd st. alterations may have been made by Blake's wife Catherine or Frederick Tatham after Blake's death.<sup>376</sup> after the death of Arthur Vershbow in 2012, it was sold at Christie's (N.Y.) on 9 April 2013, lot 64 (ESTIMATE: $100,000-$150,000) [for $123,750 with buyer's premium] to (5) an anonymous buyer.

HISTORY: (1) Sold by the Pasadena bookseller Alice Parsons Millard (1873-1938) [Mrs George Madison Millard] to (2) Caroline Boeing Poole (1884-1932) [Mrs John Hudson Poole (née Boeing)]; acquired in 1977 by (3) Bernard M. Rosenthal (b. 1920), who sold it in 1979 to (4) the Vershbows;

---

<sup>376</sup> R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2013", Blake, XLVII, 3 (Winter 2013-2014).

NEW COPY

COPY q

BINDING: Described in Quaritch Catalogues No. 270 (March 1871), lot 35, as "high 4to. a Series of 20 Poems, engraved on copper, and surrounded with eccentric designs, hf. bd. £2.16s, s.a. (?1830)", and No. 289 (April 1873), lot 14716, "high 4to. a Series of 20 plates of very quaint execution, hf. bd. £2.2s.s.a. (? 1830)". It probably consisted of pl. 3-27 on 25 leaves.

HISTORY: (1) Offered in Quaritch catalogue No. 270 (March 1871), lot 35, £2.16.0, and No. 289 (April 1873), lot 14716, at £2.2.0; (2) Untraced.

PLATES 1, 3, 22, 42, 49 (2)

The plates are reproduced in the Tate Britain online catalogue in 2013.

NEWLY RECORDED

PLATES 22, 28, 30, 40, 44-46, 48 ("two states")

BINDING: Described in Quaritch Rough List, No. 73 (November 1885), lot 53 as "PROOFS before the numbers, printed in tints, small 4to. vouched by Fred. Tatham (?1820)"

HISTORY: (1) Offered in Quaritch Rough List No. 73 (November 1885), lot 53, for £5.0.0; (2) Untraced.

PLATES 5 ("The Shepherd"), 20-21 ("Night" [2 plates]), 22-23 ("Spring" [2 plates]).<sup>377</sup>

---

<sup>377</sup>Professor Essick tells me in 2006 that Andrew Edmunds sent him a sketch of lot 207 in the Sotheby (Belgravia) sale of 5 April 1977, which made it

BINDING: Pl. 23 was carefully trimmed to the outer margins of the inner vines above and to left and right of the babe and sheep at bottom and below the ground, removing the text and leaving a very irregular shape with dangling vines. I think that Blake himself trimmed it. Perhaps the complete leaf was somehow defective or its mate pl. 22 (Yale Center for British Art) was spoiled, and this was the way Blake salvaged it.

N.B. In Innocence, only pl. 5 (Yale Center), pl. 22 (Yale Center), and pl. 23 (Victoria University) were colour-printed, though prints in Experience (Songs B, G-H, T) were colour-printed about 1795.

The printed paper is pasted to a larger leaf of heavy modern green paper which in turn is on a mount with a window. The printed paper can be very carefully lifted with a spatula just far enough to determine that there is no printing or writing and probably no offset on the verso but not enough to determine the watermark, should there be one.

HISTORY: (2Ci) Pl. 23 was sold by “a Lady” at Sotheby’s (Belgravia) on 5 April 1977, lot 207, for £280 to a dealer <BBS> for (2Cii) The American Blake Foundation library; Roger Easson, one of the Foundation’s founders, placed it on consignment with John Windle in September 2006, who offered it in his Catalogue Forty-Two: Blake Plates (2006), lot 76 (reproduced twice, once in colour, Price On Enquiry); Acquired through John Windle in October 2008 by (2Ciii) The Library of VICTORIA UNIVERSITY IN THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO.

PLATES 6-7 (Harvard)

---

clear that the fragmentary design was for the second plate of “Spring” (pl. 23), not the first (pl. 22) as in the catalogue and thence in BBS 130.

HISTORY: (1) Perhaps this is the copy of “the first page of ‘The Songs of Innocence’ (the Echoing Green)” lent anonymously to the 1860 exhibition at the Victoria & Albert Museum.<sup>378</sup>

PLATES 22, 28, 30, 40, 44-46, 48<sup>a-b</sup>

HISTORY: (4) Dr A.E.K.L.B. Bentley & G.E. Bentley, Jr <BB, BBS> gave them with the rest of their collections in October 2005 to (5) VICTORIA UNIVERSITY IN THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO.

PLATE 30

BINDING: Bound by 1857 as the frontispiece in the Pickering edition of Songs of Innocence and of Experience (1839); the preface is signed in pencil by the editor “J.J.G. Wilkinson”.

HISTORY: (1) Acquired “From a print shop in West Street, | given me by my Bro’ in Law | M.<sup>r</sup> W.M.H. | 1857, | A.H.” (according to the pencil inscription on the verso); (2) Acquired by “Adelaide A.L. Hewetson.<sup>379</sup> | From her husband, with affection. | 15th Nov. 1861” (according to the ink inscription at the end of the “Preface”); (3) Sold at Bloomsbury Book Auctions (London) 25 November 2005, lot 746 (ESTIMATE: £200-£300) for £2,618 to (4) John Windle in partnership with

---

<sup>378</sup>Anon., “Water-Colour Drawings at South Kensington”, Critic, XXII (1860), 467.

<sup>379</sup> Her address may be “Finchley Road & | 76 Wimpole St.” inscribed in pencil, perhaps in her hand, on the verso of the front free endpaper. Her husband John Hewetson (d. 1876) may be related to H. Bendelack Hewetson who published The Influence of Joy upon the Workman and his Work: Illustrated by Autotype Facsimiles of Drawings by William Blake [and others] (1880).

Maggs Brothers;<sup>380</sup> sold by John Windle in February 2006 to (5) Roger Lipman.<sup>381</sup>

PLATE 32("The Clod and the Pebble")

HISTORY: (1) A posthumous impression (perhaps from copy o) was sold at Sotheby's, 15 July 1982, lot 174 (a posthumous print [perhaps one of the disjecta membra of copy o]), for £275; (2) Untraced.

PLATES 42, 47

HISTORY: Lent by "The Keynes Family Trust on deposit at the Fitzwilliam Museum" to the 1996 February 2-April 7 exhibition of the Fundación "la Caixa" in Madrid, No. 27a-b.

PLATE a (tailpiece)

DESCRIPTION: Joseph Viscomi and R.N. Essick conclude from the ink colour (terra cotta red, used by Tatham in posthumous pulls but not by the Blakes), the flatness and evenness of the inking, the heavy printing pressure, and the slightly larger size (compared with undoubted life-time impressions) that this is a posthumous pull, according to R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 1999", Blake, XXXIII (2000).

---

<sup>380</sup> All this information derives from R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2005", Blake, XXXIX (2006), 150.

<sup>381</sup> According to Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2006", Blake (2007).

HISTORY: (3) Offered for £23 in James Tregaskis Caxton Head Catalogue 796 (15 October 1917), lot 3, (reduced in MS in the Essick copy to £11), Catalogue 810 (20 January 1919), lot 4, Catalogue 815 (1919), and James Tregaskis and Son Caxton Head Catalogue 830 (September 1920), lot 46 ... (6) Joseph Holland had it reproduced on a zinc plate<sup>382</sup> and printed very persuasively in brown ink (like his original) on paper very similar to the Japanese paper in his reproduction of Little Tom the Sailor; the chief distinguishing feature is "Wm Blake Sculp<sup>t</sup>" added below the design, which does not appear in the original; after Mr Holland's death in 1994, it was (7) Offered with the collection of Joseph Holland and Vincent Newton in John Windle Catalogue 26 (December 1995), lot 2 (reproduced in colour), Price on Enquiry, and sold to (8) John Windle, who sold it in 1995 to (9) Justin Schiller, who sold it at Christie's (N.Y.), 4 May 1999, No. 1 (reproduced in colour; ESTIMATE: $20,000-$30,000) for $20,700 to (10) the print-dealer Robin Garton, who returned it in May 1999 to Christie's, who returned it to (11) Schiller, who returned it to (12) John Windle who sold it in February 2000 to (13) an Anonymous U.S. private collection.<sup>383</sup>

COPPERPLATES

HISTORY: (1) The copperplates passed from William Blake on his death in 1827 to (2) His widow Catherine (who printed a few copies watermarked 1830), and at her death in 1831 they passed to (3) Frederick Tatham, who seems to have acquired all her property and who printed at least pl. 29-30, 37 in 1838; all but sixteen of the plates (pl. 3, 6, 8, 16, 18, 24, 27, 29, 33-34, 36, 43, 46-48, 53) on ten pieces of copper were stolen by an Afro-Briton and sold for scrap;<sup>384</sup> the remaining copperplates were used to make electrotypes which were printed in Gilchrist, (1863, 1880), II, and then the original copperplates in turn disappeared.

---

<sup>382</sup>Holland's rough instructions to the facsimilist with the GEB copy say that it is to be "etch[ed] deep".

<sup>383</sup>This History slightly supplements that in Blake (2000) on the basis of Robert Essick's "Blake in the Marketplace, 2000", Blake (2001).

ELECTROTYPES (?1861)

The 16 electrotypes of the Songs<sup>385</sup> consist of 10 from Innocence (pl. 3, 6, 8, 16, 18, 24, 27, 34, 36, 53) and 6 from Experience (pl. 29, 33, 43, 46-48). These 16 electrotypes were made from “ten plates, [which were] taken off sixteen impressions [i.e., etchings] (a few having been engraved on both sides)”<sup>386</sup>.

However, one of these 16 electrotypes made from “Blake’s copper-plates”, the title page of Songs of Experience (pl. 29), is an imitation rather than an electrotpe of Blake’s original; it differs in a number of significant respects from the original, for instance in size, particularly in height (it is 7.05 x 11.8 vs 7.2 x 12.4 for the original) and in omitting the “1794” on the column to the right and the bun in the weeping girl’s hair.

---

<sup>384</sup>“The gentleman from whom they were obtained [Tatham] had once the entire series in his possession; but all save these ten were stolen by an ungrateful black he had befriended, who sold them to a smith as old metal” (Gilchrist, 126).

<sup>385</sup>Printed in Alexander Gilchrist, Vol. II; the description at Vol. II, p. 267, misleadingly specifies “original plates of the Songs” on “copper”, not electrotypes.

<sup>386</sup>Gilchrist, 27.

Of the electrotypes made from genuine Songs etchings, 13 are etched on the other side of Songs plates,<sup>387</sup> and 2 (pl. 8 and 24) have nothing on the versos (BB 382). These come to 10 pieces of copper, not counting the imitation pl. 29.

According to BB 382, nine of these Songs plates – (3, 51), (6, 43), (16, 44), (18, 1), (27, 33), (29-30), (34, 47), (36, 46), and (53, 48) – are etched back-to-back, and pl. 8 (7.7 x 11.9) and 24 (7.8 x 11.5) have nothing on the versos. These come to 11 pieces of copper, not Gilchrist's 10.

In each of these cases, an Innocence print is paired with one from Experience – except that pl. 29-30 (each 7.2 x 12.4 cm) are both from Experience (title-page and “Introduction”). Pl. 29-30 are taller than all other plates in the Songs; no other is taller than 12.0 cm. However, etchings on 10 pieces of copper suggests that pl. 29 or pl. 30 was on the verso of pl. 8 or pl. 24.

The Victoria University electrotypes average 0.42 cm thick (cumulatively 2 5/8" or 6.79 cm high). However, their weight and thickness are irrelevant as indicators of the dimensions of the originals because the electrotypes are mounted on slightly larger pieces of metal.

HISTORY: (2Di) Dr A.E.K.L.B. Bentley and G.E. Bentley, Jr <BB, BBS> gave their set with the rest of their collections in October 2005 to (2Dii) VICTORIA UNIVERSITY IN THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO.

Drawings

---

<sup>387</sup> Pl. (3, 51), (6, 43), (16, 44), (18, 1), (27, 33), (34, 47), (36, 46), and (5, 48) are etched back-to-back – those represented in the electrotypes are here in bold-face.

Songs pl. 2 (frontispiece to Innocence) and pl. 4 “Introduction” to Innocence)

DESCRIPTION: Three drawings on 3 leaves, described in Quaritch (below) as

A PROJECTED WORK: Original Designs (considerably different from the published engraving):

‘Piping down the valleys wild,
Piping songs of pleasant glee,
On a cloud I saw a child,
And he laughing said to me:’--

5 verses of 4 lines each, on 1 leaf [Songs pl. 4
 (“Introduction”)]

The Shepherd, a frontispiece 1 “[Songs pl. 2, or perhaps pl. 28]

An ideal Hell 1 “[Butlin #217]

-- the three Drawings in Blake’s usual rich style of colouring, executed circa 1820

No other drawing for Songs of Innocence is known, and “An ideal Hell” has not been further identified.

HISTORY: (1) They came “From the Collection of a friend of Blake’s”; (2) Offered at £10 in Bernard Quaritch catalogues
(1878), lot 12,894; No. 322 (March 1879); (1880), lot 12,894;
No. 346 (15 November 1882), lot 12,894; (October 1883), lot
10,249; (1887), lot 10,249, £10; (3) Untraced.

CONTEMPORARY FACSIMILE

COPY Beta

HISTORY: (4) Acquired from Colin Franklin by R.H. and J.E. Schaffner.

By the courtesy of its owner, a new examination was made of the water-coloured thin-paper guest-leaves (mounted on thick-paper host-leaves watermarked J WHATMAN | 1821).

A flashlight shining through the host- and guest-leaves, the latter extensively coloured, revealed the following watermarks on the guest-leaves:<sup>388</sup>

EEN | 0 (both “E”s and the “0” uncertain, the “0” under the first hypothetical “E”) on pl. 22, first page of “Spring”

PINE on pl. 54, “The Voice of the Ancient Bard”

RUSE& on pl. 15, “Laughing Song”

[T]HOMAS on pl. 12, “The Chimney Sweeper” from Innocence (but bound in Experience)

[TU]RNER on pl. 53, “The School Boy”

Blake used paper from the same paper-makers for his own works,<sup>389</sup> though the paper he used was thick and heavy, unlike the thin leaves bearing the watercolours for Songs facsimile Beta.

Works by Blake using paper with the same watermarks:

EDMEADS & PINE in Jerusalem (F), Innocence (Q), self-portrait (1802) (Essick), and in the 1813 printing of Blair’s Grave

EEN | 9 in Butlin #792 (1820-25) as in J GREEN 1819 in three Visionary Heads (Butlin #709, 736, 763)

RUSE& TURNER | 1810 [and 1812 and 1815] Butlin #757 (1820), letters of 31 January, 16 July 1826; 12 April 1827; America (N), Thel (N-O), Europe (I), Urizen (G), Marriage (G), Milton (D), Visions (N-P), Songs (T-U)

---

<sup>388</sup> Pace BBS, 132, which says that there is no watermark on the coloured guest-leaves.

<sup>389</sup> See above.

THOMAS is not found elsewhere in Blake.
J WHATMAN | 1821 in Ghost of Abel (A), Illuminated
Genesis MS, “Man Sweeping” (1822)
NEW COPY

COPY Gamma

A previously unrecorded skilfully-hand-coloured – ?and hand-drawn – facsimile was made apparently in the late 19th or early 20th Century. It consists of the Experience prints (pl. 18-54) from Songs (T, in the British Museum Print Room) plus the rare pl. b (“A Divine Image” [7 copies known], perhaps from Songs [b] in the British Museum Print Room) and a list of the poems included, encased in blue paper wrappers similar to those in William Muir’s facsimiles (Innocence [D, 1884; A, 1927], Songs (U, 1885), Experience [A, T, 1927]).

According to R.N. Essick, “Blake in the Marketplace, 2002”, Blake, XXXVI (2003), it was twice unsuccessfully offered by C. Borowski on eBay electronic auction (October-November 2002, with reproductions).

EDITIONS

Songs of Innocence and of Experience [ed. James John Garth Wilkinson] (London, 1839) <BB>

REVIEW

Anon. [probably John A. Heraud], “I. Blake’s Poetry”, Monthly Magazine, NS II (December 1839), 700-11 (Mostly summaries from Cunningham, many concerning the Visionary Heads, with quotations from the “Introduction” to Innocence, “Nurse’s Song” [from Innocence], “The Lamb”, “The Little Black Boy”, “Cradle Song”, “The School Boy”, “On Another’s Sorrow”, and a passage from Thel).

The author may be John A. Heraud, the editor of the Monthly Magazine, whose Judgement of the Flood is quoted.) <BBS 342-43, q.v.>

**Facsimile of the Original Outlines before Colouring of The Songs of Innocence and of Experience* [U]. With an Introduction By Edwin J. Ellis. (London: Quaritch, 1893) <BB> B. §Facsimile of What Is Believed to Be the Last Replica of the Songs of Innocence and of Experience. ([Charleston, South Carolina]: Nabu Press, 2012) 146 pp.; ISBN: 9781279004845

The 2012 edition is scanned from that of 1893.

For Quaritch's business records of the edition, see February 2007 Charles Cox Catalogue.

§Songs of Innocence and Songs of Experience. (London: R. Brimley Johnson, and Guildford: A.C. Curtis, 1901) <BB #176, misdated 1911>

§Songs of Innocence, Songs of Experience. (N.Y. and London: G.P. Putnam's Sons, The Knickerbocker Press [c. 1903]) Ariel Booklets no. 150 9.5 x 13.9 cm, 86 pp. (plus 6 pp. list of Ariel Booklets)<sup>390</sup>

Includes "A Cradle Song" from Blake's Notebook.

§Songs of Innocence and of Experience: Showing the two Contrary States of the Human Soul. [Ed. Ralph Fletcher Seymour.] (Chicago: The Alderbrink Press, 1906) <BB #175> B. §(Chicago: Ralph Fletcher Seymour, 1906)

The title page of B is reset.

Songs of Innocence and of Experience, ed. George H.

---

<sup>390</sup>The information is from R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2010", Blake, XLIV (2011), 131.

Cowling (1925) B. (1926) C. (1951) D. (1953) ... F. (1958)
G. (1960)

REVIEW

1925

B.C.E. Davis, Review of English Studies, III, 9 (January 1927), 116 ("admirably serves its purpose")

Chants d'Innocence et d'Expérience. Tr. M.L. and Philippe
Soupault (Paris 1927) B. (Paris: Les Cahiers libres, 1947)
Poésie et Théâtre <BB #192>

An extract was published in Nouvelle Revue Française,
XXVI, 152 (May 1926), 537-42. <Not in BB>

Songs of Innocence & of Experience [b] (London and N.Y., 1947) Albion Facsimiles No. 1 B. ([Folcroft, Pennsylvania], 1969) <BB>

REVIEW

§*Mary Ellen Reisner, "Folcroft Facsimile of the Songs", Blake Newsletter, X (Spring 1977), 130 (it has been "retouched")

Songs of Innocence and of Experience [Z] (1955), The William Blake Trust <BB>

REVIEWS

§Anon., Times [London], 2 December 1955

§Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 2 December 1955,
p. 720

§J.D. Bodley, Art News, 1955(?)

§K.R.J., New Statesman and Nation, 7 January 1956,
p. 21

§R. Attenbury, Spectator, 23 March 1956, p. 386

§L.W., Connoisseur, CXXXVIII (1956), 133-34

Anthony Blunt, Burlington Magazine, XCIX, 648

(March 1957), 101-2 (with two others) ("The quality of reproduction is if anything more striking than in the previous volumes and comes as near as any facsimile can to the actual subtlety of Blake's printing and colouring")

Söngvar Sakley sisins og Ljóð lífsreynslunnar. Tveir Ljóðaflokkar eftir William Blake. Tr. Póroddur Guðmundsson. (Reykjavík: Ísafoldarprentsmiðja, 1959) 8°, 119 pp., 17 pl. <BB> In Icelandic

Songs (pp. 7-74), "William Blake" (pp. 75-97), "Athugasem dir" (notes) (pp. 98-116).

It also includes "Drottinsborg" ("Jerusalem", presumably the lyric from Milton) (pp. 85-86).

Songs of Innocence and of Experience (1967) The William Blake Trust <BB>

REVIEWS

§Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 4 April 1968, p. 334 (with another)

§John E. Grant, "Review Article: Blake's Songs of Innocence and of Experience", Philological Quarterly, XLVII, 4 (October 1968), 571-80

Auberon Waugh, Spectator, CCXX (1968), 46

§Alan Weinberg, UNISA English Studies, VIII (November 1970), 34-36 (with 2 others)

G.E. Bentley, Jr., "Blake Scholars and Critics: The Texts", University of Toronto Quarterly, XXXIX (1970), 274-87 (with 5 others)

**Songs of Innocence and of Experience*, ed. Geoffrey Keynes (1970) <BB>

The prints are reproduced in gray, and Keynes's Introduction is translated by Yang Yi in Tianzhen yu jing yan zhige [Songs of Innocence and of Experience] (1988).

§Die Illuminationen zu der Songs of Innocence and of Experience = Lieder den Unschuld und der Erfahrung. (Wiesbaden [Germany]: Limes-Verlag, 1972) 21 cm, 54 leaves In German

Lieder der Unschuld und Erfahrung [Songs (T)], ed. Werner Hofmann (1975) <BBS>

REVIEWS

§Anon., Tagesspiegel [Berlin], 13 April 1975, in German

§Anon., Frankfurter Abendpost Nachtausgabe, 15 May 1975, in German

§Anon., Oberösterreichische Nachrichten [Linz, Austria], 24 July 1975, in German

§Anon., Elseviers Magazine [Netherlands], 26 July 1975, in German

§Anon., Berliner Morgenpost, 26 August 1975, in German

Detlef W. Dörrbecker, Blake, XI (Winter 1977-78), 44-49

Cançons d'Innocència i d'Experiència: Mostrant els dos estats contraris de l'ànima humana. Versió Catalana de Toni Turull. Edició Bilingüe. (Barcelona: Curial, 1975) Llibres del Mall 8º, 126 pp.; ISBN: 8472560678 In Catalan

A 4-page translator's introduction is followed by English and Catalan texts on facing pages.

**Cantos de inocencia. Cantos de experiencia.* Cronología, introducción inédita, notas y traducción de Elena Valentí (Barcelona: Bosch, 1977) Erasmo textos bilingües, textos ingleses 19 cm, 129 pp.; ISBN: 847162690X In Spanish B. (1978) C. [Omits "Inédita"] ([Barcelona]: Orbés, [1998]) Grandes Poetas In Spanish and English Includes "Cronología" (pp. 11-17), "Introducción" (pp. 19-27), "Canciones de inocencia y canciones de experiencia" (pp. 28-33) "La mitología de William Blake" (pp. 34-47), "William Blake y la posteridad" (pp. 48-50), "Bibliografía" (pp. 51-53) English and Spanish texts on facing pages (pp. 54-129)

Stresses how counterculture has played a role in reassessing Blake

Songs of Innocence and of Experience [U] (1980), the Franklin Library Collection <BBS>

REVIEW

*Alexander S. Gourlay and John E. Grant, Blake, XXIV, 1 (Summer 1990), 260-61

Songs of Innocence and Songs of Experience (Manchester: Manchester Etching Workshop, 1983) <BBS 135>

REVIEWS

Robert N. Essick, Blake, XIX, 2 (Fall 1989), 39-52 (an admiring account which includes a valuable "thumbnail history of hand-colored [Blake] facimiles" [p. 41])

*Joseph Viscomi, "Recreating Blake's Illuminated Prints: The Facsimiles of the Manchester Etching Workshop", Blake, XIX, 2 (Fall 1989), 4-11 (an intimate account, stimulated by Essick's review)

§Canciones de inocencia y de experiencia. Ed. J.L. Caramés y S.G. Corugedo. (Madrid, 1987) In Spanish

**Canciones de Inocencia y de Experiencia*. Edición bilingüe

y traducción de José Luis Caramés y Santiago García Corugedo. (Madrid: Ediciones Cátedra, 1987) Colección Letras Universales 68, 8º, 176 pp.; ISBN: 8437606683 In Spanish <BBS p. 137> B. (1995) C. (1999) D. (2003) E. (2006) F. (2009) G. (2012)

It consists of "Introducción" (pp. 7-51), divided into "William Blake (1757-1827)" (pp. 9-12), "Contexto" (pp. 12-20), "Ritual" (pp. 20-28), "Simbología" (pp. 28-37), "Cosmología y Canciones de Inocencia y de Experiencia" (pp. 37-44), "Nota a esta edición" (pp. 45-46), "Tabla de concordancias" (p. 47), "Obras de William Blake" (p. 48), "Bibliografía" (pp. 49-51) English and Spanish texts on facing pages (pp. 56-161)

According to the editors Blake identified the essence of poetry with the process of a ritual. Reproduces a few Blake designs and plates in black and white.

**Tianzhen yu jing yan zhige* [Songs of Innocence and of Experience]. Tr. Yang Yi [i.e., Jinru Yang]. (Changsha: Hunan Renmin Chubun Shi [Hunan Peoples Publishing House], May 1988) 8º, pp. 7, 210; ISBN: 7217003423 In Chinese

G. Kaiensi [G. Keynes], "Yinhan [Introduction]" (pp. 1-8); T.S. Ailute [T.S. Eliot], "Weillian Bulaike [William Blake]" (pp. 1-8 [bis]); "Fan zhe de hua [Translator's comments]", dated the Fiftieth Anniversary of the War of Resistance Against Japanese Aggression, 13 August 1937 (p. 204). The text consists of faint pale gray reproductions of the Songs from the reproduction edited by Geoffrey Keynes (1970) of the Blake Trust facsimile (1955) of copy Z, with facing translations into Chinese and followed by short comments.

§Pesni na Nevinosta ina Iskustvoto: što pokažuvaat dve sprotivni sostojbi na čovečkata duša. Tr. Ivan Džeparoski. (Skopje: Misl, 1988) 21 cm, 120 pp.; ISBN: 8615000085
In Macedonian

**Songs of Innocence and of Experience.* Ed. Richard Willmott. (Oxford: Oxford University Press, 1990) Oxford Student Texts <BBS> B. §(2011) viii, 200 pp.; ISBN: 9780198310785

The 2011 edition is said to be "revised".

REVIEW

David Worrall, British Journal for Eighteenth-Century Studies, XV (1992), 231 (a useful book)

**Songs of Innocence and of Experience* [W]. Ed. Andrew Lincoln. (London, 1991) <BBS> Blake's Illuminated Books Volume 2. B. (Princeton, 1991) C. (Princeton: Princeton University Press in conjunction with the William Blake Trust, [1995]) 4°, ISBN: "0-691-069360 (cloth)" "$59.95" [i.e., paperback, $24.95].

These reproductions of copy W are reproduced in Geir Uthaug's Norwegian translation (1997), in The Complete Illuminated Books, ed. David Bindman (2000), and in facsimile in far smaller leaf size in the edition of 2006-7.

REVIEWS

§Los Angeles Times Book Review. 1 December 1991, Section D, p. 6 (with another)

§Christian Science Monitor, LXXXIV (6 December 1991), p. 11 (with another)

§Library Journal, CXVI (December 1991), 150 (with another)

§Anon., Print Quarterly, VIII (1991), 440

- *Andrew Barnet, "From the Dark Satanic Mills", New York Times, 15 March 1992 (with another) ("exquisite")
§Wilson Library Bulletin, LXVI (April 1992), 106 (with another)
David Fuller, Book Collector, XLI, 1 (Spring 1992), 121-23 (with another) ("the quality of facsimile ... is excellent" [p. 121] and "some readings are exemplary")
§Religious Studies Review, XVIII (October 1992), 321 (with another)
Irene Tayler, Blake, XXVI, 2 (Fall 1992), 57 ("this is a volume that every Blakean may joy to own")
§Journal of English and Germanic Philology, XCI (1992), 203+
Michael Ferber, Word and Image, IX, 1 (January-March 1993), 87-90 (with another) (reprehends "the often automatic ambiguo-tropic readings of Lincoln")
Peter Kitson, Year's Work in English Studies, LXXII (1993), 276-77 ("extremely beautiful")
§Jon Mee, Australian Journal of Art, X (1993), 105-6 (with another)
I.H. C[hayes], Romantic Movement ... Bibliography for 1992 (1993), 70
Iain Sinclair, "Customising Biography", London Review of Books, XVIII, 4 (22 February 1996), 16-19 (with 6 others) (there is no indication that Sinclair has looked at Songs)
See John Commander, "Dereliction", London Review of Books, 21 March 1996, p. 5

(deplores the absence of "critical comment on, or response to" the scholarship in the Blake Trust volumes which Iain Sinclair was purporting to review)

Michael Phillips, Burlington Magazine, CXXXIX (1997), 338-39 (with 8 others) (all six Blake Trust publications are "extraordinarily faithful to the originals", and the apparatus is "exemplary")

§Grevel Lindop, Times Literary Supplement, 26 September 1997, 18+ (with 5 others)

§Jason Whitaker, BARS Bulletin and Review, No. 17 (March 2000), 22-24 (with 6 others)

Deirdre Toomey, "Printed Perfect", Yeats Annual, No. 14 (2001), 360-64 (with 5 others) (The Blake Trust volumes are produced "to an almost unbelievably high standard" [p. 361])

**Songs of Innocence & of Experience* [W]. Introduction by Richard Holmes. (London: Folio Society, 1992) <BBS> B. §(London: Tate Publishing, 2007)

The "Introduction" (pp. v-xv) says that the reproductions and transcriptions are from the Blake Trust edition (1991).

§Songs of Innocence and of Experience: Shewing the Two Contrary States of the Human Soul. Illustrated by P. Ostrowski. (Wickford, Essex: Ring of Stones, July 1993) 30 cm; ISBN: 0913028908

Songs of Innocence and of Experience. (London: Penguin Books, 1995) 16°, 56 pp.; ISBN: 0146000935

**Cantigas da Inocência e da Experiência: Mostrando os Dois Estados Contrários da Alma Humana*. Tr. Manuel

Portela. (Lisbon: Edições Antígona, 1994) 8°, 137 pp.; ISBN: 97922608085 In Portuguese and English

§Chansons d'innocence et d'expérience: Songs of Innocence and of Experience. Tr. Armand Sedaine. Ill. Sam Jones. (Perras-Guirec: La TILV, 1997) 26 cm, 86 pp.; ISBN: 2909159191 In French

Eskyldens og Erfaringens sanger: som viser menneskes: elens to motstridende tistander. Med komplette gengivelse av William Blakes etsninger, 20 I farger. Ed. and tr. Geir Uthaug. (Oslo: Aschehoug, 1997) 4°, 144 pp.; ISBN: 8203177948 In Norwegian

"Forord" (pp. 5-6); "William Blake" (pp. 7-23); translation facing reproductions in black-and-white and colour from the Blake Trust facsimile (W); "Kommentarer til de enkelte dikt" (pp. 15-144).

**Canti dell'Innocenza e dell'Esperienzache Mostranei Due Contrari Stati dell'Anima Umana* (1794). A cura di Roberto Rossi Testa con uno Scritto di T.S. Eliot [tr. Vittorio Di Giro]. (Milano: Tascabili, 1997) Tascabili Poesea 8°, 150 pp.; ISBN: 8877103760 B. (2001) 20 cm, 149 pp.; ISBN: 8877104937 C. (2009) 172 pp. A colour facsimile in English and Italian

Text of the Songs on facing pages in English and Italian. "Note ai Testi" (pp. 139-44); T.S. Eliot, "Blake", tr. in Italian (145-49).

**Cantares de Inocencia y Experiencia: que Muestran los Dos Estados Contrarios del Alma Humana.* Version Completa. Traducción e introducción Miguel Grinberg. [The paper cover adds: Incluye ilustraciones originales.] (Buenos Aires, República Argentina: Errapar, S.A., 2000) longseller

Clásicos de Bolsillo 12º, 144 pp.; ISBN: 9507398600 In Spanish

"Introducción: William Blake: La visión es la misión" (pp. 3-30, discusses Allen Ginsberg and psychodelia and says Blake was like a hippy); 8 colour "Ilustraciones de William Blake peron Cantares de Inocencia y Cantares de Experiencia" (pp. 31-47).

§Pisni_ky Nevinnosti a Zkušnosti. Tr. Zden_k Hron. (Praha [Czech Republic]: BB Art, 2001) 16 cm, 104 pp.; ISBN: 8072574442 In Czech

§Songs of Innocence and of Experience, London, 1794, London, 1796. (Oakland [California]: Octavo, 2003) A CD Rom. ISBN: 9781891788895

§Songs of Innocence and of Experience [C] London, 1794; [Z] London, 1826. Commentary by Stuart Curran. 1 CD Rom. (Oakland, California: Octavo Edition, 2003) ISBN: 1891788892

The CD is 253 pp.: Commentary, Binding, Contents, and Provenance (pp. 3-18), Transcription (pp. 19-77), Images and Ephemera (pp. 78-195), Comparison (pp. 196-249), 118 images.

REVIEW

§Steve Clark, European Journal of English Studies, VIII (2005), 255-57

§Songs of Innocence and [of] Experience. Photographs by Joel-Peter Witkin. Ed. and with an Introduction by John Wood. (Brewster, Massachusetts: "An Art Publication of Leo and Wolfe Photography, Inc.", according to the colophon, but "Published by Steven Albahari" according to the title page, 2004) ISBN: 1892733110 (trade edition, 915 copies plus 200 copies “hors commerce”), 1892733129 (deluxe edition, 85 copies with “an original, signed platinum print”)

According to R.N. Essick, “Blake in the Marketplace, 2004”, Blake, XXXVIII (2005), “The black and white photo illus. feature dismembered body parts, laceration, amputees, deformed infants and fetuses, decapitation, torture, cruelty to animals, hermaphrodisism, and child pornography. And that’s just in the Innocence section.”

See also Innocence (2002) and Experience (2002).

Songs of Innocence and of Experience. (Stillwell, Kansas: Digireads.com Publishing, 2005) 8°, 55 pp.; ISBN: 1420925806

§Songs of Innocence & of Experience. Introduction by Richard Holmes (London: Tate Publishing, in association with the William Blake Trust, 2006) B. (2007) 12°, ISBN: 9781854377296

A facsimile (each plate facing a transcription by Andrew Lincoln), much reduced in leaf-size, of the Blake Trust facsimile (1991) of copy W. “Introduction” (pp. v-xv) says that Blake “frequently got into street-brawls” and that the Songs have “a quality of philosophic epic” (pp. vii, xiv).

§Songs of Innocence and of Experience. Ed. Ramji Lal. (New Delhi: Rama Brothers India Pvt, 2006)

§Songs of Innocence and [of] Experience. Tr. Iana Maravis. Bilingual edition. (Bucharest: Rao Publishing, 2006) In English and Rumanian

§Songs of Innocence and of Experience. (U.S. and U.K.: Filiquarian Publishing LLC, 2007) ISBN: 9781599868448

§**Songs of Innocence and Songs of Experience*, “First published 1789 [sic]”, “Republished 2008 by Forgotten Books”, “original title page” is unrelated to the one reproduced here 27 pp., 102 reproductions

**Songs of Innocence and of Experience.* Edited, with a Commentary, by Robert N. Essick. (San Marino, California: Huntington Library, 2008) Small 4<sup>o</sup>, [viii], 185 pp., 58 reproductions; ISBN: 9780873282369

This is an adjusted reproduction<sup>391</sup> of Copy E <Huntington>, replacing the print of “The Clod & the Pebble” (which was posthumously printed and coloured in copy E) with one from Songs (N) <Huntington> and adding two prints omitted in Copy E: “A Divine Image” from Songs (h) <R.N. Essick> and the tailpiece from Songs (C) <Library of Congress>. The reproductions are adjusted in respect to the paper, which is slick and pale brown and quite unlike the originals. The designs are all printed back-to-back, though in Copy C pl. 1-4, 29-31 are printed on one side only, and the images are “slightly rotated and made consistent in position” (p. 177) to normalize Blake’s often careless formatting. “John Sullivan, head of the Huntington’s Photography Department ... [has produced] a level of fidelity to the original coloring not previously achieved” (p. 177).

The “Commentary and [plate by plate] Transcription” (pp. 1-173) are masterly.

See Blake, XLII, 3 (Winter 2008-2009), 111 for Robert N. Essick Corrigenda: In the reproduction of the Huntington Songs (E) “the paper color ... is too brown ... the original is much whiter” except for “The Tyger”; a passage in Essick’s commentary should be adjusted.

REVIEWS

---

<sup>391</sup>Not a “facsimile” as claimed on the back cover but not in Essick’s text.

*Shirley Dent, “Bruised without mercy”, Times Literary Supplement, 15 May 2009, p. 22 (with another) (an “essential” book)

Alexander S. Gourlay, Blake, XLVI, 1 (Summer 2012), [57-59] (“an intellectual and critical gem” [p. (57)])

§”Honyaku William Blake no Muku to Keiken no Uta no sekei [The World of William Blake in The Songs of Innocence and of Experience].” Tr. Seiichi Miyamachi. Sapporo Gakuin Daigaku Jimbun Gakkai Kiyo [Journal of the Society of Humanities, Sapporo Gakuin University], LXXXIII (2008), 223-54. In Japanese

§**Songs of Innocence and Songs of Experience*. ([the only location is a web-site:] Forgotten Books, 2008) viii, 58 pp.; ISBN: 9781606801598

§Songs of Innocence and [of] Experience. (Boston: MobileReference.com, 2008) 43 pp.; ISBN: 9781605019956
An eBook

It includes an anon. "author biography". The same firm published Works of William Blake (2007).

§**Songs of Innocence and Songs of Experience*, First published 1789 [sic], “Republished 2008 by Forgotten Books”, www.forgottenbooks.org, “original title page” is unrelated to the one reproduced here 27 pp., 102 reproductions

§**Songs of Innocence and Songs of Experience*. ([Rockville, Maryland:] Wildside Press [2009]) 64 pp.; ISBN: 9781434404169

§**Songs of Innocence and of Experience* [Z]. Introduction by Felicity James. (London: Arcturus Publishing, 2009) 64 pp.; ISBN: 9781848372122

“Introduction (pp. 5-9). The colour reproductions are enlarged, rather dark, and lacking Blake’s page-numbers but including the framing lines. There is no letterpress transcription of the poems.

§Canciones de inocencia y de experiencia. Tr. Nicolás Suescún. (Caracas [Venezuela]: Ministerio del Poder Popular para la Cultura: Fundación Editorial el perro y la rara, 2009) Colección Poesía del Mundo, Serie Clásicos 21 cm, 141 pp.; ISBN: 9789801405368 In Spanish

*ПЕЧИ НЕВИННОСТИ И ОПЫТА Songs of Innocence and of Experience [W] [Tr. M. Falikman, M. Kostionova A. Kruglov, S. Liacheva, and M. Lipkin; introductions by Richard Holmes (from the Folio Society edition of 1992) and Gregory Kruzhkov, commentary by Sasha Dugdale, plus an appendix which gives alternative translations](Moscow: Rudomino, 2010) 20.5 x 12.0 cm, 240 pp., 475 roubles

REVIEW

*Vera Serdechnaya, Blake: An Illustrated Quarterly, XLVII, 1 (Summer 2013), [82-83] (“For the first time in Russian, this edition reproduces the illuminated prints of the Songs, and all translations are new”)

§Songs of Innocence and [of] Experience. ([Whitefish, Montana]: Kessinger Publishing 2010) 43 pp.; ISBN: 9781161453386

§Blake's Songs of Innocence and [of] Experience. Epilogue and other Comments by Crayola; Afterword and Commentary on the Illustrations by Rachel Lee. Illustrated by Robert Crayola. ([No place: Robert Crayola, 2011) 26 cm, 126 pp.; no ISBN.

§**Songs of Innocence and of Experience*. Tr. various. Introductions by Richard Holmes and Gregory Kruzhev, Commentary by Sasha Dugdale. ([Moscow:] British Council and All-Russia State Library for Foreign Literature, 2011)

All the translations are by new young poets. The reproductions are in colour. Apparently it was published in conjunction with the Pushkin Museum exhibition of Blake (29 November 2011-19 February 2012).

Songs of Innocence and of Experience[E]. William Blake Archive. Ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi (2011)

§Songs of Innocence and Songs of Experience--The Original Classic Edition. (Dayboro: Emero Pub., 2012) 23 pp.; ISBN: 9781486414017 An eBook

§Songs of Innocence and of Experience. (London: Collectors Library, 2012) Collector's Library Illustrated in Colour Complete and Unabridged. 119 pp.; ISBN: 9781907360749

Foreword by Peter Harness. A facsimile of copy W, with transcriptions on facing pages.

**Songs of Innocence and of Experience Showing [sic] the Two Contrary States of the Human Soul (Illuminated Manuscript [sic] with the Original Illustrations of William Blake)*. (e-artnow, 2013) ISBN: 9788074844041

Probably Songs of Innocence and of Experience (C or Z)
-- see The Complete Illustrated Books of William Blake.

§Songs of Innocence and Songs of Experience by William Blake [San Bernardino, California: CreateSpace Independent Publishing Platform, 2013] [43 pp.]; ISBN: 9781483929538

§**Facsimile of What is Believed to Be the Last Replica [sic] of the Songs of Innocence and of Experience*. (Charleston [South Carolina]: BiblioLife, 2014) 146 pp.; ISBN: 9781294573968

Perhaps this is a version of Facsimile of the Original Outlines before Colouring of The Songs of Innocence and of Experience [U], With an Introduction By Edwin J. Ellis (London, 1893).

§**Songs of Innocence & of Experience*. (London ...: Urban Romantics, 2014) ISBN: 9781910150528

The only reproduction, from "Oberon, Titania, and Puck, with Fairies Dancing" <#161>, is on the cover.

§Songs of Innocence and [of] Experience. (ebookfredon, [2014]) [No editor, no ISBN.]

William Blake's Songs of Innocence and [of] Experience Illustrated by Robert Crayola "Shewing the Two Contrary States of the Human Soul". ([No place: No publisher; Made in the USA Middletown, DE, 18 October 2014; copyright 2011]) 4<sup>o</sup>, vi, 130 pp.; no ISBN

Robert Crayola. "Epilogue." P. 99 ("William Blake was referred to by other Romantic poets as 'the cool, old man' of the group. ... Had he escaped the assassin's bullet that prematurely took his life, William Blake would turn 254 this year" [i.e., 2011].)

Rachel Yee. "Afterword." P. 101.

Robert Crayola. "Note on the Afterword." Pp. 103-4.

Rachel Yee. "A Commentary on the Illustrations: For Elucidation and Pleasure." Pp. 105-13.

Robert Crayola. "Postscript to the Commentary." P. 115.

Anon. "An Interview with Robert Crayola." Pp. 117-19.

Robert Crayola. "An Interview with William Blake (via Ouija board)." Pp. 121-22.

Anon. "About the Author [i.e., William Blake]." P. 123.

Anon. "About the Artist." Pp. 125-26.

NEW TITLE<sup>392</sup>

THE SOPHOCLES MANUSCRIPT

BINDING: Bound in pale reddish marbled boards over a parchment spine; by December 1995 the parchment spine had mostly perished, but the leaves were still secure. Mr John Byrne, who examined the manuscript in 1993, tells me that it was inscribed on the spine with the name of "BLUNDEN", but this has now disappeared. Many leaves were torn out close to the gutter, generally one at a time but at least once (between ff. 51-52) in a group of up to half a dozen, leaving very narrow stubs.<sup>393</sup>

HISTORY: (1) Apparently acquired by "Blandford" (perhaps the son of the Duke of Marlborough, known by the courtesy title of the Marquis of Blandford<sup>394</sup>), whose name is written by itself in a hand unlike those in the rest of the manuscript on the first paste-down in old brown ink; (2) Offered for sale as "3 Vol £1-0-0" (according to the note on the first paste-down); (3) Acquired (?without the two accompanying volumes<sup>395</sup>)

---

<sup>392</sup> The MS had previously been referred to in print only in Peter Ackroyd, Blake (1995).

<sup>393</sup> F. 121 is now free, leaving no stub, raising the possibility that other now untraceable leaves may also have been removed without leaving a stub or other trace.

<sup>394</sup> The son of the Marquis of Blandford bears the courtesy title of the Earl of Sunderland, "Sunderland" is written on ff. 24<sup>r</sup>, 43<sup>v</sup>, 48<sup>v</sup>, 50<sup>r</sup>, 71<sup>r</sup>, 79<sup>r</sup>, 91<sup>r</sup>, and 114<sup>r</sup>, and "Blake" deletes "Sunderland" on f. 43<sup>v</sup>, 91<sup>r</sup>, and f. 114<sup>r</sup>.

<sup>395</sup> In Feb 1993, Mrs Blunden helped Mr Anthony Rota to search the library for the other two volumes which apparently were once with the Sophocles Manuscript, but with no success.

during the 1920s probably for its blank paper by Edmund Blunden (1896-1974), who later wrote brief autobiographical essays in it; (4) Inherited by his wife Clare Blunden, who in 1993 offered it for sale through Mr Anthony Rota of Bertram Rota.<sup>396</sup>

DESCRIPTION: It is a small quarto volume (16.0 x 21.0 cm) presently consisting of 191 leaves (one fly-leaf at each end on laid paper with vertical chain lines – the intervening leaves foliated 1-189 in 1993 by Mr John Byrne then of Bertram Rota) of laid paper with horizontal chain-lines (as in a quarto) bearing at the centre of the inner margins a watermark of Britannia and a crown of a type common before 1794 and a countermark of GR above a tiny cross.<sup>397</sup> These quarto

---

<sup>396</sup> Neither Mr Blunden nor his wife seem to have thought the Blake names significant, for Mr Blunden scratched one out at the head of one page of his essay (f. 35<sup>r</sup>), and the volume was considered as little more than an example of Mr Blunden's writing until it was examined by Mr John Byrne and Mr Anthony Rota.

<sup>397</sup> W.A. Churchill, Watermarks in Paper in Holland, England, France etc., in the XVII and XVIII Centuries and their Interconnection (Amsterdam: Menno Herzberger & Co., 1935), No. 219-238, show Britannia with a staff in her hand and a shield behind her, within an oval beneath a crown, some of them (e.g., No. 221) with GR, but all are pretty distinct from that in the Sophocles MS (a reproduction of which was generously provided to GEB by Mr Anthony Rota). Edward Heawood, Watermarks in Paper Mainly of the 17th and 18th Centuries (Hilversum, Holland: The Paper Publications Society, 1950: Monumenta Chartae Papyraceae Historiam Illustrantia, I), No. 201-220, show a similar Britannia, and of these No. 207-210, 214-221 have a GR attached, No. 208 (n.d.), 217 (1794), and 218 (1790) being most like the Sophocles MS. The GR watermark is more common, with 24 examples in Heawood, none just like those in the Sophocles Manuscript.

The Britannia watermark (only half visible at a time) is on ff. 1-39, 106-39, 141-144, 146-49, 170-71, 174-75; and GR (half at a time) is on the rest. Normally a watermark appears on only half the leaves of a divided sheet of paper, not on each leaf, as in the Sophocles MS, but, according to Heawood, such double marks (two on the same sheet) were not uncommon.

leaves were bound with a printed octavo<sup>398</sup> volume bearing the Greek text of Sophocles,<sup>399</sup> which have offset very faintly onto facing pages showing two columns of footnotes separated by a vertical rule. On many leaves one or more 18th-Century hands wrote in old brown ink a translation (into very colloquial 18th Century English) of Ajax (ff. 3-22) by Sophocles, and another handmade learned annotations in English, Latin, Greek.

At apparently random intervals (including ff. 35<sup>r</sup>, 43<sup>v</sup>, 45<sup>v</sup>, 48<sup>v</sup>, 51<sup>r</sup>[?], 60<sup>r</sup>, 71<sup>r</sup>[?], 79<sup>r</sup>, 81<sup>r</sup>, 83<sup>r</sup>, 91<sup>r</sup>, 103<sup>r</sup>, 113<sup>r</sup>, 114<sup>r</sup>, 116<sup>v</sup>), generally on pages with little or no other writing,<sup>400</sup> "Blake", "W<sup>m</sup> Blake", or "William Blake" is written in old brown ink, once in mirror-writing ("BLAKE" on f. 116<sup>v</sup>), and twice in stipple ("W<sup>m</sup> Blake" on ff. 43<sup>v</sup>, 45<sup>v</sup>).<sup>401</sup> On f. 71<sup>r</sup> is an ornamental B followed by a flourish, with two drawings beneath it.

---

A similar but distinct Britannia watermark with a crowned G R countermark is reproduced in Tiriell, ed. G.E. Bentley, Jr (Oxford: Clarendon Press, 1969), p. 53, and a fleur de lis watermark above a rectangular shield with a G R countermark is in An Island in the Moon).

<sup>398</sup> The size is indicated by the fact that in the outer margins of some leaves (ff. 96<sup>r</sup>, 101<sup>r</sup>, 102<sup>r</sup>, 104<sup>r</sup>, 106<sup>r</sup>, 107<sup>r</sup>, 115<sup>v</sup>, and 116<sup>r</sup>) there are regular rows of horizontal parallel lines as if of deletions, ending on the inner side in a sharply-defined vertical hiatus, suggesting that lines begun on now-missing octavo leaves continued from the now-missing leaves onto the quarto host-leaves. The size defined by the hiatus is c. 14 cm wide.

<sup>399</sup> Mr John Byrne has read the offset running-heads of Ajax, Electra, Trachiniai, and Philoctetes.

<sup>400</sup> "Blake" is written at the top of f. 35<sup>r</sup> which now bears Edmund Blunden's essay, and "Taffy Williams" is written between two "Blake"s on f. 103<sup>r</sup>. The adjacent leaves are blank. "Sunderland" is associated with the "Blake" on ff. 43<sup>v</sup>, 71<sup>r</sup>, 79<sup>r</sup>, 91<sup>r</sup>, and 114<sup>r</sup>.

<sup>401</sup> All the "Blake" signatures are reproduced in Blake, XXXI, 2 (1997) illustrating the essays of Michael Phillips and G. E. Bentley, Jr.

There are very small, simple, amateurish sketches in pencil or black ink on ff. 71<sup>r</sup>, 79<sup>r</sup>, 147<sup>r</sup>, 148<sup>v</sup>, 149<sup>v</sup>, 150<sup>r</sup>, 181<sup>r</sup>, 182<sup>v</sup>, and 183<sup>r</sup>.

There are two or more hands in the Sophocles Manuscript, and these are similar to but distinct from that of the poet.

Probably before Blunden acquired the book, 126 or more leaves were torn out, including all the printed Greek text.<sup>402</sup>

Edmund Blunden wrote an autobiographical essay entitled "Notes on Friends, Acquaintances &c" (one about "An occasion April 14, 1921", and another about a visit to Thomas Hardy at his Max Gate residence in 1923) on twelve blank rectos (ff. 24-37).

None of the handwriting seems to GEB to be that of the poet-artist;<sup>403</sup> presumably at least the signatures are those of one of the scores of his contemporaries named William Blake.

For arguments for and against the connection of the poet William Blake with the Sophocles Manuscript, see Michael Phillips, "William Blake and the Sophocles Manuscript Notebook" and G.E. Bentley, Jr, "William Blake and the Sophocles Enigma", Blake, XXXI (1997), 44-49, 65-71.

---

<sup>402</sup> There are surviving stubs before f. 1 and after ff. 1 (2), 3, 5, 7, 9, 11-12, 15-16, 18 (2?), 20, 24, 38-41, 43-46, 48-49, 50 (6?), 53-56, 58-61, 64-65, 68-69, 75-81, 83-84, 86-90, 94-100, 104-5, 109-10, 114-16, 125, 127-34, 140 (3?), 141, 143-45, 146 (2), 149 (2), 150-51, 153, 154 (2), 155 (2), 157-59, 161-64, 166-71, 173-78, 182, 184-87, 189 -- numbers joined by hyphens indicate a leaf removed after each leaf.

<sup>403</sup> Mr Peter Ackroyd and Dr Michael Phillips apparently believe that at least some of the writing is by the poet-artist, and Mr Byrne, Mr Anthony Rota, and Mrs Blunden hope that it may be so.

SPECTACLES

DESCRIPTION: A pair of iron-framed round spectacles (11.5 cm wide to the hinges, 10.6 cm for the ear-pieces), right lens - 3.25 Dioptre Spheres, left -3.50 DS, indicates that the wearer could see nearby objects well but that for objects beyond arm's length he would need spectacles.<sup>404</sup>

The very worn, dark brown cardboard case (12.9 x 4.5 cm) which has accompanied them at least since 1937 (see below) is rectangular with rounded ends; it is stamped or moulded with panels containing a stylized flowerhead. When one end is pulled away from the other it reveals a green area, and the interior of that lower or left part is blue; the interior of the upper or right part is uncoloured.

HISTORY: (1) Acquired from Mrs Blake (according to the 1937 catalogue below) by (2) Samuel Palmer, from whom they passed to his son (3) A.H. Palmer;<sup>405</sup> (4) Acquired by Lt.

---

<sup>404</sup> For all the information here, I am indebted to Miss J.E. Poole, Senior Assistant Keeper, Department of Applied Art, Fitzwilliam Museum, and to R.L. Judge (optician) whose analysis she generously solicited.

The description in David Bindman, William Blake: Catalogue of the Collection in the Fitzwilliam Museum, Cambridge (1970), 60, based on the examination of Dr H.L. Backhouse, is:

Temple support for side pieces. Right eye: -2.75 dioptre sphere; left eye: --2.5 dioptre sphere. Ground on inner surface, plano-convex; diameter 30 mm. There is no correction for astigmatism; this was apparently not possible in the early nineteenth century.

According to Gilchrist, 315, "He wore glasses only occasionally." No contemporary representation of Blake shows him wearing spectacles (Geoffrey Keynes, The Complete Portraiture of William & Catherine Blake [1977]), and there is some evidence that about 1815 he wore half-lens spectacles, which must have been replaced by the Fitzwilliam pair.

<sup>405</sup> A.H. Palmer wrote in a note still accompanying them: "These spectacles were once the property of William Blake; & were much valued by his friend and disciple Samuel Palmer. |A.H. Palmer| March 1908".

Col. W.E. Moss, who sold them at Sotheby's, 2 March 1937, lot 283 (with "an old cardboard case"); (5) Acquired by Lord Rothschild, who gave them in 1948 to (6) The FITZWILLIAM MUSEUM (M.9.1948).

NEW ENTRY SPECTACLES AT FELPHAM

Half a pair of 19th Century spectacles, found about 1928 in a piece of rotting wood when the floor of Blake's Cottage in Felpham was relaid, may have been the poet's about 1803. They have simple magnification of 1.75 (1.0 being neutral). The spectacles, which fit neatly on the life-mask of Blake, belong to Mrs Heather Howell, the owner of the Cottage.

There is No Natural Religion (1794-1795)

Weight and Cost of Copperplates

The 19 small copperplates weighed 537.3 grams = 1¼ pounds and would have cost 8s.

Copies were apparently printed in 1794 (A-D, G, M) and 1795 (L) (Viscomi, 376); all other copies are imitations rather than Blake's originals.

Blake's final order for the work was pl. a1-9, b3-4, 12, as Viscomi demonstrates; he reproduces the work thus from copies A (pl. b12), B (pl. a9), C (pl. a4, a8, b3-4), and G (pl. a1-3, a5-7) (Viscomi, illus. 228-39).

Songs pl. a "may originally have been executed for There is No Natural Religion, series b, but rejected", according to R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 1995", Blake, XXIX (1996).

The copy of No Natural Religion pl. a9 sold at Christie's, 29 November 1988, lot 74, as an original was returned and accepted as a facsimile (perhaps from the Pearson edition of 1886 <BBS>--see R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 1988", Blake, XXIII (1989), 4.

COPY B

HISTORY: (5) Mrs Emerson lent it to the exhibition at the Boston Museum of Fine Art in December 1929; (6) By 1977 Mr Mellon had given it to (7) The YALE CENTER FOR BRITISH ART.

It is reproduced online in the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi, and in the Yale Center for British Art.

COPY C

HISTORY: The three prints which Locker added to his copy on 26 July 1878 were pl. a2-3, 6 (Viscomi, 205), not pl. a2, 8-9 (as in Geoffrey Keynes and Edwin Wolf II, William Blake's Illuminated Books: A Census [1953]) or pl. a2-3, 5 (as in BB 444).

It is reproduced online in the Library of Congress and in the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi.

COPY E

HISTORY: (3) Listed in James Tregaskis Catalogue 796 (15 October 1917), lot 2, from the Stopford A. Brooke Collection for £52 (reduced in MS in the Essick copy to £38)

... (5) From Mrs Ramsay Harvey, it passed by inheritance to (6) Mr Giles Harvey.<sup>406</sup>

COPY F

BINDING: According to a note by Carolyn Horton and Associates of New York City inserted at the back of the book, it was taken apart. Leaves deacidified with magnesium bicarbonate. Folds reinforced, leaves supported with lens tissue where weak, inter leaved with acid-free tissue and re-sewed. Original paper sides re-used. Book plate preserved in mylar. New chemise constructed. Leather box treated with potassium lactate and neat's foot oil and lanolin. May, 1977 ...

The binding order is now a1, 3-4, 7-9, b3-4, 12 (Viscomi, 406).

HISTORY: When it was sold with the R.A. Potts Library at Sotheby's, 20 February 1913, lot 65, it consisted not of "eleven leaves" (as in BB445) but of eight leaves, i.e., lacking pl. a2, a5-6 (Viscomi, 406) ... (4) A.E. Newton lent it to the Philadelphia Museum of Art exhibition (1926) ...

It is reproduced online in the Library of Congress.

---

<sup>406</sup> It was withdrawn from the Christie sale of the other Harvey Blakes (30 Nov 1993) when its authenticity was questioned on the basis of the discoveries of Professor Joseph Viscomi.

COPY G

Partly reproduced in The Early Illuminated Books, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi (1993) and in The Complete Illuminated Books, ed. David Bindman (2000) and online by the Pierpont Morgan Library and the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi.

COPY G<sup>1</sup> pl. a4, a6, b3

HISTORY: (4Av) John Windle, offered them [on consignment from The American Blake Foundation] in his Catalogue Forty-Two: Blake Plates (2006), lots 85-87 (each P.O.E.), from which they were bought by (4Avi) Professor Robert N. Essick.

COPY H

Partly reproduced in colour in The Complete Illuminated Books, ed. David Bindman (2000).

COPY L<sup>2</sup>

This copy does not have pl. "b2-4" (as in BB 80; no copy of b2 is known); the entry should read "b3-4" (Viscomi, 406).

Copy L was reproduced in The Early Illuminated Books, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi (1993), in The Complete Illuminated Books, ed. David Bindman (2000), and online in the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi.

COPY M

Copy M is reproduced online at the Victoria and Albert Museum.

EDITIONS

There is No Natural Religion. ([London: B.M. Pickering, ?1866-68]) <BBS>

The detailed evidence demonstrating that No Natural Religion (E-F, H-K<sup>407</sup>), including two versions each of pl. a9 and b12, are imitations based on copy C, perhaps made about 1866-68 by W.J. Linton for an abortive facsimile commissioned by B.M. Pickering, was brilliantly set out in Viscomi, esp. 198-216.

There is No Natural Religion. Privately Printed (London: Pickering and Co., 1886) <BBS>

"Copy I, one of the bogus copies, ... was the model for Pickering & Co." (Viscomi, 205).

---

<sup>407</sup> However, "copies F, H, and I have five authentic impressions that were added after their initial collation. ... All impressions in ... copies [A-D, G, M] are authentic" (Viscomi, 203).

Viscomi also provides useful new information about the imitations, such as that

In copy J, "Brentano's New York" was embossed in blind on the free front endpaper of each volume. In copy K, a small sticker pasted in the lower right corner of the inside front board of volume one advertises: "R.H. Johnston / 64 Nassau St. / Elegant Books / Best Editions / At low Prices." ... both establishments were in business in the 1860s, and the former had a bindery [Viscomi, 207].

The pile of loose [imitation] No Natural Religion prints acquired by Brooke and Potts probably consisted of 34 leaves (Viscomi, 215), not 26 as deduced in BB 83 n1.

There is No Natural Religion(1971) The William Blake Trust
<BB>

REVIEWS

§Anon., "Is There a Natural Blake?", Times Literary Supplement, 28 April 1972, p. 470 (with 2 others)

Kay Parkhurst Easson, Blake Studies, V, 1 (1972)
(with another)

The prints are reproduced in Todas las religiones son una / No hay religión, tr. David Francisco (2014).

Tiriel
(?1789)

HISTORY: (1) ... it was lent, apparently by Mrs Gilchrist, to Algernon Swinburne in 1864;<sup>408</sup> ... (3) Offered by Quaritch in Catalogue No. 243 (October 1905), lot 180, £125, and Catalogue No. 271 (January 1909), lot 194, £50, each described as ("About 1790"), "neatly written in a small hand on 8 leaves; with the original blue paper wrapper"; "the inscription on ... the original blue paper cover, 'Tiriel, MS. by

---

<sup>408</sup> According to Swinburne's letter to W.M. Rossetti, 13 Oct [1864], "The one autograph ms ever entrusted to me was Tiriel" (Uncollected Letters of Algernon Swinburne, ed. Terry L. Meyers, Volume 1 1848-1874 (London: Pickering & Chatto, 2005), 1, 29).

Joseph Knight wrote to Swinburne on 9 Feb 1865: "My friend Purnell can lend you the volume of Blake you require. ... I will call on Sunday afternoon for the M.S." (1,31). It isn't clear whether the "volume of Blake" is the same as "the M.S." Swinburne's friend Thomas Purnell (1834-89) is not recorded in BB, BBS, Blake (1992 ff.), BR (2), or Butlin.

Mr. Blake' is in Blake's own handwriting", "The handwriting is the same, though the pen with which the last part is written is somewhat finer".

For the History of the Drawings, see Part II, Section A.

EDITION

Tiriel, ed. G. E. Bentley, Jr (1967) <BB>

REVIEWS

§Anon., Times [London], 4 April 1968, p. 334(with another)

§H.R. Wackrill, Arts Review, 14 October 1967

§British Book News (December 1967)

§Chronique des arts (December 1967), in French

Graham Pechey, Cambridge Review (19 January 1968), 195-96

§H.R. Wackrill (bis), British Journal of Aesthetics, VIII (January 1968), 203-4

§Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 4 April 1968, p. 334 (with another)

Geoffrey Keynes, Library, 5 S, XXIII (June 1968), 172-73

§English (Spring 1968)

I[rene] H. C[hayes], English Language Notes, VI (Spring 1968), 20-21

§English Studies (August 1968)

§D.S. Bland, Notes and Queries, CCXIII (December 1968), 474

§Manfred Putz, Anglia, LXXXIX, 2, 265

To the Public
(1793)

Weight and Cost of Copperplates

The two copperplates of To the Public, of unknown dimensions, might have cost 15s.

Upcott's Autograph Album
(16 January 1826)

HISTORY: (1) Made and bound in 1833 for William Upcott, listed under British Artists in Original Letters, Manuscripts, and State Papers Collected by William Upcott, Islington (Privately Printed, 1836), p. 46; (2) Bought by Bennet J. Beyer Inc.<sup>409</sup>

Vala or The Four Zoas*
([?1796-?1807])

EDITIONS

William Blake's Vala: Blake's Numbered Text, ed. H.M. Margoliouth (1956) <BB>

REVIEWS

§Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 19 October 1956, p. 618 (with another)

§K. Raine, New Statesman and Nation, 3 November 1956, p. 558 (with another)

---

<sup>409</sup>Anon., "Keats Love Letter Is Brought Here: Obtained for American with Unpublished Autographs of Lamb and William Blake", New York Times, 11 Sept 1925.

- §Bernard Blackstone, Modern Language Review, LII, 3
(July 1957), 424-26
- §George Mills Harper, Journal of English and Germanic Philology, LVI, 4 (October 1957), 638-39
- §F.H. Vaughan, Hibbert Journal, LV (1957), 302-4
(with another)
- D.V. E[rdman], Philological Quarterly, XXXVI
(1957), 110-11
- §Jean Wahl, Etudes anglaises, X (1957), 158-60, in French
- §Anon., Notes and Queries, CCII (1957), 89-90
- §Martin K. Nurmi, Modern Language Notes, LXXIII,
4 (April 1958), 297-99
- §R.T.F., Personalist, XXXIX (1958), 197-98 (with another)
- §T.R. Henn, Review of English Studies, X, 37
(February 1959), 92-94

**Vala or The Four Zoas*, ed. G.E. Bentley, Jr (1963) <BB>

REVIEWS

- Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 26 July 1963, p. 579
- M.K. Nurmi, Philological Quarterly, XLIII (October 1963), 449
- Brian O'Doherty, New York Times Book Review, 1 December 1963, p. 6
- §Anne Kostelanetz, Arts Magazine (February 1964)

George Mills Harper, "Blake's Unfinished Masterpiece in Facsimile", Sewanee Review, LXXII, 2 (Spring 1964), 326-28

Anon., Virginia Quarterly Review (Spring 1964)

Martin Butlin, "Blake's 'Vala, or the Four Zoas' and a New Water-colour in the Tate Gallery," Burlington Magazine, XCI, 737 (August 1964)

John E. Grant, "Blake Original and New", Modern Language Quarterly, XXV, 3 (September 1964), 356-64 (with 2 others) ("a major scholarly accomplishment")

K.J. Garlick, Modern Language Review, LIX (October 1964), 642-43 (with others)

§Martin K. Nurmi [bis], Journal of English and Germanic Philology, LXIII, 4 (October 1964), 806-8

F.W. Bateson, Review of English Studies, NS XV, 60 (November 1964), 437-39

Anne Kostelanetz [bis], "Romantic Poets and Pontificators", Minnesota Review, IV (1964), 532-43 ("judicious and painstaking ... His own interpretation ... is probably valid" [pp. 534-35])

§Raymond Lister, Journal of the Royal Society of Arts, CXII (1964), 280

John E. Grant [bis], Modern Language Review, LIX (1964), 642-43 (with others)

Marius Bewley, Hudson Review, XVII, 2 (Summer 1964), 278-85 (with others)

R.H. Super, "Recent Studies in Nineteenth Century English Literature", Studies in English Literature 1500-1900, IV (1964), 663-85 (a "magnificent folio edition ... a prized possession in itself" [p. 665])

Hazard Adams, Modern Philology, LXII, 3 (February 1965), 266-70 ("The debt of all Blake students to Bentley is ... a considerable one" [p. 267])

§Henri Lemaître, "A propos de William Blake", Etudes anglaises, XX (July-September 1967), 289-96 (with 4 others), in French

David V. Erdman, "The Binding (et cetera) of Vala", Library, XIX [for 1964] (1968), 112-29 (an attack) <BB #1557>

The Four Zoas, ed. Landon Dowdey assisted by Patricia Hopkins Rice (1983) <BBS>

REVIEWS

§Michael Patrick Hearn, American Book Collector, NS V, 23 (1984), 56

§W.J.T. Mitchell, Library Quarterly, LV, 1 (January 1985), 115-17

The Four Zoas: A Photographic Facsimile of the Manuscript with Commentary on the Illustrations, ed. Cettina Tramontano Magno and David V. Erdman (1987) <BBS>

REVIEWS

- M[ark] T. S[mith], Romantic Movement ... Bibliography for 1987 (1988), 119-20
- *Andrew Lincoln, Blake, XXII, 4 (Spring 1989), 116-20
- §W.H. Stevenson, "Blake's Designs", Essays in Criticism, XXXIX (1989), 161-68
- §Brian Wilkie, Journal of English and Germanic Philology, LXXXVIII (1989), 106-11
- §Martin Bidney, Studies in Romanticism, XXIX, 1 (Spring 1990), 317-23 (with another)
- Stuart Peterfreund, Eighteenth Century ... Bibliography, NS XII (1994), 384

§Czterej Zoa [The Four Zoas]: Męki Miłowania I Zazdrości Gdy Umarł Był. Osądzony Albion i Pradawni Człowiek. Tr. Maciej Słomczyński (Karaków: "Zielona Sowa", 2006) 163 pp.; ISBN: 97883738928743 In Polish §"Blake's 'The Four Zoas' Fetishized: An Experimental Hypertext." Ed. E. William Ruegg.

<<http://www.1cc.gatech.edu/lio/romantic/blakefetish.nassr.htm>
l>.

A curious version of the manuscript.

Visions of the Daughters of Albion
(1793[-1818])

| TABLE |        |        |
|-------|--------|--------|
| Copy  | Plates | Leaves |

S                      1-11                      11
Untraced

Weight and Cost of Copperplates

The 11 plates weighed 2,708.9 grams = 6 pounds and would have cost £4.2.6.

Copies were apparently printed in 1793 (a [proof], A-E, H-M), 1794 (F, R), 1795 (G, Q?), and 1818 (N-P) (Viscomi, 376-79).

PRINTING: "Copies H-M ... were certainly printed together and most likely as an issue of an edition that included copies A-E"; in copies I-M,

The copies' shared format, [green] ink color, and materials suggest they also shared a printing session. Their wiped cloud lines also indicate as much ... all these copies [A-E, H-M] share the same inking accidentals. For example, the traces of ink from inside the right, bottom, and left margins as well as the shallows along the right margin of plate 7 of copy L ... are also in copies H[-K, M] ..., effects impossible to duplicate except by sequential pulls.<sup>410</sup>

---

<sup>410</sup> Viscomi, 113. However, what I see on his reproductions of pl. 7 in copies A-M, O-P, R is merely remains of ink incompletely wiped from the margins in patterns not definitively identical.

"The sequence of colors appears to have been raw sienna, yellow ochre, and green, with the first six impressions printed on Whatman paper and the last five on Edmeads & Pine paper" (Viscomi, 114).

VARIANT:

Pl. 7: In l. 7, "bring | Comforts into a present sorrow", "present" is emended to "prevent" in copy G (Viscomi, 398).

COPY a

Reproduced in the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi.

COPY A

HISTORY: (2) Offered in A.E. Evans and Son catalogue ([1845]), lot 719, 11 pp., "beautifully coloured by Blake himself", £4.4.0 ...

Reproduced in the William Blake Archive , ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi in 2009.

COPY B

Reproduced in the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi.

COPY C

It is reproduced online in the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi.

COPY D

HISTORY: (3) Mrs Emerson lent it to the exhibition at the Boston Museum of Fine Art in December 1929.

COPY E

HISTORY: (1) Perhaps this<sup>411</sup> is the folio copy “tinted by the Author himself” which was offered in John Bohn’s Catalogue (1843), lot 1,120, at £1.11.6 ...

Reproduced in colour in Huntington Library Quarterly, LVIII (1996) and online in in Huntington Digital Images and in the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi.

COPY F

BINDING: (1) Bound with Europe (A), Song of Los (B) and fragments of other works; (2) described in Quaritch catalogue No. 405 (December 1926), lot 242 as “Folio, 11 ll., printed in brown on one side only and FINELY COLOURED BY HAND BY BLAKE, with water-colour and opaque pigment, the frontispiece has been inlaid and a torn leaf has been skilfully repaired; loosely inserted in a volume; half morocco, UNCUT ... duplicates of the first three plates, printed in green and painted in water-colours, are inserted.”

HISTORY: (Bi) It was offered, still bound with other works, by Quaritch in his Catalogue No. 203 (December 1900), lot 193 and Catalogue No. 405 (December 1926), lot 242, at £525.0.0.

---

<sup>411</sup>Or copies A, C-D, I-N.

It is reproduced on line by the Pierpont Morgan Library.

COPY G

HISTORY: For the Binding and History, see Thel (J).

Reproduced in colour in The Complete Illuminated Books, ed. David Bindman (2000) and online by Harvard Libraries.

COPY H

HISTORY: (4) Mrs Emerson lent it, with Song of Los (C) and Europe (G) with which it had been bound, to the exhibition at the Boston Museum of Fine Art in December 1929. The volume with Visions (H), Europe (G), and Song of Los (H) was broken up; Europe (G) and Song of Los (H) were (Bi) acquired by Mrs Landon K. Thorne and given in 1972 to (Bii) The PIERPONT MORGAN LIBRARY. <BB carelessly omitted to note under Visions (H) that Europe (G) had been given to the Morgan Library and indeed went so far on pp. 65, 142 as to indicate that it still belonged to Mrs Thorne.>

Reproduced in The Early Illuminated Books, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi (1993).

COPY I

BINDING: Described in Quaritch catalogue No. 231 (June 1904), lot 1601, as "Folio, 11 leaves ... coloured by the hand of the artist himself; half morocco, gilt edges, with the bookplate of Thomas Gaisford".

It is reproduced online in the Yale Center for British Art and the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N.

Essick, and Joseph Viscomi (2010).

COPY J

It is reproduced online in the Library of Congress and in the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi, and in Libros Proféticos, tr. Bernardo Santano (2013), Vol. I.

COPY N

BINDING: Inscribed in pencil on the front fly-leaf: “1848 | 12 8th paid 70s | for this to | A Evans & Son | London | RT [or perhaps RL] | 4 guineas was asked for it”.<sup>412</sup>

HISTORY: (2) Bought 12 August [or 8 Dec] 1848 from A. Evans and Son, London, for £3.10.0 (£4.4.0 was asked) by RT (or perhaps RL – see the inscription above) ... (5) After the death of Gertrude Vanderbilt Whitney (1877-1942), daughter of Cornelius Vanderbilt and widow of Harry Payne Whitney (1872-1930), Visions (N)<sup>413</sup> was separated from her copy of Urizen (E); (6) Visions (N) was acquired as part of a private collection not related to the Whitney family by an antique dealer<sup>414</sup> (N.B. not a bookseller), who sold it to (7) An

---

<sup>412</sup> According to John Windle as reported in R.N. Essick, “Blake in the Marketplace 2005”, Blake, XXXIX (2006), 148.

<sup>413</sup> Urizen (E) passed at the death of Gertrude Vanderbilt Whitney to Helen Hay Whitney, thence to Harry Payne Whitney’s nephew John Hay Whitney, thence to John’s widow Betsy Cushing Whitney (d. 1998), and sold with her estate at Sotheby’s (N.Y.), 23 April 1999.

<sup>414</sup> According to letters to me from Edwin Wolf 2nd and R.B. Adams of Sept and 15 Oct 1965, Urizen (E) and Visions (N) were seen in a desk drawer in anonymous buyer who brought it in 2004 to Swann Galleries (N.Y.) where it was to be sold in April 2005, until it became embroiled in a dispute over ownership;<sup>415</sup> the anonymous individual who said he had acquired Visions (N) from an antique dealer and offered to sell it in 2004 at Swann Galleries (N.Y.) was sued for possession of it by a member or members of the Whitney family; the suit was settled out of court, and the book is again in the possession of a member or members of the Whitney family, who in 2005 did not plan to sell it;<sup>416</sup> Sold by the Whitney family through Sotheby's (N.Y.) "for something over $2 million" to (8) An Anonymous collection.<sup>417</sup>

COPY O

HISTORY: Reproduced in the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi (2006).

COPY P

HISTORY: Reproduced in the William Blake Archive , ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi (2006).

---

Gertrude Whitney's house after her death by Arthur Swann, then of Parke Bernet, and by Hyatt Mayor. Can Visions (N) have been in the desk when it was sold as an antique?

<sup>415</sup> All the post-1942 provenance here derives from Robert N. Essick's account in "Blake in the Marketplace, 2004", Blake, XXXVIII (2005), 148.

<sup>416</sup> The information about the lawsuit, ownership, and plan not to sell came to Essick from Christine von der Linn of Swann Galleries (now Swann). For more details about the History of Visions (N), see BB #213 and BBS 145.

<sup>417</sup> According to R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2007", Blake, XLI (2008).

NEWCOPY

COPY S

BINDING: Bound with America (S), Thel (S), Europe (N), and Urizen (K); see America (S).

HISTORY: For the provenance, see America (S) with which it was bound.

PLATE 3

See Small Book of Designs (A).

PLATES 1, 7

The prints are reproduced online in Tate Britain.

PLATE 10 (Keynes Family Trust)

See Small Book of Designs (B)

An unidentified copy of Visions of the Daughters of Albion is reproduced in black-and-white, much reduced in size, in Claudia Corti, Stupende Fantasie (2002).

EDITIONS

**Visions of the Daughters of Albion* [A]. Reproduced in Facsimile. With a Note by John Middleton Murry (London, Toronto, and N.Y.: Dent, 1932) <BB>

Pl. 5 (and perhaps other plates) "from 'VISIONS OF THE DAUGHTERS OF ALBION,' By William Blake With an Introduction by J. Middleton Murry (Dent)" was issued as a §"Supplement to 'The Bookman,' Christmas, 1932".

REVIEW

§Ronald Clowes, Connoisseur, XC (December 1932)

*"Visiones de la Hijas de Albion (Visions of the Daughters of Albion)." Tr. Pablo Neruda. Cruz y Raya: Revista de Afirmacon y Negacion, 20 (Madrid, Noviembre de 1934), 85-104. In Spanish B. Obras Completas. Ed. Margarita Aquirre, Alfonso Escudero, and Hernan Loyola. (Buenos Aires: Losada, 1973) Vol. III C. Reprint of Cruz y Raya (Nedeln-Liechtenstein: Kraus Reprint, 1975) Biblioteca del 36: Revistas Literarias en la Segunda Republica Español Pp. 265-84

The first printing in 1934 has a prefatory note in Spanish by 'C.K. CHESTERTON'.

§Visions of the Daughters of Albion (Pawlet, Vermont: Set & printed by Claude Fredericks ... for the pleasure of his friends, 1957) <BB #2125>

Visions of the Daughters of Albion (1959) The William Blake Trust <BB>

REVIEWS

§Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 8 January 1960, p. 16

§B[ernard] B[lackstone], New Statesman and Nation, 27 February 1960, p. 307

**Visions of the Daughters of Albion*. Ed., with a Commentary, by Robert N. Essick (San Marino, California:

The Huntington Library and Art Gallery, 2002) 4°, xviii, 80 pp., 28 prints; ISBN: 087328187X

Facsimile of copy E (pp. [viii-xviii]), transcription of copy E (pp. 3-14), "The Huntington Copy: Bibliographic and Textual Notes" (pp. 15-16), "List of Illustrations from Blake's Notebook" (pp. 19-20), Commentary (pp. 21-69), and "Bibliography: Studies of Visions of the Daughters of Albion" (pp. 75-78).

REVIEWS

§Review of English Studies, LIV (2003), 691+

§Andrew Lincoln, Review of English Studies, LIV, 217 (2003), 692-93

§Reference and Research Book News, XVIII (2003), 227+

Catherine L. McClenahan, Blake, XXXVIII (2004), 77-79 ("Visions could scarcely ask for a more experienced and informed editor", who has provided a "lucid" commentary)

Andrew Wilton, British Journal for Eighteenth Century Studies, XXVII (2004), 126-27

Visions of the Daughters of Albion copy E. Ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi (2010).

Visions of the Daughters of Albion copy I. Ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi (2010).

**Visions of the Daughters of Albion (Illuminated Manuscript [sic] with the Original Illustrations of William Blake)*. (e-artnow, 2013) ISBN: 9788074844072

Probably Visions (J) -- see The Complete Illustrated Books of William Blake.

WORKS LOST<sup>418</sup>

Account (1800)

In his letter to Butts of 22 September 1800, Blake wrote: "My Sister will be in town in a week & bring with her your account & what ever else I can finish." No such account is known.

Account (1802)

On 22 November 1802 Blake wrote to Butts: "I have inclosed the Account of Money reciev'd & work done", but no such account is known.

Account Book (1804)

Blake referred in his letter to Hayley of 28 December 1804 to "my account Book in which I have regularly written down Every Sum I have reciev'd from you",<sup>419</sup> but no such account book is now known.

---

<sup>418</sup>Omitting drawings (see Martin Butlin, The Paintings and Drawings of William Blake (1981), prints without text by Blake, and copper-plates and woodcuts (virtually all). The surviving copper-plates are chiefly Hogarth, "Beggar's Opera" (1788) <Harvard>, America (1793) pl. a <U.S. National Gallery>, Blake, "Canterbury Pilgrims" (1810) <Yale University Art Gallery>, Job (1826) <British Museum Print Room>, Dante (1826-27) <U.S. National Gallery>. Blake's surviving woodblocks are for Virgil (1821) <British Museum Print Room> and "Isaiah Foretelling the Destruction of Jerusalem" (1821?) <British Museum Print Room>.

<sup>419</sup> Joseph Viscomi, Blake and the Idea of the Book (1993), 250, remarks: "Blake apparently kept no ledger detailing the cost of supplies".

Canterbury Pilgrims subscription (1806)

According to Gilchrist, Life of William Blake, "Pictor Ignotus" (1863), I, 204, "a subscription paper for an engraving of The Canterbury Pilgrims had been circulated by Blake's friends ... in 1806, two years before the publication of The Grave" (1808). No other reference to this "subscription paper" is known.

It must have been compiled either by Blake or from his information. The subscription paper cannot be "Blake's Chaucer: The Canterbury Pilgrims" ("May 15th 1809") or "Blake's Chaucer: An Original Engraving" (n.d., watermark 1810),<sup>420</sup> which silently quote from the Descriptive Catalogue (1809).

The date is important, for it seems to demonstrate that Blake's plan to engrave the Canterbury Pilgrims decisively preceded that of his rival Stothard.

Ticket of admission to Blake's exhibition of 1809-1810

The only evidence for the existence of the ticket is in the postscript to Blake's letter of May 1809 to Ozias Humphry: "I inclose a ticket of admission if you should honour my Exhibition with a Visit".

"A Work on Art"

Viscomi, 419, suggests that Blake's experimental relief plate of the figure from Death's Door ... may have been produced as an illustration to Blake's proposed "new Mode of Engraving" in answer to Cumberland's suggestion that

---

<sup>420</sup>Copies of each belonged to Gilchrist's son.

“perhaps when done you might with a few specimens of Plates make a little work for subscribers of it--” (BR 311).

PART I APPENDIX WORKS IMPROBABLY ATTRIBUTED TO BLAKE

Manuscript Newly Attributed to Blake

Inscription for Hogarth’s Beggar’s Opera (1790)

DESCRIPTION: A print of Blake’s engraving for Hogarth’s Beggar’s Opera is enclosed in a heavy frame with a “secret” compartment in which is a manuscript description of the actors, actresses, and spectators seated on the stage as they appear in Hogarth’s painting (they are described as clad “in Scarlet”, “in Brown”, and “in blue”). The same text is printed with published versions of Hogarth’s prints.

The finished versions of Blake’s print bear the imprint “Publish’d July 1.st 1790, by J. and J. Boydell ...” The imprint cannot be seen because the frame covers it.

The manuscript does not appear to me to be “in Blake’s own hand” (see below). Note, for instance, that the “C” for the Hogarth print goes below the line (“Clark”, “Collection”, “Charles”, “Cock”, “Cooke”, “Conyers” [2]), while Blake’s “C” of the same date does not go below the line (“Come” [2] and “Curse”, Tiriel [1789?], p. 1). The “F” for the Hogarth print has a downward flourish at the right end of the cross bar (“Filch”, “Fenton”, “From”), while in Blake there is no such flourish (“For” in Tiriel, p. 1).

HISTORY: (1) This may be the copy in Philip C. Duschnes Catalogue Number 140 (N.Y., November 1959), lot 57,

Beggar's Opera, "State One", "inscribed in Blake's own hand, 'Beggar's Opera'", "the Wolpe copy", $750; (2) The print with its frame and manuscript were acquired at Butterfield Auctions (San Francisco), 23 June 1969, by André Furlan (as Mr Furlan told me), who lent it to the Exposition au Château de Nérac (27 May-6 July 2014), where it was the only work exhibited.

Letter of Ozias Humphry to "D<sup>r</sup> William" 15 June 1806

Ozias Humphry's letter to "D[ea]<sup>r</sup> William" of 15 June 1806 was associated with William Blake chiefly on the ground that what the letter calls "your Copy of my statement" which "I shall without hesitation submit ... to the Queen & all the Royal Family" may refer to the dedication of Blake's designs to Blair's Grave "To the Queen". However, according to Cromek's letter of April 1807 this dedication was submitted to the Queen by Cromek, not by Humphry, apparently soon after Blake's poem and design for it were made in April 1807, not in June 1806. It seems likely, therefore, that this letter from Ozias Humphry to Dear William of 15 June 1806 has nothing to do with William Blake.

Sophocles Manuscript

A small notebook bears a translation of Sophocles' Ajax in a late 18th century hand. Interspersed at apparently random intervals are "Blake", "W<sup>m</sup> Blake", and "William Blake" in a hand or hands similar to but distinct from that of the poet. The book was acquired by Edmund Blunden, who wrote essays in it, and it was vainly offered for sale by his

William Blake and His Circle
Part I: Collections and Selections

453 widow Clare in 1993 through Antony Rota.

SECTION B

COLLECTIONS AND SELECTIONS<sup>421</sup>

TABLE 13

BLAKE'S WORKS REPRINTED IN CONVENTIONAL TYPOGRAPHY BEFORE 1863

ADDENDA

1811

"The Tyger" (Experience) in German in Ariel, "Blake, Dichter, Schwärmer, und Mahler Zugleich", Morgenblatt für gebildete Stände [Tubingen]

1825 May

"The Chimney Sweeper" (Innocence) in Hone's Every-Day Book

1827

"The Chimney Sweeper" (Innocence) in Hone's Every-Day Book

1828

§"The Lamb." Wesleyan-Methodist Magazine, LI (1828), 425

---

<sup>421</sup> Here and below I ignore most mere reprints.

1830

"The Chimney Sweeper" (Innocence) in Hone's Every-Day Book and Hone, The Every-Day Book and Table Book

1831

"The Chimney Sweeper" (Innocence) in Hone's Every-Day Book and Hone, The Every-Day Book and Table Book

"The Tiger" in Pictures, Scriptural and Historical, ed. Mrs [Rose] Lawrence

"To the Muses", Cameos from the Antique, or, the Cabinet of Mythology ... for the Use of Children, ed. Mrs [Rose] Lawrence (1831)

1832

"Introduction" to Innocence in J.B.S., "Despotism of Imagination", [Samuel Coate] Atkinson's Casket, or Gems of Literature, Wit and Sentiment [Philadelphia]

1833

"The Chimney Sweeper" (Innocence) in Hone's Every-Day book and Hone, The Every-Day Book and Table Book

"Edward III" (Poetical Sketches), "The Chimney Sweeper", "Holy Thursday", "The Lamb" (from Innocence), "Der Tiger" (from Experience), and Blake's letter of 20 September 1800 in prose translations into German in Anon., "William Blake, ein ausgezeichneter Künstler, Dichter, und Narr", Magazin für die Literatur des Auslandes "The Tiger" in Pictures, Scriptural and Historical, ed. Mrs [Rose] Lawrence

1835

"The Chimney Sweeper" (Innocence) in Hone's Every-Day book and Hone, The Every-Day Book and Table Book

1837

"The Chimney Sweeper" (Innocence) in Hone's Every-Day book and Hone, The Every-Day Book and Table Book

"Holy Thursday" (Innocence) was quoted in "Educational Charities", Monthly Supplement to The Penny Magazine

1838

"The Chimney Sweeper" (Innocence) in Hone's Every-Day Book and Hone, The Every-Day Book and Table Book

1839

"The Chimney Sweeper" (Innocence) in Hone's Every-Day Book and Hone, The Every-Day Book and Table Book

"Introduction" to Innocence, "Laughing Song", "Nurse's Song" (from Innocence), "The Lamb", "The Little Black Boy", "Cradle Song" (from Experience), "The School Boy", "On Another's Sorrow", plus a passage from Thel. Anon., "Blake's Poetry" (a review of Songs [1839]), Monthly Magazine, N.S., II, 12 (December 1839), 700-11 <BBS 342-43>

1841

"The Chimney Sweeper" (Innocence) in Hone's Every-Day Book and Hone, The Every-Day Book and Table Book

1842

"The Little Black Boy." National Anti-Slavery Standard

"The Chimney Sweeper [from Innocence]." National Anti-Slavery Standard

"Night." National Anti-Slavery Standard

"The Divine Image." National Anti-Slavery Standard

"A Dream." National Anti-Slavery Standard

1843

"The Chimney Sweeper" (Innocence), "The Little Boy Lost", and "The Little Boy Found", The Child's Gem, ed. Mrs S. Colman (1844 [i.e., 1843])

1844

"The Little Black Boy." National Anti-Slavery Standard

1845

"On Another's Sorrow." National Anti-Slavery Standard

"On Another's Sorrow." National Anti-Slavery Standard

"A Little Boy Lost." National Anti-Slavery Standard

§"The Lamb." Francis Edward Paget, The Churchman's Companion in the Closet; or, A Complete Manual of Private Devotion (N.Y.: D. Appleton and Co., 1845).

B. §(N.Y.: Stanford and Swords, 1853) C. §(Stanford and Delisser, 1858) D. §(N.Y.: H.B. Durand, 1862)

1846

"The Chimney-Sweeper" (Innocence) and "On Anothers Sorrow", Voices of the True-Hearted (Philadelphia: J. Miller M'Kim, 1846) under "Anti-Slavery Poems" and "Historical Eras"

"On Another's Sorrow", "Night", "The Little Black Boy", in Poetry for Home and School. First and Second Parts. Second Edition (Boston: S.G. Simpkins, 1846) Pp. 49-50, 52-53, 61-62. <Harvard> [1843, 1855, and 1861 are in BB.]

1847

"The Little Black Boy" and "The Tyger" in The Estray: A Collection of Poems [Ed. Henry Wadsworth Longfellow] (Boston: William D. Taylor, 1847) Pp. 36-37, 103-4

"Mad Song" in Anon. review of Southey's The Doctor in

Dublin University Magazine

“To the Muses” first stanza in Goethe, Faust, tr. Louis Filmore (1847)

1848

"Ah! Sunflower." National Anti-Slavery Standard, IX, 16 (14 September 1848), 64

“The Little Black Boy” in Literary Gleanings By an Invalid [Fanny H. Henslowe] (London: W. Newbery, 1848), p. 128

1849

"The Chimney Sweeper [from Innocence]." National Anti-Slavery Standard, X, 23 (1 November 1849), 92

“To the Muses” (called “The Poet Complains to the Muses of the Decline of Poetry”) in Cameos from the Antique; or, the Cabinet of Mythology: Selections Illustrative of the Mythology of Greece and Italy, for the Use of Young Persons, and Intended as a Sequel to the Poetical Primer. Ed. Mrs [Rose] Lawrence. Second Edition, Revised<sup>422</sup> (Liverpool: Deighton and Laughton; London: Whittaker and Co., 1849)

1851

“Holy Thursday” (Innocence) in J.C. Platt, “Exeter Hall” in London, ed. Charles Knight (1851), V, 242, and thence in London As It Is To-Day ... (1851), 10

1852

“The Tiger” (minus the last stanza) in J.H.F., “Blake the Visionary”, True Briton

1853

---

<sup>422</sup> I have not seen the first edition of 1842.

“Holy Thursday” (Innocence) in Illustrated Magazine of Art [N.Y.] I (1853), 109 (from London, ed. Charles Knight [1851])

1854

"The Ecchoing Green" [called "A Summer Evening on a Village Green"], Pictorial Calendar of the Seasons, ed. Mary Howitt, 274-75

“The Lamb”, Pictorial Calendar of the Seasons ... Embodying the Whole of Aikin’s Calender of Nature. Ed. Mary Baker Howitt (London: Henry G. Bohn, 1854) P. 228

§“Nurses Song” (Innocence), “The Lamb”, “The Poet and the Child” [i.e., “Introduction” to Innocence], and “The Tyger”, in A Poetry Book for Children, ed. J.C. (1854), 12, 13, 88

1857

“My Silks” (Poetical Sketches), “The Tiger”, “The Little Black Boy” and “The Chimney Sweeper” (Innocence), “The Garden of Love”, and “On Another’s Sorrow” (Experience), in The Household Book of Poetry, ed. Charles Dana, Fifth Edition (N.Y. and London: D. Appleton and Company, 1857), 74, 90, 162, 388, 785-6) <BBS 166>

1858

“On Another’s Sorrow”, “Night”, “The Little Black Boy” in Gleanings from the Poets, For Home and School ... A New Edition, Enlarged (Boston: Crosby, Nichols, and Cooper, 1858)<sup>423</sup> Pp. 49-50, 52-53, 61-62. <Harvard>
“The Tiger”, “The Chimney Sweeper”, “The Little Black

---

<sup>423</sup> The copyright date is 1850. BB #280 has editions of 1855 and 1862. See Poetry for Home and School (1846) with the same poems and page-references.

Boy", "The Garden of Love", and "On Another's Sorrow" (in Dana, pp. 74, 162-63, 688, 785; see 1857) <BBS 166>

1859

"The Little Black Boy" in Household Book, ed. Charles Anderson Dana (1859), 102

"The Tiger", "The Chimney Sweeper", "The Little Black Boy", "The Garden of Love", and "On Another's Sorrow" (in Dana, Fifth Edition, pp. 74, 162-63, 688, 785; see 1857) <BBS 166>

1860

"The Tiger", "The Chimney Sweeper", "The Little Black Boy", "The Garden of Love", and "On Another's Sorrow" (in Dana, Fifth Edition, pp. 74, 162-63, 688, 785; see 1857) <BBS 166>

"The Chimney Sweeper" (?1860) (Sudbury Leaflet)

1861

"The Piper" [i.e., "Introduction" to Innocence], Folk Songs, ed. John Williamson Palmer (N.Y.: Charles Scribner; London: Sampson Low, Son, and Company, 1861) B. (N.Y., 1861) <BB #281>

"The Tiger", "The Chimney Sweeper", "The Little Black Boy", "The Garden of Love", and "On Another's Sorrow" (in Dana, Sixth Edition, pp. 74, 162-63, 688, 785; see 1857) <BBS 166>

"Introduction to 'Songs of Innocence'", "The Lamb", "The Divine Image", "The Echoing Green", "On Another's Sorrow" in Poetry for School and Home, from the Best Authors, ed. Thomas Shorter (London: T.J. Allman, 1860), 1-2, 26, 139, 170-71

§"The Lamb." Light for Early Days (Hymns and Verses)
(London: S.M. Haughton; Wertheim and Co.; Book
Society, 1861), 6. B. §(London: Darton and Hodge, [1866])

1862

"The Ecchoing Green", Pictorial Calendar of the Seasons, ed.
Mary Howitt (1862), 274-75

§"The Lamb." A Poetical Reading Book, ed. W. M'Gavin
(Glasgow, 1862), 7

NEW EDITIONS AND REPRINTS

**A Águia e a Toupeira: Poems de William Blake.* Tr. [ & c ]
Hélio Osvaldo Alves. Coleção Citânia [No.] 2 (Guamarães: Pedra Formosa, 1996) Tall 8º, xxv + 106 pp.; ISBN:
9728118120 In Portuguese

Translation of Songs, Visions, America, Europe, Song of Los, and brief selections from Vala, Jerusalem, and Milton.

§**Alle Religionen sind Eins & Es gibt keine Naturbedingte
Religion.* Edited with a commentary by Christian W.
Bernhard (Vienna: Archetyp Verlag, 2011) 96 pp.; ISBN:
9783902746016 In German

There are colour reproductions, some of them enlarged, those of No Natural Religion from several copies and lacking
pl. 1b, with German translations of All Religions are One and
There is No Natural Religion.

**All Religions Are One & There Is No Natural Religion (Illuminated Manuscript [sic] with the Original Illustrations of William Blake).* (e-artnow, 2013) ISBN: 9788074844126

All Religions are One (A) must be from the unique copy in the Huntington Library, and There is No Natural Religion are probably from copies C or F -- see The Complete Illustrated Books of William Blake.

§A tapasztalás dalai (1993). In Hungarian
Apparently an edition of Blake.

§"Ah! Sunflower." National Anti-Slavery Standard, IX, 16
(14 September 1848), 64.

§Ah! Sun-Flower [from Experience] ([1980]) Poster illustrated and printed by Paul Peter Piech

§Ancient of Days: Selected Poetry of William Blake. Ed. Roy Taylor (Bramhall [Cheshire]: Cool Publications, 2004) An eBook, 602 KB ISBN: 9781844810772

§The Angel [from Experience] ([1981]) Poster illustrated and printed by Paul Peter Piech in 80 copies

§Antología Bilangüe. Tr. and Introduzione Enrique Caracciola Trejo. 3.d ed. (Madrid: Alianza Editorial, 2012) El Libro de Bolsillo 18 cm, 300 pp.; ISBN: 9788420658502 In Spanish (previously published in 1987, 1996, 2002)

Perhaps this is the same as his Visiones (1974, 1987, 1996).

ArtCyclopedia<sup>424</sup> (<http://www.ArtCyclopedia.com>) searches by artist's name at institutional web-sites (e.g., 41 Blake images at the Art Gallery of New South Wales, Sydney) and ImageBase reproduces online the Blakes held in 2009 by

Number                      Institution of Repro- ductions

- 1 Ackland Art Museum (University of North Carolina)
- 25 Albertina (Vienna, Austria)
- 1 Art Gallery of Greater Victoria (Victoria, British Columbia)
- 41 Art Gallery of New South Wales (Sydney, N.S.W., Australia)
- 3 Art Institute of Chicago
- 1 Brighton Museum and Art Gallery
- 4 British Museum Print Room
- 1 Brooklyn Museum
- 110 California Legion of Honor Museum (San Francisco)
- 2 Christchurch Art Gallery (New Zealand)
- 1 Cincinnati Art Museum
- 42 Cleveland Museum of Art
- 1 Courtauld Museum of Art (London)
- 1 Dallas Museum of Art
- 707 Fitzwilliam Museum (Cambridge University)
- 98 Fogg Museum (Harvard University, Cambridge,

---

<sup>424</sup> The ArtCyclopedia reproductions include very competent works by Benjamin Blake whose works were sometimes confused with those of the poet: Still Life (1823) and Interior with Figures and Still Life (1826).

- Massachusetts)
- 1 J. Paul Getty Museum
  - 1 Glencairn Museum ([Bryn Athyn], Pennsylvania)
  - Hunterian Museum and Art Gallery (Glasgow University)
  - 65 Indianapolis Museum of Art
  - Manchester Art Gallery
  - 21 Metropolitan Museum (N.Y.)
  - 1 Minneapolis Museum of Art
  - 13 National Gallery of Art (Washington, D.C.)
  - 11 National Gallery of Scotland
  - 176 National Gallery of Victoria (Melbourne, Australia)
  - 2 New Art Gallery(Walsall, England)
  - 91 New York Public Library
  - 12 Philadelphia Museum of Art
  - 8 Pierpont Morgan Library (N.Y.)
  - 2 Princeton University Library
  - 173 Tate (London)
  - 1 Texas (University of – Harry Ransom Center)
  - 38 Victoria and Albert Museum (London)
  - 11 Whitworth Art Gallery (Manchester)

Artstor Digital Library
Online Reproductions<sup>425</sup>

---

<sup>425</sup> Artstor has more than 1,500,000 images from 150 collections including Bodley, the Frick Collection, Harvard, Metropolitan Museum of Art (N.Y.), National Gallery (Washington, D.C.), and Yale. It is free through registered institutions.

Auguries of Innocence: Selections from William Blake (N.p.: CCAC Press, December 1974) C. 5" x 5".

Five pages of the "Auguries" are "Printed by Sally Wood".

§Auguries of Innocence (Bushey Heath, Herts: Taurus Press, 1976) Broadside illustrated by Peter P. Piech, 26 copies

Auguries of Innocence: A Poem (Providence [Rhode Island]: Ziggurat Press, 1997) 26 cm, 27 pp., no ISBN. 20 copies

Walter Feldman, "Introduction". The prime feature of this edition, produced in 20 copies, is the series of non-representational designs on embossed copper.

§Básně: Vidě ní dcer Albionových – Orkovonarození – Konec tajemství – Stvo_eni – Pláč Eniony – Losov vinn_lis – Hrbová jeskyně [VISIONS OF THE DAUGHTERS OF ALBION, and Portions from Several Other Prophetic Books]. Tr. Arnošt Vančěk (Praha [Czech Republic]: J. Picka, 1939) 40 pp., 38 copies, illustrations by Mirro Pegrassi <BBS> B. (1945) In Czech

"Blake no Kotoba [Blake's Proverbs]." Tr. Soetsu (Muneyoshi) Yanagi. Shirakaba [The White Birch], V (1914), 99-109. B. **Blake no Kotoba*. Tr. Soetsu (Muneyoshi) Yanagi (Tokyo: Sobunkaku, 1921) 103 pp., 36 reproductions <BB> C. Reprinted in Yanagi Muneyoshi Zenshu (1981), Vol. V <BSJ> In Japanese

Selections from Blake's letters and marginalia, plus a translation by Yanagi [from English?] of Crabb Robinson's "William Blake, Kunstler, Dichter und religiöser Schwärmer", Vaterländisches Museum, II (1811), 107-31.

Presumably the book incorporates his “Blake no kotoba”, Shirakaba [White Birch], V, 7 (July 1914), reprinted (Rinsen Shoten, 1969-72)

§Blake. Tr. Miha Avanzo (Ljubljana: Mladinska Kniga, 1978) Lirika, 42 21 cm, 113 pp. In Slovenian

**Blake* (London: Henry Frowde [1911]) 24° (7 x 9.7 cm), 66 pp., not paginated, in shot silk covered boards (Victoria University in the University of Toronto) <BB #336, BBS p. 148>

The half-title calls it "Songs of Innocence and Other Poems", the title under which it is recorded in BB.

Blake Concordance OnLine

Professor Nelson Hilton has created a Blake Concordance Online which is accessible at (http://www.english.uga.edu/Blake\_Concordance). It is based on The Complete Poetry and Prose of William Blake, ed. David V. Erdman (1988), which has been re-arranged in approximately chronological order.

The concordance uses a computer program (written in Perl) to accept a pattern of characters or characters and "wild cards", to match that string line-by-line against the more than fifty thousand lines of the data file, and to return any lines containing a match. Each returned line is identified as to work, print, or page (e.g., Europe pl. 6), and page in the Erdman edition on which it appears. Either of these identifiers may be entered on a separate screen to retrieve the larger context of a matched line.

Browsers which are "frame-enabled" may have all four (resizable) screens (two input, two result) in a single window.

E-mail links make possible the reporting of errors to the concordance editor, for correction of the online database.

A description of its workings by Nelson Hilton is in Blake, XXXIII (1999), 11-16.

The Blake Concordance Online is an alternative to A Concordance to the Writings of William Blake, ed. David V. Erdman et al (1967), which is keyed to The Complete Writings of William Blake, ed. Geoffrey Keynes (1957).

**Blake Jojoshisho* [Blake Lyrics]. Tr. Bunsho Jugaku. Iwanami Bunko. 15th Printing (Tokyo: Iwanami Shoten, 1997) 116 pp.; ISBN: 4003221710 In Japanese

The first printing was in 1931, the 14th in 1990. <BBS>

§Blake no kotoba [Aphoristic Words from Blake]. Ed. Soetsu Yanagi (Tokyo: Sobun Kaku, 1921) 36 reproductions. In Japanese

Selections from Blake's letters and marginalia, plus a translation by Yanagi [from English?] of Crabb Robinson's "William Blake, Kunstler, Dichter und religiöser Schwärmer", Vaterländisches Museum, I (1811), 207-31.

Presumably the book incorporates his "Blake no kotoba", Shirakaba [White Birch], V, 7 (July 1914), reprinted (Rinsen Shoten, 1969-72)

§Blake: Poems. Selected by Peter Washington (1994) B. (N.Y.: Knopf Random House, 2014) 250 pp.; ISBN:

9780375712555

§Blake: Poezje wybrane [Blake: Selected Poems. Selected and tr. Z(ygmunt) Kubiak] (Warszawa: Ludowa Spółdzielnia Wydawnicza, 1991) In Polish

**the Blake Project: Spring*. Ed. Finn Coren (Oslo: Bard Records, [1997]). 20 pp.

A handsomely illustrated little brochure (12 x 12 cm) with 20 texts from the Songs plus "Memory, hither come" (called "Melancholy") from Poetical Sketches and the Jerusalem lyric from Milton, created to accompany the CD recordings of Finn Coren which have been ecstatically reviewed in the music press: "Thunderingly brilliant!" (Arbeiderbladet), "Absolutely magnificent" (Rogaland Avis), "a sensation" (BEAT Magazine).

REVIEW

Thomas Dillingham, Blake, XXXII, 2 (Fall 1998), 49-50 (in his settings of Blake's poems to rock music, Finn's "responses to Blake are ... complex and interactive")

Blake shi Xuan [Selections of Blake's Poems]. Tr. Wenbin Zhou (Taipei: Wuzhou chupan she, 1966) In Chinese

It includes poems from Poetical Sketches (14), Songs of Innocence (17), Songs of Experience (15), and others (17).

**Blake Shishu: Mushin no Uta, Keiken no Uta, Tengoku to Jigoku tonno Kekkon* [Blake's Poems:] Songs of Innocence,

Songs of Experience, The Marriage of Heaven and Hell. Tr. Kochi Doi (Tokyo: Heibonsha, 1995) Heibonsha Raiburari: Heibonsha Library 174 pp. ISBN: 458276120 In Japanese

Innocence, Experience, and The Marriage are on pp. 12-163 (with translator's notes on pp. 60-61, 157-63), and Masakazu Yoshimura, "Kaisetsu--'Shikon' to Genius i tsuite [A Commentary – on 'Poetic Genius' and Genius]" on pp. 165-74. The translations are reprinted from Sekai Meishi Shutasei 9 [Collections of World's Excellent Poems], Vol. 9 (Tokyo: Heibonsha, 1959) and Sekai Meishishu 1 [World's Excellent Poems], Vol. 1 (Tokyo: Heibonsha, 1969). Doi's translation of the Marriage appeared in Eigo Seinen: The Rising Generation, LXVII (1927). <BB>

**Blake Shishu: Taiyaku* [Blake's Poetry: A Translation printed side by side with the English text] Ed. Shoichi Matsushima (Tokyo: Iwanami Shoten, 2004) 345 pp., 16 reproductions; ISBN: 40022217729 In Japanese and English

Songs of Innocence and of Experience, The Book of Thel, portions of The Marriage of Heaven and Hell, Visions of the Daughters of Albion, portions of Poetical Sketches, extracts from The Pickering Manuscript, with a short biography of Blake. A handy, pocket-size collection for a beginner.

REVIEW

Masashi Suzuki, Igirisu Romanha Kenkyu [Essays in English Romanticism], 29/30 (2006), 114-118 In Japanese

Blake: Selected Poems. Ed. Mike Davis and Alan Pound (Oxford: Heinemann Educational Publishers, 1996)

Heinemann Poetry Bookshelf. 12°, viii, 168 pp.; ISBN: 04351500820

Davis and Pound, "Introduction" (pp. v-vi)--it is aimed at A-level students. The text is on the right with notes on facing versos. "Background" (pp. 132-37), "Chronological Table" (pp. 138-39), "Cultural and Literary Background" (pp. 140-47), "Critical Approaches" (pp. 148-57), topics for "Essays" (pp. 158-59), "Writing an Essay on Poetry" (pp. 160-61), Virginia Graham, "A Note from a Chief Examiner" (pp. 162-63), and "Select Bibliography" (pp. 164-66).

"Blake Shohin Shoyaku [Translation from Blake's Shorter Poems]." Tr. Yukimasa Kodama. Joshi Sei Gakuin Tankidaigaku Eibungakkai 5-shunen Kinen Ronshu [Joshi Sei Gakuin Junior College, The English Literary Society, The Collection of Papers on the Fifth Anniversary] (March 1973), 86-93. In Japanese <BSJ>

Blake: The Complete Poems; see The Poems of William Blake, ed. W.H. Stevenson

A Blake Trilogy. (Stanbrook Abbey, Worcestershire, 1981)

A folder with three 4-page "booklets", each with a short quotation from Blake, printed at the Stanbrook Abbey Press.

Blake's "America: A Prophecy" and "Europe: A Prophecy": Facsimile Reproductions of the Illuminated Books (Dover, 1983)

REVIEWS

D.V. E[rdman], *Romantic Movement ...
Bibliography for 1983 (1984)*, 26-27
Jenijoy La Belle, Blake, XIX, 2 (Fall 1985), 83-84
(with another)

Blake's Illuminated Books (The William Blake Trust).<sup>426</sup>
Volume I: Jerusalem, ed. M.D. Paley (1991) <BBS>
Volume II: Songs of Innocence and of Experience, ed.
Andrew Lincoln (1991) <BBS>
Volume III: The Early Illuminated Books, ed. Morris
Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi
(1993)
Volume IV: The Continental Prophecies, ed. D.W.
Dörrbecker (1995)
Volume V: *Milton a Prophecy and the Final Illuminated
Books*, ed. Robert N. Essick and Joseph Viscomi
(1993)
Volume VI: The Urizen Books, ed. David Worrall (1995)

§[Blake's Poems] (Moskva, 1982) In Russian
A. Zveryev, "Velichie Bleika [The Greatness of Blake]" (pp. 137-40). It is apparently the same essay which appears on pp. 5-32 of Blake's [Poems] (Moscow, 1978).

Blake's Poems and Prophecies; see The Poems and Prophecies of William Blake, ed. Max Plowman

---

<sup>426</sup> N.B. The new Blake Trust publications carry the names of the Tate Gallery or Princeton University Press as publishers for the Blake Trust.

**Blake's Poetry and Designs: Authoritative Texts, Illuminations in Color and Monochrome, Related Prose, Criticism.* Ed. Mary Lynn Johnson and John E. Grant. (N.Y. and London: Norton, [1980]) A Norton Critical Edition 112 plates, 32 in colour <BBS> B. Blake's Poetry and Designs: Illuminated Works, Other Writings, Criticism. Second Edition. Ed. Mary Lynn Johnson and John E. Grant (N.Y. and London: W.W. Norton and Company, [2007, copyright 2008]) Tall 8°, xxvi, 628+ pp., 102 reproductions (16 in colour); ISBN: 97802393924985

1980: "Preface" (pp. xxiii-xxvii); "Chronology of the Life and Times of William Blake" (pp. xxviii-xxxviii); maps of "Blake's Britain", "Blake's London", and "The Holy Land" (pp. xxxix-xlii); "A Note on the Texts" (pp. xliii-xlv); plus "Criticism" excerpted from Coleridge, Lamb, J.T. Smith, Tatham, Crabb Robinson, Samuel Palmer, Jean Hagstrum (William Blake: Poet and Painter), M.K. Nurmi (Blake's Marriage of Heaven and Hell), Martin Price (To the Palace of Wisdom), D.V. Erdman ("America: New Expanses"), Harold Bloom (The Visionary Company), E.J. Rose ("The Symbolism of the Opened Center ..."), plus whole essays by T.S. Eliot, Northrop Frye ("Blake's Treatment of the Archetype"), R.H. Gleckner ("Point of View and Context in Blake's Songs"), and Irene Tayler ("The Woman Scaly"), pp. 481-601.

See Mary Lynn Johnson and John E. Grant, "The Norton Critical Edition of Blake: Addenda and Corrigenda", Blake, XVI, 2 (Fall 1982), 107-10.

2008: “Preface to the Second Edition” (pp. xi-xii); “Introduction” (pp. xiii-xv); “Key Terms” (pp. xxv-xxvi); Illuminated Works (pp. 1-352); “Other Writings” (pp. 353-493); “Criticism”: “Comments by Contemporaries” (497-517, as in 1980 but omitting Lamb and adding Robert Hunt, “From Mr Blake’s Exhibition (1809)”, “Twentieth and Twenty-First-Century Perspectives” (pp. 519-98, Frye and Nurmi continued from 1980; Bloom’s Visionary Company replaced by his Blake’s Apocalypse; and Hagstrum, Price, Erdman, Rose, T.S. Eliot, Gleckner, and Tayler replaced by excerpts from Allen Ginsberg, Paris Review [1966]; W.J.T. Mitchell, “Dangerous Blake”; Joseph Viscomi, “[Blake’s Relief Etching Process: A Simplified Account]” “Condensed and adapted from The Art of William Blake: Illuminated Prints [Manchester Etching Workshop, 1983]; Stephen C. Behrendt, “‘Something in My Eye’: Irritants in Blake’s Illuminated Texts”, Blake in the Nineties, ed. Clark and Worrall; Alicia Ostriker, “Desire Gratified and Ungratified: William Blake and Sexuality”; Nelson Hilton, from his Literal Imagination; Jon Mee, Dangerous Enthusiasm; Saree Makdisi, William Blake and the Impossible History of the 1790s; Julia Wright, Blake, Nationalism, and the Politics of Alienation; Morris Eaves, “The Title-Page of The Book of Urizen” from William Blake: Essays in Honour of Sir Geoffrey Keynes, ed. Paley and Phillips; and V.A. De Luca, “A Wall of Words: The Sublime as Text”); “Textual Technicalities” (pp. 599-602); “William Blake’s Life and Times: A Chronology” (pp. 603-10); “Selected Bibliography” (pp. 611-16); plus maps at front and back of “Blake’s Britain”, “The Holy Land”, and “Blake’s London”.

The second edition is thoroughly revised both in text and apparatus. This is an admirable edition.

REVIEWS

§Anon., Choice, XVII (1980), 536

I.H. C[hayes], Romantic Movement ... Bibliography for 1979 (1980), 75-76

*Michael Fischer, Blake, XIV, 4 (Spring 1981), 215-216

James Rovira, College Literature, XXXVI, 4 (November 2009), 229-31 ("By all standards this is the best edition of Blake available on the market today" [i.e., in print])

Jason Whittaker, Year's Work in English Studies, LXXXIV (2010), 638

**Blake's Selected Poems*. Selected by David and Virginia Erdman (N.Y.: Dover Publications, Inc., 1995) Dover Thrift Editions 8°, ix, 83 pp. ISBN: 0486285170

Anon., "Note" (pp. iii-iv) says that "Mr. and Mrs. Erdman have brought together a valuable collection of Blake's work" selected from Poetry and Prose, ed. D.V. Erdman (1965) which "attempts to follow the lyrical impulse of the poet through the various phases of his writing ... from youth to middle age".

Blake Shishu (The Poems of Blake). Tr. Bunsho Jugaku (Tokyo, 1950) 225 pp. B. (1968) 168 pp. <BB #2345A-B> C. (Tokyo: Iwanami Shoten, 2013) 448 pp.; ISBN: 9784003221730. With plates reproduced by the hands of

Jugaku. In Japanese

La boda del Cielo y el Infierno. (Primeros libros proféticos)
Versión Castellana con Introducción y Notas por Edmundo Gonzalez-Blanco (Madrid: Editorial Mundo Latino, 1928)
In Spanish <BB>

"Introducción del Traductor" (pp. 5-82). The prose translations are organized into "Dogmas y Principios": Marriage, All Religions are One, and There is No Natural Religion; "Leyendas Simbolicas": Tiriel, Thel, and "Vision of the Last Judgement"; "Los Acontecimientos Contemporaneos": "A Song of Liberty" [from the Marriage] and The French Revolution; "Los Cosmogonia y los Grandes Simbolos": Urizen, Ahania, The Book of Los, The Song of Los, and Europe.

There is no explicit connection between this volume of "Primeros libros proféticos" (1928) and Premiers livres prophétiques, tr. Pierre Berger (1927). <BB>

The Spanish translation by N.N. (1947) seems to be adapted from this translation.

N.B. BB #113 did not notice that it includes Blake texts besides the Marriage of the title-page.

"The Book of Blake." Pp. 2-276 of Poetic Prophets: The definitive guide to the two greatest visionaries of the Romantic Age. Ed. Joseph Vogel (N.Y., Lincoln [Nebraska], and Shanghai: iUniverse, Inc., 2006) 24 cm, xxxv, 556 pp.; ISBN: 9780595677030

An anthology with no indication of the source of the texts.

§The Book of Thel, and The Marriage of Heaven and Hell ([United Kingdom:] Dodo Press, 2008) 6 x 9 cm, 45 pp.; ISBN: 1409936643

**Los bosques de la noche (Poemas, Canciones y epigrammas)*. Edición bilingüe y anotada de Jordi Doce (Madrid, Buenos Aires, Valencia: Collección la Cruz del Sur, septiembre 2001) 8º; no ISBN In Spanish

It consists of "Introducción" (pp. 7-42); "Cronología" (pp. 43-48); "Nota a la edición" (pp. 49-50); "Bibliografía consultada" (pp. 51-55); lyrical poems in English and Spanish on facing pages (pp. 56-242); "Notas a los poemas" (pp. 243-54); "Correspondencia escogida" (pp. 255-88); "Blake y sus contemporaneos" (pp. 289-328).

§"Božeska podoba [Divine Image]." Tr. Anon. Ruske slovo [Novi Sad], 37 (2009), 12. In Ukrainian

§Bu lai ke shi xuan [Selected Poems of William Blake]. Tr. Kejia Yuan and Liangzheng Zha (Beijing: Wai yu jiao xue yu yan jiu chu ban she, 2011) 21 cm, 153 pp.; ISBN: 9787513513944 In Chinese

British Library Online Reproductions

The British Library online has 111 images (16 October 2013) including

"The Phoenix to M<sup>rs</sup> Butts"

[Swinburne], William Blake A Critical Essay, a draft watercolour for the title page or cover

British Library online

Discovering Literature: Romantics and Victorians

Under Blake, the collection is very miscellaneous, many items having nothing to do with Blake. For Blake it includes

Songs of Innocence and of Experience (1923 Liverpool facsimile—the Library does not have an original coloured copy of the Songs)

Malkin, A Father's Memoirs (1806), only pp. xxviii-xxx with "Holy Thursday" from Innocence

Blake letters of 23 December 1796, 18 August 1799, 18 December 1808

Blake's Notebook seems to be entire though Vala is not.

There are associated essays:

*Linda Freedman, "Blake's two chimney sweepers"

*Linda Freedman, "Looking at the manuscript of William Blake's 'London'"

*Andrew Lincoln, "William Blake's radical politics"

*George Norton, "An introduction to 'The Tyger'"

*George Norton. "William Blake's Chimney Sweeper Poems: A Close Reading"

*Michael Phillips, "The title page of William Blake's Songs of Innocence"

*Julian Walker, "William Blake and 18th-century children's literature"

*Julian Walker, "The music of William Blake's poetry"

There are also accompanying lessons.

British Museum Department of Prints and Drawings

The British Museum Department of Prints and Drawings has free but somewhat circumscribed access to its "2,055,624 objects". Of these, 1,741 are related to Blake, though many have no images yet, and a significant number are not concerned with our Blake. For instance, there are three very professional watercolours of landscapes in Wales (1794-1798) (c. 30 x 20 cm) by a William Blake "perhaps of Newhouse, Glamorgan", and a silver watch "case made [in 1786] by William Blake" of 5 Staining Lane (1778) and 28 Whitecross Street (1781).

§Can I see another's woe [from "On Another's Sorrow", Experience] ([1979]) Poster illustrated and printed by Paul Peter Piech in 25 copies

§O casamento de céu e do inferno e outros escritos. Tr. Alberto Marsicano (Porto Alegre [Brasil]: L&PM, 2007) 136 pp. In Portuguese *"Catalogue descriptif des scenes, inventions historiques et poétique." Tr. Christine Savinel, Cahiers du Musée national d'art moderne, 56/57 ([Musée Pompidou, Paris] 1996), 189-209.

A translation of Blake's Descriptive Catalogue and prospectus "To the Public".

§**Chants d'Innocence; Le Mariage du Ciel et de l'Enfer; Chants d'Expérience*. Tr. Bernard Pautrat (Paris: Rivages, 2010) Rivages Poche Petite Bibliothèque No. 676

224 pp.; ISBN: 978274362079X In French

§**Chants d'Innocence; Le Mariage du Ciel et de l'Enfer; Chants d'Expérience.* Tr. Bernard Pautrat (Paris: Rivages, 2010) Rivages Poche Petite Bibliothèque No. 676
224 pp.; ISBN: 9782743620790 In French

"The Chimney-Sweeper." The Chimney Sweeper's Friend, and Climbing-Boy's Album, ed. James Montgomery (1824)
<BB #238>

The Blake section is reprinted in William Hone's
Every-Day Book, and Table Book (1825 ff.)

REVIEWS referring to Blake

Anon., "Art. VIII. The Chimney Sweeper's Friend, and Climbing-Boys Album ... Arranged by James Montgomery ... Price 9s. London, 1824", Eclectic Review, NS XXI (June 1824), 558-62 ("The Chimney Sweeper" is quoted from Montgomery and characterized as "wild and strange, like the singing of a 'maid in Bedlam in the spring', but it is the madness of genius" [pp. 559-60]) <BBS 339>

Anon., Spirit of the English Magazines [Boston], N.S., I, 8 (15 July 1824), 307-8 <California [Berkeley]> (Reprinted from the "Eclectic Review" [June 1824 <BBS 339> see BR (2) 396])

§"The Chimney Sweeper [from Songs of Innocence]." National Anti-Slavery Standard, III, 1 (9 June 1842), 2.

“The Chimney Sweeper” (Innocence) "The Little Boy Lost", and "The Little Boy Found". [Engraved title page:] THE CHILD’S GEM 1844. | T.H. CARTER & CO
[Typeset title page:] THE | CHILD’S GEM.<sup>427</sup> | A
HOLIDAY GIFT. | EDITED BY | MRS. S. COLMAN. | -
| BOSTON: | T.H. CARTER AND COMPANY. | 118½
WASHINGTON STREET. | - | 1844 [copyright date
1843<sup>428</sup>] Pp. 64, 85-88.

A pretty 16mo; an ad at the end gives the price as 38¢. Blake's long lines are given as two lines each. On p. 88 is a vignette of a child playing a tambourine.

Pamela Chandler Colman published other Blake poems in Boys’ and Girls’ Magazine (1843), Little Keepsake for 1844 (Boston, 1843), The Child’s Gem for 1845 (Boston, 1844), Boys’ and Girls’ Library (1844) <BBS 147-48, 151-52, 157>--see Raymond H. Deck Jr, “An American Original: Mrs. Colman’s Illustrated Printings of Blake’s Poems, 1843-44”, Blake, XI (1977), 4-18.

“The Chimney Sweeper” (Innocence) "The Little Boy Lost", and "The Little Boy Found". [Engraved title page:] THE CHILD’S GEM 1844. | T.H. CARTER & CO
[Typeset title page:] THE | CHILD’S GEM.<sup>429</sup> | A

---

<sup>427</sup> BBS 157 (under "The Little Boy Lost") gives the title as The Child's Gem for 1845, ed. Mrs Pamela Chandler Colman (Boston, 1844).

<sup>428</sup> The copy in Victoria University in the University of Toronto is inscribed “Mary | Christmas Tree. | 1843” and “Mary C. Green | by her | affec parents Dec<sup>r</sup> 25 1843”.

<sup>429</sup> BBS 157 (under "The Little Boy Lost") gives the title as The Child's

HOLIDAY GIFT. |EDITED BY |MRS. S. COLMAN. |-
|BOSTON: | T.H. CARTER AND COMPANY. |118½
WASHINGTON STREET. |- |1844 [copyright date 1843<sup>430</sup>]
Pp. 64,85-88.

A pretty 16mo; an ad at the end gives the price as 38¢. Blake's long lines are given as two lines each. On p. 88 is a vignette of a child playing a tambourine.

Pamela Chandler Colman published other Blake poems in Boys' and Girls' Magazine (1843); Little Keepsake for 1844 (Boston, 1843); The Child's Gem for 1845 (Boston, 1844); Boys' and Girls' Library (1844) <BBS 147-48, 151-52, 157>--see Raymond H. Deck Jr, "An American Original: Mrs. Colman's Illustrated Printings of Blake's Poems, 1843-44", Blake, XI (1977), 4-18.

§"The Chimney Sweeper [from Songs of Innocence]." National Anti-Slavery Standard, X, 23 (1 November 1849), 92.

"The Chimney Sweeper From 'Songs of Innocence' [and Anon.] The Blind Boy at Play." Sudbury Leaflets Poetical Series No. 47. (Sudbury: J. Wright, "Price 1s. per 100 post free, or 25 for 4d." [n.d., ?1860]) 8°, 1 leaf

The Blake text is somewhat adjusted. Neither poem is included in Sudbury Leaflets: Poetry and Prose, Original and Selected (London: A.W. Bennett; Sudbury: J. Wright, 1864).

---

Gem for 1845, ed. Mrs Pamela Chandler Colman (Boston, 1844).

<sup>430</sup> The copy in Victoria University in the University of Toronto is inscribed "Mary | Christmas Tree. | 1843" and "Mary C. Green | by her | affec parents Dec<sup>r</sup> 25 1843".

"Chimney Sweeper's Song" [from Innocence]. Pp. 128-29 of The Illustrated Book of Songs for Children. Ed. H.L.L., Author of "Hymns from the Land of Luther" [i.e., Jane Laurie Borthwick (1813-97)] (London, Edinburgh, N.Y.: T. Nelson and Sons, [1863]) <R.N. Essick>B. Another, slightly-revised, issue, some ornaments different <Huntington> Square 8<sup>o</sup>

Perhaps this is the earliest recorded music for the poem (slightly adjusted as to wording); the composer may be "Mr. T.L. Hatley [who] has kindly provided a number of new airs, and revised the whole" (p. vi).

§The Chimney Sweeper. Illustrated by Paul Peter Piech (Bushey Heath: Taurus Press [c. 1968])

A Choice of Blake's Verse. Ed. Kathleen Raine (London, 1970) <BB #240> B. §(London: Faber and Faber, 1989)

The Clouded Hills: Selections from William Blake, ed. Catharine Hughes (1973) <BB>

REVIEWS

§Anon., Book World [Washington Post], VII (12 August 1973), 13

§Anon., Books & Bookmen, XIX (December 1973), 110

Morris Eaves, Blake Newsletter, VIII, 4 (Spring 1975), 139-40 (with another)

The Complete Graphic Works of William Blake, ed. David Bindman (1978, 1986) <BBS>

REVIEWS

§Tom Phillips, Times Literary Supplement, 24 March 1978, pp. 349-50 (with 2 others)

§Ronald Paulson, Georgia Review, XXXII, 1 (Summer 1978), 435-43 (with 7 others)

§Anon., New Yorker, 20 November 1978, p. 238

§P. Southcott, Art & Artists, XIII (1978), 489

*G.E. Bentley, Jr., "God's Plenty", Blake, XIV, 3 (Winter 1980-81), 161-63

Joseph Wittreich, Eighteenth Century ... Bibliography, NS IV (1981), 282-83

**The Complete Illuminated Books* With an introduction by David Bindman With 393 reproductions, 366 in colour (London: Thames and Hudson in Association with The William Blake Trust, 2000) 4°, 480 pp., 393 reproductions; ISBN: 050051048 B. §(N.Y.: Thames and Hudson, 2001) Paperback C. (2005) ISBN: 9780500282458 [Paperback distributed in Canada by Penguin] D. §(London: Thames and Hudson, 2009) ISBN: 9780500600252+

John Commander. "Foreword." P. 6.

David Bindman. "Introduction." Pp. 7-11.

Reproductions of Blake's works in Illuminated Printing, each preceded by a bibliographical description.

Pp. 17-405. (The reproductions from the Blake Trust series [1991-1995],<sup>431</sup> on very glossy paper, are of All Religions are One [A], There is No Natural Religion [G, I, L], Songs of Innocence and of Experience [W], The Book of Thel [J], Marriage of Heaven and Hell [F], For the Sexes: The Gates of Paradise [F], Visions of the Daughters of Albion [G], America [H], Europe [B] plus pl. 3 [K], The Song of Los [A], The First Book of Urizen [D], The Book of Ahania [A], The Book of Los [A], Milton [C], Jerusalem [E], The Ghost of Abel [A], On Homers Poetry [A], and "Laocoon" [B].)

Transcripts of Blake's Texts. Pp. 405-80.

REVIEWS

*Francis Gilbert, "A book that all may read, at last: It is more than 200 years late, but Francis Gilbert welcomes an affordable edition of William Blake's illuminated books", Times [London], 8 November 2000

Anon., Globe and Mail [Toronto], 25 November 2000, pp. D48-49 *Jon Mee, "Revisions of the Prophet", Times Literary Supplement, 1 December 2000 (with the Tate exhibition) (Bindman's book is "a wonderful achievement") §New York Times Book Review, CV (3 December 2000), 20 (with another)

§Macleans, CXIII (11 December 2000), 54

§G. Ingle James, Burlington Magazine, CXLIII, 1176 (March 2001), 171

---

<sup>431</sup> Except for For the Sexes: The Gates of Paradise which is taken from the 1968 Blake Trust volume.

§Richard Edmonds, “Antiques and Collecting: A Lifelong Search for Truth and Beauty: Exquisite Books of William Blake’s Works Are More than Mere Additions to Your Library. They Are an Investment for the Future, says Richard Edmonds”, Birmingham Post [England], 26 May 2001

*Leo Carey, "Books Current: 'The Author & Printer W Blake'", New Yorker, 9 April 2001, p. 18 (with 2 others) (makes one feel "that Blake ultimately created a medium that was as extravagant and bizarre as his message")

§G. Ingle James, Burlington Magazine, CXLIII (2001), 171

**The Complete Illuminated Books of William Blake (Unabridged)--With All the Original Illustrations.* (e-artnow, 2013) ISBN: 9788074844034

"Images are taken from books in the Lessing J. Rosenwald Collection of the Library of Congress."

The Library of Congress collection includes America (E), Book of Ahania (A*), Book of Thel (F*, H*, O*), Europe (E*), First Book of Urizen (G*), For Children: The Gates of Paradise (A, D), For the Sexes: The Gates of Paradise (K), Ghost of Abel (A), Jerusalem (I), Marriage of Heaven and Hell (D*), Milton (D*), Song of Los (B*), Songs of Experience, Songs of Innocence (B*), Songs of Innocence and of Experience (C*, Z*), There is No Natural Religion (C*, F*), Visions of the Daughters of Albion (J*) -- * = coloured.

The e-artnow series also includes All Religions are One, the only copy of which is in the Huntington Library,

Das Verloren Paradies, the only complete and undivided set of which is in the Huntington Library <#529>, and the engravings for Job (1826), and Blair's Grave, copies of all of which are in the Library of Congress.

The Complete Illuminated Books omits Book of Los, the only copy of which is in the British Museum Print Room.

The Complete Poems, ed. Alicia Ostriker Harmondsworth: Penguin Book, 1977) Penguin English Poets. B. §(1981) <BBS A-B> C. §(2004) Penguin English Poets 2004 has revisions of "Further Reading".

REVIEWS

§Nicholas Barker, Times Literary Supplement, 17 March 1978, p. 320

§David Bindman, Burlington Magazine, CXX (1978), 418-21

§M.D., English, XXVII (1978), 200-1

*John Kilgore, Blake, XII, 4 (Spring 1979), 268-70

The Complete Poems of William Blake, ed. W.H. Stevenson, Second Edition (1989)

REVIEW

David Fuller, Review of English Studies, N.S., XLII, 168 (November 1991), 612 ("this second edition improves what was already a tremendous achievement of annotation")

The Complete Poetry and Prose of William Blake; see The Writings of William Blake, ed. Geoffrey Keynes (1925)

The Complete Poetry and Prose of William Blake; see The Poetry and Prose of William Blake, ed. D.V. Erdman (1965 ff.)

The Complete Writings of William Blake; see The Writings of William Blake, ed. Geoffrey Keynes (1925)

**The Continental Prophecies: America: A Prophecy, Europe: A Prophecy, The Song of Los.* Ed. D.W. Dörrbecker (London: Tate Gallery Publications in conjunction with the William Blake Trust, 1995) Blake's Illuminated Books Volume 4. 4<sup>o</sup>; ISBN: 18543715451

The work consists of colour reproductions of America (H), Europe (B), and Song of Los (A) with facing transcriptions, plus David Bindman, "General Editor's Preface" (p. 6), DWD, "Foreword" (p. 7), "The Continental Prophecies" (pp. 13-24), and explanations of "Themes and Contexts", "The Designs", "Plates, Printing[s], and Contexts" for America (pp. 27-79), Europe (pp. 141-206, 210-16), and The Song of Los (pp. 287-323), followed by "Notes to Blake's Text" (pp. 127-38; 267-83; 347-54) and two Appendices: "The Designs in Europe and 'The History of England'" (pp. 206-7) and "The Marginal Glosses Added to Europe Copy D, Here Keyed to the Plate Order of Copy B" (pp. 207-10).

"Substantial portions" of the editor's The Song of Los: The Munich Copy and a New Attempt to Understand Blake's Images", Huntington Library Quarterly, LII (1989), 43-73, "have been adapted and revised" here.

The publication is a major accomplishment.

The prints are reproduced in The Complete Illuminated Books, ed. David Bindman (2000).

REVIEWS

Ian Sinclair, "Customising Biography", London Review of Books, XVIII, 4 (22 February 1996), 16-19 (with 6 others) (there is no indication that Sinclair has looked at The Continental Prophecies)

See John Commander, "Dereliction", London Review of Books, 21 March 1996, p. 5 (deplores the absence of "critical comment on, or response to" the scholarship in the Blake Trust volumes which Iain Sinclair was purporting to review)

Michael Tolley, Blake, XXX, 2 (Fall 1996), 54-57 (an admirable "variorum edition")

Barthélemy Jobert, Revue de l'Art, No. 112 (1996), 78, in French (with 2 others) (The Continental Prophecies are barely mentioned)

Irene Chayes, Wordsworth Circle, XXVII (1996), 200-1 (with another) ("Needless to say, Dörrebecker's work in his several editorial roles is admirable" [p. 201])

David Worrall, Year's Work in English Studies, LXXVI for 1995 (1998), 397-98 (quotes the comment in "William Blake and His Circle ...

1995", Blake, XXIX [1996])

§AB Bookman's Weekly, C (1997), 19+ (with another)
Michael Phillips, Burlington Magazine, CXXXIX (1997), 338-39 (with 9 others) (all six Blake Trust publications are "extraordinarily faithful to the originals", and the apparatus is "exemplary")

§Grevel Lindop, Times Literary Supplement, 26
September 1997, 18+ (with 5 others)

§Jason Whitaker, BARS Bulletin and Review, No. 17
(March 2000), 22-24 (with 8 others)

Deirdre Toomey, "Printed Perfect", Yeats Annual,
No. 14 (2001), 360-64 (with 5 others) (The Blake Trust volumes are produced "to an almost unbelievably high standard" [p. 361])

A Cradle Song. (September 1970)

According to the colophon, "50 copies of the CRADLE SONG have been printed by Simon Rendell at the Yellowsands Press, Bembridge School."

§A Cradle Song ([Vermillion, South Dakota:] The Menhaden Press, 1981)

**Ct.E Khe: Selected Verse* (Moscow: Progress Publishers, 1982) 8°, 558 pp.; no ISBN In Russian and English

[Introduction] (pp. 5-33).

The texts include Poetical Sketches, Songs of Innocence and of Experience, lyrics, Ballads (Pickering)
Manuscript, Thel, Marriage, Visions, French Revolution,

America, Europe, and excerpts from Milton (English facing Russian), with a "Kommentary" (pp. 497-555).

§The Definitive William Blake. Poetry Collection (Kindle Edition – April 8, 2008) B. §**The Definitive William Blake Poetry Collection Illustrated with Art by William Blake* ([No place, no publisher: ?2009]) 195 pp.; ISBN: 9781449568665

§El demonio es parco: aforismos, Selected and tr. Heriberto Yépez (México city: Editorial Verdehalago, 2006) 69 pp.; ISBN: 97896891023103 In Spanish

Yépez, "Introducción" (pp. 7-15)

Todas la religiones son una (pp. 19-21)

No hay ninguna religión natural (pp. 23-26)

De Las bodas del cielo y el infierno (pp. 27-34)

"Augurios de la inocencia" (pp. 35-40)

"Laocoonte" (pp. 41-46)

"Los comentarios proféticos de W. Blake" (pp. 47-56)

"Sobre la poesia de Homero" (pp. 57-58)

"Sobre Virgilio" (p. 59)

§A Divine Image. Illustrated by Paul Peter Piech (Bushey Heath: Taurus Press [c. 1970])

§"The Divine Image." National Anti-Slavery Standard, III, 7 (21 July 1842), 28.

The Divine Image ([?N.Y., ?1948]) <BBS dates it ?1949> B.
§The Divine Image (N.Y., 1949). C. The Divine Image.
Printed by Valenti Angelo for the Zamorano-Roxburghe joint meeting, San Francisco 1976.

A and B bear a note: “25 copies printed and illuminated by Valenti Angelo” (1897-1982).

§The Divine Image (Bushey Heath, Herts: Taurus Press, 1974) Broadside illustrated by Peter P. Piech, 50 copies

§The Divine Image. Printed and Designed by Linda Landers ([?London]: Spoon Print Press [2011]) 59 cm, 8
pp.

§Divine Images: The Words of William Blake. Edited and with an introduction by Jude Rawlins ([Thornhill, Ontario:] Hampstead House Press, 2005) 105 pp.

§"A Dream." National Anti-Slavery Standard, <sup>III</sup>, 17 (29
September 1842), 68.

The Early Illuminated Books: All Religions are One, There is No Natural Religion, The Book of Thel, The Marriage of Heaven and Hell, Visions of the Daughters of Albion. Ed.
Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi
(Princeton: The William Blake Trust/Princeton University Press, 1993) Blake's Illuminated Books Volume 3 4<sup>o</sup>; ISBN: 0691033870 B. §(Princeton: Princeton University Press, 1998) ISBN: 0691001472 (paperback).

The text consists of colour reproductions (with transcripts on facing pages or below the reproductions) of All Religions are One (A), There is No Natural Religion (parts of G and I, all of L), The Book of Thel (J), The Marriage of Heaven and Hell (F), and Visions of the Daughters of Albion (G), plus David Bindman, "General Editor's Preface" (p. 7), M.E., R.N.E., J.V., "Foreword" (p. 8), "Introduction" (pp. 9-15), "A Note on Texts and Variants" (pp. 16-17), and for each text an essay on "Plates and Printings" (21-41, 71-86, 113-40, 225-42, largely derived from Viscomi), "Supplementary Illustrations", and "Notes" for Thel, Marriage, and Visions (pp. 108-10, 208-22, 275-78)--but no index. The argument concerning There is No Natural Religion is particularly original and important.

The prints are reproduced in The Complete Illuminated Books, ed. David Bindman (2000).

REVIEWS

Alan G. Artner (of the Chicago Tribune), Santa Barbara News-Press, 13 February 1994, p. H3 (with another) ("superb reproductions")

Kenneth Baker, San Francisco Examiner & Chronicle, 13 February 1994 (with another)

Richard Wendorf, Studies in English Literature 1500-1900, XXXIV (1994), 669 (with 3 others) (the two Blake Trust reproductions are "extremely handsome" [p. 669])

Michael Ferber, Blake, XXIX, 3 (Winter 1995-96), 88-90 ("an altogether splendid volume", with "the most lucid and succinct summary of Blake's methods of book production that I have ever seen" [p. 88])

Ian Sinclair, "Customising Biography", London Review of Books, XVIII, 4 (22 February 1996), 16-19 (with 6 others) (there is no indication that Sinclair has looked at The Early Illuminated Books)

See John Commander, "Dereliction", London Review of Books, 21 March 1996, p. 5 (deplores the absence of "critical comment on, or response to" the scholarship in the Blake Trust volumes which Iain Sinclair was purporting to review)

S.L.M., Gazette des Beaux-Arts, 138<sup>e</sup>, Année (1996), 19, in French (with another) (the series is "une magnifique collection")

David Worrall, Year's Work in English Studies for 1993 (1996), 322 ("splendid")

Dennis M. Welch, English Studies, LXXVIII (1997), 90-93 (with 2 others) (all the volumes display "consistently meticulous" scholarship)

Paul Cantor, Huntington Library Quarterly, LIX, 4 (January 1998), 557-70 (with 2 others) ("The reproductions ... are as good as modern technology will allow", and the "editions have been prepared" with commendable "care and thoughtfulness" [pp. 558, 570])

Michael Phillips, Burlington Magazine, CXXXIX (1997), 338-39 (with 8 others) (all six Blake Trust publications are "extraordinarily faithful to the originals", and the apparatus is "exemplary")

 §Grevel Lindop, Times Literary Supplement, 26 September 1997, 18+ (with 5 others)
 §Jason Whitaker, BARS Bulletin and Review, No. 17 (March 2000), 22-24 (with 5 others)
Deirdre Toomey, "Printed Perfect", Yeats Annual, No. 14 (2001), 360-64 (with 5 others) (the Blake Trust volumes are produced "to an almost unbelievably high standard" [p. 361])

§Earth's Answer. (Madley, Hereford: Five Seasons Press [1980s]) Broadside, 44 x 32 cm

["The Ecchoing Green", called] "A Summer Evening on a Village Green" by William Blake the Painter. Pp. 274-75 of Pictorial Calendar of the Seasons Exhibiting the Pleasures, Pursuits, and Characteristics of Country Life for Every Month in the Year and Embodying the Whole of Aikin's Calendar of Nature Embellished with Upwards of One Hundred Engravings on Wood. Ed. Mary Howitt (London: Henry G. Bohn, 1854) <R.N. Essick> B. (1862) <R.N. Essick>

The first stanza of the poem is omitted. This printing of "The Ecchoing Green" has designs related to Blake's but no indication of where Mary Howitt saw an original copy.

§Ecrits prophétiques des dernières années, suivis de Lettres.
Tr. Pierre Leyris ([Paris:] Editions José Corti, 2000) Texts in English and French

It includes extracts from Jerusalem (bilingual),
Laocoon (French), The Ghost of Abel (French), “The Everlasting Gospel” (bilingual), annotations to various works, and a selection of letters.

“The Edition of the Works of Wm. Blake” printed by William Muir
at “The Blake Press at Edmonton”
(1884-1936) <BB, BBS>

A unique, very Blakean watercolour “Title Page by W<sup>m</sup> Muir” “Vol. I” was commissioned and paid for (£1.5.0,
June 1889), presumably by ‘HENRY MARTIN GIBBS |
of Barrow Court Flax Bourton | Co. Somerset’ whose bookplate appears in the volume, to accompany Muir’s facsimiles of Songs of Innocence, Songs of Experience,
Visions, Thel, Marriage, Milton, No Natural Religion, Gates of Paradise, and Urizen bound by Zaehnsdorf (1890, £7.10.0).<sup>432</sup> It omits America, Europe, Song of Los, On
Homer, and Little Tom the Sailor

“Proposal for the Publication of the Prophetic Books and the Songs of Innocence and of Experience of W.
Blake”, by John Pearson [c. 1884], 4 pp., lists as “Now Ready” only Visions and Thel <BB> and a §second issue,
4 pp., by J. Pearson and Co (c. 1884) lists as “Now Ready”

---

<sup>432</sup> The complete set of Muir facsimiles was offered by John Windle, March 2010; the prices and dates here derive from an inventory, presumably by Gibbs, which accompanies the volume.

Visions, Thel, Songs of Innocence and "The Act of Creation".

The Rev Mr Arthur Chichester Crookshank (1889-1958) acquired from Quaritch most of the Muir facsimiles, many of them identified as "M<sup>r</sup> Muirs Master Copy", which he bequeathed to the East Sussex Record Office <WSRO>. All these Master Copies have notes made in Quaritch's shop ("Q"), and some have notes by Muir ("M") as well. In the record below, the details not in BB and BBS are given in bold face, and the copy reproduced is given within parentheses "(A)".

America (A)

Q: "copied from an original [A] lent to Mr Muir by M<sup>r</sup> Quaritch in 1905. It is now in the U.S.A. 24 copies were sold by Mess<sup>rs</sup> Quaritch." <WSRO>

REVIEW

Athenaeum (9 April 1887) ("As good as it can be")

Ancient of Days [Europe pl. 1] (D)<sup>433</sup>

M: "Fifty copies ... were sold by Mr Quaritch (at 21/- each – All numbered) between 18th May 1885 and 14th August 1919[.] P.S. Reference to documents shows me that the above statement is not quite correct, M<sup>r</sup> Pearson had sold nine copies before M<sup>r</sup> Quaritch began"; "Coloured

---

<sup>433</sup> The note appears on the verso of the last leaf of the first version of Thel with which it is bound. A duplicate uncolored copy of Europe pl. 1 is marked "rough proof" "Corrected from life".

from an original by Blake in the British Museum."
<WSRO>

Book of Thel* [first version] (D)

M: "Copied from British Museum Copy [D]"; "Fifty Copies of this Book (all numbered) were produced and sold in 1884-90 at £2.2 0[.] M<sup>r</sup> Pearson sold the first twenty copies between October 1884 and April 1885. At that date he retired from business because 'he found that he had £20,000 and he did not want more'[.] He introduced me to M<sup>r</sup> Quaritch, who continued the work'.] He received and sold the remaining thirty copies between 27th April 1885 and 8th September 1890[.]" <WSRO>

Book of Thel* [second version] (J)

Q: "24 copies have been sold"; M: "This copy of Thel [J] is coloured from one that M<sup>r</sup> Bernard Quaritch lent to me in 1885-6. He sold it afterwards to an American [Amy Lowell, c. 1900], so it is now in the U.S.A." With it are duplicates of pl. 2, 4, 6-7 identified (M) on a separate leaf: "The four pages just before this are from originals [from the Small Book of Designs] in the B.M. print Room | They were coloured by [Miss] E.J. Druiitt" as in colour-printing. <WSRO>

Book of Thel* [third version] (A)

"The Beckford copy" (i.e., A), bought by Quaritch at the Beckford sale in 1883, sold to E.W. Hooper in 1891. Both the Second and Third Versions in the WSRO have inscriptions on the designs: Pl. 2 (title page): "Lives [?Loves] of the plants<sup>434</sup> in Summer"; pl. 4: "Flowers personified"; pl. 6: "Spring"; pl. 7: "Fallen seeds protected by the earth | Autumn". The Third Version also has a note: "Perhaps Beckford got these titles from Blake when buying the Book", though this copy of the book was in the Cumberland sale of 1835 before Beckford obtained it. <WSRO>

REVIEW

Athenaeum (23 August 1884) ("Nothing could well be better than that before us")

James Tregaskis, Caxton Head Catalogue 676 (11 October 1909), lot 93 (£15.15.0), offered Muir's facsimile of The Book of Thel executed completely by hand, "red morocco, gilt borders, gilt edges" [n.d.] [apparently not the Lister-Essick copy bound in olive brown morocco, edges not gilt].

Europe (A, D, c]

Q: "with 2 pp. added from Blakeana ... 50 copies were sold by Messrs Quaritch | 'Blakeana' was a vol of scraps[;] the Macgeorge fragment is now in U.S.A." Part of this volume of Blakeana <BB 339-41> was sold by Quaritch in 1886 to William Muir, and the rest was sold by Quaritch to B.B. Macgeorge by 1906 and acquired by George C. Smith of the United States by 1927.<sup>435</sup> <WSRO>

---

<sup>434</sup> Part II (1789) of Erasmus Darwin's Botanic Garden was called "The Loves of the Plants".

<sup>435</sup> Another copy of Muir's Europe is inscribed: "This is an uncolored

REVIEW

Anon., Athenaeum, No. 3153 (31 March 1888), 410
(Europe "has been facsimiled in an admirable manner" by Muir; "Blake could not possibly have understood what he wrote, and probably did not intend to mean anything")

The First Book of Urizen [B]

REVIEW

Anon., Athenaeum, No. 3170 (28 July 1888), 137

For the Sexes: The Gates of Paradise (F)

M: "About 20 copies have been made and sold[,] the Text [is] printed W Muir" (the text is in fact printed from movable type). <WSRO>

Marriage of Heaven and Hell [Second Version] (F)

M, "Forest Gate May 1920": "This is a careful copy of a copy by Chatto & Windus c. 1864 <BB> From the Original [F] that belonged to D.G. Rossetti." "This copy is facsimiled after the Dante Gabriel Rossetti Copy-- The titles given to the plates are after the Beckford copy [A]."<sup>436</sup> "20 copies have been sold". The inscriptions are: Pl. 1 (title page): "Union of the Elements"; pl. 2: "Earth"; pl. 3: "Fire"; pl. 4: "Water"; pl. 5: "Air"; pl. 11: "Dawn"; pl. 14: "The Body of Hector"; pl. 15: "Genius"; pl. 16: "Ugolino"; pl. 20: "A Dream";<sup>437</sup> pl. 21: "Satan

---

copy of Europe | It is of no special value | M<sup>r</sup> Muir offers it for your acceptance." <WSRO>

<sup>436</sup> The Crookshank Collection also has a copy of the First Version of Muir's facsimile of the Marriage made from copy A.

<sup>437</sup> Inscribed at the bottom in Muir's Brown ink: "The Background

addressing the Sun"; pl. 24: "Arbitrary Power". It is reproduced from a colour-printed copy, and the only colour-printed copy is F, which was bought by R.M. Milnes in 1852 and sold by his son in 1903. There seems to be no other evidence that copy F (or any other copy) "belonged to D.G. Rossetti". <WSRO>

Marriage of Heaven and Hell [Third Version] (I)

M: "M<sup>r</sup> Muirs Master Copy of the Fitzwilliam Heaven & Hell | about five copies were sold[.] The original is in the Fitzwilliam Museum Cambridge". "Copied in April 1886 by J.D. Wallis from the original in the Fitzwilliam Museum at Cambridge. | Note the letter press should all be printed in red, not in yellow". The title page verso is inscribed in pencil "Richard Edward Kerrick | August 31st 1856" as in copy I. "Coloured thus £4.4.0". It bears annotations from the Beckford copy. <WSRO>

REVIEW

Athenaeum, (28 August 1886) ("Mr. Quaritch generously lent to Mr. Muir to copy his beautiful original [A] .... No other copies can rival that before us")

Milton

REVIEW

Athenaeum (26 June 1886) ("made from the very choice copy [A] in the British Museum ...

---

should be quite smooth | The reds in the Serpent should be brighter".

[showing] remarkable excellence and rare fidelity")

Songs of Experience

The first copy of Muir's facsimile of Songs of Experience was coloured after Copy T in the British Museum Print Room and sent in October 1884 to The Times (according to Muir's letter of 28 November 1885 to the editor of The Times in the collection of R.N. Essick), but the other copies were coloured after Copy U <BB 422>.

REVIEW

Athenaeum (28 August 1886) ("as nearly as possible right as a facsimile")

On Homer's Poetry [and] On Virgil [C?]

According to Keri Davies' thesis "William Blake in Contexts" (2004), 268, "Muir's facsimile [(Edmonton, 1886)] and that printed with Herbert R. [sic] Horne, 'Blake's Sibylline Leaf on Homer and Virgil', Century Guild Hobby Horse, II (1887), 115-16, differ in many respects and are unlikely to derive from the same lithographic plate", though BB 488, 836 imply they are the same.

REVIEWS

§Anon., Athenaeum, No. 2964 (16 August 1884), 216 ("The reproduction of the outlines is simply perfect")

§Anon., Athenaeum, No. 3203 (16 March 1889), 351-52 ("Their verisimilitude is absolute")

Song of Los (A)

"This is M<sup>r</sup> Muir's Master Copy of the Song of Los copied from the original in the British Museum [A] | 21 copies were sold by Mess<sup>rs</sup> Quaritch." <WSRO>

REVIEW

Saturday Review (29 August 1885) ("we trust that ... [Mr Muir] ... will consult the British Museum example [A]")

There is No Natural Religion* (A, H, L)

M: "M<sup>r</sup> Muir's Master Copy of No Nat Relig | 50 copies were sold | I do not know where the original is now". Facing pl. b12 ("God becomes as we are that we may be as he is") is a quotation from Irenaeus about the phrase (see William Blake's Writings [1978], 14). On the first flyleaf is a transcription of All Religions are One with a note: "This little book is copied from illustrated leaves in the possession of the Linnell family ... W Muir"; Muir never made a facsimile of All Religions are One. <WSRO>

REVIEW

Athenaeum (26 June 1886) ("reproduced with equal success" to that of Milton)

Visions of the Daughters of Albion

REVIEW

Athenaeum (16 August 1884) ("We can hardly expect to see finer transcripts of the plates in any published form")

§**Eldfängd Glädje*. Tr. Jonas Ellerström (Lund: Bakhåll,

2007) 22 cm, 78 pp.; ISBN: 9789177422709 In Swedish

§Escritos de William Blake. Tr. Alberto Mariscano and Regina de Barros Carvalho (Gô) (Porto Alegre, Rio Grande do Sul: L&PM Editores [1984]) Rebeldes and Malditos, 7 21 cm, 140 pp. In Portuguese

It includes William Butler Yeats, "William Blake e a imaginação" ["William Blake and the Imagination", Ideas of Good and Evil (1903)] and T.S. Eliot, "Blake" [from The Sacred Wood (1920)].

Presumably it is the same as §O casamento de céu e do inferno e outros escritos, Tr. Alberto Marsicano (Porto Alegre [Brazil]: L&PM, 2007).

The Essential Blake; see The Portable Blake

Eternity (San Francisco: Goat Hill Printing, 1975) 12.2 x 9.6 cm, 11 gray leaves (4 of them blank)

The poem is "He who binds to himself a joy". Colophon: "300 copies [in paper covers]. The calligraphy, design, and binding are by Thomas Ingmire .... 40 copies have been hand bound in hard covers. The printing is by Goat Hill Printing Co. San Francisco."

§Eternity (Berkeley, California: Mayacamas Press, 1993) Broadside 35 x 28 inches

It is "He Who Binds to Himself a Joy".

§Eternity is in Love with the Productions of Time (Tarrytown [N.Y.]: Rectory Basement Press [1980])

Postcard format broadside, 15 x 10 cm

It is a Keepsake of the 1980 Annual Conference of the American Printing History Association. The title is from Marriage pl. 7. On the verso are Chinese characters in orange.

§Europe | Lambeth 1794 | Printed by Blake.

An anonymous watercolour adaptation of Europe pl. 2 (title page) on laid paper showing a kneeling naked man(?) with a curling serpent (as in Europe pl. 2) growing from his head. Offered on E-Bay December 2013.

§El Evangelio Eterno. Tr. Evelio Riojas Robles (Mexico [City]: Ediciones Arsenal, 2006) 47 pp.; ISBN: 9709425736 In Spanish

The Everlasting Gospel / L'évangile éternel, tr. Joëlle Abitbo (1981) In French <BBS>

REVIEW

Krzysztof Z. Cieszkowski, Blake, XVI, 2 (Fall 1982), 128-29

The Everlasting Gospel & Other Poems. Ed. Sasha Newborn (Santa Barbara [California]: Bandana Books, 2011) 8°, 68 pp.; ISBN: 9780942208078

The "Other Poems" are There is No Natural Religion (pp. 35-37), All Religions are One (pp. 38-39), and The Marriage of Heaven and Hell [which of course are not "Poems"] (pp. 40-68).

According to the Preface (pp. [i-ii]), "This text has been modernized where practicable, replacing antiquated usages such as thee and thine with you and your. More problematic in editing for modern readers is Blake's use of 'man' and 'men' to describe humanity. In his visual art, Blake portrays men and women with a clear eye, but, fair warning: his language is not as equitable."

Experience: A Poem by William Blake (N.Y.: The Saturday Press, 1930) 8°, 4 unnumbered pp.

The poem is 22 lines from Vala beginning "What is the price of Experience". According to the colophon, "Of this poem, ten copies were set in Oxford type by Margaret Brian Evans in July, 1930."

**Favorite Works of William Blake: Three Full-Color Books* ([N.Y.:] Dover Publications [1997?]) 12°; ISBN: 0486290867

Favorite Works of William Blake is merely a box containing the Dover Songs of Innocence (1971) <BB>, Songs of Experience (1984) <BBS>, and The Marriage of Heaven and Hell (1994).

§Fellow Labourers in the Great Vintage. ... ([Buffalo, N.Y.: Institute of Further Studies, 1968) Broadside, 27 cm

The quotation is from Milton pl. 25, l. 17.

Fitzwilliam Museum (Cambridge University)
Online Reproductions

"The Accusers" (final state)

For the Sexes: The Gates of Paradise (L)

§**The Fly: Poem.* Ed. Yuri M. Skovorodnikov ([No place]: Skovorodnikov Books, 1997) 13 cm, 18 pp.; no ISBN

**Four Songs of Innocence.* Music by H. Walford Davies (London: Novello and Company, 1900)

§The Four Zoas [Nights 1-2 only] ([?Sydney, Australia]: Objective Systems Pty Ltd, 2006) Large Type Edition 16 pt Bold 69 pp.; ISBN: 1425083021

§The Four Zoas. ([Whitefish, Montana]: Kessinger Publishing, 2010) 38 pp. [sic]; ISBN: 9781169191105

§From the Preface to MILTON, 1804-1808 ([San Francisco]: Arion Press, 2004) No ISBN

A holiday greeting card.

§The Gates of Paradise: For Children, For the Sexes. Introductory volume by Geoffrey Keynes with Blake's preliminary sketches 3 vols. (London, 1968) The William Blake Trust <BB #48> B. (1968) 4 vols.

Vol. IV has five plates from For the Sexes (G, L).

The prints of For the Sexes are reproduced in The Complete Illuminated Books, ed. David Bindman (2000).

Glasgow University Library

Online Reproductions

Europe (B)

§Golden Thoughts of William Blake (Glasgow: D. Bryce and Son [1894?]) Golden Thoughts Series, 62

Google Art Project Online Reproductions

| Institution  | Numberof Items          |
|--|-----------------------------|
| Art Gallery of South Australia                         | 1 ( Job pl.)         |
| Cincinnati Art Museum                                  | 1                           |
| Minneapolis Institute of Arts                          | 1                           |
| Pierpont Morgan Library                                | 1 ( Job watercolour) |
| Museum of Fine Art (Boston)                            | 1                           |
| Museum of Fine Art (Houston)                           | 9 ( Job pl.)]        |
| National Gallery of Art (Washington,D.C.)          | 1                           |
| National Gallery of Victoria(Melbourne, Australia) | 5                           |
| Philadelphia Museum of Art                             | 1                           |
| Tate Britain   | 3                           |
| Yale Center for British Art                            | 536                         |

§The Grey Monk. (Berkeley, California: Arif Press, 1974)
Broadside, 250 copies

Harvard Libraries

Online Reproductions<sup>438</sup>

“Blake’s Chaucer: An Original Engraving”(C)

The Book of Thel (J)

The First Book of Urizen (F)

Marriage of Heaven and Hell (G)

Songs of Innocence and of Experience (I)

Visions of the Daughters of Albion (G)

§"He who bends to himself a joy." (Shanty Bay, Ontario : Shanty Bay Press, 2002-2007) Broadside, limited to 50 copies

§Jerusalem ("And Did Those Feet in Ancient Time"). Stanzas from William Blake's "Prophetic Books" Set to Music by C. Hubert H. Parry (London: J. Curwen and Sons [copyright 1916]) Curwen Edition, No. 40009 Two conjugate leaves

§The Healing Power of Blake: A Distillation. Ed. John Diamond, M.D. (Bloomington [Illinois]: Creativity Publishing, [copyright] 1998). B. Second Printing (March 1999). Sideways 8°, [180 unnumbered] pp.; ISBN: 1890995037 C. §(Square One Publishers, 2007)

Brief, unidentified snippets from Blake, sometimes only one or two lines per page, framed by "A Note on the [sideways] Layout" (p. [3]); "Preface" (pp. [5-7]); "Introduction" (pp. [9-12]); quotation about Blake's death (p.

---

<sup>438</sup> Most copies of Blake’s original works in Harvard are not reproduced online.

[174]); statement about "The purpose of poetry" (p. [176]); statement about the editor (p. [178]). "No other poet, perhaps no other person, can through his writings ... so raise our Life Energy, the Healing Power within us" as Blake, and "for this reason ... I have used him, more than all the other poets ... as an essential component of my healing practice" (p. [6]). The excerpts are mostly from Blake's prophecies, and "I have taken many liberties with them, even versifying his prose" and repunctuating the text (p. [11]).

REVIEWS

Anon., Book Reader, Fall-Winter 1999-2000, p. 18 (a one-paragraph summary)

Patricia Neill, Blake, XXXIV, 3 (Winter 2000-2001), 95 (the practical results were varied, but "if I put the book on my head, my posture straightens up quite nicely. For $14.95, that's not a bad deal")

§Helvedts Proverber [Proverbs of Hell] (København, 1950) 26 pp. In Danish

§Die Hochzeit von Himmel und Hölle [und] Ausgewälte Dichtungen (Erfstadt: Area Verlag, 2005) 8°, 192 pp.; ISBN: 3899964292 In German

The Marriage of Heaven and Hell, "Auguries of Innocence", The Book of Thel, Visions of the Daughters of Albion, America, The Book of Los, The Book of Urizen, The Book of Ahania, Europe, and selections from The Four Zoas entitled "Los und Enitharmon", The Marriage tr. Lillian Schacherl (see Marriage, ed. Sir Geoffrey Keynes, German tr. by Lillian Schacherl (1975) <BBS 100>, the rest reprinted from William Blake: Ausgewählte Dichtungen, tr. Adolph Knoblauch (1907). <BB>

**Holes in the Texture of Time: "Unwearied, labouring and weeping, he kept the Divine Vision in time of trouble": A reading of William Blake from his notebooks, letters and prophetic works* (Hastings, East Sussex: Hastings Arts Pocket Press: a co-operative effort of artists and writers, [?1994]) Pickpockets N° 22. Square 12°, 16 pp.; ISBN: 1873422

A collection of excerpts.

“Holy Thursday” (Innocence). Pp. 67-68 in [Jane and Ann Taylor], City Scenes (1818, 1823, 1828) <BB, BBS> ....

1828 NEW LOCATION: South Carolina

The anonymous print in 1818 and 1823 (image 7.3 x 5.5 cm), described in BB merely as “crude”, differs from that in 1828 (image 7.1 x 4.4 cm); in 1818, 1823 the girls follow the boys, while in 1828 the boys follow the girls.<sup>439</sup>

§How can the bird that is born for joy sit in a cage & sing [from “The School Boy” in Innocence]. ([1979]) Broadside illustrated and printed by Paul Peter Piech in 25 copies

“how do we know but ev’ry bird that cuts the airy way, / Is an immense world of delight clos’d to your senses five?”

---

<sup>439</sup> Details of the prints were first reported in R.N. Essick, “Blake in the Marketplace 2011”, Blake, XLIV (2011), 26-27.

From 'the marriage of heaven and hell'." (London: spoon print press, 2002) A folded leaf in the shape of a bird with designs by Linda Anne Landers

Huntington Library
Online Reproductions

All Religions are One (A)

America (I)

The Book of Thel (L)

Europe (L)

For the Sexes: The Gates of Paradise (F)

Ghost of Abel (C)

Song of Los (E)

Songs of Experience (N)

Songs of Innocence (I)

Songs of Innocence and of Experience (E)

Visions of the Daughters of Albion (E)

I asked [a thief ...] (Stoke Ferry, Norfolk: Daedalus Press [c. 1989]) Poemcard Six

The poem is printed on pink post-card size stiff paper.

§If the Doors of Perception Were Cleansed ([Mount Carmel, Connecticut:] Ives Street Press, 1983) 8 x 8 cm, 4 pp. A broadside

**The Illuminated Blake: All of William Blake's Illuminated Works with a Plate-by-Plate Commentary* by David V. Erdman (Garden City, N.Y., 1974) <BB> B. **The Illuminated Blake: Blake's Complete Illuminated Books. ...*

(N.Y., 1992) <BBS> C. §(N.Y.: Dover, 2007) ISBN: 97680486272344

B is an "unabridged and slightly corrected" reprint of A.

The "Introduction" (pp. 1-10) is reprinted on pp. 107-11 of §A Book of the Book: Some Works & Projections about the Book & Writing. Ed. Jerome Rothenberg and Steven Clay (N.Y.: Granary Books, 2000)

REVIEWS

§Lincoln Kirstein, Nation, CCXIX (16 November 1974), 503-4

§Lawrence Lipking, Princeton Alumni Weekly, 19 November 1974

§Hugh Luke, "Another Blake", Prairie Schooner, XLVIII, 4 (Winter 1974-75), 367-68

§W.H. Stevenson, "Blake Illuminated", Studies in Romanticism, XIV (Spring 1975), 201-5 (with another)

§Annette S. Levitt, Wordsworth Circle VI, 3 (Summer 1975), 139-42

Edward J. Rose, Blake Newsletter, IX, 2 (Fall 1975), 50-54

*Brian Alderson, "Blake in the original", Times [London], 22 December 1975, p. 9 (with 2 others)

§Dewey R. Faulkner, "Starry Wheels and Living Forms", Yale Review, LXIV (Winter 1975), 271-74 (with another)

§Gene Bernstein, American Quarterly, XXXI (1975), 372-74

- G.E. Bentley, Jr., "Visions of Blake", University of Toronto Quarterly, XLIV (1975), 251-58
- I.H. C[hayes], English Language Notes, XIII (1975), 30
- §Florence Sandler, Western Humanities Review, XXIX (1975), 301-3 (with another)
- §Harvey Stahl, Print Collector's Newsletter, VI, 2 (1975), 48-49 (with 3 others)
- §W.H. Stevenson [bis], "Blake Illuminated", Essays in Criticism, XXV (1975), 372-77
- §Times of India Magazine, 1 October 1976, pp. 6-8 (with another)
- §Kenneth Garlick, Notes and Queries, NS, XXIII (1976), 379
- §Duncan Macmillan, Apollo, CIV (1976), 142-43
- §William Walling, "Our Contemporary", Partizan Review, XLIII (1976), 640-44 (with 3 others)
- §David Bindman, Burlington Magazine, CXIX (1977), 451-52 (with 2 others)
- §P.M. Dunbar, Yearbook of English Studies, CVII (1977), 269-71
- §Leonard W. Trawick, Studies in Burke and His Time, XVIII (1977), 57-60
- §Bookwatch, XIV (1993), 5

§Infant Joy & The Blossom ([No place]: Cherub Press, 1981) Miniature book 5.2 x 6.0 cm, 4 pp., 240 copies.<sup>440</sup>

---

<sup>440</sup> The information derives from R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace 2010", Blake, XLIV (2011), 131.

In England's green and pleasant land. Illustrated by Julie Haigh ([No place:] Bradford and Ilkley Community College, 1986) 4°, 14 loose leaves printed on one side only, in a portfolio; no ISBN

The "Jerusalem" lyric from Milton with "A collection of illustrations suggested by William Blakes [sic] From Milton [sic] comparing his satirical comments of the Eighteenth Century dawn of industrialization to the Political climate of England in the 1980's", "limited edition of 20" copies.

The Indispensable Blake; see The Portable Blake

§Jerusalem ("And Did Those Feet in Ancient Time"). Stanzas from William Blake's "Prophetic Books" Set to Music by C. Hubert H. Parry (London: J. Curwen and Sons [copyright 1916]) Curwen Edition, No. 40009 Two conjugate leaves

§Innocenza e Crudeltà: Liriche. Tr. Angelo Zanon Dal Bo (Milano: Edizioni Accademia, 1976) 21 cm, 306 pp. In Italian

["Introduction" to Innocence], "The Tiger", "The Blossom", "The Angel." Nightingale Valley: A Collection ..., ed. Giraldu [William Allingham] (London, 1860). Pp. 54-55, 95-96, 116-17, 235. <BB 491>

"Note J" (pp. 275-76) to "The Tyger" remarks:

It remains to add that for the version of "The Tiger," here presented [pp. 95-96], differing somewhat from those hitherto published, use has been made of a MS. book of Blake's [the Notebook], belonging to a friend of the editor [D.G. Rossetti], full of the oddest chaos of verses, drawings, and memoranda [pp. 275-76.]

In "The Tyger", Allingham has added punctuation, altered spelling, omitted ll. 15-18, 21-24 of the etched version, altered "fire" to "ardour" (l. 6), "& what" to "'form'd thy" (l. 12, "What dread hand? & what dread feet?", as in Songs (P) <BB 400, "Formed thy">), and "he" to "God" (l. 19, "Did he smile his work to see?"). "& what" was altered in MS to "Formed thy" in the manuscript alteration in Songs (P), whose ownership between 1833 and 1931 is not known. (All the information from Note J here derives from R.N. Essick.)

§Izabrana Dela [Selected Works] Tr. Dragan Purešić. (Belgrade: Plato, 2007) In Serbian

§**Izabrana Poezija i Proza* [Selected Poetry and Prose]. Tr. Dragan Purešić (Belgrade: Itaka, 1998) 21 cm, 119 pp.: ISBN: 8681635158 In Serbian

§Izabrane Pesme [Selected Poems]. Tr. Vesna Egerić (Vrbas: Slovo, 1997) Edicija Prevodi 17 cm, 110 pp. In Serbian

Izbrannoe [Selections] Perevodakh [tr.] S. Marshaka (Moskva, 1965) In Russian <BBS 147, 167> B. *(Moskva: Olma Press, 2000) 12°, 176 pp., 17 reproductions; ISBN: 5224013828 In Russian Marshak, "Vilyam Bleik (1757-1827)", pp. 7-26.

Jerusalem, Selected Poems and Prose, ed. Hazard Adams (1970) <BB>

REVIEW

Thomas H. Helmstadter, Blake Studies, IV, 2
(Spring 1972), 163-66

Jerusalem. With wood engravings by Linda Anne Landers. This edition is limited to [100] copies printed and signed by the artist at the Spoon Print Press, London, 199[5]. Narrow 8°, 6 leaves plus covers B. §(1996)

The text is the hymn from Milton. The numbers in brackets in the titles and colophon above are supplied in manuscript. The handsome designs are unrelated to Blake's.

The 1996 version has two more plates than that of 1995.

Jerusalem ([?London:] Spoon Print Press, 20[06]) 11 prints folding out in different directions, 60 copies

Not related to the earlier edition of the song from Milton; 60 copies signed by Linda Anne Landers.

§Jerusalem ("And Did Those Feet in Ancient Time"). Stanzas from William Blake's "Prophetic Books" Set to Music by C. Hubert H. Parr (London: J. Curwen and Sons [copyright 1916]) Curwen Edition, No. 40009 Two conjugate leaves

§"Kristalna odaja [The Crystal Cabinet]." Tr. Tanja Bakić (Vijest [Montenegro], 24 December 2011), p. 2. In Montenegrin

The Lamb. A Christmas Greeting to their friends printed by Betty & Ralph Sollitt at The Redcoat Press, Westport, Conn. [1952] A folded sheet making 4 leaves; text only.

The Lamb. Designed and printed by Linda Anne Landers ([London:] Spoon Print Press, [1998]) Narrow 8°, 6 decorated leaves in a decorated cover, 100 copies printed

The Lamb ([No place:] Designed and printed by Linda Anne Landers at Spoon Print Press [2001]) Very tall 8°, 6 decorated leaves; no ISBN

A hundred copies were printed with decorations by Linda Anne Landers. This is distinct from her 1998 edition of The Lamb, much larger, with different designs, and set in much larger type.

§The Lamb with Other Verses. Illustrated by John C. Staples and M.E.E. (London: Hildesheimer and Faulkner; N.Y.: Geo. C. Whitney, [c. 1890])

The front cover calls it The Lamb, The Piper, by W. Blake. And Other Verses. The other poems are the "Introduction" to Innocence and excerpts from Wordsworth's "Intimations Ode". The illustrations are terrible, according to R.N. Essick.

**Lauschet der Stimme des Barden!* Tr. and ed. Bernhard Langer (Fulda, Germany: Gallimathias, 1995) Memories 7 55 pp.; ISBN: 3925654062 In German and English

Langer, "Bio-Graffiti" (pp. 3-5). Selections from Poetical Sketches, Songs, and All Religions are One are given in parallel English and German texts (pp. 6-51).

Library of Congress (Rosenwald Collection) Online Reproductions

America (E)

America pl. a-c

Book of Ahania (A)

Book of Thel (F)

Book of Thel (H)

Book of Thel (O)

Europe (E)

First Book of Urizen (G)

For Children: The Gates of Paradise (A)

For Children: The Gates of Paradise (D)

For the Sexes: The Gates of Paradise (K)

The Ghost of Abel (A)

Jerusalem (I)

Jerusalem pl. 8-9, 19-20, 38<sup>a-b</sup>, 48, 50, 58, 78

Letters of 2 July 1802, 30 January 1803, 28 September and 4 December 1804, [4 August 1824], [February 1827]

Marriage of Heaven and Hell (D)

Milton (D)

“The Order in which the Songs of Innocence and Experience ought to be paged”

Song of Los (B)

Songs of Innocence (B)

Songs of Innocence and of Experience (C)

Songs of Innocence and of Experience (Z)

There is No Natural Religion (C)

There is No Natural Religion (F)

Visions of the Daughters of Albion (J)

§**Libri Profetici*. Introduzione, Traduzione et Note di Roberto Sanesi (Milano: Guanda, 1980) 22 cm, xxxi, 213 pp. B. (1986) Tascabili Bompiani 400 19 cm, 225 pp.; ISBN: 884521303X <BBS> C. (1987) L'Altra Biblioteca 13 8°, 184 pp.; ISBN: 8877100486 <BBS> D. (Milano: Tascabili Bompiani, 1995) xxxv, 225 pp.; ISBN: 8845226115 E. (Milano: Fabbri, 1997) I Grandi Classici della Poesia 20 cm., xxix, 225 pp. F. Con 9 Illustrazioni dell'Autore (Milano: SE [1997]) Conoscenza Religiosa, 1 23 cm, 180 pp.; ISBN: 88771103566 In Italian and English

In 1987 are Roberto Sanesi, "Repertorio" (pp. 155-72), "Nota ai Testi" (pp. 173-80). The text (derived from Sampson [1913]) consists of facing English and Italian pages of Thel, Marriage, Visions, America, Europe, Urizen, Ahania, Song of Los, and Book of Los.

**Libros Proféticos* I [-II]. Introducción Patrick Harpur. Traducción y Prefacios [plus, in Vol. II, "Glosario"] Bernardo Santana (Girona, España: Atalanta, 2013) Colección Imaginato vera 80 [Vol. I, 84 Vol. II] 4°, 704 pp. (Vol. I), 618 pp. (Vol. II); ISBN: 9788494094156 (Vol. I), 9788494227622 (Vol. II) 127 colour reproductions in Vol. I and 72 in Vol. II.

Volume I

Patrick Harpur. "Introducción a los Libros proféticos de William Blake." Pp. 9-22.

[Barnardo Santano.] "Prefacio del traductor." Pp. 23-27.

"Bibliografía de William Blake en español." Pp. 28-29.

"Prefacio" to each Blake work.

The English texts face those in Spanish

Tiriel (pp. 31-60), (with 7 [of 9] reproductions, El libro de Thel (pp. 61-80), with 8 reproductions [B, E, or K] (including 2 colour prints from the British Museum Print Room [= BMPR]), El matrimonio de cielo e infierno (pp. 81-123) (with 16 [of 27] reproductions from copy D including 2 colour prints from the BMPR), Visiones de la hijas de Albion (pp. 151-91), with all 11 reproductions from copy J (plus 2 colour prints from the BMPR), America: Profecía (pp. 193-235), with all 18 reproductions from copy M?, Europa: Profecía (pp. 237-74), with 15 of 18 reproductions from copy E, El [primer] libro de Urizen (pp. 277-342), with all 28 reproductions from copy A (plus a colour print from the BMPR), El libro de Ahania (pp. 343-74), with 3 (of 6) reproductions from copy A, El libro de Los (pp. 375-94), with 4 (of 5) reproductions from copy A, El cantar de Los (pp. 395-414), with 7 (of 8) reproductions from copy B (plus a colour print from the BMPR), and Vala, o los cuatro Zoas (pp. 415-701), with 6 (of 146) reproductions.

Volume II

**Milton: poema en dos libros* (pp. 9-162), with 22 (of 50) reproductions from copy D; Jerusalén: la Emanación del

Gigante Albión (pp. 163-517) with 50 (of 100) reproductions from copy I; "Glosario" (pp. 519-616).

Bernardo Santana, "Glosario" (largely from Damon, A Blake Dictionary).

REVIEWS of Vol. I

- *Jesús García Calero, "William Blake, el hombre que vio el lado oscuro de la modernidad", ABC (Cultura) [Madrid], 19 November 2013 In Spanish
- *Iván Pintor Iranzo, "El paraíso de William Blake, recobrado", La Vanguardia (Cultura/s") [Barcelona], 4 December 2013, pp 6-7 (with Kathleen Raine, Golgotha in Spanish) In Spanish
- *Antonio Colinas, "Blake. Libros proféticos I, El cultural (El Mundo) [Madrid], 6 December 2013, pp. 12-13 and Fernando Armbrur, "Blake el oscuro", p. 13 In Spanish
- *Adriana Díaz-Enciso, "El método de profecía de William Blake da española Ediciones Atalanta publica per vez primerva una versión intregra de los Libros Proféticos de William Blake en formato linguë, con traducción de Barnardo Santana", Mileno [Mexico (City)], "7/12/2013", online, very long, In Spanish. B. "William Blake's Method of Prophecy", on the Blake Society web-site (a "vast and outstanding ... feat"; "All the illustrations are neatly and faithfully produced"; "this edition of William Blake's books in Spanish is one of the most important events in that language for decades")

*Fernando Castanedo, "Clamor en el desierto", El Pais (Babelia) [Madrid], 7 December 2013, p. 8
In Spanish

*Adriana Diaz Enciso, "El método de profecía de William Blake", Milenio (Laberinto) [México city], 7 December 2013, pp. 1-3 In Spanish

REVIEWS of Vol. II

*Maica Rivera, "Cómo ser William Blake", Leer, No. 249 (February 2014), pp. 76-77 In Spanish

*Antonio Lucas, "Delirios de un visionario", El Mundo [Madrid], 22 April 2014, pp. 37-39 In Spanish

§The Lilly (Bushey Heath, Herts: Taurus Press, 1975)
Broadside illustrated by Peter P. Piech, 25 copies

Lines From The Auguries of Innocence by William Blake
(Bembridge [Isle of Wight: Privately printed], October 1968) 12°, 8 pp. (plus covers)

"Thirty copies of this pamphlet have been printed by W.J. Washington at The Yellowsands Press October MCMLXVIII"; a pretty little work in Red and Black with agreeable illustrations printed at a school press.

§"The Little Black Boy" by Blake the painter. National Anti-Slavery Standard, II, 40 (10 March 1842), 160.

§"The Little Black Boy." National Anti-Slavery Standard, V, 28 (12 December 1844), 112

§"A Little Boy Lost." National Anti-Slavery Standard, VI, 17 (25 September 1845), 68.

§Llibres profètics de Lambeth, I: profecies polítiques. Versió i próleg de Miquel DescLOT (Barcelona: Proa, 1987) Els llibres de l'Ossa Menor, 147. 91 pp.; ISBN: 8475881785 In English and Catalan

The poems are Visions of the Daughters of Albion, America, and Europe.

**Libros proféticos I*. Tr. Bernardo Santano (Vilaür (Gerona): Atalanta, 2013) Colección Imaginatio vera 80, in 4º, 704 pp.; ISBN: 988494094156 In Spanish

Contains Patrick Harpur, "Introducción a los Libros proféticos de William Blake" (pp. 9-22); Bernardo Santano, "Prefacio del traductor" (pp. 23-27); "Bibliografía de William Blake en español" (pp. 28-29); Tiriel (pp. 31-60); El libro de Thel (pp. 61-80); El matrimonio de cielo e infierno (pp. 81-123); La Revolución francesa (pp. 125-59); Visiones de las hijas de Albion (pp. 161-91); América: Profecía (pp. 193-235); Europa: Profecía (pp. 237-74); El [primer] libro de Urizen (pp. 277-342); El libro de Ahania (pp. 343-74); El libro de Los (pp. 375-94); El cantar de Los (pp. 395-414); Vala, o los cuatro Zoas (pp. 415-701); "Créditos" pp. 702-3 (credits for works reproduced).

Illustrated hardcover volume (first of two) with twelve works by Blake; brief individual introductions by Bernardo Santano; Blake in English and Spanish on facing pages; includes significantly illustrated plates, leaving out those mainly with text (e.g., of Marriage [D] it reproduces 13/27 plates: 1-5, 10-11, 14-15, 16, 20-21, 24); Announces forthcoming second volume with Milton, Jerusalem and a Glossary (for 2014). An imposing edition

REVIEWS, all in Spanish

- *Jesús García Calero, “William Blake, el hombre que vio el lado oscuro de la modernidad”, ABC (Cultura) [Madrid], 19 November 2013
- *Iván Pintor Iranzo, “El paraíso de William Blake, recobrado”, La Vanguardia (Culturas) [Barcelona], 4 December 2013, pp. 6-7 (with Kathleen Raine’s Spanish edition of Golgonooza)
- *Antonio Colinas, “Blake. Libros proféticos I”, El cultural (El Mundo) [Madrid], 6 December 2013, pp. 12-13 and Fernando Aramburu, “Blake el oscuro,” p. 13
- *Fernando Castanedo, “Clamor en el desierto”, El País (Babelia) [Madrid], 7 December 2013, p. 8

§London (Bushey Heath, Herts: Taurus Press, 1976)
Broadside illustrated by Peter P. Piech, 25 copies

London. Wood Engravings by Paul W. Nash (London: The Strawberry Press, 1995) 5 pp.; ISBN: 1872333184

The words "William Blake" are "signed by the author by spirit pen, through Madam Casarosa of Tooting", according to the colophon.

§Love's Secret: Illustrated by Claud Lovat Fraser
([London:] Curwen Press and Poetry Bookshop, [1920?])
Rhyme Sheet 16.5 x 35 cm

§"Luda pjesma i druge pjesme [Mad Song and Other Poems]." Tr. Tanja Bakić. Ars [Montenegro], No. 4
(2010), 59-65. In Montenegro

The Lyrical Poems of William Blake, ed. John Sampson, introduction by Walter Raleigh (1905, 1906, 1921, 1926
<BB #275A-D>, N.Y.: Brentano's [?c. 1926], 1935) <BB
#275E> §(London: Senate, 1995) F. (Charleston [South
Carolina]: Bibliolife, 2009) ISBN: 97811563979561 1995 One version of the Senate edition has "Satan in His Original Glory" on the front cover, and another has Linnell's portrait of Blake.

REVIEWS

Lewis Nathaniel Chase, "The Lyric Poems of William Blake. Another View of Prof. Walter Raleigh's Introduction to Them – Influences That Affected Blake's Genius", New York Times, 25
August 1905

Anon., "Poetical Works of William Blake. | A
Noteworthy New Edition of the Writings of the Inspired Engraver and Lyrist--The Story of Career. Published by arrangement with The London Times", New York Times, 12 April 1906,
p. BR258 (mostly about Blake; it does not refer to the edition<sup>441</sup> except to quote Raleigh)

 §Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 13 April 1906
 (with another)
Lewis Nathaniel Chase, New York Times, 25 August
1906, p. BR520

§The Marriage of Heaven and Hell: Office Drawn from the Lyric and Prophetic Work of William Blake (1727-1827) for Use of St. Mark's in-the-Bourie (N.Y.: 1920s)

Matrimonio del Cielo y el Infierno. Traducción y prólogo de Diego Arenas (Montevideo: Editorial Arca; Buenos Aires: Editorial Galerna, 1979) Colección Aves de Arca. 94 pp. <BBS §serroneously listed as if it included only the Marriage, as on the title page>

The text includes not only the Marriage but also Visiones de las hijas de Albión and "El viajero mental". The "Prologo" is pp. 9-20.

§El Matrimonio del Cielo y del Infierno y Cantos de Inocencia y de Experiencia. Tr. Soledad Capurro (Madrid, 1979) Colección Visor de Poesía Vol. 87 B. (Madrid, 1983) 210 pp. <BBS> C. §3<sup>a</sup> edic (1997) D. §4<sup>a</sup> edic (2001) E. Prólogo de Luis Cernuda. 5<sup>a</sup> edic (2003) ISBN: 8475220878

---

<sup>441</sup> The work referred to could be The Poetical Works of William Blake, ed. John Sampson (1905) or The Poetical Works of William Blake, ed. Edwin J. Ellis (1906).

Luis Cernuda, "William Blake" is reprinted from Pensamiento poético en la lirica inglesa (Siglo XIX) (Mexico [City]: Imprenta Universitaria, 1958)

El Matrimonio appeared by itself in 1977.

The translation is from the Keynes text, "aceptada generalmente como edición canónica".

§A Memorable Fancy. Illustrated by Linda Anne Landers (London: Spoon Print Press, 2002)

§A Memorable Fancy: The Marriage of Heaven and Hell / Une Vision memorable: le Mariage du Ciel et de l'Enfer. Tr. Marie-Christine Natta, José San Martín, graveur sur bois, Christine Tacq, eaux-fortes (Thame: p's & q's Press; Paris: Azul Éditions, 2007) 21 x 28 cm, 24 pp.; no ISBN In English and French 66 copies

Metropolitan Museum of Art (N.Y.)
Online Reproductions

Jerusalem pl. 1

Songs of Innocence and of Experience (Y)

**MILTON A POEM and the Final Illuminated Books: The Ghost of Abel, On Homer's Poetry [and] On Virgil, Laocoön*. Ed. Robert N. Essick and Joseph Viscomi (London: The William Blake Trust/The Tate Gallery, 1993) Blake's Illuminated Works Volume 5 4<sup>o</sup>; ISBN: 1854371215

David Bindman, "General Editor's Preface" (p. 6); R.N.E., J.V., "Foreword" (p. 7); "Milton a Poem: Introduction" (pp. 9-41); reproduction of Milton (C) and additional prints (pp. 43-107); "The Printed Text of Milton" (p. 110) and transcript with notes (pp. 111-217); "The Final Illuminated Works: Introduction" (pp. 220-43): reproductions of Ghost of Abel (A), On Homer (A), "Laocoön" (B) and "Supplementary Illustrations" (pp. 244-52), plus "The Texts" (p. 253) and transcriptions (pp. 254-77).

The prints are reproduced in colour in The Complete Illuminated Books, ed. David Bindman (2000).

REVIEWS

Artner, Alan G. (of the Chicago Tribune), Santa Barbara News-Press, 13 February 1994, p. H3 (with another) ("superb reproductions")

Kenneth Baker, San Francisco Examiner & Chronicle, 13 February 1994 (with another)

Richard Wendorf, Studies in English Literature 1500-1900, XXXIV (1994), 669 (with 3 others) (the 2 Blake Trust reproductions are "extremely handsome" [p. 669])

Dennis M. Read, Blake, XXIX, 3 (Winter 1995-96), 91-92 ("there is much to praise, little to question, and less to criticize in this splendid volume" [p. 92])

Iain Sinclair, "Customising Biography", London Review of Books, XVIII, 4 (22 February 1996), 16-19 (with 6 others) (there is no indication that Sinclair has looked at MILTON ... and the Final Illuminated Books)

See John Commander, "Dereliction", London Review of Books, 21 March 1996, p. 5 (deplores the absence of "critical comment on, or response to" the scholarship in the Blake Trust volumes which Iain Sinclair was purporting to review)

David Worrall, Year's Work in English Studies for 1993 (1996), 323 ("splendid")

S.L.M., Gazette des Beaux-Arts, 138<sup>e</sup> Année (1996), 19, in French (with another)(the series is "une magnifique collection")

Dennis M. Welch, English Studies, LXXVIII (1997), 90-93 (with 2 others) (all the volumes display "consistently meticulous" scholarship)

Paul Cantor, Huntington Library Quarterly, LIX, 4 (January 1998), 557-70 (with 2 others) ("The reproductions ... are as good as modern technology will allow", and the "editions have been prepared" with commendable "care and thoughtfulness" [pp. 558, 570])

Michael Phillips, Burlington Magazine, CXXXIX (1997), 338-39 (with 8 others) (all 6 Blake Trust publications are "extraordinarily faithful to the originals", and the apparatus is "exemplary")

§Grevel Lindop, Times Literary Supplement, 26 September 1997, 18+ (with 5 others)

§Clio, XXVI (1997), 449+

§Jason Whitaker, BARS Bulletin and Review, No. 17 (March 2000), 22-24 (with 6 others)

Deirdre Toomey, "“Printed Perfect”", Yeats Annual, No. 14 (2001), 360-64 (with 5 others) (The Blake Trust volumes are produced “to an almost unbelievably high standard” [p. 361])

**Milton: Ein Gedicht Mit einer Reproduction des Originals. Anhang: Eine Vision des Jüngsten Gerichts Ins Deutsche übertragen, mit einem Nachwort und kommentiert von Hans-Ulrich Möhring* (Wien [Austria]-Lana [Italy]: edition per procura, 1995) 8°, 294 pp., 52 reproductions; ISBN: 3901118233 In German

It is primarily a reproduction (pp. 9-59) of the Blake Trust colour facsimile of copy D (1967), except that (1) Only 12 prints (mostly full-page designs) are in colour, the rest being in black-and-white;(2) The rectos in the original are mostly printed here as versos; and (3) Pl. 2 from Copy B is added. In addition there are "Editorischer Hinweis" (p. 60); translation of Milton (pp. 61-125); "'Gottes Wege': Ein Nachwort" (pp. 129-81); "Kommentar": "'Merkt meine Worte wohl': Ein Gang durch Blakes Gedicht Milton" (pp. 185-270); *"Anhang: Eine Vision des Jüngsten Gerichts" (reproduction of the "Vision of the Last Judgment" design in the U.S. National Gallery, with an elaborate overlay identifying the figures); "Vorbemerkung" (pp. 275-76), and a translation of the description of the "Vision of the Last Judgment" from the Notebook (pp. 226-92), plus "Anmerkungen" (pp. 293-94).

REVIEW

Angela Esterhammer, Blake, XXXIII (1999), 24-27
(with another) ("Möhring's translation of Milton is excellent" [p. 26])

§Milton suivi de Le Jugement Dernier. Tr. P. Leyris (Paris: Joseph Corti, 1999) In French

REVIEW

*Mark Porée, Quinzaine littéraire, No. 764 (1999), 19-22 (with 2 others), in French

§Mi-shire [From the Poetry of] vilyam blak. Tr. Joshua Kochav (Tel Aviv: Ofir, 1968) In Hebrew

Pierpont Morgan Library and Art Gallery
Online Reproductions

America (A)

Book of Los (B)

Book of Thel (C)

Descriptive Catalogue (N) title page

Europe (b)

Europe (G)

First Book of Urizen (B)

Jerusalem (F)

"Joseph of Arimathea Among the Rocks of Albion" (J)

Letters

14 April 1800

[12 September 1800] ("My Dearest Friend")

12 March 1804

Marriage (F)

On Homer (F)

Pickering Manuscript

Songs of Innocence (e or n), uncoloured

Songs of Innocence (D)

There is No Natural Religion (G)
Visions of the Daughters of Albion (F)

Museum of Fine Arts (Boston)
Online Reproduction

"The Accusers"

**Mushin no Uta, Ushin no Uta: Blake Shishu: Songs of Innocence and of Experience* [: Blake's Poems]. Tr. Bunsho Jugaku (Tokyo: Kadokawa Shoten, 1999) Kadokawa Bunko [Kadokawa Library Edition] 206 pp., 54 reproductions; ISBN: 40422794017 In Japanese

The book consists of Songs of Innocence and of Experience and The Marriage of Heaven and Hell (pp. 9-202) plus a short essay by Shinichi Nakazawa, "Hachikiresona Muku [Overflowing Innocence]" (pp. 203-6).

Jugaku's translations of Blake's Songs appeared as Muzen no Uta [Songs of Innocence] (1932), Munyo no Uta [Songs of Experience] (1935), Blake Jojoshisho [Selected Romantic Lyrics] (1931-1957) revised in Blake Shoshi (1950, 1968). His translation of The Marriage first appeared in the first edition (1931) of Blake Jojoshisho [Blake Lyrics]; in the revised editions (1940-1997), the Marriage was omitted.

The 55 prints include 26 in colour of Innocence and 28 of Experience (27 in colour).

§My fingers emit spark of fire with expectations of my future labours [from letter of 16 September 1800] ([1982]) Poster illustrated and printed by Paul Peter Piech

§My Pretty Rose Tree [from Experience]. ([1981]) Poster illustrated and printed by Paul Peter Piech

"The Nakedness of woman is the work of god." Proverb Number 25 of 70 Proverbs of Hell from William Blake's The Marriage of Heaven and Hell. Dry point etching and acrylic by Robert Shetterly (Ellsworth, Maine: Dry-trap printing by The Borealis Press, 1992) Blake and Shetterly Series
A folded card with a design not related to Blake.

§Napišu Básne Kytkám na Lysty. Tr. Zdenek Hron (Praha [Czech Republic]: _eskolovenenskys Spisovatel, 1981) Klub P_atel Poezie. Vyb_rová _ada 205 pp. <BBS> B. §Napišu Verse. Second edition (1996) 198 pp.; ISBN: 8071850616 and 988071850618 In Czech

National Gallery of Art
(Washington, D.C.)
Online Reproductions

The U.S. National Gallery of Art has 347 Blake images, but only 158 are reproduced, mostly prints (132, including 50 for Job and 15 for Dante).

National Gallery of Victoria (Melbourne)
Online Reproductions

Europe pl. 11 (called pl. 8)

First Book of Urizen pl. 21 (called "Los, Enitharmon and Orc", i.e., Europe pl. 11)
Jerusalem pl. 51
Songs of Innocence (Y) pl. 13, 16, 18-19, 23-24, 35

New York Public Library
Online Reproductions<sup>442</sup>

America [L, Berg Collection]
Europe [F, Berg Collection]
Milton [C]

§"Night." National Anti-Slavery Standard, III, 3 (23 June 1842), 12.

§Night by William Blake. Illustrated by Roberta F.C. Waudby (London: The Medici Society [1930s]) 4 leaves including wrappers.

The poem is from Innocence pl. 20-21. Roberta Waudby also illustrated The Piper (i.e., "Introduction" to Innocence, pl. 4) <BBS 160>.

Obra Poetica. Tr. [Pablo Mañé Garzón. Intro. Mariano Vazquez Alonso. Rev. E. Caracciolo Trejo] (Barcelona: Ediciones 29, 1992) Coleccion "Ucienza", Vol. [3] 8º, 261 pp.; ISBN: 8471753413

Garzon, "Prologo" (pp. 13-19); Alonso, "Introduccion" (pp. 21-38); it includes Poetical Sketches, Tiriel, Songs,

---

<sup>442</sup> Under "NYPL Digital Gallery". Under Blake it includes some miscellaneous engravings and some not related to the poet.

Notebook, French Revolution, Marriage, and Visions, plus "Nota cronologica", and a very few notes.

The pagination and ISBN suggest that it is not the same as **Obra Poética*, tr. Pablo Mañé Garzón (Barcelona: Ediciones 29, 1997), 166 pp., 19 cm; ISBN: 8471754266

The copyright date for Ediciones 29 is 1980, apparently referring to Obra Completa en Poesia, tr. Pablo Mañé Garzón (1980), Libros Rio Nuevo <BBS>

§**Obra Poética*. Tr. Pablo Mañé Garzón (Barcelona: Ediciones 29, 1997, Primera edición en esta colección: 1992) 166 pp., 19 cm; ISBN: 8471754266 B. §Segunda edición (1998) C. §Tercera edición ... (2001) D. Cuarta edición (2004) 8°, 258 pp.

In the 2004 printing are Pablo Mané Garzón, "Prólogo" (pp. 13-19) and Mariano Vázquez Alonso "Introducción" (pp. 12-40).

The ISBN codes indicates that this edition is distinct from the three editions of Poesía Completa, tr. Pablo Mañé Garzón (... 1984, 1986; 1986; 1980-1995).

Obras Completas en Poesia: Edición Bilingüe. Tr. Pablo Mañé Garzón (Madrid, 1980) Libros Rio Nuevo, 30 In Spanish and English <BBS> B. (1984)

In Poesia Completa (1999), the same strange collection of works (but lacking Visions of the Daughters of Albion) appears in a slightly altered translation attributed to Francesc LL. Cardona.

This is apparently distinct from §Poesía completa. Traducción de Pablo Mañé Garzón [2 vols.?] (Barcelona: Libros Rio Nuevo, 1980) In Spanish and English.

Œuvres de William Blake, tr. Pierre Leyris, Vol. I (1974), Vol. II (1977), Vol. III (1980), [Vol.] IV: Vala ou les Quatre Vivants, et Annotations à divers ouvrages, tr. Jacques Blondel (1983) In French <BB,BBS>

REVIEWS

Claude Jannoud, Le Figaro, 29 June 1974, p. 8, in French, tr. Kathryn R. [Kremen] Gabriella in Blake Newsletter, VIII, 4 (Spring 1975), 121 <BB #A1953>

§Anon., Quinzaine Littéraire, CXC (1-15 July 1974), 7-9, in French (with a survey of “Blake en Français”)

§Françoise Wagener, Le Monde, 12 July 1974, p. 16, in French (with an interview with Leyris)

Anon., “Tigre! Tigre! burning bright”, Times Literary Supplement, 26 July 1974, p. 796 (praise) In French <BB #A1035>

§Claude Jannoud, Le Figaro, 29 June 1974, p. 8, in French; tr. Kathryn R. [Kremen] Gabriella, Blake Newsletter, VIII, 4 (1975), 121 <BB #A1953>

§Françoise Moreau, Nouvelle Revue française, No. 303 (1 April 1978), 137-38, in French

§David Fuller, Durham University Journal, LXXVII, 1 (December 1984), 118-19

§Peter Marshall, Etudes anglaises, XXXVIII (1985), 235-36, in French

§Jean-Pierre Jossua, Revue des Sciences Philosophiques et Théologiques, LXXII (1988), 331 (all 4 volumes) in French

§Martin Bidney, Blake, XXIII, 2 (Fall 1989), 79-80 (Vol. IV)

§Jean-Pierre Jossua, Revue des Sciences Philosophiques et Théologiques, LXXII (1988), 331, in French

§Ol mi-shire blak ve-kits [Duplicate title-page: More from the Poetry of Blake and Keats.] Tr. Joshua Kochav (Tel Aviv: Ofir, 1980) In Hebrew <BBS>

§"On Another's Sorrow." National Anti-Slavery Standard, V, 38 (20 February 1845), 152.

§"On Another's Sorrow" "from Songs of Innocence and of Experience [not published in America]." National Anti-Slavery Standard, V, 20 (15 May 1845), 200

§Pesni Nevinnosti opyta. [Tr. Sergeia Stepanova, Kommentari Aleksandry Glebouskoi] (Sankt-Peterburg: Severo-Zapad, 1993) 270 pp. In Russian

Philadelphia Museum of Art
Online Reproductions

"The Accusers" (3H)

Europe pl. 14

Jerusalem pl. 99

Milton pl. 13

Songs (o) pl. 29 (frontispiece to Experience), pl. 52 ("To Tirzah")

The Piper ["Introduction" to Innocence]. Designed and Illustrated by Roberta F.C. Waudby (London: The Medici Society [1930s]) <BBS 160, dating it c. 1980 rather than the 1930s when Waudby flourished>

**Poemas do Manuscrito Pickering Sequidos d'Os Portões do Paraíso.* Tr. Manuel Portela (Lisbon: Edições Antígona, 1996) 8º, 77 pp.; ISBN: 9726080630 In Portuguese Translation of the Pickering MS and For the Sexes: The Gates of Paradise.

Poemas Proféticos y Prosas: Versión y prólogo de Cristóbal Serra(Barcelona: Barral Editores, 1971) <BB #A282§, erroneously giving "Christobal" and 1941>

§Poemas y prosas. Simbolos y fuentes. Selected and tr. Cristóbal Serra (Palma de Mallorca: Edicions Cort, 2010) In Spanish

§**Poeme si Gravuri: Poems and Gravas* [sic]. Ed. Cicerone Theodorescu (Bucaresti: Crater, 1999) 22 cm, 127 pp.; ISBN: 9739029647 In Romanian

Poèmes choisis. Tr. Madeleine L. Cazamian (Paris: Aubier, 1944) Collection Bilingues des Classiques In French <BB misdates it 1943> B. §(Paris, 1950) <BB> C. Poems

|Poèmes. Tr. M.L. Cazamian (Paris: Aubier-Flammarion, 1968) Bilingue Aubier Flammarion [11] <BB #297 and BBS 161, list it separately from Poèmes Choisis> D. William Blake. Ed. M.L. Cazamian (Madrid: Ediciones Júcar, Feb 1984) Colleccion Los Poetas, 51 8°, 208 pp.; ISBN: 8433430513 In Spanish <BBS>

In 1943, the Introduction is pp. 9-92. The selections, facing each other in English and French, include Songs, Thel, Urizen, "The Everlasting Gospel", and extracts from The Marriage and Milton; in 1968 the poems are on facing pages (pp. 90-311); in 1984, the "Antologia" with selections, English facing Spanish, tr. Cristóbal Serra, are from the Songs, "Auguries of Innocence", Marriage, Visions, [Vala], Milton, Jerusalem, and "The Everlasting Gospel" (pp. 121-201).

In 1968 are "Introduction" (pp. 7-84), "Notes" (pp. 313-14), "Termes, Usités dans la Cosmogonie de Blake" (pp. 315-16).

In 1984 are the "Introduccion", tr. Marie-Christine del Castillo and Abelardo Linares (pp. 9-118), and "Bibliografia Esencial" 1863-1951 (pp. 213-14). For many years, this was probably the best known text of Blake in Spanish.

Chapter 5 of the Introduction is translated into Japanese in Bokushin: Bungaku Kikan: Faunus [The Quarterly of Literature], No. 5 (January 1976) [Special Issue:] William Blake yogen: to shinpi no sho: William Blake [The Books of Prophecy and Mystery] <BBS>

Poems (London: David Campbell Publishers Ltd, 1994) Everyman's Library Pocket Poets 12°, 283 pp.; ISBN: 1857157109 B. Poems (N.Y. and Toronto: Alfred A. Knopf, 1994) Everyman's Library Pocket Books 17 cm, 283 pp.; ISBN: 978067946331

A "selection by Peter Washington" (p. 4) with no added matter whatever except "Contents" and "Index of First Lines". It does not seem to be significantly related to previous Everyman editions of Poems & Prophecies, ed. Max Plowman (1927 ff) <BB>, revised by Geoffrey Keynes (1959 ff.) <BB>, introduction by Kathleen Raine (1975 ff.) <BBS>, revised as Selected Poems by P.H. Butter (1982 ff.) <BBS>.

§**Poems*. Selected by James Fenton ([London]: Faber and Faber, 2010) Pp. xxiv, 95 ISBN: 9780571236039 Also published as an E-book

Fenton, "Introduction".

§[Poems] (Moscow, 1978) In Russian

A. Zveryev, "[The Greatness of Blake]" (pp. 5-32); G. Yakovleva (reprinted in [Literary Review], V [1979], 75-76); N. Starosel'skaya, "[Between the Epochs]" (reprinted in Inostrannaya [Foreign] Literatura, XII [1980], 232-33).

Poems ([No place:] Minizauber Edition, [2001?]) 14 pp. (2 x 1.45 cm); no ISBN In German 25 copies of this tiny work were printed, probably by Sybille Maier.

**Poems*. Selected and Introduced by Patti Smith (London: Vintage Books, 2007) 8°, xiii, 173 pp.; ISBN:

9780099511632B. ([No place]: Paw Prints, 2008) ISBN:
9781439584477

“Introduction” (pp. xi-xiii): “He is a messenger and a god himself.”

The text of the Poems includes letters.

§Poems ([?Ottawa]: eBooksLib, 2010) 23 pp.; ISBN:
9781412188609

Poems and Letters, ed. J. Bronowski (1958 ff.) <BBS>

REVIEW

§Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 24 October 1958, p.
610

The Poems & Prophecies of William Blake. Ed. Max Plowman (1927) Everyman's Library. B. §(1934) C. (1945) D. Poems and Prophecies. [Ed. Max Plowman] (1950) E. Blake's Poems and Prophecies. Ed. Max Plowman (1954) F. Supplementary Notes, Select Bibliography, and Revisions to the Notes by Geoffrey Keynes (1959) <BB> G. (London: Dent; N.Y.: Dutton, 1963) Everyman's Library No. 792. 12° H. (1965) I. (1970) J. (1972) K. [Introduction by Kathleen Raine] (1975) L. (1978) M. (1984) N. (1991) <BB, BBS>

REVIEWS

§Herbert W. Horeville, “William Blake Comes Into His Own”, New York Times, 1 August 1926

Richard Le Galliene, “Thunderous Visions of Titanic Half-formed Worlds”, New York Times, 19 September 1926

§Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 11 August 1927
(with 3 others)
§George Sampson, Observer, 1927(?) (with 6 others)
D.W. Dörrbecker, Blake, XXVI, 3 (Winter 1992-93), 82

Poems and Prose. Introduction by Robert Van de Weyer
(London: Harper Collins, 1997) Fount Classics 12°, xii, 123
pp.; ISBN: 0006280315
"Introduction" (pp. vii-x).

Poems by William Blake. Ed. Alice Meynell (London, 1911)
Red Letter Library. B. Poems. Introduction by Alice Meynell (London and Glasgow [1927]) <BB> C. §Poems by William Blake. Ed. Alice Meynell ([Whitefish, Montana]: Kessinger Publishing, 2010) Regency Reprint Series 244 pp., ISBN: 9781163898765

C is a digital reproduction of the 1911 edition.

Poems of Blake, ed. Laurence Binyon (1931) <BB>
REVIEW

§E.M. Forster, Books [N.Y.], 31 August 1931, p. 1

The Poems of William Blake. Ed. W.B. Yeats (London, 1893)
The Muses Library B. (N.Y., 1893) C. (London and N.Y. [1905]) D. Mr. William Butler Yeats Introduces the Poetical Works of William Blake (London, 1910) Books that Marked Epochs E. Poems of William Blake (N.Y., [1920]) Modern Library <BB> F. (N.Y., 1938) <BBS> G. (N.Y.: Carlton House [c. 1950]) viii, 278 pp. H. (London, 1969) The Muses Library <BB> I. (London, 1979) <BBS> J. § Collected Poems. Ed. W.B. Yeats with a new introduction by Tom Paulin (London and N.Y.: Routledge, 2002) xliii, 256 pp.; ISBN: 041528984X K. § (2009) Echo Library ISBN: 9781406880625 L. § ([Whitefish, Montana]: Kessinger Publishing, 2010) Legacy Reprint Series. 324 pp.; ISBN: 9781163393420 M. § ([Memphis, Tennessee]: General Books, 2010) 292 pp.

G The Carlton House edition lacks the introduction present in all other printings.

J In the 2002 edition, Paulin's introduction is pp. xi-xvii.

REVIEWS

§ John Wren-Lewis, New Statesman, 22 August 1969, p. 249

§ Anon., Choice, VII (December 1969), 1390

§ Patrick Murray, Studies [Dublin], LIX (1970), 215-18

Poems of William Blake, ed. John Sampson (1921) <BB> B. (London: Studio Editions, 1995) ISBN: 05980769

REVIEW

§ Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 1 December 1921

The Poems of William Blake With [12] Illustrations from Blake's Illuminated Books. Ed. Aileen Ward (Cambridge [England], 1973) The Limited Editions Club 40 S, No. 9 <BBS> B. (Norwalk, Connecticut: Heritage Press, 1995) 4°, xxiv, 290 pp., no ISBN **Poems of William Blake*. Selected by Amelia H. Munson (N.Y., 1964) <BB> B. Illustrations by William Blake. Collector's Edition Bound in Genuine Leather (Norwalk, Connecticut: The Easton Press [1999]) 139 pp.

“William Blake” (pp. 1-9).

**The Poems of William Blake*. Ed. W.H. Stevenson. Text by David V. Erdman (London: Longman, 1971) Longman's Annotated English Poets B. (London: Longman, 1972) <BB #296A-B> C. Blake: The Complete Poems. Ed. W.H. Stevenson (London and N.Y. Longman, 1989) Longman Annotated English Poets <BBS 149> D. Third Edition (Harlow [England], London, N.Y., Boston, San Francisco, Toronto, Sydney, Tokyo, Singapore, Hong Kong, Seoul, Taipei, New Delhi, Cape Town, Madrid, Mexico City, Amsterdam, Munich, Paris, Milan: Pearson Longman, 2007) Longman's Annotated English Poets 8°, xxv, 929 pp., 24 reproductions (including 3 on the covers); ISBN: 9781405832809 E. Third Edition (Abington [Oxon]: Routledge, 2014) ISBN: 9781403832809

John Barnard and Paul Hammond, “Note by the General Editors” (pp. x-xi), “Preface” (pp. xiii-xvi), “Chronological Table of the Life and Work of William Blake” (pp. xvii-xxii), “Appendix: Doubtful and Spurious Attributions” (pp. 914-15) (“To the Nightingale” and “The Felpham Rummer”), Indices of “Titles and First Lines” (pp. 916-26), of “Notes and Relevant Passages” (pp. 927-28), and of “Prose Quotations”. The “Poems” include The Marriage of Heaven and Hell and, for the first time, There is No Natural Religion and All Religions Are One.

The text is still modernized, and poems after 1807 have been rearranged. "The heart and lungs of the edition ... are ... the headnotes [which] have been largely rewritten ... [and] The footnotes [which] ... have been scoured and revised" (p. xiv). The headnotes and footnotes are admirable: humane, learned, crucially informative.

REVIEWS

John Dixon Hunt, "Learning Blake's visionary language on one's own", Times [London], 26 July 1971, p. 8

§Anon., "The Composite Art of Blake", Times Literary Supplement, 10 December 1971, pp. 1537-39 (with 12 others)

Anne Kostelanetz Mellor, Blake Newsletter, VI, 1 (Summer 1972), 32-33

§John Beer, Notes and Queries, NS XX, 8 (August 1973), 305-7 (with 2 others)

D.W. Dörrbecker, Blake, XXV, 1 (Summer 1991), 7-8

§David Fuller, Review of English Studies, XLII, 168 (November 1991), 612

§Ira Livingston, English Language Notes, XXVIII, 3 (1991), 61-63

M[ark] T. S[mith], Romantic Movement ... Bibliography for 1990 (1991), 90

§David Fuller, Review of English Studies, XLII (1992), 177-79

Edward Larrissy, Notes and Queries, CCXXXIX [NS IV], (1994), 404-5 (with another) (Stevenson has normalized Erdman's text and dropped Erdman's name from the title page, but his notes are "indispensable")

François Piquet, Etudes anglaises, XLVII (1994), 478, in French (an account of the "nouveau" of the second edition)

Poems of William Blake. Ed. Peter Ackroyd (London: Sinclair Stevenson, 1995) 8°, 109 pp.; ISBN: 1856195627

"Introduction" (pp. vii-ix)

REVIEW

*Alberto Manguel, "Genius of Blake revealed:
Ackroyd makes it clear we owe the poet a great many revelations about our senses", Globe and Mail, [Toronto] 13 January 1996, p. C20 (with another)

**The Poems of William Blake* ([No place (England), or publisher, 2002 or 2003]) Faerie Queene Library. 7 unnumbered leaves 2.7 x 2.0 cm, no ISBN

A miniature edition, consisting of "The Tyger" plus 2 pp.
about Blake.

§Poems of William Blake [San Bernardino, California:
CreateSpace Independent Publishing Platform, 2013] 65 pp.
ISBN: 9781482717655

§Poems of William Blake--The Original Classic Edition
(Daboro: Emero Pub., 2012) An e-Book

Poèmes/Poems; see Poèmes Choisis, ed. Madeline L. Cazamian

The Poems, with Specimens of the Prose Works. With a Prefatory Notice, Biographical and Critical, by Joseph Skipsey (London: Walter Scott, 1885) The Canterbury Poets <BB #298A> B. §([?1885]) C. (London: Walter Scott; N.Y.: Thomas Whittaker; Toronto: W.J. Gage and Co., 1888) D. §([?1899]) E. (London, Felling-on-Tyne, N.Y., and Melbourne, [?1904]) The Canterbury Poets <BB #298B> F. §([Charleston [South Carolina]: BiblioBazaar, 2010) 296 pp.; ISBN: 9781141086689 G. §([Memphis, Tennessee]: General Books, 2010) 304 pp.; ISBN: 9781154815450

1885 In the first edition there are framing lines around all text, and some title page words printed in red.

[?1885] The second edition has the title page reset and no framing lines or red printing, 1888 The 1888 edition has lines printed in red.

[?1899] The ?1899 edition has no framing lines.

§**Poesía Completa: Edición Bilingüe.* Tr. Pablo Mañé Garzón (Barcelona, 1980) Libros Rio Nuevo No. 29-30. Sería Vol. 21-22. 2 vols. B. §*Corregida y revisada por E. Caracciolo Trejo (Barcelona, 1984) 2 vols. C. §(Barcelona, 1992) 320 pp. <BBS> D. (Barcelona: Ediciones 29, 1995) Libros Rio Nuevo XIV 8º, 463 pp.; ISBN: 8471753723 In Spanish and English

In 1995, Pablo Mané Garzón, "Prologo" (pp. 15-21); Mariano Vazquez Alonso, "Introduccion" (pp. 25-42), poems (English and Spanish on facing pages) from Poetical Sketches,

An Island in the Moon, Thel, Tiriel, Innocence, Experience, Notebook, The French Revolution, and Visions, plus, oddly in an edition of Poesía, The Marriage of Heaven and Hell (pp. 45-463). Of course most of Blake's poetry is omitted in this edition of his "Poesía Completa".

The ISBN number indicates that this is a different edition from Mané's Poesía Completa of ... 1984 and 1986.

§**Poesía Completa*. Edición Bilingüe. Prólogo, Pablo Mañé [Garzon]; introducción Mariano Vázquez Alonso; corrección y revisión, E. Caracciolo Trejo; [traducción, Pablo Mañé]. [Second edition] (1984) C. §(Barcelona: Ediciones 29, 1986) 2 vols., 15 cm, 452 pp.; ISBN: 8471751860 In Spanish

The ISBN number indicates that this is a different edition from Mané's Poesía Completa (1980, 1984, 1992, 1995) and his Obra Poética (1992, 1997).

§Poesía Completa [traducción, Pablo Mañé Garzón] ([Madrid]: Hyspamérica, 1986) Biblioteca personal 4 21 cm, 246 pp.; ISBN: 8459912175 In Spanish

The ISBN numbers and the pagination indicate that this is a different edition from Mañé's Poesía Completa (... 1984; 1986 and 1980, 1984, 1992, 1995) and his Obra Poética (1997).

Poesia Completa; see William Blake: Poesia Completa

Poesía completa. Prólogo, Pablo Mañé [Garzon]; introducción, Mariano Vázquez Alonso; corrección y revisión.

E. Caracciolo Trejo (Barcelona: Ediciones 29, 1986), Río nuevo, 2 vols., 452 pp.; ISBN: 8471751860 <BBS>...D. §(Barcelona, 1995)

Poesía completa. Versión, prólogo y presentación Francesc LL. Cardona Doctor en Historia y Catedrático (Barcelona: Edicomunicación, 1999) Colección Cultura 8º, 286 pp.; ISBN: 847672893X In Spanish

“William Blake, Vida y obra” (pp. 5-8), “Poesía completa” (pp. 9-278) consisting only of Poetical Sketches, Island in the Moon (poems only), Thel, Tiriel, Songs, Rossetti MS poems, French Revolution, and Marriage of Heaven and Hell.

The work seems to be a very slightly altered version of Obras Completa en Poesía, tr. Pablo Mañé Garzón (1984) with the same strange list of titles (though lacking Visions of the Daughters of Albion).

§Poesía Completa. Tr. Andrés Maldonado (Buenos Aires: Editorial Cygnus, 2012) 256 pp.; ISBN: 9789872398446 In Spanish

§Poesía romántica inglesa: Blake, Wordsworth, Taylor [?Samuel Taylor Coleridge<sup>443</sup>] y otros. [Tr. M(arià). Manent y Juan G. de Luaces] (Barcelona: Orbis, 1983) Historia universal de la literatura, 92. 141 pp.; ISBN: 8475303838 In Spanish B. §1988. Biblioteca de clásicos universales, 21

---

<sup>443</sup> Note that in Spain STC would be listed as Taylor Coleridge, Samuel.

§Poesie. Introduzione di Sergio Perosa; tr. Giacomo Conserva (Roma: Newton Compton, 1976) Paperbacks Poeti, 45 19 cm, 197 pp. <BBS 162> B. (Roma: Grandi Tascabili Economici Newton, 1991) Grandi Tascabili Economici, 93 22 cm, 197 pp. In Italian C. 3 ed. (Roma: Newton, 2003) Grandi Tascabili, Economici 22 cm., 198 pp.

§Poesie. Tr. G. Conserva (1991) 8°, 208 pp. In Italian

§**Poesie* (Novare: De Agostini, 2005]) I Tesori della Poesià in Miniatur 9 cm, 344 pp. In Italian

§Poesie e visioni: Maledizione e veggenza dell'ultimo dei bardi (1996) 8°, 144 pp.; ISBN: 8871229142 In Italian

§Poetic Genius. Ed. Steve Ricketts (Guelph, Ontario: Rickman Press, 2004) 8°, 66 pp.; ISBN: 980973174779

A selection of Blake's lyrics, from the Songs.

**The Poetical Works of William Blake, Lyrical and Miscellaneous*. Ed. William Michael Rossetti (London, 1874) The Aldine Edition of the British Poets <BB> B. *(London, 1875) <BB> C. *(Boston, 1875) D. §(1879) E. *Third Edition. (London, 1888) F. §(1882) G. §(1883) H. (London: George Bell and Sons, 1885) I. §(1888) J. §(1893) <BBS A-M> K. §(London: George Bell and Sons, 1905) O. §(1906) L. (*1911) <BB> M. §(1913) N. (London, 1914) Bohn's Popular Library <BBS N-P> O. §(1924)

An edition previously unrecorded between those of 1880 and 1890, called "The Aldine Edition" on the spine of the publisher's cloth.

The Poetical Works of William Blake: A New and Verbatim Text. Ed. John Sampson (Oxford, 1905). B. Photographically Reprinted (Oxford, 1947) C. §(Kennebunkport, Maine, 1971) <BB #300> D. (Boston, 1973) E. §(1977) F. §([Charleston, South Carolina]: Nabu Press, 2010) 7.4" x 9.8", 432 pp.; ISBN: 9781177688857

The Penguin edition of Blake's Selected Poems (1996) was apparently selected from John Sampson's edition (1913).

REVIEWS

§Paul Elmer More, "William Blake", New York Evening Post, 1905, reprinted as pp. 212-138 of his Shelburne Essays: Fourth Series (1906) <BB #2244>

§Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 13 April 1906 (with 2 others)

§Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 5 February 1914

The Poetical Works of William Blake, Lyrical and Miscellaneous, ed. William Michael Rossetti (1874-1914) <BB>

REVIEW

[Coventry Patmore], "Blake", St. James Gazette, 31 March 1887; reprinted as pp. 97-102 of Patmore's Principle in Art, etc. (1889, 1890) <BB #2368>

The Poetical Works of William Blake, ed. Edwin J. Ellis (1906) <BB>

REVIEWS

Anon., “Poetical Works of William Blake: A Noteworthy New Edition of the Writings of the Inspired Engraver”, New York Times, 21 April 1906, “Published by arrangement with the London Times”

§Anon., “William Blake”, Times Literary Supplement, 11 January 1907 (with 3 others)

§The Poetical Works of William Blake: Lyrical and Miscellaneous [1874]. Ed. William Michael Rossetti ([Whitefish [Montana]: Literary Licensing LLC, 2014) 372 pp.; ISBN: 9781498054133

The Poetical Works of William Blake, Including the unpublished French Revolution together with the Minor Prophetic Books and Selections from The Four Zoas, Milton & Jerusalem. Ed. John Sampson (London, Edinburgh, Glasgow, N.Y., Toronto, Melbourne and Bombay, 1913) Oxford Edition. B. (1914) C. (1915) D. (1925) E. (1928) F. §(1934) G. (1938) H. §(1941) I. §(1943) J. Photographically Reprinted (Oxford, 1947) K. §(1948) L. §(1949) M. §(1952) N. §(1956) O. §(1958) P. (1960) Oxford Standard Authors Q. §([Kennebunkport, Maine], 1971) R. (Boston, 1973) S. §(1977) <BB #302A-N, BBS 162> T. §[No editor named] ([Memphis, Tennessee]: General Books, 2010) 6” x 9”, 270 pp.; ISBN: 9781153250368

REVIEW

1905

§G. Gregory Smith, Modern Language Review, I, 4
(July 1906), 343-45

Poetry and Prose of William Blake, ed. Geoffrey Keynes; see Writings

The Poetry and Prose of William Blake. Ed. David V. Erdman. Commentary by Harold Bloom (1965) B. [Second Printing], 1966) C. Third Printing. D. Fourth Printing (1970) <BB #304A-D> ... F. The Complete Poetry and Prose of William Blake. Newly Revised Edition (Berkeley and Los Angeles: University of California Press, 1982) G. The Poetry and Prose of William Blake (N.Y., 1982) H. (1988) <BBS 162> I. The Complete Poetry and Prose of William Blake. With a New Foreword and Commentary by Harold Bloom. Ed. David V. Erdman (Berkeley: University of California Press, 2008) 1022 pp., 6" x 9"; ISBN: 97800520256378 J. §Complete Poetry and Prose of William Blake. Ed. David V. Erdman and Harold Bloom ([No place]: Paw Prints, 2011) ISBN: 9781448776375

The 1988 edition is available online both at http://www.english.uga.edu/Blake\_Concordance and at <http://www.blakearchive.org.uk/cgi.bin/nph.1965/blake/erdman/erd>.

In the 2008 printing, only the 1½ pp. “Foreword” is new.

See Wayne C. Ripley, “Erdman’s Pagination of The Four Zoas”, Blake, XXXVI (2003), 140-43: The renumbering of Vala pp. 19-21, 87-90, 105-16 in the Erdman-Magno reproduction [1987] is followed “inconsistently” in the text and ignored “completely” in the notes to Erdman’s edition of

The Complete Poetry and Prose [1988], so Ripley provides four tables of corrections to the Poetry and Prose.

See Erdman, "Improving the Text of The Complete Poetry & Prose of William Blake", Blake, XX, 2 (Fall 1986), 49-52

See Blake Concordance Online, which is based on it.

REVIEWS

1965

§F.W. Bateson, New York Review of Books, 28 October 1965, pp. 24-25

§Aileen Ward, Herald Tribune [N.Y.], 23 January 1966, pp. 4, 14 (with another)

§Robert Kirsch, Los Angeles Times, 4 February 1966
John E. Grant, Philological Quarterly, XLV, 3 (July 1966), 533

§Michael J. Tolley, Southern Review [Adelaide], II (1967), 269-77 (with 4 others)

§Richard Moore, "Two New Editions of Blake", Poetry, CXI, 4 (January 1968), 263-66 (with another)

1970

§Rodney M. Baine, Georgia Review, XXV (Fall 1971), 380-81

§Prairie Schooner, XLIV, 3 (Fall 1970), 276

1982

§Anon., Choice, XX (1982), 424

§Anon., Malahat Review, No. 63 (1982), 248

Robert F. Gleckner, Eighteenth Century ... Bibliography, VIII (1982), 386-87

I.H. C[hayes], Romantic Movement ... Bibliography for 1982 (1983), 84

Santa Cruz Blake Study Group, Blake, XVIII, 1 (Summer 1984), 4-31

For a reply, see D.V. E[rdman], Romantic Movement ... Bibliography for 1984 (1985), 112

§Peter A. Taylor, Queen's Quarterly, XCI (1984), 719-22 (with another)

2008

*Shirley Dent, "Bruised without mercy", Times Literary Supplement, 15 May 2009, p. 22 (with another) (an "essential" book)

Poetry by William Blake (Winterport, Maine: Borrower's Press, 1978) A thumb-sized book (1.5 x 2.0 cm), 300 copies

REVIEW

G.E. Bentley, Jr., "The Least Blake", Blake XVI (Winter 1981-82), 148

§Poetry of William Blake. Preface by P.K. Roy (Jaipur, India: ABD Publishers, 2006) vi, 353 pp.; ISBN: 8183760503 B. (Jaipur [India]: ABD Publishers, 2010) an eBook 353 pp.; ISBN: 9788183760508

The text seems to include all of Milton and Jerusalem.

§"Poezija [Poetry]." Tr. Tanja Bakić. Plima plus [Montenegro, No. 53-54 (2006), 101-09. In Montenegrin

A Poison Tree (Stoke Ferry, Norfolk: Daedalus Press [c. 1989]) Poemcard 21.

The poem is printed on post-card size stiff paper.

The Portable Blake, ed. Alfred Kazin (1946) B. The Indispensable Blake (1950). C. The Portable Blake (1953). D. The Essential Blake (1968). ... U. The Portable Blake (1974). <BB> V. **The Essential Blake*. Ed. Stanley Kunitz. (N.Y.: Ecco Press, 1987) The Essential Poets Volume 4 12°, ix, 92 pp.; ISBN: 0880011386 (paperback) <BBS> W. §(N.Y.: Fine Communications, 1996) 112 pp.; ISBN: 1567311598 X. Selected with an Introduction by Stanley Kunitz (N.Y.: HarperCollins, 2007) 12°, xxiv, 101 pp.; ISBN: 100060887931

The “Introduction” is reprinted as “An Introduction to William Blake”, pp. 36-88 of his The Inmost Leaf: A Selection of Essays (N.Y.: Harcourt, Brace and Company, 1955) <BB #1991 misdates it 1941>

The Portable Blake is the basis for Zwischen Feuer und Feuer: Poetische Werke, tr. Thomas Eichhorn (1996).

2007 Daniel Halperin, “Foreword” (pp. xiii-xiv); Kunitz, “Introduction” (pp. xv-xxii).

REVIEWS

§Lloyd Frankenberg, “Commanded by Spirits: The Portable Blake”, New York Times, 23 March 1947

Northrop Frye, “Blake on Trial Again”, Poetry: A Magazine of Verse, LXIX (1947), 223-28 (with another) B. Pp. 185-88, 446-47 of Northrop Frye on Milton and Blake (2005)

Northrop Frye (bis), University of Toronto Quarterly, XVII (1947), 107. B. P. 189 of Northrop Frye on Milton and Blake (2005) (quite different from the review in Poetry)

*E.B. Murray, Blake, XXIV, 4 (Spring 1991), 145-52
(with 2 others)

§Primeros libros proféticos: Poemas. Prólogo y traducción de Augusti Bartra (Mexico [City], 1961) Colección Poemas y ensayos. 1993 pp. In Spanish. <BBS> B. §[Second Edition] (Mexico [City]: Universidad Nacional Autónoma de Mexico, 1990) 193 pp.

§A Printing-House in Hell: A Memorable Fancy (Pittsburgh: The Laboratory Press, 1930) Students' Project (Carnegie Institute of Technology Library Press) Specimen No. 103 Broadside 35 x 20 cm. designed and composed by Menno L. Schrock.

§*"Profecia poética e tradução." Translation and commentary on America by Walter Carlos Costa. Universidade Federal de Santa Catarina [Brazil] doctoral dissertation, 2012. In Portuguese

The commentary compares the translation with that of Manuel Portela.

The Prophetic Writings of William Blake, ed. J.D. Sloss and J.P.R. Wallis (1927), B. (1957), C. (1964)

REVIEW

1927

Bernard E.C. Davis, Review of English Studies, III, 9 (January 1927), 99-101 ("the only really satisfactory comment on this subject--a treatment of each symbol separately and upon its own merits ... the editors are to be congratulated")

§The Prophecies of William Blake. Ed. John Wood, Photographs by Mitali Dobrowner ([South Denis, Massachusetts]: Stephen Albahari, 21s Editions, 2012) 42 x
53 cm, no ISBN

"The Deluxe Edition of the Prophecies of William Blake is limited to thirty-nine copies .... Each book is accompanied by three loose prints from a selection of twelve, nine of which are bound".

The Prophetic Writings of William Blake, ed. J.D. Sloss and
J.P.R. Wallis (1926, 1957, 1964)<BB>

REVIEWS

§Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 22 January 1926, p.
493

§J.C. Squire, Observer, 20 May 1926

§S. Foster Damon, Saturday Review of Literature, 4
December 1926, pp. 357-58 (with another)

§P. Berger, Revue anglo-américaine, IV (1926), 66-68, in French

§Benjamin Brawley, North American Review, CCXXIII,
833 (December 1926-February 1927), 704-6

Thomas Wright, "William Blake", Reader, II (1926-27),
27-31 <BB #3019>

§M.O. Percival, Journal of English and Germanic Philology,
XXVII, 1 (January 1928), 85-87

§Review of English Studies, III, 9 (January 1927), 99-
101

§Prorockè Knihy. Tr. Zdeněk Hron (Praha [Czech Republic]: BB. Art, 2002) 15 cm, 103 pp.; ISBN: 8072577468 In Czech

**Prosa Escogida: Prólogo, selección y traducción* de Bel Atreides (Barcelona: DVD ediciones, April 2002) Colección Los Cinco Elementos, 21 190 pp.; ISBN: 8495007681 In Spanish

"Prólogo" (pp. 7-14) and "Bibliografía" (pp. 181-83). The Blake texts are All Religions are One, There is No Natural Religion, Marriage, Descriptive Catalogue, "Vision of the Last Judgment", "Prólogos en prosa de Jerusalén", and "Cartas" (some letters of 1799-1805).

REVIEWS

Angel Rupérez, "Conquistas iluminadas", El País (Madrid), 25 de mayo de 2002, 3 pp., in Spanish (with another)

*Ramon Andrés, "Paraíso sin sueños" El Periódico [Barcelona], 28 de junio del 2002, 26, in Spanish (with another)

§**Prose & Prophecy: Selections from the Prose and Prophetic Books of William Blake* (Franklin [New Hampshire]: Hillside Press, 1964) 6 cm, xvi, 52 pp., 375 copies <BB #310, here amplified>

The poems are from Innocence, Experience, and Blake's Notebook. [The cover designs are by Jessie M. King.<sup>444</sup>]

---

<sup>444</sup> Robin De Beaumont, "Towards a check-list of books illustrated by Jessie M. King, 1875-1949", Private Library, 2S, X, 3 (Autumn 1977), 99-122.

§Proverbes de l'enfer: calligraphie Lalou. Tr. Angela Esdaile (1996) ISBN: 2841030601 In French and English Text from the Marriage.

§Proverbs of Hell (Ellsworth, Maine: Borealis Press, [?1992])
A series of cards with dry-point etchings by Robert Shetterly.

§Proverbs of Hell. Images by James Putnam Abbott (N.p: Blurb, 2014) ISBN: 9781320905183

**Proverbs O Hell Fae the Merriage o heevin and hell, 1793 bi William Blake* Translated ti Scots bi William Hershaw ([Fife:] Scievin Press, 1988) Small 4°, Echt pp. and covers, no ISBN
In Scots

**Public Address: Zu einer deutschen Ausgabe der dicterischen Gesamtwerke von William Blake (1757-1827)* Tr. Hans-Ulrich Möhring (Loppenhausen: Möhring, (Marz, 1993) In German

A selection from the illuminated books.

§Pu-lai-k'o shih hsuan: Chou Wen-ping i (Taipei: Wu Chou, mia 62, 1973) 121 pp. In Chinese

§**een Rhapsodie, Samengesteld uit den Geschriften van William Blake en uit de Geschriften over hem met een Vertaling van Het huwelijk van Hemel en Hel en Het Eeuwige Evangelie*. Tr. E.J. Welz and B.W. Visser ('s Graveland [Holland]: De Driehoek, 1949) , 20 cm, 144 pp. In Dutch

Translation of The Marriage of Heaven and Hell and “The Everlasting Gospel”.

§Roof'd in from Eternity. Tr. Dieter Löchle (Tübingen, Germany: Galerie Druck & Buchhandlung Hugo Frick, 1995)

Translations from the Lambeth books, with a commentary, to accompany an exhibition at the Tübingen University Library (April-May 1995) of the translator's drawings, paintings, and prints based on Blake's imagery.

The Rossetti Manuscript: Cradle Song (Millburn: The Post-Haste Press, 1933)

"Ten copies were printed".

§The Romantic Poets: William Blake. Foreword by Philip Pullman. Ed. Nicholas Wroe ([?London]: The Guardian [2010]) 26 pp. No 7 in a series of 7, ed. Philip Oltermann No
ISBN

Pullman, “Foreword” (pp. 5-7).

§“Sakupljenirukopisi [The Pickering Manuscript]” Tr. Tanja Bakić. Ars [Montenegro], No. 3 (2011), 80-91. In Montenegrin

The School Boy. Decorations by Cecil Rhodes ([London:] Curwen Press and Poetry Bookshop, [1920?]) The New Broadside, No. 6 19.2 x 35.4 cm

Only 4 lines of the poem are given.

§... [sic] The Schoolboy: From a poem by William Blake (No place: No publisher, no date) New broadside [No. 6].

Decorations by Cecil Rhodes [not the founder of De Beers].

§Selected Poems ([Raleigh, North Carolina:] Sweetwater Press, 2007) Copyright Cliff Road Books. 144 pp.; ISBN: 9781581737226

§Selected Poems by William Blake [San Bernardino, California: CreateSpace Independent Publishing Platform, 2013] 40 pp. ISBN: 9781483928876

§Seçme şiirler [Poems]. Tr. Tozan Alkan (Istanbul: Bordo Siyah Klasik Yayınlar, 2005) 105 pp.; ISBN: ISBN: 9789751233335 In Turkish

Seconds Livres prophétique, tr. Pierre Berger (1930) In French<BB>

REVIEW

§Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 1 June 1933, p. 376

"Seishin no Tabibito: 'The Mental Traveller'." Tr. Koji Toki. Uriika: Eureka, V, 9 (1973), 158-59. In Japanese <BSJ>

§Select Poems of William Blake (Edinburgh: the Royal Blind Asylum and School, 1920) In "interpoint braille"

I have records of works in braille called §Selections from the Poems of William Blake (Edinburgh: SPB, 1920) <BBS>and §Selections from William Blake (Edinburgh: Royal Blind School, 1920). It seems likely that these are all the same work, variously transcribed.

Selected Poems of William Blake, ed. F.W. Bateson (1957)

REVIEW

V. de S. Pinto, Review of English Studies, NS, IX, 35
(August 1958), 345-46 ("The notes are generally acute and helpful", but "Mr. Bateson under-estimates the value of Blake's longer poems")

**Selected Poems*. Ed. P.H. Butter (London, Melbourne, Toronto: Dent, 1982) Everyman's Library. ISBN:
0460011251 (pbk) B. §(1986) C. §(1988) D. §(1989) E.
(London: J.M. Dent; [Rutland] Vermont: Charles E. Tuttle, 1991) The Everyman Library <BBS> F. (London: J.M. Dent;
"Vermont": Charles E. Tuttle, 1993) 12°; ISBN: 0460873091
G. (1994) H. §(Penguin, 1996) Everyman's Poetry. 20 cm, xx, 107 pp.; ISBN: 9780460878005 I. (London: Phoenix Poetry, 2003) 8°, [vi], 144 pp.; ISBN: 0753816555

"[Chronology of] Blake's Life" (pp. ix-xii in 1982; expanded as "Chronology of Blake's Life and Times", pp. xii-xxi in 1993-94) "Introduction" (pp. xiii-xxvii in 1982; pp. xiiixxvi in 1991; pp. xxii-xxxiii in 1993-94), "Notes" (pp. 195-263 in 1982; pp. 205-63 in 1991; pp. 181-248 in 1993-94). "I have taken as my base text Max Plowman's edition of Blake's Poems and Prophecies, and have emended ... mainly the punctuation"
(p. xxix of 1982; p. xxxv of 1994; the 1991 edition is said to be "revised" (p. [iv])). The "New Edition" of 1993-94 adds "Note on the Author and Editor" (pp. x-xi), "Note on the Text and this Selection" (pp. xxxiv-xxxvi in 1993), "Glossary" (pp. 249-51),
"Blake and his Critics" [a summary] (pp. 252-63), "Further Reading" (pp. 264-65 in 1993), and a little more Blake text.

The text is significantly different from that of the previous Everyman edition called Poems & Prophecies, ed. Max Plowman (1927 ff) <BB>, revised by Geoffrey Keynes (1959 ff.)<BB>, introduction by Kathleen Raine (1975 ff) <BBS>, and quite different from the Everyman edition of Poems, ed. Peter Washington (1994).

An "abridged edition", omitting the editor's name, was published as **Songs of Innocence & Experience* (London: Phoenix, 1996).

REVIEWS

§D. J. Enright, "Visions and Particulars", Times Literary Supplement, 14 January 1983, p. 29

For a correction, see P.H. Butter, "William Blake", Times Literary Supplement, 4 February 1983, p. 109 (pace Enright's review, "Sooner murder an infant ..." means that "it is better to murder the infant desire...", not the infant itself) <BBS 430>

§Bernard Beatty, British Journal for Eighteenth-Century Studies, VII (1984), 130

§F[rançois] P[iquet], Etudes anglaises, XXXVII (1984), 363-64

D.W. Dörrbecker, Blake, XXVI, 3 (Winter 1992-93), 80

Selected Poems. Ed. Stanley Gardner (London: University of London Press, 1962) The London English Literature Series B. (1965) <BB #315A-B> ... D. §Fourth Impression. (1973)

§Selected Poems (London: Bloomsbury Publishing, 1994)
Bloomsbury Poetry Classics B. (N.Y.: St. Martin's Press, March 1995) 12°, 127 pp.; ISBN: 0312119372

A "Selection by Ian Hamilton", mostly of lyrics.

Selected Poems (N.Y.: Gramercy Books, 1995) 8°, 224 pp.,
ISBN: 051712367 B. §Introduction by Christopher Moore,
N.Y.: 1995 (N.p.: State Street Press, 2002) 224 pp.; ISBN:
0681741767

Christopher Moore, "Introduction" (pp. 11-14).

**Selected Poems* (London, N.Y., Ringwood [Victoria, Australia], Toronto, Auckland: Penguin Books, 1996)
Penguin Popular Classics 12°, x, 242 pp.; ISBN: 0140622195

Lyric poems plus Tiriel and Thel apparently selected from Poetical Works, ed. John Sampson (1913). <BB>

§Selected Poems. Scelta dei Testi a Traduzione Francese di
Georges Bataille: Poèmes choisis; Versione Italiano di
Giuseppe Ungaretti: Poesie Scelte a Cura di Annamaria
Laserra (Torino [Italy]: Einaudi [1996]) Scrittori Tradotti da
Scrittori, 69 Serie Trilingue, 10 17 cm, 224 pp.; ISBN:
8806139215 Text in English, French, and Italian.

English and French texts are on facing pages with Italian in footnotes. Georges Bataille, "William Blake", tr. Andrea Zanzotto (pp. 85-114); Georges Bataille, "Frommenti su
William Blake" (pp. 149-63); Georges Bataille, "Lettore e traduttore di William Blake", tr. Annamaria Leserra (pp. 165-217); A.L., "Nota bibliographica" (pp. 218-20).

**Selected Poems* (London: CRW Publishing, 2004)
Collector's Poetry Library 12°, 159 pp.; ISBN: 1904919278

Peter Harness, "Introduction", pp. 9-12.

**Selected Poems*. Edited and with an Introduction and Notes by G.E. Bentley, Jr (London [&c]: Penguin Books, 2005 [i.e., 2006]) 8°, xxxv, 362 pp.; ISBN: 9780140424461

The work consists of "Introduction" (pp. xi-xxxi), "A Note on the Texts" (pp. xxxii-xxxv), "Selected Poems" (pp. 1-304), "Bibliography" (pp. 305-8), "Institutions with Major Collections of Blake's Original Books and Manuscripts [and Paintings and Drawings]" (p. 309), and "Notes" (pp. 310-54). "Of course the illustrations that accompanied most of these poems are missing, though some of the most important ones are described in the Notes" (p. xxviii).

Previous Penguin editions include William Blake, ed. Jacob Bronowski (1958-85) <BBS>, The Portable Blake, ed. Alfred Kazin (1976) <BBS>, Complete Poems, ed. Alicia Ostriker (1977, 1981) <BBS>, still in print, Songs of Innocence and of Experience (1995), and Selected Poems (1996).

§Selected Poems ([?Sydney, Australia]: Objective Systems Pty Ltd, 2006) Large Type Edition 16pt Bold 8°, 150 pp.; ISBN: 1424055370

§Selected Poems ([?Boston]: Adamant Media Corporation, 2006) Elibron Classics series 4°, 149 pp.; ISBN: 0543895068

Selected Poems of William Blake, ed. Basil de Selincourt
(1927) <BB>

REVIEW

§Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 24 November 1927

**Selected Poems of William Blake*. Ed. F.W. Bateson
(London: Heinemann, 1957) B. §Reprinted with Corrections (1961) C. §(1963) D. §(1964) E. (1965) F.
(1966)<BB>G. §(1968) H. §(1969) I. §(1971) J. §(1974)
K. (1976) The Poetry Bookshelf

"Introduction" (pp. xi-xxx); the "Notes" (pp. 91-140) are original and illuminating.

REVIEWS

§John Wain, Observer, 18 March 1957

§Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 12 April 1957, p.
228 (severe)

Frederick W. Bateson and Geoffrey Keynes,
"Selections from Blake", Times Literary Supplement, 26 April 1957 (Bateson), and 10 May 1957, p. 289(Keynes) <BB 739>

§Grace Banyard, Contemporary Review, CXCI (1957), 320

§W[alter] M. C[rittenden], Personalist, XXXIX
(1958), 421-22

D.V. E[rdman], Philological Quarterly, XXXVII
(1958), 142

§Désirée Hirst, "New Light on William Blake", Month,
NS, XIX (1958), 33-37 (with another)

§V. de S. Pinto, Review of English Studies, NS, IX, 35
(August 1958), 345-46

[Selected Poems of William Blake]. Tr. Yuan Kejia<sup>445</sup> et al.
(Beijing: Beijing's People's Literature Press, 1957) 176 pp.
In Chinese

[Selected Poems of William Blake]. Tr. Zha Liangzheng
(Beijing: People's Literature Press, 1957) In Chinese

§The Selected Poems of William Blake. Introduction, notes, and bibliography by Bruce Woodcock (Ware: Wordsworth editions, 2000) The Wordsworth Poetry Library

See also The Works of William Blake with an Introduction and Bibliography [no editor named] (Ware, Hertfordshire: Wordsworth Editions Ltd, 1994) The Wordsworth Poetry Library

§**Selected Poems of William Blake* (Taipeh: Bookman Books, 2007) 21 cm, xi, 367 pp.; ISBN: 9789574451791 [Editor not named in WorldCat]

Selected Poetry, ed. W.H. Stevenson (1988) <BBS>

REVIEWS

M[ark] T. S[mith], Romantic Movement ... Bibliography for 1988 (1989), 116

D.W. Dörrbecker, Blake, XXIII, 3 (Winter 1989-90), 123

§Selected Poetry. Ed. Michael Mason (Oxford and N.Y.: Oxford University Press, 1996) World's Classics. B. (1998)

---

<sup>445</sup> Probably this is the same as Yuan, K'o-chin (1957) in BB #3063.

Oxford World's Classics 12°, xvi, 311 pp.; ISBN: 0192834894 C. §(2008) xii, 311 pp.

"Introduction" (pp. vii-xii: "How should the modern reader approach William Blake?" [p. vii]); "Notes" (pp. 270-303).

This seems to be the same as his William Blake (1994) in the Oxford Poetry Library.

Selected Poetry and Prose, ed. David Fuller; see William Blake: Selected Poetry and Prose

Selected Poetry and Prose of William Blake. Ed. Northrop Frye (1953) <BB>

Frye's "Introduction" (pp. xiii-xxviii) is reprinted on pp. 221-36, 448-50 of Northrop Frye on Milton and Blake (2005).

REVIEW

D.V. E[rdman], Philological Quarterly, XXXIII (1954), 106

Selected Poetry and Prose, ed. David Punter (1988) <BBS>

REVIEWS

§Michael Baron, English, XXXVII (1988), 262-8 (omnibus review)

§J.M.Q. Davies, Review of English Studies, NS XLI (1990), 128-30

*E.B. Murray, Blake, XXIV, 4 (Spring 1991), 145-52 (with 2 others)

**Selected Works*. Ed. David Stevens (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 1995) Cambridge Literature 8°, 144 pp., ISBN: 0521485460

Judith Baxter, "Cambridge Literature" (p. 5): it was "prepared for students in schools and colleges"; David Stevens, "Introduction" (pp. 6-7); each poem has a section of "Activities and approaches", and at the end are Resource Notes (pp. 126-44).

Selections from the Symbolic Poems of William Blake, ed. Frederick E. Pierce (1915) <BB>

REVIEW

John Gould Fletcher, "Yale Discovers Blake", Poetry, XX (1917), 315-20 <BB #1622>

Selections from the Symbolic Poems of William Blake. Ed. Frederick E. Pierce (New Haven and London, 1915) <BB #323> B. §([Whitefish, Montana]: Kessinger Publications, 2010) Legacy Reprint Series C. §([Charleston, South Carolina]: Nabu Press, 2010) 102 pp.; ISBN: 9781176971240

[Selections from the Poetical Works (Edinburgh: Royal Blind School, 1920)] Folio, perforated in Braille.

Based on the [?Sampson] edition from London: Oxford University Press.

§Selections from the Writings of William Blake. Ed. Laurence Housman (London: Kegan Paul, 1893) <BB #325> B. §([Memphis, Tennessee]: General Books, 2010) 308 pp.; ISBN: 9781152598218

REVIEWS

§Anon., New York Times, 25 June 1893

William Butler Yeats, “The Writings of William Blake”, Bookman, IV (1893), 146-47; The Uncollected Prose by W.B. Yeats [Vol.] I: First Reviews and Articles 1886-1896, ed. John P. Frayne (London, 1970), pp. 280-83; §(N.Y., 1970) (Yeats has “hard things” to say of it in comparison to his own “correct text”: “What excuse can be offered for an inaccurate edition like this one?”) <BB #3052, BBS 692>

§Selections of William Blake’s Proverbs of Hell (San Francisco: Thomas Ingmire of the Scriptorium St Francis, 1975) 350 copies

**Sete Livros Iluminados*. Tr. Manuel Portela(Lisboa [Portugal]: Antígona, 2005) 8º, 175 pp., 32 good colour reproductions; ISBN: 9726081815 In Portuguese and English

Manuel Portela, “Introdução: Oficina Gráfica & Forja Divina: a gravura como cosmogonia” (pp. 5-22); “Notas da Introdução” (pp. 23-24); “Notas Textuais” (pp. 25-31); “Pequeno glossário mitológico de William Blake” adapted from Damon’s Blake Dictionary (1965) (pp. 159-73) – with a loose leaf of “Errata”.

All Religions are One, There is No Natural Religion, The Book of Thel, America, Europe, Song of Los, and Book of Los are given, with English and Portuguese on facing pages.

Seven Poems from Blake's "Songs of Innocence." Decorated in Colours by G. Spencer Watson. Set to Music by Geoffrey Gwyther (London: The Poetry Bookshop,<sup>446</sup> [1921]) 4°

The poems are "Piping Down the Valleys Wild" ["Introduction"], "The Shepherd", "Nurse's Song", "Spring", "Opportunity" ("He who bends to himself a joy", of course not from Innocence), "Infant Joy", and "Night", sold either separately or "The set complete in Decorated Portfolio". The very simply coloured designs are unrelated to Blake's.

**Several Questions Answered: Lyrics and Ballads from Manuscripts [by] William Blake "Born 28th Nov 1757 & has died several times since."* (Apollo, California: [Andrew Smith], 1999) iv, 42 pp., no ISBN

Andrew Smith, "Introduction".

§The Shepherd ([Berkeley Heights, New Jersey: The Oriole Press, ?1932]) 4 pp. "with cordial greetings of the season 1932-3".

§The Shepherd. [Illustrated by Linda Anne Landers] ([London]: Spoon Print Press, 2012) 39 cm, 5 leaves, no ISBN

§The Sick Rose (Bushey Heath, Herts: Taurus Press, n.d.) Broadside illustrated by Paul P. Piech. 200 copies

---

<sup>446</sup> The address for The Poetry Bookshop is 35 Devonshire Street, Theobalds Road, but a printed note pasted into "The Shepherd" (in the copy in the Victoria University of the University of Toronto) gives the "Present Address 38 Gt. Russell St. London W.C.1".

Song ["How sweet I roam'd" from Poetical Sketches]. Designed, [decorated,] printed and made by Linda Landers (London: Spoon Print Press, 2001) Tall 8° with 7 fold-out leaves

Songs of Innocence (London: Arthur L. Humphreys, 1911) Square 12°, with paper covers (as on the title-page) folded over paste-board <BB #155, mistakenly listed under Songs of Innocence>

Despite the title, the text includes poems from Songs of Experience and Blake's Notebook. There are seven charming pasted-on sepia vignettes on india paper, apparently from 18th century engravings, the initial letter to each poem is printed in red, "A Poison Tree" in Experience (pp. 56-57) is entitled "Christian Forbearance" (as in Notebook p. 114), and "A Cradle Song" (from Notebook p. 114) is inserted in Experience without Blake's authorization.

Songs of Innocence and [of] Experience: Pecniy Neviynostiy iy Opiyta (St. Petersburg: Severo-Zapad, 1993) 12°; ISBN: 5835202318 In Russian and English

A. Glebovskaya, "Predvareniye" (pp. 5-23); English and Russian texts of the Songs, Thel, Marriage, and "The Mental Traveller" on facing pages, plus "Kommentaree" (pp. 226-67).

Songs of Innocence & [of] Experience (London: Phoenix, 1996) Square 16°, [vi], 58 pp.; ISBN: 1857995414

The text of the Songs and poems from the Notebook and the Pickering MS is apparently taken from Selected Poems

[ed. P.H. Butter] (1981) <BBS>[which in turn is taken from Poems & Prophecies, ed. Max Plowman (1927)]. <BB>

Songs of Innocence and of Experience Shewing the Two Contrary States of the Human Soul. Engraved by Derek Cowan (Cumberland [British Columbia]: Cowan and Tetley, 2001) Edition of Twenty Horizontal folio, 13 leaves printed on one side only, no ISBN Text and un-Blake-like white-line designs for three poems from Innocence and eleven from Experience.

Songs of Innocence and [of] Experience with Other Poems By W. Blake and Some Copyright Poems Not in Any Other Edition [Ed. R.H. Shepherd] (London: Basil Montague Pickering, 1866)B. (1868) <BB>C. §(Charleston [South Carolina]: Bibliolife, 2009) 126 pp.; ISBN: 9781143261688 D. §([Charleston [South Carolina]: BiblioBazaar, 2010) 126 pp.; ISBN: 9781143261688

1866 The copy in the Essick Collection bears the vainglorious bookplate and inscription of Richard C. Jackson about

Gilchrist's so called life of Blake in 1863. ... such was my father's disgust at Gilchrist's Journalistic performance, that he would not allow him to use any of his Blakean material.<sup>447</sup>

No significant Blakean material has been traced to R.C. Jackson's father.

---

<sup>447</sup> "Gilchrist's Journalistic performance" presumably refers to his essays in The Eclectic Review, Literary Gazette, and Critic.

REVIEW

1866

Anon., North American Review, CVIII, 223 (April 1869), 641-46 (with 2 others)

Songs of Innocence [pl. 3, 6, 8, 16, 18, 24, 27] and Songs of Experience [pl. 29, 33-34, 36, 43, 46-48, 53] (Manchester [England]: Manchester Etching Workshop, 1983)

Printed by Paul Ritchie from the electrotypes in the Victoria & Albert Museum consisting of(1) 40 copies of a “Facsimile Edition” hand-coloured in imitation of Songs (B) and(2)35 copies of a “Monochrome Edition” with two copies of pl. 34 watercoloured after copies B and T. <BBS>

According to a flyer of “Aug. 2005”, Jacqueline Marshall (of Lymm, Cheshire), “a colourist for the Manchester Etching Workshop” edition of the Songs, still has “a few prints [which] were never coloured” and which she would be “willing to colour ... to order ... from, my own master set”: Two complete sets at £2,500, plus individual prints of all save “The Divine Image” at £60 (“A Cradle Song” pl. 1) to £300 (“The Little Girl Found” pl. 2, which “takes well over five hours” to colour).

**Songs of Innocence and of Experience. A Portfolio of Eighteen Facsimile Impressions* (Orlando: Flying Horse Editions, University of Central Florida, 2009) 2 octavo-size paper covered “volumes” (13.9 x 19.4 cm), within a huge hinged double clam-shell box (132.5 x 37 cm), 33 copies printed, $1,950

The text-volume entitled **William Blake. Songs of* Innocence and of Experience (1794): A Note on Production consists of Anon., [introduction] in the third person (pp. 5-8) and Michael Phillips, “A Note on Production” (pp. 9-34), with sections on “Relief Etching” (pp. 18-22), “Printing the Facsimile” (pp. 23-24), “Ink” (pp. 25-26), “Paper” (pp. 27-30), and “Wrappers” (p. 31), most of it “abstracted” (p. 33) from his “The Printing of Blake’s America a Prophecy”, Print Quarterly, XXI, 1 (March 2004), 18-26. It is largely based on John Jackson [and William A. Chatto], A Treatise on Wood Engraving (1839). The plates were printed by “Dennis Hearne at Flying Horse Editions”.

The facsimile “volume” consists of a folded unmarked leaf with string through three stab-holes plus 18 unsewn reproductions (pl. 1, 3, 8, 12, 16-19, 24, 29, 33, 37-38, 42-43, 46-47, b) printed mostly in yellow ochre or grey (pl. b).

REVIEW

Robert N. Essick, Blake, XLIV, 3 (Winter 2010-2011), 104-10 (with another) (an important review; “it is certainly a handsome object”)

**Songs of Innocence and of Experience 1794. Lessing J. Rosenwald Collection Library of Congress Archive of the making of A Portfolio of Eighteen Facsimile Impressions Flying Horse Editions, 2009* ([London: “Designed and printed by Simon Rendell”], 2010) 4°, 36 pp., 3 copies printed<sup>448</sup>

Michael Phillips, “Introduction” (pp. 3-8), followed by “Checklist of Contents” [51 items] (pp. 9-15), in order “to record ... the Flying Horse Editions facsimile” (2009) (p. 31).

---

<sup>448</sup> However, the gift-inscription by Michael Phillips in the copy in Victoria University in the University of Toronto says that this copy is “out of series”.

It is about the title pages of Innocence and Experience (Songs pl. 3, 29), apparently designed to accompany “three discs [not included here] that provide a photographic record of the contents” (p. 9).

Songs of Innocence and Experience and Other Works, ed. R. B. Kennedy (1972)<BB>

REVIEW

§David Jay, “Minimum Meddling”, Times Educational Supplement, 23 April 1971 (in part a review)

Songs of Innocence and [of] Experience The Book of Thel. ([No place<sup>449</sup>]: Dodo Press [2005]) Narrow 4°, 45 pp.; ISBN: 1406502200

According to the back cover, “Blake was himself a follower of Unitarian philosophy.”

§Songs of Innocence and of Experience and The Book of Thel(Cirencester: The Echo Library, 2005) 8°, 53 pp.; ISBN: 1847020216 B. (2007) ISBN: 9781406825343

This is distinct from the work with the same title published by Dodo Press (2005), 45 pp., and a different ISBN.

Songs of Innocence And Other Poems (London: Samuel Bagster and Sons Limited, [1911?]) <BB #336, here amplified> 24°, 125 pp. (plus 3 integral pp. of advertisements), no editorial matter

---

<sup>449</sup> It was “Printed in the United States”, but the address is <www.dodopress.co.uk>.

The contents are mostly "Ideas of Good and Evil" (pp. 57-125).

§Songs of Innocence, Songs of Experience, The Marriage of Heaven and Hell. Tr. Yuriko Doi ([?Tokyo]: Heibonsha Library, 1995) Small 8°, 174 pp.; ISBN: 4582761208 In Japanese

Songs of Innocence and [of] Experience with Other Poems [Ed. R.H. Shepherd] (1866) B. (1868) <BB>

REVIEW

§North American Review, CVIII, 223 (April 1869), 641-646

§Songs of Life. Illus. Mark Sheeky (N.p.: Pentangle Books, 2014) ISBN: 9780957194724

Spring. Spoon Print Press with wood engravings by Linda Ann Landers (London: Circle Press, 1993)

A sheet folded to make four-leaves with a cover; 25 of the 150 copies are coloured by the artist.

§Stichi [Poems]. Perevod s angliiskogo. [Ed. A. Zveryev] (Moskva, 1978) 324 pp. In Russian

A. Zveryev, "Zhizn i pesia Bleika [Life and Poetry of Blake]" (pp. 5-32); G. Yakovleva (reprinted in Literaturnoe Obozrenyie [Literary Review], V [1979], 75-76); N. Starosel'skaya, "Mezhdu epocham [Between the Epochs]" (reprinted in Inostrannaya [Foreign] Literatura, XII [1980], 232-33).

Stikhi [Poems] Tr. S. Marshkom, V. Toporov, A. Sergeif, V. Mikushevich (Moscow: Eksmo-Press, 1982) 12° In Russian and English

§**Syner og Fakta: Lyrik, "Profetiske bøger" og prosa.* Med forord af Jørgen Sonne (København: Gyldendal, 1987) 161 B. §(1998) Klassikerbiblioteket 23 cm, 161 pp.; ISBN: 9788798218883 In Danish

Tate Britain
Online Reproductions<sup>450</sup>

Book of Thel pl. 7

Europe pl. 6-7 fragments

First Book of Urizen pl. 2, 7, 11-12, 17, 19, 23

Marriage pl. 6

Songs pl. 1, 3, 22, 42, 48 (2 copies)

Visions of the Daughters of Albion pl. 1, 7

§Tenison, robert herik, edgar alan po, vilyam blak, vilyam ernst henli, heinrikh heine [Duplicate title-page: Alfred Tennyson, Robert Herrick, Edgar Allan Poe, William Blake, William E. Henley, Heinrich Heine. New Translations into Hebrew] Tr. Samuel Friedman. (Tel Aviv: S. Friedman, 1986)

---

<sup>450</sup> N.B. The plate-numbers assigned to works in Illuminated Printing in the Tate catalogue do not correspond to those in Blake Books and have been altered here.

These Metres Meet: Six Poems by William Blake (San Francisco: The Pentad Press, 1975) 4°, 10 pp.

The poems are all from Songs of Experience.

§Tiger Tiger Burning Bright Journal: Famous Manuscripts, the Tyger. Cover Art by Cheryl Casey (N.p.: Create-Space Independent Publishing Platform, 2014) 6 x 9", 200 pp.; ISBN: 9781500839703

Blake's poem is followed by "lined pages ... for creative writing, personal reflection, song writing, wherever the imagination leads."

"To the Muses." CAMEOS | FROM THE ANTIQUE; | OR, THE | CABINET OF MYTHOLOGY: | SELECTIONS ILLUSTRATIVE | OF THE | MYTHOLOGY OF GREECE AND ITALY, | FOR THE USE OF CHILDREN, | AND INTENDED AS | A SEQUEL TO THE POETICAL PRIMER. | = | BY MRS. LAWRENCE. | - | "The task is a humble one, but not mean; for to lay the first stone of | a noble building is no disgrace to any hand." | - | LIVERPOOL: EVANS, CHEGWIN AND HALL, CASTLE-STREET; | AND | LONGMAN, REES & CO., LONDON. | - | 1831. <Bodley, Harvard, Biblioteca La Solana>

B. ...for the Use of Young Persons ... Second Edition, Revised. (Liverpool: Deighton and Laughton; London: Whittaker and Co., 1849) <Blake, XLIV, 1 (Summer 2010), 12>

In 1831, "To the Muses" is re-titled "THE POET COMPLAINS TO THE MUSES | OF THE DECLINE OF POETRY", and the author is identified only on Contents p. xii: "The Poet's Complaint to the Muses ..... Blake 75".

According to the Preface (p. [v]), Rose Lawrence had to “alter and modify them [the poems] as might best suit their peculiar purpose”. All her modifications seem to be merely stylistic (“ancient” for “antient”, “crystal” for “chrystal”, “heaven” for “Heav'n”, “poesie” for “Poetry!”, l. 12) except “now” for “do” (l. 15) and “bottom” (l. 10) for “bofom”. The last alteration was presumably made from motives of delicacy, though even “bottom” could be the subject of risible adolescent fancy. She also added a footnote to “Ida’s”: “A mountain of Crete.”

The only previous reprint of “To the Muses” was in [H.C. Robinson], Vaterländisches Museum (1811) (BR (2) 585), but there the even-numbered lines are not indented as they are in Poetical Sketches (1783) and Cameos (1831).

The evidence is not clear, but the obscurity of Vaterländisches Museum and the fact that Rose Lawrence indents even-numbered lines, as Blake did but Robinson did not, suggests to me that she is quoting directly from Poetical Sketches (1783).

“The Tiger.” P. 102 of Pictures, Scriptural and Historical, or, the Cabinet History: with Poetical Selections, Religious and Moral, for the Use of Children, Intended as a Sequel to the Poetical Primer. Ed. Mrs [Rose] Lawrence (Liverpool: Evans, Chegwin and Hall; London: Longman, Rees and Co., 1831) B. §(1833)

Apparently these were poems with which she has amused her son. She didn’t remember “The Tyger” very well.

"Tiger (The)" and "The Little Black Boy". Pp. 36-37, 103-4 of The Estray: A Collection of Poems. [Ed. Henry Wadsworth Longfellow] (Boston: William D. Taylor, 1847)

The Tiger. Illustration by Theodore Ross and printed by Carl J.H. Anderson, Franklin Printing Company, Philadelphia. The paper is Linweave, Text, White Antique Finish ([No place:] Linweave Limited Editions, 1931) A sheet folded to make 4 leaves with a strange design §Tigře, Tygře, žhavě žhneš. Tr. Zdeněk Hron (Praha: Dokořan, 2010) Mocca 15 cm, 75 pp.; ISBN: 9788073633066 In Czech.

Illustrations by Vojtěch Domiátol.

§Tiikeri (The Tyger) ([Helsinki?], 2002) In Finnish

A pamphlet with translations of "The Tyger" for use in school discussions of problems in translating poetry.

**tiriél, el libro de thel*. edición crítica de jordi doce (santa cruz de tenerife: artemisaediciones, 2006) clásica 8º, 160 pp., 18 black-and-white plates including all 9 known designs for Tiriél and Thel (H); ISBN: 8496374394

Doce, "en los valles de har" (pp. 7-29); text in English and Spanish on facing pages of Tiriél (pp. 42-83) and Thel (pp. 111-29); notas (pp. 105-10, 149-55).

REVIEWS

§Jaime Siles, "Imagen y visión", ABCD las artes y las letras, 25 March 2006, in Spanish

§Luis Muñiz, "Blake, al comienzo", La Nueva España,

29 June 2006, in Spanish

“To the Muses” (called “The Poet Complains to the Muses of the Decline of Poetry”) in Cameos from the Antique; or, the Cabinet of Mythology: Selections Illustrative of the Mythology of Greece and Italy, for the Use of Young Persons, and Intended as a Sequel to the Poetical Primer. Ed. Mrs [Rose] Lawrence. Second Edition, Revised (Liverpool: Deighton and Laughton; London: Whittaker and Co., 1849), pp. 75-76. <Bodley>

Blake is named only in the contents. In l. 10, "Beneath the bosom of the sea", Lawrence gives "bottom" for Blake's "bosom", a variant I have not noticed elsewhere. The poem is not in Malkin; it seems to have been first printed in conventional typography by H.C. Robinson (1811) (BR (2) 585).

There were earlier editions of Cameos in 1831, 1833, and 1834, but I do not know whether they included "To the Muses".

**Todas la religiones son una, No hay religión natural*. Tr. David Francisco (Zaragoza: Pregunta Ediciones, 2014) 12º, 80 pp; ISBN: 9789894304422 English text with Spanish translation on versos facing reproductions.

Todas la religiones son una (pp. 7-27); No hay religión natural (pp. 29-69).

David Francisco, "Nota a la edición" (pp. 71-73).

§Trentadue poesie (1997) I miti poesia 44 ISBN: 8804432225 In Italian

§The Tiger [sic]. In Linweave Limited Editions, MCMXXXI ([Springfield (Massachusetts): Linweave Association, 1931).

The book is "a collection of Linweave limited editions on sample papers, [44] p. on double leaves", 32 cm, with plates. For the individual design, see Blake (2006).

§Two Songs: Infant Sorrow & Infant Joy ([Oldham, England]: Incline Press [2005]) 20 cm, 4 leaves.

Colophon: "Designed, set & printed by Christopher Anagnostakis, Graham Moss & Kathy Whalen ... July 2005 ... An edition of two hundred sixty copies".

§The Tyger. Illustrated by Bertz Golantz, designed by Michael McCurdy (Lincoln, Massachusetts: The Penmaen Press, 1975) Broadside in 324 copies

The Tyger. "All the images in this book made and printed by Linda Anne Landers at SPOON PRINT PRESS, London, This is number [5]", with a separate folded cover sewn at top and bottom 15.1 x 16.7 cm, 16 cardboard pp., no ISBN <VICTORIA UNIVERSITY IN THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO>

Transcription and decorations.

§Tyger Tyger (Bushey Heath, Herts: Taurus Press, 1972) Broadside illustrated by Paul P. Piech. 75 copies

§Tyger Tyger (Bushey Heath, Herts: Taurus Press, 1973) B. (1976) C. (1976) Broadside illustrated by Paul P. Piech, 75 copies

The Tyger. Illustrated by Neil Waldman (San Diego, N.Y., London: Harcourt Brace and Company, 1993) 4<sup>o</sup>; ISBN: 0152923756

Sixteen leaves bear two transcriptions of Blake's poem, the first of them illustrated with designs unrelated to Blake's.

REVIEWS

§Booklist, XC (1993), 6202

§Library Talk, VII, 7 (May 1994), 38

§Horn Book Guide, V (1994), 152

§School Library Journal, XL (1994), 18

§Emergency Librarian, XX (January 1995), 48

The Tyger (2002)

A folded envelope held by a Japanese bone fastener with, pasted inside, a fold-out leaf with Blake's poem and new designs, inscribed "2002" and "Linda Anne Landers".

§The Tyger: O tygres. Tr. Augusto de Campos (Sao Paulo: [no publisher], 1977) 8 pp. In English and Portuguese

**Tygrys i inne wiersze* [The Tyger and other verse]. W przekładzie i z komentarzami Tadeusza Ślawka ([Katowice:] Sfera, 1993) 12<sup>o</sup>, text on pp. 5-21; ISBN: 8390099403 In Polish

§Überfliegen [Geschnitten; Michael Hoffmann] ([Elsterberg, Germany: P. Zaumnseil], 1994) 55 cm (very large), 19 leaves
B. (Hartkirchen [Germany]: K. Schmid, 1994) In German

§**Udvalgte Skrifter* (København Thaning & Appel, 1970) 166 pp. In Danish

**The Urizen Books: The First Book of Urizen, The Book of Ahania, The Book of Los*. Ed. David Worrall (London: Tate Gallery Publications in conjunction with the William Blake Trust, 1995) Blake's Illuminated Books Volume 6 4°, ISBN: 185437155X B. §(Princeton: Princeton University Press, 1998) ISBN: 0691001464 (pbk)

The work has colour reproductions of Urizen (D), Ahania (A), Book of Los (A) with facing transcriptions, plus David Bindman, "General Editor's Preface" (p. 6), David Worrall, "Foreword" (p. 7), "Introduction: Blake's Urizen Books" (pp. 9-15) and accounts of "Themes and Contexts" and "The Designs" for Urizen (pp. 19-59), Ahania (pp. 153-63), Book of Los (pp. 195-204) and "Notes to the Text" for Urizen (pp. 128-43), Ahania (pp. 184-90), and Book of Los (pp. 218-24), plus "The Book of Urizen: variants" (pp. 144-46) and "Copy D: a bibliographical description" (p. 147), "The variant copies of Urizen analysed" (p. 148), "Plate Sequences in Known Copies of Urizen" (pp. 148-49), and "Bibliographical Description" of Ahania (pp. 191-92).

The prints are reproduced in The Complete Illuminated Books, ed. David Bindman (2000).

REVIEWS

Iain Sinclair, "Customising Biography", London Review of Books, XVIII, 4 (22 February 1996), 16-19 (with 6 others) (there is no indication that Sinclair has looked at The Urizen Books)

See John Commander, "Dereliction", London Review of Books, 21 March 1996, p. 5 (deplores the absence of "critical comment on, or response to" the scholarship in the Blake Trust volumes which Iain Sinclair was purporting to review)

Barthélémy Jobert, Revue de l'Art, No. 112 (1996), 78, in French (with 2 others) (barely mentioned)

Michael Phillips, Burlington Magazine, CXXXIX (1997), 338-39 (with 8 others) (all six Blake Trust publications are "extraordinarily faithful to the originals", and the apparatus is "exemplary")

§Grevel Lindop, Times Literary Supplement, 26 September 1997, 18+ (with 5 others)

Alexander S. Gourlay, Blake, XXXII (1998-99), 76-77 ("a thoroughly creditable performance" [p. 76])

§Jason Whitaker, BARS Bulletin and Review, No. 17 (March 2000), 22-24 (with 6 others)

Deirdre Toomey, "Printed Perfect", Yeats Annual, No. 14 (2001), 360-64 (with 5 others) (The Blake Trust volumes are produced "to an almost unbelievably high standard" [p. 361])

§Versei (1977). In Hungarian

§**Versek és Prófeciák* [Poems and Prophecies]. Ed. Miklós Szenczi (Budapest: Európa Kiadó, 1957) In Hungarian

A generous selection, including lyrics, Thel, Visions, America, Europe, Urizen, Song of Los, Ghost of Abel, and substantial passages from Vala, Milton, and Jerusalem; the translators included Sándor Weöres.

§*"El Viajero Mental (The Mental Traveller)." Tr. Pablo Neruda. Cruz y Raya: Revista de Afirmacion y Negacion, VII (1934), 107-9. In Spanish B. (Nedeln-Liechtenstein: Kraus Reprint, 1975) Biblioteca del 36: Revistas Literarias en la Segunda Republica Español Pp. 285-89.

Victoria and Albert Museum Online Reproductions

All Religions are On (M), pl. a2-6, a8-9, b4, b12
There is No Natural Religion, pl. 1

**Videniia strashnogo suda* [Vision of the Last Judgement]. Tr. V. Chukhno (Moskva: Eksmo Press, 2002) 8°, 384 pp., 64 reproductions (including 16 from The Gates of Paradise and all of Job); ISBN: 5040096712 In Russian

An anthology derived from The Portable Blake, ed. Alfred Kazin (1946), Poems of William Blake, ed. W.B. Yeats (1978), and Poems and Prophecies [sic] [ed. Max Plowman] (Everyman, 1927).

Preface (pp. 7-15), Chronology (pp. 367-82).

§**Viliyam Balayki: bih rivayet; William Blake Rendered into Persian* by duktar Mahdi Mishgini (Vancouver: M. Mishgini, 2000) 500 pp. In Persian with citations in English

§Visiones. Tr. Enrique Caracciolo Trejo (Mexico [City]: Editorial Era, 1974) Biblioteca Era: poesia. B. Antologia

bilingüe. Ed. & tr. Enrique Caracciolo Trejo. (Madrid: El Libro de Bolsillo Alianza Editorial, 1987) 8°, 237 pp.; ISBN: 8420602388 <BBS> C. (1996) In Spanish and English

In the 1987 and 1996 editions, the text of Visiones is slightly revised, and "Por razones de espacio" Vala, Milton, and Jerusalem are omitted. In 1987 and 1996 the work consists of E.C.T., "Introducción" (pp. 9-14), "Bibliografía sugerrida" (pp. 15-16), "Vocablos de sentido especial en la cosmogonia de Blake" (pp. 223-26), "Cronologia de William Blake" (pp. 227-29), "Situación de William Blake" in literary history (pp. 231-32), plus texts (English and Spanish on facing pages) of Poetical Sketches, Songs, Thel, Marriage, America, Urizen, and "The Everlasting Gospel" (pp. 11-221).

§**Visioni di William Blake*. Tr. Giuseppe Ungaretti. [Ed. Mario Diacono] (Milano: A. Mondadori, 1965) Lo Specchio, I poeti del Nostro Tempo 20 cm, 544 pp. B. Introduzione di Aldo Tagliaferri (Milano: A. Mondadori, 1973) Oscar 19 cm, xxv, 395 pp. C. (1980) Oscar, 1030, 15 D. (1993) Oscar Poesia, 79 ISBN: 8804374039 In Italian

REVIEWS

§Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 19 May 1966, p. 458

Claudio Gorlier, "Il Blake di Ungaretti", Paragone, No. 196 (1966), 142-45, in Italian <BB #1712>

§The Voice of the Ancient Bard (London: Spoon Print Press, 1994) 4 leaves.

Illustrated by Linda Ann Landers.

§Walking Round Cambridge with William Blake: Auguries of Innocence illustrated by Rose Harries (Oldham: Incline Press, [2008]) 27 cm, 160 copies

The illustrations are scenes of modern street life in Cambridge correlated to “Auguries of Innocence”.

Whitworth Art Gallery
Online Reproductions

"The Accusers" (I)
Europe pl. 1

§Wieczna Ewangelia. Wybór pism. [The Everlasting Gospel: A Selection]. Selected and tr. Michał Fostowicz (Wrocław: Pracownia "Borgis", 1998) In Polish

§Wiersze i pisma Williama Blake'a [Poems and Writings of William Blake]. Selected and tr. M. Fostowicz (Kraków: Miniatura, 2007) In Polish

William Blake, ed. Jacob Bronowski (1958)<BB>

REVIEW

§Anon., “Blake the Revolutionary,” Times Literary Supplement, 24 October 1957

William Blake. Ed. Michael Mason (Oxford and N.Y.: Oxford University Press, 1988) The Oxford Authors <BBS, q.v.> B. §(1992) C. (1994) The Oxford Poetry Library 8<sup>o</sup>; ISBN: 0192823051 D. (§(1995) E. §(1998) Oxford World's Classics

"Introduction" (pp. vii-xii), "Notes" (pp. 270-303). The "Introduction" urges readers "to read beyond Songs of Innocence and Experience [sic]" and embark on Blake's "blank-verse narrative writing" (pp. xi, x)

This seems to be the same text as Mason's Selected Poetry (1996) World's Classics and (1998) Oxford World's Classics, though with different ISBN.

REVIEWS

- D.W. Dörrbecker, Blake, XXII, 2 (Fall 1988), 38-39
§Michael Baron, English, XXXVII (1988), 262-68 (an omnibus review)
§David Fuller, Durham University Journal, L (1988-89), 321-22
§Anon., UNISA English Studies, XXVII, 1 (1989), 80 (very brief)
§L.M. Findlay, Notes and Queries, NS XXXVI (1989), 519-21
§P.D. McGlynn, Choice, XXVI (1989), 1152
§Edwina Burness, English Studies, LXXI, 5 (October 1990), 455-62 (with 5 others)
§Stewart Crehan, British Journal for Eighteenth-Century Studies, XIII (1990), 257-58
§J.M.Q. Davies, Review of English Studies, NS XLI (1990), 128-30
§Philip Davis, "With Fear and Trembling", Cambridge Quarterly, XIX (1990), 84-95 (with 2 others)
§François Piquet, Etudes anglaises, XLIII (1990), 226-27, in French
§Brian Wilkie, Modern Language Review, LXXXV, 2 (1990), 418

E.B. Murray, Blake, XXIV, 4 (Spring 1991), 145-52
(with 2 others)

"William Blake." Pp. 51-154 of Twarde Dnosnu: Tradycja romantyczna w poezji języka angielskiego [The Romantic Tradition in Poetry in English]: Blake, Wordsworth, Coleridge, Shelley, Keats, Longfellow, Tennyson, Fitzgerald, Hardy. Tr. and ed. Zygmunt Kubiaka (Kraków: Oficyna Literacka, 1993) 8°; ISBN: 8385158634 In Polish Lyrics chiefly from Poetical Sketches, Songs, and the Notebook.

§William Blake. Tr. George Bataille, dessins de André Masson (Saint Clément de Rivière: Fata Morgana, 2008) 18 x 25 cm, 71 pp.; ISBN: 9782851947178+ In French

William Blake: An Introduction, ed. Anne Malcolmson (1967)
<BB #359>

REVIEW

G.E. Bentley, Jr., "Blake Scholars and Critics: The Texts", University of Toronto Quarterly, XXXIX (1970), 274-87 (with 5 others)

§William Blake: Écrits prophétiques des dernières années suivis de lettres. Tr. Pierre Leyris (Paris: Librairie José Corti, 2000) 195 pp. In French and English B. Second edition. (2000) Domaine Romantique ISBN: 9782714307095

**William Blake: a Friends' Centre Saturday School April 29th 1978* ([Brighton: Ray Watkinson, 1978]) 4°, 10 pp.

A souvenir for a one-day Blake course consisting of 10 pages plus brown paper covers (with a xerox affixed), 5 xeroxed images, quotations from The French Revolution, America, and Vala, "William Blake – chronology" (2 pp.), and "William Blake: a bibliography" (1 p.).

William Blake Archive <www.blakearchive.org>

N.B. Reproductions in the William Blake Archive are accompanied by transcriptions of texts and notes by Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi.

Cumulation

All Religions are One (A)

America (A, B, E, F, I, M, O)

Book of Ahania (A)

Book of Los (A)

Book of Thel (B, D, F, G, H, I, J, L, N, O, R)

Descriptions of Milton, L'Allegro and Il Penseroso watercolours (Morgan Library)

"Enoch Walked with God"

Europe (A, B, D, E, G-H, K)

First Book of Urizen (A-D, F, G)

For Children: The Gates of Paradise (D)

For the Sexes: The Gates of Paradise (D)

Ghost of Abel (A)

An Island in the Moon (Fitzwilliam Museum)

Jerusalem (E)

"Laocoön" (B)

Large Book of Designs (A)

In 2014 the Archive added Blake's letters for 1800-1805 and 1825-1827, with transcriptions and notes. These consist of

Reproductions of Manuscripts

| Reproductions |      | Reproductions  |                           |
|----------------------|------|-----------------------|---------------------------|
| Date          |      | Location of MS | from               |
| printed texts |      |                       |                           |
| 6 May                | 1800 | HARVARD               | 18 Feb 1800Gilchrist  |
| 2 July               | 1800 | LIBRARY OF CONGRESS   | 26 Nov 1800Gilchrist  |
| 1 Sept               | 1800 | Essick         | 26 Oct 1803Gilchrist  |
| 12 Sept              | 1800 | MORGAN                | 2 April 1804Gilchrist |
| 14 Sept              | 1800 | MORGAN                | 4 May 1804Gilchrist   |
| 16 Sept              | 1800 | HUNTINGTON            | 28 May 1804Gilchrist  |
| 21 Sept              | 1800 | YALE                  | 23 Oct 1804Gilchrist  |
| 19 Oct               | 1800 | MORGAN                | 18 Dec 1804Gilchrist  |
| 30 Jan               | 1803 | LIBRARY OF CONGRESS   | 22 Jan 1805Gilchrist  |
| 14 Jan               | 1804 | HARVARD               | 4 June 1805Gilchrist  |
| 27 Jan               | 1804 | HARVARD               |                           |
| 23 Feb               | 1804 | BRITISH LIBRARY       |                           |
| 12 March             | 1804 | MORGAN                |                           |
| 16 March             | 1804 | MORGAN                |                           |
| 7 April              | 1804 | HARVARD               |                           |

|          |      |                     |
|----------|------|---------------------|
| 27 April | 1804 | MORGAN              |
| 22 June  | 1804 | MORGAN              |
| 7 Aug    | 1804 | Essick       |
| 28 Sept  | 1804 | LIBRARY OF CONGRESS |
| 4 Dec    | 1804 | LIBRARY OF CONGRESS |
| 22 March | 1805 | HARVARD             |
| 27 Nov   | 1805 | HARVARD             |
| March[?] | 1825 | HUNTINGTON          |
| 7 June   | 1825 | HUNTINGTON          |
| 11 Oct   | 1825 | HUNTINGTON          |
| 10 Nov   | 1825 | HUNTINGTON          |
| 31 Jan   | 1826 | HUNTINGTON          |
| 5 Feb    | 1826 | HUNTINGTON          |
| 31 March | 1826 | MORGAN              |
| 19 May   | 1826 | HUNTINGTON          |
| 16 July  | 1826 | HUNTINGTON          |
| 29 July  | 1826 | HUNTINGTON          |
| 1 Aug    | 1826 | HUNTINGTON          |
| 27 Jan   | 1827 | HUNTINGTON          |
| Feb      | 1827 | HUNTINGTON          |
| Feb      | 1827 | LIBRARY OF CONGRESS |
| 15 March | 1827 | FITZWILLIAM         |
| 12 April | 1827 | FITZWILLIAM         |
| 25 April | 1827 | HUNTINGTON          |
| 3 July   | 1827 | HUNTINGTON          |
| 15 Aug   | 1827 | HUNTINGTON          |

Chronologically Appropriate Letters Missing from the William Blake Archive

1 April 1800 Lady Antonia Radcliffe

|          |          |  |
|----------|----------|--|
| 17 April | 1800     | Keynes Family Trust (to Blake)      |
| 22 Sept  | 1800     | WESTMINSTER PUBLIC LIBRARY                 |
| end Sept | 1800     | WESTMINSTER PUBLIC LIBRARY                 |
| 2 Oct    | 1800     | WESTMINSTER PUBLIC LIBRARY                 |
| Autumn   | 1800     | YALE                                       |
| 10 May   | 1801     | WESTMINSTER PUBLIC LIBRARY                 |
| 31 July  | 1801     | FOLGER (letter to Blake)                   |
| 11 Sept  | 1801     | WESTMINSTER PUBLIC LIBRARY                 |
| 7 Oct    | 1801     | FITZWILLIAM                                |
| 10 Jan   | 1802     | WESTMINSTER PUBLIC LIBRARY                 |
| 22 Nov   | 1802     | WESTMINSTER PUBLIC LIBRARY                 |
| 22 Nov   | 1802 bis | WESTMINSTER PUBLIC LIBRARY                 |
|          | 1802?    | New Quarterly Magazine (1874), 475  |
| 25 April | 1803     | WESTMINSTER PUBLIC LIBRARY                 |
| 6 July   | 1803     | WESTMINSTER PUBLIC LIBRARY                 |
| 16 Aug   | 1803     | WESTMINSTER PUBLIC LIBRARY                 |
| 19 Sept  | 1803     | Sotheby, 28 May 1878, lot 4                |
| 7 Oct    | 1803     | HARVARD                                    |
| 13 Dec   | 1803     | MAINE HISTORICAL SOCIETY                   |
| 21 March | 1804     | PENNSYLVANIA HISTORICAL SOCIETY            |
| 31 March | 1804     | TRINITY COLLEGE (Hartford,Connecticut) |
| 16 July  | 1804     | YALE                                       |
| 9 Aug    | 1804     | Sotheby, 20 May 1878, lot 32               |
| 28 Dec   | 1804     | PENNSYLVANIA HISTORICAL SOCIETY            |
| 19 Jan   | 1805     | HAVERFORD                                  |
| 17 May   | 1805     | Sotheby, 20 May 1878, lot 25               |
| 11 Dec   | 1805     | Keynes Family Trust                 |
| 6 April  | 1826     | YALE 2 July 1826 Anon.                     |
| 5 July   | 1826     | HUNTINGTON                                 |

|          |        |  |
|----------|--------|--|
| 14 July  | 1826   | MORGAN   |
| 4 Nov    | 1826   | FITZWILLIAM  |
| ]25 Nov  | 1826   | NATIONAL LIBRARY OF SCOTLAND (toBlake)                               |
| 29 Dec   | 1826   | TEXAS  |
| 18 March | 1826   | BERG COLLECTION (New York PublicLibrary)                             |
| 25 Nov   | 1827   | FITZWILLIAM  |
|          | [1827] | George Cumberland note Huntingtonabout Blake's and Cumberland's card |

Marriage of Heaven and Hell (B, C, D, E, F, G, H, I, K-M)
Milton (A-D)

On Homer's Poetry (B, F)

"The Order in which the Songs of Innocence and of Experience ought to be paged and placed" (Library of Congress)

Pickering [Ballads] Manuscript (Morgan Library)

Small Book of Designs (A)

Song of Los (A, B, C-E)

Songs of Innocence (B, G, L, U)

Songs of Innocence and of Experience (A-C, E, F, L, N, R, T, V, Y, AA)

There is No Natural Religion (B, C, G, L)

Visions of the Daughters of Albion (a, A-B, C, E, J, O-P)

Engravings

12 Large Colour Prints (23 prints)

Blair's Grave (Schiavonetti's engravings) and Blake's engraving of "Death's Door"

John Flaxman, Compositions from ... Hesiod (1817)

Hayley, Ballads (1805), 5 prints

Hayley, Designs to a Series of Ballads (1802), 14 prints

Stedman's Surinam (1796), two sets of Blake's 16 engravings, one with contemporary commercial colouring

Mary Wollstonecraft, Original Stories from Real Life (1791).
10 monochrome washes and the 1791 and 1796 editions of the book,

Young, Night Thoughts (1797), coloured copy I (Huntington) and an uncoloured copy

Catalogues of Blake Holdings in

Ashmolean Museum (Oxford)

Birmingham Museum and Art Gallery

British Library

British Museum (London)

R.N. Essick (Altadena)

Fitzwilliam Museum (Cambridge)

Fogg Museum (Harvard University)

J. Paul Getty Museum (Los Angeles)

Glasgow University Library

Houghton Library (Harvard)

Huntington Library and Art Gallery (San Marino)

Library of Congress (Washington, D.C.)

The Louvre (Paris)

Metropolitan Museum (N.Y.)

Museum of Fine Arts (Boston)

National Gallery of Art (Washington, D.C.)

National Gallery of Victoria (Melbourne)

New York Public Library

Pierpont Morgan Library (New York)

Royal Institution of Cornwall

Tate (London)
Victoria & Albert Museum (London)
Victoria University Library in the University of Toronto
Whitworth Art Gallery (Manchester)
Yale Center for British Art (New Haven)

Miscellaneous

a biography of Blake by Denise Vuttee and the editors, with 109 reproductions

Alexander S. Gourlay, glossary of Blake terms<sup>451</sup> chronology of Blake's life and works

*Joseph Viscomi, "Illuminated printing", The Cambridge Companion to William Blake, ed. Morris Eaves (2003), 37-62, was incorporated in the Archive with almost 90 additional reproductions

In 2005 the Archive was "designated an Approved Edition by the Modern Language Association", its first "seal" of an electronic work.

See The Cynic Sang: The (Un)Official Blog of the William Blake Archive.

REVIEWS &c

*Karen C. Blansfield, "Tyger, tyger, byte by byte: A UNC-CH professor is helping a hypertext database that will make the art and poetry of William Blake accessible as never before", OIT Review: Office of Information Technology University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill (Spring-Summer 1995), 12-14

---

<sup>451</sup> See also Alexander Gourlay, "Glossary of Terms, Names, and Concepts in Blake", pp. 272-287 of The Cambridge Companion to William Blake, ed. Morris Eaves (2003).

§Guernsey, Lisa. "Searchable Archive Zooms In on William Blake's Illuminated Books." Chronicle of Higher Education Information Technology (17 September 1997)

§Julia Bryan, "Blake Unbound", Endeavours [University of North Carolina] (Fall 1997) (about the electronic William Blake Archive at the University of Virginia)

M. Hamel-Schwulst, Choice, Current [Web] Review for Academic Libraries, XXXV, Supplement (1998), 72

Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi, "William Blake Archive Update", Blake, XXXII (Winter 1998-99), 87 (announcement of "a major new wing of the site, devoted to documentation and supplementary materials 'About the Archive'")

Sally McGrane, "'Fearful Symmetry' Now in Pixels Bright", New York Times, 22 July 1999 (a long, well-informed promotional release on the first phase of the electronic "William Blake Archive" at the University of Virginia)

Karl Kroeber, "The Blake Archive and the Future of Literary Studies", Wordsworth Circle, XXX, 3 (Summer 1999), 123-25 (he is concerned with "dramatizing and extending major implications of Johnson's essay",<sup>452</sup> especially for undergraduates [p. 123])

Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, Joseph Viscomi, and Matthew J. Kirshenbaum, "Standards, Methods, and Objectives in the William Blake Archive: A Response", Wordsworth Circle, XXX, 3 (Summer 1999), 135-44 (a response to Cooper and Simpson)

---

<sup>452</sup> Mary Lynn Johnson, "The Iowa Blake Videodisc Project: A Cautionary History", Wordsworth Circle, XXX (1999), 131-35.

B. Also accessible in Viscomi's "Collected Essays on Blake and His Times", q.v.

§Editors and Staff of the William Blake Archive.

"The Persistence of Vision: Images and Imaging at the William Blake Archive." RLG Digi-News,<sup>453</sup>
IV, 1 (February 2000)

Andrew Cooper and Michael Simpson, "Looks Good in Practice, But Does it Work in Theory? Rebooting the Blake Archive", Wordsworth Circle, XXXI (2000), 63-68 (a continuation of the debate in Wordsworth Circle [1999]; though Cooper and Simpson are "avid users of the Archive", they think Eaves, Essick, Viscomi, and Kirschenbaum seem "myopic" [p. 63])

Stuart Curran, "The Blake Archive", Text, XII (1999), 216-19 (while it has a "skilful and copious search engine" and "the Blake world is indeed fortunate to have its three most illustrious scholars pool their knowledge" thus [pp. 217, 218], Curran has some caveats about the "Welcome Page")

*H[itchcock], S[usan] T[ Tyler], "A Romantic of the 21st century." C[harlottes]ville Weekly, 20-26 February 2001, p. 29 ("now, thanks to a project spearheaded by UVA's Institute for Advanced Technology in the Humanities, we can fill our computer screens with the visionary creations of William Blake")

---

<sup>453</sup> The OCLC journal RLG DigiNews ceased publication on 15 April 2007 and no longer seems to be searchable.

*Anon., "The William Blake Archive", Among Friends of Jackson Library (2001), 8 (a very brief description)

*Joseph Viscomi, "Digital Facsimiles: Reading the William Blake Archive", Computers and the Humanities, XXXVI (2002), 27-48, reproductions of 24 objects B. Also accessible in his "Collected Essays on Blake and His Times", q.v. ("The Archive's exceptionally high standards of site construction, digital reproduction, and electronic editing have made possible reproductions that are more accurate in color, detail, and scale than the finest commercially published reproductions and facsimiles, and texts that are more faithful to Blake's own than any collected edition has provided" [p. 47])

Karl Kraus, "'Once Only Imagined': An Interview with Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi", Studies in Romanticism, XLI, 2 (Summer 2002), 143-99 (the essay is also accessible electronically <<http://www.rc.umd.edu>> and repeated in §Kari Kraus, "'Once Only Imagined'", Romanticism & Complexity, ed. Hugh Roberts [College Park, Maryland: University of Maryland Press, 2001] Romantic Circles Praxis Series An electronic text, no pagination.) (In the "interview" "conducted via email", Viscomi says:

“the Archives’ full impact on scholarship has yet to emerge” [pp. 144, 172])

*Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi, "The William Blake Archive: The Medium, When the Millennium is the Message", Chapter 14 (pp. 219-33) of Romanticism and Millenarianism, ed. Tim Fulford. (N.Y. and Basingstoke: Palgrave, 2002) (it is "an outline [of] the discoveries we have made and the new things that are now" possible)B. Also accessible in Viscomi's "Collected Essays on Blake and His Times", q.v.

Stuart Peterfreund, European Romantic Review, XIII (2002), 472-76

Steven E. Jones, "The William Blake Archive: An Overview", Literature Compass, III, 3 (February 2006), 409-16 On line <www.Blackwell-compass.com and www.Blakewell-synergy.com> (it includes the history of the Archive from 1996 and a summary of its intentions and practices)

MERLOT English Editorial Board, MERLOT
Multimedia Educational Resource for Learning and Online Teaching), 25 November 2010

§William Blake: Auguries of Innocence. Illustrated under the direction of Dorothy Pennick Mattice, with a Preface by Mattice (Bristol, Tennessee: King College, 1974) "about three hundred copies" printed by G.P. Winship, Jr. 14 pp.; no ISBN

§William Blake: MILTON, ZAŚLUBNINI NIEBAI PIEKLA
[William Blake: MILTON and THE MARRIAGE OF HEAVENAND

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Drawings and Paintings, Individual Authors

HELL]. Tr. W(ieslaw) Juszczak (Kraków: Universitas, 2001)
In Polish

§ William Blake Od mi-shire ve-Keats [More Poems by Blake and Keats]. [Tr. Joshu Kochov] (Tel Aviv: Ofir, 1980) 32 pp. In Hebrew

§ **William Blake para Niños = William Blake yo tsja ts' ittr'i.* / William Blake en español, kja Tñangiche, Carlos Lopez Beltran, en Mazahua kja [Tr. Carlos López Beltrán and Fausto Gudarrama.] Ilustraciones [by] Roberto Rebora (Mexico [City]: Del Rey Momo, 2001) Literatura Infantil 18 cm, 24 pp.; ISBN: 970186185X “Texto en español y mazahua” Fiction

Note Thomas Wright, Blake for Babes: A popular illustrated Introduction to the Works of William Blake (1923) <BB>.

§ William Blake: Poems. Ed. James Fenton (London: Faber and Faber, 2010) Poet-to-Poet Series 20 cm, xxiv, 95 pp.; ISBN: 970571236039 B. § (London: Faber, 2011) ISBN: 9780571275524 C. § **William Blake, Dichter Kupferstecher Maler England*. Ed. James Fenton. (London: Faber and Faber, 2010) Poet-to-Poet Series 95 pp.; ISBN: 9780571236039 In German

William Blake[:] Poesia Completa. Tr. Francesc Ll. Cardona (Barcelona: Edicomunicación, 1999) 286 pp.; ISBN: 847672893X In Catalan

The poems here are a selection, not completa.

§**William Blake*. [Poesiealbum Band 153, ausgewählt und eingerichtet am 29. Juli bis 1. August 2012.] Ed.[?] Bernd Jentsch (Flamersheim: Chidher-Verl., 2012) 20 cm, 117 pp., no ISBN In German

**William Blake: Poetry for Young People*. Ed. John Maynard. Illustrations by Alessandra Cimatoribus (N.Y.: Sterling Publishing Co., 2007) Stories for Young People 4°, 48 pp.; ISBN: 9780806936475

*“Introduction.” Pp. 4-9. The illustrations would give the heeby-jeebies to the children I know. The poems include head-notes and helpful annotations such as “Tyger – tiger” and “groand – groaned”.

William Blake: Selected Poems, ed. Denis Saurat (1947)
<BB>

REVIEW

[R.J. Lynd] “John O’London”, “The Fame of Blake”,
John O’London’s Weekly, LVI (1947), 601;
reprinted in Lynd’s Books and Writers (1952), 62-
66 <BB #2154>

William Blake: Selected Poetry, ed. Michael Mason; see
Selected Poetry

**William Blake: Selected Poetry and Prose*. Ed. David Fuller (Harlow [England], London, N.Y., Reading [Massachusetts], Toronto, Don Mills [Ontario], Sydney, Tokyo, Singapore, Hong Kong, Seoul, Taipei, Cape Town,

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Drawings and Paintings, Individual Authors

Madrid, Mexico City, Amsterdam, Munich, Paris, Milan:
Longman, 2000) Longman Annotated Texts 8°, xii, 376 pp.;
ISBN: 0582307392 PPR; 0582307406 CSD B. §Revised Edition (Harlow: Pearson, Longman, 2008) xii, 376 pp.;
ISBN: 9781408204139

"Introduction" consisting of "Versions of Blake" (pp. 1-11), "Poetry and Designs" (pp. 11-18), and a very interesting section on "Modernizing Blake's Text" (pp. 18-26). Each poem is preceded by a description of the design and a critical summary.

REVIEW
2008

§Jason Whittaker, Year's Work in English Studies,
LXXXIV (2010), 638

§William Blake A Selection of Poems and Letters. Ed. J. Bronowski. (Harmondsworth: Penguin Books, 1958). The Penguin Poets D42 B. (1961) C. (1964) D. §(1965) E. §(1966) F. §(1968) G. §(1969) H. §(1970) I. §(1971) J. §(1972) K. (1973) L. §(1975) M. §(1976) N. §(1977) O. §(1978) P. §(1979) Q. §(1980) R. §(1982) S. §(1983) T. §(1984) U. §(1985) <BBS> V. (1986) The Penguin Poetry Library

REVIEW

§Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 24 October 1958, p.
610

§William Blake: Versek és Prófeciák [Poems and Prophecies]. Ed. [and tr.?] Miklós Szenczi (Budapest: Európa, 1959) In Hungarian

§William Blake: Wiersze i Poematy [William Blake: Poetic Works]. Ed. Krzysztof Pulawski (Isabelin: Świat Literacki, 1997) In Polish

William Blake's Laöcoon: A Last Testament (1976) The William Blake Trust <BBS>

REVIEW

Charles Ryskamp, Times Literary Supplement, 1 April 1977, p. 413

William Blake. Selected by Peter Butter (N.Y.: Barnes and Noble, 2003) 12<sup>o</sup>, [vi], 154 pp.; ISBN: 0760749027

See Selected Poems, ed. Peter Butter (1982, 1986, 1988, 1989, 1991, 1993, 1994, 1996, London: Phoenix Poetry, 2003.

§William Blake: Selected Poetry and Letters. Ed. with an Introduction by J.M. Beach (Austin [Texas]: West by Southwest Press, 2012) 234 pp.; ISBN: 9781479155026

William Blake with wood engravings by Linda Anne Landers [colophon:] "This edition is limited to 100 copies, printed and signed by the artist at SPOON PRINT PRESS, London 199[4]" 11.5 x 15 cm., 4 leaves plus covers.

The text is "Voice of the Ancient Bard" [Songs pl. 54].

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Drawings and Paintings, Individual Authors

William Blake's Works in Conventional Typography, ed. G.E. Bentley, Jr (1984) <BBS>

REVIEW

Nelson Hilton, Eighteenth Century ... Bibliography, NS
X (1989), 558-59

William Blake's Writings. Volume I: Engraved and Etched Writings. Volume II: Writings in Conventional Typography and in Manuscript. Ed. G.E. Bentley, Jr (Oxford: Clarendon Press, 1978 [i.e., Special edition for Sandpiper Books Ltd., 2001])

An unaltered reprint. <BBS>

For corrigenda to pp. 1647 and 1648, see Letters of 25 July 1815 (from Josiah Wedgwood) and 8 September 1815 (to Josiah Wedgwood).

REVIEWS

Grevel Lindop, Critical Quarterly, XXI (Autumn 1979), 86

Graham Reynolds, Apollo, XCI (February 1980), 169
("essential to those for whom every jot and tittle of Blake's writings was essential")

Désirée Hirst, Review of English Studies, NS XXXI, 124 (November 1980), 475-77

D.V. E[rdman], Romantic Movement ... Bibliography for 1979 (1980), 69-70

Jean-Jacques Mayoux, Etudes anglaises, XXXIII (1980), 466-67, in French

E.B. Murray, Blake, XIV, 3 (Winter 1980-81), 148-161

John Beer, Modern Language Review, LXXVI (1981), 676-82

John E. Grant, "Review Article: Who Shall Bind the Infinite and Arrange It in Libraries? William Blake's Writings and Blake Books", Philological Quarterly, LXI (Summer 1982), 277-304 (with another)

E.J. Rose, Studies in Romanticism, XXI, 2 (Fall 1982), 509-14

Michael Gassenmeier, Anglia, CII (1984), 248-59 (with another)

Works by William Blake: Songs of Innocence [a]. 1789. Song of Experience [a]. 1794. Book of Thel [?D]. 1789. Vision[s] of the Daughters of Albion [B]. 1793. America: A Prophecy [?F]. 1793. Europe: A Prophecy [?D]. 1794. The First Book of Urizen [D]. 1794. The Song of Los [A or D]. 1794 [i.e., 1795], &c. Reproduced in Facsimile from the Original Editions. One Hundred Copies printed for Private Circulation. 1876. <BB #368, BBS p. 169>

The same works were named and a quotation from Charles Lamb added in A List of Books Published by Chatto and Windus (n.d.)<sup>454</sup> and in Chatto and Windus List of Books (October 1876),<sup>455</sup> omitting the Lamb quotation.

---

<sup>454</sup> It is bound with Edward Lee Childe, The Life and Campaigns of General Lee (London: Chatto and Windus, 1875) <Michigan> and with other Chatto and Windus publications of 1875 and 1876.

<sup>455</sup> Bound with [William Hurrell Mallock], The New Republic (London: Chatto and Windus, 1877) <Harvard> and other Chatto & Windus publications. It does not appear in A List of Books Published by Chatto & Windus (May 1874) bound with [John Camden Hotten], The Slang Dictionary (London: Chatto & Windus, 1874) <Michigan> or in Chatto and Windus lists after 1877.

William Blake and His Circle

Part II: Drawings and Paintings, Individual Authors

This seems to be the Works by William Blake, reproduced from copies of Blake's poems in the British Museum Print Room. However, there are important differences. Works by William Blake omits Milton, Jerusalem, The Marriage of Heaven and Hell, and "&c", it was not coloured, and the individual poems were not separately issued in "a series". The Marriage was probably omitted because it had been reproduced in 1868 by John Camden Hotten, whose stock was taken over by Chatto and Windus.<sup>456</sup> Further, the Chatto and Windus Lists do not suggest that the work was "for Private Circulation". And after 1876 "Blake's Works" no longer appeared in Chatto and Windus lists, though Swinburne's William Blake: A Critical Essay (London: Chatto and Windus, 1868) was advertised in all these lists.

Chatto and Windus had 100 sets of "Blake reproductions" printed on 17 November 1877 and bound on 26 January 1878 <BBS 169>. Plainly the Works by William Blake dated 1876 was not ready for distribution until 1878.

Jerusalem was probably omitted from Works by William Blake because an uncoloured facsimile of it was published by John Pearson in 1877 (see BBS 88).

"A List of Books Published by Chatto & Windus" (London, December 1874)<sup>457</sup> advertises

---

<sup>456</sup> Morton D. Paley, "John Camden Hotten, A.C. Swinburne, and the Blake Facsimiles of 1868", Bulletin of the New York Public Library, LXXIX (1976), 259-296. Chatto and Windus published a transcription of The Marriage with an Introduction by Francis Griffin Stokes in 1911.

<sup>457</sup> It is bound at the end of Charles Wareing Bardsley, English Surnames, Their Sources and Significations Second Edition (London: Chatto and Windus, 1875) <Virginia> and More Puniana; or, Thoughts Wise and Other-Whys, ed. Hon.

Blake's Works. Messrs. CHATTO & WINDUS have in preparation a series of Reproduction in Facsimile of the Works of WILLIAM BLAKE, including the "Songs of Innocence and [of] Experience," "The Book of Thel," "America," "The Vision[s] of the Daughters of Albion,"<sup>458</sup> "The Marriage of Heaven and Hell," "Europe, a Prophecy," "Jerusalem," "Milton," "Urizen", "The Song of Los," &c. These Works will be issued both coloured and plain. [P. 36]

The same list is substantially reprinted in a 32-page Chatto and Windus "List ..." of "July 1876". The 1876 version included, as the 1874 List did and as the Works did not, Marriage, Milton, and Jerusalem and like it claimed, as the Works did not, to "be issued both coloured and plain". It also added "[In Preparation.]"

Works of William Blake, Poetic, Symbolic and Critical. Ed. Edwin John Ellis and William Butler Yeats. In Three Volumes (London; Quaritch, 1893) <BB>

For Quaritch's business records of the edition, see February 2007 Charles Cox Catalogue and G.E. Bentley, Jr.,

---

Hugh Rowley (London: Chatto and Windus, 1875).

Another copy is bound with Boccaccio, The Decameron, ed. Thomas Wright (London: Chatto and Windus, n.d.) <Victoria University in the University of Toronto>.

For other details of the Works, see Morton D. Paley, "A Victorian Blake Facsimile", Blake, XV, 1 (Summer 1981), 24-27.

<sup>458</sup> Note that the erroneous singular "Vision" is found in both the Chatto and Windus List and in Works by William Blake.

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Drawings and Paintings, Individual Authors

“The Publication of Ellis and Yeats, The Works of William Blake (1893)”, Blake, XLII (2008-2009), 109-11.

Note the *prospectus for The Poetic Books of William Blake, Collected, and Their Myth and Meaning Explained by Edwin John Ellis and William Butler Yeats (London: Quaritch, 1891) <copy in the National Library of Ireland>.

REVIEWS

Book World, 1 July 1891 (announcement)

Quaritch, Rough List (end of March 1892), 41

(announcement of The Poetic Books of William Blake "in two volumes" with "a series of 500 facsimiles of Blake's engraved works, by W. GRIGGS, assisted by Mr. EDWIN J. ELLIS", in "500 of the ordinary issue, and 150 copies on Large Paper")

Methodist Times, 5 January 1893 (“We have just seen the proof-sheets”)

Times [London], 19 January 1893 (based on a flyer)

Saturday Review, 4 February 1893 (praise with reservations)

Joseph Bennett, "Music of the Day", Daily Telegraph [London], 4 February 1893 (chiefly about music in Blake)

Lionel Johnson, “The Works of William Blake”, Academy, No. 1112 (1893), 163-65. B. Reprinted as “William Blake” in pp. 81–90 of his Post Liminium: Essays and Critical Papers, ed. Thomas Whitmore (London: Elkin Mathews, 1911) <BB gives Limum>

§Athenaeum

§Daily Telegraph [London]

§Speaker

§Standard [London]

§Sun [N.Y.]

§Theosophist

§Tribune [N.Y.]

William Norman Guthrie, "William Blake: The Mystic", Sewanee Review, V (1897), 438-56 <BB #1765>

The Works of William Blake with an Introduction and Bibliography (Ware, Hertfordshire: Wordsworth Editions Ltd, 1994) The Wordsworth Poetry Library 8°, xviii, 332 pp.; ISBN: 1853264121

Anon., "Introduction" (pp. v-ix), "Further Reading" [5 entries] (p. x). The "Works" consist of poetry only (except for the Marriage); Vala, Milton, and Jerusalem are represented by selections only.

§Works of William Blake. (Boston: MobileReference.com, 2007) ISBN: 1605011789

Works of William Blake, Poetic, Symbolic and Critical. Ed. Edwin John Ellis and William Butler Yeats. In Three Volumes (London; Quaritch, 1893) <BB>

Note the *prospectus for The Poetic Books of William Blake, Collected, and Their Myth and Meaning Explained by Edwin John Ellis and William Butler Yeats (London: Quaritch, 1891) <copy in the National Library of Ireland>.

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Drawings and Paintings, Individual Authors

§The Works of William Blake, Poetic, Symbolic, and Critical, With Lithographs of the Illustrated Poetic Books and a Memoir and Interpretation. Ed. Edwin John Ellis and W.B. Yeats [1893] (BilioBazaar, 2014) Volume II [i.e., Vol. I?] 452 pp.; ISBN: 9781295800438; Volume 2, 454 pp.; ISBN: 9781294642190 [Volume III with the lithographs is not listed.]

§Works: Opere. Tr. Mihai Stroe. 2 vols. (Lași: Institutul European, 2006) ISBN: 9789736114410 In Romanian and English

Vol. I: The Prophetic Books: Vala, or The Four Zoas / Cărțile profetice: Vala sau Cei Patro Zoa; Vol. II: Illuminated Prophetic Books: Milton / Cărțile profetice iluminate: Milton.

The Writings of William Blake, 3 vols., ed. Geoffrey Keynes (1925); Poetry and Prose of William Blake, ed. Geoffrey Keynes (1927-1975); The Complete Writings of William Blake, ed. Geoffrey Keynes (1957 ff.) <BB #370, 303> N. Poetry and Prose of William Blake ([Philadelphia]: Wharton Press, 2008) ISBN: 9781409792253

REVIEWS

1925

§Thomas Wright, New Statesman, 22 August 1925, pp. 517-28

§Anon., “The Complete Blake”, Times Literary Supplement, 8 October 1925 (with another)

§P. Berger, Langues modernes, XXIII (1925), 575-76,
in French

§S.C. Chew, Nation, 2 June 1926, pp. 611-12

§Bernhard Fehr, Beiblatt, XXXVII (1926), 321-32, in German (with others)

1927

Anon., "Shorter Notices. Blake's Work, Law, and Bible Studies", Times [London], 5 August 1927, p.
13 (with another)

§Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 11 August 1927
(with 3 others)

§B.S., Nottingham Gazette, 26 August 1927 (with 3 others)

*Herbert L. Matthews, New York Times, 30 October
1927 (with 2 others)

§George Sampson, Observer, 1927(?) (with 6 others)

1957

Anon., "Blake's Own Words", Times [London], 24 October 1957, p. 13 ("a volume of beauty, scholarship, and inestimable value")

§Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 1 November 1957,
p. 658

Geoffrey Keynes, "The Nonesuch Blake", *Times
Literary Supplement*, 8 November 1957, p. 673
<BB 851, q.v.>

Horace Gregory, New York Times Book Review, 24
November 1957, pp. 5, 42

For objections, see Carl Colodne, John E.
Grant, and Stephen A. Larrabee, "Blake", New York Times Book Review, 5 January 1958<BB

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Drawings and Paintings, Individual Authors

- #1412>, and Gregory, "A Reply", New York Times Book Review, 5 January 1958<BB #1744>
- §Désirée Hirst, New Statesman, 30 November 1957
(with another)
- W.W. Robson, Spectator, CXCIX (6 December 1957),
pp. 806-808 (with 2 others) <BB #2495>
- For protests, see William Empson, Geoffrey Keynes, W.W. Robson, Philip Sherrard, G.W. Digby, John Wain, "Kidnapping Blake", Spectator, CXCIX (13, 20, 27 December 1957), 833, 869-70, 894; CC (3, 10 January 1958), 18,
47 <BB>
- §J[acob] Bronowski, "The Mind of Blake", Listener, 5 December 1957 (with another)
- Meg Greenfield, "The Prophetic Visions of William Blake", Reporter, XVIII (9 January 1958), 38-40,
42, 44 <BB #1742>
- D.V. E[rdman], Philological Quarterly, XXXVII
(1958), 144
- §Hazard Adams, American Scholar, XXVII, 2 (Spring 1959), 257-64
- §L. Bonnerot, Etudes anglaises, XII (1959), 357-58, in French
- Robert F. Gleckner, "Blake, Bacon, Dante, and Sir Geoffrey Keynes", Criticism, I (1959), 265-70
(shrewd and valuable)
- §John Holloway, "English Blake," Spectator, 1 April 1966, pp. 407-8

- §Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 18 August 1966,
p. 752
- John E. Grant, Philological Quarterly, XLVI, 3 (July 1967), 327-28
- §Michael J. Tolley, Southern Review [Adelaide], II (1967), 269-77 (with 4 others)
- §Richard Moore, "Two New Editions of Blake", Poetry, CXI (January 1968), 263-66 (with another)
- §Vivian de Sola Pinto, Modern Language Review, LXIV (1969), 404-7 (with others)
- Robert N. Essick, Blake Studies, VI, 1 (Fall 1973), 103-6

Yale Center for British Art
Online Reproductions

| Blake Work                        | Yale Accession Number |
|--|------------------------------|
| America (M)                       | B1992.8.2 (1-18)             |
| The Book of Thel (B)              | B1978.43.1334-1341           |
| The Book of Thel (R)              | B1992.18.3 (1-8)             |
| Descriptive Catalogue (J)         |                              |
| Europe (A)                        | B1992.8.4 (11-17)            |
| Europe pl. 1                      | B1992.8.1 (108)              |
| First Book of Urizen (A)          | B1992.8.5 (1-27)             |
| First Book of Urizen (C)          | B1978.43.1419-1444           |
| For Children (E)                  | B1978.43.1484-1501           |
| For the Sexes (G)                 | B1992.8.6 (1-20)             |
| Jerusalem (E)                     | B1992.8.1 (1-100)            |
| Jerusalem pl. 28                  | B1992.8.1 (105)              |
| "Man Sweeping the Interpreter's Parlour" | B1981.25.769                 |

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Drawings and Paintings, Individual Authors

|   |                    |
|---|--------------------|
| Songs of Innocence (G)                   | B1992.8.12 (1- )   |
| Songs of Innocence and of Experience (F) | B1992.8.13 (1- )   |
| Songs of Innocence and of Experience (L) | B1978.43.1546-1579 |
| There is No Natural Religion (B)         | B1992.8.15 (1-9)   |
| Visions of the Daughters of Albion (I)   | B1978.3.1580-1585  |

§Yongguk Nangnam sisa = Selected English Romantic Poems --William Blake oe. Ed. Sisa Yongosa (Seoul: T'ukpyols: Sisa Yongosa, 1990) 247 pp. In Korean

**Zem Mirtes Koka* [Under the Myrtle Tree]. [Tr. Olga Lisovska] (Riga: Liesma, 1981) 203 pp. In Latvian
Tamara Zalite, "Viljams Bleiks" (pp. 5-14); O. Lisovska, "Komentari" (pp. 103-4).

Zwischen Feuer und Feuer: Poetische Werke. Tr. and ed. Thomas Eichhorn; afterword by Susanne Schmid (Munich: Deutscher Taschenbuch Verlag, 1996) 501 pp.; ISBN: 342302397X In German and English B. (2012) dtv Taschenbücher 501 pp.; ISBN: 9783423135993

Bi-lingual selections from Poetical Sketches to "The Everlasting Gospel" (omitting the long prophecies) derive from The Portable Blake, ed. Alfred Kazin (1946); there is also a chronological table, a short bibliography, and Schmid's "Nachwort" (pp. 439-90).

REVIEW

Angela Esterhammer, Blake, XXXIII (1999), 24-27
(with another) (Eichorn's "translations, especially of lyric poetry, sound good" [p. 24])

APPENDIX

Writings Improbably Alleged to Be by Blake

“Directions for Landscape Painting”

An undated 8-page 12<sup>o</sup> set of “Directions for ‘Landscape Painting’”, on preparing a palette, reproducing the effects of shadows, bark, &c, signed “W B”, is attributed to the poet and partly reproduced in the Anderson Galleries (N.Y.) auction catalogue of 3 April 1928, lot 13. The handwriting is quite unlike that of the poet, and I see no plausible connection with him besides the initials.

LETTER

1811 April 24

A letter of Wednesday 24 April [1811] from “W.B.” declining to buy “the little picture of the Pope” is reproduced and attributed to the poet in the American Art Association catalogue of 13-14 March 1928, lot 37 (said to have been sent to Blake’s “old friend John Thomas Smith”). I am confident that the letter is not by the poet and suspect that it is by William Beckford.

Part II
REPRODUCTIONS OF DRAWINGS
AND PAINTINGS
Section A
ILLUSTRATIONS OF INDIVIDUAL
AUTHORS

BIBLE
EDITIONS OF DRAWINGS

See 1957, William Blake's Illustrations to the Bible

The William Blake Archive reproduced 20 Bible watercolours and 19 temperas in 2010; 33 illustrations New Testament subjects in 2011; and 5 temperas and 11 watercolours in 2012.

*Bahktipada, Swami. The Bible Illustrated; Illustrations by William Blake & Francesca de Hollander; Introduction on Blake, Notes on the Paintings, and Bibliography by Krzysztof Cieszkowski (New Vrindabar [West Virginia]: Palace Pub, 1994) Illuminated Scriptures of the World ISBN: 0932215335

Genesis
(1826-1827)

Genesis: William Blake's Last Illuminated Work. Edited, with a Commentary, by Mark Crosby and Robert N. Essick. With an Essay by Robert R. Wark (San Marino, California:

Huntington Library, Art Collections, and Botanical Gardens, 2012) Folio, xxx, 58 pp., 23 reproductions (including 11 leaves of facsimile); ISBN: 9780873282475

The work consists of:

The manuscript (11 leaves); this "is the first complete reproduction in color and the first in the size of the original" (p. 23).

"Transcription of Blake's Genesis Manuscript" (pp. 1-6)

"Notes to the Transcription" (pp. 7-10)

"Substantive Differences between Blake's Genesis Manuscript and the King James Bible" (pp. 11-13) (Blake's transcription of Genesis i-iv is fascinating both for what it adds, e.g., "the Lord God formed Man ^Adam^ of the dust of the ground ^adamah^" [ii, 7]), and for what it omits, e.g., "and God saw that it was good" [Genesis i, 18, 25].)

John Murdoch, "Foreword to Robert R. Wark's Essay" (p. 16)

"Editors' Note to Wark's Essay" (p. 16)

Robert R. Wark, "Blake's Illuminated Manuscript of Genesis" (pp. 17-22)<sup>459</sup> (Wark comments that the unusual Gothic script of the text of Genesis i-iv is not formed very fastidiously.)

Commentary by the Editors:

"Blake and the Genesis Tradition" (pp. 23-27)

"Blake's Patron, John Linnell" (pp. 28-30)

"The Manuscript" (pp. 31-46) (Crosby and Essick identify "six layers of writing and letter-coloring .... With

---

<sup>459</sup> Wark's essay was written and set up in type in 1974 for the American Blake Foundation series of Materials for the Study of William Blake and then abandoned. The only known proofs of the essay are in the collections of Robert N. Essick and Victoria University in the University of Toronto.

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Drawings and Paintings, Individual Authors

every layer, Blake reformatted and thus re-conceptualized his preliminary intentions" [p. 32].)

"Notes to the Editors' Commentary" (pp. 47-52)

This is a meticulous, fascinating, and fruitful facsimile

REVIEW

Morton D. Paley, Blake, XLVIII, 2 (Fall 2014) [pp. 20-25] (primarily an analysis of Blake's manuscript)

Job

(1824-1826)

EDITIONS OF DRAWINGS

Illustrations of the Book of Job by William Blake: Being all the Water-Colour Designs Pencil Drawings and Engravings Reproduced in Facsimile With an introduction by Laurence Binyon and Geoffrey Keynes (N.Y.: Pierpont Morgan Library, 1935) <BB>

69 of the 134 prints are reproduced in Blake's Illustrations for the Book of Job (1995).

REVIEWS

§Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 6 June 1935, p. 359

Elisabeth Luther Cary, "The Years Bring New Honors to Blake", New York Times Magazine, 20 October 1935 <BB>

§Royal Cortissoz, "A Monument to the Genius of Wm. Blake", New York Herald Tribune, 20 October 1935

§Leonard L. Mackall, "William Blake's 'Job' Illustrations", New York Herald Tribune, 20 October 1935

- Elisabeth Luther Cary, "Reproducing Blake's 'Book of Job'", New York Times, 27 October 1935, p. X9
§Anon., "Illustrations of the Book of Job by William Blake", Fine Prints, IV, 9 (November 1935)
§Burlington Magazine, LXVI, 392 (November 1935), 233-34
§Frank Jewett Mather, Saturday Review of Literature, 18 January 1936, p. 16
§Hofer, Philip, Parnassus, VIII, 1 (January 1936), 28

The imitations of the Job designs known as The New Zealand set are reproduced on the web-site of the Yale Center for British Art (accession numbers: B1992.8.7 (1-22)).

Illustrations of the Book of Job Reproduced in Facsimile from the original "New Zealand" set made about 1823-4, in the possession of Philip Hofer (1937)

REVIEWS

- Rhoda Shapiro, Journal of Bible and Religion, VI, 4 (Autumn 1938), 239-40
§Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 25 December 1938, p. 976 (with 2 others)
§H.R. Wackrill, London Mercury, XXXVII (1938), 346

The Book of Job Illustrated by William Blake, ed. Michael Marqusee (1976) <BBS>

REVIEW

- Jeffry Spencer, Blake, XII, 2 (Fall 1978), 154

William Blake's Illustrations of the Book of Job (1987)
William Blake Trust, 3 boxes:

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Drawings and Paintings, Individual Authors

- A William Blake's Illustrations of the Book of Job: The Engravings and related material, ed. David Bindman et al
- B William Blake's Illustrations of the Book of Job: The Plates, ed. Bo Lindberg
- C Colour version of William Blake's Book of Job designs from the circle of John Linnell: Facsimiles of the New Zealand and Collins sets and the Fitzwilliam plates, ed. Bo Lindberg and David Bindman<BBS>

REVIEWS &c

- *Arnold Fawcus, "Blake's Job", Illustrated London News, CCLXIV (December 1976), 63, 65-67 (about the exhibition at the Victoria & Albert and the "astonishingly accurate", "almost perfect" three-volume facsimile of Job to be published by [his] Trianon Press "next year") <BBS 469>
- §Anon., Book Collector, XXXV (1976), 362-65 (announcement)
- §Andrew Wilton, Times Literary Supplement, 14 August 1987, p. 879
- §Morton D. Paley, Burlington Magazine, CXXIX (November 1987), 747-48
- §David McKitterick, "Job and the Blake Trust", Book Collector, XXXVI (1987), 305-20
- *Martin Butlin, Blake, XXII, 3 (Winter 1988-89), 105-10
- Anon., Romantic Movement ... Bibliography for 1987 (1988), 114-15 (based on the prospectus)

**Blake's Illustrations for the Book of Job* (N.Y.: Dover Publications, Inc., 1995) 4°, pp. iv, 60; ISBN: 0486287653

Anon., "Publisher's Note" (pp. iii-iv) says that the 69 reproductions from 134 prints in the Pierpont Morgan edition (1935) include all the Linnell watercolours, selections from the Butts and New Zealand sets, "a selection of the drawings", and all 22 engravings.

BLAIR, Robert
The Grave
(1805)
DRAWINGS

Rosenbach's acquisition card records: "Inserted are two original sketches by Blake drawn on both sides of a sheet of paper. The more complete one is in ink and the one on the verso is in pencil. This one has a small part cut off and lacking. It is probably a tentative drawing of plate VI ["The Soul Hovering"] in the book as the idea differs very slightly. Also inserted is an engraving by Blake extracted from another book. AN EXTREMELY FINE COPY. 12/29 OXRNS [$225.00]". These drawings are apparently not in Butlin.

Angel with a trumpet <Butlin #611>, "Gambols of Ghosts" <#636>, and "Widow Embracing the Turf which Covers Her Husband's Grave" for Blair's Grave <#633> are reproduced on the web-site of the Yale Center for British Art (accession numbers: B1975.4.44; B1978.18; B1975.4.1026)

John Flaxman wrote on 18 October 1805:

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Drawings and Paintings, Individual Authors

Mr Cromak has employed Blake to make a set of 40 drawings from Blair's poem of the Grave 20 of which he proposes [to] have engraved by the Designer .... the most Striking are, The Gambols of Ghosts according with their affections previous to the final Judgment--A widow embracing the turf which covers her husband's grave--Wicked Strong man dying--the good old man's Soul recieved by Angels--

[BR (2)207]

On 27 November 1805 Blake wrote that he "produced about twenty Designs which pleasd [Cromek] so well that he ... set me to Engrave them".

These drawings Cromek promptly exhibited at the Royal Academy and at his house at No. 23, Warren Street, Fitzroy Square.<sup>460</sup> Later he carried them with him on his Northern tour to solicit subscriptions to his edition of The Grave, exhibiting them in July 1806 at the shop of "Messrs. Knott and Lloyd, Birmingham" (BR (2) 226) and in November 1807 "at Mr Ford's, Bookseller, Market-street-lane", Manchester.<sup>461</sup> In April 1807 Cromek said that he showed "Blake's Drawings for 'The Grave' [not the engravings] ... to the Queen & Princess at Windsor" (BR (2) 238).

Cromek had twelve of the designs engraved by Schiavonetti (not Blake), but then the twenty watercolours virtually disappeared from the public record. We know that Mrs Cromek offered them for sale for £30 in 1813 after her husband's death (BR (2) 315) and that they were sold at an Edinburgh auction in 1836 for £1.5.0,<sup>462</sup> but then they vanished entirely. Scarcely anything was known of them for almost two centuries.

---

<sup>460</sup> First and Second Prospectuses (both November 1805); see BR (2) 210-212, 214-215.

<sup>461</sup> Manchester Gazette, 7 Nov 1807 (BR (2) 248).

Suddenly in the summer of 2001 nineteen of the twenty missing designs reappeared.<sup>463</sup> In them the predominant colour is pale blue. Those later engraved are very close indeed to the prints, though the critic for The Anti-Jacobin complained in November 1808 that "the defect of giving strong corporeal semblance to spiritual forms was much less glaring in them [the original drawings], than in the prints. The figures were more shadowy and insubstantial" (BR (2) 274).

BINDING: The mounted drawings were loose in a red morocco portfolio with a buckle and a stamped label: "DESIGNS FOR | BLAIR'S GRAVE"; the lining paper is watermarked "BEILBY & KNOTTS 1821". It does not now bear the title given in the 1836 auction: "Black Spirits and White, Blue Spirits and Grey".

The unwatermarked leaves, of various sizes, are mounted on stiff brownish paper (though three, including No. 16, are a slightly different shade of grey), with matching framing lines around the designs. Watermarks on the mounts

---

<sup>462</sup> "Thomas Sivwright and the Lost Designs for Blair's Grave", Blake, XIX (1985-86), 103-6.

<sup>463</sup> The descriptions below of the designs themselves are from the essay by Martin Butlin entitled "New Risen from the Grave: Nineteen Unknown Watercolours by William Blake" for Blake, XXXV (2002), 68-73, which he generously sent me in typescript, but other details derive from my own examination of the drawings in London in December 2001.

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Drawings and Paintings, Individual Authors

are faintly-perceptible: RUSE | 1800 (No. 2), J WHATMAN 1801 (No. 11), and J WHATMAN (No. 13).

On most of the unengraved designs (No. 13-14, 16-19), "Not" is inscribed on the versos.

The designs for Blair's Grave are as follows; the first 19 untitled and unnumbered watercolours are in the cache discovered in 2001. The order of No. 1-12 here is that of the engravings in the printed version.

1 The title page drawing is inscribed "The Grave | a Poem | by Robert Blair | illustrated with 12 Engravings | by Louis Schiavonetti | From the Original Inventions | of | William Blake. | 1806", while the etched version reads: "THE | GRAVE, | A Poem. | Illustrated by twelve Etchings | Executed | BY | LOUIS SCHIAVONETTI, | From the Original | Inventions | OF | WILLIAM BLAKE. | 1808." Notice that the engraver named on the watercolour is Schiavonetti, not Blake as in the first Prospectus (November 1805). When the design was engraved as the title-page of the 1808 Grave, it was called "The Skeleton Re-Animated" in the account "Of the Designs" No. IX. There was no title-page design in Crome's first Prospectus (November 1805), and this design is first named in his advertisement in the Manchester Gazette for November 1807 as the ninth design (BR (2) 248). This design was plainly lettered after the second Prospectus (November 1805) in which Schiavonetti is named as the engraver rather than Blake. It is therefore unlikely to have been among the designs exhibited at the Royal Academy in the early autumn of 1805.

There are sketches for this title page design, mostly variants, untraced (Butlin #609-10, 617), Yale Center for British Art (#611, 19.8 x 10.4 cm, acquired by Butts), British Museum Print Room (#612, 11.6 x 9.2 cm, acquired by Butts; #613, 42.5 x 31.0 cm, the latter "on thin card"), the Pierpont Morgan Library<sup>464</sup> (formerly Mrs Seth Weyhe Dennis) (#614), the late Gregory Bateson (#615), and the Huntington (#616).

- 2 Engraved as "Christ Descending into the Grave" (called "The Descent of Christ into the Grave" in "Of the Designs" No. I in The Grave [1808]).

Sketches are in the British Museum Print Room (Butlin #621) and untraced (#622).

- 3 Engraved as "The meeting of a Family in Heaven" (called "A Family Meeting in Heaven" in "Of the Designs" No. XI).

A sketch is in the British Museum Print Room (Butlin #623).

- 4 Engraved as "The Counsellor, King, Warrior, Mother & Child in the Tomb" ("Of the Designs" No. VIII omits the last 3 words).

- 5 Engraved as "Death of the Strong Wicked Man" ("The Strong and Wicked Man Dying", No. IV).

A sketch is in the Victoria & Albert (Butlin #624<sup>r</sup>).

---

<sup>464</sup> The leaf with sketches for an alternative title page (two versions, recto and verso) was given in 2001 by Gertrude Weyhe Dennis to the Pierpont Morgan Library (according to R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2005", Blake, XXXIX [2006], 154).

William Blake and His Circle

Part II: Drawings and Paintings, Individual Authors

- 6 Engraved as "The Soul hovering over the Body reluctantly parting with Life" ("Of the Designs" No. VI omits the last 4 words).

Sketches are in the Tate (Butlin #625) and untraced (#626-28).

- 7 Engraved as "The descent of Man into the Vale of Death" ("Of the Designs" No. II).

A sketch (24.2 x 26.6 cm, acquired by Butts) is in the British Museum Print Room (Butlin #638).

- 8 Engraved as "The Day of Judgment" ("The Last Judgment", No. XII)

- 9 Engraved as "The Soul exploring the recesses of the Grave" ("Of the Designs" No. VII).

A sketch is in the British Museum Print Room (Butlin #629).

- 10 Engraved as "The Death of The Good Old Man" – the old man's hand is on "THE | NEW | TESTAMENT" as in the engraved version ("The Good Old Man Dying", No. V).

A sketch is untraced (Butlin #631).

- 11 Engraved as "Death's Door" ("Of the Designs" No. III). The design is very close indeed to Schiavonetti's engraving and radically different from Blake's treatment of the same scene in his engraving of it. The difference may make one (reluctantly) feel more sympathy for Cromek who commissioned Schiavonetti to engrave Blake's designs, apparently on seeing Blake's plate of "Death's Door".

Two sketches for it are untraced (Butlin #630, 632).

- 12 Engraved as "The Reunion of the Soul & the Body", "The Re-Union of Soul and Body", No. X.
- 13 "A touchingly innocent representation of two men walking along a path into a distant landscape, the horizon of which is dominated by the sun setting behind what must be the Celestial City ... inscribed 'Friendship' on the mount by an unknown hand", as in the first Prospectus (November 1805).
- 14 "An oblong composition dominated by a nude female figure, seated full-face with her arms extended, holding poppies and with butterfly-like patterned wings ... [inscribed on the mount in a hand different from 'Friendship'] 'The Grave Personified--Unfinish'd'. The figure, particularly the wings, is similar to the clothed figure seen in profile on the right side of the altar-like tablet in one of the alternative designs for a title-page for The Grave" (Butlin #616). The design is very powerful and surprising; the figure with poppies in her hand occupies almost all the space, and there are grieving figures on each side of her feet. This may be "A characteristic Frontispiece" which is listed in Cromek's first Prospectus (November 1805).<sup>465</sup>

---

<sup>465</sup> A "Design for the frontispiece to Blair's Grave" was sold with 17 other unidentified Blake drawings and prints at Christie and Manson, 25 March 1859, No. 119* (£2.8.0 to Nosedá) (not in Butlin). The frontispiece to The Grave (1808) was Thomas Phillips's portrait of Blake, but the first Prospectus (Nov 1805) advertised "A characteristic Frontispiece".

In the same 1859 sale, No. 120-21 were "Time, and three others, by W. Blake" (£1.11.6 to Evans) and "Scene from the Revelation, by W. Blake" (£1.2.5 to

William Blake and His Circle

Part II: Drawings and Paintings, Individual Authors

On the verso is an exceedingly faint pencil design of hands in the air and a head, probably by Blake--or Robert Blake as David Bindman suggests. Beside it are fragments of pasted-on paper with different chain and wire lines.

- 15 "A night scene, illuminated by a lantern, showing a father kneeling by the grave reading from a book ... accompanied by two children". It is very like the design (reversed) for "The Garden of Love" (Songs pl. 44) (Butlin #137<sup>r</sup>, dated by him 1780-85).
- 16 "Christ leading the blessed souls into Heaven", related to Butlin #624<sup>v</sup>.
- 17 "two young adults standing by an open grave in a churchyard with a Gothic church on the left ... the young girl pointing at the 'high-fed worm', 'surfeited on the damask cheek' of the deceased 'Beauty'. The male figure is presumably the stripling who has been enamoured of her".
- 18 "eight exquisite air-borne female figures, two, accompanied by six cherubs, rising above a crescent moon, while the others soar up and encircle them; together they hold the thread of life. This allusion to the Fates is presumably based on the line, in the midst of a Evans). One may be "A Life Study: Time" lent by Alexander Macmillan to the Burlington Fine Art Club exhibition (1876), No. 245 <Butlin #866> and not traced since, and another might be "Pity" which was described as a "Subject from the Revelation of St. John" in the 1876 exhibition, No. 38 <#311>. (Other Blake illustrations of Revelation are Butlin #514, 517-22, 524, 639-48.)

---

long passage on the horrors of suicide on page 18, that reads 'Our time is fix'd, and all our days are number'd!'"

Below on the mount are two illegible pencil lines.

- 19 "The Gambols of Ghosts according with their Affections previous to the final Judgment", as described in Flaxman's letter. "The watercolour is essentially the same [as Butlin #636] except that Blake has differentiated more clearly between the figures of the 'wicked', in the spiral ascending from the bottom left-hand corner up the right-hand margin to the top of the composition, and the 'good' characters who emerge from their tombs in the lower right-hand corner and process into the Gothic arch of the church on the left. The 'wicked' characters are largely preoccupied with fighting each other or resisting being dragged from their tombs; in addition there is a strangely negative baptism scene in the upper right-hand corner in which an old man clutches a resisting child while dipping his left hand into a bowl of water held by two apparently angelic figures. The 'good' ghosts are noticeably passive with their lowered heads, some concentrating on the pages of a book, again possibly the Bible. The semi-circle of figures around the yew tree are frantic rather than ecstatic."

The watercolour is far clearer and more detailed than the very rough sketch (Butlin #636, watermarked IHS IxVILLEDARY); the baptism is indeed very strange.

A sketch is untraced (Butlin #637).

William Blake and His Circle

Part II: Drawings and Paintings, Individual Authors

- 20 The twentieth design, not included among those discovered in 2001, is probably the one of "A widow embracing the turf which covers her husband's grave" (Butlin #633, on old mount), which Flaxman described in his letter of October 1805; like the other 19 designs, it is largely in blue, mounted, with three framing lines round it. The first clear record of it is in 1876. Apparently therefore Cromek did not own it. Perhaps it was somehow exchanged for "Death Pursuing" (No. 21 below).

A sketch is in the British Museum Print Room (Butlin #634).

- 21 Cromek owned at least two more Blake drawings for The Grave. The first is the original design for the title page inscribed "A Series of Designs: | Illustrative of | The Grave. | A Poem by Robert Blair. | Invented & Drawn by William Blake | 1806" (Butlin #616, Pl. 853). This design was probably among those exhibited by Cromek in the autumn of 1805.

In his "Memorials", T.H. Cromek wrote:

The original design for the frontispiece, still in my possession, was suppressed, one much finer substituted. It is a pen outline, slightly shaded with Indian ink, and blue, & represents a soul rising from the tomb, on which Blake has written, very neatly, [the] title.<sup>466</sup>

Elsewhere in the Memorials T.H. Cromeek quoted a letter of 26 August 1862 which he wrote to Edwin C. Ireland:

I possessed three fine specimens of Blake's Drawings ... among which was the drawing of the Frontispiece to Blair's Grave, bearing on it, in Blake's own writing, the date
1806 ....<sup>467</sup>

This description of the design fits fairly accurately the watercolour in the Huntington (Butlin #616, pl. 853).<sup>468</sup>

This is clearly the drawing called by Butlin "A Spirit Rising from the Tomb" (Butlin #616; 20.5 x 24.0 cm; now in the Huntington) on which Blake wrote: "A Series of Designs: Illustrative of The Grave a Poem by Robert Blair. Invented & Designed by William Blake".<sup>469</sup>

The third Blake drawing in T.H. Cromeek's collection is not known.

---

<sup>466</sup> "Memorials" transcribed in the 2008 catalogue, p. [8].

<sup>467</sup> "Memorials" p. 33 (2008 Catalogue p. [23]).

<sup>468</sup> However, Butlin's provenance does not allow for T.H. Cromeek's ownership of it: Catherine Blake? Frederick Tatham? Sotheby, 29 April 1862, lot 159 (with others) sold to Smith; B.B. Macgeorge catalogue (1912), sold at Sotheby's 1 July 1924, lot 123 (with others); ... given to the Huntington in 1946.

<sup>469</sup> Butlin does not connect this title page design with T.H. Cromeek. The provenance he gives is ?Mrs Blake, ?Frederick Tatham; ?Sotheby sale of 29 April 1862, lot 159 (with others) for 7s. T.H. Cromeek's "Memoir" of his father suggests that most if not all of these attributions are wrong. The correct provenance is given in Essick, The Works of William Blake in the Huntington Collections (1985), 122-23.

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Paintings and Drawings

- 22 The second additional Blair design Cromeck owned is entitled in the first Blair Prospectus (November 1805) "Death Pursuing the Soul through the Avenues of Life" (Collection of Professor R.N. Essick; Butlin #635, mounted on "card"), inscribed on the verso: "Illustration to 'Urizen',<sup>470</sup> a poem by William Blake – who also made this drawing. It belonged to my father[.] T.H. Cromeck". Cunningham, who lived with the Cromecks in 1810, described it in 1830 as Urizen chasing "a female soul through a narrow gate and hurl[ing] her headlong down into a darksome pit" (BR (2) 638). The mistaken association with The First Book of Urizen<sup>471</sup> may explain why Mrs Cromeck did not sell it with the other Blair designs.
- 23 "A Destroying Deity: A Winged Figure Grasping Thunderbolts" (Butlin #778) passed from Mrs Blake to Tatham.
- 24 "Churchyard Spectres Frightening a Schoolboy" (Butlin #342) acquired by Mrs Gilchrist and recently by R.N. Essick, according to R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 1999", Blake, XXXIII (2000).

---

<sup>470</sup> T.H.Cromeck wrote of a visit he made to the British Museum Print Room about 1863:

I looked over Blake's 'Urizen' [D] a very mad work. It is the first part only, and does not contain the subject which I have by him and which I was told by Mr. Frost [William Edward Frost (1810-77)] A.R.A. formed one of the illustrations.

<sup>471</sup> See Dr. Elizabeth B. Bentley, "Urizen in New York City", Blake, XXXIII(1999), 27-30.

- 25 Blake's dedication for his Grave designs (April 1807; Butlin #620, British Museum Print Room) was refused by Cromek in his letter of May 1807.

A sketch for it is in the Victoria & Albert (#624<sup>v</sup>).

- 26 "A Figure Ascending in a Glory of Clouds" (U.S. National Gallery of Art; Butlin #619) may be for The Grave.

The watercolours which Cromek exhibited in 1805 were probably the original title page (No. 22 here) plus 18 of the 19 watercolours discovered in 2001 (No. 2-19 here) and "The Widow embracing her Husband's Grave". The drawings he exhibited in 1806-1807 probably substituted the second title page design for the first.

They include three of the designs mentioned by Flaxman in October 1805 (No. 5, 10, 19) but not the fourth, "The Widow embracing her Husband's Grave", which was listed in Cromek's first Prospectus (November 1805).<sup>472</sup>

PAPER SIZES OF THE DRAWINGS

|                                |    |                  |
|--------------------------------|----|------------------|
| 133.2 x 28.5 cm <sup>473</sup> | 14 | 20.3 x 29.8 cm   |
| 223.0 x 12.4 cm                | 15 | 17.5 x 23.5 cm   |
| 324.0 x 14.0 cm                | 16 | 23.75 x 12.85 cm |
| 414.7 x 23.5 cm                | 17 | 19.6 x 13.35 cm  |
| 520.4 x 25.5 cm                | 18 | 23.6 x 17.6 cm   |
| 615.8 x 22.7 cm                | 19 | 27.3 x 21.7 cm   |
| 723.5 x 13.5 cm                | 20 | 15.4 x 20.8 cm   |
| 827.4 x 22.2 cm                | 21 | 24.0 x 20.5 cm   |

---

<sup>472</sup> It stayed with Blake until his death and was sold at Southgate in June 1854 with other Blake drawings which passed from his widow to Tatham.

<sup>473</sup> The size of the mount.

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Paintings and Drawings

|                   |    |                |
|-------------------|----|----------------|
| 923.3 x 11.7 cm   | 22 | 11.4 x 24.7 cm |
| 1020.2 x 25.87 cm | 23 | 20.6 x 29.7 cm |
| 1123.8 x 13.7 cm  | 24 | 17.9 x 11.6 cm |
| 1223.9 x 17.45 cm | 25 | 23.8 x 30.2 cm |
| 1323.9 x 17.6 cm  | 26 | 18.8 x 22.9 cm |

HISTORY: Blake made “a set of 40 drawings from Blair’s poem of the Grave 20 of which he [Cromek] proposes [to] have engraved by the Designer and to publish them” (according to Flaxman’s letter of 18 October 1805); (2) Cromek bought twenty drawings for £21 (according to his letter to Blake of May 1807), commissioned Louis Schiavonetti to engrave them, and published them in 1808; after Cromek’s death in 1812 the drawings, copperplates, and copyright passed to (3) His widow Elizabeth Hartley Cromek, who promptly sold the copperplates and copyright for £120 (BR (2) 315) to Ackermann (who published the prints in 1813 and 1826); she vainly offered the watercolours on 3 February 1813 through William Roscoe “with other curious Drawings of his, valued at thirty Pounds and likely to sell for a great deal more if ever the man should die”; (4) The 19 watercolours were acquired by an anonymous buyer who had a red morocco portfolio made for them after 1820; (5) Sold in the auction by Tait of Edinburgh from the Catalogue of the Extensive and Valuable Collection of Books, Pictures, Drawings, Prints ... of the Late Thomas Sivright, Esq. of Meggetland and Southouse, 1-16 February 1836, lot 1835 (“Volume of Drawings by Blake Illustrative of Blair’s Grave, entitled ‘Black Spirits and White, Blue Spirits and Grey’”<sup>474</sup>) <sup>474</sup> This title was not with the designs when they were rediscovered in 2001.

---

for £1.5.0; (6) Acquired by John Stannard (1794-1882), watercolour artist of Bedford, from whom it passed to his son (7) Henry John Stannard (1840-1920), watercolour artist, thence to his grandson (8) Henry John Sylvester Stannard (1870-1951), and from him to (9) John's great-grandson, (10) "and then a nephew in Glasgow",<sup>475</sup> "The portfolio was finally sold [as 19 coloured prints] in 2000, as part of a small family library, to (11) Caledonia Books, a general second-hand bookshop in Glasgow ... run by Maureen Smillie" who offered them at £1,000; in April 2001 the portfolio was acquired by (12) Dr Paul Williams of Fine Books, Ilkley, Yorkshire, who associated Jeffrey Bates of the Leeds bookshop of Bates and Hindmarch with the purchase; the portfolio was offered for £2,000,000 (later raised to £4,200,000 plus £700,000 tax) to the Tate Gallery, but the sale was held up by a law-suit initiated by Caledonia Books (claiming that the portfolio had not been purchased but simply taken on approval); the suit was resolved when Messrs Williams and Bates agreed to share the profits with Caledonia Books, and the portfolio was abruptly sold for £6,000,000 in February or March 2005 through Libby Howie to (13) "Marburg BVI", variously said to be a Swiss corporation, a U.S. collector with a castle in Scotland, and a consortium of Middle Eastern investors; the export of the drawings was stopped by the British Arts Minister Estelle Morris until 30 May, extended to 30 September 2005, to enable a British institution to purchase the drawings, valued at

---

<sup>475</sup> Martin Bailey, "From £1,000 to £10 million in two years for newly discovered Blake watercolours", Art Newspaper, which I have seen only online at <http://theartnewspaper.com/news/article.asp?idart=11037>; this is the source for all the Stannard provenance and some details of the sales in 2001-2003.

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Paintings and Drawings

£8,800,000 in the Reviewing Committee Report of 16 March 2005

<http://213.225.138.141:/resources/assets//R/revcom\_case043\_note\_doc\_6927.doc>; the 19 watercolours were sent to Switzerland<sup>476</sup> for “a family trust registered in the British Virgin Islands”<sup>477</sup> and then to Sotheby’s (New York), who displayed them in Paris, New York, Los Angeles, and Chicago, and sold them on 2 May 2006:

| Num-ber | Watercolour                         | Price       | Buyer                          |
|-------------|-------------------------------------|-------------|--------------------------------|
| 1*          | Title page                          | $ 650,000  | Anon. <sup>478</sup>    |
| 2*          | “The Meeting of a Family in Heaven” | $ 500,000  | Sievking <sup>479</sup> |
| 3*          | “Death of the Strong Wicked Man”    | $1,400,000 | Anon. <sup>480</sup>    |

---

<sup>476</sup> The details above are from R.N. Essick, “Blake in the Marketplace, 2005”, Blake, XXXIX (2006), 154. For publicity connected with the sale, see 2 May 2006 under Catalogues below.

<sup>477</sup> Martin Bailey, “Dealer’s decision to break up William Blake album branded ‘philistine’: The Tate could not raise the money to buy this unique portfolio. Will a US museum save it before it is dispersed at Sotheby’s?”, Art Newspaper, 16 March 2006, online.

<sup>478</sup> Essick, “William Blake in the Marketplace Blake, 2006”, Blake, XL (2007), writes: “I have not been able to confirm the rumor in the New York art world that the purchaser was Salander-O’Reilly Galleries, New York, acting for David Thomson, Toronto ... the son of [the late] Kenneth Roy Thomson, 2nd Baron Thomson of Fleet”. The drawing did not go with the Thompson Collection to the Art gallery of Ontario (Toronto).

<sup>479</sup> Hinrich Sieveking was “probably acting for the Winterstein Collection, Munich”, according to Essick, “Blake in the Marketplace, 2006”, Blake, XL (2007).

<sup>480</sup> For the Louvre; see Melikian below.

- |     |   |             |                                 |
|-----|---|-------------|---------------------------------|
| 4   | "The Grave Personified"   | $ 800,000  | Price <sup>481</sup>     |
| 5   | "While Surfeited upon thyDamask Cheek" – young coupleby a grave | $ 520,000  | Bought in <sup>482</sup> |
| 6*  | "The Reunion of the Soul andBody"                                   | $ 900,000  | Anon.                    |
| 7*  | "The Soul Hovering over theBody"                                    | $ 520,000  | Bought in                |
| 8*  | "The Descent of Man into theVale of Death"                          | $ 480,000  | Bought in                |
| 9*  | "The Last Judgment"   | $1,100,000 | Bought in <sup>483</sup> |
| 10* | "Death's Door"  | $ 750,000  | Bought in                |
| 11* | "The "Soul Exploring theRecesses of the Grave"                      | $ 550,000  | Rothmans <sup>484</sup>  |
| 12  | "The Gambols of Ghosts"   | $ 520,000  | Bought in                |
| 13* | "The Counsellor, King,Warrior, Mother, & Childin the Tomb"      | $ 500,000  | Bought in                |
| 14* | "The Death of the Good OldMan"                                      | $ 700,000  | Bought in                |
| 15  | "A Father and Two ChildrenBeside an Open Grave"                     | $ 280,000  | Anon.                    |

---

<sup>481</sup> H. Charles Price and Jessie Price, of Dallas, Texas.

<sup>482</sup> That is, it did not meet the unpublished reserve price and was not sold.

<sup>483</sup> "The Day of Judgment", not sold at the 2 May 2006 Sotheby sale, was seen on the wall of Sam Fogg's book and antique shop, 15d Clifford Street, London, but was, according to Fogg, "not presently for sale" (R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2007", Blake, XLI [2008]).

<sup>484</sup> Florence and Noel Rothman, who, according to Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2006", Blake, XL (2007), "over the last 25 years assembled the finest Blake collection in private hands".

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Paintings and Drawings

|     |  |            |                              |
|-----|--|------------|------------------------------|
| 16  | “Heaven’s Portal WideExpand to Let Him In” | $ 280,000 | Essick                |
| 17  | “Our Time Is Fix’d”                            | $ 270,000 | Anon.                 |
| 18* | “Christ Descending into theGrave”          | $ 280,000 | Parker                |
| 19  | “Friendship”                                   | $ 270,000 | Parker                |
| 20  | Portfolio                                      | $ 4,200   | Windle <sup>485</sup> |

* = engraved by Louis Schiavonetti for Blair’s Grave (1808).

In June 2008 “The Death of the Good Old Man” was acquired from Libby Howe via John Windle by Robert N. Essick. “The Gambols of Ghosts” is “no longer available” (as Libbie Howie told John Windle on 1 May 2008<sup>486</sup>), presumably meaning that it had been sold to a private customer. Marburg Ltd, “headquartered in Tortola, British Virgin Islands, retains legal title to ‘Whilst Surfeited Upon Thy Damask Cheek’, ‘The Descent of Man into the Vale of Death’, and ‘The Counsellor, King, Warrior, Mother & Child in the Tomb’”. The drawings are in London under bond – that is, they have not been officially imported.<sup>487</sup>

Two of the watercolours at the Sotheby (N.Y.) 2 May 2006 sale, "The Soul Hovering over the Body Reluctantly

---

<sup>485</sup> The portfolio was sold in July 2006 by Windle to “a California private collector”, according to Essick, “Blake in the Marketplace, 2006”, Blake, XL (2007).

<sup>486</sup> R.N. Essick, “William Blake in the Marketplace, 2008”, Blake, XLII (2009), 116.

<sup>487</sup> Robert N. Essick, “Blake in the Marketplace, 2008”, Blake, XLII (2009), 116.

Parting with Life" [bought in at $520,000] and "Death's Door" [bought in at £750,000] were offered anonymously through David Benrimon Fine Art (N.Y.) in early 2012 (price on request).<sup>488</sup>

The 20 watercolours for Blair's Grave (the 19 auctioned in May 2006 plus "The Widow Embracing the Turf") were reproduced in The William Blake Archive in 2006.

EDITIONS

**William Blake's Watercolour Inventions in Illustration of THE GRAVE by Robert Blair. Edited with Essays and a Commentary by Martin Butlin and an Essay on the Poem by Morton D. Paley. (Lavenham, Suffolk: The William Blake Trust, 2009) William Blake Trust Folio, 96 pp. 186 copies, 36 with replica portfolio*

In the de luxe edition, the watercolours are reproduced, loose, backed with stiff pasteboard, in a red leather portfolio like that in which they were found in 2001. They are enclosed with the bound text in a handsome black shot-silk-covered box.

The text volume consists of

John Commander. "Foreword." P. 6. (This is "possibly the last major publication" of the William Blake Trust.)

Martin Butlin. "Editor's Acknowledgements." P. 7.

Morton D. Paley. "William Blake and Robert Blair's The Grave." Pp. 8-12. (About the evolution of Blair's poem.)

*Martin Butlin. "The History of Blake's Illustrations to The Grave." Pp. 13-19.

---

<sup>488</sup> Information from R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2012", Blake (2013).

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Paintings and Drawings

*[Martin Butlin.] “The Newly Discovered Watercolours.” Pp. 21-28.

*[Martin Butlin.] “The Watercolors: Catalogue and Commentary.” Pp. 29-69. (It reproduces all the 19 new watercolours plus others.)

Bibliography. P. 70.

Appendix 1: “The Grave [facsimile] with Blake’s Dedicatory Verses from Cromek’s 1809 [sic] edition (Reduced to sixty-seven percent).” Pp. 71-80.

Appendix 2: “Schiavonetti’s Engravings for Cromek’s Edition 1808.” Pp. 81-94.

Appendix 3: “Blake’s Rejected Engraving for ‘Death’s Door’ Reproduced Same Size as the Original Proof in the Possession of Robert N. Essick.” P. 95.

REVIEWS

Robert N. Essick, Blake, XLIV, 3 (Winter 2010-2011), 103-10 (with another) (“The reproductions ... are excellent” [p. 104])

*Kelly Grovier, “Gambols in the graveyard: William Blake’s ‘Watercolour Inventions’”, Times Literary Supplement, 17 June 2011, pp. 14-15 (“this lavish edition ought to reignite questions about the proprietary nature of cultural treasures and whether private interest should always be permitted to trump the public good”)

Blake's "Harper and Other Drawings" with preliminary sketches for America and Europe on the verso<sup>489</sup> was acquired in October 2015 from Lowell Libson via John Windle by R.N. Essick.

Blake-Varley Sketchbooks Folio

In his biography of Blake in his Lives of the Most Eminent British Painters, Sculptors, and Architects (1830) (BR, 497), Allan Cunningham described "a large book filled with drawings", which included "Pindar as he stood a conqueror in the Olympic games", Corinna, Lais the Courtesan, the "task-master whom Moses slew in Egypt", Herod, and "a fiend" who "resembles ... two men ... a great lawyer, and a suborner of false witnesses".<sup>490</sup> Only three of these Visionary Heads survive today: Pindar, Corinna, and Lais.<sup>491</sup> The leaves are very similar in size: Pindar 41.5 x 26 cm; Corinna 26.2 x 41.7 cm; Lais 26.7 x 41.9 cm. Note that leaves razored out of a volume are likely to differ significantly in width (as these do) but not much in height. No other Visionary Head recorded in Butlin is significantly like these in size.

---

<sup>489</sup> Not in Butlin because not discovered until 2010.

<sup>490</sup> Butlin #710, 708, 711, 696, 706 (another version of the Task Master), 762 – Herod <#706>, Pindar <#710>, and "A Fiend" <#762> could not be traced in 1981.

<sup>491</sup> A drawing inscribed by Varley "The Egyptian Task master who was killed & Buried by Moses" and "Saul King of Israel somewhat Influenced by the evil Spirit" <Butlin #696> differs in size (20.3 x 32.5 cm) from the other surviving designs in the Folio Book of Visionary Heads (27 x 42 cm), lacks the watermark they exhibit, and is probably another version of the "Task Master" seen by Cunningham.

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Paintings and Drawings

Further, the drawings are on paper bearing the watermark W TURNER & SON,<sup>492</sup> and this watermark is found on no other surviving drawing, manuscript, or print by Blake.

All these drawings belonged to John Varley, for whom most of the Visionary Heads were made and who is apparently the "friend" who showed Cunningham the volume.

BINDING: (1) A folio volume of leaves c. 27 x 42 cm watermarked W TURNER & SON contained portraits of "Corinna", "Herod", "Lais and Pindar",<sup>493</sup> "Pindar at the Olympic Games", "The Task Master Slain by Moses", "A Fiend", and probably other Visionary Heads; (2) Probably dismembered between 1880, when "Pindar at the Olympic Games" was still "in the Varley family",<sup>494</sup> and 1885, when Alfred Aspland sold "Corinna" and "Pindar at the Olympic Games".

HISTORY: (1) About 1820,<sup>495</sup> Blake drew his Visionary Heads in the folio volume for John Varley, and Varley showed them to Allan Cunningham, who described six of them in 1830; (2) The volume was dismembered, probably after 1880, and only three of the leaves can be traced today: two heads of

---

<sup>492</sup> The watermark is not known for Pindar (#710) which has not been recorded since 1942.

<sup>493</sup> The number "45" on "Lais and Pindar" <#711> added by Adam White seems to match the "45" added to the Wat Tyler counterproof <#740> when White inscribed it "given me by [Varley's brother-in-law] J.W. Lowry may 27. 1854". Both drawings may have been part of White's extra-illustrated Gilchrist (1863) along with his "Lais" <#712>, Boadicea(?) <#718>, Edward III(?) <#736>, The Lute Player and Profile of a Man <#760> -- and perhaps Marriage pl. 20.

<sup>494</sup> W.M. Rossetti in Gilchrist (1880), II, 262, #70.

<sup>495</sup> Pindar and Lais is inscribed by Linnell "drawn by Blake Sept 18. 1820".

Corinna (Butlin #708) in the University of Kansas Museum of Art, Lais and Pindar (#711) in the Harris Museum and Art Gallery (Preston, Lancashire), and Pindar at the Olympic Games (#710) in the collection of Ruthven Todd (last recorded in 1942)--the rest are Untraced.

Blake-Varley Sketchbook Large

HISTORY: (1) Sold posthumously for William Mulready (John Varley's brother-in-law) at Christie's, 28 April 1864, lot 86 [to Kempton for £5.5.0]; (2) Acquired by Lionel Robinson from whom it passed "by descent" to (3) An Anonymous Owner, who offered it at Christie's, 21 March 1989,<sup>496</sup> the whole catalogue devoted to this work, all the Blake drawings reproduced (ESTIMATE: £450,000), not sold, loaned it to the Tate Gallery 1992-1998, and sold it at Sotheby's, 8 April 1998, *lot 151 (ESTIMATE: £200,000-£300,000), for £216,000 to (4) An anonymous buyer, i.e. Mr Alan Parker, who lent "Milton When Young" anonymously to the Tate Blake exhibition (9 November 2000-11 February 2001), No. 257.

BUNYAN, John

Pilgrim's Progress

HISTORY: Blake's Bunyan designs were offered by the Frick Collection (N.Y.) (along with a design for Paradise Regained) at Sotheby's (London), 14 November 1996, lot 243 (ESTIMATE: £260,000-£340,000), the designs reproduced in colour in

---

<sup>496</sup> Not 1983 as in BBS, though the date is correct in the main entry on p. 306. The connection of Mulready and Robinson is recorded in the 1998 catalogue.

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Paintings and Drawings

various sizes, bought in, and sold to an Anonymous British collector,<sup>497</sup> i.e., Mr Alan Parker, who lent them anonymously to the Petit Palais exhibition of 2 April-29 June 2009.

EDITIONS OF DRAWINGS

The Pilgrim's Progress. Illustrated with 29 watercolour paintings by William Blake now printed for the first time. Ed. G.B. Harrison. With a new introduction by Geoffrey Keynes (N.Y., 1941) Limited Editions Club <BB> B. §(Norwalk, Connecticut: The Easton Press, 2007)

The 2007 edition is a debased reproduction of that of 1941.

Colour Prints (Large)

All 12 Large Colour Prints are reproduced in the catalogue of the Tate Blake exhibition (9 November 2000-11 February 2001).

DANTE
Divine Comedy
(1824-1827)

The Dante drawings at the Fogg and Tate are reproduced online through ArtCyclopedia.

EDITIONS OF DRAWINGS

William Blake: Illustrations to THE DIVINE COMEDY of Dante (1922) Da Capo Press reprint (1968) <BB>

---

<sup>497</sup> For behind the scenes details, see R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 1996", Blake, XXX (1997).

REVIEWS

Morton D. Paley, Blake Newsletter, III (15 December 1969), 62-64 (with another)

Martin Butlin, Burlington Magazine, CXI, 798 (September 1969), 570

§Geoffrey Grigson, Apollo, XC (1969), 352

§C. Ryskamp, Master Drawings, VIII (Spring 1970), 56

**La Divina Comedia*. Prólogo de Marcial Olivar; La Divina Comedia en la Literatura Español, por Francisco José Alcántara, Ilustraciones de William Blake (Barcelona: Mateu [1967]) Toda para Muchos 155 B. (Barcelona: Ediciones Nautica, 1968) <§BBS 208, listed erroneously under engravings>. C. (1969) D. §[4th edition] (Barcelona: Nauta, [1974]) 21 cm E. §(Barcelona: Nauta, D.L., 1987) Clásicos (Ediciones Nauta) v. 14-15 2 vols. ISBN: 8427811448 F. (1989) In Spanish

There are 35 reduced-size black-and-white reproductions of Blake's watercolours.

Blake's Dante: The Complete Illustrations to the Divine Comedy, ed. Milton Klonsky (1980) <BBS>

REVIEWS

§Tom Phillips, Times Literary Supplement, 13 February 1981, p. 169

§Anon., Art Express, September/October 1981 (with 2 others)

§Anon., Choice, XVIII (1981), 1094

D.V. E[rdman], Romantic Movement ... Bibliography for 1980 (1981), 79

Ron Padgett, Drawing, II (1981), 134-35

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Paintings and Drawings

§George Quasha, "The Infernal Method," Parabola, VI,
1 (1981) (with 2 others)

**Inferno*. Tr. Henry Francis Cary. Introduced by Robin Hamlyn with Illustrations by William Blake (London: The Folio Society, 1998) Large 4°, xviii + 151 pp., 32 well-reproduced colour plates; no ISBN B. Second Printing. With Illustrations by William Blake (London: The Folio Society, 2004) 4°, 153 pp., 32 colour reproductions

**The Divine Comedy: Die Göttliche Komödie: La Divine Comédie*. Ed. David Bindman. Traduction en français: Nicholas Powell; Übersetzung ins deutsche: Inge Hanneforth (Paris: Bibliothèque de l'image [2000]) Oblong 4°, 223 pp., 103 colour reproductions; ISBN: 2909808939 ("Edition in english"); 2909808947 ("Deutsche ausgabe"); 29099808718 ("Édition en français" [but the copy in Victoria University in the University of Toronto is tri-lingual in English, French, and German]) B. §**La divina comedia = la divina commedia = de goddelijke komedie* (Paris: Bibliothèque de l'image, 2000) 222 pp., ISBN: 2909808955 (Italian); 2909808963 (Spanish); 2909808971 (Dutch)

A "Introduction: William Blake's Watercolours to the Divine Comedy", "Einleitung: William Blakes Aquarelle für Göttlichen Komödie", "Introduction: Les Aquarelles de la Divine Comédie de William Blake" including (in three languages) "The History and Division of the Watercolours" and "Bibliographical Notes" (pp. 4-19, in three columns), plus all 7 Dante engravings (greatly reduced in size) plus reduced colour reproductions of all 103 watercolours, with tri-lingual descriptions of them.

Reproductions of Blake's watercolours for Dante were added to the William Blake Archive in 2005.

§*Dante. The Inferno. Tr. Hiroshi Tanaka (Tokyo: [no publisher], 2003)

Reproduces 61 of Blake's watercolours, much reduced in size.

§**William Blake's Divine Comedy Illustrations: 102 Full-Color Plates*. (Mineola, N.Y.: Dover, 2008) ISBN: 9780486464299

**Los dibujos para la DIVINA COMEDIA de Dante*. Ed. Sebastian Schütze and Maria Antonietta Terzoli (Cologne [Germany]: Taschen, 2014) Folio (29.5 x 40.5 cm), 324 pp.; ISBN: 9783836555166 Reproduces all 102 watercolours and all 7 prints In Spanish Also available in English, French, German, and Italian

Maria Antonietta Terzoli, "El más allá de Dante: entre mitología clásica y teología cristiana" (pp. 6-31)

Sebastian Schütze, "Dos maestros del "visibile parlare": Dante y Blake" (pp. 32-51)

Sebastian Schütze, "William Blake. Catálogo de los grabados" (pp. 310-17)

**William Blake: The Drawings for Dante's Divine Comedy*. Ed. Sebastian Schütz and Maria Antonietta Terzoli

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Paintings and Drawings

(Munich: Taschen, 2015) 324 pp., 102 enormous reproductions, 28.5 x 39.6 cm (with 14 fold-out leaves)

REVIEW

§Tim Smith-Laing, "Watery deeps: William Blake drew out the poetic nuances of Dante's Commedia in masterfully handled watercolour", Apollo, CLXXXI (March 2015), 629, 208-9

ENOCH
([1824-27])

HISTORY: Offered in E. Parsons and Sons Catalogue 37 (1921), lot 22, at £89.5.0

The Enoch drawings are in the online catalogue of The National Gallery of Art (Washington, D.C.), some of them reproduced in 2013.

GRAY, Thomas
Poems (1790)
Watercolours (1797)

WORK REPRODUCED: POEMS | BY | MR. GRAY. | [Designs | by] | - | [William Blake] | A NEW EDITION. | - | LONDON: | PRINTED FOR J. MURRAY, (No. 31.) | FLEET- | STREET. | MDCCLXXXX [1790] Pp. 1-2, 43-142, 145-58<sup>498</sup>
LEAF SIZE of printed text: c. 9.2 x 15.7 cm

---

<sup>498</sup> Blake's copy lacks the "Advertisement" and the "Short Account of Gray's Life and Writings" (Gray, pp. 3-42), the title leaf of the "Epitaph on Mrs. Clarke" (pp. 143-44), the notes at the end (pp. 159 ff.), and the seven 1790 engravings.

LEAF SIZE of watercoloured leaves: 32.5 cm x 42 cm

WATERMARK of watercoloured leaves: 1794 | J
WHATMAN<sup>499</sup>

BINDING: The 58 leaves are loose, with neither stab nor stitching holes, suggesting that it was never bound in its present state.

The watercolour leaves may have been trimmed on the outside margins, for the designs are curiously curtailed on the outer margins of pp. 65, 74, 96-97, 99, 103-4, 110, 115, [116], [119], 120, 125, [128], [133], and [149].

DESCRIPTION: Fifty-eight leaves of Poems by Mr. Gray (1790) were cut down<sup>500</sup> and glued, with a very narrow overlap, onto the rectos of windows cut into leaves of 1794 | J WHATMAN paper, probably left-overs of the paper he was given for his illustrations to Young's Night Thoughts (1797). The Gray title page is surrounded by six neat red lines (the second and sixth lines thick), and above and below each line of type is a thin red line. The subsequent printed Gray leaves are surrounded by a carefully-drawn red line as close as possible to the inserted leaves. (On about half the pages,<sup>501</sup> the watercolour overlaps the red frame and the text-page a trifle, indicating that the watercolours were added after the text leaves were glued in.)

Most of the printed Gray leaves have a pencil "+" beside

---

<sup>499</sup> The same paper was used for Blake's drawings for Young's Night Thoughts (apparently provided by the publisher Richard Edwards) and for Blake's Vala.

<sup>500</sup> On p. 100, the catchword – "Fell – is mostly cut off.

<sup>501</sup> On pp. 51, [55], 58, 61, 66-68, 70-73, [77], 79-80, [81-82], 84-87, 89, 91, [95], 96, 98-102, 106, 110, [111], 112-14, [119], 120-21, [126], 127, 130-31, [135], 138, 141, [145], 146, [147], [149], 150, 152-53, 155-56.

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Paintings and Drawings

the text illustrated<sup>502</sup> to indicate the subject of the watercolour.

On Gray p. [106], titles for “The Fatal Sisters”, title 4 is on a tiny piece of paper glued over something else.

There is a good deal of browning on the text but not on the watercolours.

On most leaves the watercolour designs implicitly extend beyond the margins.

FINGERPRINTS:<sup>503</sup> There are brownish-rust coloured fingerprints, perhaps made from animal glue, on top of the text (never on the watercolours):

The title page, above, below, and to the right of “A NEW EDITION”

Gray p. 58: “Ode on a Distant Prospect of Eton College, after “jee, how all around’em wait”

Gray p. [62]: Captions for “A Long Story”, beneath “riding on Flies”

Gray p. [76]:Captions for “Ode to Adversity”, above “thy suppliants”

Gray p. [107]: Captions for “The Fatal Sisters”, over “ORCADES”

Gray p. [158]: Poem “To M.<sup>rs</sup> Anna Flaxman”, above and below “William Blake”, four fingers of the right (?) hand, the clearest of them all.

---

<sup>502</sup> There are two lines marked on pp. 51 and 98 and none on pp. 44, 52, 67, 145, 157.

<sup>503</sup> The only previous reference to Blake fingerprints I have found (through Google Books) is in Blake Books (1977), 217 (not in the index), which locates them on the title page, Gray pp. 58, 158, “and occasionally elsewhere” in the Gray volume.

If the fingerprint colour comes from animal glue, almost certainly the fingerprints were made when the printed text was being glued to the large leaves awaiting Blake's watercolours, that is, by November 1797 (see below).

No other example of Blake's fingerprints has been identified in print.

The date at which the fingerprints appeared must be after c. 1797 when Blake made his watercolours for Gray.

Of course we cannot be certain that the fingerprints which appear near "William Blake" in Blake's poem "To M.<sup>rs</sup> Anna Flaxman" are those of the poet-artist. They could, for example, be those of Catherine Blake who, it is believed, often helped her husband with simple tasks such as gluing the printed leaves of Gray into the windows cut in the paper used for Blake's watercolours.<sup>504</sup>

Whether the fingerprints are those of Blake or his wife, they give an extraordinary sense of immediacy in the creative process.

BLAKE'S MANUSCRIPT INSCRIPTIONS: In some, probably most cases, Blake's writing on blank text-pages was added after the watercolour for that page was completed. In one case, p. [54], the list of designs overflows the printed text-box, and No. 8-10 are on the leaf for the watercolour. In this

---

<sup>504</sup> The leaves for Blake's watercolours (1795-96) illustrating Young's Night Thoughts were made in a way very similar to that used in the illustrations for Gray's Poems. The printed leaf was cut from the host volume (often eliminating or curtailing catchwords and MS line-numbers) and glued to a window cut in the leaf for the watercolour, and a red line was meticulously drawn round the cut-out leaf, with several red lines on title pages. However, the Night Thoughts leaves bear no fingerprint. Apparently the large leaves already had printed text mounted in them when they were given to Blake.

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Paintings and Drawings

case, at any rate, the watercolour preceded the list of designs.

On p. [158], Blake (1) wrote the poem to Mrs Anna Flaxman on the blank verso of the printed text box; (2) glue fingerprints were left on top of the manuscript poem, probably in the process of (3)gluing the printed leaves onto the windows of the large leaves for the watercolours. In this case, the manuscript probably preceded the watercolour.

DATE OF WATERCOLOURS: In early November 1797, Nancy Flaxman wrote that “Flaxman has employ’d him [Blake] to Illuminate the works of Grey for my library—“.<sup>505</sup> George Cumberland was probably referring to the Gray designs when he wrote that “Blake made 130 draw.<sup>gs</sup> for Flaxman for 10.10.—“.<sup>506</sup>

HISTORY: (1) Commissioned for £10.10.0 by John Flaxman before November 1797; (2)Sold with Flaxman's library at Christie's, 1 July 1828, lot 85 [£8.8.0 to (William) Clarke]; (3) Acquired by William Beckford, from who it passed to his daughter (4) Susan, who married the 10th Duke of Hamilton, from whom it passed to (5-8) the 14th Duke of Hamilton, who sold it in 1966 through Sotheby's to (9) Mr and Mrs Paul Mellon; Paul Mellon gave it in 1977 to (10) The Yale Center for British Art.<sup>507</sup>

---

<sup>505</sup> BR (2) 80. In Sept 1805 Nancy said that “Mr T” (Joseph Thomas) “wishes as a great favor the loan of Blake’s Gray to amuse himself with promising that it shall not go from his chamber or be wantonly shewn to anybody[;] he wishes to make a few copies from it” (BR (2) 207).

<sup>506</sup> BR (2) 246, after June 1807. There are 116 designs for Gray.

<sup>507</sup> The first published reference to them (aside from 1828 catalogue and Gilchrist [1863, 1880]) is in H.J.C. Grierson, “Blake’s Designs for Gray. Discovery in Hamilton Palace”, Times, 4 Nov 1919, p. 15. They were erratically recorded by Blake's watercolours for Gray are reproduced in colour in the William Blake Archive in 2005.

See Gray Inscriptions on Designs under Writings.

EDITIONS

William Blake's Designs for Gray's Poems, Reproduced Full-Size in Monochrome or Colour ... With an Introduction by H.J.C. Grierson (1922) <BB>

REVIEWS &c

*Anon. "Blake and Gray." Bookseller, 15 January 1922, pp. 171-72 (a puff)

*A. Clutton-Brock, "New Blake Designs: Illustrations to Gray", Times [London], 4 May 1922, p. 16

§Anon., Glasgow Herald, 4 May 1922

§*Anon., "Blake's Designs for Gray's Poems", Periodical, VIII, 115 (15 May 1922)

Archibald G.B. Russell, Burlington Magazine, XLI, 235 (October 1922), 198 ("Too much praise cannot be bestowed upon Oxford University Press for the admirable manner in which the volume is produced"; Grierson's preface is "thoughtful and discerning")

**William Blake's Water-Colour Designs for the Poems of Gray*, Introduction and Commentary by Geoffrey Keynes, Kt. (London, 1972) The William Blake Trust <BB> B. **Blake's*

---

W.M. Rossetti in Alexander Gilchrist, Life of William Blake (1863), I, 255 (114 designs) and (1880), I, 275 (118 designs).

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Paintings and Drawings

Water-Colours for the Poems of Thomas Gray With Complete Texts (Mineola [N.Y.]: Dover Publications, Inc., 2000) 4°, ix pp. of text, 116 reproductions; ISBN: 0486409449 <BB>C. §(2007) ISBN: 9780486409443

The Dover edition is a reproduction of the Blake Trust edition, reduced to an eighth the size (32 x 42 cm vs 9.2 x 16.4 cm) of the Blake Trust facsimile (a fact not mentioned in the printed text), omitting Keynes's "Introduction" (pp. 1-6) and "Commentary" (pp. 9-28), and adding an anonymous "Publisher's Note" (pp. iii-iv).

REVIEWS, &c

*Arnold Fawcus, "Unknown watercolours by William Blake", Illustrated London News, CCLIX (December 1971), 45-46, 49-51 (about the Gray designs to be exhibited at the Tate and the "perhaps dangerously accurate" Blake Trust facsimile [made by Mr Fawcus's Trianon Press]) <BB #C1593>

*Arnold Fawcus (bis), "Blake: Lost and Found: Horizon presents for the first time in America [sic] one of the major art rediscoveries of recent years: Blake's illustrations for the poems of Thomas Gray", Horizon, XIV (1972), 112-20 (a one-page description by the publisher of the Gray facsimile, complete with price ["$1,378"] and address of the publisher, plus 8 reproductions in colour) <BB #A1593>

Morton D. Paley, Blake Newsletter, VI, 1 (Summer 1972), 33-34

- §J. Canaday, New York Times Book Review, III
(December 1972), 90
§Anon., Books & Bookmen, XVIII (March 1973), 96
§G.E. Bentley, Jr., “The Accuracy of the Blake Trust Gray Catalogue”, Blake Newsletter, VI, 4 (Spring 1973), 95-96
§Kenneth Garlick, Apollo, NS XCVIII (July 1973), 71
Irene H. Chayes, Studies in Romanticism, XIII, 2 (Spring
1974), 155-64 (with 5 others)
Janet Warner, Blake Studies, VI, 2 (1975), 203-4

*[Poems of Thomas Gray With Watercolour Illustrations by William Blake (London: The Folio Society, 2013)]<sup>508</sup> Folio (32.4 x 42.2 cm) pp., 117 illustrations including Flaxman’s portrait of Blake; no ISBN Limited to 1,020 copies (1,000 for sale)

Colophon: “reproduced from the originals held at the Yale Center for British Art ... by Dot Gradations, Wickford, Essex, and printed by Appl, Wemding, Germany, on [thick, heavy, unwatermarked] Natural Evolution paper ... bound by Zanardi, Padova, Italy, in Nigerian goatskin leather with cloth sides ... the endleaves are of Curious Metallics gold leaf backed with Nettuno Carruba”, 1,020 copies (1,000 for sale)

It is in a fitted box (36.6 x 46.4 x 8.3 cm) with *Irene Tayler, Blake's Illustrations to the Poems of Gray, ed. Martin Butlin. (London: The Folio Society, 2013), q.v. The facsimile is so faithful that it represents clearly the show-through of printed text.

---

<sup>508</sup> There is no separate Folio Society title page; the title here is from the cover; the imprint is by inference.

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Paintings and Drawings

The folio flyer has 20 illustrations.

REVIEW

*G.E. Bentley, Jr, "Shades of Gray", Blake: An Illustrated Quarterly, XLVIII, 3 (Winter 2014-15), [20-23] (Compares the different reproductions of Blake's designs for Gray, concluding that "none of these printed works is a facsimile", but "the Folio Society edition seems to me distinctly the most reliable". There is a record and reproduction of the four fingerprints on p. [158], probably those of William or Catherine Blake.

For the review of Tayler's book, see Tayler)

Blake's watercolours, first added to the William Blake Archive in April 2005, were made available fully searchable in September 2014.

HAYLEY, William
Designs to a Series of Ballads
(1802)

Blake's sketch for "The Eagle" is reproduced in colour online in "William Blake Digital Materials from the Lessing J. Rosenwald Collection" in the Library of Congress.

HEADS OF THE POETS
(1800-1803)

Reproduced online by ArtCyclopedia under Manchester City Art Gallery.

MILTON, John

Comus

(1801)

The Thomas-Huntington set was reproduced in the William Blake Archive in 2007.

John Milton, Comus, illustrated by Blake, ed. Darrell Figgis (1926) <BB>

REVIEWS

§Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 1 April 1926

§Anon., Glasgow Herald, 1 April 1926

§Anon., Daily Telegraph, 7 April 1926

“On the Morning of Christ’s Nativity”

(1809)

The drawings were reproduced in the William Blake Archive and in the 6 July-31 October 2004 Wordsworth Trust exhibition catalogue of Paradise Lost: The Poem & Its Illustrations, in the Petit Palais exhibition catalogue of 2 April-29 June 2009 and, online, by ArtCyclopedia under Whitworth Art Gallery.

Reproductions of the Butts set were added to the William Blake Archive ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi in 2008.

Paradise Lost

(1807)

The Small, Thomas set (Huntington Library and Art Gallery) (1807) is reproduced in J.M.Q. Davies, "Blake's

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Paintings and Drawings

Paradise Lost Designs Reconsidered", in Deirdre Coleman and Peter Otto, ed., Imagining Romanticism (1992), pp. 143-81, and in the William Blake Archive ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi.

Paradise Lost: A Poem in Twelve Books with a Preface by Peter Ackroyd, an Introduction by John Wain and Illustrations by William Blake (London: The Folio Society, 2003) 4<sup>o</sup>, no ISBN Ackroyd's "Preface" (pp. ix-x) is about Milton and Blake, Wain's Introduction about Milton. The reproductions are from the larger, Butts set (Butlin #536).

Thirteen Watercolor Drawings by William Blake Illustrating PARADISE LOST by John Milton. The first facsimiles printed at full scale in full color from the original works in the collection of The Henry E. Huntington Library and Art Gallery, San Marino, California with descriptions and commentaries by Robert N. Essick and John T. Shawcross to accompany the edition of Paradise Lost published in 2002 by The Arion Press text edited by John T. Shawcross and with an introduction by Helen Vendler (San Francisco: The Arion Press, 2004) Folio (43.0 x 55.6 cm), 30 unnumbered leaves loose in a portfolio, limited to 426 copies; no ISBN Reproductions of the Thomas set of illustrations to Paradise Lost plus the Huntington's large "Satan, Sin and Death".

The commentaries by Essick are corrected from his William Blake at the Huntington (1994).

**Supplemental announcement to the prospectus for The Arion Press edition of PARADISE LOST ... Now offered with a portfolio of Thirteen Watercolor Drawings by William Blake ...* (San Francisco: The Arion Press [2004]) wide 8°, the 15 colour reproductions include all thirteen in the portfolio

The portfolio of Blake watercolours from the Huntington (2004), limited to 400 copies, is offered at $1,300, the portfolio and Shawcross edition of Paradise Lost (2002) together at $2,500. An Arion Press Price List (November 2008) gives the same prices, as does an advertisement in the New York Review of Books, 18 December 2008.

The portfolio is a companion to Paradise Lost: a Poem in Twelve Books The Author John Milton. Ed. John T. Shawcross, Introduction by Helen Vendler (San Francisco: Printed by Andrew Hoyem at The Arion Press, MMII [2002]) xxxiv + 396 pp.; no ISBN.

Reproductions were added in 2008 to the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi.

§Das verlorene Paradies. Tr. Hans Heinrich Meier (Stuttgart: Reclam Philipp, 2008) 20 cm.; ISBN: 9783150106709+ In German §**Das Verloren Paradies (Paradise Lost) mit Illustrationen von William Blake*. Tr. Adolf Böttger. (e-artnow, 2014) 448 pp. ISBN: 9788026808794 In German.

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Paintings and Drawings

Perhaps a silent translation of the edition of 1906 <BB #390>.

The only complete and undivided set of Blake's illustrations to Paradise Lost is in the Huntington Library -- see The Complete Illustrated Books of William Blake.

Paradise Regained
(1825)

"The First Temptation" from the Paradise Regained series was sold by the Frick Collection to an Anonymous British collector--see Bunyan (above).

EDITION OF THE DRAWINGS

The drawings were reproduced in 2003 in the William Blake Archive.

Poems in English

EDITIONS OF THE DRAWINGS

Poems in English with Illustrations by William Blake [2 vols.] (London, 1926) <BB> B. Miscellaneous Poems, Paradise Regain'd, & Samson Agonistes (London: Nonesuch Press, 1926 [i.e., Temecula, California: Reprint Services Corp, 1994])

The 1994 printing is one volume of the Keynes edition silently reprinted in monochrome (not in two colours as on the 1926 title page). Note that the 1994 publication (ISBN: 0781273757, 2 vols. announced in Books in Print as published in August 1992) bears no indication of the true (i.e., 1994) publication date, the place of publication, or the publisher's name. (The publisher told GEB that the companion-volume of Paradise Lost, announced for August 1992, would be published in May 1995.)

The designs for "On the Morning of Christ's Nativity" (Huntington set), L'Allegro and Il Penseroso (Mr Van Sinderen [Morgan]), Comus (Huntington), and Paradise Regain'd (Mr Riches [Fitzwilliam]) are very badly reproduced from the sharp and clear 1926 Black-and-White versions.

REVIEW

§Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 26 August 1926

Tiriel

WATERCOLOURS<sup>509</sup>

All 12 watercolours <Butlin #198> were (1) Probably sold by Catherine Blake, (2) Acquired by Frederick Tatham, who sold them to (3) Joseph Hogarth, who sold them at Southgate's, 7-30 June 1854, second evening, lot 643: "Twelve elaborate subjects, designed to illustrate a Work, the subject unknown", for £3 to (4) Morley; (5) Acquired by Elhanan Bicknell, who sold them at Christie's, 29 April-1 May 1863, third day, lots 377-88; (6) dispersed

"Tiriel Supporting the Dying Myratana and Cursing his Sons"

<#198 1>

HISTORY: (1) Bicknell sale, lot 387, £2.4.0, to (2) James Leathart (d. 1896); (3) Acquired by Percival W. Leathart, who lent it to the Carfax exhibition (1906), lot 76a; (4) Acquired by

---

<sup>509</sup> The history of the Tiriel watercolours derives almost entirely from Butlin.

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Paintings and Drawings

Mrs Leathart who lent it to the British Museum exhibition (1957); (5) Sold anonymously at Sotheby's, 19 May 1958, lot 13 (reproduced), for £250 to Agnew's for (6) Lady Melchett, who sold it at Christies, 9 November 1971, lot 72 (reproduced), for £6,300 to Baskett and Day for (7) Paul Mellon, who gave it to (8) the Yale Center for British Art.

"Tiriell Supporting Myratana" <#198 1> is reproduced online by the Yale Center for British Art (accession number: B1977.14.1450).

"Har and Heva Bathing, Mnetha Looking On"

<#198 2>

HISTORY: (1) Bicknell sale, lot 381, 9s to (2) S. Bicknell; (3) Sold by H.P. Horne with all his British drawings through Robert Ross of Carfax for £2,400 to (4) Edward Marsh, who bequeathed it in 1953 to (5) the Fitzwilliam Museum.

"Har, Heva and Mnetha"

<#198 3>

HISTORY: (1) Bicknell sale, lot 377, for 9s to (2) Noseda; (3) untraced.

"Har Blessing Tiriell while Mnetha Comforts Heva"

<#198 4>

HISTORY: (1) Bicknell sale, lot 378, for 10s to (2) Jupp; (3) Matthew B. Walker sold it in 1913 to (4) the British Museum Print Room

"Har and Heva Playing Harps"

<#198 5>

HISTORY: (1) Bicknell sale, lot 383, for 12s to (2) S. Bicknell; (3) untraced

"Blind Tiriell Departing from Har and Heva"

<#198 6>

HISTORY: (1) Bicknell sale, lot 382, for £1.1.0 to (2) James Leathart; (3) Acquired by William Bell Scott who lent it to the Burlington Fine Arts Club exhibition (1876) and bequeathed it in 1890 to (4) Miss Alice Boyd, who sold it at Sotheby's, 14 July 1892, lot 917, for £8 to (5) Quaritch, who offered it at £16.16.0 in his Rough List 127 (August 1892), lot 917, No. 62 (June 1893), Miscellaneous Catalogue (November 1893), and Catalogue 11 (June 1894); (6) sold anonymously at Sotheby's, 15 June 1960, lot 12, for £115 to Agnew's for (7) Lady Melchett, who sold it at Christie's, 9 November 1971, lot 73 (reproduced) for £4,200 to Baskett and Day for (8) Robert N. Essick.

"Tiriel, Upheld on the Shoulders of Ijim, Addresses His Children"

<#198 7>

HISTORY: (1) Bicknell sale, lot 386, for 16s, to (2) Hodgson; (3) D.J. Percy sold it at Christie's, 15 April 1890, lot 96 (as "Figures"), for £2.4.0 to (4) the Victoria and Albert Museum.

"Tiriel Denouncing His Sons and Daughters"

<#198 8>

HISTORY: (1) Bicknell sale, lot 385, for £1.13.0 to (2) Jupp; (3) acquired by Mrs Lucy Graham Smith; (4) Acquired by the Hon. Anthony Asquith; (5) Sold before the sale at Hodgson's in 1942 to Geoffrey Keynes.

A graphite study for Tiriel [Tiriel denouncing <Butlin #199>] is reproduced online by the Whitworth Art Gallery.

"The Death of Tiriel's Sons"

<#198 9>

HISTORY: (1) Bicknell sale, lot 380, for 5s to (2) [Joseph] Hogarth; (3) Untraced.

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Paintings and Drawings

"Tiriel Led by Hela"

<#198 10>

HISTORY: (1) Bicknell sale, lot 384, for 15s. to (2) James Leathart; (3) Acquired by Percival W. Leathart who lent it to the Carfax exhibition (1906); (4) Acquired by Mrs Leathart; (5) sold anonymously at Sotheby's, 19 May 1958, lot 14, for £260 to (6) Francis Edwards, who sold it to (7) Philip C. Duschnes, who offered it in his Catalogue 140 (November 1959), lot 58, for $1,350 and sold it to (8) Mrs Louise Y. Kain.

"Har and Heva Asleep with Mnetha Guarding Them"

<#198 11>

HISTORY: (1) Bicknell sale, lot 379, for 13s to (2) Jupp; (3) Acquired by Mrs Lucy Graham Smith; (4) Acquired by the Hon. Anthony Asquith; (5) Sold before the sale at Hodgson's in 1942 to Geoffrey Keynes.

"Hela Contemplating Tiriel Dead in a Vineyard"

<#198 12>

HISTORY: (1) Bicknell sale, lot 388, for £1.11.6 to (2) James Leathart; (3) acquired by Percival W. Leathart who lent it to the Carfax exhibition (1906); (4) acquired by Mrs Leathart by 1957; (5) sold anonymously at Sotheby's, 19 May 1958, lot 15, for £270 to Jacob Swartz, who sold it to (6) Dr T.E. Hanley; (7) acquired by John and Paul Herring who lent it to the British Museum Print Room exhibition (1957).

The nine known designs are reproduced in black-and-white in Jordi Doce's translation of Tiriel, el libro de thel (2006).

VIRGIL
The Pastorals
Drawings
(1821)

A Cumulative List

- "Thenot Remonstrates with Colinet" <Butlin #769 1>
FITZWILLIAM MUSEUM (Keynes Collection)
- "Thenot and Colinet Converse Seated Beneath Two Trees"
<#796 2> Biblioteca La Solana
- "Colinet and Thenot, with Shepherds' Crooks, Leaning Against Trees" <#796 3> Biblioteca La Solana
- "Colinet and Thenot Stand Together Conversing, Their Sheep Behind", unused design <#769 4> PIERPONT MORGAN
LIBRARY
- "Thenot, with Colinet Swaying His Arms in Sorrow" <#769
5> Untraced since 1924
- "The Blighted Corn" <#769 6> FITZWILLIAM MUSEUM (Keynes Collection)
- "Nor Fox, Nor Wolf, Nor Rat Among Our Sheep" <#769 7>
BEINECKE LIBRARY, Yale
- "Sabrina's Silvery Flood" <#769 8> HOUGHTON LIBRARY,
Harvard
- "Colinet Passing a Milestone" <#769 9> HOUGHTON LIBRARY,
Harvard
- "A Rolling Stone Is Ever Bare of Moss" <#769 10> PIERPONT
MORGAN LIBRARY
- "Colinet Resting By a Stream by Night" <#769 11> Untraced
since 1927
- "Colinet With His Shepherd's Pipe" <#769 12> Untraced since 1924
- "For Him Our Yearly Wakes and Feasts We Hold" <#796 13>

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Paintings and Drawings

Biblioteca La Solana

"First Comparison, Birds Flying Over a Cornfield" <#769 14>
Untraced since 1939

Second Comparison, "'The Briny Ocean Turns to Pastures
Dry'" <#769 15> PIERPONT MORGAN LIBRARY

"Third Comparison, A Winding River" <#769 16> Untraced
since 1927

"Thenot and Colinet Leading Their Flocks Home Together at Sunset" <#769 17> Untraced since 1927

"Thenot and Colinet at Supper" <#769 18> Untraced since 1924

"With Songs the Jovial Hinds Return from Plow" <#769 19>
Maurice Sendak estate

"And Unyok'd Heifers, Loitering Homewards, Low" <#769
20> ART MUSEUM, Princeton

Blake's drawings for "Thenot and Colinet Converse Seated Beneath Two Trees" and "For Him our Yearly Wakes and Feasts We Hold" reappeared after seventy years and were sold at Sotheby's, 13 November 1997, lot 56 (reproduced) to Professor R.N. Essick.

A selection of Blake's preliminary drawings for Virgil was reproduced in the William Blake Archive ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi in 2011.

EDITION

The Illustrations of William Blake for Thornton's Virgil ed.
Geoffrey Keynes (1937) <BB>

REVIEW

§Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 25 December 1938,
p. 976 (with 2 others)

NEW ENTRY
WOLLSTONECRAFT, Mary
Original Stories
(1791)
DRAWINGS

"Every prospect smiled" <Butlin #244 1)>

"God sent for him" <#244 2>

"How delighted the old bird will be" <#244 3>

"She turned her eyes on her cruel master" <#244 5>

Blake's drawings for his engravings are reproduced in colour online in "William Blake Digital Materials from the Lessing J. Rosenwald Collection" in the Library.

DATE: ?1791; The engravings from six other designs for Original Stories bear the imprint 2 September 1791.

DESCRIPTION: Blake made eleven sepia designs for Mary Wollstonecraft's Original Stories; one is lost, six were engraved, and the surviving four which were not engraved (c. 12.4 x 6.3 cm) bear pencil inscriptions beneath the designs.

BINDING: Loose.

HISTORY: (1) The set was owned by Alexander Gilchrist (Gilchrist, 91); (2) On his death in 1861 it apparently passed to his widow Anne Gilchrist and from her to (3) Their son H.H. Gilchrist, who lent the drawings to the Academy of the Fine Arts exhibition (Philadelphia, 1892), No. 120; (4) Acquired by H. Buxton Forman, who sold it at Anderson Galleries, 15 March 1920, lot 65 (with 5 letters from H.H. Gilchrist) [for $1,000 to (5) A. Edward Newton], who lent them to the exhibitions at the Philadelphia Museum of Art in May 1926

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Paintings and Drawings

and 1939 (No. 237) and sold them at Parke-Bernet, 16 April 1941, lot 120 [for $1,500 to (6) A.S.W. Rosenbach], who sold them in 1946 to Lessing J. Rosenwald, by whom they were presented to (7)The LIBRARY OF CONGRESS.

In 2009, the 10 monochrome wash drawings reproduced in the William Blake Archive, ed. Morris Eaves, Robert N. Essick, and Joseph Viscomi .

YOUNG, Edward
Night Thoughts
Watercolours
(1794-96)

BINDING: “The Original Editions [of Night Thoughts (1742-45)], and the Author’s own copies, [were] inlaid on [half-sheets of] imperial Folio paper, and each page, surrounded and illustrated with Original Drawings by Blake, 2 vols., most superbly bound in red morocco, gilt leaves, &c.” (1826, 1828 Catalogues); “The Bookbinder from inattention lost the blank leaf with [Young] the Author’s signature” (1821 catalogue); Blake made pencil stars by lines to be illustrated, and it may have been Richard Edwards who starred other lines in ink. The work was still bound in two volumes when exhibited at the Burlington Fine Arts Club (1876), Grolier Club (1905 and 1919-20), but the leaves were disbound by May 1928 and mounted in the British Museum Print Room.

Benedict, the bookbinder of the Night Thoughts watercolours, is one of the family of London Bookbinders: Francis (fl. 1807-23), his sons Francis (fl. 1824-28) and Charles (fl. 1815-30) (Ellic Howe, A List of London Bookbinders 1648-1815 [London: Bibliographical Society, 1950], 10).

HISTORY: (1) Blake was employed on the 537 Night Thoughts watercolours for “nearly two years” (1821 catalogue) or “more than two years” (1826 catalogue); according to Fuseli on 24 June 1796, “Blake asked 100 guineas for the whole [of the watercolours]. [(2) Richard] Edwards said He could not afford to give more than 20 guineas for which Blake agreed” (BR (2) 71), a sum which J.T. Smith (1828) described as a “despicably low” (BR (2) 610); “Fuseli understands that Edwards proposes to select ab.<sup>t</sup> 200<sup>510</sup> from the whole and to have that number engraved [by Blake] as decorations for a new edition”, but only 43 were engraved for the first part issued in 1797, Richard Edwards retired from bookselling very shortly thereafter, took a government position in Minorca, and when he returned to England in 1802 he wrote on f. 1<sup>v</sup> “Richard Edwards High Elms” (Watford), where he had moved; the watercolours passed from Richard Edwards to (3) his brother Thomas, who offered them in [Thomas] Edwards’s Catalogue (Halifax, 1821), lot 3 (£300), Thomas Winstanley and Co auction (Manchester) of Thomas Edwards, 20 May 1826, lot 1,076 (bought in below the reserve of £50), and Stewart, Wheatley and Adlard auction (London) of Thomas Edwards, 24 May 1828, lot 1,130 (withdrawn at £52.10); the two volumes were inherited by (4) the Rev John Edwards of Todmorden and thence by (5) his widow; in March 1874 H.W. Birtwhistle<sup>511</sup> of Halifax inserted “in some of the London

---

<sup>510</sup> The prospectus specified “one hundred and fifty engravings” for the whole.

<sup>511</sup> Butlin, who is the authority for John Edwards and his widow, says they

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Paintings and Drawings

papers” an extensive description of the bound watercolours which are “at present deposited in the hands of [(6)] Mr. Rimell, the bookseller, of 400 Oxford Street”,<sup>512</sup> who sold them to (7) James Bain for £475;<sup>513</sup> Bain offered vainly in June 1875 to the British Museum Print Room for £2,000, and sold them over 20 years later to Marsden J. Perry for £1,500<sup>514</sup> who lent them anonymously to the Grolier Club Blake exhibition of 26 January-25 February 1905, lot 87 (in 2 vols.) and sold them by 1905 through Scribner’s (New York) to (8) W.A. White, who wrote on f. 1<sup>v</sup> “W A White 28 March 190[5?] of M.J. Parry [sic]”, lent them to the Grolier Club Blake exhibition of 1919-1920, lot 40 (in 2 vols.), and gave them to (9) his daughter Mrs Frances White Emerson, who gave them in 1928 to (10) The DEPARTMENT OF PRINTS AND DRAWINGS OF THE BRITISH MUSEUM – en route to the British Museum they were exhibited, according to Butlin, at the Fogg Museum (Harvard University) in 19 December 1927-10 January 1928, at the Metropolitan Museum (New York) in May 1928 (16 pp.), at the City Art Gallery (Birmingham) in December 1928-February 1929 (all the leaves shown in rotation), at the National Gallery of Scotland in March 1929 (selections), and at the British Museum Print Room in July 1929.

---

were sold through “Thomas” Birtwhistle.

<sup>512</sup> Anon., “Notes and News”, Academy, 6 June 1874, pp. 645-47.

<sup>513</sup> James S. Bain, A Bookseller Looks Back: The Story of the Bains (London: Macmillan, 1870), 72-73.

<sup>514</sup> British Museum Print Room “Original Letters and Papers” (Reg. No. 2822), June 1875 – see G.E. Bentley, Jr, “The Selling of Blake’s Night Thoughts Designs in the 1870s”, Blake, XII (1978), 70-71.

EDITIONS OF THE DRAWINGS

Illustrations to Young's Night Thoughts, ed. Geoffrey Keynes
(1927)<BB>

REVIEWS

§Anon., Times [London], 1 March 1928

§Burlington Magazine, LIV, 310 (January 1929), 45-46

**William Blake's Designs for Edward Young's NIGHT THOUGHTS: A Complete Edition*, ed. With Commentary by John E. Grant, Edward J. Rose, Michael J. Tolley, Co-ordinating Editor David V. Erdman, Vol. I-II (Oxford: Clarendon Press, 1980)<BBS>

REVIEWS

*John Russell Taylor, "William Blake's Designs for Edward Young's Night Thoughts", Times [London], 7 October 1980, p. 11

§Daniel Traister, American Book Collector (March-April 1981), pp. 60-73 (with 4 others)

§David Bindman, Burlington Magazine, CXXIII, 938 (May 1981), 312-13

§Andrew Lincoln, "Images of Solitude", Times Literary Supplement, 5 June 1981, p. 646

§Peter Quennell, Apollo, CXIV (August 1981), 136-37 (with 3 others)

§Karen Mulhallen, Wordsworth Circle, XII(Summer 1981), 157-61

§Dennis Welch and Joseph Viscomi, Philological Quarterly, LX (Fall 1981), 539-42

I.H. C[hayes], Romantic Movement ... Bibliography for 1980 (1981), 75-76

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Paintings and Drawings

- §Jean H. Hagstrum, Eighteenth-Century Studies, XV, 3 (Spring 1982), 339-44
- §Joseph Viscomi, Fine Print, VI, 2 (Spring 1982), 49-50 B. Also accessible in his "Collected Essays on Blake and His Times", q.v.
- §Robert Halsband, Journal of English and Germanic Philology, LXXXI, 4 (October 1982), 576-77
- §W.J.T. Mitchell, Modern Philology, LXXX, 2 (November 1982), 198-205
- Morton Paley, Studies in Romanticism, XXI, 4 (Winter 1982), 674-82
- John E. Grant, "A Re-View of Some Problems in Understanding Blake's Night Thoughts", Blake, XVIII, 2 (Fall 1984), 155-81 (a response to "unfavorable review[s]", especially by Dörrbecker, Paley, and Mitchell) <BBS 397>
- W.J.T. Mitchell, "Reply to John Grant", Blake, XVIII, 2 (Fall 1984), 181-83 ("It is not, on the whole, pleasant reading" [p. 181]) <BBS 397>
- Morton D. Paley, "Further Thoughts on Night Thoughts", Blake, XVIII, 2 (Fall 1984), 183-84 (the commentary volumes in preparation are "likely to prove as great a disappointment as the plates have been" [p. 184]) <BBS 397>
- D.W. Dörrbecker, "Grant's 'Problems in Understanding': Some Marginalia", Blake, XVIII, 2 (Fall 1984), 185-90 ("Grant's response to his critics" is characterised by "wishful thinking" [p. 185]) <BBS 397>

*Detlef W. Dörrbecker (bis), Blake, XVI, 2 (Fall 1982), 130-39

§Joseph Viscomi and Dennis Welch, Philological Quarterly (Fall 1982), 539-50. B. Also accessible in Viscomi's "Collected Essays on Blake and His Times", q.v.

§Morton D. Paley, Studies in Romanticism, XXI, 4 (Winter 1982), 674-82

§William Vaughan, "Blake and the Interpreters", Art History, V (1982), 106-9 (with 2 others)

*Young, Edward. Night Thoughts: The Poem Illustrated with Water Colours by William Blake. Commentary by Robin Hamlyn. [3 vols.] (London: The Folio Society, 2005) Folio (two volumes of colour facsimiles without title page) and 4<sup>o</sup> (the Hamlyn volume which supplies the title page), xx, 362 pp.

According to the colophons in Vol. I-II, "This facsimile edition of Young's Night Thoughts has been reproduced by digital photography ... printed by Bath Press, Blantyre, on Modigliani Neve paper", with 1,000 numbered copies for sale to members of the Folio Society and 20 lettered copies which are not for sale. The leaves (16½ x 12 13/16") are virtually the same size as the leaves on which Blake made his drawings (c. 16½ x 12 7/8") and significantly smaller than the leaves onto which the drawings are mounted (20½ x 15½").

Hamlyn, with a workmanlike critical commentary on each watercolour, notes "how carefully Blake usually followed Edward Young's words" (p. vii).

REVIEWS

*Karen Mulhallen, Blake, XLI (2007), 84-91 (a major review, with original identifications of portraits in

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Paintings and Drawings

the drawings. “We can actually climb into these drawings for the first time, and it is a profound experience.” However, there are “remarkable variations in the accuracy of color in the Folio [Society] edition throughout the series ... [In some reproductions, the] coloring is almost unrecognizable”, particularly with respect to “greenishness”, and there are omissions of many significant details. “Hamlyn’s commentary is a major contribution to Blake scholarship” [pp. 85, 89, 90])

Jason Snart, Romanticism on the Net, No. 45 (February 2007), 37 paragraphs (it is “incomparable”, but the colours are not true, it omits borders and margins ...)

Section B
COLLECTIONS AND SELECTIONS

Art Institute (Chicago)
Online Reproductions

Study from Rafael's "Jacob's Dream" <not in Butlin>

Study of the figure of Agnello Bruneleschi <Butlin #822>

Birmingham Museums and Art Gallery
Online Reproductions
Watercolours

Dante watercolours

"The Mission of Virgil" <Butlin #812 3>

"The Circle of the Lustful" <#812 10>

"Baffled Devils Fighting" <#812 42>

"Dante Striking Against Bocca degli Abbati" <#812 65>

"The Proud under Their Enormous Loads" <#812 81>

"The Recording Angel" <#812 92>

Pencil Sketch

"Robinson Crusoe Discovering the Footprint in the Sand" <#140>

Blake. Ed. G. Keynes (London: Faber and Faber [1945]) The Faber Gallery B. (N.Y. and London: Pitman Publishing, 1949) C. *(London: Faber and Faber, 1954) <BB #398A-C> D. §(1961)

**Blake* (Barcelona: Ediciones Altayua, 2001) Grandes Maestras de la Pintura [No. 49] 4º, 41 pp., 89 reproductions; ISBN: 844871413X In Spanish

A picture book with text consisting of (1) "Introducción" (p. 1); (2) "Vida y época" (pp. 2-7); (3) "Trayectoria creativa" (pp. 8-15); (4) "Estilo y técnica" (pp. 16-21); (5) "La obra maestra [Satanás castiga a Job con llargas purudentes (1826)]" (pp. 22-27); (6) "Las [5] grandes obras" (pp. 28-37); (7) "Museas y Galerías" (the Fitzwilliam Museum) (pp. 38-40).

Blake: 16 Art Stickers (Mineola [N.Y.]: Dover Publications, 2003) 12º (4 1/16 x 5 1/4"), 6 pp. + covers; ISBN: 0486430685

Anon., "Note" (inside front cover) ("a new work"). The stickers derive from Urizen, Songs, Milton, Jerusalem, and "Glad Day".

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Drawings and Paintings

Blake's Pencil Drawings, Second Series, ed. Geoffrey Keynes (1956) <BB>

REVIEWS

§Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 28 December 1956, p. 776

§Anon., Times[London], January 1957

§Thomas Parkinson, Nation, 30 November 1957, pp. 414-15 (with another)

*Stevens, Bethan. The British Museum William Blake (London: The British Museum Press, 2005) Square 12°, 96 pp., 56 reproductions mostly in colour; ISBN: 9780714126456

Each reproduction is generally preceded by a page of description or quotation of the text illustrated.

REVIEWS

§Sunday Herald [Glasgow], 27 November 2005 (One of the Greatest Reads of 2005)

§Antiques Magazine, 14-20 January 2006

Brooklyn Museum
Online Reproduction
Watercolour

"The Great Red Dragon and the Woman Clothed with the Sun"
<Butlin #519>

Binyon, Laurence. The Drawings and Engravings of William Blake. Ed. Geoffrey Home (London, 1922) B. (N.Y., 1967)<BB #404A-B> C. §([Charleston, South Carolina]:

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Drawings and Paintings

Nabu Press, 2010) 292 pp.; ISBN: 9781177680431D.
§(Adelaide, 2012) An eBook

Brooklyn Museum
Online Reproduction
Watercolour

"The Great Red Dragon and the Woman Clothed with the Sun"
<Butlin #519>

Cleveland Museum of Art
Online Reproductions
Watercolour

"The Holy Family: Christ in the Lap of Truth" <Butlin #471>

Pencil Sketch

"The Thought of Death alone, the Fear Destroys" <#333, perhaps for Night Thoughts>

The Complete Portraiture of William & Catherine Blake, with an Essay and an Iconography by Geoffrey Keynes Kt (London, 1977) The William Blake Trust <BBS>

REVIEWS

§Nicholas Barker, Times Literary Supplement, 17
March 1978, p. 320

David Bindman, "William Blake – an exhibition and a Book", Burlington Magazine, CXX (1978), 418-21
(with another) <BBS 374>

§Jerrold Ziff, Art Bulletin, VI, 2 (June 1979), 326-28
(with 2 others)

Courtauld Institute of Art

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Drawings and Paintings

Online Reproduction

Visionary Head of Solomon <Butlin #700>

**Drawings of William Blake: 92 Pencil Studies.* Ed. Geoffrey Keynes (N.Y., 1970) <BB> B. § (Dover, 2007) ISBN: 9780486223032

REVIEWS

1970

§ Anon., "The Composite Art of Blake", Times Literary Supplement, 10 December 1971, pp. 1537-39 (with 12 others)

Robert N. Essick, Blake Studies, IV, 1 (Fall 1971)

Raymond Lister, Blake Newsletter, V, 3 (Winter 1971-72), 208-9

D.V. E[rdman], English Language Notes, X (September 1972), 34-35

Fitzwilliam Museum (Cambridge University)

Online Reproductions<sup>515</sup>

Watercolours

"Queen Katherine's Dream" (1783-90) <Butlin #247>

"Death on a Pale Horse" (c. 1800) <#517>

"The Three Maries at the Sepulcher" (1800-3) <#503>

"Christ's Troubled Sleep" for Paradise Regained (1816-30) <#544 8>

Temperas

"The Christ Child Asleep on the Cross" (1799-1800) <#410>

---

<sup>515</sup> Most of the Fitzwilliam Blakes are not included here.

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Drawings and Paintings

"An Allegory of the Spiritual Condition of Man" (?1811) <#673>

Colour Print

"The House of Death" (?1795) <#322>

Pencil Sketches

"Sir Isaac Newton" (c. 1795) <#308>

"Hyperion" ("The Bowman") (c. 1797) for Gray's poems
<#336>

"The Virgin hushing the young baptist, who approaches the sleeping infant Jesus" (c. 1799), tracing <#408>

"The man who taught Blake painting in his dreams" (1819-20),
Visionary Head <#753>

"The Three Tabernacles" (c. 1820-25) <#792>

"The churchyard" (1820-25) <#793>

"Mirth" (1820-25) <#795>

"Job and his Daughters" (1823), graphite and ink <#557 42>

"A Devil holding a sword" (?1824-27) <#824>

"Vanity fair[?]" (1824-27) <#832>

"Head of Job"

Fogg Museum, Harvard University

Online Reproductions

"An Enthroned Old Man Offering Two Children to Heaven" <Butlin #88, Fogg 1967.45, called "Tiriel and his Children; verso: Female Figure with the Head of a Horse">

"Procession of Monks Met by Three Women" <#100, Fogg
1970.97>

"War" <#195, Fogg 1943.402>

"Three Falling Figures" <#256, Fogg 1943.408>

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Drawings and Paintings

- “The Devil Rebuked; The Burial of Moses” <#449, Fogg 1943.407>
- “By the Waters of Babylon” <#466, Fogg 1943.404>
- “The Presentation in the Temple” <#470, Fogg 1943.403>
- “Christ Crucified Between Two Thieves” <#494, Fogg 1943.400>
- “The Resurrection” <#502, Fogg 1943.405>
- “He Cast Him Into the Bottomless Pitt, and Shut Him Up” <#524, Fogg 1915.8>
- “Satan Watching the Endearments of Adam and Eve” <#531, Fogg 1943.406>
- Job watercolours, the Linnell Set <#551 1, 3-20, Fogg 1943.410-428>
- “The Death Chamber: Possible sketch for Jerusalem pl. 25 <#565, Fogg 1959.162>
- “The Body of Abel Found by Adam and Eve” <#664, Fogg 1943.401>
- “Christ Blessing” <#670, Fogg 1943.180>
- “Philoctetes and Neoptolemus at Lemnos” <#676, Fogg 943.408>
- Dante watercolours <#812 6-7, 11, 17-18, 22-23, 26, 29-30, 32-33, 41, 43, 52, 54, 61, 64, 66-67, 71, 77, 83, <Fogg 1943.429-447, 658-61>
- “The New Jerusalem Descending” <#92, “A Crowned Woman Amid Clouds With a demon Starting Away”, Fogg 1993.28>
- “The First Sight of the Spiritual World” by John Flaxman, “Possibly by William Blake” <Not in Butlin, Fogg 1943.657>

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Drawings and Paintings

“Imitator of William Blake: Six Watercolors” <Fogg
1947.51A-F>

J. Paul Getty Museum
Online Reproduction
Colourprint

"Satan Exulting over Eve" <Butlin #291 or 292>

**The Great Artists: Their lives, works and inspiration Blake*
(London: Marshall Cavendish, 1985) Marshall Cavendish
Weekly Collection of Great Artists, [No.] 7 4<sup>o</sup>
Illustrations accompanied by anonymous mini-essays.

Library of Congress
Online Reproductions

Sketch for "The Eagle" in Hayley's Designs to a Series of Ballads (1802) <Butlin #361>

Ten sketches for Mary Wollstonecraft, Original Stories (1791)
<#244>

Miscellaneous pencil sketches

Manchester City Art Gallery
Online Reproductions
Watercolours

Heads of the Poets <Butlin #343 1-18>

"Jereboam and The Man of God" <#460>

Frederic James Shields, "William Blake's Room [in Fountain Court]" (1882)

Metropolitan Museum of Art (N.Y.)

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Drawings and Paintings

Online Reproductions

Watercolours

- "The Parable of the Wise and Foolish Virgins" (1799-1800)
- "The Angel of the Divine Presence Bringing Eve to Adam" (c. 1803)
- "Angel of the Revelation" (c. 1803-5)
- "Rest on the Flight into Egypt" (1806)

Tempera

- "The Angel Appearing to Zacharias" (1799-1800)

Sketch

- "The Last Trumpet"

Colourprints

- "God Judging Adam" (c. 1795)
- "Pity" (c. 1795)

Pierpont Morgan Library and Art Gallery

Online Reproductions

Watercolours

- "Christ Nailed to the Cross" (1800-3)
- "When the Morning Stars Sang Together" (1804-7)
- "Fire" (c. 1805)
- Job watercolours (1805)
- "Behemoth and Leviathan" (c. 1805-10)
- Milton, L'Allegro (8 designs)
- Milton, Il Penseroso (8 designs)

Drawings

- "Wat Tyler", Visionary Head (c. 1820)

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Drawings and Paintings

Museum of Fine Art (Boston)<sup>516</sup>
Online Reproductions
Watercolours

"Juliet Asleep" <Butlin #84 1>
 "Falstaff and Prince Hal" <#84 2>
 "Othello and Desdemona" <#84 3>
 "Cordelia and the Sleeping Lear" <#84 4>
 "Lear Grasping a Sword" <#84 5>
 "Macbeth and Lady Macbeth" <#84 6>
 "Lear and Cordelia" <#84 7>
 "Abraham Preparing to Sacrifice Isaac" <#109>
 "Plague" <#193>
 "Pestilence: Death of the First Born" <#442>
 "Moses Erecting the Brazen Serpent" <#447>
 "Goliath Cursing David" <#457>
 "Lucifer and the Pope in Hell" <#467>
 "The Whirlwind: Ezekiel's Vision of the Cherubim and Eyed Wheels" <#468>
 "The Woman Taken in Adultery" <#486>
Paradise Lost <#536 4-5, 9>
Comus <#582 1-8>

Colourprint

"Nebuchadnezzar" <#302>

Pen and Ink

"David Cursing Goliath" <#119a>

National Gallery of Art (Washington, D.C.)<sup>517</sup>

---

<sup>516</sup> Many Blake images in the Museum of Fine Arts are not reproduced.

<sup>517</sup> The temperas, watercolours, colour-prints, and engravings reproduced together for the National Gallery are from the Rosenwald Collection except for 29

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Drawings and Paintings

Online Reproductions

Watercolours<sup>518</sup>

Moses Staying the Plague <Butlin #115>
 "The Ghost of Samuel Appearing to Saul" <#458>
 "The Great Red Dragon and the Woman Clothed with the Sun" <#520>
 "The Great Red Dragon and the Beast from the Sea" <#521>
 "Job and His Family Restored to Prosperity" <#551 21>
 "Queen Katharine's Dream" <#549>
 The Last Judgment <#645>
 "Christian with the Shield of Faith Taking Leave of His Companions" <#829, for Bunyan, Pilgrim's Progress>

Temperas

"Job and His Daughters" <#394>
 "The Last Supper" <#424>

Colourprints

"Christ Appearing to His Disciples After the Resurrection" <#326>

Pencil Sketches<sup>519</sup>

St Augustine Converting King Ethelbert of Kent <#58>
 A Warring Angel <#78>
 A Swordsman Standing over His Defeated Opponent (2 versions) <#80>
 "And Saul Said unto David, Go, and the Lord be with Thee"

images. One hundred sixty National Gallery Blake images, mostly duplicates, are not reproduced.

<sup>518</sup> Including graphite and wash.

<sup>519</sup> A few are in pen and ink. The watercolours of "Evening" and "The Death of Joseph" are not traced to the National Gallery in Butlin.

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Drawings and Paintings

<#118>

Group of men sitting in a circle <#148>
 A Crouching Figure Holding a Shield <#229>
 Los Supporting the Sun <#229>
 An Armed Man Spurning a Woman <#239>
 The Infant Hercules Throttling the Serpents <#253>
 A Man Seen from Behind Rising on Clouds <#230>
 "The Descent of Peace" <#539>
 "Job and His Daughters" <#555>
 Design for a Title Page <#558?>
 Los and His Spectre <#561>
 Queen Katherine's Dream (after Fuseli) <#561>
 Time's Triple Bow <#567>
 A Resurrection Scene <#600>
 A Two Legs <#606>
 Figure Ascending in a Glory of Clouds <#619>
 John Linnell <#688>
 King Canute <#721>
 King Edward <#735>
 Wat Tyler's Daughter <#741>
 An Ascending Spiral of Figures <#771>
 Lady Torrens and Family, after John Linnell <#801>
 The Book of Enoch, 5 images <#827>

National Gallery of Canada
Online Reproduction

"Owen Glendower", Visionary Head (c. 1820)

National Gallery of Victoria (Melbourne)
Online Reproductions

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Drawings and Paintings

Dante Watercolours (1824-27)

- "Dante running from the three beasts" <Butlin #812 1>
- "The vestibule of Hell and the souls mustering to cross the Acheron" <#812 5>
- "Minos" <#812 9>
- "Cerberus" <#812 13 (Second Version)>
- "Cerberus" <#812 13 (Second Version)>
- "The Stygian Lake, with the ireful sinners fighting" <#812 15>
- "The goddess of fortune" <#812 16>
- "The Angel Crossing the Styx" <#812 19>
- "The Angel at the gate of Dis" <#812 20>
- "The hell-hounds hunting the destroyers of their own goods" <#812 25>
- "Capaneus the blasphemer" <#812 27>
- "The symbolic figure of the course of human history" <#812 28>
- "Geryon conveying Dante and Virgil towards Malebolge" <#812 31>
- "The devils under the bridge" <#812 34>
- "The necromancers and augurs" <#812 36>
- "The Devil carrying the Luchese magistrate to the boiling pitch of corrupt officials" <#812 37>
- "The Devil setting out with Dante and Virgil" <#812 39>
- "The thieves and serpents" <#812 47>
- "Vanni Fucci 'making figs' against God" <#812 49>
- "The six-footed serpent attacking Agrillo Brunilleschi" <#812 51>
- "Ulysses and Diomed swathed in the same flame" <#812 55>
- "The schismatics and sowers of discord: Mahomet" <#812 56>

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Drawings and Paintings

"The schismatics and sowers of discord: Mosca de l'Amberti and Bertrand de Born" <#812 57>

"The pit of disease: Gianni Schicchi and Myrrha" <#812 59>

"Ephialtes and two other Titans" <#812 62>

"Antaeus setting down Dante and Virgil in the last circle of Hell" <#812 63>

"Lucifer" <#812 69>

"The rest on the mountain leading to Purgatory" <#812 73>

"The souls of those who only repented at the point of death" <#812 75>

"The lawn with the kings and angels" <#812 76>

"The Angel inviting Dante to enter the fire" <#812 84>

"Dante at the moment of entering the fire" <#812 85>

"The harlot and the giant" <#812 89>

"Dante adoring Christ" <#812 90>

"St Peter appears to Beatrice and Dante" <#812 94>

"St Peter and St James with Dante and Beatrice" <#812 95>

"The Queen of Heaven in glory" <#812 99>

Watercolours for Paradise Lost (1822)

"Satan watching the endearments of Adam and Eve" <#537 1>

"The Creation of Eve" <#537 2>

National Portrait Gallery (London)

Online Reproduction<sup>520</sup>

Pencil Sketch

"John Varley" <Butlin #689>

New Art Gallery (Walsall)

---

<sup>520</sup> The National Portrait Gallery reproductions do not include Butlin #127.

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Drawings and Paintings

Online Reproduction
Watercolour

"The Humility of the Saviour" <Butlin #474, "Christ in the Carpenter's Shop: The Humility of the Saviour">

The Paintings of William Blake, ed. Darrell Figgis (1925)
<BBS>

REVIEWS

§Anon. [probably Frank Rinder], "Blake's 'Kingdom'",
Glasgow Herald, 3 December 1925

§Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 3 December 1925,
p. 827

Geoffrey Keynes, "Blake Drawings", Times Literary Supplement, 17 December 1925, p. 883 <BB 847>

R.R. Tatlock, Burlington Magazine, XLVIII, 278 (May 1926), 271-72 (with another) ("he has told the story of his preceptor's life like one inspired", but "Blake's pictures were not altogether understood by him", and "they are madly arranged")

Mary Siegrist, "William Blake, Who Saw Life Perpetually New ...", New York Times, 10 May 1931

The Paintings of William Blake, ed. Raymond Lister (1986)
<BBS>

REVIEWS

§David Fuller, Durham University Journal, NS XLVIII
(June 1987), 373-74

§Brian Allen, Apollo, CXXV (1987), 150-51

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Drawings and Paintings

- § J. Barter, Choice, XXIV (1987), 1388
Shelley Bennett, Blake, XXII, 1 (Summer 1988), 20-21 (with another)
I[rene] H. C[hayes], Romantic Movement ... Bibliography for 1988 (1989), 113-14
David G. Riede, Eighteenth Century ... Bibliography, NS XII (1992), 407-8

Pencil Drawings by William Blake, ed. Geoffrey Keynes (1927) <BB>

REVIEWS

- § Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 15 September 1927 (with another)
 * Herbert L. Matthews, New York Times, 30 October 1927 (with 2 others) ("beautiful")
 § Burlington Magazine, LII, 298 (January 1928), 48-49

Philadelphia Museum of Art
Online Reproductions
Watercolours

- "Warring Angels" <Butlin # 104>
 "The Sacrifice of Isaac" <#108, "Abraham and Isaac">
 "The Death of the Wife of the Biblical Prophet Ezekiel" <#166>
 "Malevolence" <#341>
 "Jephthah Met by His Daughter" <#450>
 "Samson Subdued" <#455>
 "Christ Baptizing" <#485>
 "Mary Magdalen Washing Christ's Feet" <#488>
 "The Bard" <#656>

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Drawings and Paintings: Collections and Selections

"A Destroying Deity" <#778>

Colourprint

"God Judging Adam" <#296>

Tempera

"The Nativity" <#401, on copper>

Royal Academy (London)

Online Reproductions

Pencil Sketches

William Hayley, Designs to a Series of Ballads (1802), "The Lion" <Butlin #364 recto>

Ibid, "The Elephant" <#364 verso>

Blake-Varley Sketchbook, Large

Lent anonymously by Alan Parker to the Petit Palais exhibition of 2 April-29 June 2009.

Blake-Varley Sketchbook, Small (1819)

DESCRIPTION:<sup>521</sup> A sketchbook with 31 DRAWINGS BY VARLEY <Butlin #692 5-7, 9, 11, 17, 19-20, 29, 33, 35, 37-
40, 44-45, 59, 67-68, 71-72, 100, 103, 107, 109, 123, 125-26,
131-32>; 34 BLANK PAGES <#692 8, 10, 18, 21, 26, 28, 30-
32, 34, 43, 46, 54, 58, 60, 63, 65, 69-70, 73, 75, 77, 79, 81, 83,
85, 87, 89, 91, 95, 105, 124, b, d>; and 36 LEAVES MISSING
<#692 1-4, 13-16, 41-42, 47-52, 55-56, 61-62, 101-2, 111-20,

---

<sup>521</sup> The account here combines information from Butlin #692 with the Christie (N.Y.) catalogue of 31 Jan 2013, lot 147.

127-30>

SIZE: 15.5 cm x 20.5

WATERMARK: "1806"<sup>522</sup> on pp. 23-24, 29-32, 45-46, 71-72, 75-78, 95-100, 123-26, and a-b, a very strange pattern.

HISTORY: The Sketchbook was made for (1) John Varley, from whom it passed to his student and friend<sup>523</sup> (2) William Mulready (1786-1863), after whose death it was sold at Christie's, 28 April 1864, for £5.5.0 to (3) Kempton; acquired by (4) William Christian Selle and then by his son-in-law (5) Henry Buxton Forman by 1864, who gave it to (6) William Bell Scott by 1870,<sup>524</sup> from whom it passed to (7) Miss Alice Boyd, and thence in 1897 to her niece (8) Miss Eleanor Margaret Courtney-Boyd; in 1946 it passed to her niece (9) Miss Evelyn May Courtney-Boyd; sold in 1967 to (10) M.D.E. Clayton Stamm, by whom it was sold at Christie's (London), 15 June 1971, lot 157, when the leaves were dispersed.

A separate leaf<sup>525</sup> <Butlin #692 53-54 ["Two Visionary Figures, Mountains Behind"]> was sold at Christie's, 15 June 1971, lot 157 [for £157.15.0 to "Hearson" (i.e., Pearson) for Anchard Fine Arts Ltd]. It was sold again at Christie's (N.Y.), 31 January 2013, lot 147 ("An angel, arms raised, with another figure", the recto inscription "indistinct"), to Victoria University in the University of Toronto.

<sup>522</sup> The three versions of Blake's letter of 18 Jan 1808 are on paper watermarked "IVY MILL | 1806".

<sup>523</sup> Varley's student and friend John Linnell acquired #692 35-36, 97-98 which were sold with his collection at Christie's, 19 March 1918, lots 163-64 (with others).

<sup>524</sup> The inside back cover is inscribed "This Sketch book was presented to me by H. Buxton Forman. 1870. William B. Scott" <Butlin p. 495>.

<sup>525</sup> There are slightly disfiguring oil-stains in the paper, which could have come from a book or piece of wood resting on it.

William Blake and His Circle

Part II: Drawings and Paintings: Collections and Selections

The design represents an angel with arms and wings upraised standing before a man who is pointing to our right. Surrounding the head of the pointing man is a large circle perhaps representing a halo or the sun, and in the background are three pyramid-shaped objects.

The verso is inscribed by Varley "it is allways [sic] to keep yourself collected", and, according to Butlin #692 53, the recto is "Inscribed by Varley ... 'Hotspur ...', the rest illegible, apparently on four lines below drawing".<sup>526</sup>

It is difficult to relate the design or the words to Henry Percy (1364-1403), son of the Earl of Northumberland, who was killed by Prince Henry at the Battle of Shrewsbury (see Shakespeare's Henry IV Part I). Blake made a separate Visionary Head of Hotspur <Butlin #745, pl. 956> which is visually unrelated to this drawing. And in the same Blake-Varley sketchbook <#692 131> is a drawing unrelated to Hotspur inscribed: "Hotspur said ... we shou[l]d have had the Battle had it not been for those cursed Stars[.] Hotspur Said he was indignant to have been killed by ... such a Person as Prince Henry who was so much his inferior" (BR (2) 368).

EDITION

The Blake-Varley Sketchbook of 1819, ed. Martin Butlin, 2 vols. (1969) <BB>

---

<sup>526</sup> Martin Butlin tells me in an e-mail of March 2013 that the Hotspur inscription was still legible when he saw it in 2012. Neither I nor several advisors using raking light and magnifying glasses of various powers could find where the writing is supposed to be, much less read it.

REVIEWS

- §T. Abercrombie, Apollo, XCII (October 1970), 319
§D.V. E[rdman], English Language Notes, VIII (1970), 169
§David Irwin, Burlington Magazine, CXIII (June 1971), 341-42

Folio Blake-Varley Sketchbook
(1819-25)

The Visionary Head of "A Man Wearing a Tall Hat" <not in Butlin>, offered in Agnew's 130th Annual Exhibition of Watercolours & Drawings, 5-28 March 2003, lot 18, 27.7 x 36 cm (trimmed on right and left) may have come from the Folio
Blake-Varley Sketchbook, whose leaves were c. 27 x 42 cm

§**The Drawings and Engravings of William Blake.* Ed.
Laurence Binyon [1922, 1967] (Nabu Press, 2014) 290 pp.;
ISBN: 9781295752362

Southampton Art Gallery
Watercolour

"Ruth the Dutiful Daughter in Law" <Butlin #456>

Tate Britain
Online Reproductions

The online catalogue of Tate Britain in 2013 reproduced almost all of their Blake "Artworks" with directions for each on how to "Licence this image".

Victoria and Albert Museum

William Blake and His Circle
Part II: Drawings and Paintings: Collections and Selections

Online Reproductions<sup>527</sup>

Watercolours

"The Compassion of Pharaoh's Daughter; The Finding of Moses" <Butlin #440>

"Moses and the Burning Bush" <#441>

"The Third Temptation" <#476>

"The healing of the woman with the issue of blood" <#482, "Christ healing">

"Christ in the house of Martha and Mary" <#489>

"The Angels hovering over the body of Christ" <#500, "Christ in the Sepulchre, Guarded by Angels">

"The Resurrection: The Angel rolling away the stone from the Sepulchre" <#501>

Temperas

"Eve Tempted by the Serpent" <#379, on copper>

"Our Lady with the Infant Jesus Riding on a Lamb with St John" <#409>

"The Christ Child Asleep on the Cross" <#411>

"Satan Calling Up His Legions" <#661>

"The Virgin and Child in Egypt" <#669>

Pencil Drawing

"An angel striding among the stars" <#820>

Whitworth Art Gallery (University of Manchester)

Online Reproductions

Study for Tiriel [Tiriel denouncing <Butlin #199>], graphite

---

<sup>527</sup> The Victoria and Albert reproductions do not include Butlin #55, 73, 139A, 198 7, 207, 484, 536, 560, 563, 575, 583, 589, 597, 602, 624, 641.

Milton, "On the Morning of Christ's Nativity"

Joseph Thomas Set

"The Descent of Peace" <#538 1>

"The Angels Appearing to the Shepherds" <#538 2>

"The Descent of Typhon" <#538 3, "The Old Dragon">

"The Shrine of Apollo" <#538 4, "The Overthrow of Apollo and the Pagan Gods">

"Sullen Moloch" <#538 5, "The Flight of Moloch">

"The Night of Peace" <#538 6>

Yuzhou, zaichuangzaozhe: Blake [The Re-Creator of the Universe: Blake]. Ed. Yüngfen Hu (Taipei: Kelin guoji tushu gongsi [Greenland International Books Co. Ltd], 2001) Yishu tashi shiji hualang [Century Art Gallery of Great Masters] 49 In Chinese

It consists of a brief biography and 32 reproductions in colour, apparently translated from Japanese (original © 2000 by De Agostini UK Ltd, Japanese/Chinese translation © 2000 by Greenland International).

Yishu tashi shiji hualang is a series (100 volumes) with one volume per Master.

*"Blake/Friedrich." Shukan Bijutsukan, Shogakukan Wikuri Bukku [Weekly Museum, Shogakukan Weekly Book], No. 27 (15 August 2000) In Japanese

An issue devoted to William Blake and Caspar David Friedrich. The Blake sections are:

*Anon. "Meisaku o Tanoshimu (1): Blake [Let's enjoy fine works of art (1): Blake]." Pp. 1-9.

*Anon. "Close-up (1): Blake: Tegakibon no Miryoku [Fascinating Hand Copied Books]." Pp. 10-11.

William Blake and His Circle

Part II: Drawings and Paintings: Collections and Selections

Anon. "Blake Monogatari [A Blake Story]." Pp. 12-13.

*Anon. "Atorandam [At Random in Art]." P. 30.

*Anon. "Japan meets Blake/Friedrich." P. 31.

*Anon. "Image Library." P. 34. (A list of books, a movie, and museums related to Blake.)

Yasuo Deguchi. "Watashi to Blake [Blake and I]." P. 35

"Sinnlichkeit in Bild und Klang": Festschrift für Paul Hoffmann zum 70. Geburtstag (Stuttgart: Hanz-Dieter Heinz Akademischer Verlag, 1987) Stuttgarterr Arbeiter zur Germanisch Nr. 189 In German

Twenty-one very large photos of images related to the Marriage.

William Blake, ed. Martin Butlin (1966, 1968, 1972) <BB> (1978, 1983, 1985, 1987, 1990) <BBS>

REVIEWS

§Peter Stockham, Antiquarian Book Monthly Review, V, 7 (July 1978) (with 2 others)

Ronald Paulson, Georgia Review, XXXII, 1 (Summer 1978), 435-43 (with 7 others)

§Anne K. Mellor, Art Journal, XXXIX, 1 (Fall 1979), 76-78 (with 3 others)

§T.J. McCormick, Choice, XXVIII (1990-91), 1,116

§Angus Stewart, Spectrum, October 1991 (with 2 others)

M[ark] T. S[mith], Romantic Movement ... Bibliography for 1990 (1991), 82

§L.M., Gazette des Beaux-Arts, 6 S, CXIX (April 1992),
20-21, in French

William Blake. Ed. Morton D. Paley. (Oxford: Phaidon, 1978). B. §Tr. by Priska Monika Hottenroth (Stuttgart, Berlin, Köln, Mainz: W. Kohlhammer, 1978) <BBS> C. §New printing (Ware, Hens: Omega Books, 1983) In German

REVIEWS

§Anon., Choice, XV (1978), 852-53

§Peter Stockham, Antiquarian Book Monthly Review, V,
7 (July 1978) (with 2 others)

§Anon., New Yorker, 14 August 1978, p. 100

§Anon., Neue Zürcher Zeitung, 30 August 1978, p. 33,
in German

Ronald Paulson, Georgia Review, XXXII, 1 (Summer 1978), 435-43 (with 7 others)

§Anon., Neue Osnabrücker Zeitung, 28 November 1978,
in German

§Anon., Fuldaer Zeitung, 4 December 1978, in German

§Anon., Der Bund, 23 December 1978, in German

§Susan Hoyal, Connoisseur, CXCVIII (1978), 330

*Robert R. Wark, Blake, XII, 3 (Winter 1978-79), 211-
12

§Anon., Cuxhavener Nachrichten, 9 February 1979, in German

§Edwin Wolf 2nd, “You’ve come a long way Billy Blake”, Fine Print, V, 2 (April 1979), 60-61

§William Vaughan, Burlington Magazine, CXXI, 915
(June 1979), 394

§Jerrold Ziff, Art Bulletin, VI, 2 (June 1979), 326-28
(with 2 others)

William Blake and His Circle

Part II: Drawings and Paintings: Collections and Selections

- §William Vaughan, Burlington Magazine, CXXI, 915
(June 1979), 394
- §Anne K. Mellor, Studies in Romanticism, XVIII, 1, 76-
78 (Spring 1979) (with another)
- I.H. C[hayes], English Language Notes, VII (September 1979), 70
- §Anne K. Mellor [bis], Art Journal, XXXIX, 1 (Fall
1979) (with 3 others)
- §Raymond Lister, Journal of the Royal Society of Arts, November 1979 (with another)
- §Barbara Maria Stafford, Art Quarterly, NS II, (Winter 1979), 118-22 (with 4 others)
- §Victor H. Elbern, Das Münster, XXXII (1979), 349-50,
in German
- §Zachary Leader, Essays in Criticism, XXIX (1979),
81-88 (with another)
- Robert Wark, Blake, XII (1979), 211-12
- §William Vaughan, Burlington Magazine, CXXI, 915
(June 1979), 394
- §Kenneth Garlick, Apollo, CXV (1982), 510

William Blake Archive

Online Reproductions

Cumulation

Large Colour-Printed Drawings (1795, 1805)

“Christ Appearing” (National Gallery [Washington, D.C.], Tate, Yale Center for British Art)

“Elohim Creating Adam” (Tate)

- “God Judging Adam” (Metropolitan Museum [N.Y.], Philadelphia Museum, Tate)
- “Good and Evil Angels” (“Private Collection”, Tate)
- “Hecate” (Huntington, National Gallery of Scotland, Tate)
- “House of Death” (British Museum Print Room, Fitzwilliam Museum, Tate)
- “Lamech and His Two Wives” (Essick, Tate)
- “Naomi Entreating Ruth and Orpah” (Fitzwilliam Museum [on deposit from the Keynes Trust], Victoria and Albert Museum)
- “Nebuchadnezzar” (Museum of Fine Art [Boston], Minneapolis Institute of Arts, Tate)
- “Newton” (Philadelphia Museum of Art [on deposit from the Lutheran Church in America], Tate)
- “Pity” (British Museum Print Room, Metropolitan Museum [N.Y.], Tate, Yale Center for British Art)
- “Satan Exulting Over Eve” (Getty Museum, Tate)

Watercolours and Drawings

- Bible illustrations (64 watercolours, 24 temperas)
- Bible – Job sketchbook (Fitzwilliam Museum)
  - Job, Butts set (Morgan Library)
  - Linnell set (Fogg Museum <#1,3-20>, Private Collection [#2], National Gallery of Art [Washington])
- Blair, The Grave, drawings sold in 2006 (various)
- Dante, The Divine Comedy (various)
- Milton, L’Allegro and Il Penseroso (Morgan Library)
- Milton, Comus, Thomas set (Huntington)
  - Butts set (Museum of Fine Art [Boston])
- Milton, “On the Morning of Christ’s Nativity”, Thomas Set (Whitworth Art Gallery)
  - Butts set (Huntington)†

William Blake and His Circle

Part II: Drawings and Paintings: Collections and Selections

Milton, Paradise Lost, Thomas set (Huntington)

Butts set (Boston Museum of Fine Arts)

Linnell set† (Fitzwilliam, National Gallery of Victoria [Melbourne])

Milton, Paradise Regained (Fitzwilliam Museum)

Virgil, Pastorals, some (Fitzwilliam Museum)

Wollstonecraft, Original Stories (Library of Congress)

**William Blake at The Huntington: An Introduction to the William Blake Collection in The Henry E. Huntington Library and Art Gallery, San Marino, California* [by] Robert N. Essick (N.Y. and San Marino: Harry N. Abrams, Inc., Publishers In Association with The Henry E. Huntington Library and Art Gallery, 1994) 4°, 159 pp., 67 colour reproductions; ISBN: 0810925893

Edward J. Nygren, "Foreword" (p. 7); Essick, "Introduction" (pp. 9-21) plus a page of Commentary on each design. The reproductions include all 8 for Comus, 12 for Paradise Lost, and 6 for On the Morning of Christ's Nativity. A Book of the Month Club selection.

Essick's commentaries on Paradise Lost are corrected and repeated in Thirteen Watercolor Drawings by William Blake Illustrating Paradise Lost by John Milton (2004).

REVIEWS

*Kenneth Baker, "A Taste of Blake's Illuminated Books", San Francisco Chronicle, 23 October 1994 ("a concise, lucid, well-illustrated introduction")

Robin Hamlyn, Journal of the Blake Society at St James, I (1995), 22-26 ("an invaluable guide to the Huntington Blake holdings and an important addition to the Blake literature" [p. 25])

S.L.M., Gazette des Beaux-arts, 138<sup>e</sup> Année (1996), 19-20, in French (the book is edited by "l'un des principaux spécialistes actuels de Blake" and produced "en couleurs de grande qualité")

**William Blake: 2001 Calendar* ([No place:] The Ink Group [2000]) Square 4° (c. 12" x 12"), ISBN: 1876551674
Reproductions from Blakes in the Tate Gallery.

**William Blake Stained Glass Colouring Book* Rendered by Marty Noble (Mineola [N.Y.]: Dover Publications, 2005) 4°, 16 leaves and images; ISBN: 0486446670

William Blake: The Seer and His Visions, ed. Milton Klonksy (1977) <BBS>

REVIEWS

§John Spurling, New Statesman, XCIV (18 November 1977), 698

§Anatole Broyard, New York Times, 19 November 1977, section C, p. 22

§Ronald Paulson, Georgia Review, XXXII, 1 (Summer 1978), 435-43 (with 7 others)

§Anon., Choice, XV (1978), 58

§Kenneth Garlick, Apollo, NS CVII (1978), 439-40

§Tom Phillips, Times Literary Supplement, 13 February 1981, p. 169

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

*Gerda S. Norvig, Blake, XV, 4 (Spring 1982), 184-87

**William Blake: tizenhèt szines ès negyven fekets-fehèr kèppel.*
Ed. Adam Konopacki [Tr. Bihari Gabor.] (Budapest: Corvina; Varsò [Warsaw]: Arkady; Berlin: Henschelverlag, 1986) In Hungarian <BBS 183> B. **William Blake Mit sechzehn farbigen tafeln und vierzig einfarbigen Abbildungen.* [Tr.
Renate Böning] (Berlin, Warszawa, Budapest, Bratislava, 1986) Welt der Kunst. In German <BBS 183> C. William Blake [In the Circle of Art: William Blake] (Warszawa: Wydawnictwo Arkady, 1987) W kregu sztuki 72 pp.; ISBN:
8321332994 In Polish

Yale Center for British Art
Online Reproductions

| Title  | YCBE Reference No. |
|---|---------------------------|
| Albion Compelling the Four Zoas                                 | B1979.12.718              |
| Angel with a trumpet, for Blair's Grave<Butlin #611> | B1975.4.44                |
| Faulconberg Visionary Head                                      | B2008.17.2                |
| "Gambols of Ghosts" for Blair's Grave<#636>          | B1978.18                  |
| "God Creating the Universe"                                     | B1977.14.6009             |
| Thomas Gray designs   | B1992.8.11 (1-50)         |
| Thomas Alphonso Hayley  | B1979.12.741              |
| Hayley's House, entrance east front                             | B1981.25.2396             |
| "Joseph and Potiphar's Wife"                                    | B1977.14.4309             |
| Laocoon sketch  | B1985.14                  |
| "Moses Receiving the Law" <#111>                                | B1975.4.1883              |

|   |                  |
|---|------------------|
| Landscape with a spire <#371>   | B1977.14.4922    |
| "The Magdalen at the Sepulchre" <#504>  | B1975.4.1794     |
| "Satan Approaching the Court of Chaos"<#102>  | B1977.14.1450    |
| "Sealing the Stone"   | B1979.12.703     |
| "Socrates", Visionary Head <#714>   | B1975.4.42       |
| Study for a Destroying Deity  | B1977.14.6079    |
| Tiriel No. 1 <#198 1>  | B1977.14.1450    |
| Visionary Head <#759>   | B2008.17.1       |
| Visionary Head  | B1975.4.3        |
| Visionary Heads of 5 women <#765>   | B1975.4.1025     |
| "Widow Embracing the Turf which CoversHer Husband's Grave" for Blair's Grave<#633> | B1975.4.1026     |
| "The Wise and Foolish Virgins" <#480>   | B1977.14.6102    |
| Woody Landscape <#372>  | B1977.34.4923    |
| Job New Zealand copies   | B1992.8.7 (1-22) |

Separate Colour Prints

|                    |               |
|--------------------|---------------|
| "Christ Appearing" | B1979.12.1039 |
| "Pity" <#312>      | B1977.14.6321 |

Temperas

|   |            |
|---|------------|
| "Christ Giving Sight to Bartimaeus"<#420> | B1977.1490 |
| "The Horse" <#262A>                           |            |

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

Part III
COMMERCIAL BOOK ENGRAVINGS<sup>528</sup>
Section A
ILLUSTRATIONS OF INDIVIDUAL
AUTHORS<sup>529</sup>

ADAMS, Michael
New Royal Geographical Magazine
(1793, 1794)

1793 NEW LOCATIONS: British Library, Cambridge, Dalhousie, Union Theological Seminary

1794 NEW LOCATIONS: Cambridge (in 48 parts; also reproduced in Primary Source Microfilms), Leeds

ALLEN, Charles
A New and Improved History of England
(1797)

TITLE: A NEW AND IMPROVED | HISTORY OF
ENGLAND, | FROM | THE INVASION OF JULIUS
CÆSAR TO THE END OF THE | THIRTY-SEVENTH

---

<sup>528</sup> Many of the new locations for books with Blake's commercial engravings after Fuseli below, particularly those in Swiss libraries, derive from the admirable details in David Weinglass, Prints ... After Fuseli (1994).

<sup>529</sup> In 2010 for the first time I record contemporary references to separately issued prints by Blake. After 2015, I no longer record post-1863 sales of unremarkable copies of books with Blake's commercial engravings. For voluminous records of these, see Robert N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace", Blake, (2016 ff.)

YEAR OF THE REIGN | OF KING GEORGE THE THIRD
[i.e., 1797]. | - | By CHARLES ALLEN, A.M. | AUTHOR OF
THE ROMAN HISTORY &c. | - | THE SECOND EDITION,
| EMBELLISHED WITH FOUR COPPER PLATES, AND A
CHRONOLO- | GICAL CHART OF THE REVOLUTIONS
IN GREAT BRITAIN. | - | Concluding with a short but comprehensive Historical View | of Europe, from the abolition of the Monarchical form of | government in France; the military and naval operations, | with the conquests and revolutions in Italy to the | peace of Udina. The changes and revolutions in the | political state of the French Republic, and a more parti- | cular detail of the British History during that period. | = | LONDON: | PRINTED FOR J. JOHNSON, NO.
72, ST. PAUL'S | CHURCH-YARD. | - | 1798

This differs from the record in BB 521-22 in (1) the line-end after "parti-", (2) the double-rule before "LONDON", and (3) "1798" rather than "1797".

NEW LOCATIONS: Agence bibliographique de l'enseignement supérieur (Monpellier, France), Auburn (Montgomery), Auckland, Basel, Berne, Brandeis, Carleton (Ottawa), Cleveland Public Library, Davison College, Dickinson College, European University Institute (Istituto Universitaire Europeo [Fiesole, Italy]), Florida Southern College, Groningen, Hastings College of the Law, Kansas State, Kent State, Leiden, Macquarie, Massachusetts (Boston), Mississippi, Monash, Muhlenberg College, New Brunswick (Frederickton, St John), Oregon, Sarah Lawrence College, Simon Fraser, South Florida, Victoria (British Columbia), Virginia Commonwealth, Western Carolina, Wright State

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

The Harvard copy is reproduced online.

In some copies (e.g., Victoria University in the University of Toronto) is a leaf with an advertisement (perhaps set from standing type of the title page) for Allen's Roman History "EMBELLISHED WITH FOUR COPPER PLATES" [engraved by Blake] (1798) "FOR THE USE OF SCHOOLS" at 4s.

In at least one copy,<sup>530</sup> two words ("or Britain") in a nonsensical phrase ("the southern part of the island, or Britain,") in the "REMARKS on the use of the Chronological Chart annexed to this work" (p. [522]) have been deleted, and in other copies (e.g., Victoria University in the University of Toronto) four lines were reset to eliminate the solecism.

NEW LOCATIONS: Cambridge (2, 1 from the Keynes Collection), Edinburgh, Michigan, Mitchell Library (Glasgow), Mount Holyoke College, National Library of Ireland, National Library of Scotland, Pittsburgh, Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection), West Sussex Record Office

Pl. 2 "King John Absolved by Pandulph". The true-size drawing for it, acquired by R.N. Essick, "bears all the hallmarks of a work by Fuseli, including the characteristic left-hand hatching strokes". This is perhaps the clearest evidence to support the long-held belief that the designs to Allen's books are by Fuseli. The drawing was calked and counterproofed, presumably by Blake, onto the copperplate for engraving.<sup>531</sup>

---

<sup>530</sup> It bears the signature of Ruthven Todd (11 xii 1945) and the bookplate of Pamela and Raymond Lister and was generously shown me by the distinguished bookseller John Windle.

ALLEN, Charles
Roman History
(1797)

NEW LOCATIONS: Boston, British Library, Cambridge, Edinburgh, Liverpool, Mount Holyoke College, Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

Pl. 1 A “pre-publication proof” of pl. 1, with Blake’s signature but lacking the title and “P. 2.”, was acquired from John Windle by Robert N. Essick.

Anon.
Maria: A Novel
(London: T. Cadell, 1785)

See [Blower, Elizabeth], Maria: A Novel (London: T. Cadell, 1785).

Archaeologia
Vol. II (1773) <BBS>

NEW LOCATION: South Carolina

ARIOSTO, Lodovico
Orlando Furioso
(1783, 1785, 1791, 1799)

---

<sup>531</sup> R.N. Essick, “Blake in the Marketplace, 2004”, Blake, XXXVIII (2005).

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

1783 NEW LOCATIONS: Edinburgh, Tulsa (gift of Roger Easson), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

1785 NEW LOCATIONS: Glasgow, National Library of Scotland, Tulsa (gift of Roger Easson), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (2 copies, Bentley collection)

1791 NEW LOCATIONS: Oxford (Taylorian), Tulsa (gift of Roger Easson), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (2 copies, Bentley collection)

1799 NEW LOCATIONS: Aberdeen, Arkansas (Fayetteville), Augusta State, Bard College, Boston Athenaeum, British Columbia, Bryn Mawr College, California (Los Angeles), Cape Town, Cincinnati, City College (N.Y.), Clark, Colonial Williamsburg Foundation Research Library, Drake, Duke, Florida State, George Mason, Hobart & William Smith College, Illinois, Ireland (Maynooth), Johns Hopkins, Kent State, London, London Library, Louisiana State, Michigan State, Middlebury College, Monroe Community College, National Library of Wales, Nazareth College (Rochester, N.Y.), New Mexico, New York State Library, North Carolina, Northern Illinois, Pratt Institute, Queen's (Belfast), Rochester, Rochester Public Library, St John Fisher College, St Louis, Seton Hall, Stanford, Texas Tech, Trinity College (Dublin), Trinity College (Hartford, Connecticut), Tulsa (gift of Roger Easson), U.S. Air Force Academy, Victoria (British Columbia), Victoria & Albert Museum, Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection), Wabash College, Wales (Lampeter)

A copy of Blake's print in the Essick Collection has a plate-mark of 14.8 x 24.5 cm, whereas in the published version it is c. 13.5 x 19.0 cm.

Bellamy's Picturesque Magazine
I (1793)

NEW LOCATION: Northwestern

The Harvard copy is reproduced online.

Primary Source Microfilms reproduced it in microfilm in their Eighteenth Century Collection series (by 2005).

See The Cabinet of the Arts (1799) in which Blake's engraving of "F. Revolution" is reprinted.

EDITION

Bellamy's Picturesque Magazine (Gale Ecco Print Editions, 2010) 90 pp.; ISBN: 9781170817551 A digitized version

BIBLE

NEW ENGRAVING

Diamond Bible
(1832-34; 1836-37; 1840)

Engraved title page: DIAMOND | BIBLE | WITH | NOTES,
| BY THE | REV. H. STEBBING | M.A.M.R.S.L. &c | London:
| ALLAN BELL & CO. WARWICK SQUARE: | AND
SIMPKIN & MARSHALL, STATIONERS COURT. 1833.
[An elaborate wide border with Egyptian motifs separates the title from the imprint. The New Testament has a separate engraved title page with the same imprint but different lineation.]

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

Typeset title page: THE | HOLY BIBLE, | CONTAINING |
THE OLD AND NEW TESTAMENTS, | ACCORDING TO
THE AUTHORIZED VERSION. | - | WITH NOTES, |
PRACTICAL AND EXPLANATORY, BY THE | REV.
HENRY STEBBING, A.M. | MEMBER OF THE ROYAL
SOCIETY OF LITERATURE. | IN TWO VOLUMES. | VOL.
I. | LONDON: | ALLAN BELL & CO. WARWICK SQUARE,
| AND SIMPKIN & MARSHALL, STATIONERS' COURT; |
W. CURRY, JUN. & CO. DUBLIN; AND OLIVER | AND
BOYD, EDINBURGH. | MDCCCXXXIV [1834].

Vol. I consists of the Old Testament through Job; Vol. II is the rest of the Old Testament plus the New Testament. There are separate title pages for Psalms (Vol. I) and the New Testament (Vol. II).

B. Engraved title page: DIAMOND | BIBLE. | - | WITH |
NOTES, | BY THE | REV. H. STEBBING | M.A. M.R.S.L.
&C | LONDON | ALLAN BELL & CO. WARWICK
SQUARE. | AND SIMPKIN & MARSHALL, STATIONERS
COURT. | 1834 [i.e., the lettering is the same as in the first version but the date is altered from 1833 to 1834]

Typeset title page: THE | HOLY BIBLE, | CONTAINING |
THE OLD AND NEW TESTAMENTS, | ACCORDING TO
THE AUTHORIZED VERSION. | WITH NOTES, |
PRACTICAL AND EXPLANATORY, | BY THE | REV.
HENRY STEBBING, A.M. | MEMBER OF THE ROYAL
SOCIETY OF LITERATURE. | LONDON: | ALLAN BELL
& CO. AND SHEPHERD & SUTTON; | AND FRASER &
CO. EDINBURGH. | MDCCCXXXVI [1836]. [i.e., like the
1834 typeset title page except for the imprint: LONDON: |

ALLAN BELL & CO. WARWICK SQUARE, | AND
SIMPKIN & MARSHALL, STATIONERS' COURT; | W.
CURRY, JUN. & CO. DUBLIN; AND OLIVER | AND
BOYD, EDINBURGH. | MDCCCXXXIV [1834].]

C. §(Glasgow: D.A. Borrenstein, 1840)<sup>532</sup>

1832-34 LOCATIONS: British Library (1066.b.7-8 [reported here] and C.150.b.3 [lacks New Testament])

1834-36 LOCATION: Victoria University in the University of Toronto (with additional title pages for the Diamond New Testament [engraved, n.d.; typeset, 1836] Diamond Book of Psalms [London: Allan Bell and Co, and Simpkin and Marshall, 1834], for The Psalms of David[engraved, 1836; typeset: 1834])

1836-37 LOCATIONS: Cambridge, Glasgow, National Library of Scotland, St Andrews

1840 LOCATIONS: British Library, Glasgow

DATE: An advertisement in Leigh Hunt's London Journal for 30 April 1834, p. 40 <Stanford> says that the Diamond Bible was being re-issued in monthly Numbers with two steel engravings each. Since it identifies 56 prints (there were eventually 60), this implies that, if they appeared regularly, the first Number appeared in January 1832 and the last in June 1834. If the prints appeared in the order in which they are numbered, Blake's Job print was published with the Fifteenth monthly Number in March 1833.

PLATES: There are 60 steel-plate illustrations 11.5 x 6.5 cm

---

<sup>532</sup> The details for 1836-37 and 1840 come from T.H. Darlow and H.F. Moule, Historical Catalogue of Printed Editions of The English Bible 1525-1961, rev. A.S. Herbert (London: The British and Foreign Bible Society; N.Y.: The American Bible Society, 1968), No. 1801.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

engraved by W.H. Lizars after Great Masters. No. 30 is Blake's "Job and His Family".

At Vol. I, p. 632 is an engraving with "BLAKE." at the top, "JOB AND HIS FAMILY." below the design within a framing-line and, below the framing-line: "Lizars sc. | Drawn & Engraved for Allan Bell & C.<sup>o</sup> Warwick Square, London, 1833." Lizars altered the shape of Blake's Job pl. "1" (Job in prosperity) from portrait to landscape, shortening it vertically (replacing sheep at the bottom with a little foliage) and extending it horizontally (with additional sleeping sheep). The sky at the right has been altered from black to daylight, with the consequent loss of a star.

This is the first time any of Blake's Job plates were copied by another engraver. Lizars' engraving is copied in The English Version of the Polyglott Bible (1836) (see the reproduction in Blake, XXXVIII [2005], 137).

William Hone Lizars of Edinburgh subscribed for sets of Job in June 1831 and August 1832 (the last "for a friend" (BR (2) 545, 551, 793, 804).

There was also The Devotional Diamond Bible, ed. Wm Gurney (London, 1821), illustrated, and Diamond Bible (Greenfield [Massachusetts]: W. and H. Merriam, 1842).

REVIEWS, Puffs, &c.

An advertisement<sup>533</sup> for Allan, Bell and Co.'s Books (1833) includes "The Diamond Bible ... each

---

<sup>533</sup> At the end of Sir William Jardine, Naturalist's Library Mammalia I Monkeys (Edinburgh: W.H. Lizars and Stirling and Kenney; London: Longman and Co.; Dublin: W. Curry Junr, 1833) <Universiteitsbibliotheek Ghent>.

Number comprising 48 pages letterpress, and two beautiful Steel Plates from Drawings of the Great Masters.” Also a Diamond New Testament and Diamond Book of Common Prayer. They also advertise The Illustrated Family Bible, ed. Henry Stebbins with “Plates ... coloured in a very superior manner, by MR LIZARS”, folio

Literary Gazette, XVIII, 892 (22 February 1834), 136
(Vol. I is “An extremely neat volume; appropriately illustrated by engravings after celebrated pictures”)

Leigh Hunt’s London Journal, No. 5 (30 April 1834), 40
<Stanford> (an advertisement for “Re-Issue, In Monthly Parts at One Shilling, and in Numbers at Six Pence, of the Diamond Bible and Book of Common Prayer ... [ed.] Rev. H. Stebbing ... Each Number to comprise Forty-eight pages letter-press and Two Steel Engravings.” The list of Illustrations to the Diamond Bible includes “30 Job and his Family. Blake”. It quotes reviews in the Weekly Times, Literary Gazette, and Evangelical Register. The prayer book has seven designs after “Stoddard” or “Stoddart”, i.e., Stothard)

Analyst [London], I (August 1834), 70 <Michigan>
(under “New Publications, From June 7 to July 15, 1834” is “Stebbing’s Diamond Bible, 12mo. 16s. 6d.”)

An integral advertisement in Sir William Jardine, The Naturalist’s Library: Ornithology Vol. III Gallinaceous Birds (London, 1834) <Bodley> recommends The Diamond Pocket Bible, ed.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

Stebbings, with “Sixty Illustrations”

The English Version of the Polyglott Bible
(1836)

The anonymous engraving for “Job and His Family” derives from the engraving by Lizars in The Diamond Bible (1832-34).

The Protestants Family Bible
(1780-81)

NEW LOCATION: Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

The Royal Universal Family Bible
(1781-82; 1781, 1784, 1785)

Vol. I (1780 [i.e., 1781]), Vol. II (1781 [i.e., 82])

NEW LOCATIONS: Cambridge, Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection), Wormsley Library (bound by Samuel Hazard of Bath)

Vol. I (1781), Vol. II Old Testament (1784), New Testament (1785) NEW LOCATION: Wittenberg

אוב ספך *Illustrations of The Book of Job
(1826, 1874)

1826 NEW LOCATIONS: Art Gallery of New South Wales (Sydney, Australia), Brooklyn Museum, California Legion of Honor Museum (San Francisco) (“Proofs”), Cincinnati Art Museum (india paper plus another plus pre-publication of proofs numbered 6-7 plus “Plates 3, 8, 17 (numbered ‘6,’ ‘7,’ ‘16’)”, Duke, Felsted School (Felsted, Essex) (reproduced in the 1996 February 2-April 7 catalogue of the Fundación "la Caixa" in Madrid, plates 64a-x), Glasgow (Hunterian Museum of Art Gallery), Indianapolis Museum of Art, Kanagawa Kindai Bijutsukan [Kanagawa Modern Fine Art Museum, Japan], Leeds, Liverpool, Manchester, Museum of Fine Arts (Boston), National Library of Australia, New Art Gallery (Walsall), North Carolina (Greensboro), Royal Academy, Santa Barbara Museum, Tennyson Research Centre (Lincolnshire Archives, signed on the flyleaf “Alfred Tennyson, Farringford Freshwater I.W. [Isle of Wight]”,<sup>534</sup> prints reproduced online via [www.lincstothe past.com](http://www.lincstothe past.com)), Trinity College (Oxford, given in 1899), Wesleyan, Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

COPIES OF UNRECORDED DATE NEW LOCATIONS: Albertina Museum (Vienna, Austria), Art Gallery of New South Wales (Sydney, Australia), Auckland City Art Gallery, Fogg Museum (Harvard University), Indianapolis Museum of Art, Mount Holyoke College, Sterling and Francine Clark Art Institute (Williamstown [Massachusetts])

According to Rosenbach's acquisition card, a copy in "original boards, with label, having on it an Ms. note: '---'s copy of proofs presented to G. Wyther, Esqr. by John Linnell, Dec. 2 1863", "Horns" [$125.00], sale price "260.<sup>00</sup>", was "Sold to Mrs Landon K Thorne 2|25|63".

Another copy was recorded on the Rosenbach acquisition

---

<sup>534</sup> Tennyson kept “Book of Job” “On the Round Table in the Drawing Room” at Farringford, according to his list of books (reproduced in Times Literary Supplement, 5 July 2013, p. 3).

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

card as "21 plates. Folio, green morocco. Inscribed on fly 'Milton Riviere. This book came to me at my Father's death in 1876. He had it from Blake, having subscribed for it on its publication.'" "[fr. P. Hofer, on exchg.]"

PROOFS: "Illustrations to the Book of Job; 22 plates, artist's proofs on india paper, large paper, with MS. draft of the binder's label in the autograph of John Linnell, Senr. (the friend of Blake), with a note to the effect that 'These plates are engraved by Mr. Blake with the graver only (that is without the aid of aqua fortis),' bds. From the Collection of the late John Linnell, Junr. Fol. Published by the author, 1825", were sold by Hodgson and Co., 28-30 April 1908, lot 574 [£11.5.0].

"Illustrations of the Book of Job; 22 plates, a set of artist's proofs before the imprint, showing several interesting points of difference when compared with the finished proofs in the preceding, cut down lot to sm. 4to size, hf. russ. From the Collection of J. Linnell, Senr. 1825" were sold in the same Hodgson catalogue, lot 575 [£2.0.0].

The set of pl. 1-2, 4-11 in the Fogg Museum (Harvard University) is reproduced online.

The sets in Tate Britain (1874) and the Yale Center for British Art are reproduced online.

NEWLY RECORDED

Thirteen "excessively rare" "EARLY Proof Impressions" of Job plates numbered 1-3, 6-8, 11, 14, 16-17, 19-21 were offered in Quaritch Rough List 73 (November 1885), lot 55 (£10.0.0) and are now untraced.

Working proofs for Job are reproduced in the National Gallery of Art (Washington, D.C.) online catalogue.

Dimensions of the Copperplates<sup>535</sup> in Centimetres

| Plate | Width | Height | Thickness |
|--------------|--------------|---------------|------------------|
| 1 Title page | 16.5         | 21.3          | 0.143            |
| 2 pl. "1"    | 16.6         | 20.0          | 0.114            |
| 3 pl. "2"    | 17.1         | 21.8          | 0.149            |
| 4 pl. "3"    | 17.1         | 22.0          | 0.145            |
| 5 pl. "4"    | 17.1         | 21.9          | 0.159            |
| 6 pl. "5"    | 17.1         | 22.0          | 0.152            |
| 7 pl. "6"    | 17.2         | 21.9          | 0.153            |
| 8 pl. "7"    | 17.2         | 22.0          | 0.149            |
| 9 pl. "8"    | 17.0         | 21.9          | 0.160            |
| 10 pl. "9"   | 17.1         | 22.0          | 0.155            |
| 11 pl. "10"  | 17.2         | 21.9          | 0.146            |
| 12 pl. "11"  | 17.1         | 21.8          | 0.147            |
| 13 pl. "12"  | 17.0         | 22.0          | 0.150            |
| 14 pl. "13"  | 17.0         | 21.9          | 0.153            |
| 15 pl. "14"  | 16.6         | 20.8          | 0.100            |
| 16 pl. "15"  | 17.1         | 21.9          | 0.160            |
| 17 pl. "16"  | 16.6         | 20.2          | 0.106            |
| 18 pl. "17"  | 17.1         | 22.1          | 0.152            |
| 19 pl. "18"  | 17.2         | 22.0          | 0.146            |

---

<sup>535</sup> The surface dimensions of the copperplates in the British Museum Print Room were measured by GEB on the versos; the thickness was recorded by Jenny Bescoby, Conservator at the British Museum Print Room, in Print Quarterly, XXI (2004), 26 n22.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

|             |      |      |       |
|-------------|------|------|-------|
| 20 pl. "19" | 17.1 | 21.9 | 0.156 |
| 21 pl. "20" | 17.1 | 22.0 | 0.154 |
| 22 pl. "21" | 17.1 | 21.9 | 0.155 |

Plates with significantly different thickness cannot have been cut from the same sheet of copper.

Pl. "1" For an adaptation of the design, see Bible (1836) below.

Under the terms of the "Memorandum of Agreement between William Blake and John Linnell. March 25th 1823", "J.L. [was to] find Copper Plates" (BR [2] 386). According to his "Account of Expenses of the Book of Job", Linnell paid for three lots each of "6 copper Plates for Job" in "1823" at £1.0.0, £1.2.0, and £1.3.7 and for two more in 1825 [by 3 March] at 6s (BR (2) 804).

The 18 Job copperplates acquired in 1823 were almost certainly the 18 plates (pl. 3-14, 16, 18-22) of uniform width (17.0 to 17.2 cm), height (21.8 to 22.1 cm), and thickness (0.145 to 0.160 cm), all bearing the same copperplate-maker's mark slanting down from the top left corner: R PONTIFEX & C | 22 LISLE STREET | SOHO LONDON. Crossing marks on the versos of these copperplates show that they were cut from three large sheets of copper which already bore these crossing marks.<sup>536</sup> The cost of the 18 copperplates was at the rate of 11.6 g for a penny.

The two copperplates acquired early in 1825 are almost certainly pl. 15 and 17 which are on the versos of copperplates

---

<sup>536</sup> Mei-Ying Sung, "Technical and Material Studies of William Blake's Engraved Illustrations of The Book of Job (1826)", Nottingham Trent University Ph.D. (2005), 148-51, generously sent to me.

originally used for Pl. II-III of Henri Louis Duhamel du Monceau, A Practical Treatise of Husbandry [tr. John Mills] (1762); these differ significantly from the first 18 copperplates in width (16.6 cm), height (20.8 and 20.2 cm), and thickness (0.100 and 0.106). The cost of the Duhamel plates was at the rate of 8.6 g for a penny.

The two copperplates not represented in Linnell's "Account of Expenses of the Book of Job" are apparently pl. 1-2, the title page and the first design, which are narrower (16.5 and 16.6 cm), shorter (21.3 and 20.0 cm), and thinner (0.143 and 0.114 cm) than the first 18 plates purchased. Pl. 1 verso bears vertically at the bottom right corner the copperplate-maker's mark of G HARRIS | N<sup>o</sup> 31<sup>537</sup> | SHOE LANE | LONDON (part of the first line cut off), and pl. 2 has the PONTIFEX mark. At least the second of them, pl. 2, must have been acquired before 1825, for at Samuel Palmer's "never-to-be forgotten first interview" with Blake, "the copper of the first plate – 'Thus did Job continually'[Job pl. 2] – was lying on the table where he had been working at it" (BR(2) 391); the date must be before 9 October 1824 when Palmer called on Blake with Linnell (BR(2) 400). At the rate of the other PONTIFEX plates (11.6 g for a penny), the cost would have been 5s 8d.

Linnell drafted a description of the work:<sup>538</sup>

Blake's Illustrations of the Book of Job.

---

<sup>537</sup> Not "No 3", as in BB 518.

<sup>538</sup> Essick Collection: Watermark: JOHN HALL.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

Consisting of 22 Plates engraved by himself upon Copper from his own Designs
Price to Subscribers -- -- --      [£]3.3. -
Proof on India paper                5.5 -
Subscription --                        1.—
received by the Author W<sup>m</sup> Blake 3 Fountain Court, Strand
or M<sup>r</sup>. J. Linnell 6. Cirencester Place Fitzroy sq.<sup>r</sup> -- These Plates are engraved entirely by Mr Blake with the graver only (that is without the aid of Aqua fortis).<sup>539</sup>

However, no printed version of this description is known. As Linnell wrote to Colnaghi in January 1830, "The work has never yet been advertized".

The printed label is similar in substance except that (1) there are said to be 21 plates (omitting the title page); (2) Blake is described as "Author of Designs to 'Blair's Grave,' 'Young's Night Thoughts, &c.'"; (3) The prices are given only in manuscript with India paper proofs at £6.6.; (4) The date is added ("March 1826"); and (5) The last sentence of the draft is omitted.

T.H. Cromeck wrote that about 1863

I lunched at Mr Monckton Milnes'. I had a great treat looking at his fine collection of Blake's

---

<sup>539</sup> The manuscript is with a copy of the 1808 quarto India paper proofsoffered in John Windle Catalogue 46 (2009), lot 8; Mr Windle generously sent me a reproduction of the MS.

drawings and his printed works – Of the latter he has a [coloured] copy [A] of Young's 'Night Thoughts' – and 'Job', coloured by Blake. At the beginning of one of these he has inserted Phillips' portrait of Blake a watercolour drawing, the same size as Schiavonetti's engraving. He is in a pale blue coat. This drawing belonged to my father.<sup>540</sup>

No coloured set of the Job engravings is known, and I do not know where the Phillips watercolour portrait of Blake is.

REVIEW

Anon., "Mr. William Blake ...", Star Chamber, No. 4 (Wednesday, 3 May 1826), 73 (admiring reference to the publication of Blake's Job)

EDITIONS OF THE ENGRAVINGS

**Illustrations of the Book of Job Invented and Engraved by William Blake 1825[,]* Reduced in Facsimile by Alfred Dawson 1880.

Phillips's portrait of Blake as engraved by Schiavonetti and the 22 Job prints, all reduced in size, are reproduced as "photo-intaglios" by the Typographic Etching Co. as in the Second Edition of Gilchrist (1880) <BB>, where the method and the company are identified. (The portrait of Blake was added in 1880, and different versions of the Job prints appeared in the first edition of 1863.) The only text is the title above on the blue upper cover. The 23 India-paper prints (on rectos of laid paper backing leaves 32.5 x 24.5 cm, much larger than in

---

<sup>540</sup> T.H. Cromeck, "Recollections of conversations with Mr. John Pye", 1863-64, Volume Six in the Cromeck Archive, quoted in the 2008 Catalogue p. [45].

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

Gilchrist) are loose in the folder. The only copy known to me is in the collection of Professor Robert N. Essick.

Illustrations of the Book of Job Invented and Engraved by William Blake. A New Edition (London: Methuen, 1903) The Illustrated Pocket Library of Plain and Coloured Books <BB> B. (N.Y.: D. Appleton and Company, 1903) C. (London: Methuen, 1904)

The 1903 edition is in Small and Large (100) Paper copies.

REVIEW

Anon., “Blake’s Plates of Job”, New York Times, 21 February 1903

Illustrations of the Book of Job, ed. Laurence Binyon (1906) <BB>

REVIEW

§Anon., “William Blake”, Times Literary Supplement, 11 January 1907 (with 3 others)

*Coutts, Francis. The Heresy of Job: with the Inventions of William Blake (London and N.Y., 1907) <BB #427> B. §([Whitefish, Montana]: Kessinger Publishing, 2010) 196 pp.; ISBN: 9781120888432

Illustrations of The Book of Job Invented& Engraved by William Blake 1825 (London: Frederick Hollyer, 1923). <BB>

According to a prospectus (?1923), 225 copies were produced at £3.3.0.

The Book of Job (1927) <BB>

REVIEW

§Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 15 September 1927
(with another)

§The Story of Stories: The Book of Job with an Introduction by Lawrence Montague Lande (Montréal: [L. Lande], 1946) [10], 157 pp.

It includes reproductions of all Blake's Job prints.

Blake's Job: William Blake's Illustrations of the Book of Job, ed. S. Foster Damon (1966, 1967, 1969, 1972) <BB>

REVIEWS

John E. Grant, Philological Quarterly, XLVI, 3 (July 1967), 328-29

Jeffry Spencer, Blake, XII, 2 (Fall 1978)

§**The Book of Job Translated in Rhyme* by J.H. Schwarz with William Blake's Illustrations (Peoria, Illinois: Rev. J.H. Schwarz, 1974)

It includes reproductions of "proof" impressions of all Blake's prints save the title page.<sup>541</sup>

William Blake's Illustrations to the Book of Job: The Engravings and related material, ed. David Bindman and

---

<sup>541</sup> The information derives from R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace 2010", Blake, XLIV (2011), 131.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

Illustrations of the Book of Job: Plates, ed. Bo Lindberg (1987) The William Blake Trust <BBS> – see under Art

**Blake's Illustrations for the Book of Job* (N.Y.: Dover Publications, Inc., 1995) 4°, pp. iv, 60; ISBN: 0486287653 B. §(2007) ISBN: 97804896287652

All 21 engravings are reproduced in Samuel Terrien, The Iconography of Job Through the Centuries (1996).

§**El Libro de Job*. Tr. Fray Luis de Leon [1527-91]. Ilustraciones de William Blake. Introducción de Jorge Luis Borges (Lima: Pontificia Universidad Católica del Perú, 2000) El Manantial Oculto 24 cm, 186 pp. In Spanish

§Jobs bog (2009) ISBN: 9788750524371 In Danish

§**William Blake's Illustrations of the Book of Job*. With a Commentary by Dr Udo Szekulics (Vienna: Dr Udo Szekulics, 2010) 64 pp.; ISBN: 97832000171382

Includes full-size reproductions of Blake's 22 engravings.

§**Illustrations of the Book of Job* ([Charleston, South Carolina]: Nabu Press, 2010) 52 pp.; ISBN: 9781176714991

All 22 prints are reproduced in John Windle, Pictorial Blake (2011).

Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

**William Blake's Illustrations of the Book of Job* (e-artnow, 2013) ISBN: 978807484425

Probably from a copy in the Library of Congress -- see The Complete Illustrated Books of William Blake.

**Ilustraciones al Libro de Job.* Tr. Raquel Duato (Madrid: La Fulguera Editores, 2014) Colección Artefactos. 8º, 128 pp.; ISBN: 9788494218736, with reproductions of all the prints Spanish translations of inscriptions facing each print

"Nota de los editores" (pp. 11-12)

Javier Calvo, "Prólogo: Satanás contra la imaginación" (pp. 13-27), mostly paraphrasing Kathleen Raine

"Nota de la traductora" (pp. 31-32)

§**Illustrations of the Book of Job* (Bookpubber, 2014) 64 pp., with reproductions of 22 engravings. [No edition identified, no ISBN given.]

Diamond Bible
(1832-34; 1836-37; 1840)

A (1832-34) NEW LOCATION: Victoria University in the University of Toronto

Bible
(1836)

THE | ENGLISH VERSION | OF THE | POLYGLOTT
BIBLE: | CONTAINING THE | Old and New Testaments, |
TOGETHER WITH | A COPIOUS AND ORIGINAL
SELECTION OF REFERENCES, | TO PARALLEL AND
ILLUSTRATIVE PASSAGES. | EXHIBITED IN A
MANNER HITHERTO UNATTEMPTED. | - |

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

NORTHAMPTON [Massachusetts]—J.H. BUTLER. |
BUFFALO [New York]—T. AND M. BUTLER. | 1836.
[Within a double frame of rules.] 6.8 x 11.0 cm <R.N. Essick Collection>

An engraving labelled “Job and His Family” (“Blake”-Anon.), image c. 5.8 x 9.0 cm, derives from Blake’s Job pl. “1” (16.5 x 21.3 cm). In it the foreground sheep are omitted, two are moved to the flocks at the left and right, and a band of foliage is added. This is apparently the earliest repetition of Blake’s Job designs.

This tiny Bible, of a “convenient size for the Pocket”, with a Preface signed “T.C.” as “the Editor”, may be rare; at any rate it, the Butlers, Northampton, and Buffalo do not appear in Historical Catalogue of Printed Editions of The English Bible 1525-1961 Revised and Expanded from the Edition of T.H. Darlow and H.F. Moule 1903 by A.S. Herbert (London: The British and Foreign Bible Society; N.Y.: The American Bible Society, 1968).

The Polyglott in the title is justified only in the work from which the Butler edition was indirectly pirated: The English Version of the Polyglott Bible... With a ... selection of references to parallel and illustrative passages (London: Samuel Bagster, [1815,] 1816), with a Preface signed “T.C.” for Thomas Chevalier; this English Version appeared with separately-issued versions of the Bible in Hebrew, Greek, Latin, French, German, Italian, and Spanish (D&M #1628). Bagster’s English Version was reprinted in 1819, 1825, 1826, 1828, 1831, 1833, 1834, 1838 [1840?], [1844] (3 varieties)

(D&M #1628) and in U.S. editions of 1825 [Philadelphia: Thomas Wardle, D&M #1748], 1831 [Philadelphia: Key and Meikle, D&M #1785], 1837, 1841, 1842, and 1844 a total of “well over a hundred [U.S. versions of Bagster’s Polyglott] reprinted within fifty years” (D&M #1628, 1785). Plainly the English text of Bagster’s Polyglott was freely pirated and frequently reprinted; apparently the only remarkable feature of the 1836 edition is in the illustrations.

BLAIR, Robert

The Grave

(1808, 1813, 1847, 1858, [1870], 1879)

1808 Quarto NEW LOCATIONS: Adelphi, Auckland Public Library, Baylor, Boston, Boston Athenaeum, Brown, Bryn Mawr College, California (Los Angeles, Santa Barbara, Santa Cruz), Cape Town, Carnegie Mellon, Chicago, Cincinnati Art Museum, City College, Claremont College, Cleveland Museum of Art, Dayton, Duke, Georgetown, Harvard (Villa i Tatti), Hoffstra, Hong Kong, Kanagawa Kindai Bijutsukan [Kanagawa Modern Fine Art Museum, Japan], Kansas, Johns Hopkins, Kennesaw State, Lafayette College, Manitoba, Nebraska (Lincoln), North Carolina (Chapel Hill), North Texas, Northern Illinois, Northwestern, Ohio State, Providence Public Library, Rochester, Rutgers, St Joseph’s, Temple, Texas Christian, Victoria & Albert Museum, University Art Museum (Kyoto City University of Arts), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection, 4 copies, plus Northrop Frye's copy), Wake Forest(grey stiff paper wrappers), Washington (Seattle), Washington State, Wesleyan (Connecticut), Western Ontario, Williams College, Wisconsin (Milwaukee), York (Toronto)

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

1808 A-B NEW LOCATIONS: Aberdeen, Birmingham, Brooklyn Museum, Cincinnati Art Museum, Glasgow, King's College (Cambridge), Leeds, Manchester, National Library of Wales, Newcastle, Sheffield, Trevelyn Library (Wallington Hall, Northumberland, property of The National Trust), Trinity College (Dublin), University Art Museum (Kyoto City University of Arts)

1813 Folio NEW LOCATIONS: Liverpool Public Library, Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

1813 [i.e., 1870] THE | GRAVE, |[Gothic:] A Poem| Illustrated by twelve Etchings | Executed | BY | LOUIS SCHIAVONETTI | from the Original | Inventions | OF | WILLIAM BLAKE. | 1808 [Ackermann imprint 1813 (i.e., Camden Hotten, 1870)]

NEW LOCATIONS: Brown, California (San Diego), Queen Mary (University of London), Skidmore, Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection), York (Toronto)

1813 COPIES OF UNRECORDED FORMAT NEW LOCATIONS: Auckland Public Library, Kent (Canterbury), Kongelige Bibliotek (Copenhagen), Mount Holyoke College, Pembroke College (Cambridge), Rijksmuseum (Amsterdam), St John's College (Cambridge), Southampton, Trinity College (Cambridge), Victoria & Albert Museum (2 copies)

1847 NEW LOCATION: Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

1858 NEW LOCATION: Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

1879 NEW LOCATION: Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

1879 The Grave, A Poem (N.Y.: James Miller, 779 Broadway [c. 1879]) <BBS>

The 1808 engravings in the copy in the Yale Center for British Art are reproduced online.

The copy in Victoria University in the University of Toronto is a portfolio of engravings only, no text, in a cover blind-stamped with designs identical to those on the Victoria University in the University of Toronto copy of the Hotten 1870 facsimile, the prints with the same variants of lettering [replacing the Spanish of 1826] as in 1870, e.g., "Tis" [lacking the apostrophe] in the quotation for pl. 7, "The descent of Man").

Working Proof

A working proof of "Death's Door" (pl. 11) etched by Schiavonetti was acquired in 2014 through Sotheran's by VICTORIA UNIVERSITY IN THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO.

LEAF SIZE: 21.5 x 32 cm

WATERMARK: None

PLATE SIZE: 17.3 x 29.2 (as in 1808)

INSCRIPTIONS: "Drawn by W. Blake", "Etched by L. Schiavonetti", "London Published May 1.st 1806 by Cadell & Davies Strand" (the version in 1808 adds at the top right "P. 32", below the title adds "Tis but a Night, a long and moonless Night, | We make the Grave our Bed, and then are gone!", and the year is changed to "1808"). (Another copy of this proof is in the Biblioteca la Solana.)

The frontispiece portrait of Blake (T. Phillips-L. Schiavonetti) exists in a recently discovered "pre-publication proof lacking all letters and before considerable finishing work

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

in the design, India paper laid on heavy wove paper without watermark, leaf trimmed inside the platemark to 33.6 x 24.3 cm" (Biblioteca La Solana). "The Blake portrait is in the same early st. as the proof, on heavy laid paper" in the FITZWILLIAM MUSEUM. Perhaps these are the two "unfinished" proofs of the portrait of Blake for Blair's Grave offered at Christie's, 22-23 July 1814, lot 250.

The "Proof" of the title page "from the very rare folio proof edition" (1808) "colored, clearly by a contemporary hand ... [with] a very strong connection to Blake's and Mrs. Blake's palette", was offered in John Windle Catalogue Forty-Two (2006), No. 5 (reproduced vastly reduced in size and in black and white, Price on Request). According to Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2006", Blake, XL (2007), 131,

The hand coloring shows some skill on the descending figure, but amateurish carelessness in the coloring of the flames. This colorist would not seem to be the same as the artist who coloured all the Blake pls. in a copy of the 1808 quarto issue now in the Huntington Library.

For the History of the drawings, see above under Art.

An 1808 quarto copy in "Original dark gray boards, printed paper label on upper cover", is offered in John Windle Catalogue 46 (2009), lot 48.

The Blair engravings (1808) and the separate print of "Death's Door" engraved by Blake were added to the William Blake Archive in 2003.

Cromek may also have issued a suite of prints from the 1808 folio issue (marked "Proof Copy") without the text save for the four-leaf description "Of the Designs" and the integral prospectus for Stothard's Canterbury Pilgrims (with the signature F as in the quarto), as in the copy acquired in 1995 by R.N. Essick (see his "Blake in the Marketplace, 1995", Blake, XXIX [1996]).

B.H. Malkin's important letter of 4 January 1806 (BR (2) 561-72), showing the variety of Blake's talents (like the "Advertisement" to Poetical Sketches [1783]) and praising Blake's watercolours for Blair's Grave and Fuseli's encomium of them printed in the two prospectuses for it of November 1805 (BR (2) 211, 215), which is of such tenuous relevance as printed in Malkin's Father's Memoirs of His Child (1806), may have been drafted as the "Preface ... by BENJAMIN HEATH MALKIN" advertised in the November 1805 Prospectus to The Grave. The part of the "Preface Containing an Explanation of the Artist's View in the Designs" (November 1805) probably became the essay "Of the Designs" in The Grave (1808), 33-36.

The copy of the 1808 quarto for which Robert Scott of Edinburgh subscribed (its effect upon him is described in Autobiographical Notes of the Life of William Bell Scott, ed. William Minto [1892], I, 21-22), with (1) a description of "1844" by his son David Scott (quoted somewhat approximately in Gilchrist, 377 [BR (2) 257]), (2) The bookplate and signature of his other son William Bell Scott ("5 March 1849"), and (3) a sonnet by W. B. Scott<sup>542</sup> was

---

<sup>542</sup> Quoted in Scott's Autobiographical Notes [1892], I, 23-24, and in George Goyder, "An Unpublished [sic] Poem about Blake by William Bell Scott, 'On seeing again after many years William Blake's designs for "the Grave"'", Blake

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

(4)acquired by George Goyder and sold with his library at Christie's, 26 November 1997, lot 103, to (5)Dr. A.E.K.L.B. Bentley for G. E. Bentley, Jr; they gave it in 2006 to (6)VICTORIA UNIVERSITY IN THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO.

A copy of the 1808 quarto bound in "calf, extra, gilt edges [by Edwards of Halifax]", was offered in Dulaw and Company, Ltd Catalogue 182, Rare Books ([London]: 32 Old Bond Street, [?1931]), lot 182, £120, and has not since been traced.

A slip mounted in a copy of the 1808 large quarto is inscribed "Mr. Cromek begs Mr. Bromley's acceptance of this Book. July 20. 1808";<sup>543</sup> the engraver "William Bromley, Hammersmith" had subscribed for the work. On 14 August 1808 Cromek had written similarly to George Cumberland implying that he was sending as a gift the copy for which the recipient had subscribed (BR (2) 262-63).

NEWLY DISCOVERED WORKING PROOFS

Frontispiece: A proof lacking the imprint but with the other lettering was offered on the eBay electronic auction of April 2002, according to R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2002", Blake, XXXVI (2003).

Plate 1: The title page lacking the imprint and the "Proof Copy" inscription was sold with all 13 prints with the collection of Joseph Holland and Vincent Newton by John

---

Newsletter, X [1976], 125.

<sup>543</sup> Maggs Bros Ltd Catalogue 1286, Private Press, Illustrated, Typographical and Fine Printed Books (2000), lot 39; this copy bears ownership marks of Harold P. Mellor, R.A., and Douglas Cleverdon.

Windle Catalogue 26 (December 1995), lot 7, Price on Enquiry [$375 to R.N. Essick].

Plate 4: "The Counsellor, King, Warrior, Mother & Child in the Tomb", on a leaf without watermark 23.4 x 14.6 x 0.22 cm thick, was acquired by Essick in 2013. It lacks some hatching strokes but has "a small patch of hatching on the central extension of the counsellor's beard" not present in later states; it was "probably burnished off the pl."<sup>544</sup>

Plate 11 Proof (1806), inscribed "DEATH'S DOOR. | Tis but a Night, a long and Moonless Night. | We make the Grave our Bed, & then are gone. | London Published by R.H. Cromek Feb<sup>y</sup> 1st 1806", "Drawn by W<sup>m</sup> Blake", "Etched by L. Schiavonetti." (offered online in May 2012 for £220 by Grosvenor Prints [London], bought by John Windle and sold immediately to Victoria University in the University of Toronto).

This makes three known copies of the 1806 proof:<sup>545</sup>

R.N. ESSICK copy

LEAF SIZE: 24.8 x 39.2 cm

PLATE MARK: 20.3 x 35.7 cm

WATERMARK: Laid paper without watermark.

VICTORIA UNIVERSITY IN THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO copy

LEAF SIZE: 20.3 x 31.4 cm. Top and bottom edges deckled, bottom torn with ragged edges

PLATE MARK: None visible (N.B. The leaf size is smaller than the plate-mark in the Essick copy)

---

<sup>544</sup> R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2013", Blake, XLVII, 3 (Winter 2013-2014), gives a detailed description of the unique features of the proof.

<sup>545</sup> Much of this information derives from an E-mail from Robert N. Essick to me of 30 Nov 2012.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

WATERMARK: Laid paper (faint horizontal chain-lines [as in a quarto] 3 cm apart) of indifferent quality (there are thin places where droplets of water from the vat fell on it); two-thirds of the way up the left margin of the printed side is a rectangular shape (4.5 cm high, 3 cm wide, cut off by the margin) which must be from a watermark, and the bottom margin has very faint regular rectangular shapes for which I cannot account

Untraced: Recorded in A.G.B. Russell, The Engravings of William Blake (London: Grant Richards, 1912), 130, then in the collection of F.W. Bourdillon

WATERMARK: "J. Whatman, 1806"; the watermark distinguishes it from the Essick and Victoria University copies. The first published state in the folio edition (1808) reads "Drawn by W Blake" (not "W<sup>m</sup> Blake" as in the 1806 proof here), "Death's Door" (not "DEATH'S DOOR" as in the 1806 proof), and omits the verse and imprint below "DEATH'S DOOR".

Kathryn Barush reports nine previously unrecorded loose copies of Blair prints in the Ashmolean Museum, Oxford,<sup>546</sup>

---

<sup>546</sup> They are not listed in the published catalogue of the Douce bequest to the Bodleian Library (1840).

Their discovery is reported by Kathryn Barusch, "Visions of Mortality: The vast collection of antiquarian Francis Douce incorporated a wide range of images of death and their afterlife. These included a set of William Blake's designs for The Grave, now in Oxford's Ashmolean Museum, resonant Romantic additions to an age-old pictorial tradition", Apollo, No. 605 (2013), 56-62, which reproduces No. 1, 3, 5, 8-9 on a greatly reduced scale, but not the proof of No. 10 (the Good Old Man). Another proof of No. 10 is in the collection of Robert N. Essick.

consisting of

- 1 Title page, proof, with the Douce Collection stamp<sup>547</sup>
- 3 "The Meeting of a Family in Heaven" with the Douce Collection stamp
- 4 "The Counciller, King, Warrior, Mother & Child in the Tomb"
- 5 "Death of the Strong Wicked Man" with the Douce Collection stamp
- 7 "The Descent of Man into the Vale of Death"
- 8 "The Day of Judgment" with the Douce Collection stamp
- 9 "The Soul exploring the recesses of the Grave"
- 10 "The Death of The Good Old Man", "an untitled proof copy, before the final lettering"
- 11 "Death's Door"

The Ashmolean print of the Blair title page displays, at the bottom right corner, the etched legend "Proof Copy R.H.C. 5..5..0" (as in the Large Paper copies of 1813 in Harvard and Princeton).

William Thane's Copy of The Grave

The extra-illustrated copy of Blair's Grave (1813) in the Library of Congress consists of the text of the 1813 Blair – 1813 title page (Image 15), "To the Queen" (Image 17), list of subscribers (Images 19-26), Cromek's "Advertisement" [pp. xi-xii] (Images 28-29), Fuseli's appreciation [pp. xiii-xiv] (Image 30), Blair pp. xv-liv (Images 31-71), pp. 1-42 (Images 75-88, 91-94, 97-100, 103-4, 109-16, 119-20, 123-24, 131-

---

The presence of pencil prices of "2/" on No. 2 and "3/6" on No. 5, 8 and the facts that "The matting, quality, and size of the prints vary, suggest ... that they were assembled separately" (p. 60).

<sup>547</sup> "Douce Collection, Uni[versity] Ox[ford]".

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

36)<sup>548</sup> plus all thirteen Blair engravings.<sup>549</sup>

To this were added 60 images cut from 36 leaves of Night Thoughts (omitting pp. 8, 16, 25, 37, 41, 75, 86, 88).

The Night Thoughts prints are slightly larger than those in Blair's Grave, and therefore the full-page designs were trimmed in both dimensions, including the imprint.

Occasionally an attempt is made to repeat motifs in the illustrations to Blair's Grave with facing prints from Night Thoughts. For example, the engraved title page to The Grave is echoed in Night Thoughts in Image 12. Occasionally it is difficult to perceive a controlling method.

Image                      Night Thoughts Designs in Blair's Grave Designs

5 (1)     p. 65 (Christ ascending for "The Christian Triumph)

6 (4) p. 70 (hunter crying on hound to throat of fallen man) + p. 9 (head) + p. 54 (walker) + p. 35 (woman on cloud)

---

<sup>548</sup> N.B. Odd numbered Images are rectos, even numbered ones versos. Images 4, 9-10, 14, 71, 90, 102, 106-7, 118, 122, 126, 128-29, 148, 149 (except for Library of Congress inscriptions) are blank.

<sup>549</sup> Phillips's portrait of Blake (Image 11), the 1808 title page (Image 13), "Christ Descending" (Image 72), "Death of the Wicked Man" (Image 89), "Soul Departing" (Image 95), "The Soul Exploring" (Image 101), "Descent of Man" (Image 105), "Counsellor, King ..." (Image 108), "Day of Judgment" (Image 117), "Death of the Good Old Man" (Image 121), "Reunion of Body and Soul" (Image 125), "Meeting of a Family in Heaven" (Image 127), and "Death's Door" (Image 130).

Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

- 7 (3) p. 55 (bald head at top + flying figure re-oriented from vertical to horizontal in middle + crouching figure at bottom)
- 8 (2) p. 19 (terrible god speaking to cowering man) + p. 90 (in text box, Christ and fallen man)
- 12 (3) p. 80 (trumpeter plunging to skeleton) + p. 46 (nude woman gesturing) + p. 43 (woman with stars in her hair)
- 16 (3) p. 93 (all figures) + p. 13 (at left, Death with a dart) + p. 24 (at right, Death with a sickle)
- 18 (4) p. 35 (bottom) + p. 4 (middle, rising man + falling man [reversed to rising] + at top, Christ with Samaritan)
- 26 (1) p. 4 (angels carrying a soul upward)
- 27 (2) p. 26 (at left, crowd to right of scyther's right foot + at right, revellers to its left)
- 28 (1) p. 92 (woman looking up)
- 29 (1) p. 7 (at top, reveller and Death's bell)
- 45 (1) p. 33 (at bottom, reveller and warner)
- 46 (3) p. 12 (at top, family with snake) + p. 49 (middle, couple looking up) + p. 15 (bottom, bramble-wrapped reader)
- 60 (1) p. 57 (revellers)
- 70 (2) p. 1 (shepherd and angel) + p. 54 (above them, faces in river)
- 73 (3) p. 73 (Christ in flames) + p. 72 (in the text box, crouching figure) + p. 13 (mother and baby)
- 74 (2) p. 10 (sleeping shepherd and plunging angel) + p. 7 (head and knee of bell-toller)
- 131 (1) p. 23 (man measuring infant with hand-span)
- 132 (6) p. 87 (in centre, Christ with children) + p. 31 (at

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

- right, man in chair beneath floating woman) + p. 4 (on left, man in woods) + p. 49 (above him, head of curly-headed man) + p. 15 (above him, floating figure, re-oriented from almost vertical to horizontal) + untraced (at top right, vague shapes)
- 137 (3) p. 27 (bottom left, drinker + at right, woman writing) + p. 92 (woman with scales)
- 138 (5) p. 72 (bottom left, naked man and woman in doorway) + title page (above and to right, bearded man with nude woman on his palm) + p. 31 (top middle, falling figure re-oriented to almost vertical)
- 139 (2) p. 40 (sideways, death bed, mourner, plunging figures) + p. 17 (at right, not re-oriented, bearded old man)
- 140 (2) p. 63 (bearded man with Hebrew scroll) + p. 17 (at top left, wreathed old man – Time – and two small figures)
- 141 (1) p. 43 (at top left, part of ouroboros and title: “Night the Third, Narcissa”)
- 142 (1) p. 49 (heavy shading pointing left, re-oriented to point down)
- 143 (1) p. 49 (sideways, cut off)
- 144 (1) p. 50 (sideways, text only)
- 146 (1) p. 4 (sideways, sleeper at bottom)
- 147 (2) p. 26 (scythe and left leg) + title page (left foot and robe of bearded man)

BINDING: Originally in blue paper wrappers (only the back one survives, Image 145); bound (post 1929) in modern red morocco (Images 1, 152) with marbled end-papers at front and back (Image 2-3, 150-51).

HISTORY: (1) Assembled by William Thane – the back blue paper cover is inscribed "This book was given to me by M.<sup>r</sup> W.<sup>m</sup> Thane the picture restorer with the additional slips pasted in--just as it is--M.<sup>r</sup> Thane knew Blake--"; (2) Blair, The Grave (1813), said to have been given to Blake by William Thane, was sold in The Library of John Quinn, Anderson Galleries, 12-14 November 1923, lot 716 [for $95]; (3) bought 3 May 1929 from Rosenbach for $1,200 by Lessing J. Rosenwald; (4) given to the Library of Congress.<sup>550</sup>

Blake's design for "Death's Door" was silently copied to accompany Anon., untitled essay beginning "Nous ne penson pas assez habituellement à notre immortalité", Magasin pittoresque [Paris], XXI<sup>e</sup> Année (Février 1853), 41 (woodcut), 42 (text). The essay ends: "regardez làbas, plus près de nous, voici, après la porte sombre, la porte de délivrance, voici le sentier aérien, le rayon d'or qui nous transportera dans notre empire céleste."<sup>551</sup>

The subject of the essay in Illustrated Exhibitor and Magazine of Art (1852) ("Death and Immortality") is very like that in Magasin pittoresque (1853) ("notre immortalité") and suggests that the Illustrated Exhibitor (1852) is the source for Magasin pittoresque (1853).

"Death's Door" reproductions 19th Century<sup>552</sup>

---

<sup>550</sup> Library of Congress: PR3318.B7A7 1813, Rosenwald Collection.

<sup>551</sup> "look there, closer to us, here, after the dark doorway, the door of deliverance, here is the airy way, the ray of gold which will transport us to our celestial empire."

<sup>552</sup> Omitting the prints, reduced to about a quarter of the original size, signed

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

1805

Blake's experimental white-line etching (plate-size 11.7 x 18.6 cm), never published, one copy known; the old man moves to the right and the young man looks up to the left

1806

Louis Schiavonetti's conventional engraving (plate-size 17.5 x 29.7 cm) for Blair's Grave (1808, 1813, etc.); the directions are reversed.

1852

W.J. Linton, "Death's Door", The Ladies' Drawing Room Book (N.Y. [1852]) and Anon., "Death and Immortality", Illustrated Exhibitor and Magazine of Art, I (12 June 1852), 369-71, signed on the threshold with a WJL monogram, design-size of each 13.7 x 21.9 cm; the old man moves to the right.

1853

Anonymous wood engraving (framing line 14.3 x 22.5 cm with rounded upper corners) entitled "Mourir, c'est Renaître" in Anon., untitled essay beginning "Nous ne penson pas assez habituellement à notre immortalité", Le magasin pittoresque [Paris], XXI<sup>e</sup> Année (Février 1853), 41 (woodcut), 42 (text); there is much more cross-hatching in the French print than in Linton's; Schiavonetti's print is reversed; on the threshold is the same monogram as in 1852, now worn. The woodcut reverses the design as it appears in Blair's Grave.

---

by A.L. Dick, and reproduced in New York editions of 1847, 1858, and ?1879. I am deeply grateful to Robert N. Essick for crucial suggestions and facts about the newly-recorded French print.

1860

W.J. Linton, Thirty Pictures by Deceased British Artists (1860) (design-size 12.05 x 20.8 cm), reprinted in John Jackson, A Treatise on Wood Engraving, Second Edition (1861) (design-size 12.05 x 20.8 cm) and in the New Edition [?1881]. The old man faces left. This version is different from that printed in 1852

1863

A wood engraving of "Death's Door" (design-size 11.3 x 17.4 cm), signed "L. Chapon" (i.e., Léon Louis Chapon [1836-1918]), printed in M.W. Burger, [i.e., J. Thoré], Histoire des peintres de toutes les écoles: école anglaise (Paris, 1863) It is reprinted on the front page of Allgemeine Familien Zeitung, No. 36 (1873), signed "F. Bocourt" (probably Marie Firmin Bocourt) and "L. Chapon".<sup>553</sup>

For six lithographs after Schiavonetti's copperplates (via Mora's Meditaciones Poeticas [1826]), see Diario de los niños (1839-40).

COPPERPLATES

HISTORY: (1) The thirteen copperplates engraved by Schiavonetti after Blake's twelve designs plus the frontispiece portrait of Blake by Thomas Phillips passed at the death in March 1812 of the original publisher Robert Hartley Cromek to (2) His widow Elizabeth; according to an undated letter from Thomas Stothard, "M<sup>rs</sup> Cromack has ... sold blayrs grave for one hundred & twenty pounds" (BR (2) 315) to (3) Rudolph Ackermann (1754-1834) who printed them with Blair's Grave (1813; the imprint on the plates altered to 1813)

---

<sup>553</sup> Robert N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2013", Blake, XLVII, 4 (Spring 2014).

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

and with Jose Joaquin de Mora's Meditaciones Poeticas (1826; the titles and imprints on the plates altered to Spanish); (4) The copperplates were acquired by John Camden Hotten who printed them (1813 [i.e., 1870], the imprints on the plates restored to the versions of 1813); (5) They were bought apparently by H. Buxton Forman, in whose posthumous sale at Anderson Galleries 15 March 1920 appeared lot 50: "The ORIGINAL TWELVE COPPER PLATES ENGRAVED BY WILLIAM BLAKE, for 'The Book of Job'" [?i.e., engraved by Schiavonetti for Blair's Grave, which has twelve plates; the 22 plates for Job were then still in the Linnell family]; (6) The copperplates were offered in Rosenbach's Catalogue (November-December 1921), p. 4, no price named; (7) Acquired by George C. Smith, who had them "Printed from the Original Plates in the Possession of an [anonymous] American Collector" (N.Y., 1926), listed them in his anonymous catalogue: William Blake: The Description of a Small Collection of His Works In the Library of a New York Collector [unnamed] (1927), lot 52, and sold them posthumously with his library at Parke-Bernet, 2-3 December 1938, lot 38 [$750]; (8) Acquired by Lessing J. Rosenwald, who lent them to the exhibition at the Philadelphia Museum of Art (1939), lot 119, and gave them to (9) The U.S. NATIONAL GALLERY OF ART.

A coloured copy was offered at the William H. Woodin sale at Parke-Bernet Galleries, 6-7 January 1942 and in Parke-Bernet, 23-24 November 1943, lot 51.

A copy of Blair's Grave said to have been Flaxman's was offered in the sale of Mrs Henry D. Hughes at Anderson Art Association auction (25-26 January 1934), lot 59.

A copy of the first Prospectus of November 1805, which names Blake as the proposed engraver, is in the collection of Robert N. Essick.

REVIEWS &c
1808

R.H. Cromek, Prospectus with "FIFTEEN PRINTS FROM DESIGNS INVENTED AND TO BE ENGRAVED BY WILLIAM BLAKE..." ("Nov 1805") <BB 527>

R.H. Cromek, Prospectus with "TWELVE VERY SPIRITED ENGRAVINGS BY LOUIS SCHIAVONETTI" ("Nov 1805") <BB 527>

Aris's Birmingham Gazette, 28 July 1806, announcement with a Prospectus "advert in this page" <BB 199>

Commercial Herald [Birmingham], 28 July 1806, announcement with a Prospectus ("Vide advert"), virtually identical to those in the Gazette <BB 199>

Anon., "Modern Discourses, and Improvements in Arts, Sciences, and Literature; With Notices respecting Men of Letters, Artists, and Works in Hand, &c. &c.", Universal Magazine, NS, VI (July 1806),<sup>554</sup> 46-52 <California (Berkeley)>:

Mr. Cromek intends to publish in the course of the ensuing winter a series of 12 Engravings, etched in

---

<sup>554</sup> The similarity of the wording in the 1806 puffs, and in particular the information about the changing numbers of subscribers, indicates that the source of the information is Cromek.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

a very superior style of excellence by Louis Schiavonetti, from the original inventions of William Blake, illustrative of Blair's popular Poem "The Grave." In consequence of the originality of the designs and their vigorous expression, the work has been honoured with the patronage of the principal members of the Royal Academy, and the first professors of art in the metropolis, and by the subscriptions of upwards of 300 of the most distinguished amateurs [pp. 47-48].

Anon., "Intelligence. Great-Britain", Monthly Anthology, and Boston Review [Boston, Massachusetts], III, 10 (October 1806), 559 <Michigan> (exactly as in the Monthly Magazine)

Anon., "Monthly Retrospect of the Fine Arts", <Harvard>:

Mr. Cromek intends to publish in the course of the ensuing winter a series of twelve engravings, etched in a very superior style of excellence, by Louis Schiavonetti, from the original inventions of William Blake, illustrative of Blair's popular poem "The Grave." In consequence of the originality of the designs, and the vigorous expression, the work has been honoured with the patronage of the first professors of art in the metropolis, and by the subscriptions of upwards of 250 of the most distinguished amateurs.

The Artist (1 August 1807), p. 6 (announcement) <BB 28>

- Monthly Literary Advertiser*, Thursday 10 September 1807, p. 7<sup>555</sup>
- Anon., Monthly Literary Recreations, III (September 1807), 239 (a puff) <BB 528>
- Anon., Literary Annual Register, I (October 1807), 437 <BB 527>
- Anon., Monthly Literary Recreations, III (October 1807), 437 (a puff) <BB 527>
- Literary Panorama* (November 1807), column 304 (announcement) <BB 528>
- Cowdray's Gazette and Public Advertiser* [Manchester], 7 November 1807
- Star and West-Riding Advertiser* [Wakefield], 27 May 1808 (announcement specifying "printing ... by BENSLEY" with a Prospectus listing the 12 plates) <BB 199>
- Anon., "Varieties, Literary and Philosophical", Monthly Magazine, XXV (1 June 1808), 353 ("Mr. Cromek will very shortly present to the public Mr. William Blake's Illustrations of Blair's Grave, etched by Mr. Louis Schiavonetti") <BB #1041>
- Gazette and Public Advertiser* [Bristol], 9 June 1808 (announcement) <BB 200>

---

<sup>555</sup> My only reference to Monthly Literary Advertiser and Bent's Monthly Literary Advertiser are in newspaperarchive online, which is so heavily corrupted as to be illegible.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

Anon., "Literary and Miscellaneous Information",
Athenaeum Magazine, III (June 1808), 567 ("Mr.
Cromek will very shortly present to the public Mr.
Wm. Blake's celebrated Illustrations of Blair's Grave, etched by Mr. Louis Schiavonetti") <BB
#A969, p. 528>

Gazette [Bristol], 30 June 1808 (announcement) <BB 200>

Leeds Mercury, 4 June 1808 <Leeds Central Library>:
BLAIR'S GRAVE

MR. CROMEK begs to inform the Subscribers at Wakefield and its Vicinity to the New and Splendid Edition of this POEM, that it will be published in London, on the First Day of July next, and that it will be delivered to them with all possible Speed.

Gentlemen who wish to possess this valuable Work, are respectfully apprised that on the Day of its Publication, its Price will be advanced from 2l 2s to 2l 12s 6d. Mr. CROMEK will receive Names till the First of July at the Original Subscription Price.
No. 64, Newman-street, Oxford-row, London.

The Work is printing in the most elegant Style by BENSLEY, in Imperial Quarto, and illustrated by 13 Engravings, executed from the original Designs of WILLIAM BLAKE.

Monthly Literary Advertiser (9 July 1808)
(announcement) <BB 528>

R.H. [Robert Hunt], “Blake’s Edition of Blair’s Grave”, Examiner, 7 August 1808, pp. 509-50 (a violent attack on Blake; it was announced in the issue for 31 July 1808 [p. 494]) <BB>

[Robert Hunt], “Blake’s Edition of Blair’s Grave”, Examiner, 7 August 1808, pp. 509-10 (mocking) <BB #1512>

Anon., “Monthly List of New Publications”, Athenaeum Magazine, IV (September 1808), 253 (listing with price) <BB #992>

Anon., “The Grave, a Poem, illustrated by twelve Etchings, executed by Louis Schiavonetti, from Original Inventions of William Blake. 4to. Pp. 50. £2. 12s. 6d. 1808, Crome. Cadell and Davis”, Antijacobin Review and Magazine, XXXI (November 1808), 225-34 (a long, slashing review which excoriates Blake’s designs as “absurd effusions”, the “offspring of a morbid fancy”, which “totally failed” to achieve their purpose, and suggests that the next time Blake turns his hand to poetry, “his friends would do well to restrain his wanderings by the strait waistcoat”) <BB #952>

Anon., “II. The Grave, a Poem; by Robert Blair: Illustrated by twelve Engravings, from Original Designs, by William Blake; engraved by Schiavonetti. 4to. 2l. 12s. Boards”, Scots Magazine, and Edinburgh Literary Miscellany, LXX (November 1808), 839-40 (“We do not recollect to have any where seen so much genius united with so much eccentricity”) <BBS 345>

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

Anon., "The Grave; a Poem by Blair, illustrated by twelve Etchings, executed by Louis Schiavonetti, from the original Inventions of William Blake. 1808", Monthly Magazine, XXVI (1 December 1808), 458(a brief review which remarks on the "correctness" of the drawing and the "wildness" of design in Blake's work) <BB #951>

"BLAKE'S ILLUSTRATIONS OF BLAIR. – Just published" (prospectus with the titles of the engravings), bound with Reliques of Robert Burns (1808) <BB 528>

Prospectus: "A few copies remain unsold, printed on large Elephant Quarto paper, with Proof Impressions of the Plates, on French Paper. Price Four Guineas" (1808) <BB 528>

The Procession of Chaucer's Pilgrims to Canterbury:
Proposals for Publishing by Subscription a Print, from the Well-Known Cabinet Pictures, Painted from this Subject by Thomas Stothard, Esq., R.A. To Be Engraved in the Line Manner by Louis Schiavonetti, Esq. V.A. ([1808]) <Bodley> Added at the end of Robert Burns, Reliques, ed. R.H. Cromek (1808) <California (Berkeley)><sup>556</sup> (On the last leaf is "Just published by Messrs. Cadell and Davies ... The Grave, a Poem, by Robert Blair. Illustrated ... by Louis Schiavonetti, from the Original Inventions of William Blake.")

---

<sup>556</sup> See BB 528 and BR (2) 217-218, 280.

Edinburgh Review (January 1809), p. 500
(announcement) <BB 528>

1813

Ackermann list (1815) (“Blair’s Grave, illustrated ... by W. Blake; with Biographical Accounts of Blair, Schiavonetti, and Cromeck [i.e., 1813] First Edition, with proof Impressions of the Plates, Atlas. 4to. Boards ... 3 13 6 N.B. A few Copies only left of this Edition. Ditto, (Second Edition) Elephant 4to. Boards ... 2 12 6”) <BB 533>

Prospectus (n.d.) for “SECOND EDITION OF ... BLAIR’S GRAVE, Illustrated by Mr. Blake ... Printed on large Elephant Quarto, price 2l. 12s. 6d. Extra boards.— a few copies on Quarto Atlas, price 3l. 13s. 6d. Boards” <BB 533>

SALES &c 1808-1830<sup>557</sup>

1808

Anon., “New Works published in Edinburgh”, Scots Magazine and Edinburgh Literary Miscellany, LXX, Part 2 (September 1808), 683

Anon., “List of Works Recently Published”, under Poetry, Eclectic Review, IV, Part II (October 1808), 950 <Harvard>

---

<sup>557</sup> The sale records specify Blake, 12 or 13 engravings or etchings, Schiavonetti, quarto, and £2.12.6 for both 1808 and 1813 editions unless otherwise noted. The quarto is sometimes qualified as “Royal” (Eclectic Review, Edinburgh Review), “atlas” (Ackermann 1815, 1816, 1818, 1828), “elephant” (Ackermann 1815, 1816, Eastburn 1818, 1822, M. Carey 1818, Ackermann 1821-1822, 1824), or large elephant (Ackermann 1818). These sale records were omitted from Blake (2010) for lack of space.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

Anon., “Quarterly List of New Publications”, Edinburgh Review, XIII (January 1809), 500, 508, under “Arts, Fine” and “Poetry”

A Catalogue of the ... Library of John Leigh Phillips, Esq. deceased ... Sold by Auction, by Messrs. Winstanley & Taylor 17 October 1814 + 8 days (Manchester, 1814) <Harvard>, lot 1400 (1808, £1.18.0 to Brook)

Catalogue of Books for 1815 (R. Ackermann, 1815) listed 1808 “proof impressions of the plates, atlas 4to, £3.13.6 – A few copies only left of this edition”

A Catalogue of a Miscellaneous Collection of Books, New and Second Hand, on Sale, at the Prices Affixed, by John and Arthur Arch, No. 61, Cornhill, London, 1815 <Bodley>

Thomas Edwards Catalogue (1815) lots 218, 527 (1808)
“Mr. Ackermann Begs Leave to solicit the Attention ...”
list of publications added to William Warden,
Letters Written on Board His Majesty’s Ship the Northumberland, and at Saint Helena; in which The Conduct and Conversations of Napoleon Buonaparte, and His Suite, during the Voyage, and the First Months of his Residence in That Island, Are Faithfully Described and Related. Third Edition (London: Published for the Author by R. Ackermann, 1816) <Michigan> (“First Edition, with proof Impressions of the plates. Atlas 4to. Boards, 3l. 13s. 6d. N.B. A few Copies only left of this Edition.”)<sup>558</sup>

*A General Catalogue of Books, Now on Sale, by Lackington, Hughes, Harding, Mavor, & Jones,
Part II (1817)* <British Library>, lot 9916 (1808)

Catalogue of Old Books, Longman (1817), lot 4902
(1808, £1.10.0)

*Lackington, Hughes, Harding, Mavor, and Jones's
General Catalogue of Old Books ... For the Year
1819* <Bodley, British Library, Harvard>, lot 183
(1808, “gilt leaves”)

Catalogue of Books for 1821 (R. Ackermann, 1821), as in his 1815 catalogue

[Thomas] Edwards's Catalogue (Halifax, 1821)
<Bodley>, lot 314 (1808, £3.3.0) <BBS 284>

*Catalogue of the Valuable Library of Benjamin Heath
Malkin, Esq. LL.D., sold By Mr Evans, 22 March 1828 + 6 days* <British Library>, lot 237 (1808 sold for 7s 6d)

1813

Ackermann prospectus (?1813),<sup>559</sup> "Elephant Quarto"

---

<sup>558</sup> Biographie Universelle Ancienne et Moderne, XLI (Paris: L.G. Michaud 1825), 1124, in the entry on Schiavonetti lists Blair's Grave (1813), and Ideen zur Kunst-Mythologie, ed. Julius Sillig (Dresden und Leipzig: Arnoldischer Buchhandlung, 1836), 503 footnote <Michigan> describes three scenes in the "Zeichner Blake in seiner Kupfern zur Blairs Grave (... 1813)".

Note that Ackermann had plainly purchased not only the copperplates and copyright but the remainder of the copies of the 1808 edition.

<sup>559</sup> British Library: 11902 bbb 23, Vol. I, f. 246<sup>r</sup> (BB 533).

The title given in the Ackermann List (1815) for the "First Edition" (1808)--"with Biographical Accounts of Blair, Schiavonetti, and Cromek"--is in fact that of the 1813 second edition ("TO WHICH IS ADDED A LIFE OF THE AUTHOR"), and BB 533 mistakenly associated the advertisement with the first edition.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

£2.12.6, "Quarto Atlas" £3.13.6

Messrs. Winstanley and Taylor, A Catalogue of ... John Leigh Phillips, 11 November 1814 <Harvard>, lot 709 is 3 prints including "Wm. Blake, Engraver, by Schiavonetti, India paper, proof"<sup>560</sup> [Ford, 15s]

Catalogue of Books for 1815 (R. Ackermann, 1815) listed Second Edition (1813), elephant 4to, £2.12.6)

Ackermann's advertisement in Warden's book (1816)
Books Published by R. Ackermann added at the end of Frederick Shoberl, A Historical Account ... of the House of Saxony ... (London: R. Ackermann,
1816) <Michigan>

A Catalogue of a Very Extensive and Valuable
Miscellaneous Collection of Books from the North of England [Edwards of Halifax] sold by auction by Mr Saunders, 30 March 1818 + 15 days
<Harvard>, lots 949-50 (£1.5.0 and £1.6.0)

A Catalogue of Books for 1818 on sale by James
Eastburn & Co (N.Y., May 1818), 10 <New York Public Library> ("with proof impressions of the plates", $15)

"Works of Art, Published by R. Ackermann" added to Frederick Accum, A Practical Treatise on Gas-
Light, Fourth Edition (London: R. Ackermann,

---

<sup>560</sup> A copy with "proofs on India paper, russia" was listed in the Catalogue of the Splendid, Choice, and Curious Library of P.H. Hanrott, Esq. ... Sold by Auction, by Mr. Evans, 16 July 1833+ 11 days <British Library>, lot 630 [to "Anh[?]" for £2.6.0].

1818) (“Printed on large Elephant Quarto. 1l. 12s. 6d. extra boards. – A few Copies on Quarto Atlas, 3l. 13s. 6d.”)

Catalogue of an Extensive Collection of Books in Every Department of Ancient and Modern Literature, for Sale by M. Carey and Son ... (Philadelphia, 1818) <New York Public Library> (*3 “Elephant 4to. with proofs $15”)

London Catalogue (1818, 1831) lists Murray as publisher <BB 533>

Friedrich Adolf Ebert, Allgemeines Bibliographisches Lexikon, Vol. I (A-N) (Leipzig: F.A. Brockhaus, 1821) <Taylor Institution, Oxford> <BB #535> No. 2454 (£2.12.6)

Ackermann’s List of Works added at the end of Edinburgh Review, XXXVI (October 1821-February 1822) <Stanford>

A Catalogue of Books, ... Now on Sale, for Cash, ... by James Eastburn (N.Y., May 1822), lot 17 <Harvard> (“with proof impressions of the plates, elephant, boards, $15”)

Books, &c. Published by R. Ackermann added at the end of Dr F.A. Krummacher, Parables, tr. From the German by Frederic Shoberl (London: R. Ackermann, 1824) and of William Combe, Letters Between Amelia in London and Her Mother in the Country (London: R. Ackermann, 1824) <Princeton>

A Catalogue of Books... by Rivington and Cochran (1824), lots 292, 11795) <BB #536>

Christie sale of William Sharp, 18-19 February 1825

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

<BMPR> lot 16 (with Portraits of British Poets
No. 1, £1.13.0)

A Catalogue of the ... Library of the late Henry Fuseli, Sotheby, 22-25 July 1825 <British Library, British Museum Print Room, Royal Academy>, lot 123
("rare, proofs", 9s 6d)

"New Works Published by R. Ackermann" added to Asiatic Costumes, A Series of Forty-Four Coloured
Engravings, from Designs Taken from Life
(London: R. Ackermann, 1828) <Bodley> (£2.2.0)

Catalogue of the Library of David Constable ... Which Will Be Sold by Auction, by D. Speare ... on Wednesday Nov 19 and Twenty-one following lawful Days (Edinburgh, 1828), 75, lot 1370

Bent's Monthly Literary Advertiser, 10 July 1844, p. 9
(price reduced from 12s 6d to 11s)

Bent's Monthly Literary Advertiser, 11 December 1844,
p. 13

EDITIONS

Blake's Grave: A Prophetic Book: Being William Blake's
illustrations for Robert Blair's THE GRAVE, arranged as Blake directed, ed. S. Foster Damon (1963) <BB>

REVIEWS

§Anon., Times[London], 13 September 1963

John E. Grant, "Blake Original and New", Modern Language Quarterly, XXV, 3 (September 1964),
356-64 (with 2 others)

Blair, Robert, The Grave (Wildwood House reprint, 1973)
<BB>

REVIEW

§Anon., “The Processes of William Blake”, Times Literary Supplement, 15 February 1974 (with 6 others)

Robert Blair's THEGRAVE Illustrated by William Blake, ed.
Robert N. Essick and Morton D. Paley (1982)

REVIEWS

§D.A.N. Jones, “Everybody's Grave”, Listener, 25 March 1982

§D.J. Enright, Observer, 5 April 1982

§Anon., Books and Bookmen, May 1982

§Raymond Lister, “Prophecies of Progression”, Times Literary Supplement, 11 June 1982

§Anon. [Daniel Traister?], American Book Collector, III, 5 (September-October 1982)

§Anon., Choice, XX, 2 (October 1982), 254

§Zachary Leader, Art Book Review, I, 3 (Autumn 1982) (with another)

§Anthony Payne, Book World [Washington Post], I, 16 (1982)

§Anon., Burlington Magazine, CXXV (1983), 777

I.H. C[hayes], Romantic Movement ... Bibliography for 1982 (1983), 85

Andrew Wilton, Blake, XVIII, 1 (Summer 1984), 54-56

§Jonathan Wordsworth, Review of English Studies, XXXV, 140 (November 1984), 547-48

§David Fuller, Durham University Journal, LXXVII (December 1984), 119-23

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

§Claudia Corti, Revista di Letterature Moderne e Comparate, XXXVIII, 1 (February-March 1985), 97-100, in Italian

§The Grave a Poem by Robert Blair Illustrated by William Blake. ([Tokyo?], 2000) Small 4°, 112 pp.; ISBN: 4657001027

Japanese translation of Blair's text with reproductions of the 13 prints in the 1808 edition.

Grave: A Poem Illustrated by Twelve Etchings (1808) [picture of pierced heart] William Blake: Louis Schiavonetti. ([Whitefish, Montana:] Kessinger Publishing Rare Mystical Reprints [?2003]) 4°, plus 42 blank leaves

There is no title page or text of Blair, but it includes reproductions of the engravings, "To the Queen" and "Of the Designs".

§The Grave, a Poem, Illustrated by Twelve Etchings Executed by Louis Schiavonetti, from the Original Inventions of William Blake. ([Charleston, South Carolina]: Nabu Press, 2010) 86 pp.; ISBN: 9781176652071

§The Grave: A Poem Illustrated by Twelve Etchings. ([Whitefish, Montana]: Kessinger Publishing, 2010) 26 pp.; ISBN: 9781161364095

*Robert Blair. The Grave (Illuminated Manuscript [sic] with the Original Illustrations of William Blake). (e-artnow, 2013)

ISBN: 9788074844128

Probably reproduced from a copy in the Library of Congress -- see The Complete Illustrated Books of William Blake.

The cover reproduces "Oberon, Titania, and Puck with Fairies Dancing" <#161>.

§[Robert Blair] The Grave: A Poem Illustrated by Twelve Etchings [1808]. ([Whitefish [Montana]: Literary Licensing LLC, 2014) 24 pp.; ISBN: 9781497911321

All 13 prints (1813) are reproduced in John Windle, Pictorial Blake (2011).

NEW TITLE
BLOWER, Elizabeth
Maria: A Novel
(1785)

[Blower, Elizabeth.] MARIA: A NOVEL. | IN TWO VOLUMES. | BY THE AUTHOR OF | GEORGE BATEMAN. | VOL. I[-II]. | - | LONDON: | PRINTED FOR T. CADELL, IN THE STRAND, | M.DCC.LXXXV [1785].

LOCATIONS: Bodley [250 g 196], Bristol, British Library (lacking the print and subscription list), Brooklyn Public Library (with the bookplate of Charles James Fox), Harvard, National Library of Scotland, Princeton, Virginia.<sup>561</sup>

---

<sup>561</sup> According to the Eighteenth-Century Catalogue online, a copy is reproduced on microfiche in The Eighteenth Century (Woodbridge, Connecticut: CT Research Publications, 1986), Reel 6996 No. 01.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

PLATE: There is only one print, the frontispiece to Vol. I, representing a woman in a forest embracing a bust. The print has no plate-mark or imprint; the design size (omitting signatures) is 8.1 x 12.9 cm. The plate is signed "Stothard d.", "Blake sc.", and is quite characteristic of the work of each man. Apparently the book had not heretofore been recorded as associated with either Blake or Stothard.<sup>562</sup>

However, among "Book Illustrations Known only through Separate Impressions", Robert N. Essick, The Separate Plates of William Blake: A Catalogue (Princeton: Princeton University Press, 1983), records (pp. 242-43), and reproduces (Figure 110) the scene of "A Lady Embracing a Bust". He records two copies of a first state before imprint (Huntington, Royal Academy), and two more after the inscriptions were added (American Blake Foundation, British Museum Print Room).

Blake had worked for Cadell before only when Cadell was a member of a congery (Ariosto, 1783). However, he had frequently copied Stothard's designs: for Enfield (1780), Bonnycastle (1782), Kimpton (1782), Ladies New and Polite Pocket Memorandum Book (1782), Novelist's Magazine, VIII-

---

<sup>562</sup> The chief authorities for Stothard prints are A.C. Coxhead, Thomas Stothard, R.A. (London: A.H. Bullen, 1906); Shelley M. Bennett, Thomas Stothard: The Mechanisms of Art Patronage in England circa 1800 (Columbia: University of Missouri Press, 1988); and R.N. Essick in his annual surveys of "Blake in the Marketplace" in Blake.

Coxhead, p. 213, refers to Maria, A Tale (Wright, n.d. given) with an illustration which "depicts the hero and heroine planting two 'trees'", but this is clearly not E.B.'s Maria.

XI (1782-83), Ritson (1782), John Scott (1782), Ariosto (1783), Chaucer (1783), "Fall of Rosamund" (1783), Wit's Magazine (1784), "Zephyrus and Flora" (1784), and Fenning and Collyer (1784-85). This plate for Maria may therefore be the last one he engraved after Stothard.

The novel has no author's name on the title page, but the dedication from St James's Place "To the Honourable Mrs Ward" is signed "E.B." The author of Maria (1785) is identified in [John Watkins and Frederick Shoberl], A Biographical Dictionary of the Living Authors of Great Britain and Ireland (London: Henry Colburn, 1816) as Miss Eliza Blower who was "born at Worcester, 1763; daughter of a gentleman distinguished by his steady attachment to an unsuccessful candidate for her native city. Her literary exertions, which began at a very early age, were made with a view to benefit her family." She may be related to Mr Richard Blower who appears in the subscription list. At the age of 22 when the novel was published, she was only a little older than her heroine (19). She was also apparently an actress, in Ireland for five years and in London in 1787-88.<sup>563</sup>

The "List of Subscribers" includes a surprising number of persons connected with the arts who were or might have been known to Blake at the time, including Mr [Richard] Cosway [miniaturist], Mrs [Maria] Cosway [artist], Mr John Flaxman [sculptor], William Hayley, Esq. [author and patron], Mr J[ohn] Hawkins [patron of Blake], Ozias Humphry [painter], Jeremiah Meyer [miniaturist], "Mrs. Mathew | Miss

---

<sup>563</sup> The Feminist Companion to Literature in English: Women Writers from the Middle Ages to the Present, ed. Virginia Blain, Patience Clements, Isobel Grundy (London: B.T. Batsford Ltd, 1990).

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

Mathew | Mr. F. Mathew", Sir Joshua Reynolds [painter], "Mr. [?George] Romney [artist], 6 copies", R.B. Sheridan [dramatist and politician], 6 copies, Mr [Thomas] Stothard [book illustrator], and Josiah Wedgwood [pottery manufacturer].

Elizabeth Blower's novel was not only subscribed to by Flaxman and Romney (6 copies), but Flaxman wrote to his wife that he intended "to introduce Miss Blower" to Romney and Mr Long.<sup>564</sup>

The novel is sentimental and even Gothic to a degree. The author says that my leading aim has been to pourtray, in the simple but impassioned colouring of nature, the operation of a mind unacquainted with the world--young, artless, sensible, and refined--under the impulse of a lively and insuperable attachment; and to inculcate the principle of Active Benevolence, by displaying its beneficial effects [Vol. I, p. ii].

The heroine, Maria Mordaunt, is 19, and already for her "My books and my music are my chief, almost my only amusement, Sir" (Vol. I, p. 5).

Her understanding was of the first rate; her disposition soft, delicate, and flexible; her eyes were blue and beautifully formed; her other features were soft, lively, and engaging. ... [And she has] a figure that blended dignity with all the sprightly grace and easy negligence which poets ascribe to nymphs of sylvan race ... [Vol. I, pp. 11-12].

---

<sup>564</sup> Quoted from a reproduction of a letter from John Flaxman to his wife dated merely "Sunday" from Wardour Street, where they lived 1782-94; it is in an album formed by or for Sir Arthur Denman (b. 1857) (no known relation to the family of Flaxman's wife Ann Denman) kindly reproduced for me in 1985 by its owner Dr William Baker of Sutton Coldfield.

The novel was widely reviewed: Critical Review, LX (September 1785), 233-34 (the young author "is by no means deficient in many of the requisites which should occupy her task"); English Review, VI (1785), 232 ("In the execution it is not altogether defective ... and few of the present run of novels deserve so much praise"); European Magazine, VIII (1785), 394; Monthly Review, LXXIII (1785), 392; and Town and Country Magazine, XVII (November 1785), 658 ("above the common run of novels").

Maria was reprinted once without a print (Dublin: James Moore, 1787) and translated once (Maria: eine Geschichte in zwei Bänder Aus dem Englische ubersetzt [Berlin: J.F. Uner (n.d.)]).

The same author published

The Parsonage House: A Novel By a Young Lady In a Series of Letters In Three Volumes (Dublin: S. Colbert, 1781)

George Bateman: A Novel in Three Volumes (London: J. Dodsley, 1782)

Features from Life; or, A Summer Visit. By the Author of George Bateman and Maria (Dublin, 1788), translated as La Visite d'Été (Paris, 1788)

None of these works has an illustration.

BONNYCASTLE, John
An Introduction to Mensuration

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

(1782, 1787, 1791, 1794, 1798)

1782 NEW LOCATION: British Library, Huntington, Trinity College (Cambridge), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

1794 NEW LOCATION: Colorado

1798 NEW LOCATION: Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

BOYDELL, John

Boydell's Graphic Illustrations of ... Shakspeare

([?1803])

NEW LOCATIONS: Birmingham, Tulsa (gift of Roger Easson), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

BROWN, John

Elements of Medicine

(1795)

NEW LOCATIONS: Birmingham, Cambridge, Chicago, Cleveland Health Science Library, Georgetown, Georgetown Medical Center, Missouri (Columbia, 2), North Carolina (Chapel Hill), Northwestern, State University of New York (Binghamton), Tufts, Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Vol. I only, with Blake's frontispiece, title page inscribed in old brown ink "W M<sup>c</sup>Millan M.D."), Virginia Commonwealth, Wellcome Library, William and Mary

The copy with Coleridge's initials on the half-title of Vol. I was sold with the H.B. Forman collection at Anderson Galleries, 15-17 March 1920, lot 39 [$80 to Rosenbach] and offered by him at $150 (according to his acquisition card).

BRYANT, Jacob

A New System, or An Analysis of Ancient Mythology

(1774, 1776; 1775, 1776)

1774, 1776 NEW LOCATIONS: Sir John Soane Museum (London), Tulsa (gift of Roger Easson), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

1775-1776 Second Edition NEW LOCATIONS: South Carolina, Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

EDITION

§(N.Y.: Garland, 1979)

BÜRGER, Gottfried Augustus

Leonora*, tr. J.T. Stanley

(1796)

NEW LOCATIONS: Adelaide, Alabama, Arizona State, Birkbeck College (London), Boston Athenaeum, Boston College, British Library, Brooklyn Public Library, Buffalo and Erie County Public Library, California (Los Angeles, San Diego), Cambridge (3 from Keynes Collection), Chicago, Cleveland Public Library, Colorado (Boulder), Colorado State, Connecticut College, Cornell, Dalhousie, Emory, Essex, Georgetown, Holy Cross, Illinois, Indiana, Institute of German Studies, Iowa, Johns Hopkins, Kenyon College, Library of Congress (2), Liverpool Public Library, London (Institute of German Studies), McMaster, Minnesota, New Hampshire, New York Public Library, New York, Newberry, North Carolina, Northwestern, Pennsylvania, Pennsylvania State,

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

Puget Sound, Rice, San Diego State, Seattle Public Library, Simon Fraser, Southern California, Stanford, State University of New York (Stony Brook), Texas, Temple, Tulsa (gift of Roger Easson), Victoria & Albert, Virginia, Wake Forest, Waseda (Tokyo), Western Ontario, William and Mary

The tailpiece of a soldier running to a woman on a couch is signed "Blake inv" and "Perry. sc". However, Blake's watercolour for the tailpiece is inscribed lightly in pencil "Blake del & sc",<sup>565</sup> indicating that he expected to engrave it.

REVIEWS referring to Blake

Anon., "Translations of Burger's Leonora", British Critic, VIII (September 1796), 277 (the critic pauses in the midst of a brief review of four translations of Leonora to execrate the "detestable taste" shown in Blake's design for J.T. Stanley's second version) <BB #1037>

Anon., "Art. XI. Leonora: A Tale, translated from the German of Gottfried Augustus Bürger. By J.T. Stanley, Esq. F.R.S. &c. A new Edition. 4to. 16 pages, with a Frontispiece and two Vignettes, by Blake. Price 7s. 6d. Sewed. Miller. 1796", Analytical Review, XXIV (November 1796), 472 (a one-paragraph review which concludes: "This edition is embellished with a frontispiece, in which the painter has endeavoured to exhibit to the eye the wild conceptions of the poet, but with so little success, as to produce an effect perfectly ludicrous, instead of terrific”) <BB #831>

---

<sup>565</sup> R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2013", Blake, XLVII, 4 (Spring 2014).

Lenore Ballade von Bürger in Drei Englische Übersetzungen [ed. Johann Joachim Eschenburg] (Göttingen: Johann Christian Dieterisch, 1797), 5-6 In German (describes Blake’s designs)

There were also reviews in (1) §Critical Review, NS XVII (1796), 303-7, (2) §English Review, XXVIII (1796), 80-84, (3) Monthly Magazine & British Register, III (January 1797), 46, (4) Monthly Mirror, I (1795-96), 293-95, and (5) Monthly Review, NS XX (August 1796), 322-25.

EDITION

§Bürger, Gottfried Augustus. Leonora 1796 translated by J.T. Stanley. A reproduction of the 1796 edition with Blake’s illustrations. Introduction by J.W. [Jonathan Wordsworth]. (Otley, West Yorkshire, and Washington, D.C.: Woodstock Books, 2000) 4°, [1-5], xi, 12 pp.; ISBN: 1854772325

NEW TITLE

The Cabinet of the Arts (1799)

Title page 1: THE | CABINET of the ARTS. | - | A
SERIES OF ENGRAVINGS, | BY | English Artists, | FROM
ORIGINAL DESIGNS, | BY | Stothard, Burney, Harding,
Corbould, Van Assen, Potter [sic], | Cosway, Paul Sandby,
Mather Brown, Catton, &c. | = | [Vignette: London:
Published by Castildine & Dunn, Copper-Plate Printers, N.<sup>o</sup> 9, Bagnio Court, Newgate Street, February 3. 1796<sup>566</sup>] | =

---

<sup>566</sup> The vignette is assigned to Stothard by A.C. Coxhead, Thomas Stothard

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

| London, | M.DCC.XCIX [1799]. | PRICE FIVE GUINEAS, BOUND.

Title page 2: THE | CABINET | OF THE | ARTS. | = | A
SERIES OF ENGRAVINGS; | BY |

|                       |               |
|-----------------------|---------------|
| STOTHARD,             | BURNEY,       |
| HARDING,              | CORBOULD,     |
| VAN ASSEN,            | PORTER [sic], |
| COSWAY,               | PAUL SANDBY,  |
| MATHER BROWN, CATTON, |               |

&c. &c. &c. | - | London, | M.DCC.XCIX. [1799] | PRICE
FIVE GUINEAS.

The first title page was printed first with the typeset text in black and then with the engraving in brown.

LOCATIONS: Bibliothèque nationale (Paris, with 95 prints), British Library (shelfmark 1401 i 25, with 94 prints), Dartmouth, Essick (with 64 prints), Princeton (Copy 1 [GAX 2006-3128N] with 112 prints; Copy 2 [Ex item 5987716] with 134 prints),<sup>567</sup> Yale Center for British Art (2, 1 with 117 engravings printed on rectos, 1 with 160 prints on 117 leaves, including duplicates of some portraits)

SIZE: 24.5 x 17.1 cm, varying slightly (Essick copy); Princeton copy 2 is 23 cm high PAPER: Uniform off-white wove paper with watermarks (in the Essick copy) of 1794 | J WHATMAN<sup>568</sup> (fragments on ff.

(1906), 38.

<sup>567</sup> It was offered in Alex Fotheringham, Catalogue 78 (March 2011), lot 76 (£650).

<sup>568</sup> Princeton Copies 1-2 are on laid and (mostly) wove paper, the latter with

9, 16, 25, 49, 52, 55-56, 63, 66), and widely spaced “5” and “6” (f. 4, apparently a single, inserted leaf). Many leaves show three deckled edges, indicating that these leaves have not been cut or trimmed and that they are halves of a small sheet, though only a few leaves are visibly conjugate. (The size alone would have suggested that it was a quarto.)

CONTENTS: The prints bear no number or indication of where they should be placed, and the only description of the contents is on the two title pages – prints designed by Mather Brown, Burney, Catton, Corbould, Cosway, Harding, Potter or Porter, Paul Sandby, Stothard, Van Assen, “&c.” However, the Essick copy has no print with the name of Burney, Corbould, Cosway, Harding, or Paul Sandby, and two-thirds of the prints are by others: Anon. (19, some of which could be by the named artists), G. Bickham, Jr (2), C.H. Coypel (1), Isaac Cruikshank (3), Gillot (2), Sir Joshua Reynolds (1), Charles Reuben Ryley (2, including one engraved by Blake), Tassie (1), I. Taylor (2), and W. Turner (10).

SOURCES OF THE PRINTS: The prints with dates or which have been traced to dated works appeared in Bellamy's Picturesque Magazine (London: T. Bellamy and T. Evans, 1793), Harrison's British Magazine (1782-83), Samuel Johnson, Rasselas (London: E. and S. Harding, 1796), Thomas Townshend, Poems (London: E. and S. Harding, 1796) (8 Stothard prints), and 1797 (f. 42), [Robert Ridell's faux old Scottish ballad] The Bedesman of Nidsyde (S. Hooper, 1790), Lady's Pocket Magazine, IV (Harrison and Co, 1 August 1795).

---

fragments of WHATMAN watermark.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

Half the prints in the Essick copy (31) seem to come from three books: Townshend (8), a book on the English royal family (10), and a book on English places (13).

Note that the prints identified were originally commissioned by several different booksellers – T. Bellamy and T. Evans, Castildine and Dunn, E. and S. Harding, Harrison, and S. Hooper. Apparently an anonymous bookseller – none is named on the two title pages – acquired a miscellaneous collection of copperplates originally commissioned by various different booksellers and had them printed on sheets of uniform paper, two prints per sheet as in a small folio.

The prints in Bellamy's Picturesque Magazine (1793) are on soft wove paper 28.2 x 22.5 cm; those in The Cabinet of the Arts (1799) are on paper 24.5 x 17.1 cm watermarked "J WHA | 17" (other fragments of the watermark elsewhere in the volume indicate that it was "J WHATMAN | 1794"). The prints in The Cabinet of the Arts are therefore not remainders from Bellamy's Picturesque Magazine but new printings.

DESCRIPTION: The work consists of two title pages (the first on a verso) plus 64 prints on rectos only (in the Essick copy).

All the prints probably appeared in previous publications; another print of the French Revolution (C.R. Ryle-Charles Grignon) appeared in Bellamy's Picturesque Magazine (1793), and 8 of the Stothard prints previously appeared in Thomas Townshend, Poems (1796). The Cabinet of the Arts (1799) seems to be a nonce collection, a pair of title pages followed by prints chosen irregularly without much regard for the artists named on the title pages. Copies vary disconcertingly after the title pages, with 64, 94, 95, 112, 117, 134, and 160 prints. Only three of the eight known copies include Blake's print of "F: Revolution" for Bellamy's Picturesque Magazine (1793).

Blake's connection with the work was first identified in the copy acquired by R.N. Essick at the eBay auction of July 2005 (£88) and reported in his "Blake in the Marketplace", Blake, XXXIX (2006), 158-60, with reproductions of the first title page and the Blake print.

| LOCATION                        | NUMBEROF PRINTS | "F. Revolution" |
|---------------------------------|---------------------|-----------------|
| Bibliothèque nationale (Paris)  | 95                  | No              |
| British Library                 | 94                  | No              |
| Dartmouth 99                    |                     | Yes             |
| Essick 64                |                     | Yes             |
| Princeton Copy 1 <sup>569</sup> | 112                 | Yes             |
| Princeton Copy 2                | 134                 | No              |
| Yale Center for British Art #1  | 117 <sup>570</sup>  | No              |
| Yale Center for British Art #2  | 161 <sup>571</sup>  | No              |

It seems plain that The Cabinet of the Arts (1799) is a nonce publication in which prints of 1777-1797 issued by different book-sellers were printed more or less ad libitum. Even in the two Yale copies compared in detail, only 33 prints

<sup>569</sup> The Princeton Copy 1 lacks the engraved title page.

<sup>570</sup> 28 engravings in Yale copy 1 reappear in copy 2, and of these 23 are also duplicated in copy 1. This information is based on wonderfully detailed notes on these two copies generously sent to me by Maria Ross and Marissa Grunes of the Yale Center. One additional image appears twice in Copy 2.

<sup>571</sup> Yale copy 2 ff. 48-84 has 45 plates printed (not pasted) side-by-side with different dates and different publishers.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

appear in both copies; 83 images appear only in copy 1 and 127 images appear only in copy 2.

The "F. Revolution" plate engraved by Blake for Bellamy's Picturesque Magazine (1793) appears in only three copies of The Cabinet of the Arts (Dartmouth, Essick, Princeton). As only three copies of Bellamy's Picturesque Magazine, I (1793) have been traced (Harvard, Huntington, Pennsylvania), there are as many copies of "F. Revolution" traced in The Cabinet of the Arts (1799) as in Bellamy's Picturesque Magazine (1793) in which it originated.

NEW ENTRY
Carfax Conduit Oxford
([1787?], 1810)

COPIES: Essick,<sup>572</sup> Victoria University in the University of Oxford

"CARFAX CONDUIT, OXFORD" signed at lower right "Blake Sc", no artist identified and no imprint.

A copy was acquired in March 2015 by VICTORIA UNIVERSITY IN THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO (wove paper without watermark 22.0 x 28.2 cm; the platemark in the Essick copy is 26.4 x 35.8 cm). The paper was trimmed (probably to make it fit into an album) at the top, eliminating the top of the spire and its weathervane, and at the bottom, eliminating the title below the design. It is pasted to a somewhat larger leaf (with a frame drawn round the printed leaf) slightly uneven on the right margin. The printed title is replaced in pencil by "Carfax Conduit Oxford".<sup>573</sup>

---

<sup>572</sup> See R.N. Essick, "A 'New' William Blake Engraving?", Print Quarterly, II (1985), 42-47. The print is reproduced also in Blake, XIX, 1 (Summer 1985), pl. 7, where Essick suggests that it may have been etched about 1780. The only previously-recorded reference to Blake and the Carfax Conduit was in Thomas Dodd's manuscript biography of Blake (c. 1832) (BR (2) 255 footnote).

The Carfax Conduit was erected at the chief crossroad of Oxford in 1610 at the initiative and expense of Otho Nicholson of Christ Church (which was visible from the Conduit) by John Clark, a Yorkshire stone-carver, "with three several cocks fayerly set out to run water three several ways". The whole structure is 40' high, and the water tank is 18-20' high (judging by the woman and man shown beside it).

The woman is wearing a huge hat in the style of the 1780s, and the man is in mortarboard and academic gown. He is clearly explaining the structure to her. Notice that the shadows of the man and woman added to the image from the Gentleman's Magazine are at a different angle from those of the Conduit itself. On the shadowed side water the runs onto the ground.<sup>574</sup>

An elaborate but undated "Account of Carfax Conduit, in Oxford; was taken from a MS. Paper in the Possession of a Gentleman of the University" and printed in the Gentleman's Magazine, XLI (Dec 1771), 533-34, along with an engraving of the conduit which is remarkably like the one Blake

---

<sup>573</sup> The first reference to the Carfax Conduit and William Blake is in Thomas Dodd's manuscript account of Blake (c. 1832): Blake "engraved ... View of Carfax conduit Oxford" (BR (2) 255 fn). The basic details of the print are given in Robert N. Essick, "A 'New' William Blake Engraving", Print Quarterly, II (March 1985), 42-47. Much of the description of the monument and its context is new here. I am grateful for advice from Bob Essick and Carmen Socknat.

<sup>574</sup> This seems unlikely; surely the water flowed into a trough. No receptacle is evident in the description or the 1775 and 1850 paintings. The cistern also served several colleges.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

engraved<sup>575</sup> <Illus. 3>. I have used the Account to identify features of the engravings.<sup>576</sup> Some of the details of the Account which are not visible in the engravings may have disappeared by 1771 when the Gentleman's Magazine engraving was made, and the artist did not read the Account.

Near the top of the cistern are three escutcheons on each side. According to the Account, they represent "the arms of the University, City, and the founder", but no attempt was made in the engraving to represent the arms.

Above the cistern is a cubic sun-dial at each corner and between them the letters "O N O N" (the initials of the founder), the "O" and the "N" separated by a bare-breasted mermaid, and between the "N" and the "O" is a sunburst face ("the Sun in its glory" representing the "son" of Nicholson), the whole forming "a rebus on the name of the founder". The mermaids are holding "combs and looking-glasses" which are scarcely identifiable in the engravings.

Below the mermaids are "well wrought pedestals, on which are imbossed the royal badges of four kingdoms, viz. the Roſe for England; the Thiſtle for Scotland; Fleur de lis for France; and the Harp for Ireland", but in the engraving these

---

<sup>575</sup> The Gentleman's Magazine print is pointed out in Essick's essay. It is smaller than Blake's engraving (17.5 x 31.1 cm vs 26.4 x 35.8 cm).

<sup>576</sup> The Account is not dated; its details seem to be from the 17th century but its orthography from the 18th century. It describes all four sides of the tank, though only two sides can be seen in the engravings and paintings

Some details in the description could not be represented in a mere engraving, such as colouring on the monument for gold crowns, silver wires, and blue escutcheons even if they were still present in 1771.

are transformed into a human head above an animal head. Perhaps the originals had been worn away and were replaced.<sup>577</sup>

Above the letters are "figures of boys, obelisks, flowers, and fruitage, interchangeably transposed".

The animals at the corners representing "the supporters of the royal arms of Henry the VIIIth" are an antelope at the north-east corner, a dragon at the south-west corner, a lion at the south-east, and a unicorn at the north-west. This does not correspond with the engraving, where the lion and unicorn are in adjacent corners (not opposite ones). The figure at the left that looks like a dog with wings is little like either an antelope or a dragon.

The animals hold staffs with banners with "the several quarterings of the royal arms of England, Scotland, France, and Ireland", but these quarterings are merely diagonal lines in Blake's engraving.

In the centre, behind the heraldic animals, is an ox ridden by a crowned figure representing "Queen Maud (the Emperor's sister)" (Matilda or Maude [d. 1167], daughter of Henry I). According to a description of 1686, the water flowed into the body of the carved ox ... issuing from his pizzle, which continually pisses into the cistern underneath from whence proceeds a leaden pipe out of which runs wine on extraordinary days of rejoicing

---

<sup>577</sup> Of course the Conduit had to be taken apart when it was moved in 1787, and some details in subsequent representations of it differ from the Account and the engravings. Today the unicorn lacks his horn, there is no staff or banner, the figure at the top is not two-faced Janus but a bearded man facing south and a person facing north, and there is no weather-vane or cross.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

such as the restoration of the monarch in 1660. The bull's pizzle is not visible in the engraving and probably could not be seen from ground level.

The figures on plinths represent "the four Cardinal Virtues". Behind the lion is "Fortitude, holding a broken pillar in her right arm, and in her left the capital thereof, of the Corinthian order". Behind what looks like a winged dog is "Prudence, holding in her left hand a serpent in a circular form [it is not circular in the engraving], signifying the revolution of Time". Behind the unicorn is "Temperance, pouring out wine from a large Vessel into a small one as a proper emblem of the same". Behind the antelope, not visible in the engraving, is "Justice, holding a sword in her right hand; and a pair of balances in her left, her eyes covered over, signifying her impartial administration of justice".

"Over these ornaments arise four curved groins arched, supporting an octangular building having niches in which are stone statues of eight worthies" bearing elaborately decorated shields (except for Godfree of Bullion) representing (1) King David, (2) Alexander the Great, (3) "Godfree of Bullion, crowned with thorns", (4) "Atticus the Grecian", (5) Charlemagne, (6) James the First, (7) Hector of Troy, and (8) Julius Caesar. They are so vaguely represented in the engraving that I can identify none of them.

Between the Worthies are mermaids above "well wrought pedestals, on which are imbossed the royal badges of four kingdoms, viz. the Rose for England; the Thistle for Scotland; Fleur de lis for France; and the Harp for Ireland", but in Blake's engraving these are transformed into a human head above an animal head. Perhaps the originals had been worn away and were replaced.

"Above these worthies are curious figures to represent some liberal arts and sciences. Here is Orpheus with his harp, several youths as if singing, accompanied with different sorts of musical instruments, as trumpets, lutes, violins, and music-books, some wide open, others shut."

"At the top of all this rich structure stands old Janus, with his aged visage to the west; the back part of his head is female-faced, looking to the east". However, in the engraving the figure is so vague that I cannot tell whether it represents the male head with a shield or the female head with a sceptre.

Above the stone-work is a weather-vane, "and at the top of that a cross directed to the four cardinal points of the compass", but these are indecipherable to me. Apparently they were later lost,<sup>578</sup> for an anonymous painting of 1775 <cross-reference to Oxfordhistory.org.uk> and a painting by Percy Roberts of about 1850 <cross-reference to Oxfordhistory.org.uk> show in their place the figure of a standing man.

The conduit formed an interruption to traffic (the 1775 painting tactfully shows only people and dogs in the street beside it), and the Mileways act of 1771 proposed its removal. In 1787 the Conduit was transported about six miles to Nuneham Courtney,<sup>579</sup> and it now stands in the Oxford

---

<sup>578</sup> The facts that the weathervane is replaced in the painting of 1775 but not in the Blake print of 1787 or later suggests that the artist of Blake's design was copying the 1771 print rather than the monument itself.

<sup>579</sup> Goldsmith visited Earl Harcourt's estate at what is now Nuneham Courtney, and his Deserted Village (1770) may be in part about Harcourt's destruction of a number of villages and farms to create a vast garden.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

Botanical Gardens there <Cross-reference to Wikipedia, see Carfax>.

The decorated top resembles the Eleanor Crosses erected in the 13th century by Edward I in memory of his wife, Eleanor of Castile. It has a distinct similarity to the Martyr's Memorial in Oxford designed by Gilbert Scott in 1843 with effigies of Cranmer, Latimer, and Ridley.<sup>580</sup>

A copy was offered in the online catalogue of Sanders of Oxford (August 2014).

REVIEWS, Puffs, Notices

Anon., "Quarterly List of New Publications From February to May, 1810", Edinburgh Review, XVI, xxxi (April 1810), 253-54 <Harvard> ("A View of Carfax Conduits, Oxford. Drawn and engraved by Blake. 1s. 6d." [p. 253])

Anon., "Arts, Fine", Quarterly Review, III (May 1810), 518 ("A View of Carfax Conduits, Oxford, drawn and engraved by Blake. 1s. 6d.")

Edinburgh Review, XVI (April-August 1810), 253 at 1/6
Quarterly Review (1810) at 1/6

Monthly Repertory of English Literature XIII (Paris, 1811), 381, at 1/6

Anon., "Fine Arts", Edinburgh Annual Register for 1810, III, Part the Second (1812), cviii <California (Berkeley)> ("A View of Carfax Conduit, Oxford. Drawn and Engraved by Blake. 1s. 6d.")

---

<sup>580</sup> The Martyrs' Memorial was famous in my time for the temptation it offered to undergraduates to climb it illegally.

Quarterly Review (1818), at 1/6

A copy was offered in the online catalogue of Sanders of Oxford (August 2014).

CATULLUS, Caius Valerius

The Poems

(1795)

NEW LOCATIONS: Brigham Young, California (Berkeley), Cambridge, Cape Cod Community College, Connecticut College, Delaware, Emory, Harvard (Harvard College), Lehigh, Massachusetts Historical Society, New York Academy of Medicine, Northern Illinois, Northwestern, St Johns College (Maryland), Texas Tech, Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection), Yale

Chaucers Canterbury Pilgrims

(1810)

NEWLY RECORDED COPY: Cincinnati Art Museum

CHAUCER, Geoffrey

Poetical Works

Volume XIII

(1782 [i.e., 1783])

NEW LOCATIONS: Aberdeen, Leeds, Manchester, Newcastle, South Carolina, Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection, 2 sets)

A proof before all letters of Blake's plate in Bell's Edition of the Poets of Great Britain is in Vol. X of the extra-illustrated set of Mrs Bray's Life of Thomas Stothard (1851) acquired in December 2008 by Victoria University in the University of Toronto.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

CHAUCER, Geoffrey
The Prologue and Characters of Chaucer's Pilgrims
(1812)

NEW LOCATIONS: Boston Athenaeum, Carnegie Mellon, Pierpont Morgan Library

The work is reproduced in colour online in "William Blake Digital Materials from the Lessing J. Rosenwald Collection" in the Library of Congress.

REVIEW, Notice, &c.

Anon., "Monthly List of Publications", British Critic, XXXIX (February 1812), 211 <Harvard> ("The Prologue and Characters of Chaucer's Pilgrims, with a frontispiece representing Part of the Group setting out from the Talbot Inn, Southwark. By Mr. William Bake [sic]. 2s 6d.")

"Christ Trampling Satan"
(William Blake-Thomas Butts)

The copperplate was given in 2002 by Gertrude W. Dennis<sup>581</sup> to the Pierpont Morgan Library (B3C11404L).

SIZE: 16.6 x 31.2 cm

COPPERPLATE-MAKER'S MARK on the verso: WILL<sup>m</sup> & BUSS | PONTIFEX & COMP<sup>ny</sup> | Nos. 46, 47 & 48 | SHOE LANE, LONDON

---

<sup>581</sup> The book- and print-shop of Mrs Dennis's father E. Weyhe regularly had copies of the print for sale and repeatedly denied to GEB that they knew where the copperplate was or whether it survived.

COMMINS, Thomas
An Elegy Set to Music
(1786)

NEW LOCATION: Robert N. Essick.

Two leaves with drawings for the frontispiece were acquired by Professor R.N. Essick, one with wash on one side and pencil on the other, the other with wash on both sides.

A copy of Blake's print was given in 1998 by Charles Ryskamp to the Pierpont Morgan Library.<sup>582</sup>

CUMBERLAND, George
An Attempt to Describe Hafod
(1796)

NEW LOCATIONS: Barr Smith Library (Adelaide, Australia), British Library (2--BB records 1), Cambridge, Glasgow, Huntington (495603), McGill, Monash, National Library of Scotland, Princeton, Sheffield, Southampton, Trinity College (Dublin), Wales (Lampeter), Westminster Libraries

It is reproduced online at www.manfamily.org/cumberland\_familyhtm

REVIEWS

Monthly Magazine (March 1796), 138 (listed at 2s under "New Publications this Month")

Monthly Review (August 1796), 479 (brief)

Critical Review, XX (June 1797), 236-37 (mostly quotations)

---

<sup>582</sup> R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2005", Blake, XXXIX(2006), 181.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

British Critic (1798), 440-41 (at 2/6)

EDITION

An Attempt to Describe Hafod by George Cumberland. A Bicentenary Edition Edited and Introduced by Jennifer Macve & Andrew Sclater, Illustrated with Drawings from a sketchbook of Thomas Jones of Pencerrig introduced by Donald Moore (Aberystwyth: Ymddiriedolaeth Yr Hafod – Hafod Trust, 1996) 8<sup>o</sup>; ISBN: 0952794101

This is a facsimile of the copy in the National Library of Wales, with Jennifer Macve and Andrew Sclater, "Introduction" (pp. 1-10, 15-16), and Donald Moore, "The artist Thomas Jones at Hafod" (pp. 11-14, 16). A section on "Hafod in 1795 and Blake's Map" (pp. 9-10) concludes that "One must ... keep an open mind" as to what part Blake had in the map.

CUMBERLAND, George

Card

(1827)

NEW LOCATIONS: Cincinnati Art Museum, William St Clair<sup>583</sup>

Copies were offered in James Tregaskis Caxton Head

---

<sup>583</sup> Pasted in a copy of the catalogue of English Poetry (Hayward, 1947) inscribed in the hand of Geoffrey Keynes (with his initials) in his characteristic reddish brown ink to the poet Skelton; Acquired some years ago at a Toronto[!] bookshop by William St Clair. It is not listed in Robert N. Essick, The Separate Plate of William Blake: A Catalogue (Princeton: Princeton University Press, 1983), with other copies owned by Keynes (N-Q, Z).

Catalogue (20 January 1919), lot 3 (£14), Catalogue 815 (23 June 1919), lot 5 (£14), James Tregaskis and Son Caxton Head Catalogue 830 (September 1920), lot 45 (£14), Tregaskis Bulletin 8 (February 1934), lot 22 (£3).

An impression (collection of Robert N. Essick) was reproduced by the William Blake Archive in 2013.

CUMBERLAND, George
Outlines from the Antients
(1829)

NEW LOCATIONS: Birmingham, Brown, John Carter Brown Library, California (Santa Barbara), Cambridge, Chicago, Cincinnati and Hamilton County Public Library, Columbia, Edinburgh, Huntington Library, Kent State, Koninklijke Bibliotheek (Den Haag [Netherlands], Lehigh, Manchester, Missouri (Columbia), Princeton, Tennessee State Library, Toronto, Tulsa (gift of Roger Eason), Victoria & Albert Museum (2 copies), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection), Wisconsin Historical Society

The Harvard copy is reproduced online.

Appendix [c.1820] MS (Victoria University in the University of Toronto) <BB 542> Published by 2009 as an E-book.

"Mr. GEORGE CUMBERLAND, of Bristol ... is ... preparing for publication a work with sixty plates, on the Principles of Composition of the Ancients", Monthly Magazine (1 May 1810), 363-64; the identical paragraph is given in Edinburgh Monthly Magazine and Review, I (May 1810), 62. Perhaps this became Outlines from the Antients (1829) with four Blake prints.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

CUMBERLAND, George
Thoughts on Outline
(1796)

NEW LOCATIONS: Alberta, Arizona, Auckland, Belfast Central Library, Bibliothèque nationale (Paris), Birmingham Central Libraries, Brandeis, Brigham Young, Brown (with notes by "W[alter] S[avage] L[andor]"), California State Library, Cambridge (2, 1 from the Keynes Collection), Chetham's Library (Manchester, England), Clark (Sterling and Francine) Art Institute (Williamstown, Massachusetts), Cornell, Davidson College, Delaware, Durham (Durham [New Hampshire]), Edinburgh, Exeter, Fordham, Getty Research Institute (Los Angeles), Harvard, Iowa, Longleat House (Warminster, England), Manchester, McGill, National Gallery (London), National Library of Wales, New Brunswick, North Texas, Northwestern, Pennsylvania (2 – BB gives 1), Old Dominion, Oxford (Department of History of Art), Pierpont Morgan Library, Royal Academy (London), State Library of South Australia (Adelaide), Texas (Tyler), University College (Lampeter, Wales), Victoria (Wellington [New Zealand]), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection), Washington (Seattle), Yeshiva

The Harvard copy is reproduced online and another copy is reproduced at www.manfamily.org/cumberland\_family.htm

A copy in "Original blue boards ... inscribed at front 'From the Author'" was offered in John Windle Catalogue 46 (2009), lot 64.

Thoughts on Outline (Robinson) was offered at 15s in boards in Monthly Magazine, II (1796), 649.

DANTE

Blake's Illustrations of Dante
(1838, 1892, 1955, 1968)

1838 NEW LOCATIONS: Bibliothèque nationale (Paris), Birmingham Museum and Art Gallery, Fogg Museum (Harvard University), London

1968 NEW LOCATION: Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

COPIES OF UNIDENTIFIED DATE: City Art Museum of St Louis (see BB #890), Kanagawa Kindai Bijutsukan [Kanagawa Modern Fine Art Museum, Japan], National Gallery of Canada, Northwestern

The copies in the Fogg Museum (Harvard University) and Tate Britain are reproduced online.

All the prints (1838) are reproduced in Los dibujos para la DIVINA COMEDIA de Dante. Ed. Sebastian Schütze and Maria Antonietta Terzoli.

Reproductions of Blake's engravings (Essick set) were added to the William Blake Archive.

DIMENSIONS OF THE COPPERPLATES<sup>584</sup>
IN CENTIMETRES

| Plate | Width | Height | Thickness |         |
|--------------|--------------|---------------|------------------|---------|
| 1            | 27.9         | 35.4          | 0.146            | (0.153) |
| 2            | 27.8         | 34.5          | 0.195            | (0.192) |
| 3            | 28.0         | 35.3          | 0.204            | (0.205) |

---

<sup>584</sup> The surface dimensions of the copperplates now in the U.S. National Gallery of Art were measured by GEB; the thickness was recorded by Shelley Fletcher, Head, Paper Conservation, at the U.S. National Gallery (first at the cover, then at the middle edge) in Print Quarterly, XXI (2004), 27 n23.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

|   |      |      |       |         |
|---|------|------|-------|---------|
| 4 | 28.0 | 35.3 | 0.165 | (0.155) |
| 5 | 28.0 | 35.2 | 0.199 | (0.198) |
| 6 | 27.6 | 35.2 | 0.188 | (0.195) |
| 7 | 27.5 | 35.1 | 0.187 | (0.171) |

DARWIN, Erasmus
Botanic Garden
(1791, 1791, 1795, 1799)

A 1791 FIRST EDITION NEW LOCATIONS: Aberdeen, Bibliothèque Publique et Universitaire (Fribourg, Switzerland) (ANT 589), Birmingham, Bodley (Vet A 5 d 44), Cambridge (3 copies: CCA 24 61 [Charles Darwin's copy]; Syn 4 79 6; Syn 4 79 xq821 D25b 1791 a [Sir Geoffrey Keynes's copy]), Glasgow, King's College (London), National Library of Wales, Sheffield, Tulsa (gift of Roger Easson), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection), Wellcome Library

Part I, FIRST EDITION (1791), Part II, Second Edition (1790) NEW LOCATIONS: Academy of Natural Science (Pennsylvania), Alberta, American Museum of Natural History, Arizona, Atlanta Historical Center, Benedictine College (Atchison, Kansas), Bodley, Bowling Green State, Brooklyn Botanic Garden, Bryn Mawr College, California (Irvine, San Diego, Santa Barbara), Chicago Botanic Garden, Cincinnati, Claremont College, Colorado State, Columbia, Connecticut, Dartmouth College, Detroit Public Library, Depauw, Duke, Georgetown, Georgia, Hunt Institute for Botanical Doc, Illinois, Illinois State, Johns Hopkins Kansas State, Lamar, Linda Hall Library (Missouri), Lloyd Public

Library and Museum (Ohio), Los Angeles Public Library, Michigan, Missouri (Kansas City), Museum Boerhaave (Leiden), New Hampshire, New York Botanical Garden, New York Public Library, Oak Spring Garden Library, Oklahoma State, Purdue, Richmond, Royal Botanical Gardens (Kew), Royal College of Art (London), San Francisco, Smithsonian Institution, South Carolina, Southern California, Southern Methodist, State University of New York (Buffalo), Stony Brook, Toronto Public Library, University Club, Utrecht, Valentine Richmond Historical Center, Vanderbilt, Vermont, Virginia, Virginia Military Institute, Virginia Tech, Washington (Seattle), Wayne State, Weber State, Wellcome Library, Wellesley, Wesleyan (Connecticut), Western Ontario
Part I, FIRST EDITION (1791), Part II, Third Edition(1791)
NEW LOCATIONS: Brown, Buffalo and Erie County Public Library, California (Davis; Santa Cruz), Harvard (Medical School), Iowa, Kenyon College, Montreal, National Agricultural Library (U.S.), New York Public Library, Ohio State, Rutgers, Smithsonian Institution, Tulsa, Windsor, Wisconsin (Madison), Yale (Medical Library)

Part I, SECOND EDITION (1791), Part II, Third Edition (1791) NEW LOCATIONS: Auckland Public Library, Cambridge, Essex, Queen's Belfast (Science Library), Sir John Soane Museum (London), Wellcome Library

Part I, SECOND EDITION (1791), Part II, Fourth Edition (1794) NEW LOCATIONS: Atlanta Historical Center, National Library of Wales, New York Academy of Medicine, Victoria (British Columbia), Wales (Lampeter), Wellcome Library

C 1795 THIRD EDITION NEW LOCATIONS: Birmingham, Durham, Edinburgh, Folger (PR3396 B6

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

1791a), Glasgow, National Library of Wales, Newcastle, Sir John Soane Museum (London), Ushaw College (Durham), Tulsa (gift of Roger Easson), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection), Wellcome Library D 1799 FOURTH EDITION NEW LOCATIONS Bibliothèque Publique et Universitaire (Fribourg, Switzerland: ANT 9847), Bibliothèque Publique et Universitaire (Lausanne: 1M 2727)), Iowa (5815D22 b), Tulsa (gift of Roger Easson), Turnbull Library (Wellington, New Zealand), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

The Harvard copy of 1794 is reproduced online.

A-B 1791 FIRST and SECOND Editions Large Paper copies of the First and Second Editions are on heavy wove paper with the watermark "E & P", while ordinary paper copies are on a lighter unwatermarked paper with a distinctive checkered pattern, according to R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 1995", Blake, XXIX (1996).

C 1795 THIRD Edition

A proof of Pl. 6 (Fuseli's "Tornado" added to the 1795 edition) with all letters but lacking some finishing work was offered by N.W. Lott in 1995 (according to R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 1995", Blake, XXIX [1996]).

Pl. 1, "The Fertilization of Egypt": A new sketch (of the sistrum only) on the verso of the previously-known one was reported and reproduced by Robert N. Essick and Rosamond A. Paice, "Newly Uncovered Blake Drawings in the British Museum", Blake, XXXVII (2003-4), 84-100.

The Harvard copy of 1794 is reproduced online.

REVIEWS of Part I (1791)

§Critical Review, NS VI (1792), 162-71

§English Review, XX (1792), 161-71

Analytical Review, XV (1793), 287-93

§Monthly Review, NS xi (1793), 182-87

REVIEW of the Third Edition (1795)

§English Review, XXVII (1796), 271-73.

DARWIN, Erasmus,
The Poetical Works of Erasmus Darwin
(1806)

NEW LOCATIONS: Aberdeen, Agnes Scott College, Alberta, “Bibliomation, Inc”, Birmingham, Bodley, Boston College, Botanical Research Institute of Texas, Inc, Bridgeport [Connecticut] Public Library, Brown, California (Berkeley; Los Angeles; San Diego; Santa Barbara), Cleveland Health Sciences Library, Columbia, Dallas, Dayton Metropolitan Library, Denver, Desert Botanical Garden of Arizona, Edinburgh, Hamilton College, Hiram College, Johns Hopkins, Lakeland (Michigan) Library Coop, London, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, McGill, McMaster, Mississippi, Missouri Botanical Gardens, National Library of Ireland, Nebraska (Lincoln), New York Academy of Medicine, Niedersächsische Staats-und-Universitat Bibliothek (Germany), North Carolina (Chapel Hill), Notre Dame, Nottingham, Oakland, Ohio Historical Society, Ohio State, Princeton, Queen’s (Belfast – Science Library), Rochester, San Francisco Public Library, Victoria & Albert Museum, Washington (St Louis), Wellcome Library, Dr Williams's Library (1110 H 9), Wisconsin (Madison), Yale

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

EDITION

§The Poetical Works of Erasmus Darwin, 3 vols. (Tokyo: Hon-No-Tomosha, 1997)

NEW TITLE

Diario de los Niños
(1839-1840)

Vol. I, No. 1, Engraved title page: DIARIO | DE LOS | NIÑOS | LITERATURA, ENTRETENIMIENTO | é | INSTRUCCION. | N<sup>o</sup>. 1 | MEJICO 1839. | IMPRESO POR MIGUEL GONZALEZ. [in an elaborate floral border] <New York Public Library>

- 5     “La Caverna” at II, 361 (design size: 11.6 x 21.8 cm)
      (“The Soul Exploring the Recesses of the Grave”)
- 6     “La Resurreccion” at II, 409 (design size: 13.7 x 21.7 cm)
      (“The Reunion of the Soul & the Body”)

The titles follow those in Mora pl. 2-3, 7-10 [pl. 2, 4, 11, 7, 9, 12 in the 1808 Grave] (except for No. 2 which is untitled). “The lithographs are very accurate reproductions of Schiavonetti’s etchings/engravings” and are “close in size to the engravings” (except “for the elimination of small areas of the designs along the top and bottom margins of ‘La Puerta de la Muerte’ and ‘La Caverna,’ and on all 4 sides of ‘La Resurreccion’”), a faithfulness perhaps achieved by tracing, according to R.N. Essick, “Blake in the Marketplace, 2009”, Blake, XLIII (2010), 132; Essick is the source of all the information about the Essick copy; John Windle was the discoverer of Blake’s connection with the work.

Four of Mora's poems illustrated in the Meditaciones Poeticas (1826) are included here without prints: "La Muerte del Impio" ("Death of the Strong Wicked Man") (II, 119-20), "La Muerte del Justo" ("The Death of The Good Old Man") (II, 167-68), "La Separacion" ("The Soul hovering over the Body reluctantly parting with Life") (II, 190-92), "El Juicio" ("The Day of Judgment"), and "La Reunion" ("The Reunion of the Soul & the Body") (II, 415-16). The title page for Meditaciones Poeticas is omitted (it has no poem by Mora).

DONNE, John
Poetical Works
(1779)

The unpublished proof for Bell's Edition of The Poets of Great Britain representing a winged figure flying from the viewer is tentatively ascribed in BB #A1450 to Bell's edition of Donne's Poetical Works and in Robert N. Essick, The Separate Plates of William Blake (1983), 236-37, Figure 105, to Bell's edition of Paradise Lost.

There are two copies of the print in the British Museum Print Room, Professor Essick has acquired a copy, and another is in John Windle's List Twenty-Nine (1998), No. 73.

EARLE, James
Practical Observations on the Operation for the Stone
(1793, 1796, 1803)

1793 NEW LOCATIONS: Bodley, British Library, Cambridge, King's College (London), Leeds, Liverpool, Royal College of Surgeons (London), Thüringen, Victoria University in the University of Toronto

The Harvard copy of 1793 is reproduced online.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

1796 NEW LOCATIONS: King's College (London), Wellcome Library; ... Appendix (J. Jonson, 1796): Biblioteca La Solana

1803 NEW LOCATIONS: Biblioteca La Solana, Edinburgh, Glasgow, Wellcome Library

Pl. 3 The attribution to Blake of the new, unsigned fold-out plate in the 1796 and 1803 editions marked "To face P. 8, Appendix", "are in Blake's hand. The letter forms, particularly the 'g,' are characteristic of his engraved lettering--compare his inscriptions in George Cumberland, Thoughts on Outline, 1796."

“Edmund Pitts, Esq<sup>r</sup>.”
after Earle

Copies were offered in James Tregaskis Caxton Head Catalogue (19 July 1909), lot 62 (£1.5.0) and Catalogue 689 (18 July 1910), lot 251 (£1.5.0).

An Album of Blakiana, acquired in 1980 by the Pierpont Morgan Library (E.18.4), has 28 items, including drawings, engravings, and 50 drawings on tracing paper "possibly attributable to Linnell after designs by Blake", inscribed on the inside front cover "Tracings | from Blake books" and, in another hand, "Tracings by Blake's friend, Linnell | of 'The Marriage of Heaven and Hell' | 27 sheet, plus portrait of Edmund Pitts [Essick 2G] and Young's Night Thoughts (1797) pp. 7-8. See §Nineteenth Report to the Fellows of the Pierpont Morgan Library, 1978-1980, ed. Charles Ryskamp (N.Y.: Pierpont Morgan Library, 1981), 178.

Copy 2E (second state) in the Library of Congress was reproduced online.

EMLYN, Henry
A Proposition for a New Order in Architecture
(1781, 1784, 1797)

1781 LOCATIONS (cumulation): Bodley, Canadian Centre for Architecture (Montreal), Colonial Williamsburg Foundation (Williamsburg [Virginia]), Library of Congress, Melbourne, Royal Academy (London), Sir John Soane Museum (London), William and Mary (?imperfect), Yale Center for British Art

1784 NEW LOCATION: Royal Academy (London), Victoria & Albert

1797 NEW LOCATIONS: Pennsylvania, State University of New York (Stony Brook)

\

ENFIELD, William

The Speaker

(1774 [i.e., 1780]; 1781, 1785, 1795, 1797, 1799, 1800)

1774 [i.e., 1780] NEW LOCATIONS: Aberdeen, National Library of Wales, Tulsa (gift of Roger Easson)

1781 NEW LOCATIONS: California (Santa Barbara), Chicago, Illinois, Library Company of Philadelphia, Louisiana State (Shreveport), Morrab Library (Penzance, England), Paxston House (Scotland), Trinity College (Cambridge), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

1785 NEW LOCATION: Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection, 2 copies)

1795 NEW LOCATION: Victoria University in the

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

University of Toronto (with an inscription of "May 8.th 1797" and pressed flowers)

1797 NEW LOCATIONS: Cambridge, Liverpool

1799 NEW LOCATION: Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

1800 NEW LOCATION: Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

At the end of the Victoria University copy is an eight-page catalogue of Joseph Johnson publications, including Bonnycastle, Mensuration ("Price 3s. bound"), Salzmann, Elements of Morality with 50 plates, "Price 10s.6d. bound", and Wollstonecraft, Original Stories from Real Life, "Price 2s.6d. with Cuts bound, or 2s. without Cuts".

On 24 August 1796, Joseph Johnson, the publisher of the hugely-successful Speaker (which included a Blake print), wrote to the Philadelphia bookseller Thomas Dobson:

By the next vessel you shall have some Enfield's Speaker & a few other articles, the elegant plates which accompany this work give it so decided a preference, independant of the accuracy with which it is printed over every other edition which has been printed upon me that you cannot fail having a large demand for it[.]<sup>585</sup>

---

<sup>585</sup> Quoted, like the other Joseph Johnson correspondence here, from office transcripts in the newly-discovered Joseph Johnson Letter-Book now in the Carl H. Pforzheimer Collection of Shelley and His Circle, The New York Public Library, Astor, Lenox and Tilden Foundations, by whose permission they are quoted here. The Letter-Book was copied in approximately chronological order.

And six weeks later, on 10 October, he wrote again:

When the drawback is deducted the price of Enfield's Speaker & Exercises is reduced to 2/4 which I apprehend they would cost you, without the plates, if you were to print & bind them yourself indeed my profit is small but I do expect a considerable demand for them from you; these books are universally used in schools here, of the Exercises we use about one half of what we sell of the Speaker.

EULER, Leonard
Elements of Algebra
(1797)

NEW LOCATIONS: Aberdeen, Birmingham, Cambridge, Edinburgh, Glasgow, Leicester, McGill, Michigan (Dearborn), New York, Newcastle, Oklahoma, Santa Fe Institute, Strathclyde, Wisconsin (Madison)

Blake was probably referring to his engraving (c. 6.8 x 11.0 cm) for Euler's Elements of Algebra when he told the Revd Dr Trusler on 23 August 1799: "I had Twelve [Guineas] for the [small engraved] Head I sent you".<sup>586</sup>

NEW TITLE

---

<sup>586</sup> He could alternatively but less plausibly be referring to his engraving of the head of John Brown (c. 11 x 13 cm) for Brown's Elements of Medicine (1795) or to one of the heads of Catullus and Cornelius Nepos (each c. 10 x 17 cm) for Poems of Caius Valerius Catullus (1795).

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

European Magazine
(1803)

§The European Magazine, and London Review, xliii (April 1803).

The oval frontispiece of “GEORGE ROMNEY, ESQ.<sup>R</sup>,” engraved by William Ridley of Romney’s self-portrait probably derives from Blake’s miniature copied from it for Hayley, not from Romney’s original (then belonging to Hayley, now in the National Portrait Gallery, London). The evidence is persuasively laid out by Mark Crosby and Robert N. Essick, “‘the fiends of Commerce’: Blake’s Letter to William Hayley, 7 August 1804”, Blake, XLIV, 2 (Fall 2010), 52-72.

“Evening Amusement”
(Watteau-Blake)
(1782)

NOTICES, &c

Anon., “Vermischte Nachrichten”, Neue Bibliothek der schönen Wissenschaften und der fryen Künste, XXVII (1782), 123-88, in German <Harvard>

Zwey angenehme Blätter, nach Watteau, aus der Sammlung, des Hrn A. Maskin; Morning Amusement und Evening Amusement, von W. Blake in Röthel, Ovale, zu 9 Zoll 4 Linien Höhe, und 11 Zoll 3 Linien Breite, kosten zusammen 15 Schillinge. [P. 162]

“The Fall of Rosamond”
(Stothard-Blake)
(Macklin, 1 October 1783)

REVIEW, &c

Anon., “Vermischte Nachrichten”, Neue Bibliothek der schönen Wissenschaften und der freyen Künste, XXX, 2 (Leipzig: Dyckischer Buchhandlung, 1785), 317-68, in German <Harvard> (“The Fall of Rosamond ... von Blake, in eben der Manier, gleichen Maasse und Preises” [p. 342])

FENNING, D., and J. COLLYER
A New System of Geography
(2 vols., J. Johnson, 1785-86; 1787)

John Payne

Universal Geography Formed into a New and Entire System*
(London: J. Johnson and C. Stalker, 1791)

1785-86 NEW LOCATIONS: R.N. Essick, Tasmania (Morris Miller Library)

1787: Hennepin County Library (Minnetonka, Minnesota)

Payne LOCATIONS: British Library, Edinburgh

The British Library copies (1785-86, 1803) are reproduced in Eighteenth Century Collections Online.

Pl. 1 The date of “June 6.th 1784” in the British Library copy of 1785-86 was altered in the Essick and Tasmania copies of 1785-86 to “July 16.th 1785”.

Pl. 2 The imprint-date of “April 16.th 1787” (as in the 1787 edition) is found in the Essick copy of 1785-86.

NEW EDITION

"Payne's text is simply a reprint of the Fenning and Collyer text, with identical pagination. The inscription [of pl. 2, 'A MAN [and A WOMAN] of PRINCE WILLIAM'S

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

SOUND', 'POULAHO KING of the FRIENDLY ISLANDS', and 'A MAN [and] A WOMAN] OF VAN DIEMAN'S LAND'] top center has been replaced with 'Engraved for PAYNE'S Universal Geography'. The number bottom right has been erased; the imprint [Publish'd April 16.th 1785 by G. & T. Wilkie, S.<sup>t</sup> Pauls Church Yard'] has been replaced with 'Publish'd March 1st. 1791 by C. Stalker. Stationers Court.' The design, the inscription within it, and Blake's signature lower right remain unaltered."

The frontispiece to Vol. I (1785), probably engraved by Blake, is replaced in 1803 by another plate not related to Blake.

FLAXMAN, John
Compositions from the Works Days and Theogony of Hesiod
(1817, 1870)

NEW LOCATIONS: Art Gallery of New South Wales (Sydney, Australia), Art Institute (Chicago), Auburn (Montgomery [Alabama]), Birmingham, Detroit Mercy, Duke, Edinburgh, Essex, Georgia, Guildhall Library (London – 2 copies), Harvard (Fine Arts Library, Harvard College, Houghton), Indianapolis Museum of Art, Iowa State, Johns Hopkins, Kansas State, Kentucky, Kiel, Lafayette College, London, Louisiana (Lafayette), Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Melbourne Public Library, Michigan, Middle Temple (Honourable Society of the, London), Minnesota, Minuteman Library Network (Natick [Massachusetts]), National Library of Scotland, National Library of Wales, Newcastle Literary and Philosophical Society, New York

Public Library (2), North Carolina (Chapel Hill), Northwestern, Oberlin College, Ohio State, Pennsylvania State, Pierpont Morgan Library, Rijksmuseum (Amsterdam), Rochester, St John's College (Annapolis), South Carolina, State University of New York (Cortland), Syracuse, Temple, Thüringen (Jena [Germany]), Toledo-Lucas County Public Library, Trinity Lutheran Seminary (Columbus, Ohio), Vanderbilt, Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection, 3 copies), Virginia, Wake Forest, Washington (Seattle)

The 1817 edition was reproduced in the William Blake Archive in 2012.

DRAWINGS: The pencil and gray ink drawings, 22.7 x 30.5 cm and slightly smaller, 5 leaves with 1809 and 1813 watermarks, “possibly the preliminary drawings for the Hesiod designs<sup>587</sup> ... or possibly a set created by Flaxman independent of the production of the engravings”, bound in a blue morocco album of the “1860s” by M.M. Holloway<sup>588</sup> in 1970 in the possession of the dealer H.D. Lyon <BB 556-57>, were offered at Christie's (London), 7 June 2001, lot 78 (6 designs and the binding reproduced), ESTIMATE: £80,000-£120,000 [not sold]; as R.N. Essick suggests (“Blake in the Marketplace, 2001”, Blake, XXXV [2002], 120), “Perhaps no potential purchaser could overcome the suspicion that these may be early copies after the plates by a skilled hand other than Flaxman's”; they were offered on consignment to Maggs

---

<sup>587</sup> They are neither the original compositions, which are in the British Museum Print Room, nor tracings from the prints.

<sup>588</sup> John Windle Catalogue 46 (2009), lot 1048.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

from the estate of H.D. Lyon at $125,000.<sup>589</sup> They were offered again by Maggs (Price on Application) in John Windle Catalogue 46 (2009), lot 1048: "We feel safe in concluding ... that the drawings are not copied by a third party." They were sold by Maggs in 2011 for £35,000 to an unidentified collection, according to R.N. Essick.

Pl. 21 ("Theogony" fly-title) A proof before all letters on paper watermarked 1812 is "now [2004] in a private British collection".<sup>590</sup>

REVIEWS, Puffs, Advertisements,<sup>591</sup> &c

Anon., "Literary Intelligence", Gentleman's Magazine, LXXXIV, Part 2 (December 1814), 550-52
(Hesiod is p. 551)

Anon., New Monthly Magazine, II (1 Jan 1815), 537 (engraved by "J. Blake").

Anon., "Literary Intelligence", European Magazine, LXVIII (November 1815), 469-70 (Hesiod is on p. 470) <Bodley>

Anon., "Select Literary Information", Eclectic Review, N.S., IV (December 1815), 622-26 ("Messrs. Longman and Co will shortly" publish Flaxman's Hesiod "Engraved by J. Blake" [pp. 623-24])

"Messrs. Longman and Co. are about to Publish"

Flaxman's Hesiod (at the end of The Remains of

---

<sup>589</sup> R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2008", Blake, XLII (2009), 133.

<sup>590</sup> R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2004", Blake, XXXVIII (2005).

<sup>591</sup> I report advertisements only when they specify (as most do) that the plates were "Engraved by J. Blake".

Hesiod ... ed. Charles Abraham Elton, Second Edition, (London: Baldwin, Cradock, and Joy, 1815) <Harvard>

Anon., “Literary Intelligence”, Scots Magazine and Edinburgh Literary Miscellany, LXXVIII (May 1816), 373-74

“New Works Preparing for Publication, by Longman, Hurst, Rees, Orme, and Brown” (July 1816), 2 (bound with Demosthenes Orationes de Republica duodecem, ed. Guglielmo Allen (Oxonii [no publisher], 1812) <Bodley>

Announcement dated February 1817 identifying (like all the rest) the engraver as “J. Blake” <BBS 214>
Edinburgh Review, XVII, March 1817, 261 (announcement) <BBS 214>

Anon., “Literary Register”, Literary Panorama and National Register, NS V, 30 (March 1817), Columns 951-60 (notice in Col. 953) <Harvard>

Anon., “New London Publications”, Asiatic Journal and Monthly Miscellany, III, 16 (April 1817), 393-94 (notice on p. 394)

Anon., “New Publications in February and March, with Critical Remarks”, New Monthly Magazine, VII, 39 (April 1817), 240 <BB 560, BBS 214>

Anon., “Monthly List of New Publications”, Blackwood’s Edinburgh Magazine, I, 1 (April 1817), 90-95 (notice on p. 90)

“New Works Preparing for Publication, by Longman, Hurst, Rees, Orme, and Brown ... Many of Which Will Appear in the Course of the present Season” (April 1817), p. 3, bound at the end of G[eorge]

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

Dyer, Four Lectures on the English Constitution
... Third Edition (London: Longman ..., 1817)
<Princeton>

Announcement (undated) inserted in a copy of Hesiod in original boards with watermarks of 1812 (pl. 35) and 1814 (flyleaf) belonging to Detlef Dörrbecker
<BBS 214>

Anon., "New Publications from March 1816 to March 1817", Edinburgh Annual Register [for 1816], IX,
Part 2 (1820), cccxxvii-cccl (notice on p. cccxxxiv)

FLAXMAN, John
The Iliad of Homer
(1805)

NEW LOCATIONS: Alabama, American Academy (Rome),
Art Institute (Chicago), Birmingham, Bodley, Boston
Athenaeum, Boston College, Brazenose College (Oxford), Bristol, Brown, Bryn Mawr College, California (Berkeley; Davis), California State Library, Cambridge, Cape Town,
Carleton College, Carnegie Mellon, Chicago, Cincinnati,
Cincinnati and Hamilton County Public Library, Claremont
Colleges, Clearwater Christian College, Cleveland Museum,
Cleveland Public Library, Colorado (Boulder), Columbus
College, Cornell, Corporation of London Libraries, Creighton,
Denver Public Library, DePaul, Duke, Detroit Mercy, Edinburgh, Florida State, Getty Research Institute (Los Angeles), Glasgow, Glasgow School of Art, Guildhall Library
(London), Hamilton College, Harvard, Hennepin County
Library (Minnetonka, Minnesota), Houston, Indiana State,

Iowa State, Kentucky, Konigelige Bibliotek (Copenhagen), Lafayette College, Liverpool, Manchester, McGill, McMaster, Melbourne Public Library, Metropolitan Museum (N.Y.), Michigan, Minnesota (2), Newcastle, Ohio Wesleyan, Old Dominion, Oregon, Pierpont Morgan, New York Public Library, New York University, Pennsylvania, Pennsylvania State, Pittsburgh, Queen's College (Oxford), Rijksmuseum (Amsterdam), Rochester, St Bride Library (London), St John's College (Annapolis [Maryland]), Smith College, State Library of New South Wales, Texas (Austin), Tulsa, Ushaw College (Durham), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection, 4 copies), Wake Forest, Washington (St Louis), Wayne State, Western Michigan, Witwatersrand, Yale

"The price I receive for engraving Flaxman's [3] outlines of Homer [The Iliad (1805)] is five guineas each", according to Blake's letter of 4 May 1804.

Pl. 1 ("Homer Invoking the Muse"): A variant drawing with large decorative panels left and right containing heraldic spears and armour was offered (but not sold) at Sotheby's (London), 31 March 1999, No. 26, reproduced, according to R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 1999", Blake, XXXIII (2000).

EDITION

Composition of John Flaxman, Sculptor: Being Designs in Illustration of the Iliad of Homer. (Nabu Press, 2014) 380 pp.; ISBN: 9781294911548

FLAXMAN, John

A Letter to the Committee for Raising the Naval Pillar
(1799)

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

NEW LOCATIONS: Cambridge, Royal Academy (London)

EDITION

Ecco: Eighteenth Century Collections Online Print Edition, published by Gale [2010] [digitized version of the British Library copy]

Six drawings on one leaf by Flaxman are reproduced in colour online in "William Blake Digital Materials from the Lessing J. Rosenwald Collection" in the Library of Congress and may be freely printed.

FUSELI, John Henry
Lectures on Painting
(1801)

NEW LOCATIONS: Eidgenössische Technische Hochschule (Zurich: A146), Illinois (x740 f9861), Leeds, Library Company of Philadelphia (IS Fues 9032), Liverpool, National Library of Switzerland, New York Public Library (MC 1801), Northwestern, Pierpont Morgan Library (E2 66E), Royal Academy (London), Sir John Soane Museum (London), South Carolina, University College (London [2 copies: 310 (Quartos) C10 FUE and R310 MG 19 [R] FÜ]), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection), Warburg Institute, Yale Center for British Art (ND1150 +F9)

EDITION

§“Lectures on Painting”: Model der Antike und die Moderne Machahmung. Ed. Gisela Baumgarten. 2 vols. (Berlin: Gebr. Mann, 2005) Berliner Schriften zur Kunst.

The text is in English, the notes in German. It was originally a Berlin dissertation.

GAY, John
Fables
(1793, [1811])

1793 NEW LOCATIONS: John Carter Brown Library, Carnegie-Mellon, Indiana, Liverpool Public Library, Newcastle Literary and Philosophical Society, Rhode Island, Rochester, Syracuse, Toronto Public Library (Osborne Collection of Early Children's Books), Tulsa (gift of Roger Easson), Ushaw College (Durham), Victoria & Albert, Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection, royal 8<sup>o</sup>), Westminster City Library, Wormsley Library (bound in Etruscan calf perhaps by Edwards of Halifax)

1793 [1811] NEW LOCATIONS: Durham, Indiana, Manchester, Northwestern, South Carolina, Tulsa (gift of Roger Easson), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection), Waddesdon Manor, Washington (St Louis)<sup>592</sup>

COPIES OF UNRECORDED DATE: NEW LOCATIONS: Auckland Public Library, Birmingham, Detroit Public Library, Durham, Edinburgh, Leeds, London, Nottingham, Sheffield

A proof before title of “The Tame Stag” is in the Fogg

---

<sup>592</sup> BBS reported two “Copies of unrecorded date” in Washington (St Louis), but there is only one copy, of [1811].

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

Museum, Harvard, reproduced online.

Blake's engravings may have been copied not from the first printings of these designs, Vol. I in 1727 and Vol. II in 1738 (as implied by Keynes, BB, Essick, Blake's Commercial Book Illustrations [1991] et al), but from the designs re-engraved by Gerard Van Der Gucht (London: C. Hitch, L. Hawes, et al, 1757). The evidence for this conclusion is chiefly that, compared to the original versions, the 1757 designs reverse right and left and the format is vertical (portrait) rather than horizontal (landscape) as in Blake's plates. The 1762 and 1767 editions revert to the earliest formats. See R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 1997", Blake, XXXI (1998).

REVIEW &c

Prospectus, 1 December 1792, issued with the Monthly Review, IX (December 1792) (Göttingen) announcing the publication of Stockdale's "SPLENDID EDITION OF GAY'S FABLES" "On the 10th Inst." 1792 (not 1793, as on the title page) printed "on a superfine, wove Elephant Octavo [paper] (11 Inches by 7)" with "Seventy Copper-Plates [eventually there were 71], Engraved by Mr. HALL, GRAINGER, AUDINET, BLAKE, MAZELL, LOVEGROVE, WILSON, BROWN, SKELTON, COOKE, &c. [three of whom signed no plate] Price to subscribers 1l. 11s. 6d.—in BOARDS", "with silver paper betwixt each plate and the letter-press" <BBS 216-17>

[GOUGH, Richard]
Sepulchral Monuments in Great Britain,
Part I (1786)

NEW LOCATIONS: Buffalo and Erie County Public Library, Cambridge, Inner Temple (Honourable Society of the), Leicester Academy, London Library, New York Public Library, Newberry, Newcastle, Royal Academy, St Mary of the Lake, Tulsa (gift of Roger Easson)

Pl. 9 A proof before letters of Blake's print<sup>593</sup> of the third state of Queen Philippa on a leaf 38.5 x 49.5 cm, formerly in the collection of Raymond Lister and subsequently in a "private collection, London", was offered in March 2004 by Christopher Edwards (for £2,750 [sic]) and acquired by Robert Newman Essick. The proof is especially interesting because of the inscriptions, in the hand Gough used on other proofs now in Bodley, giving directions to the writing engraver: Above the image but within the plate-mark: "pl. xlix p. 125"; below the image but within the plate-mark: "Portrait of ^Queen^ Phillippa [~~Queen of Edward III~~] from her monument | Basire In & sc"; at the bottom of the page: "[~~Put under d portrait of Q Eleanor Pl xxiii*~~]". The print as published is inscribed: "Pl. XLVIII, p. 123." "Monument of Philippa Queen of Edward III. 1369" and "Basire del & sc".

Gough wrote in pencil on the proof: "Mr Ashley your people have made a mistake which appears very extraordinary as it is very clearly wrote with only one 1 – Philippa".<sup>594</sup>

---

<sup>593</sup> Blake's responsibility for the drawing is plausibly asserted by Malkin (BR (2)563), and his responsibility for the engraving is a generally accepted hypothesis.

<sup>594</sup> The inscription is reported by Christopher Edwards but is invisible to me from his reproduction. This inscription is not given in R.N. Essick, William Blake's

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

Presumably "Mr Ashley" is the writing engraver, but there is no Ashley in Stationers' Company Apprentices 1701-1800, ed. D.F. McKenzie (1978), or in William B. Todd, Directory of Printers and Others in Allied Trades London and Vicinity 1800-1840 (1972), and the only Ashley in Ian Maxted, The London Book Trades 1775-1800: A Preliminary Checklist of Members (1977), 6, is John, a music publisher.

pl. 10        "Portrait of Queen Phillippa from her Monument."
A proof before letters was sold at Cheffins, Grain, and Comins (Cambridge, England), 28 October 1999, No. 98 (reproduced as pl. 10).

See Jerome Bertram, Gough's Sepulchral Monuments: Being a Catalogue of Material Relating to Sepulchral Monuments in the Gough Manuscripts of the Bodleian Library (Oxford: J. Bertram, 2004), 241 pp.

HAMILTON, G.
The English School
(1831-32, 1837, 1839)

1831-32    NEW LOCATIONS:    Aberdeen, Arizona, Bibliothèque Publique et Universitaire (Lausanne: AVA 3356), Boston Athenaeum, Brigham Young, British Library (7812 a 19 and 1422 a 25), Brooklyn Public Library, Buffalo and Erie County Public Library, California (San Diego, Santa Barbara), Cambridge, Delaware, Edinburgh, Fordham,

---

Commercial Book Illustration (1991), 119, who cites this proof and reproduces the final state with printed inscriptions (Pl. 291).

Georgia Institute of Technology, Harvard (Fine Arts Library), Kentucky, Kunsthaus (Zurich), Mississippi, New Hampshire, New York Historical Association, New York Public Library (3-MCT 1831), Pennsylvania State, Smithsonian Institution, Villanova, Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection), Virginia, Washington (St Louis), Wellesley, Yale Center for British Art (N6764.H35)

1837 NEW LOCATIONS: British Library (1267 a 19), Schweizerische Landesbibliothek [Berne], New York Public Library (3-MAMR 1837)

1839 NEW LOCATIONS: Folger (Art Vol. e 50), Schweizerische Landesbibliothek (Berne: Littr Li 3162)

N.B. The 72 prints of Hamilton's Select Specimens of British Artists: Chef-d'Oeuvre des Artistes Anglais (Paris, Baudry, 1837) chosen from his Gallery of British Artists (1831 &c) and listed in D.H. Weinglass, Prints and Engraved Illustrations By and After Henry Fuseli (1994), 150-51, do not (as I am told by Professor Weinglass) include the two prints after Blake's designs for Blair's Grave which had been in the original work.

HARTLEY, David
Observations on Man
(1791)

Two versions NEW LOCATIONS: Aberdeen, John Carter Brown Library, Cambridge (2, 1 from the Keynes Collection), Edinburgh, National Library of Scotland, Tulsa (gift of Roger Easson), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection), Wellcome Institute (London)

A proof of Blake's frontispiece before signature, on wove paper, was acquired by Professor R.N. Essick in 1998.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

According to Herman Andrew Pistorius, Notes and Additions to Dr. Hartley's Observations on Man ... Translated from the German Original MDCCXXII [1772] ... The Third Edition ... (London: J. Johnson, 1801) <Bodley>, "** A Print of the author, engraved by Blake, in quarto, may be had of the publisher, price two shillings and six pence" (p. iii).

HAYLEY, William
Ballads
(1805)

NEW LOCATIONS: Arizona, Auckland, Bryn Mawr, California (Berkeley), California Legion of Honor Museum (San Francisco), California Lutheran, Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland Marshall College of Law (Cleveland [Ohio]), Cleveland State, Colorado (Boulder), Cornell, Dayton, Fogg Museum (Harvard University), Free Library of Philadelphia, Hertfordshire, Iowa, Kentucky, Kongelige Bibliotek (Copenhagen), Leeds, Leicester, Liverpool (2), London Metropolitan, Massachusetts (Amherst), Memorial (St John's [Newfoundland]), Michigan, Michigan State, Missouri, Mount Holyoke College, National Library of Scotland, National Library of Wales, New York Public Library, Northwestern, Ohio, Ohio State, Pennsylvania State, Pepperdine, Phoenix Public Library, Portland State (Portland [Oregon]), St Mary's (Halifax [Nova Scotia]), Simon Fraser, Simpson, Skidmore, Stanford, Temple, State Library of Ohio, Tennessee (Chattanooga), Texas, Texas A&M (San Antonio), Toledo, Tulsa, Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection), Virginia Military Institute, Washington

(St Louis), Wayne State, Xavier (Cincinnati [Ohio]), Yale Center for British Art, Yeshiva

According to my friend Random Cloud, G7 is a cancel in some copies (e.g., in Victoria University in the University of Toronto), with "Lo! his" on p. 109 and "boy who" on p. 110, which replace the version in some copies (e.g., McMaster), with "Lo his" on p. 109 and "boy, who" on p. 110.

Pl. 5 ("The Horse"): The "proof before signature ... in the collection of Mr. Raymond Lister" <BB> is "in fact a lightly inked impression showing fragments of the signature and evidence of having been removed from a copy of the book", according to R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 1999", Blake, XXXIII (2000).

Blake wrote to Hayley on 22 January 1805 that, according to Phillips, the publisher of the Ballads, "one thousand copies should be the first edition".

An examination of the probable costs, sales, and profits or losses of the publication of Hayley's Ballads (1805) may help to elucidate the obscurity of this crucial period of Blake's life.

For each of Blake's 5 "highly finishd" plates for Hayley's Ballads (1805), Blake said he was to have was to have £21 each, according to his letter of 25 March 1805.

The expenses of the volume would have been:

COSTS OF TEXT

Copyright--30 copies given to Hayley in lieu of royalties<sup>595</sup> £ 7. 2. 6

---

<sup>595</sup> Hayley to Phillips, 28 Feb 1805 (BR (2) 200-201). The cost-per-copy is the total manufacturing cost (£238.4.6) divided by the number of copies printed (1,000) = 4s 9d.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

|   |                    |
|---|--------------------|
| Setting 216 8° pp. (13 3/4 sheets) of text bySeagrave at £7.12.0 per sheet <sup>596</sup> | £ 104.10. 0        |
| TOTAL COST OF TEXT <sup>597</sup>  | £ 111.12. 6 |

COSTS OF ENGRAVING

|   |                    |
|---|--------------------|
| Engraving 5 designs at £21 each <sup>598</sup>  | £ 105. 0. 0        |
| 1½ reams of unwatermarked paper at £4.8.0 <sup>599</sup> for1,000 copies of 5 8° plates | £ 6.12. 0          |
| Printing 1,000 copies of 5 plates at 6s per 100 <sup>600</sup>                              | £ 15. 0. 0         |
| TOTAL COST OF ENGRAVINGS   | £ 126.12. 0 |

---

<sup>596</sup> In 1799, Bensley estimated that for Du Roveray's Gray, 1,000 ordinary + 250 Large Paper copies in 8° would cost £12.12.0 per sheet, and 1,250 + 250 Large Paper copies would cost £14.10.0 (MS in the Huntington; see G.E. Bentley, Jr, "F.J. Du Roveray, Illustrated-Book Publisher 1798-1806: II: The Amateur and the Trade", Bibliographical Society of Australia and New Zealand Bulletin, XII [1990], 69); therefore 250 ordinary copies would cost £1.18.0 (£14.0.0 less £12.12.0), and 1,000 would cost £7.12.0 (4 times £1.18.0) per sheet. I presume that this cost includes setting the text, paper (27½ reams at £2.10.0 per ream), printing, labels, hotpressing, and sewing and boarding. The cost of paper derives from that in Malkin's Memoirs (Jan 1806) (BB 595).

In correspondence with Phillips, Seagrave insisted that he should be paid at the rates of London Printers.

<sup>597</sup> All expenses for 1,000 duodecimo copies of the 21 sheets of George Cumberland's Original Tales (1810), including 19 advertisements, came to £147.18.9 (British Library Add. MSS 36,503, ff. 240-241; see G.E. Bentley, Jr, A Bibliography of George Cumberland (1754-1848) [N.Y. and London: Garland Publishing, 1975], 27).

<sup>598</sup> Blake's letter of 22 March 1805. The costs of the copyright of the designs, copper, captions, and corrections were presumably included in Blake's fee.

<sup>599</sup> As in Flaxman's Iliad (April 1805) (BB 561). More prints could be pulled as needed.

<sup>600</sup> Ibid. Note that the cost of printing 8° plates may have been substantially less than for the folio plates in Flaxman's Iliad.

COST OF DISTRIBUTION

|  |                   |
|--|-------------------|
| Advertising <sup>601</sup> including 20 review copies <sup>602</sup> | £ 14.18. 7        |
| 10 copies to Blake at cost <sup>603</sup>                            | £ 2.17. 6         |
| TOTAL DISTRIBUTION COSTS                                      | £ 17.16. 1 |

On the publication in June 1805 of Hayley's Ballads (1805), Blake became liable for his share (c. £23<sup>604</sup>) of the publication-costs, and, though he expected to receive half the proceeds from the sales,<sup>605</sup> this was slow in coming in and probably never equalled his investment in cash and kind. To pay his debt to Phillips, Blake may have had to borrow money, and the sacrifices he had to make to repay his debt may well have reduced him to living on a pittance. Perhaps after all Cromek was right that in the autumn of 1805 the Blakes "were

---

<sup>601</sup> As in Malkin's Memoirs (Jan 1806) (BB 595). There were puffs and ads for Hayley's Ballads in (1-2) Phillips' Monthly Magazine (1 April, 1 July 1805), (3) Edinburgh Review, VI (July 1805), 495, (4) Bent's Monthly Literary Advertiser (Aug 1805), and (5) a Phillips Short List (n.d.).

<sup>602</sup> It was reviewed in (1) Critical Review, 3 S, V (Aug 1805), 439, (2) Literary Journal, V (Aug 1805), 884, (3) Guardian of Education, IV (Sept 1805), 416426, (4) Monthly Mirror, XX (Sept 1805), 184-85, (5) British Critic, XXVI (Nov 1805), 563-64, (6) Eclectic Review (Dec 1805), 923, (7) Flowers of Literature, IV (1805), 417, (8) New Annual Register, XXVI (1805), 355, (9) Annual Review, IV (1806), 576-77, (10) Phillips' Monthly Magazine, XX Supplement (31 Jan 1806), 614-15, and (11) Poetical Register for 1805, V (1807), 489.

<sup>603</sup> Blake is known to have given copies of the Ballads (1805) to Mr Weller and to Lady Hesketh (BR (2) 204, 203), and doubtless there were more which cannot now be identified.

<sup>604</sup> Blake's share was half the total publication cost (£256.0.7) minus the £105 credit for his engravings.

<sup>605</sup> The price given in the Eclectic Review I (Dec 1805), 923, as 10s 6d. (Phillips' Monthly Magazine [1 July 1805], 583, must be in error in giving the price as 6s.) Of this 10s 6d, the bookseller's discount was 16 2/3% (1s 9d), leaving 8s 9d for the publishers.

Sixty copies, given to Hayley (30), to Blake (10), and for review (20), were not available for sale.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

reduced so low as to be obliged to live on half-a-guinea a week!"

We can only guess how many copies of Hayley's Ballads (1805) were sold--probably not many. Had the number been large, Phillips would surely have published another edition.

Profit and Loss Related to Copies Sold

In order to make a profit, 564 copies of the Ballads had to be sold, and almost certainly the total sales were fewer than this.

| Copies Sold | Costs <sup>606</sup> | Receipts | Profit or Loss |
|--------------------|-----------------------------|-----------------|-----------------------|
| 200                | £238.16. 2                  | £ 87.10.0       | -£151. 6. 2           |
| 400                | £243. 2. 3                  | £175. 0.0       | -£ 68. 2. 3           |
| 564                | £246.10. 7                  | £246.15.0       | +£    4. 5            |
| 600                | £247. 8. 4                  | £262.10.0       | +£ 15. 1. 8           |
| 800                | £251.14. 5                  | £350. 0.0       | +£ 98. 5. 7           |
| 940                | £256. 0. 7                  | £395.10.6       | +£139. 9.11           |

It seems very likely that Blake received no profit from the sales of the Ballads, though he did receive credit for £105 for his engravings--from which, of course, he had to deduct the 10s for the copper.

The text of Hayley's ballad of the horse was apparently omitted by Phillips in the proofs, and Blake, in ignorance of this, made an engraving for it. He discovered his mistake when Phillips happened to send Blake in London a proof of <sup>606</sup> Prints could be pulled and copies boarded as they were called for, but the other costs are constant.

---

“the last sheet” to be forwarded to the printer Joseph Seagrave in Chichester. In his letter of 4 June 1805, Blake wrote to Hayley: “I write to entreat that you would contrive so as that my plate would come into the work” (presumably including the text of “The Horse” in the Ballads), so that Blake would not have to omit “ten guineas from my next demand on Phillips.”<sup>607</sup>

A copy inscribed on the Preface “Eliza Martha Cumberland | The gift of Geo. Cumberland | Culver Street | Bristol” and signed by her in a childish hand on the half-title “Miss E M Cumberland” was offered privately by John Windle in April 2000. Cumberland's daughter was born in 1798.

A copy with contemporary colouring<sup>608</sup> is or may well be by Blake or his wife (according to David Bindman, Frances Carey, Robert N. Essick, and John Windle). The palette is significantly similar to that in the coloured copy of the Canterbury Pilgrims (Fitzwilliam Museum). More significantly, it is similar to the tempera of the same subject.<sup>609</sup> In both coloured engraving and tempera, the mother has the same auburn hair and blue dress and cap (darker blue in the engraving) with white frills at the top. In each, the sky is shades of blue and the clouds pink (both more vivid in the engraving).

There are also some significant differences. The frightened little girl's dress is pink in the engraving, muted

---

<sup>607</sup> The problem was pointed out to me by my friend Morton Paley and published in his “William Blake, Richard Phillips, and the Monthly Magazine”, Studies in Romanticism.

<sup>608</sup> Reproduced in The Stranger from Paradise (New Haven and London: Yale University Press, 2001), Illus. 97.

<sup>609</sup> The tempera is described and reproduced in Butlin, #366, Illus. 347.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

yellow in the tempera, and her hair is auburn (like her mother's) in the engraving, an indeterminate brown in the tempera; the bottom of the design is blue water in the engraving, while the same area in the tempera is an indeterminate brown; the ground by the upper tree is yellowish brown in the engraving, soft greenish brown in the tempera; the bank above the horse is a curious dull blue in the engraving and brown in the tempera; the clouds are pink in the engraving, vaguely white in the tempera.

These differences demonstrate that the colourer of the engraving was not simply copying the tempera--such servile copying would be very unlike Blake. But the manner, tact, and delicacy of the colouring, a good deal beyond what might be expected of a professional tinter, suggest that the hand which held the brush was that of William Blake.

A copy in "Original dark gray boards, printed paper label" is listed in John Windle Catalogue 46 (November 2009), lot 34.

HISTORY: (1) It was acquired c. 1920 by Clarence Bement of Philadelphia whose bookplate it bears; (2) This may be the copy acquired by S. Foster Damon which, in the opinion of Sir Geoffrey Keynes and the owner, was coloured by Blake <BB>, (3) Sold at Butterfield Auction House (Los Angeles) 26 September 2000, No. 9047, for $1,200 to the dealer John Windle, who sold it in 2000 to (4) Maurice Sendak.

REVIEWS referring to Blake

Monthly Magazine (1April 1805), 261 (advertisement; it is "in the press") <BB 571>

W. Bent's Monthly Literary Advertiser (August 1805),
26 (advertisement) <BB 571>

Phillips Short List (n.d.) (advertisement) <BB 571>

Anon., British Critic, XXVI (November 1805), 563-64 <Harvard> ("A worse work, we believe, was never produced by a man of literary fame. ... The engravings are worthy of the verses" [p. 564])

[Samuel Greatheed], "Art. VIII. Ballads; by William
Hayley, Esq. Founded on Anecdotes relating to Animals, with Prints designed and engraved by William Blake. Small 8vo. Pp. 216. Price 10s.
6d. Phillips. 1805", Eclectic Review, I (December
1805), 923 (a brief appreciation of the engravings;
Greatheed was one of the editors of the Eclectic Review and is known to have received and tried to sell Hayley's Ballads for Blake [BR (2) 142-43])
<BB #1736>

[Robert Southey], "Art. XVII – Ballads. By *William
Hayley, Esq.* Founded on Anecdotes relating to Animals, with Prints, designed and engraved by William Blake. 8vo. Pp. 212", Annual Review, and History of Literature; for 1805, IV (1806), 575
(the review bitingly mocks both artist and poet)
<BB #2729>

Anon., "Ballads, by William Hayley, Esq. Founded on Anecdotes Relating to Animals, with Prints, designed and engraved by William Blake. Small 8vo. Pp. 212", Poetical Register for 1805 (London, 1807) (Blake is mentioned only in the title and not in the 54-word review) <BB #840>

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

SALE RECORDS

Useful and Valuable Books Recently Published or in Course of Publication by Richard Phillips,<sup>610</sup> p. 11
Useful and Valuable Books Recently published, or in course of publication, by Richard Phillips,<sup>611</sup> not paginated (“Ballads, chiefly intended to illustrate certain facts in the History of Animals. By William Hayley, Esq. With Engravings, by Mr. Blake, 6s. in boards”. [The printed title page reads: “Founded on Anecdotes Relating to Animals”])

EDITIONS

§Hayley, William. Ballads Founded on Anecdotes of Animals. ([No place given:] Gardners Books, 2007)

William Hayley, Ballads (n.p.: CreateSpace Independent Publishing Platform, 2014) 56 pp.; ISBN: 9781499539301

HAYLEY, William
Designs to a Series of Ballads
(1802)

NEW LOCATIONS: Harvard, Library of Congress, National Library of Wales (52 pp.), Northwestern (the Bentley-Essick

---

<sup>610</sup> Appended to Anon. [“An English Gentleman”], Sketch of the Present State of France (London: Richard Phillips, 1805).

<sup>611</sup> Appended to Miss Owenson, Patriotic Sketches of Ireland, Vol. II (London: Richard Phillips, 1807) <New York Public Library>

copy), "Union Psce", Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection, Ballads 1-2), Dr Williams's Library (London: 10470 t 1, Ballad 1)

All four Ballads are reproduced in colour online in "William Blake Digital Materials from the Lessing J. Rosenwald Collection" in the Library of Congress and may be freely printed.

A copy of Parts 1-2 "in I vol., 4to., old paper boards, backed with vellum at a later date ... entirely uncut, some edges browned with age, and a little frayed in places" ("Winchester" [i.e., Chichester], 1802) was offered in James Rimell and Son, No. 288 Illustrated Catalogue of Rare Books (London, 1933), lot 63, for £21.

Drawings

The sketches on the verso of "The Resurrection of the Dead" [c. 1780-85] [Butlin #79 (verso not recorded), Essick Collection (2011)] include the head of an eagle for Ballad 2, "The Eagle", and the man's legs for Ballad 4, "The Dog".

A leaf of sketches including some for Hayley's Designs (Butlin #617, untraced since 1922) was acquired in October 2011 by the Metropolitan Museum (N.Y.) (No. 2011.448).<sup>612</sup>

Another leaf of sketches for Hayley's Designs, "Drawn by William Blake / Vouched by Fred.<sup>k</sup> Tatham" (Butlin #79) was acquired in 2011 by Robert N. Essick.<sup>613</sup>

---

<sup>612</sup> See R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2011", Blake, XLV, 4 (Spring 2012), 110.

<sup>613</sup> See R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2011", Blake, XLV, 4 (Spring 2012), 110.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

Weight and Cost of Copperplates

The 14 copperplates for Hayley's Designs must have weighed 2,464.6 g (5½ pounds) and cost £3.13.1½.<sup>614</sup>

The copperplates do not correspond closely in size to any of Blake's prints in Illuminated Printing.

R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 1999", Blake, XXXIII (2000) gives a census of sets with all four ballads:

Cambridge <BB> (formerly Keynes [not the Fitzwilliam Museum as Keynes promised])

Robert N. Essick (acquired 1999; formerly 4th Earl of Bosford, sold 1884 to Frederick Locker Lampson)<sup>615</sup>

Huntington <BB> (formerly Frank T. Sabin, Frederick R. Halsey [1903], Henry E. Huntington [1915])

Huntington <BBS> (formerly Swinburne)<sup>616</sup>

Library of Congress <BB> (formerly J. Parker and Lessing J. Rosenwald)

Princeton <BB> (formerly M.C.D. Borden, Herschel V. Jones, A.E. Newton, Grace Lansing Lambert)

Trinity College (Hartford, Connecticut) <BB> (formerly Allan R. Brown)

Untraced, in parts in original blue wrappers (formerly

---

<sup>614</sup> G.E. Bentley, Jr, "Blake's Heavy Metal: The History, Weight, Uses, Cost, and Makers of His Copper Plates", University of Toronto Quarterly, LXXVI (2007), 740.

<sup>615</sup> Essick's copy in green morocco, all edges gilt, maybe the one in "green morocco extra, g.e." from the Library of George Dew-Smith sold at Sotheby's, 29-30 Jan 1878, lot 197 [£9 to Jones]

<sup>616</sup> One of the Huntington copies was reproduced in 2009 in the William Blake Archive.

B.B. Macgeorge, sold Sotheby, 1 July 1924, lot 120; W.E. Moss, sold 1937 to Maggs); William Hayley's copy, sold by Mr Evans, 13 February 1821 ff., lot 1636, "4 Numbers" (4s to Smith); Archdeacon Francis Wrangham (acquaintance of Hayley), sale of his Library at Sotheby's, 29 November-9 December 1843, lot 557 (30 Nov), "4 parts" [13s to Evans]

The set in 3 parts in the National Library of Wales (Aberystwyth) may be the one from Hayley's Library sold by Mr Evans, 13 February 1821 ff., lot 1637 [3s 6d to Rivington].<sup>617</sup>

DRAWINGS: The newly-rediscovered drawing of "The Resurrection" (Butlin #610, untraced since 1863) (mid-1780s) has on the verso pencil "studies of eyes, the head of an eagle, a human face, and a lion", some of which "are related to Blake's 1802 Designs to a Series of Ballads", according to R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2002", Blake, XXXVI (2003); both recto and verso are reproduced in the Sotheby catalogue of 5 July 2002, lot 183; it was offered in Agnew's 130th Annual Exhibition of Watercolours & Drawings, 5-28 March 2003, lot 17, for £260,000, according to R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2003", Blake, XXXVII (2004), 119.

The Publication of the Designs (1802)

Hayley's Designs to a Series of Ballads were from the first a commercial undertaking. Hayley said that they were

---

<sup>617</sup>All this new information about the Designs to a Series of Ballads (1802) comes from R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2010", Blake, XLIV (2011), 142.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

intended “for the Emolument of Mr Blake the artist”,<sup>618</sup> and he actively engaged his friends to become Ballad Mongers. The work was published at Blake's expense and for his benefit.

Debits and Credits

The chief cash costs were for (1) copperplates for the 6 large and 8 small engravings, (2) paper for text (watermarked "1802") including separate printed blue covers and large prints, and (3) paper and printing the 10¼ sheets of text and the covers by Joseph Seagrave in Chichester (the Blakes printed the engravings in Felpham). There was no cost for advertising (except in review-copies), and no payment to the author, the designer, the engraver, and the plate-printers except in possible profit from sales. There was no profit.

The text consisted of 37 quarto leaves, with prints on pp. iv, 1, 9, 11, 26, 27, 39, 41:

|                       |           |          |   |                  |
|-----------------------|-----------|----------|---|------------------|
| Title page            |           | 1 leaf   | } |                  |
| Preface               | pp. i-iv  | 2 leaves | } | 2½ sheets        |
| Ballad 1 The Elephant | pp. 1-10  | 5 leaves | } |                  |
| Blue paper covers     |           | 2 leaves | } |                  |
| Ballad 2 The Eagle    | pp. 11-26 | 8 leaves | } | 2½ sheets        |
| Blue paper covers     |           | 2 leaves | } |                  |
| Ballad 3 The Lion     | pp. 27-40 | 7 leaves | } | 2¼ sheets        |
| Blue paper covers     |           | 2 leaves | } |                  |
| Ballad 4 The Dog      | pp. 41-52 | 6 leaves | } | 2 sheets         |
| Blue paper covers     |           | 2 leaves | } |                  |
| Total          |           |          |   | 9¼ sheets |

---

<sup>618</sup> Hayley's autobiography is quoted in BR (2) 123.

In addition, there are 6 leaves (1½ quarto sheets) with full-page prints for Preliminaries (1 print) and Ballad 1 (1), Ballad 2 (1), Ballad 3 (1), and Ballad 4 (2). Each complete set of the Designs, all four Parts, used 43 leaves, 10¾ quarto sheets.

The text must have been printed by Seagrave in four print-runs, one in late May 1802 for the Preliminaries and Ballad 1, one in late June for Ballad 2, one in late July for Ballad 3, and one in early September for Ballad 4. The engravings, however, were only printed as they were called for--“we have Sold all that we have had time to print” (Blake’s letter of 30 January 1803)--and they weren't called for very much.

For paper for the full-page prints in the Designs, “Blake has ... [arranged] for his Ballads to deal with his own stationer in London, & send it down as He thought proper”, according to Hayley's letter of 6 July 1802.

We do not know how many copies of the Designs were printed<sup>619</sup> or what Seagrave's charges were for printing and paper, but we may make educated estimates based on Blake's statement in his letter of 28 December 1804 that he paid Seagrave “30 Pounds ... in part of his account”<sup>620</sup> and on contemporary printing prices. On 10 October 1800 Thomas Bensley estimated that the cost of paper, printing, and hot-<sup>619</sup> Known sales were Part 1 (56 copies), Part 2 (26), Part 3 (7), and Part 4 (13), plus 15 unidentified Parts sold by Evans. This is echoed by copies traced today: Part 1 (17), 2 (13), 3 (11), 4 (8).

---

<sup>620</sup> Hayley wrote on 3 April 1803 that Blake “has paid a Bill of 30£ for paper” [and printing] for the Designs.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

pressing 1,000 quarto copies of Thomson's Seasons (5 sheets each) for F.J. Du Roveray would be £15.15.0 per sheet (£78.15 in all).<sup>621</sup> Perhaps Blake's provincial printer Joseph Seagrave charged him £15 for paper and printing per thousand quarto sheets.

It is a mere informed guess that the print-run for Ballad 1 was 250 copies and that this was continued for Ballad 2 when the first sales for Ballad 1 at first seemed promising. When the sales for Ballad 2 proved disastrous, Blake must have reduced his print-order, perhaps to 150 copies, for Ballads 3-4.

The expenses of printing and paper might have been as follows:

| Cost of 250 Copies of Ballads 1-2          |                |
|---|----------------|
| Printing 1250 sheets (250 x 5 sheets) at £15 per  |                |
| 1,000 sheets <sup>622</sup>                       | £18.15.0       |
| 187.5 sheets for 250 copies of 3 full-page quarto |                |
| prints (quarter sheets) at £5 per ream of 500     |                |
| sheets  | £1.17.3 |
|   | £20. 2.3       |

Cost of 150 Copies of Ballads 3-4

---

<sup>621</sup> Quoted from the MS in the Huntington Library; see G.E. Bentley, Jr, "F.J. Du Roveray, Illustrated-Book Publisher 1798-1806: The Amateur and the Trade", Bibliographical Society of Australia and New Zealand Bulletin, XII (1988), 70.

<sup>622</sup> The medium plate paper for Flaxman's Iliad (1805) cost £4.8.0 per ream in 1805 and £5 in 1808 (BB 561-62). The cheap blue paper for the covers (400 sheets for Ballads 1-2, 200 sheets for Ballads 3-4) would have cost a good deal less than the fine white paper.

|  |                 |
|--|-----------------|
| Printing 637.5 sheets (150 x 4¼ sheets) at £15 per |                 |
| 1,000 sheets                                       | £ 9.11.3        |
| 112.5 sheets for 150 copies of 3 full-page quarto  |                 |
| prints (quarter sheets) at £5 per ream of 500      |                 |
| sheets   | £ 1. 2.6 |
|  | £10.13.9        |
| Total                                       | £30.16.0 |

Presumably Seagrave printed copies of each Ballad in Chichester and sent them to Blake in Felpham; Blake and his wife then printed engravings on text plates plus the full-page plates--but they printed them only as the need arose, not all at once.

The printing of the engravings was done by the Blakes. Hayley wrote to Lady Hesketh on 10 June 1802: "He & his excellent Wife (a true Help-mate!) pass the plates thro' a rolling press in their own cottage together; & of course it is a work of some Time to collect a Number of Impressions."<sup>623</sup>

When there proved to be demand for only a few score copies,<sup>624</sup> Blake was left with many copies of the printed text of the Designs which were of no commercial value. Blake cannily kept these printed sheets, even taking them back to London with him in 1803, at considerable trouble, and he made drawings on them for the rest of his life, including designs for Blair's Grave (1805), Malkin's Memoirs (1806),

---

<sup>623</sup> Hayley repeats this in his letter to R.H. Evans on 3 April 1803: "He and his good industrious Wife together take all the Impressions from the various Engravings in their own domestic Press".

<sup>624</sup> There are records of country sales of 115 copies for which Blake received £15.15.0 (BR (2) 153). In London, according to Blake's letter of 26 Oct 1803, "Mr Evans ... says he has sold but fifteen numbers at the most".

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

Job and Dante (c. 1824).<sup>625</sup>

Sales

The first reports of sales were encouraging. On 29 June 1802 Hayley wrote that Ballad 1 is “marching triumphantly on the road of prosperity”, and as late as 30 January 1803 Blake wrote to his brother: “These Ballads are likely to be Profitable for we have Sold all we have had time to print. Evans the Bookseller in Pallmall says they go off very well”.

However, Hayley told R.H. Evans on 3 April 1803: “He [Blake] has paid a Bill of 30 £ for paper & the copies He has disposed of in the country have not produced more than half that sum<sup>626</sup> to reimburse Him”. The £30 for Seagrave was apparently partly advanced by Hayley, for on 28 December 1804 Blake thanked Hayley for “the Twelve Guineas which you Lent Me when I made up 30 Pounds to pay our Worthy Seagrave in part of his Account”.

Blake wrote on 26 October 1803: “Mr. Evans ... gives

---

<sup>625</sup> BB 574-75 and BBS 221-222 record 47 leaves from the Designs used as scrap paper but none for finished engravings. (The “Riddle Manuscript” is on the verso of a proof before letters from the Designs.) There are 9 leaves used as scrap from Part 1, 24 from Part 2, 8 from Part 3, and 6 from Part 4. This might suggest that Part 2 provided most unvendible copies. A disproportionate number of scraps are on leaves which would have had prints on them: pp. 9 (5), 11 (1), 26 (6), 27 (1), 41 (2). Since the “Pickering Manuscript” consists of 11 leaves of the same unwatermarked paper, and since leaf 8 is from Hayley’s Designs to a Series of Ballads (1802) p. 20 (l. 10<sup>v</sup>), therefore the “Pickering Manuscript” probably consists of Designs ll. 3-13 (pp. 5-26). No print from the Designs is known to have been re-used.

<sup>626</sup> £15 would have paid for 120 individual Ballads at 2s 6d each. However, we know that Lady Hesketh paid £5.5.0 for 10 copies and Flaxman £1.17.6 for 4, leaving only £7.17.6 (£15 - £7.2.6) or 63 copies.

small hopes of our ballads; he says he has sold but fifteen numbers at the most, and that going on would be a certain loss of almost all the expenses”, and on 22 January 1805 he wrote that the London bookseller Thomas Phillips advised that “we must consider all that has been printed as lost, and begin anew”.

The Designs to a Series of Ballads were printed by J. Seagrave in Chichester and sold by him and P. Humphry and R.H. Evans in London “for W. BLAKE, Felpham”. We do not know how many copies Seagrave sold – perhaps he only provided the copy for the reviewer in the Sussex Chronicle & Chichester Advertiser (2 June 1802), which he printed – but we have good information about how many were sold by Evans in London (15, worth £1.17.6)<sup>627</sup> and how many were disposed of by friends of Blake and Hayley (120, worth £15),<sup>628</sup> mostly in the country.

The Known Distribution of the *Designs

#1 Anon., reviewer for Sussex Chronicle & Chichester Advertiser (2 June 1802), 172

#1 Charlotte Collins, 9 copies (2 of which were to replace damaged copies), 1 of which went to Mr Spilsbury (28 June 1802)

#1 John Flaxman’s 5 copies went to Mr [John] Hawkins (2 copies), Mr [William] Long, Mr [Samuel] Rogers;

---

<sup>627</sup> The sales by Evans included Ballads 1-3 for Anna Seward and Ballads 3-4 for Lady Heskth and some of her friends; Evans would have deducted his commission from these sales. We have no information about London sales by P. Humphry.

<sup>628</sup> We can account for sales of 62 copies of Ballad 1, 19 of Ballad 2, 10 of Ballad 3, and 12 of Ballad 4 = 103 copies in all. Only 53 numbers have been traced today.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

- Flaxman paid “for the whole of my copy” [i.e., £1.17.6 for 15 Numbers at 2s 6d each] (27 June 1802)
- #1 Samuel Greatheed received 6, but he sold none (Mr Courtney was sent a copy but it was “returned unpurchased”) (1 September 1802); he referred to them in his review of Hayley’s Ballads in the Eclectic Review (1 December 1805)
- #1 Harriet Lady Hesketh was sent “a Bundle of Ballads” from Hayley, which she disposed of to 3 Bath libraries, Lord [William] and Lady [Mary] Harcourt, Richard Hurd, Dr Randolph (2 copies, 1 to show to Lord Spencer), and “My Sist<sup>r</sup> [Theodora]”, and she kept one; she paid £5.5.0 for them all (BR (2) 129, 132, 135-36, 146), though by her own figures she only owed £1.5.0; Lady Hesketh received from Blake “two packets of ballads” [5 in each] (15 October 1802)
- #1 Johnny Johnson was sent 20 copies and disposed of “several copies” (6 June, 7 July 1802)
- #1 E.G. Marsh (“I hope to contribute my little assistance to the payment” (20 June 1802)
- #1 Mrs Throckmorton of Bath was sent it by Conder, bookseller of Bucklesbury, but we don’t know if she bought it (3 September 1802)
- #1-2 Anon., reviewer for the European Magazine (August 1 802), 125-26
- #1-2 Isaac Reed (BR (2) 856) perhaps from Nancy Flaxman, who gave him Poetical Sketches (F) in 1784
- #1-3 Anon., reviewer for Poetical Register (1803), 410 (BR (2) 143 footnote)

- #1-3 Offered in R.H. Evans catalogue (1804), lot 1001, no price (BR (2) 143 footnote)
- #1-3 William Hayley (BR (2) 153)
- #1-3 Anna Seward from the booksellers (3 March 1803)
- #1-4 Thomas Butts, for Mr [John] Birch (Blake's letter of 25 April 1803); Blake also sent "some Ballads" with his letter of 22 November 1802, perhaps the "4 N<sup>os</sup> of Hayleys Ballads" in his receipt of 3 March 1806 (BR (2) 764); in his letter to Butts of 25 April 1803, Blake said "I now send the 4 Numbers for M<sup>r</sup> Birch"; in the 1806 account with Butts is also a record of 3 Numbers to Mr Birch (7s 6d)
- #1-4 R.H. Evans, the book's London publisher, sold 15 numbers "at the most" (Blake's letter of 26 October 1803)<sup>629</sup>
- #1-4 Hayley (BR (2) 153)
- #1-4 "James Parker", copy in the Library of Congress
- #1-4? Charlotte Smith's daughter from Hayley<sup>630</sup>

---

<sup>629</sup> The 15 Numbers of Hayley's Designs sold by Evans must have included all the copies sold through the booksellers: 5 copies each (10 in all) of #3-4 for Lady Hesketh, "my Sistr [Theodora] and some other friends" (BR (2) 146) (probably Lord and Lady Harcourt, Richard Hurd, and Dr Randolph who took #1 through her (BR (2) 132), 1 set of #1-3 (3 in all) which Anna Seward took through the booksellers (BR (2) 150), and 1 copy of #1 through Conder's in Bucklesbury (BR (2) 145-46). This means that Evans may have sold only one copy or none through the three Bath libraries which displayed copies or from the "long list of Cowpers" whom Lady Hesketh had directed to subscribe (BR (2) 132, 135).

The list of sales by Evans does not include the free review copies for the European Magazine (1802) (#1-2), Poetical Register (1803) (#1-3), or the copy still unsold in his 1804 catalogue.

<sup>630</sup> Letter of 16 Dec 1802 in The Collected Letters of Charlotte Smith, ed. Judith Phillips Stanton (Bloomington and Indianapolis: Indiana University Press, 2003), 503, Hayley's "publication about animals".

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

- #2 Lady Hesketh received 5 (Ballads 3-4 were to come from her Bath bookseller), "as well as those I take in for my Sist<sup>r</sup> [Theodora Cowper] and some other friends", sent Blake £5.5.0 (28 June, 15 October 1802)
  - #2 Charlotte Collins was ready to take 7 (28 June 1802)
  - #3 Greatheed expected to receive copies (3 September 1802)
  - #3 Johnny Johnson, some to be sent by Hayley (6 August 1802)
  - #4 Mrs Flaxman, 5 copies sent via James Blake (Blake's letter of 30 January 1803)
  - #4 James Blake, 5 copies, 2 of them for Mrs [Penelope Carleton] Chetwynd (Blake's letter of 30 January 1803) and apparently 3 to Butts ("3 Hayleys Ballads + Brother", account with Butts of 3 March 1806)
- various Friends took 22 copies<sup>631</sup>

Blake's probable expenses for the Designs were therefore for paper and printing (£30.16.0), copper (£3.13.1½), and advertising (15s for 6 review-copies) or £34.18.1½ in all, and his probable receipts (£16.7.6) left him considerably out of pocket. Hayley's generous gesture had been a disaster for Blake, not only in losing money but also in wasting his creative genius.

Designs Paper Used for Scrap Paper

---

<sup>631</sup> Hayley wrote to R.H. Evans on 3 April 1803 that sales "in the country" (i.e., through friends of Hayley and Blake) came to about £15, the price of 120 copies. We can account for sales through friends of 98 copies, suggesting that they sold 22 copies of which we have no other record.

Pp. 5-26 (B2<sup>r</sup>-E4<sup>v</sup>) were used for 'The Pickering [Ballads] MS (Morgan).

For reproduction and discussion of sketches on the verso of "The Last Trumpet" (c. 1785), see Martin Butlin, "A Blake Drawing Rediscovered and Dated", Blake, XXXIV (2000), 23-24.

REVIEWS referring to Blake

Anon., "Sussex and Adjacencies. Chichester", Sussex Chronicle & Chichester Advertiser, No. 22 (2 June 1802), 172 (a notice of "the first number of Mr. Hayley's ... Ballads, to the engravings of Mr. Blake") <BB #1033>

Anon., "Designs to a Series of Ballads, written by William Hayley, Esq. And founded on Anecdotes relating to Animals, drawn, engraved, and published, by William Blake. With the ballads annexed by the Author's Permission. Two Numbers. 4to. Printed at Chichester", European Magazine, XLII (August 1802), 125-26 ("The artist has executed his share of the undertaking much to his credit ....") <BB #A916>

SALES

SALES OF ALL FOUR BALLADS<sup>632</sup>

Evans, sale of Hayley's Library, 13 February 1821 and 12 following days, lot 1636, "Hayley's Ballads, with Blake's Designs, 4 Numbers, 1802), 4s 6d to "Smith" and lot 1637, 3 Numbers (Rivington, 3s 6d), perhaps the copy in the National Library of Wales, "the

---

<sup>632</sup> The information derives from R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace 2010", Blake, XLIV (2011), 142.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

only traced copy with 3 ballads”.

Sotheby, 29 November-9 December 1843, “second portion” of the library of Archdeacon Francis Wrangham, lot 557, on 30 November, “Blake (W.) Designs to a series of Ballad written by W. Hayley, plates, 4 parts Chichester, 1802” (Evans, 13s).

Sotheby, sale of the library of Albert George Dew-Smith (collector and photographer, 1848-1902), 29 January 1878, lot 197: “Blake (W.) Designs to a Series of Ballads written by W. Hayley, with the Ballads annexed, fine impression of the plates, green morocco extra, g.e. Chichester, 1802” (£9 to Jones); perhaps this is the Essick copy in green morocco, all edges gilt.

Bibliotheca Reediana, auction by King & Lochee, 5 December 1807 <Harvard>, lot 8936 includes Designs “2 No. 1802”)

HAYLEY, William
Essay on Sculpture
(1800)

NEW LOCATIONS: Adelaide, Agence bibliographique de l'enseignements supérieur (Montpellier, France), Alabama (Birmingham), Alberta, Andrews (Berrrian Springs [Michigan]), Arizona, Auburn (Montgomery [Alabama]), Auckland, Bayerische Staatsbibliothek (München [Germany]), Bibliothèque nationale (Paris), Birmingham, Boston Athenaeum, John Carter Brown Library, Brandeis, Brigham Young, British Museum Print Room (Nancy Flaxman's copy),

Brown, Bryn Mawr College, California (Berkeley, San Diego), Claremont Colleges, Cornell, Dalhousie, Davidson College, Delaware, Edinburgh, Florida Southern, Fordham, Hastings College of the Law, Istituto Universitario Europea (Fiesole [Italy]), Johns Hopkins, Kansas State (Manhattan), Kent State, Kentucky, King's College University (Halifax [Nova Scotia]), King's College (London), King's College (University of, Halifax [Nova Scotia]), La Trobe (Bundoora [Victoria, Australia]), Landesbibliothek Oldenburg (Germany), London, London Metropolitan University, Macquarie (Australia), Maryland State, McMaster, Medical Faculty, Melbourne, Minnesota (Duluth, Morris), Mississippi, Missouri (Columbia), Monash, Mount Saint Vincent (Halifax [Nova Scotia]), Muhlenberg College, Murdoch (Australia), National Library of Medicine (Bethesda [Maryland]), New Brunswick (Fredericton [New Brunswick]), New Hampshire, Newcastle Literary and Philosophical Society, Niedersächsische Staats-und-Universität Bibliothek, Oklahoma, Old Dominion, Otago, Pennsylvania, Principia College, St John's (N.Y.), San Diego, Sarah Lawrence College, Simpson, Staatsbibliothek zu Berlin, State Library of Victoria (Melbourne, Australia), Sydney (Australia), Texas (Austin, Tyler), Universitäts-und Landesbibliothek sechsen-Anhalt (Halle [Germany]), University College (Cork [Ireland]), University College (Dublin), Victoria (Victoria [British Columbia]), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection), Virginia Commonwealth, Warburg Institute, Western Australia, Western Carolina (Cullowhee [North Carolina]), Wisconsin (Milwaukee), Wright State, Yeshiva

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

Blake's plates (collection of Robert N. Essick) were reproduced by the William Blake Archive in 2013.

A drawing for "The Death of Demosthenes" engraved by Blake was acquired in 1994 by Professor Robert Essick. As the legend on the printed design is "T.H. [i.e., Thomas Hayley] invenit", it is very striking that the style of the drawing is that of Flaxman, who taught William Hayley's illegitimate son Tom to be a sculptor.

It was reviewed in (1) §British Critic, XVI (1800), 679-80, (2) §Critical Review, NS XXXI (1801), 48-53, (3) §Monthly Mirror, X (1800), 156-57, (4) §Monthly Review, XXXVI (1801), 113-21, and (5) §New Annual Register, XXI, 3 (1800).

ADVERTISEMENT

An announcement of its publication appeared in the Morning Post for 1 May 1800.<sup>633</sup>

HAYLEY, William
The Life ... of William Cowper, Esqr.
Three Volumes (1803-1804)

1803-4 NEW LOCATIONS: Adelphi, Alberta, Allen County Public Library (Indiana), Arizona State, Athenaeum (Philadelphia), Auckland Public Library, Boston, Boston College, Brandeis, Brown, Bryn Athyn College, British Columbia, Bryn Mawr College, California (Berkeley; Irvine; Los Angeles; Santa Barbara; Santa Cruz), Central Connecticut

---

<sup>633</sup> Mark Crosby, "Blake and the Banknote Crises of 1797, 1800, and 1818", University of Toronto Quarterly, LXXX (2011), 829.

State, Chicago, Clark, Connecticut, Cornell, Cowper and Newton Museum (Olney, Buckinghamshire), Delaware, Edinburgh, Essex, Harvard, Houston, Howard, Illinois (Chicago), Iowa, Johns Hopkins, Houston, Leeds, Lehigh, Leicester, Library of Congress, Louisiana, Loyola (Chicago), Manchester, Marquette, McMaster, Michigan, Michigan State, Middle Temple (London), Mills College, Minnesota (Minneapolis), Missouri (Kansas City), Mount Holyoke College, National Gallery (Washington, D.C.), National Library of Ireland, National Library of Scotland, National Library of Wales, Nebraska (Lincoln), New York, New York Public Library, Newberry Library, Newcastle, Northwestern, Ohio, Pennsylvania State, Principia College, Queen's (Belfast), San Francisco Public Library, Southern California, Southern Illinois, Stanford, State University of New York (Albany; Stony Brook), Texas (Austin), Trinity College (Hartford, Connecticut), Tulsa (gift of Roger Easson), Vanderbilt, Vassar College, Victoria & Albert Museum, Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection, 2 sets), Virginia, Wake Forest, Wales (Lampeter), Washington State, Wayne State, Wellesley College, Wesleyan (Connecticut), Williams College, Wisconsin (Milwaukee)

1803 Second Edition of Vol. I-II NEW LOCATIONS:
Aberdeen, Cambridge (Keynes Collection), Glasgow, Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

For a letter from the bookseller Joseph Johnson to William Hayley concerning payment to Blake for his engravings for Hayley's Cowper, see Claire Tomalin under Joseph Johnson below.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

A 1803-4 NEW LOCATIONS: Auckland Public Library, Athenaeum (Philadelphia), Brown, California (Berkeley, Santa Barbara), Cornell, Cowper and Newton Museum (Olney, Buckinghamshire), Edinburgh, Iowa, Library of Congress, Michigan, Mills College, Minnesota, Mount Holyoke College, National Gallery (Washington, D.C.), National Library of Scotland, New York Public Library, Northwestern, Pennsylvania State, Southern California, Stanford, State University of New York (Stony Brook), Wayne State

B Second Edition (1804): NEW LOCATIONS: Kentucky, Rochester

Blake wrote that

My Wife has undertaken to Print the whole number of the Plates for [the first two volumes of] Cowpers work which She does to admiration & being under my own eye the prints are as fine as the French prints & please every one. ... The Publishers are already indebted to My Wife Twenty Guineas for work deliverd [letter of 30 January 1803.]

However, after the Blakes had printed 12 proof sets of the two plates for Vol. III of Cowper, Blake had to "send the Plates to [Joseph] Johnson who wants them to set the Printer to work upon" (letter of 31 March 1804). R.N. Essick remarks that

The plates for vols. 1-2 are much more clearly and darkly printed in the second edition .... One hesitates to blame Mrs Blake for the poor impressions of the first states, but that may indeed be the case [William Blake's Commercial Book Illustrations (1991)].

NEW ENTRY
HAYLEY, William
The Life ... of William Cowper
(N.Y., 1803)

1803 New York NEW LOCATION: Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

A set was inscribed "From the Author" to "Penelope Chetwynd", and "This Copy of Cowper's Life is presented to Mrs William Chetwynd by the author as a memorial of Friendship. 1803".<sup>634</sup>

Blake's plates (collection of Robert N. Essick) were reproduced by the William Blake Archive in 2013.

The wood-engraving in William Hayley, The Life and Posthumous Writings of William Cowper (N.Y.: T. and J. Swords, 1803), Vol. II, at p. 245, of "The Weather-house" and "Cowper's Tame Hares" (8.3 x 11 cm) signed Alexander "Anderson F[ecit]" was copied from the design signed "Blake d & sc" in the edition of London: J. Johnson, 1803, as R.N. Essick was the first to point out in "Blake in the Marketplace, 1996", Blake, XXX (1997), Illus. 8. The plates engraved by Peter Maverick of Cowper and of Cowper's mother (Vol. I, frontispiece and at p. 3) are copied from Blake's engravings after George Romney and D. Heins.

---

<sup>634</sup> Quaritch catalogue (Jan 2012), lot 73, £1,250, cited by R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2012", Blake (2013). Mrs Chetwynd was also a friend of Blake; see Angus Whitehead, "'M<sup>rs</sup> Chetwind & her Brother' and 'M.<sup>r</sup> Chetwynd'", Blake, XLII, 2 (Fall 2008), 75-79.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

HAYLEY, William
The Life of George Romney
(1809)

NEW LOCATIONS: Alberta, Albright Knox Art Gallery (Buffalo), Arizona, Arizona State, Art Institute (Chicago), Bibliothèque d'Art & d'Archaeologie (France), Birmingham, Boston Athenaeum, Bowdoin, Boston College, Boston Museum, British Columbia, Brown, Bryn Mawr College, California (Berkeley [2]; Davis; Los Angeles; Riverside; Santa Barbara; Santa Cruz), Chicago, Chrysler Museum, Clarke, Columbia, Connecticut College, Cornell, Dartmouth College, Delaware, Edinburgh, Emory, Florida, Folger Library, Getty Research Institute (Los Angeles), Glasgow, Harvard (Fine Arts; Houghton), Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Johns Hopkins, Kansas, Kentucky, Kimbell Art Museum, King's College (London), Lehigh, Library of Virginia, London Library, Los Angeles County Museum of Art, Manchester, McGill, McMaster, Metropolitan Museum (N.Y.), Michigan, Minnesota (Minneapolis, 2), National Library of Canada, Nelson Atkins Museum, New Brunswick, Northwestern, Ohio State, Pennsylvania State, Queen's College (N.Y.), Queen's College (Oxford), Rice, Ringling Museum of Art, Royal Academy (London), San Francisco, San Francisco Public Library, Stanford, Strathclyde, Texas (Austin), Tulsa (gift of Roger Easson), Utah, Utrecht, Victoria (British Columbia), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (2, Bentley Collection, one lacking prints), Victoria & Albert Museum, Virginia, Virginia Historical Society, Wake Forest, Wales

(Lampeter), Washington (St Louis), Waterloo, Wisconsin (Green Bay, Madison, Milwaukee, Parkside), Yale

Large Paper copies are on heavy paper watermarked “1807” and include an advertisement for “Epistles to Romney”, while small paper copies are watermarked “Rye Mill 1807” and lack the advertisement (John Windle Catalogue 46 [2009], lot 79).

Ordinary copies of Hayley’s Romney (1809) have a printed spine-label reading “LIFE | OF | G. ROMNEY | - | HAYLEY” <Essick Collection>, but the one on large-paper copies reads: “HAYLEY’S | LIFE | of | ROMNEY | Illustrated | WITH | TWELVE PLATES | BY | CAROLINE WATSON.” <Essick Collection>, though she engraved only 7 of them.

NEWLY RECORDED ENGRAVING AFTER BLAKE

In Caroline Watson’s frontispiece of three self-portraits of Romney, the small oval one at bottom representing Romney wearing a hat is probably copied from Blake’s lost miniature.<sup>635</sup>

For Hayley’s Romney (1809), Blake asked £31.10.0 for “finishd” quarto plates and £15.15.0 for the “less Finishd”, according to his letter of 22 June 1804. Blake engraved two finished plates but one was not used.

Blake referred to his engraving of the self-portrait of Romney designed as the frontispiece<sup>636</sup> in his letters of 7, 26 October, 13 December 1803, 27 January, 23 February, 16 March, 4 May, 22 June, 28 September, 23 October, and 18

---

<sup>635</sup> See Mark Crosby and Robert N. Essick, “‘the fiends of Commerce’: Blake’s Letter to William Hayley, 7 August 1804”, Blake, XLIV (2010), 64.

<sup>636</sup> It is described as the frontispiece in the directions to the binder.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

and 28 December 1804. Blake asked £42 for it, according to Hayley's letter of 7 August 1803,<sup>637</sup> and he referred in his letter of 18 September 1804 to "the Head of Romney for which I am already paid". In his letter of 4 May 1804 he wrote that the daughter of Romney's friend Walker thought "my print of Romney ... very like indeed", in that of 22 June 1804 he said that the engraver James "Parker commends it highly". On 18 December 1804 he sent a proof to Hayley and wrote that Nancy Flaxman "has given her warm approbation ... to the plate of the Portrait, though not yet in so high finished a state". "I am very far from shewing the Portrait of Romney as a finished proof ... I hope to make it a Supernaculum" (28 December 1804).

The print was reproduced by the William Blake Archive in 2013, as was the published print (collection of Robert N. Essick).

Three copies (one from the collection of Robert N. Essick and two from the Fitzwilliam Museum) were reproduced by the William Blake Archive in 2013.

HAYLEY, William
Little Tom the Sailor
(1800)

NEW LOCATION: Glasgow (Hunterian Museum of Art Gallery)

The watermarked "HAYES | 17"<sup>638</sup> coloured copy in an anonymous collection <BBS> was acquired by Maurice Sendak, exhibited (p. 27) and reproduced (cover-flap) in Vincent Giroud and Maurice Sendak, Sendak at the Rosenbach: An exhibition held at the Rosenbach Museum & Library April 28-October 30, 1995 ([Philadelphia: Rosenbach Museum, 1995]).

---

<sup>637</sup> BR (2) 157).

<sup>638</sup> Blake's letters of 11 Sept 1801, 22 Nov 1802, and 16 Aug 1803 are on

Of the 4 pewter plates, which Blake presumably retained, the first one (11 x 16 cm) seems to correspond in size to Milton pl. 12 and 21 (11.1 x 16.0 cm).

Two of the four plates which make up Little Tom the Sailor, presumably the headpiece and the tailpiece, with "colouring ... very weird and striking, ... possibly executed under Blake's own supervision", belonged in 1929 to John Hodgkin (see John Hodgkin, "Blake and Hayley", Times Literary Supplement, 29 November 1917).

---

paper watermarked "F HAYES | 1798".

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

Joseph Holland had the head-piece and tail-piece of his copy (printed in black) "photographed on [metal] plates and printed [in brown] on excellent Japanese paper made by Kochi, intended for a Christmas card for special friends" (as he wrote to GEB on 19 June 1969); the result is very persuasive.

Little Tom the Sailor, "2 very characteristic coloured engravings, the entire poem likewise composed and engraved by Blake, RARE, £1.2s." was offered in Willis and Sotheran Catalogue (25 June 1862), lot 118, perhaps from the library of John Flaxman. Only three coloured copies of Hayley's Little Tom the Sailor (1800) have been traced in public collections.

EDITION

Little Tom the Sailor (London: Richard C. Jackson, 1917)
<BB>

REVIEWS

§Times Literary Supplement, 22 November 1917
John Hodgkin, "Blake and Hayley", Times Literary Supplement, 29 November 1917 (pace the review, a reproduction of Little Tom the Sailor appeared in The Century Guild Hobby Horse [1886], and "I possess the two Blake engravings, which unfortunately have been cut off from the Broadsheet. The colouring is very weird and striking, and was possibly executed under Blake's own supervision.")

HAYLEY, William

The Triumphs of Temper
(1803, 1807)

THE | TRIUMPHS OF TEMPER [not THE | TRIUMPHS |
OF | TEMPER as [in BB]

1803 NEW LOCATIONS: Birmingham, Brown, California (Berkeley), Cornell, Emory (Theology), Iowa, Leeds, Library of Congress, Manchester, Michigan, Mills College, Minnesota, Mount Holyoke College, National Library of Wales, New York Public Library, Northwestern, Pennsylvania, State University of New York (Buffalo), Trinity College (University of Toronto), Tulsa (gift of Roger Easson), Victoria & Albert Museum, Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection, 2 copies)

1807 NEW LOCATIONS: Brown, Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

Blake's plates (collection of Robert N. Essick) were reproduced by the William Blake Archive in 2013.

"I am to have 10 Guineas each" for "a little work of M<sup>r</sup> H's", Hayley's Triumphs of Temper, according to Blake's letter of 30 January 1803.

In a copy of the work inscribed "From the Author", the prints are coloured (BB 579); John Windle and Dr E.B. Bentley do not think the colouring Blake-like, though George Goyder did. The book was sold from Goyder's library at Christie's, 26 November 1997, lot 101 (£3,500).

HENRY, Thomas
Memoirs of Albert de Haller
(1783)

NEW LOCATIONS: California (Berkeley), Cheshire

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

Libraries, Huntington Library, Imperial College, Leeds, London Library, London Metropolitan University, McGill (2 – BB gives 1), Medical Society of London, National Library of Wales, Pennsylvania, Pennsylvania State, Royal College of Physicians (London), Science Museum (London), Simpson, Sorbonne, Texas (Dallas), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection), Wellcome Institute Library, Williams (Dr) Library

The Harvard copy is reproduced online.

HOARE, Prince
Academic Correspondence
(1804)

NEW LOCATIONS: Cambridge, Sir John Soane Museum (London)

REVIEW

S.Q., “Academic Correspondence ...”, Literary Journal, III (1 February 1804), 93-95 (“Surely the Royal Academy of England might have offered an engraving worthy of the subject, and of the country” [pp. 94-95]) <BB #2467>

HOARE, Prince
An Inquiry into the ... State of the Arts of Design in England
(1806)

NEW LOCATIONS: Getty Research Institute (Los Angeles), Royal Academy (London), Tulsa (gift of Roger Easson Gift),

Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

HOGARTH, William

Works

(1795-1838)

1795 NEW LOCATIONS: Ashmolean Museum, London

1822 NEW LOCATION: Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

The copperplate in Houghton Library is 45 cm wide, 58 cm high, and 0.3 to 0.5 cm thick and is stamped on the verso on the centre and lower left with the name of the copperplate maker: JONES N<sup>o</sup> 48 | SHOE LANE LONDON.<sup>639</sup>

A copy of Blake's plate was offered in James Tregaskis and Son Caxton Head Catalogue 830 (September 1920), lot 48A (£5.10.0).

1795? A copy was offered at Sotheby's (London), 15 July 2014, lot 518 with an 1809 watermark.

A previously unrecorded copy of the etched "Proof" (probably published) with the two kneeling actresses and some other individuals left largely blank was acquired from John Windle in June 2014 by Victoria University in the University of Toronto.

HUNTER, William

Historical Journal of the Transactions at Port Jackson, and Norfolk Island

(1793)

---

<sup>639</sup> As I am told by Caroline Duroselle-Melish, Assistant Curator, Houghton Library, Harvard University.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

NEW LOCATIONS (quarto and octavo merged): Aberdeen, Arizona State, Auckland Public Library, Australian Museum Research Library (Townsville [Queensland]), Bodley, Boston Athenaeum, British Museum (Ethnography), California (Santa Cruz), California State, Canberra, Detroit Public Library, Essex Museum, Glasgow, Harvard (Botany), Johns Hopkins, King's College (London), La Trobe, Leeds, Lehigh, Library Company of Philadelphia (imperfect), London, London (Corporation of), London Library, Mariner's Museum, Monash, Nagoya (Information Center, Aichi-Ken, Japan), National Library of Scotland, New York Public Library, Newark Public Library, Newcastle (New South Wales), Peabody Institute, Queensland Museum (South Bank, Australia), San Francisco Public Library, School of Oriental and African Studies, South Australian Early Imprints Project (Adelaide), State Library of New South Wales (Sydney), State Library of Tasmania (Hobart), State Library of Victoria (Melbourne, Australia), Texas Tech, Trinity College (Hartford, Connecticut), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection), Virginia, Wayne State, Wellcome Library

"Idle Laundress"
after George Morland

A copy was offered in James Tregaskis, Caxton Head Catalogue 673 (19 July 1909), lot 59 (with "The Industrious Cottager" (£52.10.0))

"The Industrious Apprentice"
after George Morland

A copy was offered in James Tregaskis, Caxton Head Catalogue 673 (19 July 1909), lot 59 (with "The Idle Laundress"), lot 59 (£2.10.0)

"Joseph of Arimathea Among the Rocks of Albion" (1773, c. 1810-20)

COPY D

HISTORY: (1) Offered at £2.2.0 in Quaritch Catalogue No. 62 (June 1893), and Miscellaneous Catalogue (November 1893), both "10 in. by 5½ in."

COPY F

It is reproduced online in the National Gallery of Art (Washington, D.C.).<sup>640</sup>

COPY J

It is reproduced online by the Pierpont Morgan Library.

COPY 2J

Acquired at auction in 1949 through Agnew's by Brandon Meredith Rhys-Williams (1927-88) and inherited in 1988 by his son.<sup>641</sup>

JOSEPHUS, Flavius
Genuine and Complete Works
([1785-1787?] [?1795] [?1799] [?1800])

---

<sup>640</sup> "Joseph of Arimathea Among the Rocks of Albion" [F] is erroneously traced to the Library of Congress in BB p. 266.

<sup>641</sup> Robert N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2014", Blake, XLVIII, 4 (Spring 2015), [36].

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

A cumulation of BB, BBS, Blake (1994 ff) and Roger R. Easson and Robert N. Essick, William Blake: Book Illustrator: A Bibliography and Catalogue of the Commercial Engravings, Volume II: Plates Designed or Engraved by Blake 1774-1796 (Memphis, Tennessee: The American Blake Foundation, 1979), 21-26,<sup>642</sup> and Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2004", Blake, XXXVIII [2005]).

The Genuine and Complete Works,
ed. George Henry Maynard

(London: J. Cooke [?1785-86]) A <BB> LOCATIONS: Bodley, British Library, British Museum Print Room, Houston Public Library, Leeds, National Library of Canada (imperfect), National Library of Wales, Newberry, Southampton, Union Theological Seminary (N.Y.), University College (London), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

The Victoria University copy of A has Directions to the Binder for 60 prints.

REVIEW &c

Prospectus issued with the Universal Magazine in October 1785 (Johnson Collection [Bodley] No. 313): beginning on Saturday 5 November 1785 Maynard's Josephus will be published (like Kimpton's History of the Bible) by J. Cooke in 60

---

<sup>642</sup> Easson and Essick describe A as First Issue, B as Second Issue, C as Third Issue, Ca as Fourth Issue, D as Fifth Issue, and E as Sixth Issue.

[weekly] folio six-penny Numbers with three sheets each,

Beautifully printed in new Type cast on Purpose for the Work, and on superfine Paper, every Number of which will be enriched and embellished with one or more grand and masterly Copper Plates, engraved by the best Masters from capital Paintings and original Drawings by the most ingenious and universally admired Artists <BBS 228>

A two-leaf list of works published by J. Cooke, including the first Number of Dr Southwell's Universal Family Bible which "will be published" "on SATURDAY, February 4, 1786", includes the "Genuine and Complete" edition of Josephus, edited by Kimpton, "An entire New Work", "newly translated" (Bentley copy in Victoria University Library) <BBS 228-29>

NEW EDITION

THE GENUINE AND COMPLETE | WORKS | OF |
FLAVIUS JOSEPHUS, | The celebrated Warlike, Learned and Authentic | JEWISH HISTORIAN. | CONTAINING |
[Two columns separated by two vertical rules; Column 1:] I.
The Antiquities of the Jews in Twenty Books; with | their
Wars, memorable Transactions, authentic and | remarkable
Occurrences, their various Turns of | Glory and Misery, of Prosperity and Adversity, &c. | from the Creation of the World. | II. The Wars of the Jews with the Romans, from their | Commencement to the final destruction of Jeru- | salem by Titus in the Reign of Vespasian. In Seven | Books.
| [Column 2:] III. The Book of Josephus against Apion, in

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

Defence | of the Jewish Antiquities. In Two Parts. | IV. The Martyrdoms of the Maccabees. | V. The Embassy of Philo from the Jews of Alex- | andria to the Emperor Caius Caligula. | VI. The Life of Flavius Josephus, written by himself. | VII. The Testimonies of Josephus concerning Our | Blessed Saviour, St. John the Baptist, &c. clearly | vindicated. | [End of columns.] The Whole translated from the Original in the Greek Language, and diligently revised and compared with the Writings of | cotemporary Authors of different Nations on the Subject; all tending to prove the Authenticity of the Work. | To which will be now first added, | A CONTINUATION of the HISTORY of the JEWS, | From Josephus down to the present Time, including a Period of more than 1700 Years. | Containing an Account of their Dispersion into the various Parts of Europe, Asia, Africa and America, their different | Persecutions, Transactions, various Occurrences, and present State throughout the known World. | ALSO | Various Useful INDEXES, particularly of the Countries, Cities, Towns, Villages, Seas, | Rivers, Mountains, Lakes, &c. | Likewise TABLES of the Jewish Coins, Weights, Measures, &c. used in the time of the AUTHOR. | With a great Variety of other interesting and authentic Particulars never given in any Work of the Kind | either in the English or any other Language. | - | By GEORGE HENRY MAYNARD, LL.D. | Illustrated with MARGINAL REFERENCES, and Notes Historical, Biographical, Classical, Critical, | Geographical and Explanatory, | By the Rev.

EDWARD KIMPTON, Vicar of Rogate in Sussex, | And Author of the Compleat UNIVERSAL HISTORY of the HOLY BIBLE. | - | Embellished with a great Number of beautiful Copper Plates, descriptive of the most distinguished Transactions related in the Work, from | original Drawings of the ingenious Messrs. Metz, Stothard, and Corbould, Members of the Royal Academy, and other eminent Artists. | The Whole engraved by the most capital Performers, particularly Grignion, Collier, Heath, Tookey, Taylor, &c. | = | LONDON: Printed for J. COOKE, No. 17, Pater-noster-Row [?1785-87].

LOCATION: Victoria University in the University of Toronto
The New edition title-page differs from that called A in BB:

- 1 It is partly in columns;
- 2 It gives "Various Useful INDEXES" for "Various Copious INDEXES"
- 3 It omits the phrase "Together with Marginal References to the various important Occurrences, recorded in the Work. | Also Notes Historical, Biographical, Critical, Geographical and Explanatory; and every other | striking Matter recorded in the Works of the celebrated Josephus", though it adds its substance (see below)
- 4 The line ends after "of the like Kind" (not after "English")
- 5 It adds after "LL.D.": " | Illustrated with MARGINAL REFERENCES, and Notes Historical, Biographical, Classical, Critical, | Geographical and Explanatory, | By the Rev. EDWARD KIMPTON, Vicar of Rogate in

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

*Sussex, | And Author of the Compleat UNIVERSAL
HISTORY of the HOLY BIBLE. | "*

6 It does not have the line end after "Misery, of".

The New edition should probably come after A because it mentions Kimpton, as A does not and all the others do, and the wording and lineation of the rest of the title page are (with minor exceptions) far more like B-E than like A; it should come before B-E because it does not have the adjective "Whole" as they do; and before D-E because it is published by J. Cooke rather than by his successor C. Cooke (as D-E are). Its early state is indicated also by the integral advertisement (p. 499) for Southwell's Universal Family Bible (?1786), the first number of which was advertised for 4 February 1786.
<BBS>

In this New edition are also a print (No. 3, at p. 29) with a previously unremarked imprint of 5 November 1785 and a subscription-list with about a thousand names (though it is said to omit "near one half" of the total).

Blake's prints appear at pp. 13, 64, 76, as instructed in the Directions to the Binder.

The Genuine and Complete Works
(London: J. Cooke [?1787-88])

"Useful" substituted for "Copious", omits "Together with Time of the AUTHOR", adds "Illustrated with MARGINAL REFERENCES ... to the HOLY BIBLE"

C <BB> NEW LOCATION: Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

The Whole Genuine and Complete Works
(London: J. Cooke [?1788-89])

The Whole Genuine and Complete Works
(London: J. Cooke [?1789-90])

substitutes "Useful" for "Copious", ends "And sold by all other Booksellers in Great Britain"

B <BB> LOCATIONS: Aberdeen, BL (2, both imperfect), Cambridge, Durham Cathedral, Leeds, Manchester, National Library of Scotland (2), Nottingham, Princeton, Princeton Theological Seminary

The Whole Genuine and Complete Works
(London: J. Cooke [?1789-90])

[Gothic:] By the King's Royal License and Authority. | - |
THE WHOLE GENUINE AND COMPLETE WORKS | OF |
FLAVIUS JOSEPHUS, | ... | To which is now first added, |
A CONTINUATION of the HISTORY of the JEWS, | ... |
LONDON: Printed for J COOKE, No. 17, Pater-noster-Row. |
And sold by all other Booksellers in Great Britain [?1789-90].
LOCATION: D.W. Dörrbecker

The new edition (identified by R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 1995", Blake, XXIX [1996]; GEB compared a xerox of the title page with BB) is like B except that it (1) Adds the first line (as in C); (2) Gives the contents (I-VII) in double columns separated by two vertical rules;<sup>643</sup> and (3)

---

<sup>643</sup> There should be no vertical rule in the "Containing" section I after "Glory and Misery, of".

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

Alters "To which will now be first added" to "To which is now first added".

By the King's Royal License and Authority
The Whole Genuine and Complete Works
(London: J. Cooke ([?1791-92])

C <BB> LOCATIONS: BBS adds under B-C Durham Cathedral, Harvard, Lancaster Theological Seminary (Lancaster, Pennsylvania), New York Public Library, Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection), Virginia, Yale

By the King's Royal License and Authority
The Whole Genuine and Complete Works
(London: J. Cooke [?1792-93])

"is now first added" substituted for "will now be first added"; ends "And sold by all other Booksellers in Great Britain"
LOCATION: Cambridge

By the King's Royal License and Authority
The Whole Genuine and Complete Works
(London: C. Cooke [?1799])

D <BB> LOCATIONS: Arizona State (Tempe), British Library, Boston Public Library, Bristol (Wesley College [imperfect]), Dalhousie, Delaware, Library of Congress, Newberry, New York Public Library, North Carolina State, Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection, 2 copies)

New Version

Db Title page as in D, but text as in C rather than reset as in D. Copy acquired in 2013 by R.N. Essick.

The Whole Genuine and Complete Works*
(London: C. Cooke, &c [?1800])

LOCATIONS: Bodley, Boston Public Library, British Library, British Museum Print Room, Tate, Ushaw College (Durham)

The Whole Genuine and Complete Works,*
ed. Maynard and Kimpton
(London: C. Cooke and ... Ireland, n.d.)

E <BB> NEW LOCATIONS: Aberdeen, Bodley ("Date of publication from the Denby Mercury, 1 1792"), Cambridge, Durham, National Library of Scotland, University College (London), Ushaw College (Durham)

N.B. The descriptions of most of these works in COPAC are so vague as to make it very difficult to identify them with editions listed in BB.

NEWLY RECORDED
[KEBLE, John]
The Christian Year
(1875)

[John Keble]. The Christian Year (Boston: Lee and Shepard; N.Y.: Lee, Shepard, and Dillingham, 1875)

LOCATION: Biblioteca la Solana

PRINT: At p. 353 is an unsigned wood engraving of "Burial

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

of the Dead" (8.5 x 10.4 cm), silently copied from Blake's design of "Death's Door" engraved by Schiavonetti for Blair's Grave (1808).

Keble's Christian Year was first published in 1827 without illustration.

KIMPTON, Edward
History of the Holy Bible
(1781)

NEW LOCATION: Manchester

REVIEW, &c

A Prospectus issued with the March 1781 number of The Gentleman's Magazine, LI (1781) (Gottingen) announced that "On SATURDAY, APRIL 7, 1781 will be published" "NUMBER I" of Kimpton's "ENTIRE NEW ELEGANT AND SUPERB" History of the Holy Bible, printed on "SUPERFINE PAPER" in "Seventy Numbers" "to be continued Weekly", with a list of subscribers
<BBS 231>

A prospectus (n.d.) (John Johnson Collection, Bodley), issued after the publication in weekly numbers was completed, specifies "Sixty Weekly Numbers"
<BBS 231>

A two-leaf list of works published by J. Cooke (c. February 1786) (see Josephus) describes it as

An entire new, elegant and superb Work, printed in Folio, on a new Type and superfine Paper, and embellished with upwards of Sixty beautiful

Copper-plates designed and engraved by the most celebrated Artists ... Containing a clear and concise Account of ... more than Four Thousand Years in sixty six-penny Numbers, “the Whole elegantly bound together in calf, and lettered, Price 1l. 16s.”
<BBS 231>

Newly Recorded
KITTON, Fred G.
"William James Linton, Engraver, Poet, and Political Writer"
English Illustrated Magazine
Volume VIII, Number 91
(April 1891)

Fred G. Kitton. "William James Linton, Engraver, Poet, and Political Writer." English Illustrated Magazine, VIII, 91(April 1891), 491-500.

It "includes an impression of Linton's wood engraving of Blake's 'Death's Door' version with square top 1st published in Thirty Pictures by Deceased British Artists Engraved Expressly for the Art-Union of London by W.J. Linton, 1860".<sup>644</sup>

The Ladies New and Polite Pocket Memorandum-Book,*
For the Year of our Lord 1783
([1782])

A copy of Blake's engraving of "A Lady in the full Dress, & another in the most fashionable Undress now worn", [T]S del, W.B. sc, is in an oblong octavo nonce collection of

---

<sup>644</sup> Robert N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2014", Blake, XLVIII, 4 (Spring 2015), [24].

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

18th and early 19th Century fashion prints pasted in chronological order on both sides of stiff, unwatermarked paper acquired in 2003 by Professor Robert N. Essick.

A print of "The Morning Amusements of Her Royal Highness [and] A Lady in the Full Dress" is reproduced in the online catalogue of The National Gallery of Art (Washington, D.C.), and a copy was offered in James Tregaskis Caxton Head Catalogue 770 (19 July 1915), lot 94 (£2.2.0).

LAVATER, J.C.
Aphorisms on Man
(1788, 1789, 1794)

1788 NEW LOCATIONS: Aberdeen, Fitzwilliam (P 566 1985), Liverpool Public Library, Tulsa (gift of Roger Easson), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection), Warburg Institute, Wellcome Institute (London)

1789 NEW LOCATIONS: Birmingham, Cambridge (2), Institute of Germanic Studies, Liverpool Public Library, Yale (ZBZ AXZ 6474), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection), Wellcome Library

C 1794 NEW LOCATIONS: British Library (8413 aa 26), Cambridge (2), Iowa (xPT 2392 L2A3 1794), National Library of Wales, Schweizerische Landesbibliothek (National Library of Switzerland, Berne: L Theo 3 304), Trinity College (Dublin), Tulsa (gift of Roger Easson), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection), Yale (Hkc 7 280r)

The Harvard copy of 1794 is reproduced online.

The copy of Lavater's Aphorisms (1788)<sup>645</sup> signed and annotated by "Thos S: Butt | 23 Augst 1789--" almost certainly has nothing to do with Blake's London patron Thomas Butts; rather it belonged to a contemporary, perhaps of Bridgmouth, Shropshire, with a coincidentally similar name, who annotated it (as Lavater directed) with symbols indicating his likes and dislikes and with occasional notes such as that for Aphorism #539 concerning four women with virtues so rare that there will scarcely be found one in each quarter of the world:

^Such are The Marchioness of Stafford – Trentham Stafford

M<sup>rs</sup> Berry of y<sup>e</sup> Mill Stamford – Worcestershire

M<sup>rs</sup> Butt of Bridgmouth        } } Shropshire

Miss Butt -----        }^

The Fourth Edition (Boston: I. Thomas and E.T. Andrews, D. West, E. Larkin jun.; Worcester: I. Thomas, 1790) <Victoria University in the University of Toronto> has an Anon. frontispiece which copies Blake's frontispiece fairly carefully, not reversed.

SALES

Catalogue of Biblical Classical and Historical Manuscripts and of Rare and Curious Books ... on Sale by William Pickering (London, 1834) <Bodley> ("1941 Lavater (J.C.), Aphorisms on Man, frontispiece by Blake" (1794), 4s 6d)

---

<sup>645</sup> Seen 15 May 1996 through the courtesy of Arthur Freeman and Ted Hoffman at Quaritch's (London).

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

EDITION

Johann Caspar Lavater, Aphorisms on Man (1788), ed. R.J. Shroyer (1980) <BBS>

REVIEWS

D.V. E[rdman], Romantic Movement ... Bibliography for 1980 (1981), 82

Jenijoy La Belle, Blake, XVI, 2 (Fall 1982), 126-28

LAVATER, J.C.

Essays on Physiognomy

(1789, 1792, 1798; 1792 [perhaps 1810]; 1810 [perhaps 1817])

LAVATER, John Caspar

Essays on Physiognomy

(1789, 1792, 1798; 1792 [perhaps 1810]; 1810 [perhaps 1817])

1789-98 NEW LOCATIONS: Aberdeen, Adelphi, American Art Portrait Gallery (Washington, D.C.), Arizona, Art Institute (Chicago), Barr Smith Library (Adelaide, Australia), Belfast Central Library, Biblioteka Uniwersytecka (Warsaw), Bibliothèque nationale (Paris), Birkenhead Central Library, Birmingham, Bodley (Arch Antiq A I 23), Boston College, Brigham Young, British Columbia (2--1 in BB), British Library (3--only 1 in BB), California (San Diego, Santa Barbara [2], Southern Region Library Facility [2]), Cambridge (2, 1 from the Keynes Collection), Canterbury, Cape Town, Chetham's Library (Manchester), Cincinnati and Hamilton Public Library, Cleveland Museum of Art, Colorado State

(Fort Collins), Columbia (2--BBS has 1), Connecticut College, Dallas Public Library, Durham Cathedral, Fordham, Free Library of Philadelphia, Glasgow ("1789-1810"), Harvard (Houghton, 3--BBS has 2), Hofstra, Hollins, Indiana, Indiana State (Terra Haute), Institute of Germanic Studies, Johns Hopkins (2), Mary Lynn Johnson, Library Company of Philadelphia, Liverpool Public Library, Massachusetts Historical Society (2), McMaster, Metropolitan Museum of Art (N.Y.), Miami (Florida), Michigan (2), Michigan State, Minnesota, Minneapolis Public Library, Monmouth (West Long Branch, N.J.), Multnomah County Library (Portland, Oregon), National Art Library (London; 2 copies of Vol. II), National Library of Australia, National Library of South Africa, National Library of Switzerland, National Library of Wales, New York Academy of Medicine, New York Public Library (YEZA+, Arents Collection<sup>646</sup>), Northern Colorado (Greeley), Pennsylvania State, Pierpont Morgan Library (2--BBS records 1), Pittsburgh, Princeton, Queen's College (Oxford), Rhode Island, Rochester (2), Royal College of Physicians (Dublin), Sheffield Central Library, Smith College, Smithsonian Institution (Washington, D.C.), South Australian Parliamentary Museum (Adelaide), Southern California (2), St Andrew's, Stanford, State University of New York (Buffalo), Temple, Texas (2, 1 in fascicles; BB lists 1), Toronto, Trinity College (Oxford), Tulane, Tulsa (gift of Roger Easson), Union College (Schenectady, N.Y.), University College (Dublin), University of Medicine and Dentistry (Newark, N.J.), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection), <sup>646</sup> In BB, D.V. Erdman recorded this set in fascicles as in the Berg Collection of the New York Public Library.

---

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

Washington (Seattle), Wesleyan (Middletown, Connecticut), West Virginia, Western Ontario, Welcome Institute (London, with signature and notes of Dawson Turner), Dr Williams' Library (1124 L2 (ILI)), Winterthur Museum (Winterthur, Delaware), Wittenberg (Springfield, Ohio), Yale (4, in Beinecke Library, Lewis Walpole Library, Medical Library, Sterling Library--BBS lists 1), Yale Center for British Art (in Parts), Zentralbibliothek [Zurich], Zurich Zentralbibliothek (2)

"1792": NEW LOCATION Victoria University in the University of Toronto.

1810 NEW LOCATIONS: Bradford (Yorkshire), British Library (2--1 has Vol. I only), California (Santa Cruz), Christ Church (Oxford), College of St Elizabeth (Morristown, N.J.), Colorado, Connecticut College, Cornell, Edinburgh, Georgia (2--BBS lists 1), Glasgow, Huntington (2--BBS lists 1), Iowa, Kalamazoo College, Liverpool (Vol. I-II), London (Warburg Institute), London Institute, Los Angeles Public Library, Lucerne Zentralbibliothek, Manchester, Metropolitan Museum of Art (N.Y.), Mills College, National College of Art and Design (Dublin), National Library of Scotland, New York Academy of Medicine, New York Public Library (Emmet Collection), Newcastle, Pierpont Morgan Library, Princeton, Queen's (Belfast), Rochester, South Carolina, Texas (Austin), Texas (Houston, Medical Branch), Trinity College (Hartford, Connecticut), Tulane, Vermont, Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection), Warburg Institute, Wesleyan (Middletown, Connecticut), Yale Center for British Art, Yale (Medical), Zentralbibliothek [Lucerne] (853 fol)

1792 (i.e., 1817) NEW LOCATIONS: Alfred (Alfred, N.Y.), Boston Athenaeum, Chicago, Christ Church College (Oxford), Connecticut College, Cooper-Hewitt Museum, Dillwyn Correctional Center (Dillwyn, Virginia), Duke, Emory, Getty Research Institute (Los Angeles), Houston Academy of Medicine, Huntington, Indiana State, Kentucky, Liverpool, London Institute, McGill, National Library of Scotland, Stewart Naunton, Newcastle, Oregon State, Pennsylvania, Princeton, Spokane Public Library, Texas (Austin, with watermarks of 1801, 1804, 1806, 1809, 1817, and LEPARD), Virginia, Wake Forest, Wesleyan (Middleton, Connecticut), Western Reserve Historical Society (Cleveland, Ohio), Wistar Institute (Philadelphia), Zurich Zentralbibliothek

Undated or mixed sets NEW LOCATIONS: British Library (P.P.5441.ba), Duke, Edinburgh, Glasgow, Andrew Greg, Hamilton College, Liverpool, McGill, Pennsylvania State, Pratt Institute (Brooklyn, N.Y.), Wolverhampton, Yale (2--Beinecke, Sterling), Zurich Zentralbibliothek

157 New Locations here are due to the kindness of Andrew Greg.

The newly recorded copy in Victoria University is dated "1792" on all three title pages, though it includes "The English Translator's Preface" dated "December 24, 1798". This is plainly a fraudulent edition, though the prints are genuine and the text is very handsome. "T. Bensley, Printer, | Bolt Court, Fleet Street, London" is named in the colophon to Vol. II, Part 2. In Vol. I, the Contents leaf has a printed note: "TYPE I. WAYLAND" which seems to appear no where else in this copy or any other which has been recorded. Levi Wayland finished his apprenticeship as a printer in 1789 and is known only for works in 1789-1793.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

This set is bound in handsome, uniform, contemporary black morocco gilt and blind-stamped. The paste-down of each volume bears the armorial bookplate of "L.E. Holden" (beneath paste-marks suggesting that a previous bookplate has been removed), and each volume is inscribed "Gift of Mrs L.E. Holden. June. 1914". Each title page has a small embossed stamp: "WESTERN RESERVE HISTORICAL SOCIETY", "1857 | CLEVELAND | 1897", and each fly-leaf verso is inscribed "Plates are not to be

The cover for Part V (Essick Collection), dated 1788, includes Blake's first print: "7. AGED FIGURES, GARDENING."

In some sets, the title pages of Vol. I (1789) and Vol. II (1792) imitate those of the first edition <Toronto>.

The title pages of several sets of Lavater's Physiognomy bear false dates. Sets with the three title pages dated 1789, 1792, and 1798 (e.g., Princeton, Toronto, Victoria University in the University of Toronto) are apparently genuine, with laid paper mostly watermarked "17 LEPARD 95". Those with the three title pages dated 1810 (e.g., Princeton, Victoria University in the University of Toronto), with wove paper watermarked "1804" and "1806" also appear to be genuine.

However, all sets with all three title pages dated 1792 (Chicago, Cooper-Hewitt Museum, Duke, Emory, Kentucky, Liverpool, McGill, Newcastle, Oregon State, and Princeton) have very mixed lots of paper, invariably including some paper watermarked "1817", and these are patently fraudulent.

Similarly misleading is the set with title pages dated 1789, 1792, and 1810 (Toronto) on paper watermarked "1804" and "1806" throughout.

The edition with title pages dated 1789, 1792, and 1810 is probably the same (except for title pages) as the honestly-titled 1810 edition, and the one with all title pages dated 1792 cannot have been printed earlier than 1817.

This gives us three Volume I title pages dated 1789 (one honest, one of 1810, and one of 1817), three Volume II title pages dated 1792 (one honest, one of 1810, and one of 1817), and three Volume III title pages dated 1798 (honest), 1792 (i.e., 1817), and 1810 (honest).

Stewart Naunton was the first to notice the anomaly of the "1792" edition with "1817" watermarks in his own copy.

Plate 2 ("Democritus") at Vol. I, p. 159: A pull on India paper is in the collection of Professor Saree Makdisi, according to R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 1999", Blake, XXXIII (2000).

When John Murray, the chief publisher of the first edition of Lavater's Essays on Physiognomy (1789-98), died in 1793, the business was left to his under-age son in partnership with Highly, and the accounts for the Lavater book were left in some disarray.<sup>647</sup> The other partners in the venture clearly asked Joseph Johnson to speak for them, and his office Letter-Book contains numerous letters on the subject, to the engraver Thomas Holloway (23 July 1799), B. Dugdale (Dublin, 13 October 1800), Mr Highly (19 and 31 December 1800), Mr Mayne (Star Office, 28 August 1801), Gentlemen (5

---

<sup>647</sup> See "The Physiognomy of Lavater's Essays: False Imprints, '1789' and '1792'", Blake, XXIX (1995), 16-23.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

September 1801 for Hen. Hunter [the translator of the work], J. Johnson, and Tho Holloway, apparently "the Proprietors of the English Lavater"), Exec of M<sup>r</sup> Murray (23 September 1801), and B. Dugdale (Dublin, 19 November 1801). These letters deal particularly with monies not yet distributed by Murray to the other Proprietors of the English Lavater<sup>648</sup> and with heavy charges of Thomas Holloway for supervising all the engravings. For instance, Johnson wrote to

Mr Highly

There is, certainly, no provision made for Mr Holloway's extra charges, indeed they could not then have been foreseen. the necessity & difficulty of obtaining facsimilies soon appeared as essential to the work, but elegance only was at first thought of. At our meetings Mr H was continually reminding us of the difficulty he found with all the engravers, and that he could not get a facsimile from any of them, he told us he was obliged to work himself on every plate to make it what it should be, and we certainly were prepared, & in his absence frequently mentioned it, for a large extra demand on this account. After what has passed & our knowing that he devoted all most [sic] of his whole time to the work, & having acquitted himself so well, I think it would be not only illiberal but unjust to bind him to the agreement. How executors may feel, or think themselves empowered to act, is not for me to say. The extra charges are certainly very great. I shall concur in any mode of adjusting this business which shall promise liberal justice to Mr Holloway.

---

<sup>648</sup> These sums were apparently quite large, for on 23 Sept 1801 Johnson wrote to the Executors of Mr Murray asking for distribution of monies in their hands from Lavater in the proportions £600 to D<sup>r</sup> Hunter, £300 to M<sup>r</sup> Holloway, and "myself 900 pounds, or in such other proportions as may be satisfactory to yourselves".

Yr<sup>s</sup> J J Dec<sup>r</sup> 19. 1800

And on 28 August 1801 he wrote to Mr Mayne, Star Office: it appears that a very large proportion of the subscribers have not completed their sets ... a very considerable part of expected profit will be lost if so many numbers are left upon our hands, and it may be fairly presumed that many who have taken three parts would upon a proper application take the remaining fourth.

Plate 4: The plate signed "Blake sculp" below and to the right of the image also has "Blake Sc" "very lightly scratched immediately below, and on the same diagonal as, the line defining the lower margin of the figure's neck" (as was first recorded by R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 1996", Blake, XXX [1997]).

THE QUALITY OF THE ENGRAVINGS

According to the engraver Thomas Holloway, who supervised the plates for Lavater's Essays on Physiognomy,

It was not long before TH found that in spite of all his Care & even expostulations with most of the Artists – the work they brought home was distressingly inaccurate – many plates were destroyd totally – and those which were the best executed were frequently so errone[o]us both in outline & expression that many parts were obliged to be hammerd out & reproduced – a piece of work this the most painful & the most mortyfying imaginable to TH-- ...

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

A great number of the plates were necessarily repaired in some instances twice in a few instances 3 times making the plates equal to duplicates – which was the case with the Venus de Medicis & others – without this attention the major part of the Impressions wou[l]d have been weak & the Reputation of the work most materially injured ....

The work executed by TH & others was in its Kind unique .... Without Vanity it is presumed that for Correctness as well as for execution it Stands unequalld--<sup>649</sup>

PAYMENT FOR THE ENGRAVINGS

In Holloway's list of "Expenses attending the Engravings of Lavater ... during the years 1787 to 1799" is "Blake ..... [£]39.19.6", a somewhat moderate payment for three small plates and one large one.

Holloway's figures indicate the following prices for Lavater:

|                |            |
|----------------|------------|
| COST OF COPPER | £ 88. 4.-- |
|----------------|------------|

---

<sup>649</sup> "Observations Submitted to the Consideration of Doct Hunter M<sup>r</sup> Johnson – two of the proprietors of Lavater – and the Execs of the late M<sup>r</sup> [John] Murray" dated Jan 1802 in the archive of the publisher John Murray, printed here (like the other Murray Archive papers) by permission of Mr John Murray.

|   |              |
|---|--------------|
| ENGRAVING TITLES ON PLATES              | £ 26.15.--   |
| TOTAL COST OF ENGRAVINGS <sup>650</sup> | £2,558.17.-- |
| COST OF PRINTING AND HOTPRESSING PLATE  | £2,500.--.-- |

SALE OF THE COPPERPLATES

The 537 copperplates for Lavater's Physiognomy were sold to John Stockdale, who published an edition in 1810. After Stockdale's death (1814), "the Remaining Stock of the Estate of the Late Mr. John Stockdale; consisting chiefly of Copper Plates, together with the Copyrights to the Works, to which they belong" was offered for sale at auction by Robert Saunders on 3 January 1818, and the "Five hundred and thirty-seven [copperplates]--Lavater's Physiognomy, by Hunter, 4<sup>o</sup>, and Copyright" were sold for £210 (according to the marked copy in the British Library; no buyer is listed for any of the lots).

SILENT REPRINT OF THE BOOK

The plates were subsequently printed on paper watermarked as late as 1817 but dated 1792 on the title pages and bearing the names of the original publishers but not that of the 1817 buyer of the copperplates. Perhaps the new owner discovered belatedly that the copyright he had acquired was for the plates only and did not include the copyright of Dr Henry Hunter's translation of Lavater. He may therefore have

---

<sup>650</sup> This is the total given in Holloway's list of what he paid to individual engravers; the total in his list of what he paid year-by-year is £2,683.13.6 [this is mis-added by Holloway; it should be £2,628.13.6].

Of the 37 engravers for Lavater named in Holloway's list, only 24 names are recorded on the engravings themselves (113 plates), "Holloway Direxit" is on 156 of them, and 267 are anonymous.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

decided that it was safest to conceal the date and to pretend that this was the original edition.

The sources of the plates signed merely “Blake Sc” or “Blake sculp” are brilliantly identified by Mary Lynn Johnson, “Blake’s Engravings for Lavater’s Physiognomy: Overdue Credit to Chodowiecki, Schellenberg, and Lips”, Blake, XXXVIII (2004), 52-74:

- 1 A vignette of two old men planting trees (Vol. I, p. 127) originally appeared in Gellert’s Leçons de Morale (1772) engraved by Daniel Nikolaus Chodowiecki, and Chodowiecki engraved another version (1772) for the Huguenot Seminaire françois de theologie à Berlin, where it indicates the fostering of young theology students. It was engraved, reversed, by Rudolph Shellenberger for Lavater’s Essai sur la Physiognomie, I ([1781]), 127. Blake re-reversed the design and made minor alterations.
- 3 A female arm and hand delicately holding up a candle with moths nearby (Vol. I, p. 206) derives from an engraving (Anon.-Anon.) of a sturdy male arm and hand gripping a candle and being stung by a wasp in Essai, I, 213, where its significance is not explained. It derives from a print (Anon.-Anon.) in Lavater’s Physiognomische Fragmente, IV (1778) (Vol. IV was never translated) where it represents Lavater’s determination to uphold the light of Truth in the face of the stings of public mockery.
- 4 A profile head of the Lutheran theologian Johann Joachim Spalding, a dear friend of both Lavater and Fuseli (Vol. I, p. 225), was first printed in Lavater's Physiognomische Fragmente, III (1778), 4 portraits on one plate after Chodowiecki engraved by Johann Heinrich Lips, and repeated, alone [?by Lips] in Essai, I, 232.

REVIEW

[Henry Fuseli], Analytical Review, V (December 1789), 454-62, VI (April 1790), 426-31 <BBS 236>

A long and acrimonious exchange of letters between Fuseli and Thomas Holcroft (who published a translation in 1789) appeared in the Analytical Review, VI (January 1791), 110-12, VI (April 1791), 471-72 <BBS 236>

LINTON, W.J.

Thirty Pictures by Deceased British Artists (1860)

NEW LOCATION: Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

For a reprint of "Death's Door", see Fred G. Kitton, "William James Linton, Engraver, Poet, and Political Writer", English Illustrated Magazine, VIII, 91 (April 1891).

MALKIN, Benjamin Heath

A Father's Memoirs of His Child (1806)

NEW LOCATIONS: Alberta, Baylor, Bilkent (Ankara [Turkey]), Birkbeck College (London), Boston College, Brown, Caen Basse-Normandie, California (Irvine; Los

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

Angeles; Santa Cruz), California State (Bernadino), Cambridge (2, 1 from the Keynes Collection), City College (N.Y.), City University of New York, Claremont, Cornell, Davidson College (North Carolina), Delaware, Eichstät (Eichstät [Germany]), Emory, Essex, Florida State, Georgetown, Georgia, Georgia State, Herzogin Anna Amelia Bibliothek (Weimar [Germany]), Hong Kong, Huntington Library, Johns Hopkins, Kansas City Public Library, Kent State, Kentucky (Richard C. Jackson's annotated copy), Kinjo Gakuin (Nagoya [Japan]), Library of Congress (2), Liverpool, London Metropolitan, Loyola (Chicago), Macalester, McGill, Melbourne, Michigan State, Minnesota, Mount Holyoke College, National Library of Wales, New Hampshire, New York Public Library, Newberry, Nihon (Mishima-Shi Shizuoka, Japan), North Texas, Northwestern, Notre Dame, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Providence College (Rhode Island), Puget Sound, Rice, Rutgers, St. Louis, St Mary's (Halifax [Nova Scotia]), St Olaf, Sheffield, Simon Fraser, Simpson, South Carolina, Southern California, Stanford, State Library of New South Wales (Sydney [Australia]), State University of New York (Buffalo), Toronto Public Library (Osborne Collection of Early Children's Books), Trinity College (Dublin), Tulsa (gift of Roger Easson), Vanderbilt, Victoria & Albert, Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection), Wake Forest, Washington (Seattle), Western Ontario, Westminster Libraries (London), William and Mary, Wisconsin, Yale Medical Library, York, Youngstown State

For evidence that the prefatory essay on Blake may have originated as the "Preface ... by BENJAMIN HEATH MALKIN" advertised in the November 1805 Prospectus to Blair's Grave (1808), see Blair (above).

A "working proof of [Cromek's engraving of] Blake's frontispiece, before all letters and lacking much work in the design", in the same state as the British Museum Print Room proof reproduced in The Complete Graphic Works of William Blake, ed. David Bindman (1978), p. 410, on wove paper watermarked 1804 (formerly in the collections of A.E. Newton and Joseph Holland) was acquired by R.N. Essick--see his "Blake in the Marketplace, 1995", Blake, XXIX (1996). A proof before letters of Blake's frontispiece was acquired from David Bindman in 2012 by Robert N. Essick.<sup>651</sup>

David Bindman bought in July 2006 from a print-stall in Portobello Road, London, a proof before all letters of the frontispiece in a state between the two previously-known states; "The central portrait medallion corresponds to the image in the 1st proof state, but the surrounding design corresponds to the 2nd proof state (design finished, but lacking all letters)."<sup>652</sup>

REVIEWS referring to Blake

Anon., "Art. II. A Father's Memoirs of his Child. By Benjamin Heath Malkin ...", Literary Journal, 2 S., II (July 1806), 27-35 (quotes Blake's "Laughing Song" as an example of "modern nonsense")
<BB #823>

---

<sup>651</sup> Robert N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2012", Blake (2013).

<sup>652</sup> Essick, "William Blake in the Marketplace, 2006", Blake, XL (2007).
For reproductions of the 1st and published versions, see BBS 5-6.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

Anon., "Art. 40. A Father's Memoirs of his Child. By Benjamin Heath Malkin, Esq. M.A. F.A.S. Royal 8vo. 172 pp. 10s. 6d. Longman and Co. 1806", British Critic, XXVIII (September 1806), 339 (about half this rude review is devoted to a denigration of Blake, who "seems chiefly inspired by ... Divine Nonsensia") <BB #836>

[Christopher Lake Moody], "Art. 37. A Father's Memoirs of his Child. By Benj. Heath Malkin, Esq. M.A. F.A.S. Royal 8vo. 10s. 6d. Boards. Longman and Co 1806", Monthly Review, NS LI (October 1806), 217 ("In the long dedication to Mr. Johnes of Hafod, a biographical notice is inserted of Mr. William Blake the artist, with some selections from his poems, which are highly extolled: but if Watts seldom rose above the level of a mere versifier, in what class must we place Mr. Blake, who is certainly very inferior to Dr. Watts?" The authorship is established by Benjamin Christie Nangle, The Monthly Review Second Series 1790-1815 [1955], 259, on the basis of the editor's marked copy [now in Bodley] in which this piece is attributed to "Mo[o]dy") <BB #2238>

Anon., "Half-Yearly Retrospect of Domestic Literature", Monthly Magazine, Supplementary Number, XXII (25 January 1807), 621-464 (Blake's poetry "does not rise above mediocrity") <BB #955>

Anon., “Art. XIV. A Father’s Memoirs of his Child, by Benjamin Heath Malkin ...”, Annual Review ... for 1806, V (1807), 379-81 (Blake’s “poems are certainly not devoid of merit ...”) <BB #832>

EDITION

Malkin, Benjamin Heath. A Father's Memoirs of His Child 1806. (Poole and Washington, D.C.: Woodstock Books, 1997) 172 pp.; ISBN: 1854772104

J[onathan] W[ordsworth], "Introduction" (7 pp.).

The Man Sweeping the Interpreter’s Parlour

NEWLY RECORDED COPY: Cincinnati Art Museum

COPY 20 in Essick, Separate Plates acquired at auction C.

1949 by Brandon Meredith Rhys-Williams (1927-88) and inherited in 1988 by his daughter Miranda Rhys-Williams.<sup>653</sup>

Monthly Magazine (1797)

NEW LOCATIONS: Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection), Yale Center for British Art

Blake apparently copied the portrait of “The late Mr WRIGHT of Derby” (Anon.: Blake: s) from a print on which is written “Wright of Derby: etched by himself” which later belonged to George Cumberland.

Blake's engraving of "The late M.<sup>r</sup> Wright of Derby" for the Monthly Magazine (1797) is probably "the Head I sent you as a Specimen" for which "I had Twelve" guineas, according <sup>653</sup> Robert N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2014", Blake, XLVIII, 4 (Spring 2015), [36].

---

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

to his letter to John Trusler on 23 August 1799.

MORA, José Joaquín de
Meditaciones Poéticas
(1826)

NEW LOCATIONS: Biblioteca Nacional (Madrid: R35836 and ER2444), Dibam Biblioteca Nacional de Chile, Robert N. Essick, State University of New York (Stony Brook), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

For lithographs after Schiavonetti's copperplates for Blair's Grave (via Mora's Meditaciones Poéticas [1826]), see Diario de los Niños (1839-40).

SALES

R. ACKERMANN, BOOK AND PRINTSELLER, AND SUPERFINE WATER-COLOUR MANUFACTURER TO HIS MAJESTY [1827<sup>654</sup>]; "MEDITACIONES POETICAS, por J.J. DE MORA, con estampas. 1l. 11s. 6d. half-bound"

Literary Advertising List [1828]<sup>655</sup> <copy in the Taylorian>, described as in Ackermann's 1827 list.

A Catalogue of Spanish and Portuguese Books, on Sale By Vincent Salvá [y Pèrez], 124 Regent Street, London. Part II. MDCCCXXIX [1829], lot 3510, £1.11.6

"Catalogo de Libros Españoles Publicados por los SS.

---

<sup>654</sup> It says Ackermann has just moved from 101 Strand to 96 Beaufort Buildings [1827], and this copy (with the stamp of Bibliotheque de la Ville Lyon) is bound with Edinburgh Review, No. xci (June 1827).

<sup>655</sup> It is bound with Foreign Review, No. 1 (January 1828).

Ackermann y Comp.<sup>a</sup> en su Repositorio de Artes, 96, Strand, Londres” added at the end of [J. de A.], El Mentor ... (Londres: Los SS. Ackermann y Comp.<sup>a</sup> [1836]) <New York Public Library> in Spanish (“Meditaciones Poéticas, por J.J. de Mora, con estampas”)

“Morning Amusement”

(Watteau-Blake)

(1782)

NOTICE

Anon., “Zwey angenehme Blätter ...”, Neue Bibliothek der schönen Wissenschaften und der fryen Künste, XXVII (1782), 162, in German <Harvard> (“Zwey angenehme Blätter, nach Watteau, aus der Sammlung, des hrn A. Maskin; Morning Amusement und Evening Amusement [1782], von W. Blake in Röthel, Ovale, zu 9 Zoll 4 inien höhe, und 11 Zoll 3 inien Breite, kosten zusammen 15 Schillinge.”)

NICHOLSON, William

Introduction to Natural Philosophy

(1782, 1787, 1790, 1796)

1782 NEW LOCATIONS: Imperial College, Manchester, National Library of Scotland, Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

1787 NEW LOCATIONS: Aberdeen, Cambridge, Imperial College, King’s College (London), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection), Wellcome Library

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

Novelist's Magazine

Vol. VIII

(1782, 1784, 1792)

1782 NEW LOCATIONS: Auckland Public Library, Edinburgh, South Carolina, Tulsa (gift of Roger Easson), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (3 copies, Bentley Collection)

1792 NEW LOCATION: Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

LOCATIONS of indeterminate date in COPAC: Bristol, National Library of Wales

Novelist's Magazine

Vol. IX

(1782, 1785, 1793)

1782 NEW LOCATIONS: Auckland Public Library, Bodley (2), South Carolina, Tulsa (gift of Roger Easson), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

1785 NEW LOCATION: Edinburgh

Novelist's Magazine,

Vol. X-XI

Samuel Richardson, *Sir Charles Grandison

(1783, 1785, 1793, ?1800, 1811, 1818)

1783 NEW LOCATIONS: Auckland Public Library, Edinburgh, Liverpool Public Library, South Carolina, Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

1785 NEW LOCATIONS: Edinburgh, Tulsa (gift of Roger Easson), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

1811 NEW LOCATION: R.N. Essick (a portrait of Richardson [not by Blake] is watermarked 1814; the prints are in the fourth state as in the 1818 edition, not in the third state as in the set in Victoria University in the University of Toronto),<sup>656</sup> Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

OLIVIER, [J.]
Fencing Familiarized
(1780)

NEW LOCATIONS: Cambridge, Tulsa (gift of Roger Easson), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

REES, Abraham
Cyclopaedia
(1802-20)

NEW LOCATIONS: Aberdeen, John Carter Brown Library, Cambridge, Edinburgh, Imperial College, Leeds, Liverpool, London School of Economics, Manchester, Metropolitan Museum (N.Y.), Wellcome Library
Plate 3, “GEM Engraving” “Engraved by W. Blake & W. Lowry”, and “Drawn by Farey”, representing Jupiter Serapis, was “copied after pl. 2 in Lorenz Natter, A Treatise on the Ancient Method of Engraving on Precious Stones (London:

---

<sup>656</sup> Robert N. Essick, “Blake in the Marketplace, 2012”, Blake (2013).

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

for the author, 1754).”<sup>657</sup> The inscription “Drawn by Farey” may refer to either John Farey, Jr, or Joseph Farey, who made “Mechanical” drawings for Rees, according to the list of contributors to Rees by Anon. [?Alexander Tilloch], “Notices Respecting New Books”, Philosophical Journal, LVI (September 1820), 220.

REVIEW

Anon., Philosophical Magazine, LVI (September 1820), 218-24 (gives, apparently authoritatively, a list of the authors and fascicle-dates) <BBS 245>

Remember Me! 1825
(1824, 1825)

CUMULATIVE LOCATIONS † = newly recorded

| 1824                             | 1825                       |
|----------------------------------|----------------------------|
| †Boston Public Library           | Cambridge copy 3?          |
| Cambridge copies 1-2, 4-6        | Essick copy 2              |
| Essick copy 1                    | Harvard                    |
| Huntington                       | †James Madison University  |
| National Library of Wales copy 1 | †Pierpont Morgan Library   |
| New York Public Library          | †National Library of Wales |
| Northwestern                     | copies 2-3                 |
| Princeton                        |                            |
| †Harriet Beacher Stowe Center    |                            |
| Victoria University in the Uni-  |                            |
| versity of Toronto copies 1-†2   |                            |

---

<sup>657</sup> The discovery was made by Mark Crosby and recorded in R.N. Essick, “Blake in the Marketplace 2010”, Blake, XLIV (2011), 142.

Virginia

The Harvard is reproduced online.

The Northwestern copy, not recorded in Bentley (below), is in "publisher's printed boards with old rebacking in red muslin, custom clamshell box" (according to §Bonhams auction, San Francisco, 2011, lot 2048).

A Cumulative Table

| Location  | Cover                                     | Colour of Edges            | Colour of Endpapers for Gift Sleeve-case or Diary <sup>a</sup> | Inscription               | Colour of      |
|---|---|----------------------------|--|---------------------------|----------------|
| Boston Public Library (1824)                          | rebound                                   | gilt                       | No endpaper  | None                      | No sleeve-case |
| Cambridge 1(1824)                                     | green straight-grain morocco <sup>b</sup> | gilt                       | marbled blue and brown   | None                      | No sleeve-case |
| Cambridge 2(1824)                                     | pink                                      | gilt                       | slate-grey   | Yes                       | pink           |
| Cambridge 3(1825?)                                    | cream                                     | yellow                     | pink   | None                      | bright green   |
| Cambridge 4(1824)                                     | cream                                     | gilt                       | brown  | 1 in diary                | No sleeve-case |
| Cambridge 5 (1824)                                    | brown                                     | gilt                       | slate-grey   |                           | slate-grey     |
| Cambridge 6 (1824) <sup>c</sup>                       | bright green                              | gilt                       | brown  |                           | red            |
| R.N. Essick 1 (1824) <sup>d</sup>                     | pale green                                | gilt                       | orange   |                           | red            |
| R.N. Essick 2 (1825)                                  | dark red                                  | gilt                       | marbled  |                           |                |
| <BBS 247>   | morocco <sup>e</sup>                      |                            |  |                           |                |
| Harvard (1825) <BBS>                                  | rebound <sup>f</sup>                      |                            | white  | S P Warren                |                |
| Huntington (1824) <sup>g</sup>                        |   |                            |  |                           |                |
| James Madison University (1825)                       |   |                            |  |                           |                |
| Morgan Library (1825?) <sup>h</sup>                   | green straight-grain morocco              | gilt                       | plain  |                           | No sleeve-case |
| National Library of                                   | purple <sup>i</sup> sprinkled             |                            | marbled Francis grey case                                      |                           | No sleeve-     |
| Wales 1(1824)   | in red                                    | with blue, pink and orange | Fortuny  |                           |                |
| National Library of Wales Copy 2 (1825?) <sup>j</sup> | rebound                                   | gilt                       | plain  | None                      | No sleeve-case |
| National Library of Wales 3 (1825?) <sup>k</sup>      | yellow front                              | green, back white          | None   | orange                    |                |
| New York Public                                       | cream                                     | front yellow               |  | bright green <sup>l</sup> |                |

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

|                      |                 |      |              |              |                     |
|----------------------|-----------------|------|--------------|--------------|---------------------|
| Library (1825)       |                 |      | brown; back  |              |                     |
| <BB>                 |                 |      | cream        |              |                     |
| Princeton (1824)     | <BB> rebound    |      | pink         | None         |                     |
| Harriet Beacher      | rebound         |      | gilt         | marbled grey | None No sleeve-case |
| Stowe Center         | leather spine   |      | and cream    |              |                     |
| (1824)               |                 |      |              |              |                     |
| Victoria University  | green straight- |      | gilt marbled |              |                     |
| in the University    | grain morocco   |      |              |              |                     |
| of Toronto 1         |                 |      |              |              |                     |
| (1824) <sup>m</sup>  |                 |      |              |              |                     |
| Victoria University  | paper white     | gilt | green        | present      |                     |
| in the University    |                 |      |              |              |                     |
| of Toronto 2         |                 |      |              |              |                     |
| (1824)               |                 |      |              |              |                     |
| Virginia, University |                 |      |              |              |                     |
| of (1824)            | <BBS>           |      |              |              |                     |

<sup>a</sup> What I have called "Diary" is 24 pp. headed "CALENDAR and ALBUM". All after p. 336 (the Diary) is missing from Cambridge Copy 3, Morgan, National Library of Wales Copies 2-3, and New York Public Library, as in the issue of 1825. In addition, the date has been erased from the title page in Cambridge Copy 3 and National Library of Wales copies 2-3, and the engraved title page with the date is missing from the Morgan copy. All these were presumably issued in 1825

<sup>b</sup> Cambridge Copy 1 is bound in light green grained morocco with black tooling round the edges of the boards, gilt tooling on the spine, and a brown title label on the spine with gilt lettering. For the copies now in Cambridge, see BB and BBS.

<sup>c</sup> In Cambridge Copy 6, the boards and spine are decorated in gilt with a red title label on the spine.

<sup>d</sup> Essick Copy 1, acquired from Douglas Cleverdon, is described in Geoffrey Keynes, Blake Studies (Oxford, 1971), 144.

<sup>e</sup> The Essick copy is bound in dark red morocco, with gilt and blind decorations and “REMEMBER | ME” on the spine; Essick is fairly certain that it is a publisher’s binding.

<sup>f</sup> The Harvard (Houghton) copy, reproduced online, shows the cover of dark red pebble grain cloth.

<sup>g</sup> The Huntington copy lacks pp. 153-60..

<sup>h</sup> It is inscribed “W.M. Rossetti from Swinburne 1878”.

<sup>i</sup> With extraordinary generosity, Timothy Cutts of the National Library of Wales Rare Book Unit wrote me that

The copy is sewn on three recessed cords laced into boards with a tight back, covered in full embossed purple skiver [soft thin sheepskin]. The headbands are sewn in blue and white thread. The spine is lettered in gold with four gilded panels, and the borders of the boards are tooled with an ornamental gold fillet line.

<sup>j</sup> National Library of Wales Copy 2 has the date rubbed off the title page, and it has been rebound in a dark green case binding with “1831” tooled in gold on the spine. There are no diary pages, and the copy ends at p. 336. The name W.H. Davey has been scratched on the upper cover.

<sup>k</sup> National Library of Wales Copy 3 comes from the library of Francis William Bourdillon (1852-1921), poet, literary scholar, and bibliographer, of Midhurst, Sussex.

<sup>l</sup> In the copy in the Berg Collection of the New York Public Library copy, beneath the green cover of the sleeve case is red paper.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

<sup>m</sup> Victoria University Copy 1 (formerly R.N. Essick's) lacks pp. 73-74 (f. E1).

<sup>n</sup> This is described in Geoffrey Keynes, Blake Studies (1971), 144, but it is not among the Keynes copies that went to Cambridge University Library.

According to G.E. Bentley, Jr, "Remember Me!: Customs and Costumes of Blake's Gift Book", University of Toronto Quarterly, LXXX (2011), 880-92,

The 24 [now 25] known copies of Remember Me! differ from one another in "the pattern of binding, colour of fore-edges, endpapers, and the decorated sleeve-case"; the "paucity of sales may be related to the fact that the publisher John Poole had little experience of book distribution. His speciality was as a maker of Marble Paper and Fancy Pocket-Books, not in selling them" [p. 880].

REVIEWS

Anon., Mirror of Literature, Amusement, and Instruction, IV, cxvi Supplementary Number ([4 December 1824]), 413 <New York Public Library> ("This is another of those annual volumes to which Mr Ackerman's work has given rise. ... Remember Me does not rest its claims to support on its superior graphic embellishments or good poetry, but to its botanical embellishments, which to say the truth, are very prettily coloured")

Anon., Monthly Critical Gazette, II, 8 (1 January 1825), 187 <Bodley> (“REMEMBER ME' differs very considerably from any of its rival cotemporaries [but it doesn't say how] ... Its engravings, principally of flowers, are very beautiful”)

[RITSON, Joseph, ed.]
A Select Collection of English Songs
(1783)

NEW LOCATIONS: Aberdeen, Birmingham, John Carter Brown Library, Cambridge (2 sets, 1 from the Keynes Collection), Edinburgh, Glasgow, Newcastle, Tulsa (gift of Roger Easson), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

There is some evidence that the work was published not in 1783, as the title page indicates, but late in 1784, for it was announced as just published in the St James Chronicle (11/14 and 14/16 September 1784) "with a great Number of elegant Engravings" at 12s or 15s bound, and "A few Copies are printed on finer Paper"; there were reviews in the Critical Review, LVIII (October 1784), 300-4, Gentleman's Magazine, LIV, 2 (November 1784), 817-18, and Monthly Review, LXXIII (September 1785), 234; and Ritson's text is much quoted in the European Magazine, VI (December 1784), 436; VII (January, February 1785), 20-23, 93-96,<sup>658</sup> §New Annual Register, V, 3 (1784), 271, and §New Review, VI (1784), 79.

---

<sup>658</sup> This information derives from Bertrand H. Bronson, Joseph Ritson: Scholar-at-Arms (1938), II, 754.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

“Robin Hood and Clorinda”

Meheux-Blake

(Macklin, 1783)

NOTICES, &c

Anon., “Englische Kupferstiche”, Neue Bibliothek der schönen Wissenschaften und der freyen Künste [Leipzig], XXX, 2 (1785), 332-49, in German (“Robin Hood and Clorinda” after J. Meheux, engraved by “W. Blake, in punktirter Manier”, in the round, 8” in diameter, “4 Schillinge im Preise” [p. 337])

SALZMANN, C.G.

Elements of Morality

tr. [Mary Wollstonecraft]

(1791, 1792, 1793, 1799, 1805, [1815])

1791 NEW LOCATIONS: Liverpool Public Library, Pforzheimer Library (New York Public Library), Toronto Public Library (Osborne Collection of Early Children's Books), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (1 with Pamela Lister's book-plate, 1 in the Bentley Collection [Vol. III only])

1792 NEW LOCATIONS: Pforzheimer Library (in the New York Public Library), Tulsa (gift of Roger Easson), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

1805 NEW LOCATION: Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection, Vol. I only)

1815 NEW LOCATION: Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

The 45 anonymous plates, attributed without evidence to Blake by Alexander Gilchrist, Life of William Blake, “Pictor Ignotus” (1863), I, 91-92, are engraved in a “picturesque” style characterized by “purposeful ruggedness and simplicity”, according to R.N. Essick, William Blake’s Commercial Book Illustrations: A Catalogue ... (1991), 50. The plates were altered in the editions of 1792 and 1793, “filling in ... open spaces with hatching and crosshatching and the addition of stipple in hands and faces”, which “would seem to violate the picturesque aesthetic” of the earlier versions; “This care is rather unexpected for unsigned copy engravings in a book for children” (Essick, 50-51).

The paradox is brilliantly resolved by Essick, who suggests that the Salzmann plates, which are “technically quite simple” with “awkward patches”, may reveal the hand of Blake’s newly-discovered apprentice Thomas Owen (“Blake in the Marketplace, 2010”, Blake, XLIV [2011], 141-42).

To this I would add that the alterations in 1792 and 1793, which are more like Blake’s usual style of engraving, may be by the master correcting the work of his apprentice.

Some of the 1791 designs are competently engraved, reversed, by H. Weston in

ELEMENTS | OF | MORALITY, | FOR THE | USE OF
CHILDREN; | WITH AN | INTRODUCTORY ADDRESS TO
PARENTS. | = | Translated from the GERMAN of the | REV. C.G.
SALZMANN. | = | ILLUSTRATED WITH TWENTY COPPER-
PLATES, | IN TWO VOLUMES | - | VOL. I.<sup>659</sup> | = |

---

<sup>659</sup> The only copy I have seen, in Victoria University in the University of

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

PHILADELPHIA: | PRINTED BY J. HOFF & H. KAMMERER,
JUN. | M,DCC,XCVI [1796].<sup>660</sup>

REVIEW referring to Blake's work

Anon., "Art. XLII. Elements of Morality for the Use of Children; with an Introductory Address to Parents. Translated from the German of the Rev. C.G. Salzmann. Illustrated with Fifty Copper Plates. In three Volumes. Vol. I. 200 p. and 16 plates. Price 3s. Sewed. Johnson. 1791", Analytical Review, IX (January 1791), 101-3: the last paragraph of this short review reads:

The prints are far superior, both with respect to design and engraving, to any we have ever seen in books designed for children; and that prints, judiciously introduced, are particularly calculated to enforce a moral tale, must be obvious to every one who has had any experience in education.

Mary Wollstonecraft is identified as the translator in a footnote, and Volumes II and III are reviewed in Volume XI [October 1791], 217-20) <BB>.

EDITION

§*Christian Gotthilf Salzmann. Elements of Morality, for the Use of Children: with an Introductory Address to Parents.

---

Toronto, consists of Vol. I only. In it pl. 3-4, 6-10 (at pp. 48, 72, 182, 188, 218, 226, 234) copy 1791 pl. 2, 6, 16, 18, 20, 22-23, including the inscriptions.

<sup>660</sup> BB 608 says of the edition of Philadelphia, 1796, "the plates are different". R.N. Essick, William Blake's Commercial Book Illustrations: A Catalogue ... (Oxford: Clarendon Press, 1991), 51, says: "The 1796 Philadelphia edition contains twenty of the designs re-engraved by another hand."

Volume 3. (Charleston [South Carolina]: BiblioLife, 2014)
248 pp.; ISBN: 9781295470846 [Volumes I-II are not listed.]

SALZMANN, C.G.
Gymnastics for Youth
(1800)

NEW LOCATIONS: Amherst College, Birmingham, California (Los Angeles), Cambridge, Indiana, Kansas, Leicester, McGill, Oberlin College, Paxton House (near Berwick on Tweed), Pennsylvania, Pierpont Morgan Library, Providence Public Library, Toronto Public Library, Washington (St Louis), Wellcome Institute, West Sussex Record Office

The Harvard copy is reproduced online.

SCOTT, John
Poetical Works
(1782, 1786, 1795)

1782 NEW LOCATIONS: Aberdeen, Cambridge, Edinburgh, Fordham, Friends House (London), Kent State, Liverpool Public Library, Minnesota, Sheffield, Trinity College, Tulsa (gift of Roger Easson), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

1786 NEW LOCATIONS: Birmingham, Liverpool, National Library of Scotland, Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

1795 NEW LOCATION: Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

Quaritch catalogue No. 539 (1937), lot 432, remarks:

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

It has not, we believe, been noted before that two variants exist of the 1782 edition. In Variant A, presumably the earlier, the verso of leaf A<sub>4</sub> is occupied by 15 lines of Errata. In Variant B this leaf is blank and the errata, with one exception, are corrected in the text. Although the setting up of the variants corresponds, page for page, the pagination differs, owing to a fly-title to the Elegies being present in Variant B, but not in A.

The conclusion is summarized in Quaritch Catalogue No. 979 (1977), lot 50.

REVIEWS

§British Magazine & Review, I (1782), 123-26 <BB>

§Critical Review, LIV (1782), 47-50 <BB>

Anon, European Magazine, II (1782), 193-97 ("the plates ... are designed and executed with skill and elegance") <BB>

§Gentleman's Magazine, LII (1782), 489 <BB>

§Monthly Review, LXVI (1782), 183-90 <BB>

§New Annual Register, III, 3 (1782), 249 <BB>

SEALLY, John, and Israel LYONS
A Complete Geographical Dictionary
(?1784, 1787)

?1784 NEW LOCATIONS: Cambridge, R.N. Essick (Vol. II only, with all the Blake plates), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

1787 NEW LOCATION: British Library

SHAKSPEARE, William

Dramatic Works

ed. George Steevens

9 vols.

(Boydell [1791-]1802, 1832)

1802 NEW LOCATIONS: Birmingham, Durham, Leeds, New College (Oxford), Ushaw College (Durham), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

1832 NEW LOCATIONS: British Library, Folger Library, Manchester, Muhlenberg College, St Lawrence, Southern Methodist, Wales

Pl. 1. Blake's pencil sketch for "Queen Katherine's Dream" "with ruled scale lines for engraving" was offered in 1933 with "A Fairy leapt" (q.v.).

A proof of Blake's print for Romeo and Juliet "before framing lines and all letters", reproduced (much reduced) in Heritage Book Shop Catalogue 197 (December 1994), p. 14, is in the collection of Professor Robert N. Essick, according to Essick's "Blake in the Marketplace, 1994", Blake, XXVIII (1995).

REVIEW

Anon., Public Advertiser, 2 July 1789 (Opie's first painting for Romeo and Juliet represented many figures [engraved by Blake], but he subsequently repainted the canvas, eliminating many inessential characters) <BBS 254>

EDITION

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

§Boydell's Shakespeare Prints: 90 Engravings. (Mineola, N.Y.: Dover Publications, 2004) 28 cm, i.e., greatly reduced in size

From the 9-volume folio edition of Shakespeare (1805).

SHAKSPEARE, William
The Plays with Fuseli's designs
ed. Alexander Chalmers

(1804-5, 10 vols., 1805, 9 vols., 1805, 1811, 1812)

In Parts NEW LOCATIONS: British Library (perhaps this is the 10 plays without title page but with a prospectus)

10 Volumes 1805 NEW LOCATIONS: Aberdeen, Birmingham (1805.5), Bodley (M.Adds.51 d.43/1), Princeton (Ex 3925.1805), Zentralbibliothek (Zurich: AX 481), Tulsa (gift of Roger Easson)

9 volumes 1805 NEW LOCATIONS: Birmingham, Kunsthaus (Zurich: GB 38/1), Leeds, National Library of Scotland, National Library of Wales, Nottingham, Schweizerische Landesbibliothek (National Library of Switzerland, Berne: A16.757), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

9 volumes 1811 NEW LOCATIONS: British Library, Cambridge, Edinburgh, Illinois (822.33 Ich 1811), National Library of Switzerland (3 sets), New York Public Library (*NCM Chalmers 1811), Nottingham, Sheffield

1839 NEW LOCATION: Tulsa (gift of Roger Easson)

A paper label on the spine reads: SHAKSPEARE'S |
PLAYS | WITH SELECT NOTES, &C. | BY | A.
CHALMERS, A.M. | NEW EDITION, | IN NINE

VOLUMES | WITH PLATES | 1812. | £5.8s. | - | VOL I [-IX] | - | [Contents of each volume], according to D.H. Weinglass, Prints ... After Fuseli (1994), 237.

The expenses of the plates were:

|  |                          |
|--|--------------------------|
| Mr Fuseli for 37 Drawings at £3.3.                 | 116.11.--                |
| Engraving 37 Plates                                | 865. 4.--                |
| d <sup>o</sup> writing on d <sup>o</sup>           | 13. 6.--                 |
| Neagle Repairing                                   | 7.17. 6                  |
| Richards printing the Plates                       | 182.10.                  |
| ... Paper for 2 Ream 8½ qu[ire] <sup>s</sup> Super |                          |
| Royal for Plates, Req                              | 17.15.--                 |
| plates    5 d <sup>o</sup> d <sup>o</sup>          | 23.12.--                 |
| 14¾ d <sup>o</sup> Demy d <sup>o</sup>             | 52. 2. 3                 |
| ... Plates repairing by C. Heath from Fuseli       | 47.15. 6                 |
| Head d <sup>o</sup> by Collier                     | 4.14. 6                  |
| Plates printing by Cox & Barnett                   | 50. --. - <sup>661</sup> |

As the engravers were paid on the average £23.12 per plate, Blake's payment of £26.5.0 per plate (according to his letter of 22 June 1804) was somewhat above the norm.

David Weinglass, Prints ... After Fuseli (1994), 239, summarizes the publisher's records:

Of the 3,250 sets printed, dated 1805, 1,150 were issued in the form of 46,000 numbers! The edition [B above] (all sets in boards) consisted of 1,500 Demy octavo “fine paper” sets in 9 vols. (at

---

<sup>661</sup> These extracts from the publisher's archive for Chalmer's Shakspeare in Reading University Library is quoted by D.W. Weinglass, Prints ... After Fuseli (1994), 358.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

10s. 6d. per vol. or £4.14s.6d. for the set) and 1,000 on “inferior paper” at 7s. per vol. or £3.3s. the set, together with 500 “Royal octavo” and 250 “Super Royal octavo” sets in 10 vols. [C above] on finest paper, selling at £9.0s. and £10.10s. respectively. The Times advertisement specifically mentions copies “without the copper-plates”. The lines in the title referring to Fuseli and the engravings after him are omitted from the title pages of the unillustrated copies of 1805 and 1811, although the appropriate title page is not always correctly assigned.

Total publication costs in 1805 amounted to £8,121. ... Excluding repair of the existing plate of Shakespeare's portrait (£7.17s. 6d.), the overall cost of the 37 plates was £1,246.19s.3d (£873.1s.6d. for engraving, £13.16s. for lettering, £182.10s. for printing, and £77.11s.9d. for paper). ... The 9-volume edition of 1811 [D above] was printed in 2,000 sets--“500 fine with plates, 500 fine without pl. 1000 Comm. no pl”, priced respectively at £5.8s., £4.14s.6d., and £3.12. in boards. Charles Heath was paid £47.15s.6d. to repair the badly worn plates.

REVIEWS, &c

Prospectus (1 December 1802) <BB 618>

London Catalogue of Books for 1805 (advertisement: 9 vols. without plates at £3.3.0, with plates at £4.14.6, 10 vols. at £10.10.0) <BB 618>

Monthly Literary Advertiser (December 1810) (announcement: 9 volume edition illustrated and unillustrated) <BB 620>

London Catalogue of Books for 1811 (advertisement: 9 vols. without plates at £3.3.0, with plates at £4.14.6, 10 vols. at £10.10.0) <BB 618>

Repository of Arts, VII (April 1812) (announcement: published in April 1812 at £5.8.0) <BB 620>

London Catalogue of Books for 1814 (advertisement: 9
vols. without plates at £3.3.0, with plates at
£4.14.6, 10 vols. at £10.10.0) <BB 618>

London Catalogue of Books for 1818 (advertisement: 9 vols. without plates at £3.3.0, with plates at £4.14.6, 10
vols. at £10.10.0) <BB 618>

London Catalogue of Books for 1822 (advertisement: 9
vols. without plates at £3.3.0, with plates at £4.14.6, 10 vols. at £10.10.0) <BB 618>

STEDMAN, J.G.

Narrative of a five years' expedition, against the Revolted Negroes of Surinam
(1796, 1806, 1813)
in French (1799)

J.G. Stedman, Surinam (1799) in French

VOYAGE | A SURINAM, | ET DANS L'INTÉRIEUR | DE
LA GUIANE, | CONTENANT | LA Relation de cinq Année
de Courses et d'Observations faites | dans cette Contrée
intéressante et peu connue; | AVEC des détails sur les Indiens
de la Guiane et les Nègres; | PAR LE CAPITAINE J.G.
STEDMAN; | TRADUIT DE L'ANGLAIS PAR P.F.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

HENRY: | SUIVI du Tableau de la Colonie Française de Cayenne. | = | COLLECTION DE PLANCHES. | = | A PARIS, | Chez F. BUISSON, Imprimeur-Libraire, rue Hautefeuille, N<sup>o</sup>. 20. | AN VII DE LA RÉPUBLIQUE [1799]. 4<sup>o</sup>, 44 prints<sup>662</sup>

1796 NEW LOCATIONS: Aberdeen, All Souls College (Oxford), Auckland Public Library, Cambridge, Detroit Public Library, Edinburgh, R.N. Essick (coloured), Exeter College (Oxford), Huntington (one of the 2 copies is coloured<sup>663</sup>), Imperial College, Institute of Commonwealth Studies, Liverpool Public Library, London, Newcastle Literary and Philosophical Society, Rhodes House (Oxford), Royal Ontario Museum (Toronto), John Rylands Library (Manchester University, coloured), South Carolina (a second set), Southampton, Stanford, Sveriges [Swedish] Nationalbibliothek, Trinity College (Oxford), Tulsa (gift of Roger Easson), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection 2, one coloured), Welcome Institute (prints coloured), Yale Center for British Art

The Harvard copy of 1796 is reproduced online.

A coloured set was offered in Peter Harrington's online catalogue, April 2015, for £15,000.

---

<sup>662</sup> This is part of Stedman's Voyage à Surinam, 3 vols. in 8<sup>o</sup> (19.6 x 12.2 cm), 1 vol. in 4<sup>o</sup> (29.2 x 21.3 cm).

<sup>663</sup> The coloured Huntington copy of Stedman is reproduced online in the William Blake Archive.

1799 in French: NEW LOCATION: Victoria University in the University of Toronto in original boards with marbled endpapers

1806 NEW LOCATIONS: John Carter Brown Library, Getty Research Institute (Los Angeles), Glasgow,<sup>664</sup> Liverpool, Rhodes House (Oxford), Tulsa (gift of Roger Easson), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

1813 NEW LOCATIONS: House of Commons Library (coloured copy, on loan to the British Library Department of Manuscripts), Manchester, New College (Oxford)

The numbers on the plates signed by or attributed to Blake are 7, 11, 13, 18-19, 22, 25, 35, 42, 49, 52, 55, 68, 71, 76, 80. They are centred beneath the imprint and are frequently trimmed off. They are omitted in BB and BBS but faithfully recorded and reproduced in R.N. Essick, William Blake's Commercial Book Illustrations (1991).

NEW ENGRAVING

A previously unknown unwatermarked proof of the oval vignette of 5 ships at sea on both title pages signed "Blake" was offered on 18 June 2014 by Bonhams (London), lot 71 and acquired by Victoria University in the University of Toronto. The proof image is 7.5 x 5.6 cm on a sheet 19.8 x 25 cm. The published version was slightly modified, "an additional flag has been added to the mast of each ship, the clouds have been emended and Blake's signature has been removed" (Bonham catalogue, 12 June 2014, lot 71).

---

<sup>664</sup> Prints with fine contemporary colouring in the Glasgow University Library copy are reproduced in the Petit Palais exhibition catalogue of 2 April-29 June 2009.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

"On the flag draped over the top of the oval vignette ... inscribed in drypoint by Blake, not by a writing engraver" is "cuncta mea mecum" (my all is with me), "the Stedman family motto".

The pennants (not flags) on the five ships are unidentifiable and are unchanged in the final version. However, flags, like the one just above the oval, have been added at the stern of the first ship at the left and the second ship from the right. The flags consist of three horizontal stripes; in coloured copies of Stedman (1796) (Biblioteca La Solana, Huntington Library [large paper], Victoria University in the University of Toronto) they are coloured, from top to bottom, red, white, and blue, the colours of the Dutch flag. Stedman was a soldier of fortune with the Dutch.

States of the title page vignette

Vol. I, First published state (1796): Added "large flags attached to poles or aft masts on the sterns of the ships 1st and 4th from the left ... the anchor lower right and the cannon barrel lower left have been recut to eliminate the crosshatching .... A small patch of crosshatching has also been deleted from the right extension of the flag dangling lower left." Image 7.5 x 5.6 cm. "Signed in scratched drypoint letters lower left, just above the cannon barrel, 'Blake'" (Biblioteca La Solana); "the signature is worn but still visible under magnification."

Vol. II, First published state (1796): "the rope dangling on the right has been extended upward beyond the lower tip of the flag to touch the outer frame of the vignette. A few crossing strokes have been added to the rope on the left where it hangs above the cannon. The clouds above the ships have been recut in a very different pattern. Diagonal hatching, apparently representing a cloud, has been cut into the space between the frame of the vignette and the flag upper left, just above and to the left of 'Mea' in the inscription. Many lines have been cut more deeply in the ocean, the ring fastening upper left, the lower tip of the anchor, and the Latin inscription. Blake's signature, lower left, shows considerable wear, but the fragments are still visible under magnification" (Biblioteca La Solana).

Vol. II, second published state (1796): "a 2nd 'I' was squeezed into the space between the first 'I' in the vol. number and the following ruled line to create the title page for vol. 2 present in both large- and small-paper copies".

Vol. II, third published state (1806): "The vignette is still in its 2nd st., but the clouds above the ships are worn and Blake's lightly scratched signature has completely worn away." "'J. Edwards' was replaced with 'Th. Payne' as one of the publishers named in the imprint, and 'Second Edition' was added below the volume designation."

Vol. II, fourth published state (1813): "only the early, 2-step change in the vignette itself--from the proof to the 1st published st., and from the 1st published st. to the 2nd--involved his [Blake's] work."

According to an advertisement in the Morning Chronicle for 21 July 1796 (discovered by Angus Whitehead),

In a few days will be published, in two vols. Large quarto, price three Guineas in boards, ornamented with 80 Copper Plates, consisting of Maps and Views, Figures of the Natives, Subjects of Natural

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

History and Curiosity, &c. all from Drawings made on the Spot by the Author, and executed by Bartolozzi, Blake, Holloway, Benedetti, &c.

NARRATIVE of an EXPEDITION against the Revolted Negroes in the Colony of Sarinam [i.e., Surinam], in South America; from the Year 1772 to 1777; with some Elucidations of the Natural History of that Country, and a Description of its Productions. Also, an Account of the Indians of Guiana, and the Negroes of Guinea.

By Lieut. Col. STEDMAN, then on actual service in that Colony.

Printed for J. Johnson, in St. Paul's Church Yard.

The advertisement abbreviates and paraphrases the title; to "drawings made by the Author" it adds, after "made", "on the Spot"; the engravers are not named on the title page, but they are so listed in the advertisement in Johnson's Analytical Review, XXIV (February 1796). Johnson deposited the statutory nine copies in Stationers' Hall on 25 July 1796 (BBS 256), and the book was reviewed in the Analytical Review, XXIV (September 1796), 237, suggesting that it was indeed published within "a few days" of 21 July 1796. Stedman was promoted to Lieutenant Colonel on 3 May 1796 (DNB), too late to alter the engraved title page where he is entitled Captain.

When Stedman's book was going through the press in 1796, its irascible author went to London to interfere in the printing of the work, and, as he wrote in his Journal for January and February 1796:

I sent besides to London Hansard [the printer, all the preliminaries for the book, index, etc.] ... I charged hansard not to trust the above papers with Johnson who I would now not Save from the gallows[,] with only one of them so cruelly was I treated--and I declare him a Scound[r]ell without he gives me Satisfaction .... Johnson, the demon of hell, again torments me by altering the dedication to the Prince of Wales &c., &c., he being a d-mn'd eternal [infernall?] Jacobin scoundrel.<sup>665</sup>

After Stedman's death in 1797, the Jacobin scoundrel wrote on 25 October 1799 to Stedman's widow in Tiverton, Devon:

Dear Madam

I wish to consult ye executors upon the following proposal[:]

The edition of ye Colonel's book being nearly sold I think there is a prospect of another smaller edn going off at a cheaper price, & if it meet with your approbation & theirs I will print one at my own risque & expense, & share with you whatever profit may arise from it.

J.J.

Mrs Stedman was clearly as suspicious of Johnson as her paranoid husband had been, she thought that Johnson owed money for the book, and she put the matter into the hands of an agent. Nine months later, Johnson wrote to

---

<sup>665</sup> BR (2) 69.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

N Dennis Esqr Tiverton

July 9. 1800

I have received, copied I suppose from Mr Stedmans book, a long account between him & me, of which I can make nothing. There can be no account between us but what arose out of y<sup>e</sup> agreement for his Ms. 1 The payment of £300 by me can easily be proved. 2 He was to receive 10/6 every Subn of 21/. which he procured. 3 he procured by his own account 200 for which he owes me 100 gs 3 [i.e., 4] He was to be allowed his own necessary[?] expenses occured [?i.e., incurred] in ye printing of ye work which I understood to be occasional postage & carriage of parcels but he has charged £42 for his stay in Lond[on] which was totally unnecessary & put me to an enormous expense in reprinting part of ye work from mere caprice, & he makes a charge of £3.9.6 for expenses in Setting[?] his Ms--these two charges I object to, his other charges for letters & parcels I agree to, but am ready to settle every difference by arbitr.<sup>n</sup> if you do not acquiesce with my statement.

I am &c

Mrs Stedman seems to have put the matter then in the hands of a London agent, for Johnson then wrote to

S Freeman [?Truman] Esqr Clarges St Augt 3.
1800

I return Mr Stedman's acc having marked such charges as I admit, ^with X^ amounting to £10.1.6,

~~although some of them I have nothing to do with~~ ~~such as advertising & paying booksellers~~
~~commission~~ this sum taken from 105£ ~~received by~~ ~~him~~ ^due to me^ for 200 Subscript<sup>ns</sup> ^at a Guinea each^ which he ~~procured~~ ^received^ leave a balance in my favour of £94.18.6[.] I never received anything from him.

It seems fairly plain from Johnson's straightforward account that Stedman's estate owed money to Johnson rather than vice versa. Perhaps the matter was dropped here, for there is no more correspondence about Stedman's Narrative in Johnson's Letter-Book. The matter was resolved at least to the extent that new editions were published in 1806 and 1813--and clearly the second edition would have been published much earlier but for the obstreperousness of Mrs Stedman.

In Blake's plate of "The skinning of the Aboma Snake", some work may have been done in the copperplate itself to strengthen the lines defining these trees projecting above the undergrowth on the left side of the plate and just above the head of the man standing lower left, [which] print much more darkly in the 1806 and 1813 ed.<sup>666</sup>

1813 A copy of the 1813 edition offered at Christie's (N.Y.), 14 June 2005, lot 214, is coloured in the style of the 1796 edition, not the different style of colouring in the 1806 and 1813 editions; perhaps the coloured prints were remainders from the 1796 edition.<sup>667</sup>

---

<sup>666</sup> R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2001", Blake, XXXV (2002), 130.

<sup>667</sup> According to R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace 2005", Blake,

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

The “second edition ... 4l. 4s. or with coloured plates, 6l. 6d.” is listed in Eclectic Review, N.S., I (May 1807), 460. In 2009 booksellers conventionally assume that the colouring in the second edition is modern.

Stedman's designs for the engravings to his book have not been traced, but a watercolour by him of a black groom with a blood horse in Surinam is reproduced in Gordon Ray, The Illustrator and the Book in England from 1790 to 1914 (N.Y.: Pierpont Morgan Library; London: Oxford University Press, 1975), p. 9.

Blake's pl. 2-3, 7-8, 10, 12-16 are reproduced (two of them twice), without reference to Stedman's Narrative or the text of the novel about the slave revolt of 1733-34 in what is now the Virgin Islands, in John Lorenzo Anderson, Night of the Silent Drums (Tortola, Rome, St Thomas [Virgin Islands], 1992) First illustrated Virgin Island edition.<sup>668</sup>

Blake's engraving of “The Skinning of the Aboma Snake” was copied in A General Collection of the Best and Most Interesting Voyages and Travels in All Parts of the World Many of Which Are Now First Translated Into English Digested on a New Plan by John Pinkerton ... Illustrated with Plates, Vol. XIV (London: Longman, Hurst, Rees, Orme, and Brown and Cadell and Davies, 1813), at p. 257. <Victoria University in the University of Toronto>

Blake's fifth plate of “The skinning of the Aboma Snake” is crudely copied in a wood-engraving in Anon., Travels in

---

XXXIX (2006), 162.

<sup>668</sup> First, unillustrated, edition: N.Y.: Charles Scribner's Sons, 1975.

South America (Dublin: John Jones, 1824) <Essick Collection>.

French Edition (1799)

All the plates are "Gravé par Tardieu l'ainé",<sup>669</sup> sometimes with his address, never with an imprint. In general, he copied Blake's plates very carefully.<sup>670</sup> The design sizes of these Blake prints are within 0.1 cm of 18.1 x 13.1 cm (pl. 1 is 17.7 x 13.5 cm, and pl. 2 is 18.0 x 12.9 cm), while the Tardieu French prints are within 0.1 cm of 18.3 x 13.3 cm).

The Tardieu prints are remarkably close to Blake's, probably made by some form of tracing. Notice, for instance, that in Tardieu pl. VI, the knee-laces seem virtually identical to those in Blake's first print.

However, the designs were reversed in Tardieu Pl. IX, XXI, XXV, XXXVII, and clouds have been added or the sky altered in all the Tardieu prints after Blake. Except for the design-reversals and the sky alterations, these Tardieu prints are as closely imitated from Blake as was possible with the technology of the 18th Century.

The Tardieu prints copying Blake's are

|          |   |
|----------|---|
| Pl. VI   | " Chasseur nègre, armé " .               |
| Pl. IX   | " Nègre suspendu vivant, par les côtes " |
| Pl. XIII | " Le Micou, et le Kisi-Kisi "            |

---

<sup>669</sup> "Tardieu l'ainé" is "probably Jean Baptiste Pierre Tardieu (1746-1816)" rather than his younger brothers Antoine François Tardieu (1757-1822) or Jean Baptiste Tardieu (1768-1837) who were also engravers (see Robert N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2012", Blake (2013)).

<sup>670</sup> Robert N. Essick, William Blake's Commercial Book Illustrations (Oxford: Clarendon Press, 1991), 72, says that the edition of "Paris, 1798" reproduces "Pls. 1, 2, 4, 5, 8-10, 12, 13, 15" and that the edition of Amsterdam (1790-1800) has the "same plates as Paris 1798" but does not notice how faithful they are to Blake's.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

- Pl. XIV "Le Capitaine Stedman fait écorcher le Serpent Aboma après l'avoir blefsé"
- Pl. XXI "Esclave Samboe, déchirée de coups de Fouet"
- Pl. XXV "Le Coiata et le Saki-winki Singes"
- Pl. XXVII "Planteur de Surinam en habit du matin"
- Pl. XXXII "Marche à travers un Marais de la Guiane"
- Pl. XXXVII "Familles d'Esclaves nègres de Loango"
- Pl. XXXXI [sic] "Le Célèbre Graman Quacy"

REVIEWS

Anon., Analytical Review, XXIV (September 1796), 237 ("The numerous plates ... are neatly engraved
...") <BB 623>

Anon., British Critic, VIII (November 1796), 536-40
("The plates are very unequal") <BB 623>

Anon., Critical Review, (January 1797), 52-60 (the engravings are "in a style of uncommon elegance")
<BB 623>

Anon., London Review (January-April 1797), 20-25, 116-18, 175-80, 253-56 (Blake's fifth plate is "a very good print" [p. 118]) <BB 623>

R.R., European Magazine, XXXI (January, February,
March, April 1797), 20-25, 116-18, 175-80, 253-56 (the picture of the Aboma snake is "a very good print" (February, 118)

EDITIONS

Stedman, John Gabriel, Narrative of a Five Years Expedition against the Revolted Negroes of Surinam, ed. Richard Price and Sally Price (1988) <BBS>

REVIEWS

§David Brion Davis, New York Review of Books, 30 March 1989, pp. 29-34

*G.E. Bentley, Jr. Blake, XXIV, 1 (Summer 1990), 253-59

M[ark] T. S[mith] & I[rene] H. C[hayes], Romantic Movement ... Bibliography for 1990 (1991), 89

Narrative of Joanna, an Emancipated Slave of Surinam: From Stedman's NARRATIVE OF A FIVE YEARS' EXPEDITION AGAINST THE REVOLTED NEGROES OF SURINAM. (Charleston [South Carolina]: BiblioLife, 2014) 92 pp.; ISBN: 9781293527399

STUART, James, and Nicholas REVETT

The Antiquities of Athens

Vol. III (1794)

NEW LOCATIONS: Aberdeen, All Soul's College (Oxford), Ashmolean Museum, Bristol, Bodley, Cambridge, Christ Church (Oxford), Corpus Christi College (Oxford), Getty Research Institute (Los Angeles), King's College (London), New College (Oxford), Newcastle, Northwestern, Royal Academy (London), Sheffield, Trinity College (Oxford), Tulsa (gift of Roger Easson), University College (London)

Copies of Blake's prints on paper watermarked J WHATMAN 1806 are in the collection of Dr D.W. Dörrbecker, but they did not appear in any of the editions known to me of

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

1808-22 (in French), 1825-30, 1829-33 (in German), 1837, 1849, 1881, 1905.

A “re-issue” of Stuart and Revett’s Antiquities of Athens, 4 vols., folio, with over 400 prints issued in 80 folio Parts, at 5s. each, was “now in course of Publication” in September 1835. I have not seen this edition<sup>671</sup> and do not know if it included Blake’s 4 prints for The Temple of Theseus.

Notices, &c

“Works Recently Published by John Weale”<sup>672</sup> (a re-issue of Antiquities of Athens with 384 prints engraved by “Alamet, Basire, Baxter, Blake ....” will begin on 1 May [p. 13])

Anon., “Literary Intelligence”, Eclectic Review, XIV (September 1835), 254-56 <Harvard> (a “re-issue” of Stuart and Revett’s Antiquities of Athens in 4 folio volumes “is now in course of Publication” with “upwards of Four Hundred Plates, (many engraved expressly for this Edition)” “in “Eighty Parts” at 5s each)

According to the library description of the set in Northwestern University (5 vols., 1762-1830)

Substantial sections of v. 1 and 3 were reprinted

---

<sup>671</sup> According to my friend Morton Paley, in the library of the University of California (Berkeley) is a collection of 50 miscellaneous prints 39 cm high from Stuart and Revett, 7 after James Basire, 2 after William Sharp, but none after Blake. The volume has no title page or indication of place or date of publication, but the spine of the library-binding is lettered “Grecian Sculptures” (see below).

<sup>672</sup> Bound at the end of James Hakewell, An Attempt to Determine the Exact Character of Elizabethan Architecture (London: John Weale, 1835) <Harvard>.

with the type reset, using paper with countermarks reading J Whatman 1808. They are (v. 1) t.p.; dedic; p. i-x, 1-4, 9-12, 15-end; and errata leaf; (v. 3) preface; p. xxi-[xxvi]; and errata leaf. The v. 1 errata leaf may not have a corresponding original printing; the other reprintings do.

The following parts of v. 1 and 2 are known in two settings of type, neither of which use 1808 paper: (v. 1) dedication, and list of subscribers; (v. 2) t.p.

To this may be added the fact that Blake's prints in the collection of D.W. Dörrbecker are on paper watermarked J WHATMAN 1806.

Another version<sup>673</sup> of Stuart and Revett was advertised as Grecian Sculpture; a Series of Engravings of the most celebrated Specimens of Ancient Art ... Originally published in Stuart and Revett's Antiquities of Athens, with numerous important Additions ... With Historical, Descriptive and Explanatory Remarks (London: John Weale and Sherwood, Gilbert, and Piper, 1835-36)<sup>674</sup>

It was in imperial quarto, issued in Parts, at 2s. 6d. each, with "nearly two Hundred and Fifty Plates" (November 1835) or "upwards of two hundred and fifty plates" (10 February 1836) "Originally published in Stuart and Revett's Antiquities of Athens", "Engraved by Aliamet, Basire, Baxter, Blake ..." (September 1835) for, inter alia, "the Temple of Theseus at Athens". In addition, there were "a small number of Copies

---

<sup>673</sup> Notice that the "reissue" of Stuart and Revett in folio and the separate publication of Grecian Sculpture in quarto are listed discretely (but successively) in Eclectic Review (Sept 1835), indicating that they were two distinct publications.

<sup>674</sup> This is the title given in the Eclectic Review, 3S, XIV (Sept 1835), 254-256.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

on Superfine Paper, in Columbier Quarto, price Four Shillings” (10 February 1836). Blake’s 4 prints are not named in the lists in the Eclectic Review and Bent’s Monthly Literary Advertiser. It is possible that only Parts I-V (the only ones of which I have evidence) were issued.

Notices, &c

Anon., “Literary Intelligence”, Eclectic Review, 3S, XIV (September 1835), 255-56 <Harvard> (“a Series of Engravings ... Originally published in Stuart and Revett’s Antiquities of Athens, with numerous important additions”, Published in Parts, imperial quarto (London, 1835), Parts I-II)

Anon., Eclectic Review, 3S, XIV (November 1835), 432-34 <Harvard> (Lists engravings in Parts 1-2)

Bent’s Monthly Literary Advertiser, No. 372 (10 February 1836), 19 (announces the publication of Grecian Sculpture, Parts III-V, in Imperial Quarto, at 2s. 6d. per Part)

VARLEY, John
A Treatise on Zodiacal Physiognomy
(1828)

NEW LOCATIONS: Aberdeen, Bodley, Cambridge, Cincinnati and Hamilton County Public Library, Manchester, McMaster, Northwestern, Physiology Sherrington Library (Oxford), Princeton, Rutgers, Victoria & Albert Museum, Victoria University in the University of Toronto,<sup>675</sup> Wellcome

---

<sup>675</sup> Bought from John Windle October 2007.

Library (London)

A copy inscribed "M.A. Shee Esq. with the author's best regards" was offered privately by John Windle in 2015 at $10,950 and acquired by R.N. Essick. In the intrinsic "ADVERTISEMENT" for Blair's Grave (1808), R.H. Cromek listed eleven members of the Royal Academy, including "MARTIN ARTHUR SHEE, ESQ.", who bore "the most liberal testimonial" to the "excellence" of Blake's drawings for Blair,<sup>676</sup> and Shee subscribed for a copy.

Varley's Zodiacal Physiognomy (1828) was to be "COMPLETED IN FOUR PARTS" (according to its cover) including "engravings ... of King Edward the First, Nebuchadnezzar, &c. &c." (according to the Prospectus [1828] <BB #502>). It was announced in the Literary Gazette, 11 October 1828 <BB #971>, and the first Part was reviewed there on 27 December 1828 <BB #1038>. This first Part included Linnell's engravings of Blake's "Cancer" (male and female versions), "Gemini" (left and right profiles), and "Ghost of a Flea".

According to Anon., "Literary and Miscellaneous Intelligence", Monthly Review, NS, X (February 1829), 313-14, "Mr. Varley['s] ... Zodiacal-physiognomical investigation ... exemplified by plates, now preparing for the second number of his Zodiacal Physiognomy, ... will shortly issue from the press." However, no other Part of Zodiacal Physiognomy was ever issued. The designs intended for subsequent issues included "King Edward the First" (either the one in the Smaller Blake-Varley Sketchbook or Butlin #735) and "Nebuchadnezzar Coin as Seen in a Vision by Mr. Blake"

---

<sup>676</sup> BR (2), 255-56.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

<Butlin #704, now in the Fitzwilliam Museum>.

REVIEWS referring to Blake

Anon. [W.P. Carey?], "Literary Novelties", Literary Gazette, 11 October 1828, p. 654 ("the madness of poor Blake (sublime as in some remains of him which we possess, it was) is too serious a subject to be jested with") <BB #971>

Anon., "A Treatise on Zodiacal Physiognomy: illustrated by Engravings of Heads and Features; and accompanied by Tables of the Time of Rising of the Twelve Signs of the Zodiac; and containing also New and Astrological explanations of some remarkable Portions of Ancient Mythological History. By John Varley. No. I. Large 8vo. Pp. 60. To be comprised in four Parts. Longman and Co.", Literary Gazette, 27 December 1828, pp. 822-24 (the Blake section from Varley's book is given at the end [p. 824] of a mocking review designed to prove "that our friend Varley is the only man alive who understands the true principles of human nature, which we take to be a proper mixture of credulity, insanity, and unconscious obedience to incomprehensible influences") <BB #1038>

Vetusta Monumenta
Vol. II
(?1789)

NEW LOCATIONS: Birmingham, British Library (4), Cambridge, Edinburgh, R.N. Essick, King's College (London), Lampeter, Liverpool, National Library of Scotland, Newcastle, Society of Antiquaries (London)

VIRGIL
The Pastorals
(1821)

NEW LOCATIONS: Art Gallery of New South Wales (Sydney, Australia), Boston Athenaeum, California (Berkeley), California Legion of Honor Museum (San Francisco), Cambridge, Carnegie Mellon, Columbia, Dartmouth College, Goucher College, National Gallery of Canada, Northwestern, Otago, John Rylands Library (Manchester University), Tate (1830 reprints), Tulsa, Victoria & Albert Museum (2 sets, one lacking map and 2 prints, one lacking pp. ix-x; BB lists 1 copy), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (3 sets<sup>677</sup>), Wake Forest, Wellesley College, Wesleyan (Middletown [Connecticut]), Yale (Walpole Library)

The copies in Harvard and the Yale Center for British Art are reproduced online.

According to Gilchrist, 275, Blake's wood "blocks ... proved ... too wide for the page and were ... summarily cut down to the requisite size by the publishers". Proofs from eight blocks (6-9, 10-13) before they were cut down are in the British Museum Print Room and reproduced, inter alia, in The

---

<sup>677</sup> In the Victoria University collections, one set of Virgil in the Bentley Collection has Vol. I-II but lacks the Blake prints, another Virgil in the Bentley Collection consists of Vol. I only but has all the Blake prints.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

Illustrations of William Blake for Thornton's Virgil, ed. Geoffrey Keynes (1937), 42-43. The differences before and after this surgery were

| Design Before  | After          | Trimmed chiefly on                                      |
|-----------------------|-----------------------|--|
| trim-ming | trim-ming |  |
| (6) 3.9 x 8.8         | 3.9 x 7.4             | Left, right, top, bottom, plus chip at top left                |
| (7) 3.4 x 8.5         | 3.3 x 7.4             | Left, right, top   |
| (8) 4.5 x 8.6         | 3.2 x 7.3             | Left, right, top   |
| (9) 4 x 8.7           | 3.7 x 7.4             | Left, right, top, bottom, plus chips at top left and top right |
| (10) 4 x 8.4          | 3.4 x 7.3             | Left, right, bottom, top                                       |
| (11) 3.6 x 8.6        | 3.6 x 7.4             | Right  |
| (12) 3.3 x 8.7        | 3.3 x 7.3             | Right, top   |
| (13) 3.9 x 8.7        | 3.4 x 7.3             | Right, top <sup>678</sup>                                      |

When Blake had produced his [Virgil wood]cuts, a shout of derision was raised by the wood-engravers. "This will never do," said they; "we will show what it ought to be" ....<sup>679</sup>

Three of these re-cut designs were printed on one leaf with the Virgil (1821), and a fourth, an unpublished duplicate

---

<sup>678</sup> The dimensions in centimetres given here are reported by M.D. Paley, The Traveller in the Evening (2003), 31, from proofs of the blocks before trimming in the British Museum Print Room and from the woodblocks themselves after trimming in the British Museum Print Room. The differences were summarized in BB #504 as "about 0.5 to 1.0 cm". The dimensions there are given as design size rather than block size and the cut down designs as "c. 7.6 x 3.2 cm."

<sup>679</sup> [Henry Cole], "Fine Arts. The Vicar of Wakefield ...", Athenaeum, 21 Jan 1843, p.65.

(reversed) of Blake's first woodcut labelled "Thenot" (at p. 14), was printed by Henry Cole in The Athenaeum in 1843.

A fifth woodblock, copying Blake's first design (reversed) of "Colinet" at p. 14 before it was cut down, is in the Huntington Library, acquired years ago with a large collection of woodblocks. The Huntington woodblock shows space to the left of the left shepherd and sheep to the right of the tree, as in Blake's woodblock before it was cut down. In the Huntington woodblock the rim of the sun is not visible and the dog is pawing the knee of the left shepherd rather than with its nose to the ground. Prints of the woodblock pulled by R.N. Essick are in the Huntington Library and the Essick Collection.

Blake's four designs at Virgil p. 14, including this one, were first etched in relief by Blake on metal, probably a copperplate.<sup>680</sup> Perhaps it was these relief-etchings at which the wood-engravers raised their shout of derision.

The woodblocks of Blake's Virgil designs as published in 1821 are in the British Museum Print Room.

After publication, Linnell bought the 17 woodblocks and allowed prints to be made from them. A set of 16 of them (lacking the first print) was sold at Christie's (London), 29 March 2006, lot 57 [for £3,600], according to Essick, "William Blake in the Marketplace, 2006", Blake, XL (2007), 134.

When four of the prints on one leaf were sold with "The Rinder Collection" at Christie's 30 November 1993, lot 5, it was claimed with some fanfare and extensive prose that they

---

<sup>680</sup> They are reproduced in G.E. Bentley, Jr., The Stranger from Paradise: A Biography of William Blake (2001), pl. 127.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

are "relief etchings", but there seems to be no good reason to believe that they are not, as has always been believed, the same woodcuts as in the published version, though in an earlier state than previously recorded. There are, of course, newly discovered relief etchings of the Virgil plates in the Collection of R.N. Essick <BBS 258-61>, but these are not they.

In at least one set, a printed slip is pasted over the price at the foot of the Vol. I title page reading "At the French and English Juvenile Library, No. 195, (St. Clement's), Strand",<sup>681</sup> and in Vol. II the "15s" price is scratched out (John Windle Catalogue 46 [November 2009], lot 39).

Larkhall Fine Art offered R.N. Essick "21 impressions of BB #504.8 (Blake's 4th wood engraving) [and] 14 impressions of BB #504 13 (his 9th wood engraving)" with an envelope with a pencil inscription by John Linnell Jr: "Pastorals | 5 impressions--of the blocks | as samples for average strength [of printing pressure?] | J Linnell".<sup>682</sup>

Copies in St Paul's School prize bindings are recorded in (1) R.N. Essick collection, (2) Christie's (N.Y.), 10 December 1999, lot 110 [$18,400 to the dealer Simon Finch], and (3) Bonham's auctions (Oxford), 31 January 2012, lot 254 (Vol. I only) [£11,875 to the London dealer Sims Reed], sold in 2012

---

<sup>681</sup> The French and English Juvenile Library was "an imprint of M.J. Godwin and Co., founded by William Godwin (1756-1836) and his second wife, Mary Jane Clairmont Godwin (1766-1841)", as R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2009", Blake, XLIII (2010) points out.

<sup>682</sup> Robert N. Essick, "William Blake in the Marketplace, 2011", Blake, XLV, 4 (Spring 2012), 125.

to a British private collector).<sup>683</sup>

For the drawings for Virgil, see above under Art.

REVIEWS

Anon., "New Books Published in February", Monthly Magazine, LI, 351 (1 March 1821), 167 ("highly pleasing and instructive")

Anon., European Magazine and London Review,<sup>684</sup> LXXIX (March 1821), 311-43 (should the Pastorals be used for teaching? "One principal objection ... to their general introduction into our schools, is that the poet sometimes indulges in expressions of love for one male shepherd towards another of the same sex ... Doctor T. has most judiciously changed the names of the shepherds alluded to, into shepherdesses, which is an allowable and very proper change"; there are "engravings on wood, to the amount of 230, most of which are executed in a very superior manner"; and the Masters of St Paul's and Mercer's School will adopt it for their students [p. 341])

Anon., "Literary and Scientific Intelligence", Edinburgh Magazine, VIII (April 1821), 378 <Bodley>

Anon., "Quarterly List of New Publications, From March to July 1821", Edinburgh Review, XXXV (July 1821), 519

---

<sup>683</sup> Robert N. Essick, "William Blake in the Marketplace, 2012", Blake, XLVI, 4 (Spring 2013).

<sup>684</sup> The issue title calls it The London Review and Literary Journal.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

EDITION

The Illustrations of William Blake for Thornton's Virgil, The Introduction by Geoffrey Keynes (1937)

REVIEW

Edward Laroque Tinker, "New Editions, Fine and Otherwise", New York Times, 3 April 1938
(praise)

WHITAKER, John

The Seraph

(Button, Whitaker and Comp<sup>y</sup> [1818-28?])

Whitaker and Comp<sup>y</sup> [1819-28?]

Jones & C<sup>y</sup> [1825-28?])

[?1818-1828 and ?1819-28] Printed by Button, Whitaker and Compy

NEW LOCATIONS: Birmingham, Glasgow, King's College
(London), Manchester, Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection), Yale Center for British Art

[1825-28] PRINTED FOR JONES & Co

NEW LOCATIONS: British Library, Robert N. Essick,
King's College (London), Leeds, National Library of Wales,
Victoria University in the University of Toronto (2<sup>685</sup>), Yale
(Walpole Library)

Blake's plate is reproduced in the online catalogue of The National Gallery of Art (Washington, D.C.).

---

<sup>685</sup> The original (Bentley) copy in Victoria University had Blake's print of "The Temple of Mirth" in the first version; the new (2009) copy has the second version.

The Wit's Magazine

(1784)

NEW LOCATIONS: Bodley (3--BB records 1), California State University (Fresno), Cambridge (2, 1 from the Keynes Collection), Free Library of Philadelphia, National Trust (Swindon, England), Pierpont Morgan Library (2), Sheffield, Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection)

The Harvard copy is reproduced online.

Primary Source Microfilms reproduced it in their Eighteenth Century Collection.

Pl. 1 ("The Temple of Mirth") the first of two separate engravings of the same design: A print of the second state is in the collection of Robert Newman Essick.

Pl. 6: "MAY-DAY IN LONDON": A proof before letters is in the London Metropolitan Reference Archives.

For a speculation, probably idle, that a print called "The Italian Puppet Show" was engraved by William Blake for The Wit's Magazine, see Appendix: Books Improbably Alleged to have Blake Engravings.

WOLLSTONECRAFT, Mary,

Original Stories from Real Life

(1791, 1796)

GODWIN, Marie Vollstonecraft

Marie et Caroline

(1799)

1791<sup>686</sup> NEW LOCATIONS: Birmingham, Bodley (2), British Library (2 - BB records 1), California (Berkeley;

---

<sup>686</sup> The Huntington and Essick copies of 1791 are reproduced in the

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

Riverside), California Legion of Honor Museum (San Francisco), Cambridge, Chicago, Cincinnati and Hamilton County Public Library, Claremont Colleges, Colorado (Boulder, Denver), Dartmouth College, DePaul, Free Library of Philadelphia, Furman, Melbourne, Mercer, Mills College, North Carolina (Chapel Hill; Greensboro), North Texas, Northwestern, Notre Dame, Occidental, Pennsylvania, Royal Academy (London), Rutgers, John Rylands Library (Manchester University) (frontispiece cut out and pasted to the page facing the title page), Southern Mississippi, Toronto Public Library (Osborne Collection of Early Children's Books), Trinity College (Cambridge--2), Tulsa (2, gift of Roger Easson), Turnbull Library (Wellington, New Zealand), Union College (Schenectady [N.Y.]), Vermont, Victoria & Albert Museum, Washington (St Louis – a second copy, lacking pl. 4), Wesleyan (Middletown [Connecticut])

1796 NEW LOCATIONS: Amsterdam, Arkansas, Boston Public Library, Bristol (2), Bryn Mawr, California (Irvine), Cambridge (the Keynes Collection), Michigan State, Pforzheimer Library, Pierpont Morgan Library, Swarthmore College, Tulsa (gift of Roger Easson), Turnbull Library (Wellington, New Zealand), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Bentley Collection), Wisconsin (Madison)

The Harvard copies of 1791 and 1796 are reproduced online.

Marie et Caroline (1799) R.N. Essick,<sup>687</sup> Victoria University in the University of Toronto

A copy acquired in 1994 by the Library of Congress is "hand-colored", the "vibrant" "tinting not by Blake"; the colouring may be contemporary. The verso of pl. 1 inscribed in ink, "Miss Harriet Moore- | May 29th 1807".<sup>688</sup> Note that Harriet Jane Moore (b. 1801) was also given For Children (E) in 1806 by Fuseli, the friend of Mary Wollstonecraft.

A copy of the 1796 edition offered in John Windle Catalogue forty (November 2005), No. 64, has "plates ... so well-margined that in one plate the edge of the margin has text from another book, perhaps indicating that the plates were printed on paper left over from another printing." Mr Windle generously sent me a reproduction of the print ("Be calm, my child") at p. 94 which shows quite clearly at the outer (right) margin of the print the initial letters of a page, at the top half with fragments too small to identify, at the bottom half with "r", "f", "r", "t", "t", blank, "n", "E", two blanks, "ri", "p", "d", two blanks, and "a". The page and font-size are larger than those for Mary Wollstonecraft. Presumably the blank part of the leaf was the inner margin; Blake himself used the wide inner margins of his quarto Designs to a Series of Ballads (1802) for sketches (see BB #466) – but not, so far as we know, for printing copperplates.

---

<sup>687</sup> R.N. Essick, "William Blake in the Marketplace, 1999", Blake, XXXIII (2000).

<sup>688</sup> See Essick, "William Blake in the Marketplace, 1994" Blake, XXVIII (1995) and Peter Van Wingen, "Into the Mystic: Rare Books Division Acquires Important Addition to Blake Collection", Library of Congress Information Bulletin, LIII (1994), 443-44.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

This use of paper for the engravings with previously-printed text seems extraordinary. Copperplates and letterpress were printed on different presses and by different printers; for instance, the printer of the letterpress for Hayley's Designs to a Series of Ballads (1802) and his life of Cowper (1803) was Joseph Seagrave in Chichester, but the printer of the engravings was Catherine Blake in Felpham. Further, the paper for prints was ordinarily thicker and better than that for letterpress. It was remarkably casual to use paper previously printed with letterpress for the prints for Mary Wollstonecraft's Original Stories (1796).

We do not know the printers of either the letterpress or the engravings for her book, and I have not identified the previously-printed letterpress text on the plate-paper.

REVIEW, &c

Advertisement (bound with the Victoria University copy of Enfield's Speaker [1799]) ("Price 2s. 6d. with Cuts bound, or 2s. without Cuts") <BB 636>

EDITIONS

Mary Wollstonecraft's Original Stories with Five Illustrations by William Blake with an Introduction by E.V. Lucas (London: Henry Frowde, 1906) <BB #514C, BBS 269>

§Thomas Day, The History of Little Jack [London: J. Stockdale, 1788] and Mary Wollstonecraft, Original Stories from Real Life [2nd edition, London: J. Johnson, 1788]. Ed. Miriam Brody Kramnick (N.Y.: Garland, 1977) Classics of Children's Literature 1621-1932 16 cm, 310 pp.; ISBN: 970824022631

It includes Blake's six prints.

§Original Stories. With Five Illustrations by William Blake with an Introduction by E.V. Lucas ([Memphis, Tennessee]: General Books, 2010) 132 pp.; ISBN: 9781152567252

§Thomas Day, The History of Little Jack [London: J. Stockdale, 1788] and Mary Wollstonecraft, Original Stories from Real Life [2nd edition, London: J. Johnson, 1788]. Ed. Miriam Brody Kramnick. (N.Y.: Garland, 1977) Classics of Children's Literature 1621-1932 16 cm, 310 pp.; ISBN: 9780824022631

It includes Blake's six prints.

§*Mary Wollstonecraft. Original Stories from Real Life: With Conversations Calculated to Regulate the Affections and Form the Mind to Truth and Goodness [With Five Illustrations by William Blake With an Introduction by E.V. Lucas (1906)] ([Whitefish [Montana]: Literary Licensing LLC, 2014) 214 pp.; ISBN: 9781498181822

YOUNG, Edward

The Complaint, and the Consolation; or, Night Thoughts* (1797)

NEW LOCATIONS: Aberdeen, Alberta (3), Auckland Public Library, Bibliotheca Librorum apud Artificer / Library for the artists book (Sydney, Australia), Bibliothèque nationale (Paris), Birmingham Museum and Art Gallery, Brigham Young, British Library (2 –BB reports 1), Brown, Bryn Mawr, California Legion of Honor Museum (San Francisco), Cambridge (2), Cambridge (Fogg Museum), Cincinnati and

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

Hamilton County Public Library, Cleveland Museum of Art, Colgate, Colorado (Boulder), Colorado College, Dallas Public Library, Delaware, Duke (with the bookplate of "Bernard, Lord Coleridge"), Elmira College, Eton College, Frick Collection, Georgia, Grinnell College, Hennepin County Library (Minnetonka, Minnesota), *Houghton Library (Harvard), Kanagawa Kindai Bijutsukan (Kanagawa Modern Fine Art Museum, Japan), Kansas (3 – BBS lists 2), Kongelige Bibliotek (Copenhagen), Leeds, Library of Congress, Liverpool Public Library, London, Manchester, Miami (Coral Gables, Florida), Mount Holyoke College, *Muhlenberg College, National Art Library (London), National Library of Scotland, National Library of Wales, New York University, Newcastle, North Texas, Pennsylvania State Library, Principia (Elsah, Illinois), Quincy (Quincy, Illinois), Rijksmuseum (Amsterdam), Royal Academy (London), Salem, Skidmore, South Carolina, Stanford, Staatsbibliothek zu Berlin, Trinity College (Cambridge), Tulsa (disbound, gift of Roger Easson), University Art Museum (Kyoto City University of Arts), University of the Arts (Philadelphia), Victoria University in the University of Toronto (Northrop Frye's copy, given him in 1954 by Jay MacPherson), Bentley Collection, 2 copies, one printed without the engravings), Virginia, Wesleyan (Middletown, Connecticut), Westmont College (Santa Barbara, California), Witwatersrand (Johannesburgh), Wormsley Library (bound in Etruscan calf by Edwards of Halifax)

The only recorded copy in contemporary binding without engravings <BBS 270, 389> was given in October 2005 by Dr. A.E.K.L.B. Bentley and G.E. Bentley Jr with the rest of their collection to Victoria University in the University of Toronto.

A copy in "original boards with 'printed label on upper cover'" in §Sotheby (London) catalogue (7 May 1998), lot 30, exhibits a label not recorded elsewhere.

A copy with ownership marks of Henry Earp (1852), Frank Collins Wilson (Brighton, 27 June 1870), Ruthven Todd (1945), and Douglas Cleverdon (sold by his widow to Maggs Brothers 2000) has the plate for p. 27 ("Measuring his motions by revolving spheres") imposed both on that page AND on p. 29 where ordinarily no plate is printed.

The engravings in the copy in the Yale Center for British Art are reproduced online.

WEIGHT OF COPPERPLATES

The 43 copperplates would have weighed about 71,065.6 grams = 156.3 pounds.

COST OF COPPERPLATES

The costs (£5.15.10) in 1815-1816 for 16 copperplates for Flaxman's Hesiod (pl. 13, 15-18, 22, 24, 28-35, 37) (BB 557-58) with a surface area of 10,276 cm<sup>2</sup> gives a cost per square centimetre of 0.135d. Applying this cost of 0.135d/cm<sup>2</sup> to the 43 Young copperplates with 56,472.8 cm<sup>2</sup> gives £31.15.3¾.

R. Noble, the printer of Blake's Night Thoughts, was a jobbing printer--or perhaps two printers--whose residence was given as 4 Great Shire Lane, Temple Bar, in 1790, 1794-1800, and who registered press(es) at Green Arbour Court, Old

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

Bailey, in 1799 and 1800.<sup>689</sup> I have traced his imprint on 55 editions printed in 1790-1804, mostly (36) in 1800-1801; there were only 3 in 1796-98, and only one of the R. Noble editions was a folio, Young's Night Thoughts.

R. Noble was far from the achievement--and probably from the expense--of his great rivals Richard Edwards, Thomas Bensley with Macklin's great folio Bible (1800) and William Bulmer with the Boydells' great folio Shakspeare (1791-1805) and Milton (1793-97).

Costs of Young's Night Thoughts (1797)

|  |           |
|--|-----------|
| 537 folio watercolours and copyright therefor        | £21. 0. 0 |
| Paper for watercolours                               | £ 5. 0. 0 |
| Paper and printing text of 250 copies <sup>690</sup> | £96.18. 0 |

---

<sup>689</sup> According to William B. Todd, A Directory of Printers and Others in Allied Trades, London and Vicinity 1800-1840 (London: Printing Historical Society, 1972), Richard Noble, Printer, of 4 Great Shire Lane, Temple Bar, registered his press under the new law on 30 Aug 1799 with Joseph Burt and again by himself on 17 Jan 1800. Robert Noble, Printer, resident at 4 Great Shire Lane, registered his press with Joseph Burt at Green Arbour Court, Old Bailey on 16 Jan 1800. William Calvert, Printer of 4 Great Shire Lane, registered a press with James Calvert on 1 July 1801 and operated it in 1801-23. R. Noble was not apprenticed in the Stationers' Company, according to Stationers' Company Apprentices 1701-1800, ed. D.F. McKenzie (Oxford: Oxford Bibliographical Society, 1978).

<sup>690</sup> The fine printer Thomas Bensley wrote to F.J. Du Roveray on 10 Oct 1800 that the expense of 1,000 copies of a quarto edition of Thomson's Seasons, "22 lines to a page", "would be ab.<sup>t</sup>--£15.5s.0d per Sh[ee]t for Paper, Printing & Hotp<sup>s</sup> [hot-pressing]" (G.E. Bentley, Jr, "F.J. Du Roveray, Illustrated-Book Publisher 1798-1806: [Part] II: The Amateur and the Trade", Bibliographical Society of Australia and New Zealand Bulletin, XII, 2 (1988), 70). The charges of R. Noble, the printer of Night Thoughts with 30 lines to a page, were probably about the same.

Over 160 copies have been located in public collections, and perhaps 90 more are in private hands or were destroyed.

|   |                  |
|---|------------------|
| 43 engravings paid for with 30 copies of theprinted text                            | £31.10. 0        |
| Printing 250 copies each of 43 engravings <sup>691</sup> at6s per100 <sup>692</sup> | £32. 5. 0        |
| Binding at 2s.2d each <sup>693</sup>  | £27. 1. 8        |
| Advertising <sup>694</sup>  | £ 1. 5. 0 |
|   | £214.19.8 |

It would be agreeable to think that the Blakes were paid for printing the engravings.

Blake had asked £105 for his watercolours and might have expected a modest £225.15 for his 43 engravings at £5.5.0 each, £325.15.0 in all. Instead he received £21 plus a ream of paper (£5.0.0) for his 537 watercolours and perhaps 30 copies of the published Night Thoughts worth £31 for his 43 engravings, £57 in all. The heaviest financial investor in Young's Night Thoughts (1797) was William Blake.

Payments for Young's Night Thoughts (1797)

Blake was paid £21 for the 537 watercolour drawings he made for Young's Night Thoughts (1797)<sup>695</sup> or 9d per design. However, we do not know how much or even whether he was

---

<sup>691</sup> The engravings were printed on the text pages and therefore required no additional paper.

<sup>692</sup> Printing the plates for Flaxman's Iliad (1805) cost 6s per hundred pulls (BB 561).

<sup>693</sup> The "Binding" of Flaxman's Iliad (1805) cost 2s. 2d each (BB 561).

<sup>694</sup> Advertisements appeared in a separate flyer and in Monthly Magazine, II (Nov 1796), 807, True Briton (31 March 1798), and the Times (9 and 11 July 1798), the last three after Richard Edwards retired. There were notices in the Edinburgh Magazine, NS VIII (1 Dec 1796), 450, Monthly Epitome, I (Jan 1797), 79, and Monthly Magazine, V (June 1798), 455.

<sup>695</sup> Joseph Farington, Diary, 14 June 1796, in BR (2) 71. Blake's friend J.T. Smith called it "a despicably low ... price" (Nollekens and His Times (1828); see BR (2) 610).

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

paid for his 43 folio engravings from them. At the very least he should have expected £5.5.0 each for these very large plates (c. 33 x 41 cm), the sum he received for his smaller outline plates (c. 35 x 25 cm) for Flaxman's Iliad (1805) and Hesiod (1817),<sup>696</sup> a total of £225.15.0.

It is possible that Blake was paid for his engravings for Night Thoughts not in cash but in copies of the book, valued at £5.5.0 for all four Parts or £2.2.0 for Part I (£1.1.0 deposit and £1.1.0 on delivery of Part I).<sup>697</sup> Blake could then colour and sell them for his own profit.

Perhaps he was given about thirty copies. Twenty-eight coloured copies of Young's Night Thoughts have been traced.<sup>698</sup> Some of them have contemporary inscriptions associating them with Blake. Copy Q is annotated "This Copy was coloured for me by Mr Blake | W.E."; Copy R has "This copy colrd by W. Blake"; copy C is signed "W. Blake", and copies C and W have notes that they were to serve "as pattern" for colouring, presumably by Mrs Blake. A surprising number can be traced to contemporary owners, most of whom owned other works by Blake: [Rebekah] Bliss (d. 1819) (copy D), Thomas Butts (1757-1845) (A), Baron Dimsdale (1712-1800) (X), "W. E" (perhaps for William Esdaile [1758-1837] or William Ensom [1796-1832]) (Q), ?Richard Edwards (1768-1827) (B), Thomas Gaisford (1779-

---

<sup>696</sup> BB 561-62, 557-58.

<sup>697</sup> Prospectus, BR (2) 78-79. Coloured copies are not mentioned in contemporary advertisements and reviews.

<sup>698</sup> Copies A-T are recorded in BB 644-46, 956-57, copies U-Z in BBS 272-73, copies AA-BB in Essick, "William Blake and His Circle" from Blake (2000, 2002 online).

1855) (G), John S. Harford Jr (1785-1866) (R), John Soane (1753-1837) (F), and Earl Spencer (1758-1834) (O).

The Night Thoughts were coloured in two styles, one about 1797 (C-D, I-J, Q-R, U), and the other about 1805 (B, H, L, P). Presumably this meant that Blake carried with him copies of Night Thoughts (1797) when he moved from London to Felpham in 1800 and then back again when he returned to London in 1803.

How much was Blake paid for these coloured copies of Young's Night Thoughts? We have no direct evidence, but we can find a comfortable analogy in the prices of coloured copies of works in Illuminated Printing of the same size.

Blake's Prospectus (1793) listed uncoloured copies of America with 18 folio plates at 10s 6d and Visions of the Daughters of Albion with 11 folio plates at 7s 6d, while the prices for coloured copies of them in his letter of 9 June 1818 were £5.5.0 (America) and £3.3.0 (Visions). Subtracting the prices of uncoloured copies of America (10s 6d) and Visions (7s 6d) from those for coloured copies (1818) indicates that the price for colouring America was 5s 3d per plate and for Visions was 5s ½d per plate.

If Blake calculated 5s for colouring each of the 43 folio prints in Night Thoughts, he would have charged ten guineas per copy.<sup>699</sup> Even at a more modest five guineas per copy, he would have received £157.10 for thirty copies. With this he seems to have been content.<sup>700</sup>

---

<sup>699</sup> The printed text of Night Thoughts is thrown in gratis.

About 1797 Blake was paid £10.10.0 for his 116 watercolour designs to Gray (BR (2) 246).

<sup>700</sup> When Blake complained of neglect by the great illustrated book publishers Boydell, Macklin, and Bowyer (Notebook p. 23), he did not mention

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

Advertisements

The True Briton, No. 1644 (31 March 1798), carried an advertisement for a SPLENDID EDITION OF YOUNG's NIGHT THOUGHTS,

With 150 Engravings from original Designs.

This Day is published, Price One Guinea to Subscribers, PART I. containing FOUR BOOKS of

YOUNG's NIGHT THOUGHTS, illustrated with 43 very spirited Etchings, from the Designs of Mr.
BLAKE.

The novelty of the style in which these Engravings are introduced, surrounding the Text they illustrate, and the masterly hand with which they are executed, must, it is presumed, command the attention of the Literati, the Amateur of the Fine Arts, and of the Artist.

The Paper and Type will be found correspondent with the elegance of such an Undertaking; and it is hoped that, from the extremely low price which the Editor has fixed upon the Work to Subscribers, it will meet with that liberal encouragement which its intrinsic merit, as well as its novelty, may justly claim from this enlightened and literary Age.

The Subscription for the whole Work is Five Guineas: one to be paid at the time of subscribing,

---

Richard Edwards, the publisher of his Night Thoughts, perhaps implying that he did not feel that he had been mistreated by Edwards.

and one on the delivery of each Part. The Book will be completed in Four Parts, with all the expedition consistent with the nature of a Work of such magnitude.

The Price will be considerably advanced to Non-Subscribers, on the publication of the Second Part, which is in forwardness.

London: Sold by Mr. Edwards, Pall-Mall; Mr. Robson and Mr. Faulder, New Bond-street; Mr. Payne,<sup>701</sup> Mews Gate; Mr. White, Fleet-street; Messrs. Robinsons, Paternoster-row; Mr. Clarke, Bond-street; Mr. Bell, Oxford-street; and Mr. Harding, Pall-Mall.<sup>702</sup>

Substantially the same announcement appeared in the Times, No. 4225 and 4227 (9, 11 July 1798):

YOUNG'S NIGHT THOUGHTS, splendid Edition, with 150 Engravings from original Designs.--This Day is published, price One Guinea to Subscribers, Part the First, containing Four Books, of

---

<sup>701</sup> Note Thomas Payne, Catalogue of Valuable Books, in Various Languages, and in Every Class of Literature: Which Are to Be Sold, at the Prices Affixed to Each Article ... (London, 1799): "Young's Night Thoughts, with engravings round each page from the designs of Blake, 2 numbers, boards,--1797 & 98".

<sup>691</sup> The advertisements in the True Briton of 31 March 1798 and the Times of 9, 11 July 1798 were first recorded in Wayne C. Ripley, "'In Great Forwardness?': 1798 Advertisements for Volume Two of William Blake's Night Thoughts", Notes and Queries, CCLVI [N.S. LVIII], 1 (March 2011), 57-58; I have made minute adjustments on the basis of the originals. The booksellers are James Edwards, 77 Pall-Mall; James Robson, 27 New Bond Street; Robert Faulder, 42 New Bond-street; Thomas Payne, Mews Gate; John White, 63 Fleet-street; George, George, and John Robinson, 25 Paternoster-row; William Clarke, 38 Bond-street; Joseph Bell, 148 Oxford-street; and Edward Harding, 98 Pall-Mall.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

YOUNG'S NIGHT THOUGHTS; illustrated ...<sup>703</sup>

No second part was published,<sup>704</sup> though an untraced engraved proof of "the only extant leaf of Night 5" has been recorded.<sup>705</sup>

The 1798 advertisements echo the Prospectus of Spring 1797, correct its "forty" engravings to "43", and add eight new booksellers while omitting Richard Edwards. The author of the 1798 advertisements (James Edwards?) is notably more emphatic about Blake's plates--"a masterly hand" which will "command the attention of the Literati, the Amateur of the Fine Arts, and of the Artist"--than the author (Richard Edwards?) of the "Advertisement" in the 1797 edition, who conceived "it to be unnecessary to speak" of "the merits of Mr. Blake".<sup>706</sup>

Did Richard Edwards Publish the Night Thoughts (1797)?

Richard Edwards was identified as the publisher of Night

<sup>703</sup> The Times version differs from that in the True Briton in (1) using the old fashioned long "s" (ſ), (2) reducing the central five paragraphs to one paragraph, (3) changing "whole Work is" to "whole complete is", (4) extending "Amateur" to "Amateurs", (5) altering "Five", "Four", and "Second" to "5", "4", and "2d"; (6) changing "in forwardness" to "in great forwardness", the only substantial change; (7) omitting "London:" before the list of booksellers, (8) reducing the initial capital letters to lower case in "Paper" and "Type", and (9) replacing "Mr." in "Mr. Edwards" with "Messrs" and omitting the succeeding "Mr."s and "Messrs."

<sup>704</sup> In his 1799 Catalogue, Thomas Payne offered "Young's Night Thoughts ... 2 numbers ... 1797 & 98", but there is no other evidence that Part II was ever published.

<sup>705</sup> William Blake: Original Drawings, Engraved Work, Poetical Works, Books about Blake, Etc. Mainly from the Collection of Dr. Greville Macdonald (London: Francis Edwards [?1930]), lot 44.

<sup>706</sup> BR (2) 78-79, 76.

Thoughts in Farington's diary (24 June 1796), in the Prospectus (?Spring 1797), along with James Edwards and Robert Bowyer, and on the title page (1797). However, the advertisements in the True Briton (21 March 1798) and the Times (9 and 11 July 1798) omit him and instead name James Edwards, Robson, Faulder, Payne, White, Robinsons, Clarke, Bell, and Harding. The notice in the Monthly Magazine, V (June 1798), 455, named only Robson.

For some time Richard Edwards had been withdrawing from business;<sup>707</sup> perhaps he did not publish Night Thoughts at all. The only known sale in 1797 is by his brother James Edwards on 6 November 1797.<sup>708</sup>

After Richard Edwards withdrew from business, the Night Thoughts was taken over by a congery of booksellers headed by James Edwards, and they advertised it in the True Briton (March 1798) and the Times (July 1798).

Then James Edwards too retired from business, and in 1798 James Robson took over the Night Thoughts.

The work sold very slowly, in part because the publishers kept changing. In 1811 Crabb Robinson claimed that Blake's edition of Night Thoughts "is no longer to be bought".<sup>709</sup>

The commission for the Night Thoughts was due to the genius of Richard Edwards. He chose fine, expensive paper

---

<sup>707</sup> See G.E. Bentley, Jr, The Edwardses of Halifax: The Making and Selling of Beautiful Books in London and Halifax by William, John, Richard, Thomas, and Especially James Edwards, The Medician Bookseller (Toronto: University of Toronto Press, 2015).

<sup>708</sup> BR (2) 79.

<sup>709</sup> [Crabb Robinson], Vaterländisches Museum (1811) (BR (2) 600n). Robinson bought a copy on 27 Dec 1810.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

(1794 | J WHATMAN), a fine artist (William Blake), and a fine engraver (William Blake).

However, his claim in the integral Advertisement to Night Thoughts that "he has shrunk from no expense"<sup>710</sup> is plainly false. He allowed William Blake to bear the major part of the expense of the only volume that was published.

And he scarcely published the work, or perhaps he did not publish it at all. He withdrew from business, apparently for personal reasons, just when the Night Thoughts was finished. Apparently he never advertised it in 1797 or sent out a review copy. The contemporary obscurity of Young's Night Thoughts (1797) with Blake's illustrations is significantly due to the commercial neglect of Richard Edwards.

All 43 Night Thoughts prints were reproduced in John Windle's catalogue of Pictorial Blake (2011).

COLOURED COPIES

COPY B

It was reproduced in Edward Young, The Complaint, and the Consolation; or, Night Thoughts: Illustrations by William Blake (Oakland, California: Octavo, March 2004) "digital edition" on CD-ROM and in colour online in "William Blake Digital Materials from the Lessing J. Rosenwald Collection" in the Library of Congress and may be freely printed.

COPY E

---

<sup>710</sup> BR (2) 76.

HISTORY: (1) John Alexander Fuller-Maitland (1856-1936) remembered seeing before 1872 at the house of his uncle William Fuller-Maitland (1813-76) "a wonderful old chest" in which he was "allowed to forage, containing books by Blake that would now fetch their weight in gold. There was the unique copy of Jerusalem [E, plus Thel (a)] .... There were two copies of Young's Night Thoughts, and when I referred to the fact in talking about the books to my uncle, he stoutly maintained that he possessed only one. I assured him that one was coloured [E] and the other plain, but he was so sure that I was wrong that he said he would give me the second [plain one] if it was there. It was ...."<sup>711</sup>

COPY G

HISTORY: (3) Offered in Quaritch Catalogue 401 (May 1926), lot 218, for £175; (4a) Offered in James F. Drake Catalogue 181 ([?1926]), lot 17 ("The Gaisford-MacGeorge copy") for $1,200; (4b) Acquired by Cortlandt F. Bishop <BBS>; (6) The Lutheran Church of America in 1986 passed it, with the Florence Foerderer Tonner print collection, to (7) The Frank Martin Gallery, MUHLENBERG COLLEGE.<sup>712</sup>

COPY H

HISTORY: (4) W.A. Sargent lent it to the exhibition at the Boston Museum of Fine Art in December 1929.<sup>713</sup>

---

<sup>711</sup> J.A. Fuller-Maitland, A Door-Keeper of Music (London: Murray, 1929), 38.

<sup>712</sup> Ten prints from copy G are reproduced in colour in Grant F. Scott, "A Clash of Perspectives: Blake's Illustrations to the Poem Night Thoughts ...", Muhlenberg, V (1993), 10-16.

<sup>713</sup> See Anne Webb Karnaghan, "Blake Exhibition at Boston Museum", Art

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

COPY I

Copy I was reproduced in the William Blake Archive in 2007.

COPY J

It was reproduced in Edward Young, The Complaint, and the Consolation; or, Night Thoughts: Illustrations by William Blake (Oakland, California: Octavo, March 2004) "digital edition" on CD-ROM and in colour online in "William Blake Digital Materials from the Lessing J. Rosenwald Collection" in the Library of Congress and may be freely printed.

COPY K

HISTORY: (2) Perhaps this is the coloured copy in original boards, uncut, offered without price in Rosenbach catalogue 47 (December 1911), lot 75.

COPY M

HISTORY: (4) Mrs Emerson lent it to the exhibition at the Boston Museum of Fine Art in December 1929.<sup>714</sup>

COPY N

BINDING: A copy of the 1796 prospectus (4 3/8" x 5 5/8") is

---

News, Dec 1929, p. 11; the article does not say that Mr Sargent's copy of Night Thoughts is coloured.

<sup>714</sup> See Anne Webb Karnaghan, "Blake Exhibition at Boston Museum", Art News, 28 Dec 1929, p. 11. The article does not specify that Mrs Emerson's copy is coloured.

pasted to the front free end-paper. The front paste-down bears the small rectangular bookplate of EX MUSEO | ARBUTEANO | ... | W.S. LEWIS and the small round red bookplate of Paul Mellon, along with a clipping describing this copy when it appeared in the Parke-Bernet sale of Newton's collection on 16 April 1941, lot 138 ("engravings brilliantly colored by William Blake"), plus a statement on the stationery of A EDWARD NEWTON | OAK KNOLL ... written in blue ink by C.B. Tinker dated January (or June) 11 1936 describing "the two copies [A and N] ... in the possession of Mr A. Edward Newton".

The coloured engravings in the copy in the Yale Center for British Art are reproduced online.

COPY O

The Rylands copy has been digitised online.

COPY Q

HISTORY:(3)Sold with The late C.D. Halford's Library and other Properties by Puttick and Simpson, 15-16 January 1908, lot 643 [£52] "col. by the artist himself, inscription on fly-leaf: 'This copy was coloured for me by Mr. Blake, W.E.,' orig. bds."

The coloured engravings in the copy in the Yale Center for British Art are reproduced online.

COPY U

HISTORY: (4) It went from the dealer Laurence Witten <BBS> to (5) The dealer Justin Schiller, to (6) A private British collection by 1978; offered for sale in September 2001 "at an unstated but reportedly extraordinary price", according

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

to R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2001", Blake, XXXV (2002), 118.

COPY V

HISTORY: (1) Perhaps this is the copy with "forty-two illustrations ... colored by the artist's own hand" (ordinarily there were 43 prints<sup>715</sup>) which was lent by William Doxey<sup>716</sup> of New York to the exhibition in "the art room of the Erie Public Library" organized by the Woman's Club of Erie, Pennsylvania, in January 1903.<sup>717</sup>

COPY X

HISTORY: (4) Acquired by two collectors named Gilbert and George.

COPY Y

The watercoloured leaves are reproduced by the National Gallery of Victoria online.

NEW COPY

Copy AA

BINDING: Slightly trimmed (to 33 x 42.5 cm), each gathering mounted on a stub and "bound (c. 1890?) in quarto calf over brown cloth", according to R.N. Essick, "Blake in

---

<sup>715</sup> The copy exhibited in 1903 and Copy V are the only ones lacking one leaf; N lacks 2 leaves.

<sup>716</sup> William Doxey is not known to have owned any other original work by William Blake.

<sup>717</sup> Anon., "An Exhibition in Erie, Penn.", New York Times, 24 Jan 1903.

the Marketplace, 1999", Blake, XXXIII, the source of all the information here about this copy.

COLOURING: Coloured in three distinct styles at three distinct periods; none of the styles is the same as the three types heretofore identified by John Grant; for instance, on pl. 1 Death's gown is light brown, not green or white, though each has similarities to Type I. (1) About 1800, the first artist coloured pp. 1-43 sensitively in vibrant colours. (2) About 1833 the second artist coloured most of the rest of the pages in a style with very little character. (3) About 1880-1890, the third artist coloured pp. 63 and 70 with heavy, thick colours.

HISTORY: (1) Sold at Warner's auction (Leicester), 23 June 1999, no lot number, for £12,000 to (2) Sims Reed for stock; Sims Reed sold it in 1999 to (3) Professor Robert N. Essick.

NEW COPY

COPY BB

BINDING: Bound in brown leather with tooled edges and spine, spine broken, blue and red marbled end-papers, 40.7 x 31.8 cm, 9 sheets watermarked, "Explanation of the Engravings" between the Advertisement and Night I title page. "Bright atypical coloration [Grey Death type] applied after binding".<sup>718</sup>

HISTORY: (1) Acquired by Greville Lindall Winthrop, who added his bookplate and bequeathed it in June 1943 to

---

<sup>718</sup> All this information derives from William Blake's Designs for Edward Young's NIGHT THOUGHTS, ed. John E. Grant, Edward J. Rose, Michael J. Tolley, Co-ordinating Editor David V. Erdman (Oxford: Clarendon Press, 1980), I, 72, an entry scandalously overlooked by GEB for 20 years until the lacuna was pointed out by my friend John Windle.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

(2)HOUGHTON LIBRARY (Harvard University; Accession Number *42-5188F).

REVIEWS &c

Prospectus for “EDWARDS’S MAGNIFICENT EDITION OF YOUNG’S NIGHT THOUGHTS” (?Spring 1797) announced that “EARLY in JUNE” the first part would be published with 40 engravings “by BLAKE”) <BB 638>

Monthly Magazine, II (November 1796), 807 (announcement):

A splendid edition of YOUNG’S NIGHT THOUGHTS, in large quarto, enriched with 150 etchings upon the borders, and frontispieces to each book, from original designs of BLAKE, is in forwardness. The price of the work to subscribers is FIVE GUINEAS; to non-subscribers SIX GUINEAS. <BBS 270>

Anon., “Varieties, Literary and Philosophical; Including Notices of Works in Hand. From the Same [Monthly Magazine]”, Edinburgh Magazine, NS, VIII (December 1796), 447-50 <Bodley>:

A splendid edition of Young’s Night Thoughts, in large quarto, enriched with 150 etchings upon the borders, and frontispieces to each book, from original designs by Blake, is in forwardness. The price of the work to subscribers is Five Guineas; to non-subscribers Six Guineas. [P. 450]

Monthly Epitome and Catalogue of New Publications, I (January 1797), 79 (announcement):

Young’s Night Thoughts, with Etchings and Engravings, in Four Parts, Atlas sized 4to. To Subscribers 5l. 5s. to Non-subscribers 6l. 6s.

(Part I. in a few days.) Edwards, Bond-street.
<BBS 270>

Monthly Magazine, V (June 1798), 455, publication recorded as “Young’s Night Thoughts, decorated with appropriate Designs, by Mr. Blake, Part I. 1l.
1s. Robson” <BBS 271>

SALE AND COLLECTION RECORDS 1798-1840<sup>719</sup>

A Catalogue of Rare, Splendid, and Valuable Books, in Every Branch of Polite Literature; Including the Entire Libraries of The Rev. Harvey Spragg ... also of The Rev Henry Putman ... The Sale will begin on February 19, 1798, By John White, Bookseller, at Horace’s Head, in Fleet-Street, London (1798) <Bodley> (Lot “1217 Young’s Night Thoughts, a magnificent edition, with Engravings from Drawings by Blake, 5l. 5s to subscribers, when completed, boards -- -- 1797”) †

Anon., “A Correct List of New Publications”, Monthly Magazine, V, 32 (June 1798), 455 (“Young’s
Night Thoughts, decorated with appropriate
Designs, by Mr. Blake, Part 1. 1l. 1s.

---

<sup>719</sup> The references to Young's Night Thoughts in the catalogues of 1800, 1807, 1833, 1835, 1837, 1838, 20 Nov 1839, and Dec 1839 (Setchel) were pointed out by Wayne C. Ripley, "New Night Thoughts Sightings", Blake, XLVII, 3 (Winter 2013-14). The catalogue of S.F. Setchel (Dec 1839) was issued, inter alia, with Gentleman's Magazine (Dec 1839), like those of R. Saywell, Bibliotheca Classica, William Potter, A List of Second-Hand Books (Dec 1839), J. Coxhead, A Catalogue of Valuable Books, and John Russell Smith, Catalogue, as junk advertisements are wrapped in 21st Century newspapers. Setchell's catalogue was not part of the Gentleman's Magazine, as Ripley alleges.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

Robson”)

§Englische Blätter [English Leaves], ed. L[udwig] Schubart (Erlangen: Walterschen Kunst- und Buchhandlung, 1798) – the catalogue entries are in English, the commentaries in German (“Young’s Night Thoughts, decorated with appropriate Designs by Mr. Blake. Part I.”) †

A Catalogue of Valuable Books, in Various Languages, and in Every Class of Literature: Which Are to Be Sold, at the Prices affixed to each article, by Thomas Payne, Bookseller (London, 1799) <Bodley> (Lot “777 Young’s Night Thoughts, with engravings round each page from the designs of Blake, 2 numbers, boards, – 1797 & 98”) †

A Catalogue of Books, in Every Department of Literature ... Now on Sale by Thomas White (London: March, 1801), 50 (Lot “1227 Young’s Night Thoughts, a magnificent edition, with Engravings from Drawings by Blake, boards, 5l 5s – 1797” listed under folio) †

A List of Books, for Sale at W[illiam Nelson]. Gardiner’s, 48, Pall-Mall, At the Ready Money Prices affixed (London, 1808), 46 <Bodley> (Lot “860 – Young’s Night Thoughts, curious cuts by Blake, boards, 1l 5s 1797”) †

§A Catalogue of Books, in English, Greek, Latin, French and Italian Literature, with a Few Articles in the Spanish, German, Russian, and Dutch Languages for Sale at W[illiam Nelson] Gardiner’s, 48 Pall-Mall at the Ready Money Prices Affixed (London: Printed by J. Barker, 1809) (“860 Young’s Night Thoughts, curious cuts, by Blake, boards, 1l 5s 1797”) †

1810. A Catalogue of a Small Collection of Ancient and Modern Books, Selected with the Greatest Care, and Containing Many Curious and Rare Articles, for Sale at W. Gardiner’s, 48, Pall-Mall, at the Ready Money Prices affixed (London: Printed by J. Barker, 1810), 80 <Bodley> (Lot “691 Young’s Night Thoughts, curious cuts, by Blake, boards, £1 5s -- -- 1796”; lot “1213 Young’s Night Thoughts, with Engravings by Mr. Blake, fol. boards, £1 5s -- -- 1797 This is one of the most singular and eccentric works that ever appeared.”) †

§A Catalogue (Part the First for 1810) of a Curious and Valuable Collection of Books, in Various Languages and Classes of Literature and Including also a Small but Select Collection of Oriental Manuscripts: Which Are Now Selling for Ready Money at the Prices Affixed by W[illiam] Ford (Manchester: Printed by C. Wheeler and Son, 1810) <Bodley> (“Night Thoughts on Life, Death and Immortality, with the singular designs round the margins by BLAKE, calf. cleg. ib ...”) †

A Catalogue (Part the Second for 1810-11) of A Curious and Valuable Collection of Books, in Various Languages and Classes of Literature ... Which Are Now Selling, for Ready Money, at the Prices Affixed to Each Article By W. Ford. Bookseller. Manchester (1811) <Bodley> (Lot “431 Young’s

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

Complaint, and the Consolation, or Night Thoughts with Blake's singular designs round the text. Ib. [London] 1797 – - Blair's Grave, with engravings from the designs of Blake. LARGE PAPER. eleg. bd. blue mor. &c. 8l 8s. ib. 1808.") †

Temple of the Muses, Finsbury Square. Lackington, Allen & Co.'s General Catalogue for the Year 1811, 14 <Bodley> (Lot "264 Young's Night Thoughts, finely printed, with curious plates, designed and etched by Blake, first 4 Books, bds. 2l. 10s. 1797"; "6569 Young's Night Thoughts, (first four nights of) finely printed, with marginal plates, from designs by Blake, bds. 2l. 10s.") †

Lackington, Allen, and Co's General Catalogue of Books, for the Year 1815 (1815) <Huntington>, Lot 119 ("finely printed, with curious plates, designed and etched by Blake", £2.2.0)

Librorum Impressorum, qui in Museo Britannico Adservantur, Catalogus, VII (Londini, 1819), not paginated <New York Public Library> ("YOUNG (EDW.) D.D. ... The Complaint and the Consolation or Night Thoughts, with marginal Designs by Mr. Blake. fol. Lond. 1797") †

§E. A. Evans, Bookseller's and Printseller's Catalogue (London, 1820) (Lot "421 Blake (Wm.) Illustrations of Young's Night Thoughts, 4to. Bds. 30s. – 1797" and "566 Young's Night Thoughts, with numerous fine plates by William Blake, fol. bds. 1l. 1s. -- -- 1797") †

Friedrich Adolf Ebert, Allgemeines Bibliographisches

Lexikon, Vol. I (A-N) (Leipzig: F.A. Brockhaus, 1821) in German <Taylor Institution, Oxford> <BB #535>

[Thomas] Edwards's Catalogue (Halifax, 1821), lot 16 ("many fine plates by Blake", gilt edges, £2.2.0); lot 1076 is Blake's Night Thoughts drawings

A Catalogue of ... Books (Selected from the Stock in Trade) of Mr. Thomas Edwards, Auction by Messrs Thomas Winstanley & Co., Manchester, 1 May 1826 et seq <Bodley>, lots 1076 and 1224 (half bound, blue russia) <BB #538>

The English Portion of The Library of the Ven. Francis Wrangham, M.A. F.R.S. Archdeacon of Cleveland. (Malton. 1826) [Only Seventy Copies.] Unpublished. P. 626 <New York Public Library> ("Young's Night Thoughts I-IV [i.e., Part 1] with Marginal Engravings by W. Blake 1797", listed under quartos) <BBS 284>

Library ... of the Late George Edward Griffiths, Esq. ... Together with ... The Property of a well known Amateur of the Fine Arts [Thomas Griffiths Wainewright] ... which will be Sold by Auction, by Mr. Wheatley, 3 August 1831 + 8 days, lot 1746 ("with the singular designs by Richard [sic] Blake" [for £1.13.0 to Williams (a pseudonym of Wainewright)])

Catalogue of the Fifth and Concluding Portion of the Valuable and Extensive Library of P.A. Hanrott, Esq. ... Which Will Be Sold by Auction, by Mr. Evans ... on Tuesday, July 16, and Eleven following Days, (Sunday excepted). (March 1834)

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

(lot “1245 Young’s Night Thoughts, Plates by Blake, --1797”) <Harvard> <BB #544>

William Thomas Lowndes, The Bibliographer’s Manual of English Literature ... (London: William Pickering, 1834), II, 1999 <Harvard> (Edward Young, “The Complaint or Night Thoughts. ... With marginal Designs by Blake. London, 1797. Fol. Some copies have coloured plates”)

No. XIX. London, 1836. A Select Catalogue of Books, Forming Part of the Stock of Francis MacPherson, 4 Middle Row Holborn P. 15 (“Young’s Night Thoughts; with marginal Designs by Blake. Folio, boards, 1l. 11s. 6d. – 1797”)

Catalog von Kunstsachen und Büchern welche in der Anstalt für Kunst und Literatur (R. Weigel) in Leipzig vorräthig oder durch dieselbe besorgt werden, part 7 (Leipzig, 1838), in German (lists Young’s Night Thoughts by Blake) <Fogg Museum (Harvard University)>

† These are also reported in Wayne C. Ripley, “Printed References to and Known Prices of Blake’s Night Thoughts, 1796-1826”, Blake, XLIII (2009), 72-75. The unseen (§) entries derive from him.

YOUNG, Night Thoughts coloured

|                            |                                    |                         |
|----------------------------|------------------------------------|-------------------------|
| Copy and collection | Estimated date of colouring | Special features |
|----------------------------|------------------------------------|-------------------------|

A
Anon.

|                     |      |   |
|---------------------|------|---|
| B                   | 1805 |   |
| LIBRARY OF CONGRESS |      |   |
| C                   | 1797 | "W. Blake" signature  |
| (p. 7), "as         |      |   |
| TEXAS               |      | pattern" (p. 95)  |
| D                   |      |   |
| PRINCETON           | 1797 |   |
| E                   |      | p. 24 lacks engraving   |
| ALBERTA             |      |   |
| F                   |      |   |
| SOANE MUSEUM        |      |   |
| G                   |      |   |
| MUHLENBERG          |      |   |
| COLLEGE             |      |   |
| H                   | 1805 |   |
| MUSEUM OF FINE      |      |   |
| ARTS (Boston)       |      |   |
| I                   | 1797 |   |
| HUNTINGTON LIBRARY  |      | water colour on p. 3,proof of Vellum leaf <sup>720</sup>with pp. 3-4 and"Satan"(Fuseli-Blake) |
| J                   |      |   |
| LIBRARY OF CONGRESS | 1797 |   |
| K                   |      |   |
| PIERPONT MORGAN     |      |   |
| LIBRARY             |      |   |
| L                   | 1805 |   |

---

<sup>720</sup> The vellum leaf is housed separately from the rest of coloured Night Thoughts I.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

PIERPONT MORGAN
LIBRARY
M BIBLIOTHECA
BODMERIANA

N
YALE CENTER FOR BRITISH ART

O

Lacks pp. 45-6, 71-72,
"Prospectus" laid in Duplicate uncoloured title page

for Nights I-IV

RYLANDS
LIBRARY

P

1805

HARVARD

Q

1797

"This Copy was coloured for me
by Mr Blake | W.E."

YALE CENTER FOR BRITISH ART

R

1797

"This copy colrd by W.
Blake"

HARVARD

S

NEW YORK PUBLIC
LIBRARY

T

1797

Mr & Mrs H.P. Cook

Pp. 73-74 replaced with quite different paper and type; pp.
12, 16-17, 36-73 not coloured

U

1797

Dealer

|  |   |
|--|---|
| VDETROIT INSTITUTEOF ARTS                              | Pp. 45-6 torn out   |
| WWASHINGTON UNIVERSITY(St Louis)                       | P. 86 inscribed "AsPattern"   |
| XGilbert &amp; George                               |   |
| YNATIONAL LIBRARY OFVICTORIA (Melbourne,Australia) |   |
| ZSMITH COLLEGE   | Leaves hinged to anarrow strip of paper,White Death, pigmentoxidized    |
| AARobert N. Essick                                  | Pp. 1-43 coloured c.1800, most of the restc. 1833, pp. 63, 70 c.1880-90 |
| BBHARVARD  | Colouring atypical  |

EDITIONS

Young, Edward, Night Thoughts or the Complaint and the Consolation, ed. Robert Essick and Jenijoy La Belle (1975)
<BB>

REVIEW

*Karen Mulhallen, Blake, XI, 1 (Summer 1977), 41-42

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

§Young, Edward. The Complaint, and the Consolation; or, Night Thoughts: Illustrations by William Blake. (Oakland, California: Octavo, March 2004) “digital edition” on CD-ROM

Reproductions of coloured copies B and J, both in the Rosenwald Collection, with an 18-page commentary by Nicolas Barker.

REVIEWS

Jean Evans, Library Journal, 15 September 2004, pp. 83-84 (“the disc contains almost as many extras as there are on a movie DVD”)

Sheila A. Spector, European Romantic Review, XVI (2005), 519-23 (Barker “failed to take advantage of the intellectual progress made in the field over the last century”)

Part III
Section B
ENGRAVINGS
Collections and Selections

Art Gallery of New South Wales (Sydney, Australia)
Online Reproductions

Job, 23 images

Chaucer, "Canterbury Pilgrims"

Virgil, Pastorals, 22 images

Wit's Magazine, "May-Day in London"

Art Institute (Chicago)

Online Reproductions

Dante engravings (1892), on India paper, coloured by hand (7)
"The Man Sweeping the Interpreter's Parlor" [2C, second state]

Virgil woodcuts (12)

Butterworth, Adeline M. William Blake, Mystic: A Study, together with Young's Night Thoughts: Nights I & II, with Illustrations by William Blake and frontispiece Death's Door, from Blair's "The Grave". (Liverpool and London, 1911)
<BB #516> B. §([Charleston, South Carolina]: Nabu Press, 2010) 98 pp.; ISBN: 9781771519058

Brooklyn Museum Online Reproductions

Job, all 22 images

Fogg Museum, Harvard University Online Reproductions

Bible – Job (1826)

Job proofs before borders, pl. 1-2, 4-11 <Fogg 10458-10467, R637NA> plus pl. 12-22 with borders

Dante engravings

Gay, Fables (1793), "The Tame Stag", proof before title

Hogarth print

Harvard Libraries

Online Images of Blake's Commercial Engravings

Charles Allen, A New and Improved History of England (1798)

Bellamy's Picturesque Magazine (1793)

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

George Cumberland, Outlines from the Antients (1829)
 George Cumberland, Thoughts on Outline (1796)
 Erasmus Darwin, Botanic Garden (1794)
 James Earle, Practical Observations on the Operation for the Stone (1793)
 Thomas Henry, Memoirs of Albert de Haller (1783)
 John Caspar Lavater, Aphorisms on Man (1794)
Remember Me! (1825)
 C.G. Salzmann, Gymnastics for Youth (1800)
 J.G. Stedman, The Revolted Negroes of Surinam (1796) in black and white
 Virgil, The Pastorals (1821)
The Wit's Magazine (1784-85)
 Mary Wollstonecraft, Original Stories from Real Life (1791)
 Mary Wollstonecraft, Original Stories from Real Life (1796)

Indianapolis Museum of Art
Online Reproductions

Job, all 22 images
 Chaucer, "Canterbury Pilgrims"
 Flaxman, Hesiod, 36 images
 Flaxman, Iliad, all 3 images

Library of Congress
Online Reproductions

Blair, The Grave (1813)
 Chaucer, Prologue (1812)
 "Edmund Pitts" [2E, second state]
 Flaxman, Naval Pillar (1799), six drawings by Flaxman for it
 Hayley, Designs to a Series of Ballads (1802)

Young, Night Thoughts (1797) coloured copy B
Young, Night Thoughts (1797) coloured copy J

Manchester City Art Gallery
Online Reproduction

"Mrs Q"

Metropolitan Museum of Art (N.Y.)
Online Reproduction

Job (1826)
Blair, The Grave (1808) plus "Mourir C'est Renaitre" (n.d.)
George Cumberland card
Dante
"Enoch" (lithograph)<sup>721</sup>
Hogarth, "Beggar's Opera"
Stothard-Blake, Winged Figure Flying through Clouds, before letters [BB p. 548, under John Donne]
Virgil (20 reproductions)

Museum of Fine Arts (Boston)
Online Reproductions

Job pl. "1"- "21"
Blair, The Grave (1813), 5 images

National Gallery of Art (Washington, D.C.)<sup>722</sup>

---

<sup>721</sup> The Metropolitan Museum copy (1B) of Enoch (accession no. 2013.146) was acquired in 2013 after its sale at Sotheby's (London), 6 Dec 2012, lot 96. According to the Met's Jobaccession record, the "Vendor" to them was Katrin Bellinger Kunsthandel.

<sup>722</sup> The temperas, watercolours, colour-prints, and engravings reproduced together for the National Gallery are from the Rosenwald Collection except for 29

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

Online Reproductions

Ariosto, Orlando Furioso (1)
 Blair's Grave (25 images)
 "The Chaining of Orc"
 "Christ Trampling Satan"
 George Cumberland card (2 images)
 Dante prints, 1827 and 1968 (30 images)
 Darwin, Botanic Garden ("Fertilization of Egypt" after Fuseli)
 Hayley, Life of George Romney (Romney, "Sketch of a Shipwreck")
 Hayley, Triumphs of Temper (6 images)
 Hogarth, Beggar's Opera
Job (49 images, including working proofs)
 "John Caspar Lavater"
 "Joseph of Arimathea Preaching"
The Ladies New and Polite Pocket Memorandum-Book (1782)
 ("The Morning Amusements of Her Royal Highness")
 "Lavater"
 "Lear and Cordelia" (with Thomas Butts, 7 images)
 "Let Him Look Up into the Heavens ..." (2 images)
 "The Man Sweeping the Interpreter's Parlor"
 "Mrs Q"
Remember Me! ("The Hiding of Moses")
 "Reverend John Hawker"
 Stedman, Surinam (11 images)
 Virgil, Pastorals, proofs (11 images)
 [Whitaker] The Seraph (engraved title page)

---

images. One hundred sixty National Gallery Blake images, mostly duplicates, are not reproduced.

"Wilson Lowry"

The Wit's Magazine ("The Discomfited Duellists" and "May-Day in London")

National Gallery of Victoria (Melbourne)
Online Reproductions

Job (1826)

Blair, The Grave (1813)

Chaucer, Canterbury Pilgrims

National Portrait Gallery (London)
Online Reproductions

Hayley, Cowper, portrait of Cowper

"John Caspar Lavater"

"Robert Hawker"

Philadelphia Museum of Art
Online Reproductions

Job (1826), 23 images

Hayley, Little Tom the Sailor (1800)

Hayley, Cowper, head of Cowper

Hayley, Romney, "Shipwreck"

Lavater, Physiognomy, "Democritus"

Monthly Magazine (1797), "Wright of Derby"

Shakspeare, Dramatic Works (1802), "Romeo and Juliet"

Virgil, Pastorals, 3 images

plus detached prints

Pierpont Morgan Library and Art Gallery
Online Reproductions

Chaucer, Canterbury Pilgrims

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

Chaucer, Prologue (1812) title page and frontispiece
 George Cumberland card
 "The Man Sweeping"
 "Morning Amusement"
 "Mrs Q", coloured
 "Satan" (head of a damned soul)
 "Wilson Lowry"
 "Morning Amusement" (1782)

Selected Engravings, ed. Carolyn Keay (1975) <BB>

REVIEWS

Gerda Norvig and Myra Glazer Schotz, Blake Newsletter, X, 3 (Winter 1976-77), 90

Dennis M. Welch, Eighteenth Century ... Bibliography, NS I (1978), 254

Tate Britain
Online Reproductions

Dante engravings
 George Cumberland's card
 "The Fall of Rosamond"
 Hogarth, "Beggar's Opera"
 Large Colour Prints
Job (1874)
 Virgil woodcuts

University of Glasgow, Hunterian Museum of Art
Online Reproductions

Job, all 22 images
 "Christ Trampling on Satan"

Hayley, Little Tom the Sailor
Hayley, Romney, "Shipwreck"
Head of a Damned Soul
Virgil, Pastorals, 17 images

Victoria and Albert Museum
Online Reproductions
Commercial Engravings

"Beggar's Opera"

William Blake Archive
Online Reproductions
Cumulation

†= not recorded in this checklist before 2014

Commercial Book Illustrations

Bible – Job (1826) (Essick)†
Blair, The Grave (1808) (Essick)
Blair, "Death's Door" (1805) (Essick)
Cumberland, card (1827) (Essick)
Dante (1838) (Essick)†
Flaxman, Hesiod (1817) (Essick)
Hayley, Ballads (1805) (Huntington, first state)†
Hayley, Designs to a Series of Ballads (1802) (Huntington)†
Hayley, illustrations to Essay on Sculpture (1800) (Essick)†
Little Tom the Sailor (1800) (Essick; Fitzwilliam 2 copies from Keynes, one with a gray wash, one with tailpiece only)†
The Life and Posthumous Writings of William Cowper (1803-
4) (Essick)†
The Life of George Romney (1809) (Essick, Large Paper)†
The Triumphs of Temper (1803) (Essick, Large Paper, uncut)

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

†

Virgil, Pastorals (1821) (Huntington)†Wollstonecraft, Original Stories (1791) (Huntington), (1796) (Essick)Young, Night Thoughts (1797) (Essick), Huntington, coloured copy [I])William Blake's Engravings, ed. Geoffrey Keynes (1950, 1972) <BB #517>

REVIEWS

1950

§Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 2 June 1950, p.
339§Anon., New Statesman and Nation, 12 August 1950, p.
183§Anon., Dublin Magazine, XXV (October-December 1950), 53-54

1972

§Anon., Choice, IX (November 1973), 1368Robert N. Essick, Blake Studies, VI (Fall 1973), 109

Yale Center for British Art
Online Images

|   |                        |
|---|------------------------|
| Bible, Job (1826)                                    | B2005.16.1-22          |
| Blair, The Grave (1813) engravings only              | B1974.8.1 ff.          |
| "Canterbury Pilgrims" (1809)                                | B1977.14.11092         |
| Hogarth, "The Beggar's Opera"                               | B1978.43.911           |
| Virgil, Pastorals (1821)                             | several                |
| Young, Night Thoughts , not coloured,images only | B1978.43.1342-1279 |

Young, Night Thoughts coloured (N) omits B1998.43.1280-
text-only pages 1417
Young, Night Thoughts coloured (Q) omits B1992.8.10 (1-
text-only pages 41

APPENDIX BOOKS IMPROBABLY ALLEGED TO HAVE BLAKE ENGRAVINGS

Anon.,
Biographical Sketches of Eminent British Characters
(1813)

BIOGRAPHICAL | SKETCHES | OF EMINENT |
BRITISH | CHARACTERS. | = | PRICE SIXPENCE. | =
| London: | PRINTED BY WILLIAM DARNTON, JUN. | 58,
HOLBORN HILL. [?1813<sup>723</sup>]

LOCATION: Victoria & Albert Museum.

12° in sixes, sewn half-way through after leaf 12. It consists of orange paper covers (the title page on the front, advertisements on the back), pp. 1-36, plus 7 prints after pp. 10, 12, 18 (2), 24, 26, and 36.

The front paste-down is inscribed in pencil: “These admirable ‘heads’ were Engraved by W. Blake”. The facing fly-leaf is inscribed in ink in a much more formal hand

---

<sup>723</sup> An advertisement on the back cover is for a book describing events of 1812, the inscription is dated 1814, and a variant copy in the V&A is dated 1813 on the title page.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

"Rebekah Ivory | May 3rd 1814" (the "rd" is above the "3").<sup>724</sup>

The simple, competent outline engravings, all in the same style, are unsigned and without imprint. They do not seem to me (or to Professor Robert N. Essick) to be significantly like the work of William Blake.

BARBAULD, Mrs [Anna Letitia]
Hymns in Prose for Children
(1781)

Andrew Lincoln, ed., Songs (1991), wrote that Blake engraved a plate for Mrs Barbauld's Hymns (1781) and then withdrew the claim in Blake, XXVII (1993), 45.

The Conjuror's Magazine
(1792)

THE | Conjuror's Magazine, | OR, | Magical and
Physiognomical Mirror. | Including | A SUPERB EDITION
| OF | LAVATER's | Essays on Physiognomy. | VOL. I. | -
| LONDON: | PRINTED FOR W. LOCKER, NO. 12, RED-
LION STREET, | HOLBORN. | 1792. 8<sup>o</sup>

According to Peter Ackroyd, Blake (1995), 194, "The Conjuror's Magazine ... printed one of Blake's engravings", but there is no print signed by Blake in either The Conjuror's

---

<sup>724</sup> The Victoria & Albert catalogue entry, repeated in Blake (2008), erroneously said the MS inscriptions above appears in a variant copy of the work, also in the V&A: Biographical Sketches of Eminent Characters: Containing the Life and Character, Labors and Adventures of Several British Worthies, Now Published for the Instruction and Entertainment of Youth (London: Printed and Sold by W. Darton, Jun. 58, Holborn Hill, 1813) Price Six Pence 58 pp.

Magazine (August 1791-July 1793) or its successor The Astrologer's Magazine (August 1793-January 1794). The separately-paginated edition of Lavater's Essays on Physiognomy which was included with each monthly issue of The Conjuror's Magazine and The Astrologer's Magazine was translated by C. Moore with octavo-size prints "Engraved by Barlow" (as most contents pages explained), not the folio size plates which Blake and others engraved for the Hunter translation of Lavater.

GOLDSMITH, Oliver
History of England
(1827)

Goldsmith, Oliver. The History of England, from the Earliest Times to the Death of George II (London: S. Rothwell, 1827), 2 vols., octavo <BBS§>.

When Professor Essick reported the connection of this work with Blake in Blake (1992), he had not seen a copy; in Blake (2001) he records having seen photographs of the rather crude and simple anonymous plates and concludes that "In my opinion, ... [they] are not by Blake."

HUME, David
The History of England
(London: Robert Bowyer, 1793-1806)

An advertisement for a prospectus (dated 2 January 1792) for Bowyer's edition of Hume's History of England appeared in the Oracle for 30 January 1792. The work was to appear "in Numbers", "Superbly Ornamented", but there is no indication of how many Numbers or engravings there will be. The "Gentlemen ... actually Engaged" include "W.

William Blake and His Circle
Part III: Commercial Book Engravings

Blake” among engravers.<sup>725</sup>

PROSPECTUSES

Algemeine Konst-en Letter-bode (Haarlem: C. Platt and A. Lousjes, 1792), 88, in Dutch <Universitutsbibliotheek Gent> has the prospectus in English naming Blake as an engraver <BBS 278>; at the end of the volume is Bericht-Blad, No. 64 (23 Maart 1792) with the same prospectus in English

Anon., “Kunst Nachrichten”, Neue Bibliothek der schönen Wissenschaften und der freyen Künste, XIV (Leipzig: Dyckischen Buchhandlung, 1792), 317-25 <Princeton> (includes proposals for Hume’s History of England with a list of “Die Kupferstecher. F. Bartolozzi ... W. Blake ...” (p. 319)

Critical Review, IV (1792) <Harvard> at the end has the June 1792 prospectus (as in BR (2) 62)

The Minor's Pocket Book
(1813)

Fuller details of the plate attributed to Blake in [Ann Taylor et al], The Minor's Pocket Book, for the Youth of Both Sexes ([London:] Darton, Harvey, and Darton, 1813) are recorded and the Blake connection rejected in R.N. Essick, “Blake in the Marketplace, 1996”, Blake, XXX (1997).

---

<sup>725</sup> The advertisement was pointed out to me by my friend Mark Crosby. Ads for Bowyer’s edition of Hume’s History of England in The Oracle for 13-14 Jan and 6 Feb were already recorded.

MYLIUS, William Frederick
The Junior Class-Book
(1809 ff.)

TITLE PAGE: William Frederick Mylius, The Junior Class-Book; or, Reading Lessons for Every day in the Year: Selected from the Most Approved Authors. For the Use of Schools (London: Printed for M.J. Godwin, at the Juvenile Library, No. 41, Skinner Street, and to be had of all booksellers, 1809)

FORMAT: 12mo., 18 cm

ILLUSTRATIONS: The "6 plates engraved by Blake" (according to Rosenbach acquisition card) are untitled and unsigned.

LOCATION: Bodley: Vet. A6 e 2927

The six unsigned and untitled prints have no significant resemblance to those associated with Blake's commercial engravings. The attribution of the prints in The Junior Class-Book to Blake seems to be somewhere between casual and wanton.

Plutarch
Lives
(1823)

§Plutarch's Lives: Abridged, Selected and Adapted for Youth ... as an Introduction to Classic Reading for the Use of Schools by J[ohn] Faucit Saville. ([London:] Printed for R. Hill, 1823) 116 pp.

It is claimed to have a "Frontispiece by William Blake".

Proceedings of the Sheffield Shakespeare Club

(1829)

PROCEEDINGS | OF | The Sheffield Shakespeare Club, |
 FROM | ITS COMMENCEMENT, IN 1819 | TO |
 JANUARY, 1829. | - | BY A MEMBER OF THE CLUB. | - |
 [Five-line motto from] POPE | - | SHEFFIELD: | PRINTED
 FOR THE EDITOR, | BY H. AND G. CROOKES, CLIFF'S
 COURT, HIGH-STREET. | - | 1829.

LOCATIONS: Birmingham Public Library, British Library,
 Cornell, Harvard, Leeds, Manchester, National Library of Wales, Pennsylvania, Sheffield, State Library of New South Wales, Trinity College (Cambridge), Vermont, Victoria University in the University of Toronto, Western, Université de Caen Basse-Normandie, York Minster

DESCRIPTION: 8°, xii, 163 pp. A colophon says that 50 copies were reserved for the Club and a few copies are available at 5s,

The copy in Victoria University in the University of Toronto bears the ex libris ticket of S.O. Addy, AM, and a pasted-in catalogue entry, 398, "attributed to Blake", 12s
 6d.<sup>726</sup>

ENGRAVING: a frontispiece of a man (Shakespeare) sitting on a rock surrounded by sea.

Neither this book nor this engraving was associated in Blake scholarship before 2013. The association is very improbable. Blake died two years before the date of the book.

---

<sup>726</sup> Another copy was offered at £90 on 10 Oct 2013 at John L. Capes [Book refr. 4344], with nothing about Blake.

Stonehenge Medal (1796)

A round medal 5 cm in diameter is inscribed at the top of the obverse: "TANTUM POTUIT | RELIGIO" ["so great was the power of religion" (Lucretius)] and at the bottom "STONE HENGE | 1796" <cross-reference to British Museum Stonehenge medal>. Seven hundred and fifty medals were ordered to be struck, 50 in gold, 250 in silver [the rest presumably in lead].<sup>727</sup> It was issued by the Ancient Druids Universal Bretheren.<sup>728</sup>

B.H. Cunnington, "A Stonehenge Medal", Wiltshire Archaeological and Natural History Magazine, XLIV (1927), 8-9,<sup>729</sup> "quotes Mr T. Ireland, the Corresponding Councillor of 'The Druid Universalist Council'", who claimed that the "engraver of the medallion was William Blake". Ireland said that "the medal was issued for the purpose of raising funds to help one of the martyrs of his movement, Muir of Edinburgh"<sup>730</sup> who was convicted for sedition and deported to <sup>727</sup> Copies in lead are in the British Museum Department of Coins and Medals (BNK,EngM.247) and Birmingham Museums and Art Gallery; silver copies were offered in Richard Hatchwell, catalogue (April 1993), lot 99 (£1,200), and at Spinks auction (24-25 Sept 2013), lot 811 (sold for £440).

The medal was noticed in Hatchwell's catalogue by R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 1993", Blake, XXVII, 4 (Spring 1994), 116-17.

<sup>728</sup> Laurence A. Brown, A Catalogue of British Historical Medals 1760-1960 (London: Seaby Publications, 1980), I, 22, 94. Brown says the medal was designed by William Blake.

<sup>729</sup> Cunnington and Grinsell are cited here from Stephen Allen's essay.

<sup>730</sup> The Dictionary of National Biography describes Thomas Muir (1765-98) of Edinburgh as an outspoken radical but says nothing of a Druid context. The only Muir I have found who was a Druid is mentioned in Mark David Wallace, "Scottish Freemasonry 1725-1810: Progress, Power, and Politics", St Andrews Ph.D., 2007: "William Muir, a weaver in Kilmarnock" was a Druid. Masonry claimed to be descended from the Druids.

Philip Atwood, Oxford Dictionary of National Biography says of "Thomas

Australia.

L.V. Grinsell, The Druids and Stonehenge: The Story of a Myth (St Peter Port: Toucan Press, 1978) says that the "engraver" was "Blake after Stukeley".

Stephen Allen, "William Blake and the Stonehenge Medal", Wiltshire Archaeological and Natural History Magazine, XCVIII (2005), 347-48, says that there is a "mirror image" of the "View of Stonehenge" in Camden's Britannia (1695); "they are identical", though reversed <see Illus. 4>. Notice that Allen says he has found the original of the design but does not say who "engraved" it.

Blake was not a medal carver, a highly specialised art which is quite distinct from copperplate etching or engraving, and there is no significant possibility that he made the physical medal.

The significant questions are whether he designed the medal or made an engraving of it.

The image on the medal derives from Camden's Britannia (1695), and Blake was not involved in that. The inscriptions on the medal are not in Camden.

And no print is known of a separate copperplate engraving of the image.

Blake therefore had no hand in the Stone Henge 1796 medal.

The Wit's Magazine

---

Wyon the elder (1767-1830) ... for his medal of Stonehenge, he engraved a design by William Blake".

(1784-1785)

A print in the London Metropolitan Archives bears the imprint “The ITALIAN PUPPET SHOW.”, “Printed for & Sold by Bowles & Carver”, “N<sup>o</sup>. 69 in S<sup>t</sup>. Pauls Church Yard London”, and “Published as the Act directs”. The pencil drawing for it in the same collection is labeled “S. Collings” in a Twentieth Century hand, and the catalogue said<sup>731</sup> that it was engraved by William Blake for The Wit’s Magazine.

No such print is recorded in the obvious sources,<sup>732</sup> for the very good reason that the print almost certainly has nothing to do with Blake.

Blake certainly signed six prints in The Wit’s Magazine (1784), four of them designed by Samuel Collings, and the size of the Italian Puppet Show print (23.5 x 15.9 cm) is commensurate with those Blake engraved for The Wit’s Magazine (c. 18 x 23 cm).

However, no such print appears in The Wit’s Magazine (Printed for Harrison and Co. N<sup>o</sup> 18, Paternoster-Row, 1784-85), and there is no story in The Wit’s Magazine which would justify the insertion of the print.

Further, the firm of Bowles and Carver, the publisher of The Italian Puppet Show, was not founded until 1793 when Henry Carington Bowles (1763-1830), then age 20, took over the business of his late father Carrington Bowles (1724-92). The firm of Bowles and Carver flourished from 1793 to 1830, publishing satirical prints voluminously,<sup>733</sup> but their imprint has not previously been associated with The Wit's Magazine or with any print by Blake. The Bowles and Carver imprint cannot have been added until 1793, long after the demise of The Wit's Magazine.

---

<sup>731</sup> By May 2010 the catalogue entry had been corrected.

<sup>732</sup> There is no reference to it in Blake Books (1977), Blake Books Supplement (1995), Essick, “William Blake and His Circle” (1992-2008) in Blake (1994-2009), Martin Butlin, The Paintings and Drawings of William Blake (1981), or in Robert N. Essick, William Blake’s Commercial Book Illustrations (1991). Professor Essick tells me that he knows nothing of such a print.

The style of engraving is not significantly like that of William Blake in his prints for The Wit's Magazine or elsewhere, though the speculative association with Samuel Collings is not implausible.

The engraving of “The Italian Puppet Show” probably has nothing to do with The Wit's Magazine (1784-85) or William Blake.

---

<sup>733</sup> Ian Maxted, The London Book Trades 1775-1800: A Preliminary Checklist of Members (1977), 25.

Section B
COLLECTIONS AND SELECTIONS
Butterworth, Adeline M. William Blake, Mystic (1911)
REVIEW
§Burlington Magazine, XX, 106 January 1912), 241

PART IV

CATALOGUES

of Exhibitions,<sup>734</sup> Sales,<sup>735</sup> and Bibliographies

1780

The Exhibition of the Royal Academy, M.DCC.LXXX. The Twelfth (1780) <BB> B. Anon. "Catalogue of Paintings Exhibited at the Rooms of the Royal Academy", Library of the Fine Arts, III (1832), 345-58 (1780) <Toronto>.

In 1780, the Blake entry is reported as "W Blake.--315. Death of Earl Goodwin" (p. 353).

REVIEW

Candid [i.e., George Cumberland], Morning Chronicle and London Advertiser, 27 May 1780 (includes a criticism of "the death of earl Goodwin, by Mr. Blake") <BB #1336>

---

<sup>734</sup> Some exhibitions apparently were not accompanied by catalogues and are known only through press-notices of them.

<sup>735</sup> See G.E. Bentley, Jr, Sale Catalogues of Blake's Works 1791-2013 put online on 21 Aug 2013 [http://library.vicu.utoronto.ca/collections/special/collections/bentley\_blake\_collection/in]. It includes sales of contemporary copies of Blake's books and manuscripts, his watercolours and drawings, and books (including his separate prints) with commercial engravings. After 2012, I do not report sale catalogues which offer unremarkable copies of books with Blake's commercial engravings or Blake's separate commercial prints.

1784

The Exhibition of the Royal Academy, M.DCC.LXXXIV. The Sixteenth (London: Printed by T. Cadell, Printer to the Royal Academy) <BB>

Blake exhibited "A breach in a city, the morning after a battle" and "War unchained by an angel, Fire, Pestilence, and Famine following".

REVIEW referring to Blake

Anon., "The Exhibition. Sculpture and Drawing", Morning Chronicle and London Advertiser, Thursday 27 May 1784, p. [3] <British Library>. In the Royal Academy exhibition, Blake in his War, Fire and Famine, outdoes most of the strange flights in our memory--Sir Richard Blackmore's impressions on an other sense,

Rending our ears asunder

With gun, drum, trumpet, blunderbuss and thunder,<sup>736</sup>

or perhaps, not going out of the art, for allusion, like Fuseli, but with the additional aggravation of an infuriating bend sinister.

It is quoted by John Baird, "Blake's Painting at the Royal Academy, 1784: A Reference", Notes and Queries, CCXXXVIII [NS XL] (1993), 458.

1785

---

<sup>736</sup> Pope, "First Satire of Second Book of Horace Imitated" (1734), ll. 25-26.

The Exhibition of the Royal Academy, M.DCC.LXXXV. The seventeenth (London: Printed by T. Cadell, Printer to the Royal Academy) <BB>

REVIEWS referring to Blake

Anon., Morning Chronicle and Daily Advertiser, 28 April 1785 (Blake is mentioned in a selective list of exhibitors) <BB #815>

Anon., "Exhibition of the Royal Academy. (Concluded)", Daily Universal Register, 23 May 1785 ("607. Gray's Bard, W. Blake, appears like some lunatic, just escaped from the incurable cell of Bedlam. In respect of his other works, we assure this designer, that grace does not consist in the sprawling of legs and arms") <BBS>

1788

Egerton's Theatrical Remembrancer (1788) <not in BB, BBS, BIQ (1992 ff.)> B. Re-issued as The Theatrical Remembrancer (1788) <BB #522A>

"The Theatrical Remembrancer would appear to be a reissue of Egerton's Theatrical Remembrancer, also 1788. The title page, leaf [a1], in the reissue is probably a cancellans"<sup>737</sup>

1791

---

<sup>737</sup> Robert N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2013", Blake, XLVII, 3 (Winter 2013-2014).

[William]Richardson's<sup>738</sup> Catalogue. A Large and Curious Collection of English and Foreign Portraits, Topography and Historical Prints [sic], by Ancient and Modern Masters; Drawings, Books, and Books of Prints, Now Selling, with the Prices Affixed to Each ... Catalogues to be had, One Shilling each (London, 1791) <Princeton>

“Beggar's Opera, Act 3d. fine – Blake [£]1 1 0”

1791 December 7

J. TODD's | CATALOGUE | OF | ANCIENT and MODERN | Books, Prints, & Books of Prints, | FOR THE YEAR 1791. | [including] Lavater's Essays on Physiognomy, 16 Numbers - 10 13 0 ... | Which will begin to be sold extremely Cheap, at the Prices printed in the | CATALOGUE, on TUESDAY the 7th of December, 1790. | By J. TODD, | BOOKSELLER, STATIONER, AND PRINT-SELLER, | In STONEGATE, YORK. | ... | CATALOGUES, Price 6d. may be had of Mr. BALDWIN, Bookseller, Paternoster-Row, London, and at the Place of Sale.

129 "Beggar's Opera, as originally performed in 1727, after Hogarth, by Blake -- -- 0 12 6"

[1798?]

A Catalogue of Prints Published by J.R. Smith (c. 1798) <BB>

It is reproduced in Ellen G. D'Oench, "Copper into Gold": Prints by John Raphael Smith 1751-1812 (1999).

1799 February 18 plus 18 days

---

<sup>738</sup> “At Mr. Richardson's Print Warehouse, Clements-Inn, Fore-gate, near Temple-Bar”.

[William] Richardson,<sup>739</sup> Portraits, India Drawings, &c. A Catalogue of a Genuine and Valuable Collection of English and Foreign Portraits, India Drawings, &c. ... Which Will Be Sold by Auction (London, 1799) <Princeton>

Seventh Day

94 "Five [prints]—Gin Lane, Beggar's Opera, Shrimps, &c." [£1.7.6]

101 "One—the Beggar's Opera, by Blake—proof—"
[£1.13.6]

1800 February 24 and 12 following days (Sunday excepted)

[February 24-March 1, 3-8, 10-11]

§Mr. Jeffrey,<sup>740</sup> A Catalogue of a Large, Extensive, and Valuable Parcel of Books, in Every Science, and in Most Languages; Being the Genuine Library of George Galwey Mills, Esq. (Gone to the West Indies) Removed from Slaughter-House, In the County of Gloucester Amongst which are All the fine Editions of the Greek, Latin, English, Italian, and French Classics. -- A most extensive Collection of English History, Chronicles, and Topography -- Books of Prints -- Natural History -- Manuscripts on Vellum -- Philosophical Transactions, fine Set -- and the Collections of the most celebrated Societies of Europe. In superb and elegant bindings (London, 1800)

457[a] "Young's Night Thoughts, finely printed, folio,

---

<sup>739</sup> "At His House, No. 31, the Corner of Villiers-Street, in the Strand".

<sup>740</sup> Jeffrey was "at No. 11 Pall-Mall".

1797" [10s]<sup>741</sup>[1807]

Cuthell<sup>742</sup> and Martin, A | CATALOGUE | OF | BOOKS, |
 FOR THE YEAR | 1807, | IN VARIOUS LANGUAGES, |
 AND | CLASSES OF LITERATURE; | ON SALE, FOR
 READY MONEY, By CUTHELL & MARTIN, | MIDDLE
 ROW, HOLBORN. | - | LIBRARIES PURCHASED. | - |
London: | PRINTED BY E. BLACKADER, TOOK'S
 COURT, | CHANCERY LANE. | - | Price Two Shillings
 <Bodley>

Folio

- 15 "Stuart's Antiquities of Athens, 3 vol. half bound, 16l 16s"
- 16 "Another copy, 3 vol. splendidly bound in russia, 24l 1762, &c."
- 60 "Vetusta Monumenta, 3 vol. half bound Lond. 1747 &c."

Quarto

- 128 "Cumberland's Thoughts on Outline", "with 24 plates, boards, 14s 1796"
- 129 "Another copy, handfomely bound in calf, 11 1s 1796"

---

<sup>741</sup> Wayne C. Ripley, "New Night Thoughts Sightings", Blake, XLVII, 3 (Winter 2013-14), who first reported the Jeffrey catalogue, speculates that the lack of reference to illustrations may imply that this copy of Night Thoughts (1797) had no plate, like the unique copy described in G.E. Bentley, Jr, "Young's Night Thoughts (London: R. Edwards, 1797): A New Unillustrated State" Blake, XIV (1980), 34-35. Ripley notes that lot 352, apparently in this Jeffrey sale, was Junius, Stat nominis umbra (London: T. Bensley, 1796-97), inscribed "1796 B[ough]t. of Edwards".

<sup>742</sup> John Cuthell (d. 1818).

- 133 "Lavater's Essays on Physiognomy, illustrated by 800 engravings by Holloway, translated by Dr. Hunter, 5 vol. original impreffions, an early subscribers copy, handsomely bound in russia, with gilt leaves, 28l"
- 134 "Lavater's Essays on Physiognomy, with engravings by Holloway, vol. 1, fine impreffions boards, 1l 11s 6d"
- 960 "Young's Night Thoughts, beautifully printed, with engravings round the letter preff, part I, all that was ever published, 15s -- 1797"

Quarto

- 2454 "Darwin's Botanic Garden, plates, elegantly bound in russia, with gilt leaves, 1l 16s -- 1791"
- 2554 "Hunter's Journal of the Transactions in New South Wales, plates, elegantly bound in russia, gilt leaves, 2l 2s 1793"
- 2639 "Lavater's Essays on Physiognomy, 5 vol. first impreffions of the plates, handsomely bound in russia, gilt leaves, 28l 1789"
- 2840 "Stedman's Account of Surinam, 2 vol. plates, elegantly bound, 6l 6s -- 1796"
- 2841 "Another copy, 2 vol. large paper, with coloured plates, boards, 8l 8s"
- 2842 "Another copy, 2 vol. large paper, the plates plain, but first impreffions, elegantly bound in calf, with gilt leaves, 9l 9s"
- 3061 "Cumberland's Thoughts on Outline Sculptures, plates, elegantly bound, 11 1s 1796"

Octavo

- 4806 "Gay's Fables, plates, boards, 5s 6d -- 1793"
- 4807 "Gay's Fables, printed on royal paper, fine impreffions of the plates, elegantly bound, 18s -- 1793"
- 4809 "Gay's Fables, Stockdale's edit. 2 vol. plates, boards, 11 1s"
- 4810 "Another copy, 2 vol. superbly bound, 11 1s 6d"
- 4818 "Hayley's Life of Cowper, 4 vol. portrait, new and elegantly bound, 21 6s"
- 4937 "Hoole's Ariosto's Orlando Furioso, 5 vol. large paper, boards, 21 5s -- 1799"
- 4938 "Another copy, 5 vol. newly and superbly bound, 31 10s 1799"
- 4939 "Hoole's Orlando Furioso, reduced into 24 books, by himself, 2 vol. new and neat, 13s -- 1791"
- 4940 "Another copy, 2 vol. elegantly bound, 14s -- 1791"
- 5639 "Shakſpeare's Plays, from the text of George Steevens, by Alexander Chalmers, 9 vol. boards, 21 18s 1805"
- 5640 "Another copy, 9 vol. with fine engravings by Fufeli, boards, 41 6s -- 1805"
- 5641 "Another copy, 10 vol. printed on fine thick paper, with fine impreffions of the plates, boards, 81 8s -- 1805"
- 5642 "Another copy, 10 vol. printed on fine super royal paper, firſt impreffions of the plates, boards, 91 16s 1805"
- 5732 "Scott's (John) Poetical Works, portrait and plates

by Bartolozzi and others, elegantly bound, 10s 6d 1786"

5733 "Another copy, elegantly bound, with gilt leaves,
12s 1786"

Duodecimo and Octodecimo

9669 "Ellis, Specimens of the Early English Poets, neat,
9s 1790"

9670 "Another copy, elegantly bound, with gilt leaves,
12s. 1790"

9893 "Specimens of the Early English Poets, by Ellis, boards, 10s 6d -- 1790"

1809

William Blake, Descriptive Catalogue (1809)

REVIEW

[Robert Hunt], "Mr. Blake's Exhibition", Examiner, 17 September 1808, pp. 605-6 (a violent attack on Blake) <BB #1911>

1812

A | CATALOGUE | OF THE | FIFTH ANNUAL |
EXHIBITION | BY THE | ASSOCIATED PAINTERS | IN |
Water Colours | - | AT THE SOCIETY'S ROOMS, | No.
16, OLD BOND STREET. | - | ADMITTANCE, ONE
SHILLING. | CATALOGUES, SIXPENCE. | - | LONDON: |
PRINTED BY J. MOYES, GREVILLE STREET, HATTON
GARDEN. | - | 1812. <BB>
NEW LOCATIONS: Strathclyde (Scotland), Victoria &

Albert Museum

A very rare complete set of the Society’s catalogues (1808-12) was offered in Ken Spelman Catalogue Fifty-Two (2004), lot 18, and is now in the Essick Collection.

“the landlord seized the contents of the gallery in distraint of rent”,<sup>743</sup> including Blake’s Chaucer’s Pilgrims (lot 254), “The Spiritual Form of Pitt” (lot 279), “The Spiritual Form of Nelson” (lot 280), and “Detached Specimens of ... Jerusalem”<sup>744</sup> (lot 324). Thomas Butts, who apparently owned “Nelson” and Chaucer,<sup>745</sup> may have bought them – or bought them back – from the distraining landlord.

REVIEW referring to Blake

Anon., “The Water Colour Exhibition”, Lady’s Monthly Museum, NS, XII (June 1812), 340-46 (Blake’s “Sir Jeffrey Chaucer and the Pilgrims” “is a picture of mongrel excellence” and his “pictures 323 and 324” are “too sublime for our comprehension” [p. 344]. No. 324 is plates from Blake’s Jerusalem, but 323 is not by him at all; perhaps the reference is to his Spiritual Forms of Pitt and Nelson, Nos. 279-80) <BBS 350>

1818 October 1-2

Geo. Jones, Fine Prints, Rare Books and Books of Prints, |

---

<sup>743</sup> J.L. Rogers, History of the Old Water Colour Society (1891), I, 271, noted in BBunder Jerusalem but not under the 1812 catalogue, nor in Butlin (1981), #649, 651, 653, and BR (2) (mea culpa).

<sup>744</sup> Probably Jerusalem pl. 25, 32, 46 (BB 262-63).

<sup>745</sup> They were sold by his son in 1853. The history of “Pitt” is not known before 1882, when Samuel Palmer’s son offered it for sale at auction – Samuel Palmer was seven years old in 1812.

DRAWINGS, PORTFOLIOS, &c. | CONSIGNED FROM ABROAD. | = | A | CATALOGUE | OF A general Collection of Ancient and Modern, | Engravings and Drawings, | From the Designs of the first-rate Masters | OF THE | ITALIAN, GERMAN, FRENCH, FLEMISH & ENGLISH SCHOOLS, | BY THE MOST | EMINENT ENGLISH & FOREIGN ENGRAVERS, | PARTICULARLY BY | Bartolozzi, Heath, Sharp, Woollett, Vivardes, Houbraken, Folkema | &c. &c. | ... | FINE OLD DRAWINGS BY EARLY ITALIAN ARTISTS, | Modern Drawings by eminent Draughtsmen. | TOGETHER WITH A SHORT ASSORTMENT OF EXCELLENT | BOOKS AND BOOKS OF PRINTS, | Mostly of early date, | ... | Capital Portfolios with Leaves, elegantly bound in russia | BEING THE PROPERTY OF | A PRIVATE GENTLEMAN, | Recently consigned from Holland.

169 "Seven [of 13] etchings from Blair's Grave, by Schiavonetti, proofs"

1820

Catalogue of the Library [of Francis Mary Richardson Currer] at Eshtan-hall, in the County of York. ("London. By Robert Triphook. 1820") P. 87. <Bodley> Lists Blair's Grave with Blake's designs (1808).

1821

Thomas Edwards, A | CATALOGUE | OF | A Valuable and Select

Collection of Bo[oks]<sup>746</sup> | CONTAINING | SEVERAL UNIQUE and RARE ARTICLES, | Many of which are in the most elegant Bindings, in mo[dern] | russia, etruscan, &c. with drawings | on the leaves. | ... | - | Now on Sale. | The Prices printed in the Catalogue and marked in the first leaf of every Book at | THOMAS EDWARDS's BOOKSELLER IN HALIFAX. | Price 2s. 6d. | - | 1821.

Beinecke Library, Yale University (X346 Ed98 815 and X346 b 1), Bodley (lacks title page).

Colophon: " R. Sagden, Printer, Hall-End, Halifax | At No. 2. Old Market, Halifax."

The 1821 Thomas Edwards catalogue has been remarkably fugitive. T.W. Hanson, "Edwards of Halifax, Book Sellers, Collectors and Book-Binders", Halifax Guardian (December 1912 and January 1913), quotes from "Thomas Edwards's catalogue 1821", but, according to Bentley and Nurmi, A Blake Bibliography (1964), 175, and Blake Books (1977), #534, "Mr. Hanson cannot now remember where he saw the copy he quotes." A copy lacking the title page was discovered in 1983<sup>747</sup> in the possession of the widow of Professor Walter N. Edwards, a descendant of the bookselling Edwards family, and this was later sold to Bodley.

Only these three copies have been located.

---

<sup>746</sup> The top right hand corner is torn off.

<sup>747</sup> G.E. Bentley, Jr, "The 1821 Edwards Catalogue", Blake, XVII, 4 (Spring 1984), 154-56; see Blake Books Supplement (1995), 284.

The title page was reconstructed from the headings and colophon as EDWARD'S CATALOGUE | = | Superb Books of Prints, Atlases, Books printed on Vellum | with Miniatures, and other Superlatively fine Articles. | R. Sagden, Printer, Hall-end, Halifax | At No. 2. Old Market Halifax, 1821.

1826 April 26

Bibliotheca Splendidissima: A Catalogue of a Select Portion of The Library of Mrs. Bliss, Deceased, Removed from her Residence at Kensington. Saunders and Hodgson, April 26-29 1826 <BB>

The vendor was Ann Whitaker (d. 1825) who was left the use of the library by Rebekah Bliss (d. 1819). The title is "Splendidissima", not "Splendissima" as in BB #537 and Keynes (see Keri Davies, "Mrs Bliss: a Blake Collector of 1794" in Blake in the Nineties, ed. Steve Clark and David Worrall [1999]).

1828 May 24

Stewart, Wheatley, and Adlard sale, lot 1130, Blake's "sublime" Night Thoughts drawings, which were "alone sufficient to immortalize him", were bought in at £52.10.0 when they did not achieve the reserve of £157.10.0.<sup>748</sup>

1831 August 3-11

Library, Books of Prints, Music, Casts, Pictures. | A
CATALOGUE | OF | THE VALUABLE AND
EXTENSIVE | LIBRARY | OF | THE LATE GEORGE
EDWARD GRIFFITHS, ESQ. | EDITOR OF THE
MONTHLY REVIEW. | TOGETHER WITH THE | BOOKS

---

<sup>748</sup> Marc Vaulbert de Chantilly interprets the Wheatley code ("Norris KBO/e/") for me. BB said they "were withdrawn at £52. 10s."

OF PRINTS, LIBRARY OF MUSIC, | COLLECTION OF |
 CASTS AND PICTURES, | The Property of a well known
Amateur of the Fine Arts, | AMONG THE BOOKS WILL
 BE FOUND | ... | WHICH WILL BE SOLD BY AUCTION,
 BY | MR WHEATLEY, | (LATE STEWART, WHEATLEY
AND CO.) | AT HIS GREAT ROOM, 191, PICCADILLY,
 | On Wednesday, August 3, 1831, and Eight following Days, |
 (SUNDAY EXCEPTED) AT TWELVE O'CLOCK. | May be Viewed, and Catalogues had, price One Shilling.

The "well known Amateur of the Fine Arts" is Thomas Griffiths Wainewright, the grandson of Ralph Griffiths (founder and editor of The Monthly Review) and nephew of Ralph's son George Edward. In April 1831 Wainewright had absconded to France.

His Blakes were sold on 4 and 11 August 1831:

- 395 "The Marriage of Heaven and Hell [I], coloured by the author, scarce" [for £2.3.0 to (the booksellers of Cornhill John and Arthur) Arch]
- 424 Blair, Grave (1808) [for £1.6.0 to Rich]
- 426 America (G), Europe (B), and Jerusalem (B), "Three of the rarest of this singular Artist's Productions" [for £4.4.0 to Bohn]
- 1,746 Young, Night Thoughts (1797) "with the singular designs by Richard Blake" [for £1.13.0 to Williams –N.B. The passport on which Wainewright escaped to France was in the name of Williams]<sup>749</sup>

---

<sup>749</sup> All these details are from Marc Vaulbert de Chantilly, "Property of a Distinguished Poisoner: Thomas Griffiths Wainewright and the Griffiths family library", pp. 111-42 of Under the Hammer: Book Auctions Since the Seventeenth Century, ed. Robin Myers, Michael Harris, and Giles Mandelbrote (2001).

1833 May 6-11, 13-14

MR. STANLEY,<sup>750</sup> A CATALOGUE | OF THE | LIBRARY |
 OF THE LATE | Sir H.C. ENGLEFIELD, Bart. |
 COMPREHENDING | COMPRISING | An Extensive and very
Valuable | COLLECTION OF BOOKS | IN HISTORY,
 ANTIQUITIES, NATURAL AND EXPERIMENTAL |
 PHILOSOPHY, ARTS, SCIENCES, VOYAGES, TRAVELS,
 AND | GENERAL LITERATURE (London, 1833)<sup>751</sup>
 <Bodley>

Day 3

458 "... first part of Fuseli's Lectures"

485 "Lavater's Essays on Physiognomy, by Hunter; plates by Holloway, 5 vols., calf"

Day 6

Folio

865 "Fenning and Collier's System of Geography, 2 vols. plates and maps"

Day 7

Folio

968 "Sepulchral Monuments of Great Britain, bound in 3 vols. half-russia -- -- London, 1786 and 1796"

---

<sup>750</sup> Mr Stanley's sale is "AT HIS GALLERY. In Maddox Street, Hanover Square", but it is "To be Viewed ... at Mr. STANLEY'S Rooms, 21, Old BondStreet".

<sup>751</sup> Until Day 5 there are very few publication dates, and I therefore ignore "Aphorisms on Man" (lot 203) and "Ellis, Specimens of the Early English Poets" (lot 331).

- 996 "Stuart's Antiquities of Athens, 4 vols. (3 vols. half-russia, 1 in boards[])] -- Lond. 1762 and 1816"
- 1,009 "Boydell's Shakespeare, 9 vols. fine plates, half-russia, Lond 1803"
- 1,135 "Young's Night Thoughts, illustrated by Blake"

1834 March 22, 24-27

Catalogue of the Fifth and Concluding Portion of the Valuable and Extensive Library of P.A. Hanrott, Esq. Which Will Be Sold by Auction by Mr. Evans ... 22, 24-27 March 1834. <New York Public Library>

- 1,245 "Young's Night Thoughts, plates by Blake, -- 1797" [£1.2.0 to Williams]
- 1,450 "A Collection of Drawings, in Colours, by the late William Robson, of heads ... A Collection rivaling almost in whim and extravagance the works of Blake." (P. 64)

1834 December 8-24

Bibliotheca Heberiana: Catalogue of the Library of the Late Richard Heber ... Sold by Auction, by Mr. Evans ... December 8, and Fourteen following days (1834) <BB> B. §A Catalogue of Heber's Collection ... with Notices by J. Payne Collier, Esq., and Prices and Purchasers Names. (London: Edward Lumley [1834])

1834

Nouvelles Recherches bibliographiques, pour Servir de Supplément au Manuel du Libraire et de l'Amateur de Livres par Jacq.-Cha. Brunet. (Paris: Silvestre, 1834) I, 169 <Bibliothèque nationale et universitaires, Lausanne> B.

Manuel du Libraire ..., Quatrième Édition (Bruxelles, 1839)
 <BB #552A> C. (1842) <BB #552B> D. Vol. I (Paris, 1860)
 <BB #552C> In French

Quotes the description of Songs (U) in Rivington's catalogue (1824) <BB #536>

1835 May 25 and Twenty following Days, Sundays excepted
 (May 25-20, June 1-6, 8-13, 15-17)

Mr Evans,<sup>752</sup> BIBLIOTHECA HEBERIANA. | = |
 CATALOGUE | OF | THE LIBRARY | OF THE LATE |
 RICHARD HEBER, Esq. | PART THE SEVENTH, |
 REMOVED FROM HIS HOUSE AT PIMLICO |

Day 1

Octavo et infra

158 "Ariosto's Orlando, by Hoole, 2 vol.--1791"

Day 13

Octavo

4,061 "Novelist's Magazine, 23 vol. plates by Stothard, 1781, &c"

Day 16

Octavo

4,990 "Ritson's (J.) Collection of English Songs, 3 vol.
 1783"

Day 21

Folio

---

<sup>752</sup> R.H. Evans was "at his house, No. 93, Pall Mall".

6,789 "Young's Night Thoughts, with Blake's Designs, 1797"

1836 February 1-19

Catalogue of the Extensive and Valuable Collections of Books, Pictures, Drawings, Prints, and Painters' Etchings, Ancient Bronzes and Terracottas, Etruscan Vases, Marble Busts, Antique Carvings and Chasings in Wood and Metal, Coins, Minerals, Gems and Precious Stones, Philosophical Instruments, Wines, Spirits, &c. &c. of the late Thomas Sivwright Esq. of Meggetland and Southouse, Which Will Be Sold by Auction by Mr. C.B. Tait, In His Great Room, 11, Hanover Street, on Monday, February 1, and Sixteen following lawful days, at One O'Clock (Edinburgh: Printed by Thomas Constable, M.DCCC.XXXVI [1836])

Lot 1835 on 10 February was a "Volume of Drawings by Blake, Illustrative of Blair's Grave, entitled 'Black Spirits and White, Blue Spirits and Grey'"<sup>753</sup> [sold for £1.5.0].

This "Volume of Drawings by Blake" for Blair's Grave presumably consisted of the 19 finished drawings which Cromek chose in 1805 from the forty designs Blake had made for The Grave.<sup>754</sup>

No other drawing or book by Blake has been traced to the collection of Sivright.

---

<sup>753</sup> The quotation is from Thomas Middleton's The Witch, V, ii (often appropriately interpolated into 18th Century performances of King Lear, IV, 1).

For a fuller account of the sale, see "Thomas Sivright and the Lost Designs for Blair's Grave", Blake, XIX [1984-85], 103-6; the information here did not make its way into BBS.

<sup>754</sup> According to Flaxman's letter of 18 Oct 1805 (BR (2) 207).

1838 November 10

John Bryant,<sup>755</sup> "This day is published, Nos. I. II. and III. of A Catalogue of Books Suitable for the Library of the Antiquary, the Scholar, or the Man of Taste, Now on Sale", Athenæum, No. 576 (10 November 1838), 816.

"YOUNG'S NIGHT THOUGHTS, with Blake's curious Designs, imp. 4to, large paper, half blue mor. 1£ 1s. 1797."

1839 November 20-23

S. Leigh Sotheby,<sup>756</sup> CATALOGUE | OF A | VALUABLE COLLECTION | of | BOOKS AND BOOKS OF PRINTS, | WITH | A PORTION OF THE | LIBRARY OF A CLERGEMAN, DECEASED | AND | ANOTHER COLLECTION. | AMONG WHICH WILL BE FOUND, | ... | TO WHICH IS ADDED, | SOME LAW AND MISCELLANEOUS BOOKS, | FROM THE | LIBRARY OF A GENTLEMAN, DECEASED.<sup>757</sup> (London, 1839) <Bodley>

Day 1

Octavo et Infra

101 "Gay's Fables, plates, 2 vol. Stockdale, 1793"

Quarto

251 "Hayley's Life of George Romney, plates, calf,

---

<sup>755</sup> "John Bryant, The Camden's Head, 9 King William Street, West Strand, London". I have seen this catalogue only in the version in the Athenæum.

<sup>756</sup> "At his house, 3, Wellington Street, Strand" (London).

<sup>757</sup> The Library of the Deceased Clergyman begins on Day 1, lot 418; that of the Deceased Gentleman commences on Day 3, lot 601.

marbled leaves Chichester, 1809"

Day 2

Folio

- 417 "Young's Night Thoughts, with engravings after Blake, 1797"

1839 December

J.F. Setchel,<sup>758</sup> A CATALOGUE OF BOOKS AND PAMPHLETS | ON | ARCHITECTURE, BOOKS OF PRINTS, BOTANY, DRAMA, &c. | NOW ON SALE BY | J.F. SETCHEL, BOOKSELLER, | No. 23, KING STREET, COVENT GARDEN (London, 1839)<sup>759</sup>

- 34 "STEDMAN'S Narrative of a five Years' Expedition against the Revolted Negroes of Surinam, 80 plates, 2 vols. 4to, 31s. 6d. neat, in russia"
- 106 "STUART and Revett's Antiquities of Athens, vols. 1 and 2, first editions, 142 plates, £3.10s. uncut 1762-87" "Vol. 2 contains the Elgin marbles, before their removal by his Lordship."
- 439 "ROMNEY, the painter, by Hayley, fine plates, 4to. 16s. 1809"
- 514 "Blair's Grave, with Blake's Designs, etched by Schiavonetti, 12 plates, large 4to. 25s. bds. 1813"
- 550 "CUNNINGHAM'S Gallery of Pictures, by the First Masters, Engraved on 72 plates, by Eminent Artists, with Descriptions, 2 vols., roy 8vo. 42s.

---

<sup>758</sup> John Frederick Setchell (d. 1846), bookseller (Gentleman's Magazine, June 1846, 663).

<sup>759</sup> Issued with Gentleman's Magazine (Dec 1839) <Michigan>.

cloth"

- 747 "YOUNG's Night Thoughts, with Blake's Designs, fol. 35s. hf-bd. 1797"

1839 December

John Russell Smith, A Catalogue of Useful and Valuable Second-Hand Books, Ancient and Modern, on sale at very reduced prices (London, 1839)<sup>760</sup>

- 337 "Hunter's Historical Journal of Transactions at Port Jackson, Norfolk Island, New South Wales, &c. 4to, many plates, neat, 5s 1793"

1843

Catalogue of English Books, In All Classes of Literature on Sale by John Bohn (London, 1843). P. 67. <Harvard>

The Blake lots are:

- 1,120 Visions of the Daughters of Albion [E],<sup>761</sup> "tinted by the Author himself", folio, £1.11.6
 1121-22 Job, £3.3.0 (plain) and £5.0.0 (India proofs)
 1,123 Songs of Innocence and of Experience [?V],<sup>762</sup> "coloured by the Author", "2 vols in 1, 8vo, LARGE PAPER, morocco, gilt edges", accompanied by quotations from Cunningham and Lamb, £5.5.0.<sup>763</sup>

---

<sup>760</sup> Issued with Gentleman's Magazine (Dec 1839)<Michigan>.

<sup>761</sup> It could also be Visions (A-D, I-N).

<sup>762</sup> Songs (V) was also in the 1841 Henry G. Bohn catalogue. However, its edges are marbled (not gilt) and its binding is russia (not morocco).

<sup>763</sup> Geoffrey Keynes and Edwin Wolf II, William Blake's Illuminated Books: A Census (N.Y.: The Grolier Club, 1953), cite an 1843 Henry G. Bohn

1843 February 21

Sotheby Catalogue of the Second Portion of the Extensive Singularly Curious and Valuable Library of Thomas Jolley, Esq. F.S.A. Containing The First Division of ... The Early English Poets ... (1843) <Huntington>

336 783 * * Contains King Edward the Third, a Drama.” [6d to the dealer Rodd] This may be Descriptive Catalogue copy Q, though it could equally well be K, M, or V-Y.<sup>764</sup>

The catalogue was discovered by R.N. Essick in 2010 while browsing in the Huntington stacks.

1845

A.E. Evans and Son, Catalogue of a Collection of Books, Books of Prints, and Works in General Literature On Sale at Very moderate Prices, Part III [1845]<sup>765</sup> (bound with Gentleman's Magazine, NS, XXIV [1845] <Michigan>)

The Blake lots are

717 Job, £2.12.6

718 Jerusalem [A], 100 plates, quarto, half calf, “neat”,
£7.7.0

719 Visions of the Daughters of Albion [A], 11 pp.,
“beautifully coloured by Blake himself”, £4.4.0

catalogue for Vine's copies of Thel (O) and Milton (D) bound together, but Ruthven Todd, “The Bohn Catalogue and James Vine”, Blake Newsletter, IV (1971), 149, writes that “1843” is a misprint for “1848”, and BBp. 659, is so indiscrete as to say that “there appears to be no 1843 Bohn catalogue”. Though there is an 1843 John Bohn catalogue, it does not list Vine's Thel and Milton.

<sup>764</sup> Copy Y is the newly recorded copy owned by Essick.

<sup>765</sup> Another copy of the catalogue is dated [1860] in the Bodley catalogue.

- 720 "a Stereotype design for Pilgrim's Progress, presented by Mrs. Blake to Mrs. Tatham, 1828, rare", 10s 6d<sup>766</sup>
- 721 "a Small Etching by him, representing Sampson destroying the Lion", 10s 6d<sup>767</sup>
- 722 "Death of the Good Old Man", print from Blair's Grave, 7s 6d
- 723 "a very Curious Coloured Drawing, illustrating the Revelations by this original Artist, signed and dated 1809, 4to. 2l. 12s. 6d."<sup>768</sup>

1846 June 8-11

Catalogue of the Valuable Library of the Late William Holgate, Esq. of the General Post Office ... Which ... Will Be Sold by Auction by S. Leigh Sotheby, June 8th, and Three following Days [1846] <Bodley>

- 47 "Beloe (Wm.) Poems and Translations, 1788--Borrow, Romantic Ballads, from the Danish, 1826--[Henry Card] Brother-in-Law, a Com[edy] Lee Priory Press, 1817--Boyd, Plays, 1793--Blake, Poetical Sketches together, 5 vol." [Rodd, 7s], perhaps copy K.

---

<sup>766</sup> This copy of "The Man Sweeping the Interpreter's Parlour" (c. 1822) is not recorded in R.N. Essick, The Separate Plates of William Blake: A Catalogue (Princeton: Princeton University Press, 1983).

<sup>767</sup> No such print is reported in Essick, Separate Plates, or BB.

<sup>768</sup> This is probably "The Whore of Babylon" (Butlin #523) signed "W Blake inv & del 1809" and sold by Evans to the British Museum Print Room in 1847. This 1845 catalogue is not listed in Butlin.

1848

Henry G. Bohn's Catalogue of Books. Vol. I. ... (London, 1848). Pp. 74, 259 <Bodley>

The catalogue (without lot-numbers) includes

Milton [D] in 12 books, 50 prints, bound with Thel [O],
8 prints, £10.10.0

America [C], "folio, 18 curiously engraved plates, hf. bd.", £3.3.0

Job, £2.12.6

Blair's Grave (1808), £1.1.0 and £1.4.0 and 18s, and Dante
("1839"), £1.16.0.

1852 January 20-22

Sotheby, Catalogue of Very Valuable and Choice Books and Books of Prints (London, 1852) <British Library>

First Day

45 Songs of Innocence and of Experience [T<sup>2</sup>], "Fifty-four designs" [altered in MS to "Fifty two"] coloured, octavo, "1798" [£4.14.0 to Evans]

185 The Grave, imperial 4to (1808) [15s to Kerslake]

186 Urizen [G], 27 coloured plates [£8.15.0 to Milnes]

REVIEW

Anon., "Notes of the Month", Gentleman's Magazine, NS XXXVII (February 1852), 165 <BB #1001>

1852 June 26

Messrs. S. Leigh Sotheby and John Wilkinson, Catalogue of the Valuable Collection of Water-Colour Drawings The Property of Charles Ford, Esq. of Bath, Comprising ... Fine Characteristic Drawings by William Blake, Together with A

Few Paintings &c. The Property of an Amateur<sup>769</sup> (London, 1852)

- 11 "W. Blake. The Transfiguration <Butlin #484(?).<sup>770</sup> coloured; and Time with the hour glass" [1s 6d to Hickson]

ORIGINAL DRAWINGS IN COLOUR BY BLAKE

- 155 "'He cast him into the bottomless pit -- very powerful and characteristic" <#524, "He Cast Him into the Bottomless Pit, and Shut Him Up"> [£1.5.0 to Fuller]
- 156 "Touching the Garment -- many figures [10s to Butts]
- 157 "'Thou was perfect until iniquity was found in thee' <#469, "Satan in His Original Glory: 'Thou Was Perfect Till Iniquity Was Found in Thee'"> -- very fine" [10s to "do"]
- 158 "Sampson bursting bonds" <#453, "Samson Breaking His Bonds"> [10s to "do"]
- 159 "The burning bush" <#441, "Moses at the Burning Bush"> [11s to "do"]
- 160 "The Man of God and Jereboam" <#460, "Jeroboam and the Man of God"> [6s to "do"]

---

<sup>769</sup> The "Amateur" is clearly Thomas Butts Jr.

<sup>770</sup> This Sotheby sale of 26 June 1852 is not recorded in Butlin, though Rossetti (1880) quotes from it without date (lots 164, 176). All the lots (171-73, 175, 178-79, 181) which went to Butts were offered again in 1853. All the Lots (170, 176-77, 180, 182) which sold for over £1 went to Fuller. All the lots (157-60, 165, 167-74, 178-80) which went to Butts reappeared in his catalogue of 29 June 1853.

- 161 "'Her sins are forgiven'" <#486?, "The Woman Taken in Adultery"> [6s to "do"]
- 162 "Scene from the Apocalyptic Vision <#519, "The Great Red Dragon and the Woman Clothed with the Sun"> -- of grand conception and highly characteristic" [£1.2.0 to Fuller]
- 163 "'The Number of the beast is 666' <#522>--of the same characteristic merit" [£1.1.0 to "do"]
- 164 "'And power was given to him over all kindreds, and tongues, and nations' <#521, "The Great Red Dragon and the Beast from the Sea: 'And Power Was Given Him Over all Kindreds, and Tongues, and Nations'"> -- equally characteristic" [£1.1.0 to "do"]
- 165 "Woman taken in Adultery" <#486> [5s to Butts]
- 166 "Witch of Endor" <#74> [7s to "do"]
- 167 "The Baptism of Christ <#415> -- finely conceived" [5s to "do"]
- 168 "Creation of Light" <#433> [6s to "do"]
- 169 "Baptism <#485, "Christ Baptising"> -- very fine" [8s to "do"]
- 170 "War" <#195> [£1.3.0 to Fuller]
- 171 "Moses Striking the Rock" <#445> [4s 6d to Butts]
- 172 "The Seven Golden Candlesticks" <#514> [5s to "do"]
- 173 "Adam and Eve in Paradise" <#531, "Satan Watching the Endearments of Adam and Eve"> [5s to "do"]
- 174 "'But hope rekindled only to illume" <#638, "The Descent of Man into the Vale of Death: 'But Hope Rekindled, Only to Illume the Shades of Death, and Light Her to the Tomb"> [19s to "do"]

175 "St. Paul shaking off the viper" <#510, "St. Paul and the Viper"> [5s to Butts]

176 "The Assumption <#513, "The Assumption of the Virgin"> -- an elaborate and exquisitely finished work in the finest manner of this extraordinary artist and genius [£4.2.0 to Fuller]

"The six following Designs, by Blake, are illustrations of Milton's 'Paradise Lost'"

177 "'So judged he man'" <#536 10, "The Judgment of Adam and Eve: 'So Judged He Man'"> [£1.7.0 to Fuller]

178 "'Father! thy word is past'" <?#536 3, "Christ Offers to Redeem Man"> [17s to Butts]

179 "'Ah! gentle pair'" <?#536 6, "Raphael Warns Adam and Eve"> [10s to Butts]

180 "'Awake! arise! or be forever fallen'" <#536 1, "Satan Arousing the Rebel Angels"> [£1.11.0 to Fuller]

181 "'But to the cross he nails the enemies'" <?#536 11, "Michael Foretells the Crucifixion"> [10s to Butts]

182 "'Oh, Father! what extends thy hand, she cry'd, against thy only Son'" <#536 2, "Satan, Sin and Death: Satan Comes to the Gates of Hell"> [£1.11.0 to Fuller]

182x [In MS, no title] [11s to Butts]

1852

G. Willis, Willis's Current Notes: A Series of Articles ...
(London, 1852)

- 21 Ariosto, Orlando Furioso, tr. Hoole, 5 vols.
("1773"<sup>771</sup>), plates by Heath, Blake, &c.", 10s 6d
- 256 Flaxman's Iliad (1805) and Odyssey (1805),
"engravings by Piroli, Moses, Blake &c.", £2.2.0
- 275 Hayley, Triumphs of Temper (1803), "with proof impressions of the fine etchings by BLAKE", 5s
- 455 Lavater, Essays on Physiognomy (1789-98), "with more than 80 beautiful engravings by Holloway, Blake, Bartolozzi, Sharp, &c.", £8.8.0
- 577 Hayley, Life of Romney (1809), with "beautiful engravings by Blake, Caroline Watson, and others", 8s 6d
- 705 "PLAYS and Poems, ORIGINAL EDITIONS, a collection of Twenty separately published Plays and Poems, by Wordsworth, Monk Lewis, Geo.
Colman &c. with plates by Blake &c. 10s 1802,
&c."<sup>772</sup>
- 797 Shakespeare, Plays, ed. Chalmers (1805), "LARGE PAPER, with PROOF IMPRESSIONS of the beautiful engravings by Blake, Bartolozzi, from FUSELI'S designs, 10 vols.", £3.3.0

1853 December 19

Sotheby sale of John Hugh Smith Pigott, 16 October

---

<sup>771</sup> That is 1783.

<sup>772</sup> I have no other record of a collection like this. The Blake plates may have come from Hayley's Designs to a Series of Ballads (1802).

1849<BBS 86, 98>

253 Jerusalem (D)

260 Marriage (I)

REVIEW, &c

Anon., "Our Weekly Gossip", Athenaeum, Part I, No.

1367 (7 January 1854), 21-22 (At Sotheby's [19 December 1853], "the sale of Mr. Pigott's Library" included as lots 300-1 Marriage of Heaven and Hell [I], £4.16.0 and Jerusalem [D], £4.16.0)

1854 March

Bernard Quaritch,<sup>773</sup> No. 76 Bernard Quaritch's Catalogue of Rare, Valuable & Curious Books, Works of Art, Etc. (London, 1854) <Biblioteca La Solana>

6 Blair, The Grave (1808), "hf. gd", £1.1.0

1854 October

Bernard Quaritch, No. 85 Bernard Quaritch's catalogue of Valuable Works of Art, Painting, Sculpture, Architecture, Numismata, Etc. Comprising Fine Galleries, the Engraved Works of Raphael, Rembrandt, Rubens, Vandyke, etc., the Illuminated Works of Kahn,<sup>774</sup> Shaw, Gruner, & Owen Jones; Oriental Drawings, the Architecture of Rome, Genoa, and Sicily; Bible Prints, Old Woodcut Books, also a Collection of Useful Books in General Literature, etc. (London, 1854) <Biblioteca La Solana>

---

<sup>773</sup> "16, Castle Street, Leicester Square".

<sup>774</sup> The initial letter of "Kahn" is defective and therefore dubitable.

- 29 Blair, The Grave ("1808"<sup>775</sup>), "with Memoir ... hf. bd. ... The above is an original copy", 18s.
 30 Job (1825), "proof impressions on India paper, hf. bd.", £1.16.0

1854 December

Bernard Quaritch, No. 90 Bernard Quaritch's Catalogue of Old Books (London, 1854) <Biblioteca La Solana>
 Blair, The Grave (1808) [as in October 1854]

1855 July 25

George Willis, New Series, No. 100. July 25, 1855 A Catalogue of Superior Second-Hand Books ... (London, 1855) <Bodley>

- 62 "BLAKE'S (W.) Illustrations to Young's Night Thoughts, fine original impressions of these celebrated and highly imaginative compositions, with fine portrait by Schiavonetti,<sup>776</sup> imp. 4to. half morocco, uncut, scarce, £1.18s 1797"

1855 September 25

George Willis, New Series, No. 102. September 25, 1855 A Catalogue of Superior Second-Hand Books ... (London, 1855) <Bodley>

- 3 "ÆSOP'S Fables, with Life, STOCKDALE'S FINE EDITION, printed with large type, and illustrated

---

<sup>775</sup> The presence of the Memoir, first printed in 1813, indicates that this is the 1813 edition.

<sup>776</sup> The portrait engraved by Schiavonetti is in Blair's Grave (1808), not Young's Night Thoughts (1797).

with 112 beautiful engravings from designs by STOTHARD, BLAKE, &c. 2 vols. imp. 8vo. calf gilt, fine original copy, £1.10s 1793"

- 366 "GAY'S Fables, with Life, Stockdale's splendid edition, with 70 fine engravings from designs by BLAKE and others, 2 vols. imp. 8vo. calf gilt, £1.8s 1793"

1855 September 25

George Willis, New Series, No. 102. September 25, 1855 A Catalogue of Superior Second-Hand Books ... (London, 1855)

<Bodley>

- 73 "BLAKE'S (W.) Illustrations to Blair's Grave, with the Poem, 12 fine engravings by Schiavonetti, from Drawings by this remarkable artist, with portrait, PROOFS, imp. 4to. morocco gilt leaves and borders of gold, and silk linings, by C. Smith,<sup>777</sup> £2.2s-- worth this sum for the binding alone 1808 An original Proof Copy, with list of Subscribers."

1855 November 25

George Willis, New Series, No. 104. November 25, 1855 A Catalogue of Superior Second-Hand Books ... (London, 1855)

<Bodley>

- 6 "ÆSOPS FABLES, with Life, STOCKDALE'S FINE EDITION, printed with large type, and illustrated

---

<sup>777</sup> C. Smith fl. 1828-40, according to Charles Ramsden, London Bookbinders 1780-1840 (London: B.T. Batsford, 1987), 131, 133, Plate XXII.

with 112 beautiful engravings from designs by STOTHARD, BLAKE, &c. 2 vols. imp. 8vo. new, uncut, £1.8s 1793"

- 85 "BLAKE'S (W.) Illustrations to BLAIR'S GRAVE, with the Poem, 12 fine engravings, with portrait by Schiavonetti, roy. 4to. cloth, 18s 1813"

"The most original, and in truth the only new and original version of the scripture idea of Angels which I have met with, is that of William Blake, a poet painter, somewhat mad as we are told, if indeed madness were not rather "the telescope of truth," a sort of poetical clairvoyance, bringing the unearthly to him more than to others.' -- Mrs. Jameson's Sacred and Legendary Art [1850 ff.]"

1856 January 25

Willis & Sotheran, New Series, No. 106. January 25, 1856 A Catalogue of Superior Second-Hand Books, Ancient and Modern ... in Perfect Library Condition, on Sale at Very Low Prices ... (1856) <Bodley>

- 310 Darwin, Botanic Garden, "fine engravings by Fuseli, Blake, &c 5s.6d, 1799"
- 412 "FLAXMAN'S Classical Illustrations to Homer's Iliad, 4o large and fine outline engravings, by Piroli and Blake, ... bds. 15s 1805"

1856 February 25

Willis & Sotheran, New Series, No. 107. February 25, 1856 A Catalogue of Superior Second-Hand Books ... (1856) <Bodley>

- 239 "DARWIN'S (Dr.) Works, BEST EDITIONS, with fine engravings by Blake, &c. from designs by Fuseli ...

 6 vols. 4to in 4, half calf, neat and uniform, 18s 1794-1800"

1856 March 25

Willis & Sotheran, New Series, No. 108. March 25, 1856 A Catalogue of Superior Second-Hand Books, Ancient and Modern ... in Perfect Library Condition, on Sale at Very Low Prices ... (1856) <Bodley>

- 310 G. Cumberland, Thoughts on Outline (1796), "24 fine outlines by Cruikshank [i.e., Cumberland] and Blake ... bds.", 3s 6d

1856 April 25

Willis & Sotheran, New Series, No. 109. April 25, 1856 A Catalogue of Superior Second-Hand Books, Ancient and Modern ... in Perfect Library Condition, on Sale at Very Low Prices ... (1856) <Bodley>

- 99 "BLAKE'S (W.) Sublime Illustrations to Young's Night Thoughts, with the Poem, fine original impressions of these remarkable engravings, imp. 4to. hf bound, uncut, scarce, £1.8s 1797"
- 285 Flaxman's Classical Compositions from Homer, Æschylus, and Hesiod, "nearly 150 beautiful outline engravings by Piroli, Moses, Blake, and Howard, 4 vols. fol. in one, handsomely bound in morocco extra, gilt leaves, £4.15s 1831, &c."
- 297 "GAY'S (J.) Fables, STOCKDALE'S FINE EDITION, printed with large type, on thick vellum paper, with 70 beautiful engravings by Blake, Stothard, Audinet, Wilson, &c. 2 vols. royal 8vo. in one, calf neat, £1.5s 1793"

1856 May 25

Willis & Sotheran, New Series, No. 110. May 25 1856 A Catalogue of Superior Second-Hand Books, Ancient and Modern ... in Perfect Library Condition, on Sale at Very Low Prices ... (1856) <Bodley>

- 109 "BLAKE'S (W.) Sublime Illustrations to Blair's Grave, the fine series of 12 large engravings, by Schiavonetti, original subscription set on large paper, folio in a portfolio, hf. morocco, 14s 1808"
- 367 Flaxman, Homer, Iliad (1805) and Odyssey (1805), "74 large oval fine spiritual outline engravings by Piroli, Blake, Neagle, &c ... £1.18s"
- 368 Flaxman, Hesiod (1817), "38 ... outlines engraved under Flaxman's immediate inspection by W. BLAKE", 18s

1856 June 25

Willis & Sotheran, New Series, No. CXI June 25, 1856 A Catalogue of Superior Second-Hand Books, Ancient and Modern ... in Perfect Library Condition, on Sale at Very Low Prices ... (London, 1856) <Bodley>

Lots 1-520 are from the library of Samuel Rogers<sup>778</sup>

- 232 Hayley, Essay on Sculpture (1800), "beautiful

---

<sup>778</sup> It does not include Rogers's Songs of Innocence (C) which was sold by the family in 1875.

engravings by W. BLAKE", 8s 6d

1856 August 25

Willis & Sotheran, New Series, No. CXIII. August 25, 1856
A Catalogue of Superior Second-Hand Books, Ancient and Modern ... in Perfect Library Condition, on Sale at Very Low Prices ... (1856) <Bodley>

- 102 "BLAKE'S (W.) Sublime Illustrations to the Book of Job, 21 fine plates, designed and engraved by this wonderful artist, original impressions ... bds scarce £2.2s 1825"
- 218 Darwin, Botanic Garden; the Economy of Vegetation, and the Loves of the Plants, "beautiful engravings by Blake, &c", 2 vols., "thick paper" (1799), 8s
- 281 Flaxman, Iliad and Odyssey, "engravings by Piroli, Blake, Neagle, &c" [price and date illegible]
- 508 Ritson's Collection of English Songs and Ballads (1783), "vignettes by STOTHARD, BLAKE, and HEATH", £1.5.0

1856 September 25

Willis & Sotheran, New Series, No. CXIV September 25, 1856
A Catalogue of Superior Second-Hand Books, Ancient and Modern ... in Perfect Library Condition, on Sale at Very Low Prices ... (1856) <Bodley>

- 183 Flaxman, Iliad (1805) and Odyssey (1805), "engravings by Piroli, Blake, Neagle, &c", £1.16.0

437 Stedman, Surinam (1796), £1.10.0

1856 November 25

Willis & Sotheran, New Series, No. CXVI November 25, 1856 A Catalogue of Superior Second-Hand Books, Ancient and Modern ... in Perfect Library Condition, on Sale at Very Low Prices ... (1856) <Bodley>

- 104 "BLAKE'S (W.) Sublime Illustrations to Young's Night Thoughts" (1797), "bds uncut", £1.10.0
- 454 Lavater, Essays on Physiognomy ("1781-1801"<sup>779</sup>), 5 vols., £8.8.0
- 633 Rees, Cyclopedia (1819), 45 vols., £7.10.0
- 675 Shakespeare, Dramatic Works, ed. Johnson, Steevens, and Read, 21 vols., "WITH UPWARDS OF 400 EXTRA ENGRAVINGS", £9.18.0

1856 December 25

Willis & Sotheran, New Series, No. CXVII. December 25, 1856 A Catalogue of Superior Second-Hand Books ... (1856) <Bodley>

- 148 "BLAKE'S (W.) Sublime Illustrations to Blair's Grave, with the Poem, LARGE PAPER, WITH INDIA PROOFS of the 12 fine etchings by Schiavonetti, and portrait after Phillips, impl. 4to. russia, gilt leaves, by C. Smith, fine original copy, scarce, £1.8s 808"
- 275 Catullus, Latin and English verse, tr. Nott (1795) 7s 6d
- 637 Lavater, Essays on Physiognomy ("1789-1801"), 4

---

<sup>779</sup> Lavater's Physiognomy, 3 volumes bound in five, Vol. I (1789), Vol. II (1792), Vol. III (1798).

vols., "UNCUT", £7.10.0

1857 February 25

Willis and Sotheran, New Series, No. CXIX. February 25, 1857 A Catalogue of Superior Second-Hand Books ... (1857)

<Bodley>

- 104 "BLAKE'S Sublime Illustrations of the Book of Job, CHOICE PROOFS of the 21 remarkable engravings, folio ... very scarce, £2.12s (pub. £6.6s) 1825"
- 364 "GAY'S Fables, STOCKDALE'S FINE EDITION, printed in large type, with 70 beautiful engravings by Blake, Stothard, Wilson, Audinet, &c. 2 vols. impl. 8vo. in 1, calf [price illeg] 1793"

1857 March 25

Willis and Sotheran, New Series, No. CXX. March 25, 1857 Catalogue of Superior Second-Hand Books ... (1857)

<Bodley>

- 91 "BLAKE'S Sublime Illustrations to Young's Night Thoughts, with the Poem, fine original impressions of these remarkable engravings, 1 vol. 4to. half. calf gilt, scarce, £1.16s 1797"
- 92 "BLAKE'S Illustrations of the Book of Job, the complete set of the 21 sublime illustrations drawn and engraved by W. Blake, roy. 4to. sewed, £1.16s 1826
- 93 "BLAKE'S Sublime Illustrations to Blair's Grave, with the Poem, portrait and 12 large engravings, by Schiavonetti, fine impressions, impl. 4to. hf. morocco, £1.5s 1808"

- 332 Flaxman, Iliad (1805) and Odyssey (1805), "74 large and fine spirited outline engravings by Piroli, Blake, Neagle &c. ... bds. £1.12s"

1857

Henry Sotheran, Catalogue of Superior Second-Hand Books ... (London, 1857) <New York Public Library>

- 585 "BLAKE'S (W.) Illustrations to BLAIR'S GRAVE, with the Poem, 12 fine engravings from the sublime compositions by Blake, with portrait by Schiavonetti, roy. 4to, cloth, 18s 1813"
- 1,545 "DARWIN'S (Dr.) Botanic Garden... beautiful engravings by Blake, c. from Fuseli's Designs, thick paper 2 vols. 8vo. calf gilt, fine copy, 8s 1799"
- 2,023 "FLAXMAN'S Compositions from HESIOD, 38 fine large outlines, engraved under Flaxman's immediate inspection by W BLAKE ... bds. 18s ... 1817"

1857

§A Catalogue of the Art Treasures of the United Kingdom. Collected at Manchester in 1857 (London: For the Manchester Art Treasures Exhibition [1857]) <BB>B. §Second Edition (1857)

- 130 Blake's "Oberon and Titania on a Lily" lent by William Russell

130a and "Vision of Queen Catherine" lent by C.W.
Dilke

1859

Willis and Sotheran, A Catalogue of Superior Second-Hand Books ... on Sale at Remarkably Low Prices (1859) <New York Public Library and Princeton>

- 46 "Æsop's Fables, with Life, STOCKDALE'S Fine Edition, printed in large type with 112 beautiful engravings by Blake,<sup>780</sup> Stothard, Landseer, &c. 2 vols. impl. 8vo, hf. calf, neat, scarce, £1.1s, 1793"
- 744 "BLAKE'S (W.) Illustrations to Blair's Grave, with the Poem, 12 fine engraving from the sublime compositions by Blake ... cloth, 18s.-- another copy, hf. morocco, £1.10s. 1813"
- 924 "BOYDELL'S SHAKESPEARE GALLERY, 100 very large and beautiful plates" (1803), 2 vols., £7.10.0
- 2,022 G. Cumberland, Thoughts on Outline (1796), 9s 6d
- 2,023 G. Cumberland, Outlines from the Ancients (1829) "with 81 large and fine outline engravings ... by W. BLAKE, &c. INDIA PROOFS, LARGE PAPER", 18s.
- 2,867 "FLAXMAN'S Classical Compositions for HOMER, ÆSCHYLUS, and HESIOD, nearly 150 beautiful outline engravings by Piroli, Moses, Blake, and Howard", 4 vols. in 2, "1805 &c", £4.10.0
- 2,868 "FLAXMAN'S Compositions from Homer's Iliad

---

<sup>780</sup> An advertisement for Stockdale's edition of Aesop's Fables listed "Blake" among its 13 engravers, but no print in it is signed by him (BB 566).

- and Odyssey [1805], 74 ... engravings by Piroli, Blake, Neagle, &c", £1.16.0
- 2,870 "FLAXMAN'S Classical Compositions from the Iliad of Homer [1805], 39 fine engravings by Blake and Piroli", 15s
- 3,100 Gay, Fables (1793) "with 70 elegant engravings by W. Blake, &c", 18s

1860 October 8 ff.

Bibliotheca Dramatica. Catalogue of the Theatrical and Miscellaneous Library of the Late William E[vans] Burton, the Distinguished Comedian, Comprising an Immense Assemblage of Books Relating to the Stage ... To Be Sold at Auction by J. Sabin and Co., New York, On Monday, October 8, 1860, and following days.

- 2,717 Sir Joshua Reynolds, Works, 3 vols. (1798), in half calf; "This copy belonged to the celebrated artist who is so well known as the artist of Blair's Grave, and other works"; "it is full and running over with marginal notes, all" "written with all the spirit of a good hater". Blake's note on the title page is quoted, as are passages about him by Charles Lamb and Mrs Jameson.

1860

- Bernard Quaritch,<sup>781</sup> A Catalogue of Books in All Classes of Literature, many of them Rare, Valuable and Curious (London, 1860) <Astor Library [New York Public Library]>
- 5,400 Songs of Innocence and of Experience [G and N]

---

<sup>781</sup> "15 Piccadilly".

(1789-94), "coloured by the Author, 2 vols. in 1, 4to 40 most remarkable engravings, half red morocco, uncut ... Bound up with the volume is a scarce work, 'The World turned upside down,' in 28 plates, from the designs of G. Salviati, engraved by F.C. Lewis, 1822", £8.10.0

1860

§South Kensington Museum [now the Victoria & Albert] exhibition (1860)

REVIEW

Anon., "Water-Colour Drawings at South Kensington", Critic, XXII (14 April 1860), 467 (three Blake designs show "the English world that it has had one really imaginative and spiritual artist, of whom it knows nothing") <BBS 350>

1861 January 25

Willis and Sotheran, No. CLXVI, A Catalogue of Superior Second-Hand Books ... at Remarkably Low Prices ... (London, 1861) <Michigan>

81 "BLAKE'S Illustrations to Blair's Grave, with the Poem, and Life ... from the sublime compositions of Blake (1813), 15s; "Another copy, PROOFS, LARGE PAPER", £1.5.0

1861 February 25

Willis and Sotheran, No. CLXVII, A Catalogue of Superior

Second-Hand Books ... at Remarkably Low Prices ... (London, 1861) <Michigan>

- 79 "BLAKES (W.) Illustrations to BLAIR'S GRAVE, with the Poem, ... from the sublime compositions by Blake" (1808), 18s by Blake, Landseer, &c., large copy" (1793),<sup>782</sup> £1.11.0

1861 March 25

Willis and Sotheran, No. CLXVIII, A Catalogue of Superior Second-Hand Books ... at Remarkably Low Prices ... (London, 1861) <Michigan>

- 4 "ÆSOP'S Fables, with Life, STOCKDALE'S FINE EDITION ... with 112 beautiful engraving

1861 November 25

Willis and Sotheran, A Catalogue of Superior Second-Hand Books ... at Remarkably Low Prices ... (London, 1861) <Michigan>

- 308 Flaxman's Iliad (1805) and Odyssey (1805), with "74 ... spirited engravings, by Piroli, Blake, Neagle, &c", £1.10.0

1862 April 29

Sotheby, Catalogue of A Valuable Collection of Engravings, Drawings and Pictures, chiefly from the cabinet of An Amateur; comprising ... Original Drawings and Sketches by W. Blake (1862)

Delete the sentence "The 'Amateur' may be Frederick Tatham."

---

<sup>782</sup> The work was advertised thus, but no plate bears his name.

1862 May 25

Willis and Sotheran, No. CLXXXII March 25, 1862 A Catalogue of Superior Second-Hand Books ... at Remarkably Low Prices (1862) <Michigan>

- 332 Flaxman's compositions for The Iliad, the Odyssey, and Aeschylus, "104 engravings by Piroli, Moses, and Blake", "1805 &c.)", £3.10.0

1862 June 25

A Catalogue of Superior Second-Hand Books ... on Sale, at Remarkably Low Prices, by Willis and Sotheran, No. 136 Strand, (W.C.) (25 June 1862), p. 5 <Michigan><sup>783</sup>

- 116 America [S] (1793), "18 engravings"; Europe [N] (1794), "15 engravings";<sup>784</sup> First Book of Urizen [K] (1794), "27 engravings", Visions of the Daughters of Albion [S] (1793), "11 engravings"; Book of Thel [S] ("1792"), "7 engravings";<sup>785</sup> "in all 78 most remarkable Designs ... 5 vols. 4to. in one, half-calf, £21.10s", "A VOLUME OF EXTREME RARITY, from the LIBRARY of JOHN FLAXMAN, the Sculptor, with his AUTOGRAPH."
- 117 The Gates of Paradise [For Children (F)] (1793), "19 remarkably singular and spirited plates ... sqr.

---

<sup>783</sup> Mike Drew of Henry Sotheran Ltd told me on 6 May 2010 that the Sotheran "archives were blitzed during the war".

<sup>784</sup> Europe ordinarily consists of 18 prints.

<sup>785</sup> Thel usually has 8 prints; the one missing may be pl. 1, "Thel's Motto", as in copy E.

sm. 8vo. hf. bd. RARE. £3.10s.--(From Flaxman's Library)".

- 118 Little Tom the Sailor (1800), "2 very characteristic coloured engravings, the entire Poem likewise composed and engraved by Blake, RARE, £1.1s." [Perhaps this copy belonged to Flaxman like the two lots above. It was probably sold quickly, for it does not appear in the Willis and Sotheran catalogue of 25 December 1862]

1862 October 25

Willis and Sotheran, No. CLXVI October 25, 1862 A Catalogue of Superior Second-Hand Books ... at Remarkably Low Prices (1862) <Michigan>

- 442 Lavater, Essays on Physiognomy (1789-98), 5 vols., "bound in russia, gilt, with borders of gold ... The Duke of Norfolk's early subscription copy, testified by HOLLOWAY'S signed receipt for his subscription ... AUTOGRAPH INSCRIPTION by Lavater inserted", £7.10.0

1862 November 25

Willis and Sotheran, No. CLXXVI November 25, 1862 A Catalogue of Superior Second-Hand Books ... at Remarkably Low Prices (1862) <Michigan>

- 308 Flaxman, Iliad (1805) and Odyssey (1805), "74 ... engravings by Piroli, Blake, Neagle, &c.", £1.10.0

1862 December 25

A Catalogue of Superior Second-Hand Books ... on Sale, at Remarkably Low Prices, by Willis and Sotheran, No. 136

Strand, (W.C.) (25 December 1862), p. 5. <Michigan> 91 "RARE VOLUME OF BLAKE'S DESIGNS" [described as in lot 116 of their catalogue of 25 June 1862].

1862

International Exhibition (1862)

REVIEWS

Anon., "International Exhibition. The English Water-Colour Pictures", Athenaeum, No. 1803 (17 May 1862), 663, reprinted in pp. 179-181 of §What Do You Think of the Exhibition? A Collection of the Best Descriptions and Criticisms from the Leading Journals Concerning the International Exhibition, ed. Robert Kempt (London, 1862) (one sentence about Blake: "Blake's transcendental fancies are freely seen") <BB #964>

Anon., "International Exhibition, 1862. Pictures of the British School", Art Journal, NS I (1 July 1862), 149-152 (three sentences comparing Stothard's "Canterbury Pilgrims" with Blake's; "of the two, Blake shows himself the more shadowy and visionary" [p. 152]) <BB #863>

1862

Willis and Sotheran, No. CLXXIX A Catalogue of Superior Second-Hand Books ... at Remarkably Low Prices (1862)
 <Michigan>

91 [America, Europe, First Book of Urizen, Visions of the Daughters of Albion, and Book of Thel, as in the 25 June 1862 catalogue]

- 92 "BLAKE'S (W.) Illustrations of Blair's Grave [1813], 12 fine engravings from the sublime compositions by Blake", 15s.

1862

Willis and Sotheran, A Catalogue of Upwards of Fifty Thousand Volumes of Ancient and Modern Books, English and Foreign, in All Classes of Literature and the Fine Arts, including Rare and Curious Books, Manuscripts, etc. in good library condition, many in neat and elegant bindings, now on sale at the very reasonable prices affixed (1862) <Princeton, Toronto>

- 1,369 Blair, The Grave (1813), "boards, uncut", £1.10.0
 1,371 Blair, The Grave [n.d. given], "bds., 16s";
 "Another copy [1813], calf, gilt leaves, fine copy, £1.1s"
 1,372 "BLAKE'S Sublime Illustrations of the Book of Job, the complete series of 21 [should be 22 with the title page] plates engraved by this remarkable artist himself, royal 4o, bds., scarce, £2.2s"
 1,373 "BLAKE'S Sublime Illustrations to Young's Night Thoughts, with the Poem, original impressions of these remarkable engravings, impl. 4to. hf. morocco, £1.10.0 1797"
 3,533 George Cumberland, Thoughts on Outline (1796), "24 outline engravings, by W. BLAKE", 9s 6d
 3,534 George Cumberland, Outlines from the Ancients (1829), "engravings ... by W. BLAKE", 10s 6d;
 "Another copy", 18s; "Another copy, LARGE PAPER

INDIA PROOFS", £1.1.0

4,987 John Flaxman, Homer, Æschylus and Hesiod,
£5.10.0

4,990 John Flaxman, Hesiod (1817), "engraved under Flaxman's inspection by W. Blake", £2.12.6

4,991 John Flaxman, The Iliad (1805), Odyssey (1805), engraved by "Piroli, Blake, Neagle, &c", £1.14.0

[?1864]<sup>786</sup>

[Francis Harvey, 30 Cockspur Street, London, sale catalogue] [BB 661] <Anderdon Collection, British Museum
Print Room><sup>787</sup>

It includes the "Pickering [Ballads] Manuscript" and at least 24 drawings.

---

<sup>786</sup> W.M. Rossetti wrote to Horace Elisha Scudder, 27 Nov 1864: "A Mr. Harvey, Bookseller of 30 Cockspur-Street, London, S.W., had--and I doubt not still has--some [Blakes], varying from important water-colours to slight scraps; one of his tolerably recent catalogues specifies 33 of the latter sort, to be had in a lump for £1.16." (Selected Letters of William Michael Rossetti, ed. Roger W. Peattie (1990), 134)

<sup>787</sup> I have traced catalogues of books (4) and prints (14) or both (1), mostly undated, published by Francis Harvey (1830-99) first at 30 Cockspur Street and later at 4 St James's Street, but none of the catalogues corresponds to the fragment in the Anderdon Collection.

Harvey also published 12 other works. Sotheby, Wilkinson and Hodge held a posthumous auction on 21-23 June 1900 of Harvey's "Valuable and Select Stock of Books". A vignette of the shop-front of "F. HARVEY | BOOK and PRINT | SELLER | 4 S.<sup>t</sup> JAMES STREET | On Sale by FRANCIS HARVEY, BOOK AND PRINTSELLER, | 4, ST. JAMES'S STREET" is on the title page of his General Catalogue of Rare and Valuable Engraved Portraits (n.d.) <Michigan>.

1864

Bernard Quaritch, A Catalogue of Books ... (1864)
<Harvard>

- 6,521 "BLAKIANA." MS life of Blake "extracted from Cunningham's Lives ... ILLUSTRATED with numerous specimens of his works ... including portions of his 'Songs of Innocence and Experience;' 'Book of Ahania;' 'Europe, a Prophecy;' 'Books of Thel and Urizen;' '[For the Sexes: The] Gates of Paradise;' 'The Elements [?For the Sexes pl. 4-7 ("Water", "Earth", "Air", "Fire"]);' 'Canterbury Pilgrimage,' the large and scarce print, etc. in all 114 plates, some duplicates in different states and tinted by the artist; also 14 portraits of the artist; his friends, and contemporaries, including A PORTRAIT OF THOMAS HAYLEY, AN ORIGINAL DRAWING, BY W. BLAKE; a Manuscript Index to the Songs of Innocence, believed to be in the autograph of the artist: list of Original Drawings and Sketches sold by auction in 1862 [perhaps the Sotheby sale of 29 April 1862, Blake lots 158-202], with the prices realised, etc. in 1 vol. impl. 4to hf. bound, crimson morocco ... £21."
- 6,522 Thel [J], motto, title, and 6 designs; Visions [G], 11 designs "in one volume, roy. 4to. olive morocco, gilt edges, by C. Lewis, £15.15s.", "The cuts in both pieces coloured in the artist's peculiar style"
- 6,523 Dante 7 prints
- 9,032 "BLAKE (William) [For the Sexes:] THE GATES OF PARADISE [G], impl. 4to.

LARGE PAPER, hf. morocco, gilt top, uncut, £6.15s. Consisting of twenty engraved leaves, the first being the title with an etching headed 'for the Sexes,' ... The second is the frontispiece ...", "2 leaves containing an epilogue ... 'To the Accuser ...'"

1865

[William Edward Frost, revised by Henry Reeve.] A COMPLETE | CATALOGUE OF THE PAINTINGS, | WATER-COLOUR DRAWINGS, | DRAWINGS, AND PRINTS; | IN THE COLLECTION OF THE LATE | HUGH ANDREW JOHNSTONE MUNROE, ESQ., | OF NOVAR. | AT THE TIME OF HIS DEATH IN HIS HOUSE, | NO. 6, HAMILTON PLACE, LONDON; | WITH | SOME ADDITIONAL PAINTINGS AT NOVAR. | - | 1865. <With the British Museum stamp, perhaps that of the Department of Prints and Drawings>

"W. BLAKE. ('Pictor Ignotus')" (p. 126)

155 "He cast him into the bottomless Pit." <Butlin #524>

162 "A Woman Clothed with the Sun." <#519>

163 "Number of the Beast is 666." <#522>

164 "And power was given over him, etc." <#521>

170 "War." <#195>

176 "The Assumption." 1806 <#513>

177 "So judged He Man" <#536 10>

180 "Awake! Arise!" <#536 1>

182 "O Father, what intends thy Hand?" <536 2>

The catalogue also includes many paintings by Constable, 6 by Fuseli, 27 by Stothard plus "50 Stothard Drawings and Sketches", and many by Turner plus 129 Turner drawings.

1871 March

Bernard Quaritch, No. 270 Catalogue of Works on the Fine Arts, the Galleries, Books of Costume, Old Views, Engravings, Portraits, Ornaments, Old Woodcut Books .... (London, March 1871) <Huntington>

35 "BLAKE'S Songs of Innocence, high 4to. a Series of 20 Poems, engraved on copper, and surrounded with eccentric designs, hf. bd. £2.16s s.a.<sup>788</sup> (?1830)"<sup>789</sup>

1873 April

Bernard Quaritch, No. 289 [title as in March 1871] (London, April, 1873) <Huntington>

14,716 "BLAKE'S Songs of Innocence [q], high 4to. a Series of 20 plates of very quaint execution, hf. bd. £2.2s. s.a. (? 1830)" [See Quaritch, March 1871]

14,815 Flaxman, "Classical Compositions, viz. HOMER,

---

<sup>788</sup> I do not know the significance of "s.a.".

<sup>789</sup> This is a previously unrecorded copy (q) of the Songs, probably consisting of pl. 3-27 (Songs of Innocence, lacking pl. 2, the frontispiece, as here) with 20 poems on 25 leaves.

The closest extant copy is Songsg<sup>1</sup> with 18 leaves (pl. 3-10, 12-14, 16-27, all in Innocence) and 18 poems (counting the Innocence title page as a "Poem").

The Quaritch catalogues of March 1871 and April 1873 were pointed out to me by my generous friend Bob Essick.

HESIOD and AESCHYLUS, 4 vols., folio, 178 beautiful outline plates by Piroli, Moses, and Blake, genuine old impressions ... red MOROCCO extra, gilt borders round the sides, gilt edges by Clarke, £10. 1805-31"

- 14,816 "FLAXMAN (J.) ILLUSTRATIONS of Homer's Iliad and Odyssey; of Hesiod's Works and Days, and Theogony, and of the Tragedies of Æschylus, 4 vols. in 2, oblong folio, 146 beautiful compositions engraved in outline, £3.16s 1805-31"

1876

Burlington Fine Arts Club Exhibition of the Works of William Blake (1876) <BB>

REVIEWS

Anon., "Painters", Argus [Melbourne], 17 June 1876 (a review of London art exhibitions, including a long and admiring account of the Blake exhibition at the Burlington Club; "There is an immense deal to study" here) <BBS 348>

Anon., "An Exploded Idol", Saturday Review, XII (1876), 492-93 (about the "grotesque" works by Blake, who was "hopelessly mad") <BB #936>

J. Beavington Atkinson, "Exhibition of Works of William Blake, Burlington Club", Portfolio, VII
 (1876), 69-71 <BB #1096>

William Michael Rossetti, "Blake at the Burlington Club", Academy, IX (1876), 248 <BB #2573>

- William Michael Rossetti, "The Blake Catalogue", Academy, IX (1876), 364-65 <BB #2575>
William Bell Scott, "The Blake Catalogue", Academy, IX (1876), 385 <BB #2677>
H.H. Statham, "The Blake Drawings at the Burlington Fine Arts Club", Macmillan's Magazine, XXXIV (1876), 55-68 <BB #2744>
[Archibald G.B. Russell], "The Visionary Art of William Blake", Edinburgh Review, CCIII, 415 (January 1906), 161-79 (with 5 others) <BB>

1877

Henry Sotheran and Co., A Catalogue of Choice Second-Hand Books ... (London, 1877)

There are no catalogue numbers.

Hayley, Life and Posthumous Writings of Cowper (1803), 12s 6d and 1803-6, 9s

Gay, Fables (Stockdale, 1793), £2.10.6

Lavater, Essays on Physiognomy (1810), £8.10.0

Stedman, Surinam (1813), £1.1.0

1878 January 29

Sotheby sale of A.G. Dew-Smith, 29-30 January 1878.

The sale included America (B), Visions(N), and Blake's copy of Swedenborg's Divine Love and Divine Wisdom (1788).

REVIEW

§Anon., Academy, 9 February 1878 (Visions (N] sold for £30 and America (B) for £16.5.0)

1878 July

Bernard Quaritch, Catalogue 317, Catalogue of Works of European Philology (London, 1878) <Huntington>

Eleven letters to Hayley [22 September, end of September, 2 October 1800, 10 May, 11 September 1801, 10 January, 22 November (both parts) 1802, 25 April, 6 July, 16 August 1803]

Three "drawings" [probably colour prints, the frontispiece and "The Shepherd" from Innocence, and "An ideal of Hell"]

Books with Blake's commercial book illustrations

1879 March

Bernard Quaritch, No. 322. Catalogue of English Literature (March 1879) <Bodley>

12,893 11 letters from Blake to Hayley, 26 November 1800-4 June 1805, £52.10.0

12,894 "A PROJECTED WORK: Original Designs (considerably different from the published engraving):

'Piping down the valleys wild,
Piping songs of pleasant glee,
On a cloud I saw a child,
And he laughing said to me:'--

5 verses of 4 lines each, on 1 leaf

[Songs pl. 4]

The Shepherd, a frontispiece 1 "

[Songs pl. 2]

An ideal Hell 1 "

<Butlin #217>

--the three Drawings in Blake's usual rich style of colouring, executed circa 1820, £10
From the Collection of a friend of Blake's."

1880 March 10-13

Baker, Leigh and Sotheby, CATALOGUE | OF A | VALUABLE ASSEMBLAGE OF IMPORTANT | BOOKS & MANUSCRIPTS, | FROM | [Gothic:] The Libraries of various Collectors, | COMPRISING ... | TOGETHER WITH | VARIOUS MANUSCRIPTS ON BIRDS, COMPILED BY THE LATE | G.R. GRAY, ESQ. F.R.S. THE CELEBRATED ORNITHOLOGIST; | VALUABLE AUTOGRAPH LETTERS, | RARE BOOKS PRINTED AT MEXICO, &c (London, 1880)

<Bodley>

Day 1

Folio

- 274 "BLAKE (W.) ILLUSTRATIONS OF THE BOOK OF JOB, fine impressions, half russia, uncut 1825"

Day 2

Octavo et Infra

- 389 "FABLES, Gay (J.) Fables, 2 vol. 70 plates by Blake, Stothard, &c. Stockdale, 1793--Æsop's Fables, 2 vol. 112 plates by Blake [sic], Stothard, Landseer, &c. ib 1793, uniform in tree-calf extra, g.e. 4 vol."

Folio

- 618 "GOUGH (Rich.) SEPULCHRAL MONUMENTS OF GREAT BRITAIN, vol I in 2 parts, and parts II and III of Vol. 2, numerous plates bound in 2 vol. calf, 1786-96 ..."

"William Blake and His Circle"

Day 3

Quarto

- 826 "LAVATER (J.C.) ESSAYSON PHYSIOGNOMY, 3 vol. in 5, numerous beautiful engravings executed by or under the inspection of T. Holloway, russia extra, uncut, backs broken, 1800"
- 827 "LAVATER (J.C.) ESSAYS ON PHYSIOGNOMY, translated by Hunter, and illustrated by engravings by Holloway, Blake, Bartolozzi, and others, 5 vol. remarkably fine, clean copy, russia, m.e. 1810"

Day 4

Quarto

- 1,169 "Rees (Dr. Abraham), Cyclopedia ... 39 vol. and 6 vol. of Plates, together 45 vol. old russia, 1819"

Folio

- 1,272 "YOUNG (E.) NIGHT Thoughts, illustrations by W. BLAKE, half russia 1797"

REVIEW

Anon, Athenaeum, No. 2734 (20 March 1880), p. 377 (At the end of "last week", Sotheby, Wilkinson & Hodge sold "Young's Night Thoughts, with illustrations by Blake, 9l.12s.6d")

1880

[Boston] Museum of Fine Arts Exhibition of Drawings, Water Colors, and Engravings by William Blake (1880)<BB>

REVIEW

[Archibald G.B. Russell], "The Visionary Art of William Blake", Edinburgh Review, CCIII, 415 (January 1906), 161-79 (with 5 others)<BB>

1881 February 28

Henry Sotheran, No. CC. New Series. February 28, 1881. A Catalogue of Second-Hand Books ... (London, 1881) <University of California (Berkeley, 1882)>

227 Gay, Fables (1793), £2.10.0

266 Hayley, Romney (1809), 16s

1881 March 31

Henry Sotheran, No. CCI. New Series. March 31, 1881 A Catalogue of Second-Hand Books ... (London, 1881) <University of California>

3 Æsop and Gay's Fables (1793), 4 vols., "new Calf extra, very fine uniform set, £7.7s"

52 Hayley, Triumphs of Temper, 12th edition (1803), "very scarce", £1.4.0

215 Gay, Fables, 2 vols. in 1, £2.5.0

735 Walton and Cotton, Complete Angler, ed. John Major (1835), "with 15 copper plates and 76 wood engravings, from drawings by P. Chantrey, W. Blake, Esq.,<sup>790</sup> J. Linnell, A. Cooper, etc.", 16s

1881 April 30

Henry Sotheran & Co., No. CCII. New Series. April 30, 1881 A Catalogue of Superior Second-Hand Books ... (London, 1881) <Bodley>

---

<sup>790</sup> William Blake, the poet-artist-engraver, is not known to have any connection with the Complete Angler, and he was not normally referred to as "Esq.".

291 Flaxman, Iliad and Odyssey (1795-1805), £3.10.0

1881 May 27

Henry Sotheran & Co., No. CCII. New Series. May 27, 1881
A Catalogue of Superior Second-Hand Books ... (London, 1881) <University of California>

508 Hayley, Romney (1809), Large Paper, £2.10.0

On p. 32 is an advertisement of "Works by William Blake ... Reproduced in Facsimile ... ONE VOLUME, half bound in morocco, uncut, £5.5s", containing Songs of Innocence and of Experience, "55 leaves", The Book of Thel, "8 leaves", Visions of the Daughters of Albion, "11 leaves", America, "18 leaves", Europe, "17 leaves", First Book of Urizen, "26 leaves", and Song of Los, "8 leaves"<sup>791</sup>

1881 June 28

Henry Sotheran & Co., No. CCII. New Series. June 28, 1881
A Catalogue of Superior Second-Hand Books ... (London, 1881) <University of California>

106 Young, Night Thoughts (1797), "43 engravings by W. Blake after his own marvellous and sublime Designs ... LARGE PAPER, bds. uncut, VERY SCARCE", £7.10.0

237 Flaxman, "Homer, Æschylus, and Hesiod" (1805-31), £5.5.0

1881 July 25

Henry Sotheran & Co., No. CCIV. New Series. July 25,

---

<sup>791</sup> A similar advertisement appears on subsequent Sotheran catalogues; that in the 1881 catalogue dates the work "1876".

- 1881 A Catalogue of Superior Second-Hand Books ...
 (London, 1881) <University of California>
     251 Gay, Fables (Stockdale, 1793), £2.10.0
     495 Ritson, ed., Collection of English Songs (1793),
        £1.1.0

1881 August 25

- Henry Sotheran & Co., No. CCVI. New Series. August 25, 1881 A Catalogue of Superior Second-Hand Books ...
 (London, 1881) <University of California>
     334 Gay, Fables (Stockdale, 1793), £2.15.0
     455 Lavater, Essays on Physiognomy (1789-98),
        £8.10.0
     734 Stedman, Surinam (1806), £2.10.0

1881 September 30

- Henry Sotheran & Co., No. CCVII. New Series. September
 30, 1881 A Catalogue of Superior Second-Hand Books ...
 (London, 1881) <University of California>
     85 Blair, The Grave (1808), £2.5.0
     612 Stedman, Surinam (1806), £1.10.0

1881 October 28

- Henry Sotheran & Co., No. CCVIII. New Series. October
 28, 1881 A Catalogue of Superior Second-Hand Books ...
 (London, 1881) <University of California>
     122 Blair, The Grave ["1818" (i.e., 1808?)], "A subscriber's copy", £3.3.0
     384 Gay, Fables (1793), "BRILLIANT IMPRESSIONS",
        £2.8.0

1881 December 28

Henry Sotheran & Co., No. CCX. New Series. December 28, 1881 A Catalogue of Superior Second-Hand Books ... (London, 1881) <University of California>

729 Scott, John, Poetical Works (1782), 16s

1881 November 30

Henry Sotheran & Co., No. CCVIII. New Series. November 30, 1881 A Catalogue of Superior Second-Hand Books ... (London, 1881) <University of California>

527 Hogarth, Works, restored by James Heath (Baldwin, 1822), 119 pl., £16.16.0

742 "BLAKE, THE BOOK OF THEL [J], 8 engraved pages, 1789--VISIONS of the DAUGHTERS of ALBION [G], 11 engraved pages, 1793--2 vols. 4to. in one, exquisitely finished in colours by BLAKE HIMSELF, very fine copy, olive morocco extra, gilt edges, by Hering, EXTREMELY RARE, £105. 1789-93"

1881

Henry Sotheran & Co., A Catalogue of Second-Hand Books on the Fine Arts, Embracing Picture Galleries and Other Books of Prints, Sceneries, Portraits, Illustrated Works, Drawings, Treatises on Painting and Engraving, Histories of Art, Lives of Painters, Architecture, Engineering, Etc. (London, 1881)<sup>792</sup> <University of California>

---

<sup>792</sup> The discovery of the 1881 Sotheran catalogue on-line was made by my friend Bob Essick.

- 82 "BLAKE, THE BOOK OF THEL [G], 8 engraved pages, 1789--VISION[s] of the DAUGHTERS of ALBION [J], 11 engraved pages, 1793--2 vols. 4to in One EXQUISTELY FINISHED IN COLOURS BY BLAKEHIMSELF, very fine copy, olive morocco extra, gilt edges, by Hering, EXTREMELY RARE, £105 1789-93" Long quotation from Swinburne.
- 83 "BLAKE'S (William), ILLUSTRATIONS to BLAIR'S GRAVE, with the Poem, 12 fine engravings, with port. by Schiavonetti, impl. 4to. boards, uncut, £3.3s 1818" [i.e., 1813?]
- 326 Flaxman, Homer, Æschylus, and Hesiod (1805-31), 4 vols., £5.5.0
- 461 Hogarth, Original Works (1795), "A REMARKABLY FINE, EARLY COPY; WITH W. BLAKE'S GRAND PLATE", £31.10.0
- 823 Hayley, Romney (1809), £3.10.0

1883 August 10

Bernard Quaritch, No. 350 Catalogue of Some More Works on the Fine Arts, Painting, Sculpture, Architecture, Miniatures, and Fine Specimens of Bookbinding Chiefly Obtained from Private Sources (10 August 1883) <Bodley>

- 13,842 Blake Drawings, "the Butts collection", 26 paintings, 3 vols. (2 folio, 1 royal octavo), "red morocco extra, with flaps like portfolios", £1,200
It consists of
Comus, 8 designs "mounted to the size of 11 in. by 8½ in" <Butlin #528>
Paradise Lost, 9 designs "mounted to the size of 28 in. by 20 in." <#536 3-9, 11-12>

- Biblical designs, "mounted to the size of 22 in. by 17½ in.", viz.
 "Famine" <#196>
 "Plague" <#193>
 "Pestilence" <#442>
 "Moses and the Bronze Serpent" <#447>
 "Golia[t]h and David meeting" <#457>
 "The King of Babylon moving to Hell" <#467>
 "The Whirlwind, Ezekiel's Vision" <#468>
 "The Woman caught in Adultery" <#486>
 "Abraham about to sacrifice Isaac" <#109> with, around the margins, heads of [various] <#84>
 13,843 40 sketches from "the Tatham collection", "in pencil or chalk (two or three of them washed in colours) with MS. inscriptions by Frederic[k] Tatham; mounted on 23 leaves of cardboard, and enclosed in a portfolio, hf. red morocco" <#79, 81, 96-97, 103, 150, 177, 205, 211, 218, 228, 339, 369-73, 592, 598-99, 622, 643, 678, 756, 759, 788-89, 792-96, 816, 819, 824, 830-32, 834, R10> plus Mrs Blake, "a Face in the Fire" <#C2> and 4 Wedgwood proofs, £36
 13,844 "Joseph of Arimathea Among the Rocks of Albion" [L], (1773), "this is one of the Gothick Artists ...", 10" x 5 ½", £4
 13,845 Thel [J] and Visions [G] bound together, coloured, "olive morocco extra, gilt edges, by Hering", £85, "fetched, 1881, [a]t Christie's £85 and was priced

- by the dealer who bought it at £105”
- 13,846 “Canterbury Pilgrims”, £7.10.0
- 13,847 45 engravings “from the Flaxman collection”, “including some early pieces of 1800 [perhaps Hayley's Little Tom the Sailor(1800) or his Essay on Sculpture(1800)], the Portraits of Mr and Mrs William Cowper” [presumably Blake’s engravings for Hayley’s Cowper (1803), frontispiece of Cowper after Romney in Vol. I or the frontispiece after Lawrence in Vol. II, plus “M<sup>rs</sup> COWPER | Mother of the Poet” in Vol. I, at p. 4]<sup>793</sup> £3.16.0

1883 October

Catalogue of Works on the Fine Arts ... On Sale by Bernard Quaritch October 1883<Harvard>

- 10,249 Three drawings for Songs: “Introduction” to Innocence, “The Shepherd”, frontispiece to Innocence, and “An ideal Hell” <#217>, “From the Collection of a friend of Blake’s”, £10<sup>794</sup>
- 10,250 Songs [U] from the Beckford Collection, £170
- 10,251 America [R], £36
- 10,252 The manuscript of Cunningham’s Life of Blake with 103 engravings, with a manuscript index to the Songs [see “The Order” of the Songs], £80
- 10,253 Young’s Night Thoughts (1797), £12
- 10,254 Blair, The Grave (1808), £5.5.0
- 10,255 Dante proofs with “2 portraits of Dante and MS.

---

<sup>793</sup> The other prints might have included some from Flaxman’s Naval Pillar (1799), 3 pl., Homer, Iliad (1805), 3 pl., and Hesiod (1817), 37 pl.

<sup>794</sup> These drawings were also listed in Quaritch’s Catalogue of Works on European Philology and the Minor European Languages(1879), at £10.

- descriptions added", £10.10.0 [I have no other record of this]
- 10,256 Job (1825), £16.16.0
- 10,257 Works (1876), £4.4.0
- 10,258 "A Collection of [11] Books illustrated with Blake's plates", £28
- 10,259 Gilchrist (1880) £1.15.0
- 12,295 Descriptive Catalogue [F], "green morocco extra, from Beckford's Library, £10.10s."
- 13,842 Drawings from the Butts collection, Comus, Paradise Lost, the Bible, £1,200
- 13,843 Tatham collection, 40 drawings on 23 leaves, £36
- 13,844 "Joseph of Arimathea" [L], £4
- 13,845 Thel [J] bound with Visions [G], £85
- 13,846 "Chaucer's Canterbury Pilgrims" (1810), 37 x 22", £7.10.0
- 13,847 45 engravings "from the Flaxman collection", £3.16.0
- 13,848 Gilchrist (1880) £1.15.0.

1885 January 19-20

Sotheby, Wilkinson and Hodge, Catalogue of the Library of the Late Alfred Aspland, Esq. Of St. Helen's Field, Dukinfield, Cheshire; Comprising Choice Books of Prints; Works Illustrated by Bewick, Blake, H.K. Browne, and Other Artists ... (London, 1885)

First Day

- 2 "BLAKE. Thornton (R.J.) Pastorals of Virgil. 2 vol.

- numerous engravings by W. BLAKE, Bewick and others; calf extra, g.e. RARE*" [£2.16.0, to Johnson J]
- 46 "BLAKE. [Salzmann] Gymnastics for Youth, front. and several finely engraved copper plates by W. Blake, half crimson morocco" 1800 [13s to Ridmer(?)]
- 74 "BLAKE. Hayley (W.) Ballads, ... fine impressions, half calf" (1803) [£1.11.0 to Ellis]
- 102 "BLAKE. Salzmann (C.G.) Elements of Morality for the use of Children, vol. I and II, with 32 copperplates engraved by W. Blake, from the designs of Chodowiecki, in the original sheep 1792" [£2.1.0 to Cur ... (illeg)]
- 107 "BLAKE. Hayley (W.) Triumphs of Temper ... calf 1803" [10s to Ellis]
- 309 "BLAKE. (W.) SONGS OF EXPERIENCE [Songs (K)], 24 plates (numbered 30-53) inlaid on folio size cardboards, with guards, half morocco, g.e. The Author and Printer, W. Blake, 1794" [£7.10.0 to Suarez]
- 573 "BLAKE." Young, Night Thoughts, "ORIGINAL IMPRESSIONS of the fine designs by W. Blake, surrounding the letterpress, half morocco", uncut (1797) [£7.15.0 to Ridler(?)]
- 574 Blair, The Grave (1808), "russia gilt, g.e." [£2.18.0 to Juarvis(?)]
- 575 "Facsimile of a Portion of a Work entitled 'The Ghost of Abel: a Revelation in the Visions of Jehovah, seen by William Blake,' [D] 2 leaves

(1822)<sup>795</sup>—'On Homer's Poetry,' [D] 1 leaf—A small engraving 'Does thy God O Priest take such vengeance as this?' (1793) [For the Sexes: The Gates of Paradise pl. 14], and a portrait of Mr. Wright of Derby [Monthly Magazine (October 1797)]; in a volume, with leaves [sic] half crimson morocco [£1.16.0 to Pearson J]

1885 November

Bernard Quaritch, Rough List, No. 73. A Rough List of Valuable and Rare Books, Including Choice portions of Libraries lately dispersed; and many very Cheap Works of every class of Literature (London, November 1885) <Huntington>

WILLIAM BLAKE'S Works, from the Tatham Collection:

- 50 "Five Pencil Sketches by W. Blake <Butlin #239, 539, 606, 619, 771>, vouched by Fred. Tatham, quarto (?1820) [£]2.2.0"
- 51 "BOOK OF THEL [A], 8 leaves, 1789--FIRST BOOK OF URIZEN [F], 26 leaves, excessively rare, unknown to Lowndes, Lambeth, 1794--MARRIAGE OF HEAVEN AND HELL [A], 27 pages, 1800, Coloured Texts, with beautiful Designs by W. Blake, half calf, EXTREMELY RARE--in 1 vol. 4to. from the Beckford library, Hamilton Palace

---

<sup>795</sup> There is no known 19th-century facsimile of The Ghost of Abel; Pearson, who bought it, must have recognized it as an original, as he offered this lot in his Catalogue 58 at £12.12.0.

[£]150.0.0"

- 52 "SONGSO F INNOCENCEAND EXPERIENCE [DD], 12mo. calf gilt The Author and Printer, W. Blake, 1789-94 [£]31.10.0 "COLLATION; Songs of Innocence, 1789: Plate 1 (frontispiece [pl. 2]), plate 2 (title [pl. 3]), plates numbered<sup>796</sup> 3-28 (no 29<sup>797</sup>) and plate 30--Songs of Experience, 1794, the plates numbered on 31-53.

"On comparing this copy<sup>798</sup> with that from Hamilton Palace [U] (priced £170), it appears to want the general title [pl. 1] and the plate 'The Sick Rose. [pl. 39]'<sup>799</sup> Plain copies are scarcer than those issued in a coloured state."

- 53 "NINE separate Plates of the above, PROOFS before the numbers, printed in tints, small 4to. vouched by Fred. Tatham (?1820) [£]5.0.0"

"Introduction [pl. 30], London [pl. 46], the Gardner's Love ["The Garden of Love", pl. 44], the Fly [pl. 40], the Little Vagabond [pl. 45], Spring [pl. 22], Infant Sorrow [pl. 48], two states; an Angel carried on the head of a girl [pl. 28,

---

<sup>796</sup> The fact that the plates are numbered indicates that is not a posthumous copy.

<sup>797</sup> The loose copy of pl. 28 (printed in black, 12.3 x 16.2 cm, coloured) is numbered "29". If this pl. 28 (formerly in the collection of Sir Anthony Blunt) is a disjecta membrum from the newly recorded copy, the rest of the new copy may have been 12.3 x 16.2 cm, printed in black.

<sup>798</sup> "this copy" has 50 plates, lacking pl. 1, 39, a plate in Innocence numbered 29, and another plate.

<sup>799</sup> "The Sick Rose", which is missing, must have been numbered "54". No extant copy of the Songs has pl. 39 as the last leaf.

- Experience* frontispiece]."<sup>800</sup>
- 54 "ILLUSTRATIONS of the Book of JOB", 1825, "hf. bd." £13.13.0
- 55 "EARLY Proof Impressions of 'Job,' plates [numbered] 1, 2, 3, 6, 7, 8, 11, 14, 16, 17, 19, 20, 21--in all 13 plates (of 21), excessively rare 1825", £10.0.0<sup>801</sup>
- 56 Blair, The Grave (1813), "hf. bd. russia", £2.10.0
- 57 Jerusalem, "imp[eria]l. 4to. hf. morocco ... (Pearson's reprint)", £2.10.0

1885 December

Bernard Quaritch, No. 74. A Rough List of Valuable and Rare Books, including The choicest portion of the stock of Mr. Fred. S. Ellis, Bookseller, of Bond Street, retired from business on account of ill-health; and many very cheap works of every class of Literature (London, 1885) <Huntington> 170 Job (1825), "calf neat", £12.

1887

Bernard Quaritch, A General Catalogue of Books Vol. V (London, 1887) <Huntington>

29489 America [R] (1793), "printed in a bluish tint, original impression, hf. morocco, gilt edges", £42

---

<sup>800</sup> There is no other record of Tatham's pl. 22, 28,30, 40, 44-46, 48 (two states).

<sup>801</sup> There is no other record of these 13 "EARLY Proof Impressions" of Job.

1888 August

Bernard Quaritch, No. 91 Choice Portions Selected from Various Old Libraries, including that of the Earl of Hardwicke, formed during the last century by Lord Chancellor Hardwicke, removed from Wimpole Hall, Herts, of the late Right Hon. A.J.B. Beresford-Hope, LL.D., F.R.G.S., F.R.S.L, F.S.A., F.S.S., Etc, removed from Arklow House; The late Edward Breese, Esq. F.S.A., of Morva Lodge, Portmadoc, Wales; also many Books of general interest from other sources, transferred to 15 Piccadilly (London, 1888)
 <Huntington>

- 255 "A Large Water-colour Drawing representing the Incantation-scene in 'Macbeth,' in a gilt frame, 14 inches by 12 About 1800", £3.12.0; "A hideous picture of three hideous women engaged in a hideous operation. Its genuineness is guaranteed by Mr. Muir the Blake-amateur and facsimilist, whose signature, as having catalogued the drawing, is written on the back of the frame." [Not in Butlin]
- 256 "The HOSTS OF HEAVENAND HELL mustering for battle" [not in Butlin], "painted on paper by William Blake; covered with glass and protected by a frame ... About 1800", £4.4.0; "One of the most characteristic drawings of the artist. The conception is grand and strange. Above the sun, the champions of Heaven advance in golden light, some of the foremost figures looming mistily across the sun's disk; while from below the earth and the moon, the dark warriors of hell, crowd upwards to attack the new planet, clothed in lurid

- raiment of deep blue or black or other sombre tints, touched with gleams of red."
- 257 Blair, The Grave, including a set only on laid india paper
- 258 Young, Night Thoughts (1797), "with 42 [not 43] large illustrations", "hf. morocco, uncut", £5.0.0
- 259 "the same", "in dark morocco extra, gilt top, uncut, by Holloway",<sup>802</sup> £6.10.0
- 260 Blair, The Grave ("1808-13"), "hf. bd. russia", £2.0.0
- 261 "A set of the plates, royal folio, the portrait and 12 plates on INDIA PAPER, a little stained in one corner of the margins, bds., uncut" ("1808-13"), £4.0.0
- 262 Job (1826), "INDIA PROOFS, bds. rare" £18.18.0

1888 December 3-4

Sotheby, Wilkinson and Hodge, Catalogue of an important and very interesting collection of Autograph Letters And Historical Documents, the Property of Various Private Collectors, comprising Autograph Letters, &c. Of T. Bewick, William Blake ..., a very interesting series of autograph letters and portraits relating to Wesleyism, Interesting Letters by Lord Strafford, And a Valuable Autograph Manuscript of E.A. Poe (London, 1888) <British Library>

13 "BLAKE (William) ... b. 1787 ... A.L. s [autograph

---

<sup>802</sup> Samuel Holloway, fl. 1769-1819 (Ellic Howe, A List of London Bookbinders 1648-1815 (London: The Bibliographical Society, 1950), 48).

letter, signed] 1 p. 8vo, 'I have sent all the sketches of this subject that I ever have produced. The others of the Presentation<sup>803</sup> I have studied, but not yet put on paper. You shall have that in a shorter time than I have taken about this, as I have nearly got rid of engraving, and feel myself perfectly happy. I am full of business thank God, and you and Mr. Flaxman.'" [£3 to Moreton]<sup>804</sup>

1890 April 23-May 1

Sotheby, Catalogue of a Portion of the Important Library of Thomas Gaisford, Esq., 23 April-1 May 1890

The Thomas Gaisford, whose bookplate is in America (B), Thel (C), Europe (E), Urizen(C), Poetical Sketches (N), Innocence (H), Songs (M), Visions (I), and Young's Night Thoughts (1797) (coloured copy G) is not the Greek scholar (1779-1855), as in the BB index, but his son with the same name (b. 1816).<sup>805</sup>

1891 February 7-March 15

[Boston] Museum of Fine Arts Print Department
Exhibition of Books, Water Colors, Engravings, Etc. by William Blake (1891) <BB>

---

<sup>803</sup> "The Presentation in the Temple: 'Simeon was not to see Death before he had seen the Christ'" <Butlin #470, 1803-5>, owned by Butts. The letter may have been addressed to Butts in the autumn of 1800.

<sup>804</sup> The only other evidence of this letter is the paraphrase of this passage in the Sotheby catalogue of H.V. Morten (5 May 1890), lot 22.

<sup>805</sup> Joseph Viscomi, "Two Fake Blakes Revisited; One Dew-Smith Revealed", p. 70 in Blake in Our Time, ed. Karen Mulhallen (Toronto, Buffalo, London: University of Toronto Press, 2010).

REVIEWS

Anon., "Boston Letter", Critic, XVIII (14 February 1891), 85 ("admirable") <BB #900>

[Archibald G.B. Russell], "The Visionary Art of William Blake", Edinburgh Review, CCIII, 415 (January 1906), 161-79 (with 5 others) <BB>

1891 October 25

Bernard Quaritch, No. 117 A Rough List of Recent Purchases and Announcements of New Publications (London, 1891) <Huntington>

36 Job (1825), "engraved title and 24<sup>806</sup> plates, INDIA PROOFS, calf neat", "In an oilcloth case", £24.0.0

1891

Bernard Quaritch, No. 61. Bernard Quaritch's Miscellaneous Catalogue of Rare Old Books and Valuable Modern Works, at reduced prices (London, 1891 [the first page is headed "No. 62<sup>1</sup> December, 1890"] <Huntington>

There are no lot-numbers

Milton (1804) [C], "45 leaves engraved, illustrated, and coloured by the hand of William Blake; calf neat", "The best impression .... Mr. Muir, who has handled all three copies, and reproduced the Museum example, gives his decided preference to mine as superior to both the others", £180

---

<sup>806</sup> Presumably a misprint for "21".

"Blake's Works, Muir's Facsimiles", including "THE STORY [i.e., Song] OF LOS", "25 copies", and a review of his Europe in The Athenaeum, 31 March 1888

1892 end of March

Bernard Quaritch, No. 122 A Rough List of Recent Purchases and Announcements of New Publications (London, 1892) <Huntington>

There are no lot-numbers.

Milton [C] [description as in Quaritch catalogue
No. 61, 1891]

"Blake's Works, Muir's Facsimiles"

1892

Catalogue of an Exhibition of Drawings & Sketches by Turner, Gainsborough, Blake, And other contemporary English Masters. (N.Y.: Frederick Keppel and Co., 1892) 4° height, 12° width

The forty Blake drawings (No. 74-124) lent by Charles E. West, Esq., LL.D., of Brooklyn, had previously been exhibited at the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston (1891); they do not appear in Butlin, perhaps because they were thought to be Camden Hotten reproductions.

1893 June

Bernard Quaritch, No. 62, Bernard Quaritch's Miscellaneous Catalogue of Rare Old Books and Valuable Modern Works, at Reduced Prices (London, 1893) <Huntington>

There are no lot-numbers.

"Various Works of William Blake"

"A SUPERBEARLY SCRIPTURAL DRAWING: A Patriarch with white flowing beard in the centre, receiving five angelic figures, four lovely women on his right, two naked youths, one with a pandean pipe, looking on", 24 x 18", "All the figures executed in Blake's boldest style in colours", £10
 "NUNC DIMITTIS", "Simeon prophesying over the infant Christ" ... <Butlin #470: "The Presentation in the Temple: 'Simeon was not to see Death before he had seen the Christ'">, "water-colour drawing", 13½ x 12½", "mounted in gold and framed", £25

"St Matthew", <#396>, tempera, 15 x 10",
"mounted in gold and framed", £36

"THE BLIND TIRIEL Departing from Har and Heva" <#198 6>, "sketch in indian ink (7½ in. by 10¾), gilt frame", £16.16.0

"A YOUNG MAN kneeling between two crouching figures" <#863>, "pencil drawing, signed W.B. (7 in. by 13)", £2.2.0

Songs of Innocence and of Experience [U] "(1789-94)", "coloured, and gilt by the Author, green morocco super extra, gilt edges, by C. Lewis, extremely rare, from the Beckford Library, Hamilton Palace ... Pages 1-54, title included", £170

Marriage of Heaven and Hell [E], "n.d. (1800)",
 "4to. 27 unnumbered leaves, ... coloured by Blake,
 hf. bd. uncut", £63

"THE BOOK OF THE LAMB [J], 8 leaves, 1789--VISIONS
 OF THE DAUGHTER[S] OF ALBION [G], 11 leaves, 1793--2 vols. in 1, sm. folio ... coloured by the hand of the Artist himself, ... olive morocco extra, gilt edges, by Hering", £85 "This volume fetched, [1 April] 1881, at Christie's, £85, and was priced by the dealer who bought it £105"

Milton [C], "large 8vo. 45 leaves ... coloured by the hand of William Blake; calf neat", [description as in Quaritch catalogue 61, 1891], £160

"Joseph of Arimathea Among the Rocks of Albion" [D?] (1773), "10 in. by 5½ in.", quotes inscription, £2.2.0

Young, Night Thoughts (1797) "with 42 large illustrations [as in Quaritch catalogue (August 1888)] ... green morocco extra, gilt top, uncut",
 £12

Blair, The Grave, "1808-13", "royal 4to ... hf. calf", £2.16.0

"the same, folio, LARGE PAPER, proofs, green morocco by Bedford", £6.6.0

Job (1825), "INDIA PROOFS, bds.", £15.15.0

"another copy, India Proofs, very early impressions; calf neat, in a case", £20

"the same, French Paper ... bds", £12.12.0

"the same ... on India Paper", £8.8.0

Dante engravings, "INDIA PROOFS", £10.10.0

"Catalogue of his Pictures" [Descriptive Catalogue]

- (L)](1809), "green morocco, g.e.", £10.10.0
 "A Collection of Books illustrated with Blake's Plates, or with designs engraved by him", "17 vols.
calf or bds", £15,
 consisting of
 [1] Salzmann, Elements of Morality (1792), "hf. calf"
 [2] Salzmann, Gymnastics for Youth (1800)
 [3] Campe, Elementary Dialogues for Youth,
 "translated, 12mo. 16 plates" (1791)<sup>807</sup>
 [4] Allen, Roman History [no date given]
 [5] Enfield, The Speaker (1799)
 [6] Hayley, Triumphs of Temper (1803), Large
 Paper
 [7] E. Baldwin [William Godwin], Fables, Ancient and Modern (1805), "2 vols. 12mo. 73 plates printed on the text"
 [8] Chaucer, "Prologue and Characters from the Canterbury Tales" (1812)
 [9] Virgil, Pastorals, ed. R.J. Thornton (1821)
 [10] Mrs [Sarah] Trimmer, "Scripture Lessons, illustrated by a Series of (64) Prints" (1816-17), 2 vols., 24mo.
 [11] "SHAKESPEARE'S Tales, by C. Lamb, 2 vols.
 12mo., 20 plates"

---

<sup>807</sup> There is no known connection between Blake and Campe, Baldwin, and Sarah Trimmer, Series of Prints from the Old Testament, Designed to Accompany a Book Intituled Scripture Lessons (1797 ff.).

"Mr. William Muir's Facsimiles of the Works of Wm. Blake"

1893 October

Bernard Quaritch, No. 136 A Rough List of Antiquarian Books and Manuscripts chiefly relating to Great Britain and Ireland, from the Libraries of the late W. Bateman, Esq., and T. Bateman, Esq., of Youlgrave, Co. Derby; from the famous Auchinleck Collection of the Boswell family, rich in rare works on Scotland; from the Library of the late Sir Thomas Phillipps, of Middle Hill, Worcestershire, and Thirlstane House, Glouc., comprising Manuscripts; and from various private sources (London, 1893) <Huntington>

153 Job (1825), "proofs on French paper, calf extra, gilt edges", £10.10.0

1893 November

Bernard Quaritch, A Miscellaneous Catalogue of Valuable, Rare, and Curious Books, Books of Prints, Works of Natural History, Science and Art, etc. (London, 1893) <Huntington>

There are no lot-numbers.

"A Patriarch with white flowing beard in the centre, receiving five angelic figures, four lovely women on his right side, two naked youths, one with a pandean pipe, looking on <Butlin #470:

"The Presentation in the Temple: 'Simeon was not to see Death before he had seen the Christ'", ... 24 inches by 18 ... All the figures executed in Blake's boldest style in colours", £10

"The Blind Tiriel Departing [f]rom Har and Heva <#187 6>, sketch in Indian ink (7½ in. by 10¾).

gilt frame", £16.16.0

"A Young Man Kneeling between two crouching figures <#863>, pencil drawing, signed W.B. (7 in. by 13)", £2.2.0

Songs of Innocence and of Experience [U] (1789-94), "coloured, and gilt by the Author, green morocco super extra. gilt edges, by C. Lewis ... from the Beckford Library, Hamilton Palace", "Pages 1-54, title included", £170.0.0 Marriage of Heaven and Hell [E], ("n.d. (1800)"), "4to. 27 unnumbered leaves ... coloured by Blake, hf. bd. uncut", £63

The Book of Thel [J] (1789), "8 leaves", Visions of the Daughters of Albion [G] (1793), "11 leaves, ... 2 vols. in 1. sm. folio ... beautifully coloured by the hand of the artist himself, ... olive morocco extra, gilt edges, by Hering", £85

"Joseph of Arimathea among the Rocks of Albion" [?D] ("1773"), uncoloured, "10 in. by 5½ in.", £2.2.0

Young, Night Thoughts (1797), "in green morocco extra, gilt top. uncut", £12.0.0

Blair, The Grave, £2.16.0

Job, £15.15.0

"another copy, calf neat"

"another copy ... hf. bd. green morocco, uncut", £11.0.0

"the same, French Paper", £12.12.0

"the same"

Dante, "INDIA PROOFS", £10.10.0

1893

Royal Academy Winter Exhibition Twenty-Fourth Year Exhibition of Works by The Old Masters, and by Deceased Masters of the British School; including a Collection of Water Colour Drawings, &c., by William Blake, Edward Calvert, Samuel Palmer, and Louise, Marchioness of Waterford (1893) <BB>

REVIEW

Alfred T. Story., "The Royal Academy Old Masters Exhibition: William Blake and His Disciples", Art Journal, [XLV] (1893), 43-44 <BB #2770>

1895 July

Bernard Quaritch, No. 152 A Rough List of Choice and Valuable Books, including selections from the libraries of The Right Hon. the Earl of Orford, the late M. Hippolyte Destailleur, the famous Architect and Bibliophile; the late J. Gray, Esq., of Esher, Surrey; and other Old Libraries recently dispersed (London, 1895) <Huntington>

359 Hogarth, The Beggar's Opera, "'When my hero in Court appears' ... Hogarth-Blake" (1790), "fine bright impression", 7s

1896 June

Bernard Quaritch, No. 160 A Catalogue of Choice and Valuable Books, including selections from Several Private Libraries, including those of The Right Honorable Lord

Coleridge, Lord Chief Justice of England; of Adrian Hope, Esq., of Chesterfield Gardens, Mayfair, W.; of John Tudor Frere, Esq., of Roydon Hall, Norfolk (London, 1896)
<Huntington>

- 343 Blair, The Grave (1808), "SUBSCRIBER'S COPY", "At the end is bound up the Prospectus of Stothard's Canterbury Pilgrims", "half green morocco extra, gilt top", UNCUT", £5.5.0

1897 March

Bernard Quaritch, No. 168 A Catalogue of Choice and Valuable Books, comprehending selections from The Libraries of the late Charles Roach Smith, the late Joseph Clarke, Esq., F.S.A., and Other Eminent Antiquaries (London, 1897)
<Huntington>

- 151 Dante engravings "(circa 1824)", £10.10.0

1897 April 29

§Christie, Manson and Woods. Catalogue of a Choice Collection of Engraved Portraits of Sir Joshua Reynolds, the Property of the Late George Richmond, R.A., and Engravings after his Works; and Drawings by James Barry, R.A., William Blake, T. Gainsborough, R.A., S. Palmer and Others. (London, 1897) 14 pp.

- 120 "Head of William Blake" by George Richmond.
147 Blake drawings <Butlin #77, 178, 200, 220, 368, 465, 516, 587-88, 798, 826, R6-9> 148 "William Blake: Allegorical figures" (with a work by Cristall)

160 "A set of Blake's wood engravings for Virgil"

1897 April

Bernard Quaritch, No. 169 A Catalogue of Books chiefly relating to the History of European States to which are added some Recent Purchases (London, 1897) <Huntington>

837 Blair, The Grave (1808), "hf. morocco", £5.0.0

838 "the same, Large Paper" "with portrait of Blake on India paper, and 12 plates in proof-state, hf. calf", £5.10.0

1898 March

Bernard Quaritch, No. 178: A Catalogue of Choice and Valuable Books including Transactions of Learned Societies and Selections from Several Private Libraries (London, 1898) <Huntington>

Without lot-numbers.

Various Works of William Blake

The Book of Thel [J], 8 leaves (1789) bound with Visions of the Daughters of Albion [G], 11 leaves, "2 vols. in 1, sm. folio ... beautifully coloured by the hand of the Artist himself ... olive morocco extra, gilt edges by Hering", £85

Young, Night Thoughts (1797), "with 42 large illustrations ... green morocco extra, gilt top, uncut", £10.10.0"

Blair, The Grave ("1808-13"), "half blue morocco extra, gilt edges", £5.0.0

Job (1825), "INDIA PROOFS, bds", £15.15.0

"the same ... FRENCH PROOF, red mor. extra" £12.12.0

"the same ... the 21 [not 22] prints on India Paper", £8.8.0

Dante engravings ("?1826"), £10.10.0

"Catalogue of his Pictures painted in Water Colours and Drawings" [A Descriptive Catalogue (F)], (1809), "green morocco, g.e", £10.10.0

1898 June 1

A Catalogue of Some of Blake's Pictures at "The Salterns," Parkstone. ([Parkstone, Dorset, 1 June 1898])

The catalogue of 35 pictures (34 by Blake<sup>808</sup>) belonging to Captain Frederick John Butts, the grandson of Blake's patron Thomas Butts, was almost certainly made for the visit to his home called The Salterns on 1 June 1898 by the Dorset Natural History and Antiquarian Field Club.

The catalogue cites "Rossetti's Book on BLAKE", i.e., William Michael Rossetti's "Annotated Lists of Blake's Paintings, Drawings, [Writings] and Engravings" in Alexander Gilchrist, Life of William Blake, "Pictor Ignotus" (1863), II, 199-264 (the references correspond to the 1863 edition, not to that of 1880).

The only known copy of the catalogue is among the Mary Butts papers, Beinecke Library, Yale University; the cover is reproduced and the contents transcribed in Mary Lynn Johnson, "'Catalogue of Some of Blake's Pictures at 'The Salterns': Captain Butts as Exhibitor, Litigator, and Co-Heir (With His Sister Blanche)", University of Toronto Quarterly, LXXX, 4 (Fall 2011), 905, 914-15. Dr Johnson is the source of all the information here.

---

<sup>808</sup> Butlin, No. 194, 289, 294, 297, 301, 306, 310, 316, 320, 323, 434, 436, 440, 450, 452, 455-6, 459, 461, 464, 469, 483, 493, 497-9, 503, 505, 509, 511-12, 515, 525, 675.

1899 July

Bernard Quaritch, No. 190: A Catalogue of Superbly Illuminated and Decorated Mediaval Manuscripts Rare and Valuable Books relating to the Fine Arts Sports and General Literature (London, 1899) <Huntington>

- 165 Book of Thel [C] (1789), "7 engraved pages ... COLOURED BY BLAKE, UNCUT, in paper cover, preserved in a morocco case, by Rivière", "IT WAS STOTHARD'S", £25
  - 166 Descriptive Catalogue [F] (1809), "green morocco extra, from the Beckford Library", £10.10.0
  - 167 Job ("Wrapper dated March, 1826"), "PROOFS", £10.10.0
  - 168 "the same ... INDIA PROOFS, bds" (1826), £12.12.0
  - 169 "the same" (1826), "re-issue, bds", £6.10.0
  - 170 Dante engravings ("1827"), "India proofs before all letters", £10.0.0
  - 171 "the same" (no date given), "Linnell's re-issue"
- "Mr. William Muir's Facsimiles of the Works of Wm. Blake"

1900 December

Bernard Quaritch, No. 203 A Catalogue of Choice and Valuable Books Comprising Works on The Fine Arts, Numismata Transactions of Learned Societies and Miscellaneous Recent Purchases (London, 1900) <Huntington>

- 193 The Song of Los (1795) [B], "Folio, title, 4 leaves of text, and 3 full-page illustrations coloured in Blake's own peculiar combination of oil and water colour" [i.e., colour-printed]; Europe [A] (1794), "title, 4 leaves of text, and 3 full-page illustrations coloured in Blake's own peculiar combination of oil and water colour"; and Visions of the Daughters of Albion [F] (1793), "frontispiece, title, and 4 leaves, coloured in water colours", "The three works in 1 volume, folio, bound in contemporary half morocco", £315.0.0
- 194 The Book of Thel [R] (1789), "4to., 1 leaf, entitled Thel's Motto, title and six leaves coloured by William Blake in water colours, in the original paper wrapper, uncut", £63

1900 March 1

§Bernard Quaritch, Catalogue 197. Catalogue of the Literature and History of the British Islands Part V (London, 1900) <Huntington>

- 3,651 Songs of Innocence [J], frontispiece, title page, and 10 ll., £20
- 3,659 Descriptive Catalogue [F], in green morocco,

"from the Beckford Library", £10

1901 November 4

Sotheby, Wilkins and Hodge. Catalogue of a Small but Valuable Collection: Choice Books and Autographs Forming a Portion of the Library of the Late Mr. F.S. Ellis, including Wm. Blake's Songs of Innocence and [of] Experience ... (London, 1901) 15 pp.

5 Songs [Y] [£700 to Jackson].

REVIEWS

Anon., "Big Price for a Book", Times [London], 4 November 1901 (the Calvert-F.S. Ellis Songs was sold for £700 to A. Jackson) <BB #A841, date altered>

Anon., "£700 for Blake's Poems | 'Songs of Innocence' and 'Songs of Experience' Sold Together at Auction in London", New York Times, 5 November 1901 (The sale of Songs [Y] is merely an excuse to write about the Songs)

Anon., "Blake's 'Songs of Innocence and of Experience'", New York Times, 9 November 1901 (A description of Edward Calvert's copy of the Songs which was sold for £700)

1902 July

Bernard Quaritch, No. 217 A Catalogue of Rare and Valuable Books comprising Manuscripts, books printed on vellum, Americana, English Literature, French Illustrated Books and Miscellaneous Recent Purchases being the choicest items of the Libraries formed by The late Lieut.-Col. Hibbert, formerly of the Grenadier Guards, Sir Andrew Fountaine

(temp. Q. Anne and K. George I.), Narford Hall, Norfolk, The late M. Eugène Paillet, Président de la Société des Amis des Livres and other eminent collectors (London, 1902) <Huntington>

- 130 Songs of Innocence and of Experience [I] ("1789-94"), "coloured by the author, comprising 54 leaves printed on one side of the paper only; bd. ... A flyleaf bears the signature of H.W. Phillips, the painter", £315.0.0

1902 November

Bernard Quaritch, No. 218 A Catalogue of Rare and Valuable Books comprising works on Africa, America, the Fine Arts, English History and Literature, Genealogy, Heraldry, and Topography including the original portion of the collection of the late Joseph Jackson Howard, Esq, LL.D., F.S.A., Maltravers Herald Extraordinary with a section of Important New Books (London, 1902) <Biblioteca La Solana>

- 246* Stedman, Surinam (1796), "calf gilt", £2.16.0
 261 "Satan's Triumph over Eve" <Butlin #291, "Satan Exulting over Eve", colour print>, "an original Drawing in water-colours, 21 inches by 16, varnished and framed as an oil painting", £42.0.0
 262 "My soul cleaveth to the Dust, an engraving by G.I.F. Tupper, from Blake's design from Blake's design [among the Night Thoughts watercolours]. 18½ by 14½ in. Printed for Private Distribution, 1874", 7s.6d.

1903 March 30

Sotheby, Wilkinson and Hodge *Catalogue of a Choice Selection of the Original Productions of William Blake, the Property of the Rt. Hon. The Earl of Crewe (1903) <BB>

- 1 Songs [V] [£300 to Quaritch]
- 2 Book of Thel [A] [£77 to Edwards]
- 3 America [M] [£295 to Quaritch]
- 4 Visions of the Daughters of Albion [M] [£122 to Edwards]
- 5 Europe [C] [£203 to Quaritch]
- 6 The First Book of Urizen [G] [£307 to Quaritch]
- 7 The Book of Ahania [A] [£103 to Quaritch]
- 8 The Ghost of Abel [A], "The Man Sweeping the Interpreter's Parlour", and On Homer [A] [£43 to Quaritch]
- 9 Song of Los [E] [£174 to Sabin]
- 10 There is No Natural Religion [B] [£53 to Quaritch]
- 11 Hayley, Designs to a Series of Ballads (1802), Ballad 1 [£12.10.0 to Sabin]
- 12 Marriage of Heaven and Hell [F] [£260 to Osmaston]
- 13 Young, Night Thoughts (1797) coloured [A] [£170 to Edwards]
- 14 Blair, The Grave (1808) [£3.15.0 to Burrow]
- 15 Jerusalem [I] [£83 to Quaritch]
- 16 Milton, L'Allegro and Il Penseroso watercolours [£1,960 to A. Jackson]
- 17 Job (1826), 22 plates on india paper plus 21 watercolours plus a portrait of the artist "in colours by himself" [£5,600 to Quaritch]

- 18 There is No Natural Religion pl. a2, Europe [K] pl. 1 and another Europe pl., Book of Ahania [Bb], pl. 1, For the Sexes pl. 3, the frontispiece to Burger, Leonora [1796], and two photographs [£10 to Tregaskis]

REVIEWS

Anon., "The Fine Blake Sale ...", New York Times, 28 March 1903 (names the Blakes to be sold at the Crewe sale)

Anon., "Big Prices for Blake Books. | 'The Book of Job,' with Original Drawings and Proof Plates, Brings £5,600 in London." New York Times, 31 March 1903 (Job "contains the forty-three original impressions of engravings and original designs in colors", sold to "a dealer"; "Another of Blake's works"<sup>809</sup> fetched £1,960, and sixteen other of his works were sold for minor prices", including watercolours for L'Allegro <Butlin #543> and Il Penseroso <#543>, Songs of Innocence, Songs of Experience [i.e., SONGS OF INNOCENCE AND OF EXPERIENCE (V)], Thel [B], Visions of the Daughters of Albion [M], America [M], Book of Urizen [G], Book of Ahania [A], Ghost of Abel [I], Song of Los [E], Marriage of Heaven and Hell [F], Young, Night Thoughts ("a specially coloured copy" [A]), "'Jerusalem,' and 'The Emanation of the Giant Albion'" [I])

---

<sup>809</sup> Watercolours for L'Allegro and Il Penseroso.

Anon., "The Crewe Collection of Blake's Works", Times [London], 31 March 1903, p. 10 (prices and buyers)

Anon., "Earl of Crewe's Blake Collection. A Sensational Total of £9,776 5s." Daily News [London], 31 March 1903 <BBS 344>

Anon., "Lord Crewe's Collection of Blake's Works", Athenaeum, No. 3928 (1903), 185 <BB #977>

1904 January 14

Hodgson sale (1904) <BB 77, 100, 103, 107, 157, 267, 362>

It included aslots 222-29 America [A] and pl. d, Song of Los [B], Visions [F] last plate [i.e., pl. 1], Europe pl. 1-2 and 3 others, "The Accusers", "John the Baptist Preaching", "Joseph of Arimathea" (F), and America [K] pl. 1.

REVIEW

Anon., "Sale of Works by William Blake", Times [London], 14 January 1904 <BB #1029>

1904 January

Carfax and Co., Ltd, Exhibition of Works by William Blake, ed. A.G.B. Russell (1904) <BB>

REVIEWS

Anon., "The Carfax Gallery. A Memorable Blake Exhibition", Daily News [London], 8 January 1904 <BB #907>

Anon., "Blake Exhibition and Sale", Athenaeum, No. 3976 (9 January 1904) <BBS 341>

Charles Kennett Burrow, "Poet, Visionary, and Artist. William Blake's Work at the Carfax Gallery",

T.P.'s Weekly, 15 January 1904 (admiring) <BB #1321>

Anon., "Exhibition of Works by William Blake", Daily Telegraph [London], 19 January 1904 <BB #935>

§B. Kirkman Gray, "Notes on a Blake Exhibition", Inquirer, February 1904; reprinted in pp. 201-5 of his A Modern Humanist: Miscellaneous Papers of B. Kirkman Gray, ed. Henry Bryan Binns (London, 1910) <BB #1732>

Anon., "Pictures by William Blake", Art Journal, LXVI (1904), 249-51 <BB #1012>

[Archibald G.B. Russell], "The Visionary Art of William Blake", Edinburgh Review, CCIII, 415 (January 1906), 161-79 (with 5 others) <BB>

1904 June

Bernard Quaritch, No. 231 A Catalogue of Rare and Valuable Works on The Fine Arts including an important collection of Early Books Illustrated with Woodcuts (London, 1904) <Huntington>

1601 Visions of the Daughters of Albion [I] (1793), "Folio, 11 leaves ... coloured by the hand of the artist himself; half morocco, gilt edges, with the bookplate of Thomas Gaisford", £90

1602 America [A] (1793), "Roy. 4to., frontispiece, engraved title, and 16 plates ... coloured by the hand of the artist himself; in portfolio", £260

1904

§A List of Choice and Rare Engravings (chronologically Arranged), Drawings & Books by J.M.W. Turner ... and Prof Ruskin ... Also a few Miscellaneous Works by Thomas Gainsborough, William Blake, Paul Sandby ... Collected and for Sale by William Ward, 2 Church Terrace, Richmond, Surrey ([London]: Printed by Strangeways and Sons, [?1904])

The Blake is presumably the sketch for "Tiriel Denouncing His Sons and Daughters" <Butlin #199> offered in William Ward's Catalogue of Drawings, Engravings, and Books (1914), lot 1, £8.8.0.

1905 January 26-February 25

Grolier Club, Catalogue of ... William Blake (1905) <BB>

REVIEW

Anon., "The Bibliographer", Boston Evening Transcript,
8 February 1905 <BB #841>

1905 October

Bernard Quaritch, No. 243 A Catalogue of Rare and Valuable Books comprising Africa, America, Bibles & Theology, Bibliography, Early Printed Books, English History and Literature, European History and Literature, Fine Arts, Genealogy and Topography, Japanese Art Publications, Naval Affairs, Oriental History and Literature, with a selection of Important New Books (London, 1905) <Huntington>

180 Tiriel manuscript ("About 1790"), "neatly written in a small hand on 8 leaves; with the original blue paper wrapper"; "the inscription on ... the original blue paper cover, 'Tiriell, MS. by Mr. Blake' is in Blake's own handwriting", The handwriting is the same, though the pen with which the last part is written is somewhat finer", £125.0.0

1906 June 14-July 31

Carfax Exhibition of Works by William Blake<BB>

REVIEWS &c.

Anon., "A Blake Collection", no periodical identified, 1 May 1906 (a puff)

Frank Rinder, "Seer or Madman? The Blake Exhibition", Times [London], 19 June 1906 <BB #A2522>

Anon., "Blake's Drawings", Daily Telegraph [London], [1906]

1906 December 14-15

Sotheby sale (1906)

481 10 [out of 12] of Blake's Paradise Lost watercolours <Thomas set, Butlin #529 1-4, 7-12> sold for Sidney Style [for £2,000 to Sabin].

REVIEW

Anon., "Drawings by William Blake", Times [London], 17 November 1906, p. 12

1909 January

Bernard Quaritch, No. 271 A Catalogue of Rare and Valuable Books including works on Africa, America,

Australasia, Autographs, Bibliography, Classics, Classical Archæology, Etc., English Literature, European History and Literature, Genealogy and Heraldry, Ireland, Illuminated Manuscripts, Occult Sciences, Oriental History and Literature, Periodicals, Political Economy (London, 1909)
<Huntington>

- 194 Tiriel manuscript ("About 1790"), "neatly written in a small hand on 8 leaves; with the original blue paper wrapper"; "the inscription on ... the original blue paper cover, 'Tiriel, MS. by Mr. Blake' is in Blake's own handwriting" [as in Quaritch Catalogue 231 (October 1905)], £50

1909 March 17

Sotheby sale of Blake's letter of 1 April 1800 and Songs (C, d) <BB 275, 413, 426>

REVIEW

Anon., "William Blake's 'Songs'", Times[London], 17 March 1909 (Songs [C] to Dobell for £166) <BB #A1081>

1910 March 22

Sotheby mixed sale (1910) <BB 106, 349>

- 446 "William Blake's Working Cabinet" in mahogany, 18½" high, 16" long, 8" deep, with a metal stamp of the Butts family on the outside front, the Butts coat of arms painted on the inside by Aubrey Butts (perhaps about 1880 when he received it at age 14), with a secret drawer in "which are some COPPER-PLATES ENGRAVED BY BLAKE" [America pl. d], with others, including two subjects by T. Butts. [It was bought by Tregaskis for £30.10.0.]

448 Poetical Sketches (F)[£52 to Francis Edwards]

The sale included the copperplate of America pl. a and Poetical Sketches (F) <BB 206, 349, 729>

REVIEWS

Anon., "Relics of Burns, Dickens, and Blake", Times [London], 23 March 1910, p. 12, Column E (the sale included "William Blake's working cabinet", from Butts)

Anon., "Personal Relics of William Blake", Pall Mall Gazette, 24 March 1910 (Butts's desk was sold) <BB #1009>

1910 December 1

Sotheby, Catalogue (1910)

125 "A Manuscript Book, written by members of the Chevalier family" containing "a small framed print in monochrome, by W. Blake, of the illustration to the 'Argument of the Daughters of Albion'—'The Soul stepping on a floweret takes its adieu of the Flesh'"<sup>810</sup> and "an engraved Portrait of Thomas Chevalier" [1 May 1825] [for £3.3.0]

---

<sup>810</sup> "The Soul stepping on a floweret takes its adieu of the Flesh" is perhaps an inscription on the print. The design on Visions pl. 3 represents a small naked figure rising from a flower to kiss a much larger nude woman.

The Visions reference was pointed out to me by my friend Bob Essick. The reference was reported in BB 477 from Keynes and Wolf, who imply that all six prints (pl. 1-3, 7, 9-10) from Visions (a) are described in the catalogue.

1911 March 7-10

§Anderson Auction Company, Rare and Fine Books Including a Portion of the Library of A. Fontours Xavier Minister from Brazil to Central America and Cuba with Choice Duplicates from a Private Library in Brooklyn (N.Y., 19121) <Grolier Club>

Includes "Aesop's and Gay's Fables Illustrated by William Blake".

1911 April 11

Anderson Auction Company, Catalogue of The Library of Robert Hoe of New York (N.Y., 1921)

REVIEW

Anon. "Prices for Books High at Hoe Sale | Burns First Editions old for $5,800, a record, and Blake's Milton $9,000 | Keen Rivalry in Bidding | Second Day's Sale total $115,690--Quaritch, the London Buyer, Finds Valuations unprecedented", New York Times, 26 April 1911 (Miss [Bella Da Costa] Green bought (for J.P. Morgan) Milton [B]) ($9,000) and Marriage [C] ($3,500); George D. Smith bought Blake's copy of Lavater's Aphorisms ($1,525), Poetical Sketches [C] ($725), Songs of Innocence [Songs (N)] ($700), Songs of Experience [Songs (N)] ($700), Job ($210), and Blake's letter of 27 November 1805 ($180)

1911 April 25

Anderson Auction Company Catalogue of The Library of Robert Hoe (1911) <BB #602>

REVIEW

§Anon., "Prices for Books High at Hoe Sale ... Blake's Milton", New York Times, 26 April 1911

1911 May 1-2

§Sotheby, Wilkinson and Hodge. Catalogue of Books & Manuscripts Comprising the Property of a Gentleman. Including Valuable Works in French Literature in Fine Bindings ... the Property of a Lady including First Edition of the Writings of Matthew Arnold, William Blake ... the Second Folio of Shakespeare ... Early Works on Aeronautics ... Works Illustrated by Cruikshank ... (London: Dryden Press, J. Davy and Sons, 1911) 47 pp.

321 Poetical Sketches [L] [£49 to Quaritch]

323 Descriptive Catalogue [M] [£10.50 to Tregaskis]

1911 July 27

§Sotheby, Wilkinson, and Hodge, Catalogue of Valuable Books, Autograph Letters and Illuminated and Other Manuscripts (London, 1911) <British Library>

It includes property of Robert Ross. W.A. White apparently bought from this catalogue D.G. Rossetti's 60 pp. of additions to Gilchrist.

1912 October

Bernard Quaritch, Catalogue 318 A Catalogue of Books in English Literature and History Part I (London, 1912) <Huntington>

"To the Queen", watercolour for Blair's Grave

1912

Archibald G.B. Russell, The Engravings of William Blake, (1912, 1968) <BB #603>

REVIEWS

Thomas Wright, "Appendix: The Engravings of William Blake", The First Meeting of the Blake Society, [ed. Thomas Wright?] (1912), pp. 56-58 <BB #3016>

§Anon., Athenæum, 25 January 1913

§Anon., Morning Post, 20 March 1913

§Burlington Magazine, XXIV, 130 (January 1914), 232-33

1913

Archibald G.B. Russell, Catalogue of Loan Exhibition of Works by William Blake[at] The National Gallery, British Art (1913) <BB>

REVIEWS

Anon., "William Blake. Exhibition at the Tate Gallery", Times [London], 16 October 1913, p. 12 <BB #1065>

Anon., "The Artist of the Soul", Nation [London], XVI (25 October 1913), 169-70 <BBS 339>

For responses, see S.P. Kerr, Roger Fry, Douglas Jerrold, Greville MacDonald, Archibald G.B. Russell, R., "Blake and British Art", Nation, XIV (8, 22, 29 November, 6, 13, 20, 27 December 1913, 3, 10 January, 7 February 1914), 256 (Kerr), 359 (Fry), 395 (Kerr), 434

(Jerrold), 496-97 (MacDonald), 537 (Russell), 574 (R.), 612 (MacDonald), 642 (Russell), 791-92 (Fry) (for Kerr, Fry, Jerrold, and R., it is a debate on "What is Art" [p. 791], with Blake as a touchstone) <BBS 534>

Richard C. Jackson, "William Blake at the Tate Gallery. Resident in Lambeth from 1793-1800", South London Press, 31 October 1913 <BB #1937>

Anon., "Blake at the Tate Gallery", Athenaeum, No. 4487 (1913), 462 <BB #851>

Anon., "The Blake Exhibition", Spectator, CXI (1913), 715-16 <BB #867>

§Claude Phillips, "Blake at the Tate Gallery", Daily Telegraph [London], 1913 <BB #2390>

1914 April

City of Nottingham Art Museum, Nottingham Castle. Catalogue of a Loan Exhibition of Works by William Blake (1757-1827) (1914) <BB>

REVIEWS &c

Anon., "Pictures to Be Seen Shortly in Nottingham", Nottingham Gazette, 10 January 1914 (a herald for the Blake exhibition)

Anon., "Art of William Blake: Exhibition at the Castle Museum: The Swedenborg of Painting", Nottingham Gazette, 28 March 1914 (a herald for the exhibition about to open)

Criticus, "Works by William Blake: A Contrast" [No periodical] (1914) (account of works in the Blake exhibition)

1914 July

Bernard Quaritch, No. 332 A Catalogue of Works Dealing with Geography, Voyages and Travels chiefly concerning America, Africa, and Australia with some books on the Natural History and Languages of those Continents (London, 1914) <Huntington>

932 Stedman, Surinam (1796), "calf gilt", £1.5.0

933 "the same ... LARGE PAPER, with maps and 80 plates in two states (many coloured), engraved by Blake, Bartolozzi, etc.; the title and several plates inlaid, otherwise a fine and perfect copy; red morocco gilt, marbled edges, by Kalthæber; from the Beckford library", £14.14.0

1914

§Blake exhibition (Tokyo, 1914) In Japanese

No catalogue is known to me.

REVIEW

[Soetsu (Muneyoshi) Yanagi], "Blake Tenrankai ni tsuite [On the Blake Exhibition]", Shirakaba [The White Birch], V, 11 (1914), 272; V, 12 (1914), 137. B. Reprinted in Yanagi Muneyoshi Zenshu (1981), V, 104, 105, in Japanese <BSJ>

1915 May 13-14

§Anderson Galleries, The Collection of the Late Hon. John Boyd Thacher of Albany, N.Y., English Autographs, Famous

Women and Musicians, Part V: Letters A to E (N.Y., 1915)

Under "Celebrities" is "William Blake". I know nothing more of this.

1915

National Gallery of Scotland Blake exhibition (1915)

No catalogue is known, but there was a Blake exhibition at the National Gallery of Scotland on 22 May-4 July 1914 <BB #607>.

REVIEW

Mabel Sharples, "The Art of William Blake", Theosophy in Scotland, V (1915), 56-57 (an account of the Blake pictures at the National Gallery of Scotland seen by "some of the Theosophical Convention") <BBS 636>

1916 March 29-31

Anderson Galleries, Beautiful Bindings, Rare and Fine Books, Autograph Letters: Being Duplicates and Selections from the Famous Libraries of Mr. Henry E. Huntington of New York and Mr. William K. Bixby of St. Louis with an important consignment of plate books from the estate of Mr. E. Dwight Church formerly of Brooklyn (N.Y., 1916) <Huntington>

Day 1 is Huntington, Days 2-5 are Bixby, Church is Day 5, lots 976-1141, "mainly from the Locker-Lampson Library".

983 Dante on india paper, cloth, "plates a little foxed".

"Laid in is an ORIGINAL DRAWING OF THE PLAGUE done by Blake in pencil, one of the compositions given by Palgrave in his article on Blake in the 'Quarterly Review'".<sup>811</sup>

1916 April 26

Christie, Red Cross and St John Sale (London, 1916)

2009 Visions of the Daughters of Albion [O] [£210 to Miss Carthew]

REVIEW

Anon., "Rare Books Aid War Funds | More than $3,600 Netted at Christie's Sale in London", New York Times, 28 April 1916 (Visions of the Daughters of Albion [O] with 11 pl. "presented by the Misses Field, brought $1,050")

1917 July

Bernard Quaritch, No. 349 A Catalogue of Rare and Valuable Books including works on Africa, America, Australia, Bibles, Bibliography, Classics, English History and Literature, European History and Literature, Fine Arts, Natural History, Mathematical and Physical Sciences, Numismata, Occult Sciences, Palæography, Periodicals and Transactions of Learned Societies, Philately, Political Economy, Sports and a selection of Important New Books (London, 1917) <Huntington>

471 Blair, The Grave (1808), "hf bd., UNCUT To this

---

<sup>811</sup> See [Francis Turner Palgrave], review of Gilchrist, Life of William Blake (1863), Quarterly Review, CXVII (Jan 1865), 1-27. The drawing is called "The Plague" in the Quarterly Review, "Pestilence" in Butlin <#191>. Butlin does not record this pencil drawing.

copy has been added a facsimile, by William Muir of the original dedicatory plate 'To the Queen',
£3.15.0

William Muir's Facsimiles of the Works of William Blake (No. 473 ff.)

1918 March 14

§Walpole Galleries, Books, Autographs and Ex-Libris, including the Library of the Late William W. Phillips of New York City (N.Y., 1918)

It includes a painting by Blake. Not in Butlin.

1918 March 15

Christie Catalogue of the John Linnell Collection (1918)
<BB #608>

REVIEWS &c.

Anon., "William Blake's Water Colours", Glasgow Herald, 22 December 1917 (next year the important [Linnell] water-colors will be sold)

Anon., "Water-Colours by William Blake", Nottingham Gazette, 27 December 1917 (announcement of the [Linnell] sale next year)

Anon., "Wonderful Blake Drawings", Daily Telegraph [London], 5 February 1918 (announcement of the imminent Linnell sale) <BB #1082>

Anon., "Blake Drawings and Prints. The Linnell Collection", Times [London], 28 February 1918 (announcement of the imminent sale) <BB #860>

Anon., "Blake Drawings for Public Galleries. Big Total at Linnell Sale", Times [London], 16 March 1918 <BB #861>

Anon., "A Blake Furore. The Dante Drawings for the Empire", Glasgow Herald, 16 March 1918 (an extensive account of the Linnell sale)

Anon., "A Blake Triumph. 7,300 GS. For 'The Divina Commedia'", Daily Telegraph [London], 16 March 1918 <BB #881>

A.G.B. Russell, "William Blake: The Linnell Collection", Burlington Magazine, XXXII, 180 (March 1918), 118-19 ("The sale ... will be an event of outstanding interest in English art-records")

Anon., "William Blake triomphe", Mercure de France, CXXIX (1918), 575, in French (note concerning purchases) <BB #1073>

1918 September

Bernard Quaritch, No. 351 A Catalogue of Rare and Valuable Books including works on America, Bibles, Bibliography, Classics, Early Science, English History and Literature, European History and Literature, Fine Arts, Genealogy and Heraldry, an important collection of Incunabula, Natural History, Numismata, Occult Sciences, Oriental History and Literature, Palæography, Periodicals & Transactions of Learned Societies, Political Economy, Sports, Topography and a selection of New Books (London, 1918) <Huntington>

519 Job (1825), "original bds, enclosed in a cloth case", £24.0.0

520 "the same. Folio, PROOF IMPRESIONS ON INDIA PAPER; vellum gilt", £28.0.0

1918

Scott Fowles Gallery exhibition (1918)

Apparently there was no catalogue.

REVIEW

§Anon., "Drawings, Sculpture and Miniatures", New York Times, 24 November 1918

1918

§Walpole Galleries. Books, Autographs and Ex-Libris, Including the Library of the Late William W. Phillips of New York City ... to Be Sold by Auction ... [at] the Walpole Galleries, No. 10 East 49th Street, New York (N.Y., 1918) 51 pp.

The sale includes a small collection from a private source together with a painting by William Blake. Apparently not in Butlin.

1919 February 17-19

§Anderson Galleries sale of books from the libraries of Frederic R. Halsey, Henry S. Van Duzer, and A. Mitchell Palmer (N.Y., 1919)

139 Hayley, Ballads (1805), contemporary mottled calf, inscribed "Mr. Weller, With grateful remembrance from William Blake."

REVIEW

Anon., "Old Colonial Books Offered for Sale from the Halsey<sup>812</sup> Library", New York Times, 16 February 1919 (offers Hayley, Ballads (1805), "a presentation copy, with autograph inscription, from William Blake" [now Pierpont Morgan Library])

1919 October 21-22

§Anderson Galleries, The Library of Frederick H. Evans of London (N.Y., 1919) <Grolier Club>

It includes "special copies of books illustrated by E.A. Abbey, William Blake ...."

1919 November 17-22

Soetsu (Muneyoshi) Yanagi, William Blake no Fukusei Hanga Tenraikai Mokuroku [An Annotated Catalogue of an Exhibition of Reproductions from the Works of William Blake at The Russian Gallery, Tokyo, The Imperial College, Y.M.C.A. Hall, Kyoto] (1919)<BB>

REVIEW

[Soetsu (Muneyoshi) Yanagi], "Blake Tenrankai [Blake Exhibition]", Shirakaba [The White Birch], X (1919), 180; reprinted in his William Blake (1981), Vol. V, p. 180, in Japanese <BB #3020, BBS 687>

1919 December 5-1920 January 10

Grolier Club William Blake: An Exhibition (N.Y., 1919) and Harvard (Cambridge, 1920) <BB>

---

<sup>812</sup> Frederic Robert Halsey sold most of his library to Huntington in 1915, including Song of Los (E) and "Albion Rose".

REVIEWS &amp;c

Anon., “Dante Gabriel Rossetti and William Blake”,
New York Times Magazine, 30 November 1919, p.
 10 (plans for the Grolier Club exhibition) <BB
 #910>

Anon., “The William Blake Exhibition”, New York Times, 21 December 1919

Anon., “An Exhibition of the Works of William Blake”, Publishers’ Weekly, XCVI (1919), 1611 <BB
 #932>

William M. Ivins, Jr., “The Blake Exhibition at the Grolier Club”, Arts and Decoration, XII (January
 1920), 183, 218 <BB #1930>

§S. Foster Damon, “Blake's Illuminated Books now on Exhibition at Fogg”, Harvard Crimson, LXXVI,
 93 [i.e., No. 94] (23 January 1920), 2 <BB
 #1447>

*S. Foster Damon, “Exhibition of Blake’s Books”,
Harvard Alumni Bulletin, XXII (1920), 359-61
 (the Grolier Club exhibition came to Harvard) <BB
 #1448>

1919

§”Shirakaba bijutsukan” *setsuritsu no tame ni: William
 Blake fukusei hanga tenrankai mokuroku* [An Annotated Catalogue of an Exhibition of Reproductions from the Works of William Blake: For the Establishment of Shirakaba Art Museum] (1919) In Japanese

REVIEW &amp;c

§Oro Akabane, [Brief essay on the Japanese Blake exhibition <BB>] Chijo [Earth], Year 1, No. 3 (December 1919), in Japanese

1920 February 24-25

§Anderson Galleries. Association Books from the Library of John Greenleaf Whittier, with Manuscripts and Autograph Letters of Whittier and His Friends, to Be Sold by Order of John Greenleaf Whittier Pickard ... To Which Is Added Letters of William Blake ... (N.Y., 1920)

20 Blake's letter of 16 March 1804.

1920 March 15-17

§Anderson Galleries. The Library of the Late H. Buxton Forman... Manuscripts, First Editions, Autograph Letters and Association Copies of ... William Blake. (N.Y., 1920)<sup>813</sup>

- 35 Poetical Sketches [M] [$410]
- 36 James Barry, Account of a Series of Pictures (1783), Blake's copy [$250]
- 48 No Natural Religion [I] [$625]
- 50 Twelve copperplates for Job [i.e., Blair's Grave]
- 51 Songs [g<sup>1</sup>] [$60]
- 52 Songs [g<sup>2</sup>] [$65]
- 53 Songs [h] [$90]
- 65 Drawings for Mary Wollstonecraft's Original Stories (with 5 letters from H.H. Gilchrist) [$1,000]

---

<sup>813</sup> For a much abbreviated account of the Buxton Forman sale, see BB #613.

- 66 Urizen pl. 22 [$1,060]
- 67 Jerusalem pl. 4, 18-19, 28, 35, 37 [$610]
- 68 Genesis Manuscript [Hayley translation of Tasso transcribed by Blake] [$1,350]
- 69 Blake's letter of 12 March 1804 [$125]
- 71 Blake's letter of 27 April 1804 [$170]
- 72 Blake's letter of 28 September 1804 [$140]

REVIEW, &c

Anon., "Blake, Browning, and Keats: High Prices at New York Sale", Times [London], 17 March 1920, p. 19

1920 April 26

§Anderson Galleries. The Library of the Late H. Buxton Forman. (N.Y., 1920)

- 64 "Blake's Memorandum" [$17]

1920

National Gallery of Victoria (Melbourne) Blake exhibition (1920)

No catalogue is known.

REVIEW

Anon., "Felton Bequest Pictures", Argus [Melbourne], 11 August 1920 (the 30 Blake drawings [for Dante], bought by the Felton Bequest for £4,000 ["very much in excess of their value"] and now on exhibition, "are grotesque in the extreme, and in some cases repulsive in treatment") <BBS 345>

1921 March 1-2

§Anderson Galleries, Colour Plate Books; Sporting Books, Library Sets, Rare and Beautiful Bindings ... Original Drawings by William Blake, John Leech and Rowlandson (N.Y., 1921)

It includes books from Anthony J. Drexel [not in Butlin].

1921 April

Brooklyn Museum, Exhibition: Illustrated Books and Drawings by William Blake (William A. White Collection) (Brooklyn, 1921)

Apparently no catalogue was printed.

1921 Summer

Metropolitan Museum (N.Y.) exhibition 1921.

No catalogue of the exhibition is known.

REVIEW &c

*Anon., "A Note on Four Water-Colours by William Blake", International Studio, LXXIV, 294 (September 1921), xxxvii (a comment, presumably by the editor, Guy C. Eglinton, on reproductions (on the cover and pp. xxxvii, xxxviii, xl) "from a small but very choice exhibition recently on view at the Metropolitan Museum")

1921 ?October

Scott Fowles Gallery (N.Y.) exhibition (1921)

No catalogue for the exhibition is known to me.

REVIEW &c

Anon., "Blake's Drawings for Dante Shown: Distorted Figures to Illustrate Inferno Produce Different Sensations Now Than When They Were Produced", AAN, 22 October 1921 ("Twenty of these tremendous sketches are now on view at the Scott and Fowles Galleries, No. 667 Fifth Avenue, along with all of Flaxman's" Dante designs)

Anon., "The World of Art. Blake's Drawings for the Divine Comedy", New York Times, 16 October 1921 (The Scott and Fowles Gallery exhibition of watercolours for Dante is the occasion for a long discussion of Blake's Dante designs and comparing them to Flaxman's)

1921 November 28-December 23

A.S.W. Rosenbach, Catalogue of an Exhibition of Rare Books, Autograph Manuscripts and Literary Documents (1921)

Blair, The Grave, copperplates for Blake's designs

1921

*Geoffrey Keynes. Bibliography of William Blake (N.Y.: The Grolier Club, 1921) <BB> B. (N.Y., 1921 [i.e., 1969]) <BB> C. §(N.Y., 1921 [i.e., Storrs-Mansfield [Connecticut]: Martino Publishers, 2001) 517 pp.; ISBN: 1578982766

The 2001 reprint gives in black-and-white the four plates originally in colour.

1922 June

Bernard Quaritch, No. 371A Catalogue of Rare and

Valuable Books including works on Africa, America, Australasia, Bibliography, English History and Literature, Fine Arts, French Literature, Ireland, Italian Literature, Medicine, Oriental History and Literature, Palæography, Periodicals & Transactions of Learned Societies, Political Economy, Scotland, Spanish and Portuguese Literature, Sports and a selection of Important New Books (London, 1918)

Lots 519-20 are Job as in Quaritch's September 1918 catalogue.

1922 July 10-11

Christie sale (1922) <BB 473>

REVIEW, &c

Anon., "The Sale Room: Blake's 'Daughters of Albion'", Times [London], 11 July 1922, p. 7 (Visions [E] was sold for £135 to Frank Sabin)

1922 August 2

Sotheby sale (1922)

No such Blake sale is reported in BB or BBS.

REVIEW &c

Anon., "The Sale Room: Blake and Kipling", Times [London], 3 August 1922, p. 10 (there were lots of Blakes at yesterday's Sotheby sale)

1922 February 11-March 31

The National Gallery of Canada Special Exhibitions:
Pictures and Sketches by Tom Thomson, Illustrations to the "Book of Job" and Dante's "Inferno" by William Blake and

Modern Colour Prints. Third & Fourth Floors ([Ottawa: National Gallery of Canada, 1922]) 8°

Anon., "Blake's Illustrations to the 'Book of Job' and Dante's 'Inferno'" (pp. 11-17).

1922

§Reproductions from the Works of William Blake (Seoul, South Korea, 1922)

1922

§Henry Sotheran and Co Particulars of Important Reproductions of Unpublished Works by William Blake (London [1922])

Hollyer reproductions.

1923 April 16-18

§American Art Association. Illustrated Catalogue of Books, Manuscripts, Drawings of Superlative Importance [sold by Col. Henry D. Hughes] (N.Y., 1923) 1,009 titles

117 Visions [L] [$1,450 to James Williams]

118 Blake's Job (1826), coloured

128 Blake's Exhibition of Paintings in Fresco (1809) plus his letter of May 1809 [$125]

1923 May 2

§American Art Association. Illustrated Catalog of American and English "Men of Letters": Autograph Presentation Copies & Holograph Manuscripts by Famous Writers ... also

Original Painting in Tempera and an Original Watercolour Drawing by William Blake: Mainly from the Library of the Late Charles Eliot Norton of Boston, Massachusetts, to Be Sold ... by Order of Elizabeth Gaskell Norton and the other Person Hereinafter Named. (N.Y., 1923)

- 13 "Christ Appearing to the Apostles" <Butlin #325 colour print>, reproduced [$6,100 to Gabriel Wells]
- 15 watercolours [by John Camden Hotten] of Marriage pl. 1-2 <BB 299 n. 12>.

REVIEW

Anon., Blake "Painting for $6,100 | Top Price at Sale Mainly of Contents of Prof. Norton's Library", New York Times, 3 May 1923 ("Christ Appearing to the Apostles after the Resurrection" <Butlin #325> was sold to Gabriel Wells; "An original watercolor drawing by Blake for his 'The Marriage of Heaven and Hell'" was bought by James Adams<sup>814</sup> for $60)

1923 April 16

§American Art Galleries, sale of the Collection of a Philadelphia Collector<sup>815</sup> (N.Y., 1923)

---

<sup>814</sup> James Adams is not known to BB, BBS, Butlin, or "William Blake and His Circle" (Blake [1992 ff.]). His "original water color drawing by Blake" for the Marriage [in fact a copy by Camden Hotten] had been offered in J.W. Bouton, Original Drawings in Watercolor and India Ink by the Celebrated William Blake (N.Y., 1875) -- see BB 299n.

<sup>815</sup> Col. H.D. Hughes of Armore, Pennsylvania, owned America (C), Ghost of Abel (C) Poetical Sketches (E), No Natural Religion (F), Songs (Z), Blake's letter of May 1809, and a set of coloured Job prints. He was alleged in the Parke-Bernet catalogue of 2 Nov 1938, lot 58, to have been the anonymous vendor in 1923.

- 117 Visions of the Daughters of Albion [L] [$1,450 to James Williams]
- 118 Job (1826) coloured [$3,125 to James Williams]
- 128 Letter of May 1809 and "Exhibition of Paintings in Fresco" [B] [$125]

REVIEW

Anon., "Job, Illustrated, Sells for $3,125 | Highest Price Paid at Sale Here of Philadelphian's Collection of Rare Books. | First Session Nets $31,347 | Henry D. Hughes, Stock Broker, Denies That He Was the Owner of Works on Sale", New York Times, 23 April 1923 (India Paper proof of Job "colored by Blake" was bought by James Williams, who also bought Visions of the Daughters of Albion for $1,450)

1923 May 4

§Walpole Galleries, Books and Letters, a Choice Private Library with a Few Additions (N.Y., 1923) <Grolier Club>

It includes "Blair's Grave and Gay's Fables illustrated by William Blake; Hayley's Life of Romney, extra-illustrated".

1923 July 23-25

Catalogue of the Valuable Contents [of] 185, Camberwell Grove, Denmark Hill, [London] S.E., [sold 23-25 July 1923] at the Residence By Order of the Executor of R.C. Jackson by Messrs. Goddard and Smith (22 King Street, St. James', London, S.W.1, 1923)

The sale offers works which are said to have belonged to William Blake (lots 159, 182, 245, 287, 293, 465, 579f, 737, 812, 861), Thomas Carlyle (lots 466, 470), Charles Dickens (lot 966), David Garrick (lots 556, 571), Dr Johnson (lot 538), Charles Lamb (lots 137, 475, 506-7, 509-10, 512-13, 516), Michael Angelo (lot 579), and "The Poet Schiller" (lot 464). Two of the Lamb items are said to have come from the "Moxon sale, 1805" (lots 506-7 – see below), when Lamb's friend Edward Moxon was four years old. The significant Blakes are

- 182 "By Blake. A bust Portrait of Dante (12-in. by 9-in.); a ditto of Chaucer with red cap (16-in. by 13-in.)" [Butlin lists no such portraits and nothing owned by R.C. Jackson.]
- 245 "a fine pen and ink drawing with inscription and figure cartoon by William Blake".
- 293 "Engraving, The Canterbury Pilgrims [?by Blake, 1810], a ditto, Scene from The Beggars Opera, Act III [surely by Blake, 1790], ... and a letter from William Blake to Flaxman". [BB 276 n3 guesses that this may be the letter 12 September 1800. The "Canterbury Pilgrims" is not in Robert N. Essick, The Separate Plates of William Blake (1983), though Essick does suggest (p. 154) that the "R. Jackson" who gave a copy to the Victoria & Albert Museum in 1889 may be Richard C. Jackson.]
- 465 "Heppelwhite open arm mahogany chair with seat and back in velvet. FORMERLY THE PROPERTY OF WILLIAM BLAKE, THE POET". [There is no other reference to such a chair which belonged to Blake, and its present whereabouts (if it survives) is unknown.]

579f "WILLIAM BLAKE'S PAINTING TABLE, with leather centre, tilting top and on tripod (formerly Gainsborough's) (20-in. by 15-in.)"

737 "The Book of Thel, by William Blake, 1789, in board cover, quarto size, 39 copies, and 23 royal quarto ditto". [This is plainly not the "1789" edition; probably it is the edition "Printed as Manuscript" in 1917 for the William Blake Society, of which Richard C. Jackson was President.]

812 "The Library of William Blake, 25 vols., and 12 vols., various, in paper covers". [Anon., "Felpham and the Poet-Painter Blake. The Thirty-fourth Meeting of the William Blake Society ...", Observer and West Sussex Recorder, 27 May 1914, said "books, with Blake's Autograph" were lent for display at the meeting by R.C. Jackson (BB 681 n1), but no book known to have been owned by Blake has any known association with Richard C. Jackson.]

It is difficult to believe that Blake, Lamb, et al, had any connection with these works before Richard C. Jackson acquired them.<sup>816</sup> Jackson was capable of "believing what he wanted to believe";<sup>817</sup> he called himself Brother à Becket, wore monastic robes in the street, and kept his house in an "indescribable condition of filth and neglect".<sup>818</sup>

---

<sup>816</sup> Carl H. Woodring, "Charles Lamb in the Harvard Library", Harvard Library Bulletin, X (1956), 208-239, 367-402, says: "it must be doubted whether Lamb owned any" of the 116 volumes which Jackson claimed came from Lamb's

Jackson "claimed descent from Capt. Jackson of the 'Essays of Elia'",<sup>819</sup> Lamb's "dear old friend", whom Lamb described as a retired half-pay [naval] officer, with a wife and two grown-up daughters, whom he maintained with the port and notions of gentlewomen upon that slender professional allowance.<sup>820</sup>

As Lamb does not mention a son of his old friend Captain Jackson, it seems very unlikely that Richard C. Jackson was descended from him.

Jackson's grandfather was probably Francis Jackson (born c. 1784), "Citizen, Merchant and Ship Owner, of London, (Offices, Rood Lane E.C. Admitted Freeman of the Paviour City Company, 14th March, 1805.) Red House, Mare Street, Hackney" whose bookplate, headed "RELICS OF CHARLES LAMB Purchased at Edward Moxon's Sale" is in, inter alia, the Victoria University in the University of Toronto copy of John Gay, Fables (London: J. Buckland et al, 1788). His parents were Susanah and Richard Charles Jackson of Preston, County Lancashire, to whom he dedicated his The Risen Life: Hymns and Poems for the Christian Year (1883; library.

---

<sup>817</sup> Anon., "An Eccentric Recluse – Mr Jackson and Walter Pater", Times [London], 30 July 1923, p. 8.

<sup>818</sup> Anon., "Richard C. Jackson. Eccentric Camberwell Recluse who Collected Everything. Died as He Lived", South London Press, 3 Aug 1923.

<sup>819</sup> G.W. Wrigley, "Jackson of the Red House, Hackney", Notes and Queries, CLIII (9 July 1927), 28.

<sup>820</sup> Charles Lamb, "Captain Jackson", The Last Essays of Elia (1833).

1886; 1888; 1889). Richard C. Jackson (1851-1923) says that when he was "quite a boy" (c. 1860?), his father, who was born in 1810 and "associated with" Blake's disciples, took him to tea in the house the Blakes had occupied in Hercules Buildings. There they saw Blake's fig tree and "the luxurious vine ... nestling round the open casement", and his father told him that the vine and fig tree were a present to Blake from George Romney, the vine having been "grafted from the great vine at Versailles or Fontainebleau".<sup>821</sup> Since Jackson's father was only 17 when Blake died and cannot have seen him in Hercules Buildings (which Blake left in 1800), and since R.C. Jackson himself is exceedingly unreliable, it is not easy to accept--or reject--his allegations. The vine was still rampant in the neglected garden of Blake's house in 1916.

R.C. Jackson may have owned books and manuscripts and furniture which had belonged to William Blake, but he probably did not. It is ironic that the only pre-1820 works in Jackson's sale which are almost certainly from Blake have no such claim made for them--the large prints of the "Canterbury Pilgrims" and Hogarth's Beggar's Opera.

Additional information about R.C. Jackson's Blake collection is given in Thomas Wright, The Life of Walter Pater (N.Y.: G.P. Putnam's Sons' London: Everett and Co., 1907); Vol. II is largely based on information from R.C. Jackson, information which subsequent Pater scholars have controverted<sup>822</sup> or, more commonly, ignored. For instance, Wright claimed that Jackson is the original of Pater's Marius the Epicurean and that Pater "spent far more of his time in the company of Mr. Jackson than in that of any other friend" (pp. 21, 42).

---

<sup>821</sup> R.C. Jackson, "William Blake, An Unlooked for Discovery", South London Observer, 22 June 1912.

On the other hand, Wright does present some hard evidence in the form of photographs representing Jackson c. 1882 (as "Brother a Becket"), c. 1886 (as "Marius the Epicurean"), c. 1890, and August 1906 ("in Mr. Wright's study at Olney") (pp. 53, 78, 172, 233) as well as Jackson's richly cluttered rooms in Camberwell (pp. 181, 185, 189, though with no table like the one said to have been owned by Gainsborough and Blake).

Jackson's library may not have been, as Wright claimed, "one of the most valuable private libraries in England",<sup>823</sup> but it was sufficiently extensive to allow Jackson to give 850 books on Dante to Southwark Public Library in 1900,<sup>824</sup> and Wright's book reproduces from Jackson's library photographs of (1) Virgil, Sebastian Brandt's edition, commentary by Christophoro Landino (Argent: Johannis Gruninger, 1502)

---

<sup>822</sup> For example, Jackson is a "bizarre halluciné" whose "témoigne est ... profondément suspect à nos yeux" (Germaine d'Hangest, Walter Pater: L'Homme et l'Œuvre [Paris: Didier, 1961], 287); Jackson "never seems to have realised the boundary between the world of his dreams and the realities of his situation"; and none of Pater's known friends had apparently heard of Jackson (Samuel Wright, "Richard Charles Jackson", Antigonish Review, I [Winter 1971], 82, 86). There is no reference to Jackson in the indices to Samuel Wright, An Informative Index to the Writings of Walter Pater (West Cornwall, Connecticut: Locust Hill Press, 1987), or in Letters of Walter Pater, ed. Lawrence Evans (Oxford: Clarendon Press, 1970).

<sup>823</sup> Thomas Wright (1907), p. 81.

<sup>824</sup> Samuel Wright, "Richard Charles Jackson", Antigonish Review, I (Winter 1971), 87.

(pp. 255, 258, 261), (2) Homer (Venice, 1525) with over 100 woodcuts (pp. 265, 269, 273, 276), (3) Dante, Divine Comedy (Venice, 1529) (p. 248), (4) The Workes of our Antient and learned English Poet Geoffrey Chaucer (London: Bonham Norton, 1598) (pp. 237, 241, 245), and (5) John Guillim, Display of Heraldry, Fourth Edition (London: Richard Bleme, 1660) with "every coat ... properly coloured at the time of publication" (p. 268). Wright also refers to "an early edition of Caxton and a pre-Caxtonian copy of the Golden Legend, with beautiful binding and clasps" and "first editions of Carlyle and Blake" (p. 174).

In particular, the "Blake treasures" which Jackson showed to Pater consisted of an engraving of the Canterbury Pilgrims, Blake's original oil-colour sketch for Chaucer, several copies of Blake's works in proof state, including the plates to the Book of Job, Young's Night Thoughts, and Blair's Grave – all in uncut states, and a copy of the famous 'Marriage of Heaven and Hell,' coloured in water-colours by Blake's own hand.<sup>825</sup>

Of these works by Blake, the only one which appears in the 1923 sale is the engraving of the Canterbury Pilgrims (lot

---

<sup>825</sup> Wright (1907), p. 180. Wright does not mention a number of works associated with Blake in the 1923 catalogue: portraits of Dante and Chaucer (lot 182), a pen-and-ink drawing (lot 245), a "letter from Blake to Flaxman" (lot 293), Blake's chair (lot. 465), his painting table (lot 579f), and 37 volumes from "The Library of William Blake" (lot 812) -- perhaps Jackson acquired these after Pater's death in 1894 or after Wright's book was published in 1907.

293, not attributed to Blake)--perhaps the others had been disposed of before the sale, as the Dante collection had been.

Published "Proofs" of Job (1826) and Blair's Grave (1808) are not uncommon, but no other copy of Young's Night Thoughts (1797) is known to be "in proof state". "Blake's original oil-colour sketch for Chaucer" which Wright says Jackson owned is not otherwise known.<sup>826</sup> Of the eight known coloured copies of the Marriage, copies F-I could not have belonged to Jackson, and it is exceedingly unlikely that A, C-E did.

Almost certainly Jackson did not own a proof copy of Young's Night Thoughts (1797), "Blake's original oil-colour sketch for Chaucer", or a copy of The Marriage of Heaven and Hell, though he could have had the Marriage facsimile of Hotten (1868) or of Muir (1884).

1923 December 10-11

§Sotheby, Wilkinson and Hodge. Catalogue of Valuable Printed Books, Illuminated & Other Manuscripts, Drawings, Caricatures & Book-Plates, Autograph Letters, Literary Relics, etc. ... Comprising ... Very Fine Copies of William Blake's MILTON and THEL, and a Collection of Over 1500 Drawings by T. Stothard, formerly in the Library of the Late B.G. Windus, Esq. ... (London, 1923) 66 pp.

252 Thel [O] and Milton [D] [£3,400 to Pickering].

REVIEW &c

Anon., "The Sale Room: A Fine Copy of Blake's

---

<sup>826</sup> Blake's tempera for the Canterbury Pilgrims has been in the Stirling-Maxwell family since 1853 (Butlin #475), and the uncoloured pencil sketch has been in the Cunliffe family since 1895 (p. 476). It is exceedingly unlikely that Blake ever made a sketch for Chaucer in oil, as opposed, say, to watercolours.

‘Milton’”, Times [London], 20 November 1923, p. 17 (announcement of sale)

Anon., "Blake's 'Milton' Is Sold. | Pickering and Chatto Pay £3,400 for Copy in London", New York Times, 12 December 1923, p. 14 ("it will go abroad")

1923

§National Gallery of Canada. Sandby Aquatints and Blake Engravings (Ottawa, 1923)

1924 January 30-31, February 1

§American Art Association. Herman L.R. Edgar Collection of First Editions of W.M. Thackeray; Inscribed First Editions of Joseph Conrad; Charles B. Eddy Collection of First Editions; Superb Sporting Prints in Color; Fresco Paintings by William Blake ... (N.Y., 1924)

307 *"Newton" colour-print <Butlin #307>

1924 April 22

American Art Association sale [of Col. Henry D. Hughes] (N.Y., 1924)

58 Poetical Sketches [E] [$525]

59 There is No Natural Religion [F] [$600]

63 America [C] [$950 to G. Wells]

66 Hayley, Ballads (1805) inscribed by Blake to Mr Weller

70 Ghost of Abel [D] [$400 to James F. Drake]

1924 April 30-May 2

§American Art Association, Private Library of Herbert L. Rothschild (N.Y., 1924)

103 "Job and His Daughters" <Butlin #551 20>, reproduced

REVIEW

Anon., "Water Color Brings $1,660 | It Is One of William Blake's Illustrations of the Book of Job", New York Times, 1 May 1924 ("Job and His Daughters" for Job pl. 20 from the collection of Herbert L. Rothschild of San Francisco was sold to Gabriel Wells)

1924 June 23

§Sotheby. The Valuable Stock of Autograph Letters, Historical Documents, etc., The Property of Messrs. J. Pearson & Co (C.E. Shephard & F.A. Wheeler), 5, Pall Mall Place, London, S.W. 1 (sold owing to the Dissolution of their Partnership) .... 23 June 1924

The sale includes manuscripts of William Blake and William Hayley. Pearson had previously sold Blake's letters of 1 July 1800 (1893), 13 December 1803 (1858), 16 March 1804 (1885), April 1826 (1885), and April 1827 (1893). I do not know what Blake manuscripts they sold in 1924.

1924 July 1-4, 7-9

Sotheby, Catalogue of the Well-Known and Valuable Library of the late Bernard Buchanan MacGeorge, Esq (1924) <BB>

The important Blakes were lots 108-34.

REVIEWS &amp;c

Geoffrey Keynes, "The Macgeorge Blakes", Times Literary Supplement, 26 June 1924, p. 403 (announcement of the Blakes to be sold at Sotheby's) <BB #1031>

Anon., "£4,000 for Books in 10 Minutes", Daily Mail [London], 2 July 1924 (Songs [A], Marriage [D], Europe [A], and other Blakes sold for £4,000) <BB #943>

Anon., "Notes on Sales. The MacGeorge Blakes", Times Literary Supplement, 10 July 1924 (it was "one of the most important Blake auctions of the present century") <BBS 347>

1924 October 22-23

§Anderson Galleries. Selection from the Library of Mr William S. Hall, New York City; First Editions in Great Variety, Including Many Blake, Whitman Burroughs Volumes; with Other Private Collections in a Separate Alphabet (New York, 1924) 66 pp.

William S. Hall is not otherwise known to have owned first editions of Blake, but see 19-20 February 1929.

1924 November 10

Sotheby catalogue (1924)

REVIEW

Anon., "The Sale Room: A Blake Drawing", Times [London], 11 November 1924, p. 11 (Blake's “Philoctetes and Neoptolemus at Lemnos” <Butlin #676> was sold for £510 to F. Edwards)

1924 December

§Francis Edwards. Catalogue 466. A Catalogue of English Literature of the Nineteenth and Twentieth Centuries, Mostly First Editions (London, 1924) 21 cm, 51 pp.

59 Blake's "Philoctetes and Neoptolemos at Lemnos" <Butlin #676> £650

1924

British Museum Print Room Exhibition of Blake's Engravings and Colour Prints (1924)

No catalogue is known.

REVIEW

Anon., “Art Exhibitions. Blake Engravings and Colour Prints”, Times [London], 30 April 1924 <BB #838>

1925 April 6-8

§SothebyandCo. Catalogue of Highly Important Manuscripts, Extremely Valuable Printed Books, Autograph Letters and Historical Documents ... Comprising ... an Extremely Fine Drawing by William Blake, the Property of Mrs. A.R. Crosby (London, 1925)

152 *"By the Waters of Babylon" <Butlin #466> [£600].

1925 April

Bernard Quaritch, No. 391 A Catalogue of Rare and Valuable Books including works on Americana, Bibles,

Bibliography, Classics, English History and Literature, European History and Literature, Fine Arts, French Literature, Genealogy and Heraldry, Ireland, Occult Sciences, Oriental History and Literature, Palæography, Periodicals & Transactions of Learned Societies, Political Economy, Scotland, Sports, Topography, Wales, and a selection of Important New Books (London, 1925) <Huntington>

303 Job (1825), "ON INDIA PAPER; calf", £52.10.0

304 "THE SAME ... PROOF IMPRESSIONS ON INDIA PAPER; levant morocco, gilt top, by Rivière ... The plates ... bear the words Proof on the lower margin", £65.0.0

1926 January 14-15

Rare First Editions of Famous Writers of the XVIth to XXth Century, English and American (N.Y.: American Art Association, 1926)

Lots 39-50 are Blakes, including

40 **The Gates of Paradise* [For the Sexes (H)]

1926 April 14

§Anderson Galleries, sale of books from the private library of Victor Thane of Chicago and the library of a well-known New York Collector (London, 1926)

75 Songs of Innocence [J] [$1,200 to W. Clarkson]

REVIEW

Anon., "89 Rare Paintings, Sold for $89,850 | Private Collectors Get Most of Art Treasures at Anderson Galleries Auction ...", New York Times, 15 April 1926 (Songs of Innocence, "printed in green and ... delicately coloured", was bought by W. Clarkson)

1926 May

Pennsylvania Museum of Art Works of William Blake exhibited May 1926.

The only account of the exhibition was the essay by A. Edward Newton, "Works of William Blake", Bulletin Philadelphia Museum of Art, XXI (May 1926), 162-65, which mentions 15 drawings Newton is known to have owned, plus nine books and loose prints from books in Illuminated Printing and some commercial engravings (only Hogarth and Canterbury Pilgrims named), the drawings certainly and the books and prints almost certainly from Newton's own collection; "the very rare catalogue issued by Blake when the original picture ['Canterbury Pilgrims'] was exhibited in 1812" is probably A Catalogue of the Fifth Annual Exhibition of the Associated Painters in Water Colours (1812), in which the tempera of the "Canterbury Pilgrims" was lot 254, though of course the Catalogue was not "issued by Blake".

1926 November

§Francis Edwards, Catalogue (November 1926)

459 Blake's "Philoctetes and Neoptolemos at Lemnos"
<Butlin #676>, £650

1926 December 15

Sotheby sale of Alfred G. Gray (1926) <BB 407, 417>

REVIEWS &c

Anon., "The Sale Room: William Blake's 'Songs of Innocence'", Times [London], 20 November 1926, p. 15; 16 December 1926, p. 9 (the first announces the Sotheby sale; the second records the sale to Spenser of Songs [L] for £1,350 and Innocence [E] for £450)

1926 December

Bernard Quaritch, No. 405 A Catalogue of Standard English Books (including Translations) Printed Since the Beginning of the Eighteenth Century Part I . . A-K (London, 1926)
<Biblioteca La Solana>

- 242 Visions of the Daughters of Albion [F] (1793),
"Folio, 11 ll., printed in brown on one side only and FINELY COLOURED BY HAND BY BLAKE, with water-colour and opaque pigment, the frontispiece has been inlaid and a torn leaf has been skilfully repaired; loosely inserted in a volume; half morocco, UNCUT ... duplicates of the first three plates, printed in green and painted in water-colours, are inserted. ... From the collection of the Earl of Beaconsfield", £525.0.0
- 243 "A Collection of Tracings and Facsimiles of Works by William Blake, as detailed below; unbound n.d.
America, "Tracings of 6 illustrations"
The Book of Thel, "Tracings (coloured) of the complete series of 6 illustrations" Europe, "Coloured reproductions of 5 leaves

(frontispiece, title, and the first three pages)"

"BLAKE'S COMMONPLACE-BOOK. Tracings of 30 drawings"

"THORNTON'S VIRGIL. 13 engravings from"

"MISCELLANEOUS TRACINGS (some coloured)"

"LITTLE TOM THE SAILOR. A modern reprint; boards", £18.18.0

1926

Pennsylvania Museum exhibition of Works of William Blake (1926)

No catalogue was issued.

REVIEW

*Alfred Edward Newton, "Works of William Blake", Pennsylvania Museum Bulletin, XXI, 103 (May 1926), 162-65 (description of the exhibition) <BB #2284>

1926, 1967, 2012

Laurence Binyon, The Engraved Designs of William Blake (London N.Y., 1926) <BB> B. (N.Y., 1967) <BB> C. §(Paderborn [Germany]: Klassik Art, 2012) ISBN: 9783954910595

REVIEWS

§L.B. [Laurence Binyon?], Manchester Guardian, 8 January 1926

§Anon., Glasgow Herald, 16 December 1926

§Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 3 February 1927, p. 71

1927 January 11 ff.

§ William Blake Centenary Exhibition (Bognor, 1927)

No catalogue is known.

REVIEW &amp;c

Anon., "Blake Exhibition at Bognor", Times [London],
28 December 1927, p. 13 (the exhibition opens 11 January, directed by G.P. Baker)

1927 April 27-29

§ Sotheby. Valuable Printed Books, European & Oriental Miniatures & Manuscripts, Autograph Letters and Historical Documents ... Comprising ... a Fine Drawing by William Blake (London, 1927)

The Blake drawing is "Oberon and Titania on a Lily"
 <Butlin #245>.

1927 May

Victoria & Albert Museum Blake centenary exhibition (May 1927)

There was apparently no catalogue of the exhibition.

REVIEW &amp;c

Anon., "Centenary of William Blake", Daily Telegraph
 [London], 9 May 1927 (twenty drawings, plus Job and engravings are on exhibition at the Victoria & Albert Museum)

1927 August 15-30

§National Gallery of Canada. William Blake Memorial Exhibition (Ottawa, 1927)

1927 October 11-15

William Blake. Artist. Poet. Seer. (born 1757, died 1827). Centenary Exhibition at the Old Town Hall, Woolwich From Tuesday to Saturday October 11th-15th 1927.

List of Books, Engravings, Drawings, etc. contained in the Woolwich Library and Museum Collection and List of Loan Collections.

1927 November 21

§Stan V. Henkels Auction Catalogue No. 1289, Philadelphia, 21 November 1927.

REVIEWS &c

Anon., "Original Drawings by Blake", Boston Evening Transcript, 9 November 1921 (about the prospective Henkel sale of a book with 50 Blake drawings)

Anon., "Philadelphia Book Sale", Boston Evening Transcript, 16 November 1921 (Detailed description of "one of the most important Blake items ever offered in this country". Henkels offers (on behalf of Mrs Ellen M. Dobinson, the step-daughter of T.K. Richmond) as lot 15 "William Blake's Original Sketch Book", 7" x 4", with "about fifty original sketches by William Blake in pencil and in ink, together with many pencil and ink sketches by Geo. Richmond", "probably the most important Blake item ever offered for sale in this country". [However, though Mr Henkels is sure that "the most sceptical would hesitate to pass an adverse opinion on them", the half-tone reproductions (the frontispiece and at p. 6) of what he calls "The Temptation of the Lord by Satan", "A Lunatic", "And the Woman was given two wings of a Great Eagle", and "The Crucifixion" (i.e., a female mourner from what its inscription calls an "old print"), bearing the autograph [sic] of Blake, seem to GEB and to Robert Essick to be clearly not the drawing or autograph of William Blake and probably that of George Richmond])

1927 December 19-1928 January 10

Fogg Museum (Harvard University) exhibition of Young's Night Thoughts watercolours (selections) <Butlin #330>

No catalogue is known.

1927 December 25-1928 January 10

Fogg Museum, Harvard University. Blake exhibition

No catalogue of the exhibition is known

REVIEWS, &c

Anon., "Fogg Museum Exhibits Blake Illustrations:

Drawings to Young's 'Night Thoughts' Will Not Be Shown in this Country After January 10", Harvard Crimson, 21 December 1927

Anon., untitled, New York Times, 25 December 1927

("The Fogg Museum, Harvard University, has just opened an exhibition of ... William Blake", watercolours for Young's Night Thoughts destined for the British Museum. The exhibition will close on 10 January 1928)

1927

Burlington Fine Arts Club Catalogue: Blake Centenary Exhibition(1927) <BB>

REVIEWS

Anon., "Blake Exhibition at British Museum", Times [London], 20 May 1927, p. 19 (apparently about the Burlington Fine Arts Club exhibition)

Herbert Read, "William Blake", Country Life, 9 July 1927, pp. 66-68 <BB #2499>

*Archibald G.B. Russell, "The Blake Centenary", Apollo, V (1927), 258-61 <BB #2596>

1927

§Blake exhibition, Free Public Library, Lambeth

The exhibition is known only from the §typed catalogue of the 1927 Lambeth Library Blake exhibition with a collection of Blake ephemera formed by Thomas Wright offered in §John Hart, Catalogue 91 (March 2011), lot 75.

1927

§National Gallery, Millbank: Illustrated Guide, British School ([London: National Gallery, Millbank], 1927)

It includes "Blake" and "Blake as Poet, Artist, and Mystic." [The National Gallery, Millbank, later became the Tate Gallery.]

1928 February 1

American Art Association. Important First Editions, Manuscripts and Letters of Jane Austen, J.M. Barrie, William Blake, Robert Burns ... and Others Mainly from Original English Sources (N.Y., 1928)

8 Europe [F] [$11,300 to W.M. Hill]

REVIEW

Anon., "Blake Book Brings $11,300 at Auction | Unrecorded Copy of 'Europe: A Prophecy' Sells for a New High Price. | ...", New York Times, 2 February 1928 (17 pl. on 10 leaves, printed in green and brown, coloured with watercolour and opaque pigments, "with the original wrappers, stitched and pages uncut", bought by W.H. Hill)

1928 March

Metropolitan Museum, N.Y., exhibition of Blake's Night Thoughts drawings

No catalogue is known.

REVIEW

Anon., "Blake Centennial Observed", New York Times, 12 March 1928 ("The Museum is observing the centenary of the death of William Blake by an exhibition of sixteen drawings out of about 1,000 [i.e., 537] made by him to illustrate 'Young's Night Thoughts' ... lent by Mrs. William Emerson ... which are to be given later to the British Museum")

1928 April 3

Anderson Galleries auction (N.Y., 1928)

- 13 "Directions for Landscape Painting" signed "W.B." and [mistakenly] attributed to the poet

REVIEW

Anon. "Autograph Poe Poem To Be Sold at Auction | First Edition of 'Pilgrim's Progress' and William Blake Manuscript Also Offered", New York Times, 1 April 1928 ("an unpublished and unrecorded manuscript by William Blake, entitled 'Directions for Landscape Painting.'")

1928 May

Metropolitan Museum (N.Y.) Exhibition of 16 watercolours for Young's Night Thoughts <Butlin #330>.

No catalogue is known.

1928 December 1-1929 February 28

City of Birmingham Museum and Art Gallery William Blake: The Complaint or Night Thoughts (1928) <BB>

REVIEWS &c.

Anon., "Blake's Water-Colours: Exhibition Opened in Birmingham", Observer [London], 2 December 1928 (the Night Thoughts water-colours are to be seen, about 180 per month, at the Birmingham Art Gallery 1 December 1928-28 February 1929)

Anon., "Blake Exhibition at Birmingham", Times [London], 5 December 1928, p. 17

Anon., "Blake and Birmingham", Connoisseur, LXXXIII (1929), 99 <BB #844>

1928?

§James F. Drake, A List of Fine Books Illustrated by and Relating to William Blake, English Artist, Poet and Mystic. (?1928) Typescript.

36 commercial book illustrations, editions, criticism, reproductions.

1929 February 19-20

§American Art Association. First Editions of Nineteenth and Twentieth Century Authors, Dreiser, Hardy, Johnson, Kipling, Millais, O'Neill, Shaw, Trollope; Finely Illustrated Works, William Blake, French Engravings of the Eighteenth Century, Examples of Early Printing, Vierge, etc. and a Series of Nonesuch Press Books (N.Y., 1929) 94 pp., 754 lots.

The property of the artist Miss Clara Tice, Mr William Stanley Hall.

1929 March

National Gallery of Scotland exhibition of selections of the Young's Night Thoughts watercolours <Butlin #330>.

No catalogue is known.

1929 July 26

Christie sale by Sydney Morse (26 July 1929), lots 15-21, 37

The Blake's were Europe pl. 1, Marriage pl. 14, and miscellaneous drawings <BB 109, 302, Butlin #54, 401, 449, 531, 549, 690>.

REVIEW

Anon., "The Sale Room. Nathaniel Horne Portrait. William Blake Drawings", Times [London], 27 July 1929<BB #1030>

1929 July

British Museum Print Room Exhibition of Blake's watercolours for Young's Night Thoughts 1929)

Apparently no catalogue was issued for the exhibition.

REVIEWS &c

Anon., "Water-Colours by Blake: Exhibition at the British Museum", Times [London], 26 July 1929, p. 12

Anon., "Blake Book Illustrations. British Museum Exhibits. Now on View", Daily Telegraph [London], 26 July 1929 (on the exhibition of about 40 of the recently-acquired Night Thoughts drawings)

1929 December 17-21

Sotheby sale (1927)

The sale included the New Zealand set of Job watercolours probably copied by Linnell (Butlin p. 409).

REVIEW

Anon., "Blake Drawings Realize £500", Art News, XXVI (12 January 1929), 24 <BB #865>

1929 December

§Boston Museum Blake Exhibition (1929)

No catalogue is known.

REVIEWS

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

*Anne Webb Karnaghan, "Blake Manuscripts Shown at Museum", Boston Evening Transcript, 11 December 1929 <BB #1986>

Anne Webb Karnaghan, "Blake Exhibition at Boston Museum", Art News, XXVIII, 13 (28 December 1929), 11 (lists contents) <BB #1985>

1929

British Museum Print Room exhibition of Water-Colours by William Blake for Young's Night Thoughts (London, 1929)

No catalogue of the exhibition is known.

REVIEW, &c

Anon., "Water-Colours by Blake: Exhibition at the British Museum", Times [London], 26 July 1929, p. 12

1929

National Gallery of Scotland exhibition of 100 watercolours by William Blake for Night Thoughts (1929)

There appears to have been no catalogue.

REVIEW

Anon., "Water-Colours by William Blake. Exhibition in Edinburgh. Fascinating Collection of Imaginative Work", Glasgow Herald, 29 March 1929

1930

Bernard Quaritch, No. 431 A Catalogue of Rare & Valuable Books including works on Americana, Bibles, Bibliography, Early Printed Books, English History and Literature, Genealogy and Topography, Naval and Military Matters,

Oriental History and Literature, Periodicals and Narratives of Scientific Voyages, Sports and Pastimes and a Selection of Important New Books (London, 1930) <Huntington>

- 639 "THIRTEEN (of seventeen) ENGRAVINGS to illustrate THORNTON'S VIRGIL (1821). A Collection of Tracings and Facsimiles of Works by William Blake, as detailed below; unbound n.d."
America, "6 illustrations"
The Book of Thel, "Tracings (coloured) of the complete series of 6 illustrations" Europe, "Coloured reproductions of 5 leaves (frontispiece, title, and the first three pages)"
"BLAKE'S COMMONPLACE-BOOK. Tracings of 30 drawings" "THORNTON'S VIRGIL. 13 engravings from"
"MISCELLANEOUS TRACINGS (some coloured)",
"LITTLE TOM THE SAILOR. A modern reprint; boards", £18.18.0

1931 October 22-December 15

Loan Exhibition of Works of William Blake [in the] Fogg Art Museum (Harvard University) (1930) <BB #637>

REVIEWS

- `*Anon., "Mysticism of William Blake Seen at the Fogg Art Museum", Art Digest, V (1 November 1930), 25 <BB #993>
*Laura Howland Dudley, "Blake Exhibition", Fogg Art Museum Notes, II (1931), 285-304 <BB #1519>

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

1931 October

Dutton's bookshop catalogue of the library of Paul Hyde Bonner (N.Y., 1931) <Edwin Wolf Ind>

- 21 "Genesis: the Seven Days of the Created World",
$8,500
- 24 Visions of the Daughters of Albion [F], $10,000
- 31 "Laocoon" [B], $1,750
- 34 Songs of Innocence and of Experience [o], $350

REVIEW

Edward Alden Jewell, "Two Exhibitions of Books",
New York Times, 6 October 1931 ("At Dutton's, on the second floor" is an exhibition of the works for sale from the library of Paul Hyde Bonner "with its extensive Blake material", especially Visions of the Daughters of Albion [O]--the "fine frontispiece in color ... has been placed in the Fifth Avenue show window"; the Blake works also included "Genesis:
The Seven Days of the Created World")

1931

*Sale Catalogue of the Private Library of Paul Hyde Bonner
As Offered by Duttons, Inc* (N.Y., 1931) <BB 207, 269, 469>

The sale included Blake's Genesis (Tasso) manuscript,
"Laocoon" (B), and Songs (o).

REVIEW &c

§Edward Alden Jewell, "Art: Blake's Work to Be on View",
New York Times, 23 September 1931

1932 January 27-29

§Hodgson, A Catalogue of Books from Various Sources ... a

Collection of Books By or Relating to William Blake, formed by the Late Dr. J.H. Clarke (London, 1932)

John Henry Clarke published books about Blake in 1927, 1928, and 1930.

1932 December 19

Sotheby sale of Anthony Bacon Drury Butts (great grandson of Blake's patron Thomas Butts) (1932)

The sale included "Blake's Chaucer: An Original Engraving" (B) and Blake's receipt of 29 June 1809 <BB 111, 355)

NOTICES &c

Anon., "The Sale Room. Blake Relics", Times [London], 1 December 1932

1933 January

§William H. Robinson Catalogue 42 A Miscellany of Rare Books ... and an Original Drawing by William Blake to Illustrate "Paradise Lost." (London, 1933)

The drawing is "Satan, Sin and Death: Satan Comes to the Gates of Hell" <Butlin #520>.

1933 March 1

American Art Association-Anderson Galleries, sale of the library of Willis Vickery (N.Y., 1933)

- 15 Poetical Sketches [N] [$975 to Beyer]
- 16 Songs [Z] [$6,000 to Rosenbach]
- 17 Descriptive Catalogue [J] [$200]
- 19 Letter of 2 July 1800
- 21 Letter of 16 March 1804
- 22 Letter of February 1827

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

REVIEW

Anon., "Rare Books Bring $48,921 at Auction | Rosenbach Pays $6,000 for Blake's Own Copy of 'Songs of Innocence and [of] Experience' ...", New York Times, 2 March 1933 (Rosenbach bought the Songs, Barnet J. Beyer bought the Poetical Sketches)

1933 April 3

Sotheby sale (1933) <BB 408>

REVIEW, &c

Anon., "The Sale Room. Blake's 'Songs of Innocence'", Times [London], 4 April 1933, p. 13 (Quaritch paid £410 for Innocence [N])

1933 December 12-1934 January 23

§National Gallery of Canada. William Blake and His Followers (Ottawa, 1934)

1933 December

§Art Institute, Chicago, Blake exhibition (Chicago, 1933)

REVIEW, &c.

Cary, Elisabeth Luther, "Drawings for Prints. Comment Based on a Rewarding Group of Examples at New York Public Library", New York Times, 24 December 1933 ("Chicago: Color-plates<sup>827</sup> by William Blake are now on view in the

---

<sup>827</sup> The "Table of Collections" in BB pp. 57-66 records no original work by Blake at the Chicago Art Institute, though they do have a number of uncoloured

Print Galleries of the Art Institute")

1934 January-March

§Exhibition of British Art c. 1000-1860. Short Catalogue. (London: Royal Academy of Arts, Burlington House, 1934)

It includes 15 major Blake paintings, water colours, large colour prints.

It is accompanied by §**British Art: An Illustrated Souvenir of the Exhibition of British Art at the Royal Academy of Arts* (London: William Clowes and Sons for The Executive Committee of the Exhibition, 1934) which reproduces 4 Blakes, and §Commemorative Catalogue of the Exhibition of British Art, London, Jan.-March 1934 (London: Oxford University Press, 1935).

1934 February 15

American Art Association-Anderson Galleries Paul Hyde Bonner collection (NY., 1934)

- 11 Visions of the Daughters of Albion [F] [$5,200, Rosenbach]
- 17 "Genesis: The Seven Days of the Created World" [$10.50]

REVIEWS

Anon., "Rare Editions Offered. | Blake Work Formerly Owned by Disraeli to Be Sold", New York Times, 11 February 1934 (the Paul Hyde Bonner collection to be sold includes Visions of the Daughters of Albion[F], "Genesis: The Seven Days of the Created World", and Little Tom the

---

commercial engravings.

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

Sailor)

§Anon., "Blake Book Brings $5200; Rare Copy Owned by Disraeli", New York Times, 16 February 1934
(Visions of the Daughters of Albion [F])

1934 April

Art Institute of Chicago. William Blake and Two of His Young Followers.

I know of no catalogue for the work.

REVIEW

Elisabeth Luther Cary, "William Blake and Two of His Young Followers [Palmer and Calvert]", New York Times, 22 April 1934. <See BB #1357>
(The Art Institute of Chicago has just acquired 11 Blake prints for Virgil, to be seen at a "small but stimulating Blake exhibition at the Art Institute")

1934 July 11

§Sotheby and Co. Catalogue of the Collection of Important Paintings and Drawings Mainly by English Eighteenth and Nineteenth Century Masters, the Property of Colonel Fairfax Rhodes (deceased); Comprising Paintings by J.S. Cotman, John Constable (a portrait), George Romney, Richard Wilson, William Blake ... (London, 1934) 36 pp.

Col. Fairfax-Rhodes

31 "illustration to Urizen"<sup>828</sup> <Butlin #635, "Death

---

<sup>828</sup> It is erroneously inscribed on the verso: "Illustration to 'Urizen', a poem by William Blake--who also made this drawing. It belonged to my father[.] Thomas H. Cromek".

Pursuing the Soul> Through the Avenues of Life" for Blair's Grave] [£40 to Jacob Schwartz]

1934 June 2-August

National Gallery of Victoria (Melbourne) Blake exhibition (1934)

No catalogue is known.

REVIEW

Anon., "Exhibition of Drawings and Engravings", Argus [Melbourne], 2 June 1934, p. 17 (a Blake exhibition "will be open [for two or three months] to the public from to-day") <BBS 344>

1934

Pierpont Morgan Library exhibition of William Blake
(N.Y., 1934)

Apparently there was no catalogue.

REVIEWS

§Anon., "Blake Art Shown in Morgan Library: 3 Series of Writer [sic] Colors for 'Book of Job' Are displayed
...", New York Times, 9 January 1934

§Elisabeth Luther Cary, "Fresh Light on Blake: Morgan
Library Exhibition and Lecture by Mr Binyon [i.e., Binyon]", New York Times, 14 January 1934

1934

Pennsylvania Museum exhibition of Lessing J. Rosenwald's
Blakes (1934)

No catalogue is known.

REVIEWS

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

- *Anon., "Interest in Blake's Art Receives Impetus", Art Digest, VIII (15 May 1934), 17 <BB #962>
 *Anon., "William Blake", Pennsylvania Museum Bulletin, XXIX, 162 (April 1934), 75-76 <BB #1053>

1934

Minneapolis Institute Blake exhibition (1934)

No catalogue of the exhibition is known.

REVIEW &c

- Anon., "Blake's Engravings for the Book of Job", Minneapolis Institute Bulletin, XXIII (1934), 29-30 (to be exhibited) <BB #892>

1935

§**Catalogue of a Collection Containing Manuscripts & Rare Editions of James Joyce; A Few Manuscripts of Walt Whitman; and Two Drawings by William Blake Belonging to Miss Sylvia Beach and Offered for Sale at Her Shop* (Paris: Shakespeare & Co, 12, rue de l'Odéon, 12 Paris VIe ([Paris: Shakespeare & Co., 1935]) 14 pp.

Butlin records no work belonging to Sylvia Beach or offered at Shakespeare & Co.

1935

Bernard Quaritch, Catalogue 502 (London, 1935) <Huntington>

A "Collection of Tracings and Facsimiles of Works by William Blake" including 13 Engravings" for Thornton's Virgil

1936 February 17-19

§*Messrs. Sotheby and Co. Catalogue of Valuable Printed Books, Illuminated and Other Manuscripts, Autograph Letters, Topographical Drawings of American Interest, etc.: Comprising the Library of Sir Algernon Methuen, Bt. (Decd.) ... Including: the Magnificent Butts-Crewe Copy of Songs of Innocence and [of] Experience (the Second Largest Known, and the Only One with Tinted Wash Borders); the Famous Copy of Young's Night Thoughts Coloured Throughout by Blake, also from the Butts-Crewe Collections; Very Fine Copies of Thel and Visions of the Daughters of Albion ... Which Will Be Sold by Auction ... (London, 1936)

Lots 349-516, 529-30 were important Blakes:

499 Songs [V] [£1,050 to Rosenbach]

501 Thel [B] [£420 to Quaritch]

503 Visions [M] [£540 to Quaritch].

505 Young, Night Thoughts (1797), coloured [A] [£580 to Robinson]

1936 March 11

American Art Association-Anderson Galleries, Library of the late Marsden J. Perry and Others (N.Y., 1936)

36 "A Breach in a City, the Morning After a Battle"
<Butlin #189> [$2,000 to Charles Sessler]

37 Book of Thel [R] [$2,000 to Drake]

REVIEW

Anon., "Long MS. by Conrad Brings $2,400 at Sale. | Wells Acquires 'Under Western Eyes'--Blake Water-Color for $1,200", New York Times, 12 March 1936 (the Blake watercolour, "A Breach in

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

a City--The Morning after a Battle", was sold to Charles Sessler for $1,200, and Thel [R] was bought for $2,000 by James F. Drake)

1936 October 17-21

Furness Library, University of Pennsylvania, Works from the Collections of Lessing J. Rosenwald and A.E. Newton (1936)

No catalogue is known.

REVIEW

§Anon., "Prints of Wm. Blake Seen in Philadelphia Exhibition Includes Water-colors and Books, Some Items Not to Be Found in the British Museum", New York Times, 18 October 1936 <BB #1019>

1936 December 9

American Art Association/Anderson Galleries sale (1936)
<BBS 195>

21 Proofs for Job [now in Yale].

REVIEW, &c

§Anon., "Blake Engravings Bring $5,000 at Sale: Rare Set from 'Book of Job' ...", New York Times, 10 December 1936

1936

Philadelphia Museum of Art exhibition (1936)

No catalogue is known.

REVIEW

§Anon., “Prints of Wm. Blake Seen in Philadelphia Exhibition Includes Water-colors and Books ...”, New York Times, 18 October 1936<BB>

1937January 15-April

Campbell Dodgson, Aquarelles de Turner Oeuvres de Blake; Ausstellung von Englischen Graphiken und Aquarellen: W. Blake und J.M.W. Turner (Paris, 1937) <BB>

REVIEWS

Anon., “A la Bibliothèque nationale. Deux Artistes anglais précurseurs de l’Art moderne”, Beaux-Arts, 8 January 1937, p. 1, in French <BB #819>

André Fouquieres, “Le romantique William Blake”, le Semaine a Paris [organe officiel du Syndicat d’Initiative Paris], No. 764 (15 janvier 1937) (it is a “magnifique exposition”) In French

Anon., “L’exposition Blake et Turner”, Beaux-Arts, 15 January 1937, p. 8, in French <BB #937>

*J[acques] Guenne, “Blake, Turner à la Bibliothèque nationale”, Art Vivant, No. 209 (February-March 1937), 35, in French <BB #1759>

*Magdeleine A-Dayot, “William Blake et Turner à la Bibliothèque nationale: premier exhibition organisée par ‘Art et tourisme’”, Art et les Artistes, NS XXXII (1937), 125-219, in French <BB #781>

*Jean Adhémar, “Turner et Blake à la Bibliothèque nationale”, L’Illustration, CXCVI (1937), 137, in French <BB #783>

Paul Alfassa, “L’Exposition Blake et Turner”, Revue de Paris, XLIV (1937), 665-78, in French <BB #798>

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

*G. Bazin, "Blake et Turner à la Bibliothèque nationale", L'Amour de l'Art, XVIII (1937), 30-31, in French <BB #1138>

H.-F. Delattre, "L'Exposition Blake et Turner à la Bibliothèque nationale", Études anglaises, I (1937), 183-84, in French <BB #1474>

Pierre Messiaen, "William Blake, Poète lyrique", Revue Bleu Politique et Littéraire, LXX (1937), 125-27, in French (an introduction to Blake, with translations of poems, on the occasion of the exhibition) <BB #2217>

*A. Watt., "Notes from Paris: Three Master Water-Colourists: Blake, Turner, Guys", Apollo, XXV (1937), 154-56 <BB #2934>

Paul Jamot, "Turner et Blake", Études, CCXXXIV (1938), 592-603, in French <BB #1953>

1937 March-April

Austellung von Englischen Graphiken und Acquarellen: W. Blake und J.M.W. Turner (Vienna, 1937) <BB>

REVIEW

Anon., "Blake and Turner Exhibition in Vienna", Times [London], 3 March 1937, p. 12

1937 March 2

Sotheby Catalogue of... Lt. Col. W.E. Moss (1937) <BB>

The Blakes included "Accusers" (E), America (K and the copperplate of pl. a), Descriptive Catalogue (M), "Joseph of Arimathea" (D), Letter (30 January 1803), "Mirth" (B),

Poetical Sketches (O), Innocence (B), Songs (C, b, d), MS of Hayley's Triumphs of Temper, and coloured Night Thoughts (B) <BB 77, 103-4, 106, 139, 267, 277, 321, 351, 405, 413, 426, 579, 642, 670>

REVIEWS, &c

Anon. "The Sale Room. Works by William Blake", Times [London], 9 February 1937, p. 12 (the W.E. Moss sale will be at Sotheby's in March)

Anon., "Blake Rarities in the Sale Room: £1400 for 'Songs of Innocence' [B]", Times [London], 3 March 1937, p. 17 (prices and buyers)

1937 April 12-13

§Sotheby and Co., Catalogue of Printed Books and a Few Manuscripts (London, 1937) <Grolier Club>

It includes "a collection of books on Fencing; Mountaineering; History; William Blake; etc., the Property of the late Rt. Hon. Sir Frederick Pollock, Bt., P.C., K.C. (sold by order of Sir John Pollock, Bt.)".

1937

Boston Museum Blake exhibition (1937)

No catalogue is known.

REVIEW

Anon., "William Blake Water Colors at the [Boston] Museum", Boston Evening Transcript, 13 April 1937 <BB #1076>

1937

Bernard Quaritch, No. 539 A Catalogue of Books including a fine set of The Atlantic Neptune and works on Bibles, etc.,

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

Bibliography, The Drama and the Stage, English Literature printed since 1700, Fine Arts, Genealogy, Heraldry and Topography, Scotland, Wales and a selection of Important New Books (London, 1937) <Huntington>

- 432 John Scott, Poetical Works (1782), "contemporary calf, gilt, the joints repaired". "It has not, we believe, been noted before that two variants exist of the 1782 edition. In Variant A, presumably the earlier, the verso of leaf A<sub>4</sub> is occupied by 15 lines of Errata. In Variant B this leaf is blank and the errata, with one exception, are corrected in the text. Although the setting up of the variants corresponds, page for page, the pagination differs, owing to a fly-title to the Elegies being present in Variant B, but not in A. The present copy is of the second variant." £2.2.0

1938 April 5

American Art Association sale (N.Y., 1938)

- 279 Songs [L]
280 Jerusalem [J]
281 America [d]

REVIEW

Anon., "Blickling Homilies sold for $38,000 ... ", New York Times, 6 April 1938 (Songs [L] was sold to Charles Sessler for $5,400)

1938 May 25-26

American Art Association/Anderson Galleries.
Americana, Autographs, Library Sets, First Editions ... Two

Important Letters by William Blake ... (N.Y., 1938)

73 Blake's letter of 2 July 1800

74 Letter of February 1827

1938 July

Wilson Gallery exhibition (1938)

No catalogue is known, and Butlin lists no Wilson Gallery exhibition..

REVIEW

Anon., "English Drawings and Water-Colours: Rowlandson, Blake, and Rossetti", Times [London], 23 July 1938, p. 10

1938 November 2-3

*Parke-Bernet Galleries, William Blake: The Renowned Collection of ... the late George C. Smith, Jr (1938)<BB>

REVIEWS

Phillip Brooks, "Notes on Rare Books", New York Times Book Review, 30 October 1938, p. 35 <BB #1293>

Anon., "Blake Collection sold for $66,807", New York Times, 3 November 1938 <BB #857>

Anon., "Works by William Blake: Auction in New York", Times [London], 7 November 1938, p. 10 (prices and buyers; more than 100 Blakes sold for $66,807)

1938 December 2

Christie Catalogue of ... William Blake (1938)

Miss Enid Morse sold "The Infant Jesus Saying His Prayers" <Butlin #473>.

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

REVIEW, &c

Anon. "The Sale Room. Blake Drawing Sold for £630", Times [London], 3 December 1938, p. 9 ("The Infant Christ" sold to Colnaghi)

Anon., "Blake Drawings Bought", Evening Post [Wellington, New Zealand], CXXXVI, 135 (5 December 1938), 9 (Christie's sold 17 woodblocks for £661)

1938 December

**Fine Prints Old and New Drawings and Sculpture: Catalogue No. 81* (N.Y.: The Weyhe Gallery 794 Lexington Avenue, December 1938)

There are important Blakes as lots 120-43, including Jerusalem pl. 50-51, 99 and Europe pl. (13-14), (11, 17), 15 from the "MacGeorge Coll.", Songs pl. 21-22, 38-39 from the "Charles Eliot Norton Coll.", Dante "brilliant proofs on india-laid paper", Job pl. 5, 7, 10, 12, 16-7, 21 plus a "complete set of 21 engravings, early proof states, paper wrappers with original paper label, 1825", 3 Virgil prints (two of them "proof[s] from the Palmer Coll."), and a drawing for the title page of Blair's Grave. (I am grateful to Mr. N.W. Lott for reproductions from the catalogue.)

1938

C.H. Collins Baker, Catalogue of William Blake's Drawings and Paintings in the Huntington Library (San Marino [California], 1938) B. (1957) C. (1969)

REVIEW

1938

Philip Brooks, "Notes on Rare Books", New York Times, 22 January 1939

1938

Bernard Quaritch, No. 550 A Selection of Interesting Books on a Great Variety of Subjects With 27 illustrations (London, 1938) <Biblioteca La Solana>

47 Blair, The Grave (1808), "original boards, with printed label, ENTIRELY UNCUT", £10.10.0

1939 February 10 ff.

[Edwin Wolf 2nd and Elizabeth Mongan], William Blake 1757-1827: A Descriptive Catalogue of an Exhibition ... Philadelphia Museum of Art (1939) <BB>

REVIEWS &c

Anon., "Out of Town", New York Times, 4 December 1938 (an announcement)

Anon., "Genius of William Blake", Art Digest, XIII (1 January 1939), 11 (seen at the Philadelphia exhibition) <BB #947>

C.H. Bonte, "Assembling Blake Show: Display Opening At Art Museum", Philadelphia Enquirer, 1 January 1939 <BB #1257>

Anon., "Blake Exhibition Opens Today in Philadelphia", Philadelphia Transcript, 10 February 1939 <BB #870>

Anon., "Blake Exhibition Opens Today in Philadelphia", Boston Evening Transcript, 11 February 1939 <BB #869>

Howard Devree, "Blake exhibition in Philadelphia", New York Times, 11 February 1939 <BB #1483>

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

- Anon., "Blake at Philadelphia", New York Times, 12 February 1939 <BB #847>
- C.H. Bonte, "Blake Exhibit at Museum. Artist and Seer And also Poet", Philadelphia Inquirer, 12 February 1939 <BB #1258>
- *Dorothy Grafly, "Blake's Art Exhibition Amazing. Makes U.S. Mecca for His Work", Philadelphia Record, 12 February 1939 <BB #1720>
- Anon., "America Pays Homage to Britain's Only Mystic", Art Digest, XIII (15 February 1939), 12 <BB #821>
- *Richard Powell, "Phila. Displays 'Exiled' Art of Blake, World's 'First Surrealist' Painter", Philadelphia Ledger, 15 February 1939 <BB #2446>
- Anon., "America Celebrates Blake: All-Native Loans to a Great Philadelphia Show", Art News, XXXVII (18 February 1939), 8, 19-20 <BB #820>
- *Walter Friedländer, "Notes on the Art of William Blake: A Romantic Mystic Completely Exhibited", Art News, XXXVII (18 February 1939), 9-10 <BB #1637>
- Dorothy Grafly, "A William Blake Exhibition", Christian Science Monitor, 18 February 1939 <BB #1721>
- Anon., "William Blake àPhiladelphia", Beaux-Arts, 24 March 1939, p. 3, in French <BB #1057>
- Anon., "Blake at the Philadelphia Museum", Magazine of Art, XXXII (1939), 46 <BB #848>

*Philip Hofer, “Blake Exhibition in America”, Burlington Magazine, LXXIV (1939), 82-85 <BB #1865>

*John S. Newberry, “William Blake’s Original Line-Engravings in the Philadelphia Exhibition”, Print Collector’s Quarterly, XXVI (1939), 67-81 <BB #2281>

*Boies Penrose, “William Blake”, Art in America and Elsewhere, XXVII (1939), 97-98 <BB #2378>

1939

A.S.W. Rosenbach, The March of Books Through the Ages (1945)

45 Descriptive Catalogue (M), $375 [bequeathed to the Rosenbach Foundation]

1940 November 12 ff.

National Gallery of Victoria Print Department (Melbourne) exhibition of Blake’s Dante watercolours (1940)

No catalogue is known.

REVIEWS

*Basil Burdett, “That Strange Genius called William Blake”, Herald [Melbourne], 9 November 1940 (a general account of Blake, heralding the exhibition to open next week) <BBS 429>

Anon., “Seer, Painter and Poet”, Age [Melbourne], 12 November 1940 (announcement of Blake’s Dante drawings “which are now on view for the first time at the print section” of the National Gallery of Victoria) <BBS 348>

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

John Harcourt, "Art Exhibitions: Blake Drawings at Gallery", Argus [Melbourne], 12 November 1940 (the exhibition of Blake's Dante drawings "will open to-day in the Print Gallery" of the National Gallery of Victoria; "praise of them could hardly be too lavish") <BBS 501>

Anon., "Exhibition of Blake's Prints", Sun [Melbourne], 13 November 1940 (announcement of the exhibition of Blake's Dante drawings at the National Gallery of Victoria; "These are works which everyone can enjoy") <BBS 344>

1941 March

Sydney Blake exhibition (1941)

No catalogue for the exhibition is known.

REVIEW

Frank Medworth, "Exhibition of Blake's Art", Morning Herald [Sydney], 19 March 1941 (a letter to the editor extending "congratulations ... on ... the current exhibition of pictures by William Blake – 'Mad Blake' – in Sydney's gallery on the Domain" <BBS 570>

1941 April 16-18, May 14-16, October 29-30

Parke-Bernet Galleries, Rare Books, Original Drawings Autograph Letters and Manuscripts Collected by the late A. Edward Newton (1941) <BB>

REVIEWS

Margaret Williamson, "Dealers Get Book Rarities; Blake Item Goes for $4,400", Christian Science

Monitor, 18 April 1941 (water-colour for “When the Morning Stars ...”) <BB #2976>

§Anon., “Drawings by Blake Sold for $4,400: Water-Color Drawings Top Price at Auction of Works of Works from A.E. Newton”, New York Times, 18 April 1941

Anon., “Rare Books Sold in New York. High Prices for Blake Drawings”, Times [London], 14 May 1941 <BB #1025>

1941 October 21-December 14

M. Knoedler and Company [N.Y.], Cleveland Museum of Art, Water Colours by William Blake for Bunyan's The Pilgrim's Progress (1941)<BB>

REVIEWS

§Anon., “Blake Drawings To Be ... Displayed To Aid Agencies: Exhibition at Knoedler's ...”, New York Times, 5 October 1941

Anon., “Blake Exhibition Scheduled”, Art Digest, XVI (15 October 1941), 7 <BB #871>

Anon., “William Blake Art Will Assist Relief”, New York Times, 19 October 1941, Section D, p. 1 (on the Knoedler Gallery exhibition for the Refugees of England, Inc.) <BB #1060>

Anon., “Paintings Shown of William Blake”, New York Times, 21 October 1941 <BB #1007>

Carlyle Burrows, “Blake Drawings on View”, Christian Science Monitor, 8 November 1941 <BB #1322>

Anon., “Blake's Bunyan: A Rediscovery: The Long-Lost ‘Pilgrim's Progress’ Illustrations Plead the

William Blake and His Circle

Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

Cause of England's Homeless Children", Art New, XL (14 November 1941), 26 (about the Knoedler exhibition "for the benefit of the Refugees of England, Inc.") <BB #904, corrected in BBS 342>

*Ella S. Siple, "Art in America", Burlington Magazine, LXXX (1942), 77-78 <BB #2708>

1940 December

Boston Museum exhibition of Blake.

No catalogue is known

REVIEW

Anon., "Here, There, Elsewhere ... Boston", New York Times, 29 December 1940 (The Boston Museum exhibited Blake's 29 watercolours for Pilgrim's Progress, "the first time they have been shown since their discovery" by Geoffrey Keynes last year)

1941 March

Sydney Blake exhibition (1941)

No catalogue for the exhibition is known.

REVIEW

Frank Medworth, "Exhibition of Blake's Art", Morning Herald [Sydney], 19 March 1941 (a letter to the editor extending "congratulations ... on ... the current exhibition of pictures by William Blake – 'Mad Blake' – in Sydney's gallery on the Domain" <BBS 570>

1941 April 16-18

Parke-Bernet Galleries, Rare Books Original Drawings Autograph Letters and Manuscripts Collected by the late A. Edward Newton ...[Part I] For Public Sale (N.Y., 1941)

REVIEW

Anon., "Rare Books Bring $97,105 at Auction | 1,500 Crowd Galleries as 139 lots From Library of Late A.E. Newton Are Sold | Blake Items Features | Rosenbach Pays $10,100 for Water-Color--English Bible of 1435 Goes for $3,400", New York Times, 17 April 1941 ("Dr. A.S.W. Rosenbach paid $10,100, the evening's highest price ... for ... Blake ... 'The Great Red Dragon'" <Butlin #520>; Rosenbach also bought "The Ghost of Samuel Appearing to Saul" <#458>, Europe [E] ($8,000), Urizen [B] ($8,250), Marriage [F] ($6,300), Songs of Innocence and of Experience [D] "with the cancelled plate, 'The Regenerate Soul'" [pl. 1] ($6,100); Sessler bought "Christ Raising the Son of the Widow of Nain" <#483>, For Children [C] ($3,000), and Young, Night Thoughts [coloured copy A] ($1,750); Thomas J. Gannon bought "The Wise and Foolish Virgins" <#480> ($3,100); and Gabriel Wells bought America [Q] and 3 drawings ($5,500)

1941 April 22

Parke-Bernet auction (N.Y., 1941)

- 144 Hayley, Ballads (1805) inscribed to Weller [now Pierpont Morgan Library [062 447]]

1942 January 14

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

Parke-Bernet Galleries, Inc., The Splendid Library of Mr and Mrs Anton G. Hardy including The Important Painting in Tempera "Faith, Hope, and Charity" By William Blake (N.Y., 1942) <Yale>

- 19 "Faith, Hope, and Charity" <Butlin #428, "Charity">, reproduction [$2,100 to Sessler (for Charles J. Rosenbloom)]
- 20 "A Dream of Thiralatha" [America pl. d, #267], colourprint, 8<sup>3</sup>/<sub>8</sub> x 9<sup>3</sup>/<sub>8</sub>", matted; acquired by Osmaston "in [14 January] 1904" [$575 to Rosenbach]
- 22 "The Death of the Good Old Man" <#631, copy of the upper part of Schiavonetti's engraving>, wash drawing
- 24 Burger, Leonora
- 25 Young, Night Thoughts (1797)
- 26 Blair, The Grave (1808)
- 27 Job

REVIEW

Anon., "Blake Art Brings $1,200. Tempera Painting Sold at Auction of the Hardy Collection", New York Times, 15 February 1942 <BB #846>

1942 July 20-21

§Sotheby and Co., Catalogue of Printed Books and Manuscripts, Comprising the Stock of the Late Mr. Noel M. Broadbent. The Second and Final Portion (London, 1942) <Grolier Club>

Includes "collection of books on ... William Blake" from other collections.

1943 June

Exhibition by the Woman's Club of Erie, Pennsylvania, in the art room of the Erie Public Library, 1943

REVIEW

Anon., "An Exhibition in Erie, Penn.", New York Times, 24 January 1903 ("The Woman's Club of Erie, Pennsylvania, had a book exhibition recently ... in the art room of the Erie Public Library .... An interesting volume lent by William Doxey of New York was Young's 'Night Thoughts,' with forty-two illustrations by William Blake, colored by the artist's own hand.")

1943 August 20-October 24

§National Gallery of Canada. Engravings and Etchings by William Blake (Ottawa, 1943)

1945 February 18 ff.

National Gallery of Victoria (Melbourne) exhibition of Blake's Dante watercolours (1945)

Apparently no catalogue was issued.

REVIEWS

Alan McCulloch, "Blake Drawings on View at Gallery", Argus [Melbourne], 17 February 1945(announcement of the exhibition which opens tomorrow) <BBS 568>

*Clive Turnbull, "'Treasure' Out for Airing", Herald [Melbourne], 17 February 1945 (a general

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies account of Blake, as a herald of the exhibition which opens tomorrow) <BBS 665>

Anon., "National Gallery – Print Section", Age [Melbourne], 19 February 1945 (Blake's Dante drawings "are poor things .... In these illustrations he diminishes what he touches") <BBS 347>

George Bell, "Impressive Selection Of Blake Drawings", Sun [Melbourne], 20 February 1945 <BBS 364>

1945 April 19

Christie sale (1945) <BB 128>

Mrs M.J. Mathews sold Thel [K].

REVIEW &c

Anon., "The Sale Room: Blake's 'The Book of Thel'", Times [London], 10 April 1945, p. 6 (Thel was sold for £540)

1945

Bernard Quaritch, No. 633 A Catalogue of Rare and Valuable Books comprising English Literature and History (including translations) Printed Since 1700, The fine Arts and recent Miscellaneous Purchases, Bibliography, British Museum Publications, Heraldry, Incunabula, Topography, Etc. (London, 1945) <Biblioteca La Solana>

- 13 Book of Thel [K] (1789), "8 plates on 8 leaves, including the small plate at the beginning, 'Thel's Motto,' printed in green, COLOURED COPY; half morocco ... DELICATELY COLOURED WITH WATER COLOUR WASHES, GREEN PREDOMINATING. THE PAPER HAS NO WATER-MARK ... THE TWO LINES, 'WHY A TENDER CURB ...' AND 'WHY A LITTLE CURTAIN ...', ARE INTACT. IN A FEW COPIES ... THESE LINES ARE ERASED. THE LEAVES MEASURE 29.5 x 23 c.m.", £700.0.0, $2800.00

1946 May 10

§American Book Auction. A Fine Collection of Books from Various Owners: Art, William Blake, Books about Books, First and Limited Editions, Literature, Presentation Copies, Sets of Walt Whitman, etc. etc. (N.Y., [1946]) <Grolier Club>

1946 December 3

Parke-Bernet sale of Fred W. Allsop (N.Y., 1946) <BB 106>

REVIEW

§Anon., "Blake Book Yields $6,000! First Issue of 'America a Prophecy' Is Sold at Auction", New York Times, 4 December 1946, p. 44 (lot 21 was America [Q])

1946 December 6

§American Book Auction, The Library of J.C. Manning, of Richmond, Va., and Other Owners; Art and Color Plate Books, William Blake, Books in Binding, Ceramics, Cezanne, Furniture Books, Fine Press Books, Sets, the Great Works on Chinese Ceramics by Hobdon and Gorer, etc. (N.Y., 1946) <Grolier Club>

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

1947 June 7-July 20

British Council exhibition of William Blake Paris-Antwerp-Zurich (1947) <BB>

REVIEW, &c

Anon., "Blake Exhibition on the Continent", Times [London], 8 May 1947, p. 6 (announcement)

1947 October 7-December 6

Exhibition of Water Colors and Drawings by William Blake [in the] Fogg Museum of Art (Harvard University) (Cambridge, Massachusetts, 1947) <BB #656>

REVIEW

Anon., "Exhibition of Water Colors and Drawings by William Blake 1757-1827 October 7-December 6", Bulletin of the Fogg Museum of Art, X (1947), 210 <BB #933>

1947 November 22 ff.

§National Gallery of Canada. The Engravings of William Blake, Calvert and Palmer (Ottawa, 1947)

1947 December

A.S.W. Rosenbach, Catalogue 47 (1947)

75 Young, Night Thoughts (1797), coloured copy (K), no price

1947

A.S.W. Rosenbach, Catalogue (1947)

105 Aeschylus, Tragedies (1799), Blake's copy, $345

1947

Bernard Quaritch, Catalogue 649 (London, 1947)
<Biblioteca La Solana>

A "Collection of Tracings and Facsimiles of Works by William Blake" including 13 "engravings" for Thornton's Virgil

1947

A.S.W. Rosenbach, Catalogue (1947)

105 Aeschylus, Tragedies (1799), Blake's copy, $345

1947

Tate Gallery, William Blake, 1757-1827; Galérie René Drouin (Paris); Musée royal des Beaux-Arts (Anvers, Brussels); Ausstellung der Werke von William Blake [1757-1827], Kunsthau Zurich (1947)<BB>

REVIEWS

*G.M. Michael Drucker, "William Blake", Arts (Beaux arts), No. 108 (28 March 1947), 1, 5, in French (on the exhibition at the René Drouin Gallery)
<BB #1518>

Anon., "Four English Painters", Times [London], 21 August 1947, p. 5; see also "Four Great British Artists", p. 7 (trivial notices of the exhibition of Blake, Constable, Hogarth, and Turner) <BB #942>

*Anon., "Great Examples of English Painting: Masterpieces of Four Artists at the Tate", Illustrated London News, 23 August 1947, p. 219
<BB #954>

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

Hedy A. Wyss, "William Blake Kunsthau, 20. Juni bis 20. Juli 1947", Werk, XXXIV, heft 8 (August 1947), 90, in German (notice about the Zurich exhibition) <BB #3020>

*Sir Eric Maclagen, "Drawings and Paintings of William Blake", Listener, 2 October 1947, pp. 569-70 <BB #2173>

*Maurice Collis, "A Display of British Genius", Time and Tide, XXVII (1947), 932 <BB #1410>

René Guilly, "Blake, Laponique, les Fauves", Revue Internationale, III (1947), 358-62, in French <BB #1761>

Perspex [Horace Shipp], "Current Shows and Comments. Manners and Modes", Apollo, XLVI (1947), 77-78 <BB #2383>

J. Piper, "English Painting at the Tate", Burlington Magazine, LXXXIX (1947), 285 <BB #2410>

1949 March 3

§Swann Auction Galleries. Fine William Blake Collection, Americana Books and Prints, New England and the West, Art and Illustrated Books, Books about Books and Bookbindings, Press Books and First Editions, French Literature and Art, Early Printed Books, Autographs, etc. (N.Y., 1949) 33 pp., 344 lots <Grolier Club>

1949 July 22

[Geoffrey Keynes], Catalogue of Original Works by William Blake the property of the late Graham Robertson, Esq. Which will be sold by Christie, Manson & Woods, Ltd., July 22, 1949<BB>

REVIEWS &c

Anon., "Sale of Blake Drawings: The Graham Robertson Collection", Times [London], 1 July 1949, p. 2 (announcement)

*Anon., "Graham Robertson Blake Pictures To Be Sold", Illustrated London News, 9 July 1949, p. 67 <BB #950>

Anon., "Blake Pictures Sold: Important Gift to Public Galleries", Times [London], 23 July 1949, p. 7.

*[H. Granville Fell], "Dispersal of the Graham Robertson Blakes at Christie's", Connoisseur, CXXIV (1949), 52-53 <BB #1604>

George Goyder, "The Great Blake Sale--22 July 1949", Chapter XXII (pp. 87-88) of his Signs of Grace with Additional Chapters by Rosemary Goyder (London: The Cygnet Press, [1993]) (an account of the secret manoeuvres by which The Blake Trust secured twenty pictures at Graham Robertson's sale at Christie's for English institutions)

1949 September

§Maggs Bros. Catalogue 117: Mercurius Britannicus ... a Selection of Original Pencil Sketches by William Blake Poet and Painter, 1757-1827 (London, 1949)

Sixteen Blake drawings are recorded in R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 1998", Blake, XXXII (1999).

1949

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

Bernard Quaritch, No. 665 Books on Archæology and Architecture, reference works for collectors of Armour, Coins, Costume, Drawings, Engravings, Furniture, Glass, Illuminated MSS., Metal Work, Paintings, Pottery & Porcelain, Textiles, etc., Books Illustrated by Famous Artists (London, 1949) <Biblioteca La Solana>

947 Malkin, A Father's Memoirs (1806), "original boards, rebacked, uncut", £1.5.0, $5.00

971 Blair, The Grave (1808), "boards, with the original printed label, slightly rubbed, mounted on the upper cover; entirely uncut ... THE WORDS 'SUBSCRIBERS' COPY' ... ARE PRESENT", £25.0.0, $100.00

[Verso of the back cover], The Book of Thel [K] (1789), "8 plates on 8 leaves, including the small plate at the beginning, 'Thel's Motto,' printed in green, COLOURED COPY; half morocco ... delicately coloured with water-colour washes, green predominating. The paper has no water-mark ... the two lines, 'Why a tender curb ...' and 'Why a little curtain ...', are intact. ... The leaves measure 29.6 x 23 cm", £700.0.0, $2,800.00

1949

Aspects of The Life and Work of William Blake by Ruthven Todd. Catalogue of an Exhibition of Drawings and Books Arranged by the British Council in the Fung Ping Shan Library University of Hong Kong (Hong Kong, 1949 Price One Dollar) Text in English (1-14) and Chinese (10-1 [sic]) 8°

The works are 103 "Illustrations to Dante's Divine Comedy" and modern books on Blake (1880-1945).

1949

Bernard Quaritch, No. 672 A Catalogue of Books of English Literature & History (including translations) together with Books from Modern Presses and a Selection of Books on Bookbindings, Classics, Fine Arts, French Literature and History, Natural History, Science (including Mathematics, Medicine, etc.), Sports and Pastime, Travel, mostly in fine condition, Suitable for Presentation, also a selection of New and Recent Books (London, 1949)<Biblioteca La Solana>

122 The Book of Thel [K] (1789) [described as in Quaritch No. 633 (1945)], £700.0.0

1950 April

§The Fine Art Society Catalogue 1062. Spring Exhibition of Early English Water-Colours and Drawings(April 1950)

It includes "Saint Paul Shaking off a Viper", "Jephthah Met by His Daughter", and, "Laid in loose" an advertisement for "The Remaining Thirty-Eight Sets of Original Impressions" of Blake's Job engravings (1950).

1950 November 24

§American Art Auction, The Library of Dr. Joseph Collins and Other Consignors, Comprising American Art, William Blake, First Editions, Illustrated Books, D.H. Lawrence, Medical, The Orient Press Books, Sporting, Sets, etc. (N.Y., 1950) <Grolier Club>

1950 December 8

§American Book Auction. The Important Library of William

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

H. Atkinson and Other Consignors (N.Y., 1950) Sale code 174

The subjects include art books, William Blake, and books about books.

1950

Bernard Quaritch, No. 675 A Catalogue of Books on the Fine Arts including Numismatics (London, 1950) <Biblioteca La Solana>

679 Job (1825), "in Proof State on ordinary paper; newly bound in half morocco gilt, edges uncut .. THE PAPER IS WITHOUT WATERMARK", £32.0.0

1951

Bernard Quaritch, No. 693 A Catalogue of Books of English Literature and History (including translations), Music and Dancing (London, 1951) <Biblioteca La Solana>

37 Blair, The Grave (1808), "half morocco", £10.0.0, $28.00

1951

The Tempera Paintings of William Blake: A Critical Catalogue (1951) <BB>

REVIEWS &c

Anon., "Blake Exhibition: Tempera Paintings", Times [London], 13 June 1951, p. 6 (announcement)

Anon., "Blake exhibition: Paintings in Tempera", Times [London], 19 June 1951, p. 6

§A.C. Sewter, "Round the London Art Galleries", Listener, 19 July 1951

1952 March 10-11

§Sotheby and Co., Catalogue of Valuable Printed Books, Autograph Letters, Historical Documents etc. (London, 1952)
<Grolier Club>

Includes "Linnell's copy of Blake's illustrations of the book of Job, 1825".

1952 March 24-26

Messrs. Sotheby & Co. Catalogue of Printed Books Comprising Valuable Printed Books on Art, Including ... Works by and Relating to, William Blake, the Property of Philip Alden Wright, Esq. Which Will Be Sold by Auction ... on Monday, the 14th of March 1952, and two Following Days (London, 1952). <Not in BB or BBS>

1952

Kerrison Preston, The Blake Collection of W. Graham Robertson described by the Collector (1952) The William Blake Trust <BB>

REVIEWS

§Kathleen Raine, New Statesman and Nation, 6 September 1952, p. 270 (with another)

§Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 15 August 1953, p. 530

§J.M., Connoisseur, CXXII (1953), 119

1953 July 20-21

§Sotheby and Co. Printed Books ... Collections of Works by, and after, William Blake ... (London, 1953)

469 No Natural Religion [L<sup>1</sup>] [£205]

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

- 470 No Natural Religion [L<sup>2</sup>], All Religions are One pl. 1, and For the Sexes [L] pl. 21 [£42]
484 For the Sexes [L], pl. 2, 4-8, 10-14, 16-18 [£64]

1953 Winter

Huntington Library and Art Gallery Blake exhibition (1953)

No catalogue is known.

REVIEW

Anon., "William Blake", Henry E. Huntington Library and Art Gallery Calendar of the Exhibition, November-December 1953, pp. [1-2] ("This winter the Huntington Library is exhibiting ... all of its original watercolour drawings by William Blake, together with many of Blake's engravings and color plates") <BBS 350>

1953

Geoffrey Keynes and Edwin Wolf 2nd, William Blake's Illuminated Books: A Census (1953) <BB>

The typescript corrected carbon copy and the corrected and final printers' proofs, with a letter from Robert F. Gleckner to Edwin Wolf 2nd dated 3 March 1952 are in the Library of the Grolier Club, N.Y.

REVIEWS

§John Harthan, Library, 5S, IX (1954), 137-39

§Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 19 March 1954, p. 192

§David G. Williams, Library Quarterly, XXV, 1 (January 1955), 130-31

1953

Bernard Quaritch, No. 714 A Catalogue of Books of English Literature and History (including translations) Printed During I the Eighteenth Century II Nineteenth and Twentieth Centuries, also Music and Dancing (London, 1953)
<Biblioteca La Solana>

239 Blair, The Grave (1808), "boards, with the original printed label, slightly rubbed, mounted on the upper cover; entirely uncut ... the words 'Subscribers' Copy' ... are present", £21.0.0, $58.50

1954 January 25-26

§Sotheby and Co., Catalogue of Printed Books with a Few Manuscripts (London, 1954) <Grolier Club>
Includes "books on William Blake".

1954

Fitzwilliam Museum exhibition of Blake's from the Keynes collection (1954)

Apparently there was no catalogue.

REVIEW

Anon., "The Blake Exhibition at Cambridge", Times Literary Supplement, 19 February 1954, p. 128
<BB #868>

1954

**William Blake, The Romantic Poets, The Nineteenth Century*:
The Brick Row Book Shop, Inc., Catalogue No. 41. (N.Y.: Brick Row Book Shop, 1954)

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

The Blake lots are 1-70, 668-70, including Blake's copy of Barry's Account of a Series of Pictures (1783) and nine works inscribed "Original Drawings by William Blake" [?now in the New York Public Library], "an interesting imposture".

1954

§Charles J. Sawyer, Ltd. Catalogue 220: Oil Paintings, Original Drawings in Water-Colour and Other Media by William Blake, Thomas Rowlandson, Thomas Baines and Arthur Rackham, also Bronzes, Sculptures, etc. All of Literary or Historical Interest, Offered for Sale (London, 1954), 25 cm, 40 pp.

- 3 Visionary Head of Corinna [Butlin #708], previously offered in his Catalogue 196 (1949),
Lot 1, both at £175.

1955 January 12

§Swann Auction Galleries. Important Americana; the Revolution; the West; Civil War; Confederacy; Western Pioneer Letters; Maximilian's Travels with the Atlas; the 1820 "Picturesque Views of America"; Fine William Blake Collection (N.Y., 1955) 22 cm, 33 pp., 320 lots

1955

Bernard Quaritch, No. 743 A Catalogue of Literature in English (including translations) together with books on Music and Dancing (London, 1955) <Biblioteca La Solana>

- 107 Malkin, A Father's Memoirs (1806), "original boards, uncut; rebacked, but with the label replaced", £14.0.0, $39.20

- 108 Young, Night Thoughts (1797), "original boards, ENTIRELY UNCUT, back rather chipped and boards slightly soiled ... enclosed in a limp blue morocco protective case ... Explanation of the Engravings, is present", £65.0.0, $182.00
- 824 Young, Night Thoughts (1797), "half green calf ... With the leaf 'Explanation of the Engravings' ... 16 9/16 x 12¾ inches, with many uncut edges, one imprint being missing", £25.0.0, $70.00

1956 January 12

§Swann Auction Galleries, Important Americana; the Revolution; The West; Civil War; Confederacy; Western Pioneer Letters; Maximilian Travels with the Alters[?]; the 1820 "Picturesque Views of America"; Fine William Blake Collection; Art and Illustrated Books; Collection of Books in French, Curiosa, General Literature. (N.Y., 1955) <Grolier Club>

1956 February 27-28

§Messrs. Sotheby and Co. Catalogue of a Selected Portion of the Celebrated Library from Brogyntyn, Oswestry, Salop, the Property of the Rt. Honble. Lord Harlech ... also, William Blake's BOOK OF URIZEN, One of Only two Complete Copies Known, the Property of Major T.E. Dimsdale Which Will Be Sold by Auction. (London, 1956) 84 pp.

531 Urizen [A] [£6,800 to Howard Samuel].

1956

Geoffrey Keynes, Engravings by William Blake: The Separate Plates (1956) <BB>

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

REVIEW

§Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 28 February 1958, p. 116

1956

Bernard Quaritch, Catalogue 752 (London, 1956)
<Huntington>

- 42 Flaxman, Naval Pillar (1799), "original wrapper; entirely uncut", £10, $28
- 43 Malkin, A Father's Memoir (1806), "half calf", "The half-title is wanting", £8, $22.40
- 44 Virgil, Georgica (1827), "red morocco, gilt panelled back and sides, gilt inside borders and edges, green watered silk linings; a little foxed", "With an inscription on half-title:--'For William Blake, Esqre. from William Sotheby with his kind regards--London, June 25th, 1828.'"<sup>829</sup> £10, $28

1957 April

Grolier Club Exhibition (1957)

No catalogue is known.

REVIEWS

DA., "Art: William Blake Show: Poet's Verses and Illustrations for Books on Display at Grolier Club", New York Times, 19 April 1957

Anon., "Blake Centenary in America", Times Literary Supplement, 17 May 1957, p. 312 <BB #853>

---

<sup>829</sup> The poet died in 1827; this is another William Blake.

1957 ?June

Marjorie C. Wynn, Blake exhibition at Yale University Library (1957)

No catalogue is recorded

REVIEW

Anon., "Blake's Works Shown | Yale Display Includes an Old Apology on Woodcuts", New York Times, 30 June 1957, p. 58 (The catalogue was arranged by Miss Marjorie C. Wynne; the "Apology" is for the plates in Thornton's Virgil [1821])

1957 July 4-November 3

Victoria & Albert Museum exhibition of Blake and His Followers (London, 1957)

No catalogue was issued.

REVIEWS

*Anon., "Blake and His Followers", Times [London], 4 July 1957, p. 5

§Denys Sutton, "Blake and His Era: Art and Mysticism", New York Times, 1 September 1957 (with another)
<BB>

§Anon., Observer, July 1957 (a notice)

1957 July 15

Christie, Collection of the late Col. Gould Weston (1957)
<BB #652>

REVIEWS

§Anon., "Drawing Brings $11,560: U.S. Dealer Buys Blake Work at London Auction", New York Times, 16 July 1957

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

Anon., "Blake Drawings Sold for 4,000 Gns: Record Price for Single Chinese Plate", Times [London], 16 July 1957, p. 12 (two Blake drawings went to Sessler)

Terence Mullaly, "Drawing by Blake Sold for 4,000 gns. 'American Buyer'", Daily Telegraph [London], 17 July 1957 (the "drawing" is the colour-print [of "God Judging Adam"] sold to Sessler) <BBS 581>

1957 October 18-December 1

*[Elizabeth Mongan], The Art of William Blake. Bicentennial Exhibition October 18th-December 1st, 1957. National Gallery of Art, Smithsonian Institution, Washington [D.C., 1957] <BB>

REVIEWS

Anon., "Blake Bicentenary in America", Times Literary Supplement, 17 May 1957, p. 412 <BB #853>

§Anon., "Exhibit on Blake Slated in Capital: National Gallery to Display Works of British Poet and Artist in Queen's Honor", New York Times, 6 October 1957

*Anon., "Queen Elizabeth Loans Pictures to Show", Washington Post, 16 October 1957 <BB #1023>

*Leslie Judd Portner, "Queen's Treasures in Blake Show", Washington Post, 20 October 1957 <BB #2433>

Edwin Wolf 2nd, "Blake Exhibitions in America on the Occasion of the Bicentenary of the Birth of William Blake", Book Collector, VI (1957), 378-85 (notes the owners of many works) <BB #3000>

*Ulrich Weisstein, “Blake at the National Gallery”, Arts, XXXII (January 1958), 42-45 <BB #2942>

1957 November 22-1958 June 20

§National Gallery of Canada. William Blake and His Circle
(Ottawa, 1957)

1957

British Museum Bicentenary Exhibition of William Blake and His Circle (London, 1957) <BB #680>

The only catalogue is a mimeographed list of 199 Blake entries.

REVIEWS

Stephen Bone, “Divided Heritage: Blake the Artist at the British Museum”, Manchester Guardian, 30 April 1957, p. 5 <BB #1256>

*Anon., “A Tintoretto Cleaned; and William Blake”, Illustrated London News, 4 May 1957, p. 739 <BB #1036>

Stephen Bone, “Divided Heritage: Blake the artist at the British Museum”, Manchester Guardian, 30 April 1957, p. 5 <BB #1256>

Anon., untitled, Listener, 9 May 1957

§Denys Sutton, “Blake and His Era: Art and Mysticism”, New York Times, 1 September 1957 (with the exhibition at the Victoria & Albert Museum)

Perspex [Horace Shipp], “Current Shows and Comments. Blake the Anti-Academic”, Apollo, LXV (1957), 199-200 <BB #2382>

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

Terence Mullaly, "Blake in His Time and Ours", Daily Telegraph [London], Spring 1957

1957

Grolier Club Exhibition (1957)

No catalogue is known.

REVIEW

Anon., "Art: William Blake Show: Poet's Verses and Illustrations for Books on Display at Grolier Club", New York Times, 19 April 1957

1957

Bernard Quaritch, No. 765 English Literature and History (including translations) Printed After 1700 together with a few Autograph Letters and Manuscripts (London, 1957) <Huntington>

52 Flaxman, Naval Pillar (1799) [description as in catalogue 52 (1956)]

53 Malkin, A Father's Memoirs (1806), "original boards, uncut; rebaked, but with the label replaced"

1957

William Blake's Illustrations to the Bible: A Catalogue compiled by Geoffrey Keynes (London: The Blake Trust, 1957) The William Blake Trust <BB> B §(2003) xii, 53 pp.; ISBN: 0758130732

The 1957 edition includes reproductions of 174 Bible illustrations.

REVIEWS

- *Anon., "Mystic Visions", New York Times, 24 November 1957 (A "truly monumental task, admirably carried out")
§Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 13 December 1957, p. 572
§J. Bronowski, New Statesman, LIV (14 December 1957), 822

1957

Bicentenary exhibition of Blake his followers at the Victoria & Albert Museum, 1957.

Apparently no catalogue was issued.

REVIEWS &c

- *Anon., "Blake and His Followers", Times [London], July 1957 (account of the exhibition)
*Terence Mullaly, "Blake's Power a Visionary: V. & A. Display for Centenary", Daily Telegraph, [London] July 1957 (a herald for the exhibition)

1957

§To Celebrate the Bicentenary of William Blake, Painter, Poet, Engraver, and Mystic ([London:] Saint Pancras Public Libraries, [1957])

Anon., "William Blake: A Memoir."

1957, 1971, 1990

*Martin [R.F.] Butlin. William Blake (1757-1827): A Catalogue of the Works of William Blake in the Tate Gallery with an Introduction by Anthony Blunt and A Foreword by John Rothenstein (London, 1957) <BB> B. **William Blake: a complete catalogue of the works in the Tate Gallery*

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

(1971)<BB>C. **William Blake 1757-1827* (London: Tate Gallery, 1990) Tate Gallery Collections: Volume Five 1990 Nicholas Serota, "Preface" (pp. 7-8); Krzysztof Cieskowski, "The Formation of the Collection" (pp. 11-16); Butlin, "The Art of William Blake" (pp. 17-26), plus the list of 172 Blake works plus an appendix of associated works (pp. 42-48), most of which are reproduced.

REVIEWS &c

Anon., "Blake Exhibition at the Tate", Times [London],
30 November 1957

§Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 14 February 1958,
p. 89

1958 February 10

Christie sale (1958) <BB 109>

REVIEWS &c

Anon., "William Blake Print Sold for 220 Gns", Times [London], 11 February 1958, p. 10 (Europe pl. 1 [B] sold to Agnew)

Anon., "200 gns. For Rare Blake Print", Daily Telegraph [London], 11 February 1958) ("yesterday" Agnew bought "The Ancient of Days" [B] [actually a Muir facsimile, see BBS 109]) <BBS 349>

1958 March 3-4

§Sotheby and Co. Catalogue of Valuable Printed Books, Autograph Letters, and Historical Documents Comprising ... Young's Night Thoughts with Illustrations by William Blake, coloured by the Artist (London, 1958) 24 cm, 94 pp.

- 47 Young's Night Thoughts (1797) coloured [copy Q]
[£680 to Traylen]

1958 May 19

Sotheby Catalogue of the Celebrated Collection of Books Illuminated & Illustrated by William Blake The Property of the late Mrs. William Emerson, 19 May 1958 <BB>

REVIEWS

*Anon., "William Blake Works Bring £44,310: London Contest of Overseas Buyers", Times [London], 11 February 1958, p. 7 (prices and buyers)

§Anon., "Works of Blake Sold: Collection Brings $124,090 at London Gallery", New York Times, 20 May 1958

1958

Bernard Quaritch, No. 783 A Catalogue of Books of English Literature and History (including translations) Printed After 1700, also books on Music and Dancing (London, 1958<sup>830</sup>) <Huntington>

- 52 Blair, The Grave (1808), "half morocco, a little rubbed ... with many uncut edges", £15, $42
- 53 Virgil, Pastorals, ed. Thornton, 2 vols. (1821), "the last woodcut by Blake is slightly cut into at foot and titles of 3 others cut off or shaved; nineteenth century calf, back defective", £150, $420

1959

---

<sup>830</sup> Date-stamped on receipt at the Huntington "SEP 8 1958".

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

National Gallery (Washington, D.C.) Blake exhibition (1959)

No catalogue is known.

REVIEW &c

§Anon., "Exhibit on Blake Slated in Capital: National Gallery to Display Works of British Poet and Artist ...", New York Times, 6 October 1959

1959

Pierpont Morgan Library Blake exhibition (N.Y., 1959)

No catalogue is known.

REVIEW

§Stuart Preston, "Changing Symbolism: From William Blake to Modern Use of Near-Abstract Imagery", New York Times, 8 February 1959, p. X13

1959, 1995, 2000

Robert F. Metzdorf. The Tinker Library: A Bibliographical Catalogue of the Books and Manuscripts collected by Chauncey Brewster Tinker (New Haven: Yale University Press, 1959) <BB> B. (1995) C. (Storrs-Mansfield, Ct: Maurizio Martino Publisher [c. 1998])

The Martino publication is a photographic reprint in 150 copies.

1960

Frick Art Gallery exhibition of Blake's watercolours for Pilgrim's Progress (1960)

Apparently there was no catalogue.

REVIEW

Robert M. Coates, "The Art Galleries: William Blake at the Frick", New Yorker, 9 January 1960, pp. 69-72 <BB #1405>

1960

Francis W. Steer. "William Blake." Pp. 6-14 of The Crookshank Collection in the West Sussex Record Office: A Catalogue. Ed. Francis W. Steer (Chichester: West Sussex County Council, 1960) See also pp. xii-xvi and passim

The collection by the Rev. Arthur Chichester Crookshank (1889-1958) focuses on Blake (No. 90-201), Hayley, and Chichester printing (p. viii).

1960, 1962

Kerrison Preston, Notes for a Catalogue of the Blake Library at The Georgian House Merstham (1960, 1962) <BB>

REVIEWS

§Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 28 July 1961, p. 472

Anon., Philological Quarterly, XLI (1962), 571

§Geoffrey Keynes, Library, 5S, XVII (1962), 172-73

1961 March 13-14

§Sotheby and Co. Catalogue of Valuable Printed Books, Autograph Letters and Historical Documents ... including ... William Blake's Poetical Sketches, 1783 (London, 1961)

The Property of E.W. Keese Esq. of New York City

503 Poetical Sketches [E] [£1,300]

REVIEW &c

Anon., "£650 for Second Folio Shakespeare: Blake Poetical Work Fetches £1,300", Times [London],

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

15 March 1961, p. 7 (Poetical Sketches [E] sold to Hollings)

1961 October 27

§*Christie, Manson & Woods. Catalogue of Fine English Pictures and Drawings, the Properties of the Lady Elizabeth Clyde, Mrs. G.R. Delaforce, the Viscountess Lee of Fareham, the Late Dowager Viscountess Harcourt<sup>831</sup> ... and Others Which Will Be Sold at Auction by ... on Friday, October 27, 1961 (London, 1961)

43 Blake's "The Horse" <Butlin #366> [sold by Upholland College, £67,638 to Colnaghi]

REVIEW, &c

Anon., "The Sale Room: 3,200 Gns for Blake Miniature: Christie's £67,638 for Old Masters", Times [London], 28 October 1961, p. 10 (Blake's "miniature" is "The Horse" bought by Colnaghi)

1962 March 14

Sotheby sale (1962)

REVIEW

Anon., "Blake Water-colour Sold for £3,500", Times [London], 15 March 1962, p. 14 (Sotheby sold "The Raising of Lazarus" <Butlin #487> for £3,500 and "The Humility of the Saviour" <Butlin #474> for £2,600 to the Fine Arts Society)

---

<sup>831</sup> Lady Hesketh wrote on 16 June 1802 about the first of Hayley's Designs to a Series of Ballads (1802) illustrated by Blake that she had "sent one to Lord & Lady Harcourt" [William Harcourt (1743-1830), Third Earl of Harcourt, Field Marshall, and his wife Mary (d. 1833)] (BR (2) 132).

1962 April 30-May 1

§Messrs. Sotheby and Co., Catalogue of Printed Books ...
(London, 1962) <Grolier Club>

"comprising ... works by, or about, William Blake".

1962 June 25-26

§Sotheby and Co., Catalogue of Printed Books comprising the Property of Professor Thomas Bodkins, K.G., M.I.R.A., D. Litt, the Property of the Late Arthur Jeffress, Esq., the Property of the Late G.A. Marshall, Esq., the Property of Claude Steen, Esq. (London, 1962) <Grolier Club>

Includes "Young's Night Thoughts and Blair's Grave, illustrated by William Blake".

1964 April 28-May 24

Frick Art Gallery exhibition of Blake's watercolours for Pilgrim's Progress (N.Y., 1964)

No catalogue is known.

REVIEW

Stuart Preston, "Art: William Blake's Clear Visions: Frick Shows Drawings for Bunyan Allegory: Illustrator Saw World in a Cloak of Dreams", New York Times, 28 April 1964 <BB #2459>

1964

William Blake Trust, An Exhibition of the Illuminated Books of William Blake Poet - Printer - Prophet (1964) <BB>

Geoffrey Keynes, A Study of the Illuminated Books of William Blake, Poet - Printer - Prophet (1964) <BB>
William Blake: Dichter, Drucker, Prophet (1964)

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

REVIEWS &c

Nigel Gosling, "A New Look at the Old Rebels", Observer [London], 9 July 1964 (with others) (in part a review of the Tate exhibition)

Anon., "Blake as Artist-Printer", Times [London], 15 July 1964 (a puff)

Anon., "Blake in facsimile", Guardian, 15 July 1964, p. 8 <BB #876>

§Anon., "Tate Gallery Tribute to Blake's Genius", Daily Telegraph [London], 15 July 1964 <BBS 349>

Anon., "Blake at the Tate", Times Literary Supplement, 23 July 1964 <BB #849>

§T.G. Rosenthal, "Round the Art Galleries: The Group", Listener, 23 July 1964

Neville Wallis, "Blake's Vision", Spectator, No. 7103 (14 August 1964), 212 <BBS 671>

Anon., "Exhibition of Works by Blake in Capital [Washington]", New York Times, 25 October 1964 <BB #934>

Anon., "William Blake: Poet, Printer, Prophet", Connoisseur, CLVI (1964), 199 <BB #1070>

§John E. Grant, Nation, CC (25 January 1965), 91

§Werner Helwig, Rheinische Post, 11 September 1965, in German (Dichter, Drucker, Prophet)

§Anthony Blunt, New York Review of Books, 28 October 1965 (with 4 others)

§Hans A. Halbey, Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung, 30 October 1965, in German (Dichter, Drucker, Prophet)

- §Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 2 December 1965,
p. 1104 (Keynes's Study, with another)
§D.V. E[rdman], English Language Notes, III (1965), 24
§Anon., St. Galler Tagblatt, No. 438 (?1965), in German (Dichter, Drucker, Prophet)
§Phillip Wolff-Windegg, Basler Nachrichten (?1965), in German (Dichter, Drucker, Prophet) §Laurence Whistler, Connoisseur, CLXI, 650 (April 1966, American Edition), 267 (Keynes's Study,
with another)
§Kenneth Garlick, Modern Language Review, LXI, 3
(July 1966), 503-4 (Keynes's Study, with another)
§John Adlard, Werk: Schweizer Monatschrift für
Kunst, Architektur, Künstlerisches Gewerbe, LIII (October 1966), sup. 255, in German (Dichter,
Drucker, Prophet)
§Curt Grützmacher, Die Kunst und das Schöne Heim,
No. 1 (1966), in German (Dichter, Drucker, Prophet)
§Laurence Whistler, Connoisseur, CLXI (1966), 503-4
§Margaret Willy, English, XVI, 91 (March 1966), 22
(Keynes's Study)
§Theosophist [Madras], LXXXIX, 8 (May 1968), 128-
29

1964

G.E. Bentley, Jr. and Martin K. Nurmi, A Blake Bibliography (1964) <BB>

See G.E. Bentley, Jr., "A Supplement to G.E. Bentley, Jr., and Martin K. Nurmi, A BLAKE BIBLIOGRAPHY (1964)", Blake Newsletter, II, 4, Part ii (April 1969), 1-29, and

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

Stuart Curran and Joseph Anthony Wittreich, Jr., "Some additions to A Blake Bibliography", Blake Newsletter, III, 1 (15 June 1968), 4-6.

REVIEWS

§Book Collecting World, IV (21 September 1964)

§Antiquarian Bookman (30 November 1964)

§L.W. Griffin, Library Journal, LXXXIX (1964)

William White, American Book Collector, XV (January 1965), 6, with additions in Bulletin of Bibliography, XXIV (1965), 155-56

Cheney, Frances Neal, "Current Reference Books", Wilson Library Bulletin, XXXIX (February 1965), 491-94

Börsenblatt für den Deutschen Buchhandel, XXII (April 1965), 858-59, in German

Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 2 September 1965, p. 756 (with another)

§Anon., "Blake More or Less", Times, 2 September 1965, p. 756 (with another)

Anthony Blunt, New York Review of Books, 28 October 1965, 22-23 (with 4 others) ("admirably edited and annotated")

David V. Erdman, Journal of English and Germanic Philology (October 1965), 744-47

§Book Review Digest (November 1965)

Janine Renaudineau, Bulletin des Bibliothèques de France, I (1965), in French

K.N. C[ameron], English Language Notes, III (1965), 21

Geoffrey Keynes, Book Collector, XIV (1965), 250-53

- §D.G. Lochhead, University of Toronto Quarterly,
XXXIV (1965), 386-87
- John E. Grant, Modern Philology, LXIII, 4 (May 1966), 361-64
- Donald Weeks, Journal of Aesthetics and Art Criticism,
XXIV (Spring 1966), 455-56
- Arnold Goldman, Notes and Queries, CCXII (January 1967), 35-36
- Peter Ure, Review of English Studies, XVIII (1967), 83-
86
- §Deutsch Literaturzeitung, LXXXVI, in German

1964

§Francis Edwards, Books Both Old & Modern: History, Arts and Crafts, William Blake, Literature, Illustrated Books, Works of Reference, European Travel and History (London, 1964) <Grolier Club>

1965 November-1966 February.

[Robert R. Wark], William Blake and His Circle: Two Exhibitions at the Henry E. Huntington Library and Art Gallery November 1965 through February 1966 <BB>

REVIEW

*William Wilson, "A Date With William Blake in San Marino", Los Angeles Times, 21 November 1965, pp. 42-43 (if one lunched with Blake at the Huntington, "he would probably expound a doctrine of free love, pause to wave at an angel who had appeared to him in a bush, then inform us darkly that the President was the anti-Christ")

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

1965

Bernard Quaritch, No. 861 A Catalogue of Books of English Literature and History (including translations) Printed Before 1700 (London, 1965) <Huntington>

- 22 Virgil, Pastorals, ed. R.J. Thornton (1821),
"contemporary pink sheep, leather labels ... With an inscription in the first volume: 'Presented to Mrs. Goldsworthy as a mark of his esteem to her eldest Daughter Rt. John Thornton M.D.'" £225, $630
- 51 Blair, The Grave (1808), "original boards with printed label, neatly rebacked; entirely uncut;
enclosed in a buckram box with leather labels",
"the words 'Subscribers' Copy' at foot of engraved title" £85, $238
- 53 Hayley, Ballads (1805), "calf, gilt-panelled back by Bayntun", £42, $117.60
- 54 The Wit's Magazine (1784-85), "2 vols. in 1 ... contemporary half calf, worn, rebacked ... The corner of one page is torn away affecting the text and the title and end leaves are somewhat grubby and stained", £12, $33.60

1966 November 22

§Samuel T. Freeman and Co., Rare and Valuable Books ... from the Estate of the Late Stoughton R. Vogel and from Other Accounts (Philadelphia, 1966) <Grolier Club>

They include "William Blake material".

1966

Bernard Quaritch, No. 871 A Catalogue of Books of English History and Literature (including translations) Printed After 1700 (London, 1966) <Huntington>

- 75 Blair, The Grave (1808), "half calf... The imprint below the portrait has been cut into", £35.0.0, $98.00
- 79 Virgil, The Pastorals, ed. R.J. Thornton, 2 vols., "contemporary calf, rebacked", £200.0.0, $560.00

1967 Summer

Royal Academy summer exhibition (1967)

REVIEW

§Anon., "Illustration of 'William Blake: double image' (aluminium) by John W. Mills exhibited at the Royal Academy summer exhibition 1967", Times Educational Supplement, 28 April 1967 <BBS 345>

1967 November-December

Princeton University Library exhibition of the Blakes in the University Library and the collection of Miss Caroline Newton (1967)

There was no catalogue.

REVIEWS

§Anon., "Blake Books Here", Town Topics [Princeton], 9 November 1967, reprinted in M.D. Paley, "Blake at Princeton", Blake Newsletter, I (1967), 6-7 <BB #854 and #1217-5>

*Charles Ryskamp, "Songs of Innocence and of Experience and Miss Caroline Newton's Blake Collection", Princeton University Library

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

Chronicle, XXIX (1968), 150-55 (details of the exhibition) <BB #696>

1968 January 9-April 21

*Frederick Cummings, "William Blake 1757-1827", pp. 157-66 of Frederick Cummings, Allen Staley, Robert Rosenblum, Romantic Art in Britain: Paintings and Drawings 1760-1860 [at] The Detroit Institute of Arts 9 January-18 February 1968 [and] Philadelphia Museum of Art 14 March-21 April 1968 (Philadelphia, 1968) <BB>

REVIEW

Anne T. Kostelanetz, Blake Newsletter, II, 1 (June 1968)

For corrections, see Frederick Cummings, "Blake at Detroit and Philadelphia" and David V. Erdman, "J[erusalem]. 95: 2-20", Blake Newsletter, II, 3 (December 1968), 46-49 <BB #1217-28>

1968 November 13

§Parke-Bernet Galleries, American and European Autographs & Manuscripts ... including ... a William Blake Drawing (N.Y., 1968)

16 *"Los Walking on the Mountains of Albion"
<Butlin #784> [$2,100]

1969 April 29-May 18

[Elizabeth Johnston], "For Friendship's Sake': William Blake and William Hayley. City Art Gallery Manchester 29th April to 18th May 1969. <BB>

REVIEWS

Gerard Young, "Blake's Felpham paintings on exhibition in Manchester", Post, 17 May 1969

Morton D. Paley, Blake Newsletter, III, [3] (15 December 1969) (with another)

G.E. Bentley, Jr., "Blake Scholars and Critics: Commentators and Exhibitions", University of Toronto Quarterly, XL (1970), 86-101 (with 8 others)

1969 May 14-June 21

Whitworth Art Gallery, University of Manchester, William Blake Poet - Printer - Prophet: An Exhibition 1969 <BB>

REVIEW

§Christopher Neve, "Blake as Printer and Printed", Country Life, CXLV (5 June 1969)

1969 August

Tate Gallery exhibition of pages from Clayton-Stamm's [smaller] Blake-Varley Sketchbook (London, 1969)

REVIEW

*Anon., "From William Blake's sketchbook", Times [London], 7 August 1969, p. 5 <BB #944>

1969 December-1970 February

*Charles Ryskamp, William Blake Engraver: A Descriptive Catalogue of an Exhibition [in] Princeton University Library (Princeton, 1969) <BB>

REVIEWS

George H. Atkinson, "William Blake, Engraver, At Princeton", this week Magazine of the Times

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

Advertiser [Trenton], 4 January 1970, p. 5 ("really superb") <BB #1095>

Frederic J. Mosher, Library Quarterly, XL, 3 (July 1970), 361 ("a good example of the better variety of exhibit catalog ... Frustrating, but valuable")

*Howard C. Rice, Jr., "Lesser Known Examples of Blake's Engraving Skill", Princeton Alumni Weekly, LXXIX (29 September 1970), 38-44, and in University: A Princeton Quarterly, No. 76 (Fall 1970), 12, 26-32 <BB #2515>

§Frederic J. Mosher, Library Quarterly, XL, 3 (July 1970), 361

1969-1976

William Blake: Catalogue of the Preston Blake Library (1969) B. ... Supplement (1972) <BB> C. ... Cumulative Supplement (1976) <BBS>

REVIEWS

§Kenneth Garlick, Apollo, XLII (1970), 398

David Bindman, Burlington Magazine, CXVI, 857 (August 1974), 482-83 (with another) ("impeccably produced, and ... thoroughly worthy of a most enlightened and generous gift")

1970 January 13

§Sotheby Parke-Bernet. Fine Books; with Drawings by William Blake, George Cruikshank and Others (N.Y., 1970)

The widow of T.E. Hanley sold three visionary heads:

124 "Edward III[?]" <Butlin #736>

125 "Boadicea" <Butlin #718>

126 "Lais of Corinth" <Butlin #712>

1970 July

Pierpont Morgan Library, [William Blake:] 21 Watercolors, Illustrations for the Story of Job (1970)

No catalogue is known.

REVIEWS

§J.R. Mellow, New York Times, 19 July 1970, Section II, p. 19, col. 1

Stuart Preston, "Changing Symbolism: From William Blake to Modern Use Of Near-Abstract Imagery", New York Times 8 February 1959 (About the Job watercolours on exhibition at the Morgan Library)

1970 October 3-December 6

Cincinnati Art Museum exhibition of Books and Prints by William Blake (1970)

Apparently no catalogue was published.

REVIEW &c

§**Cincinnati Art Museum 1970-71 Program* (1970)
(announcement of the exhibition)

1970 December 10

§Messrs. Sotheby and Co. Catalogue of Printed Books: Comprising Architecture: Campbell's Vitruvius Britannicus, Vol. 1-3, 1715-23; Art: Books by and Relating to William Blake, including The Book of Job, New York, 1935 (London, 1970)

Lots 2-13, 17, 19-22, 24-25, 27-28, 30-33, 53, 60-61 are by or related to Blake.

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

1970

David Bindman, William Blake: Catalogue of the Collection in the Fitzwilliam Museum (1970) <BB>

REVIEWS

John Russell, "Blake for all", Sunday Times [London], 7 February 1971 (on the exhibition of 13 January-27 March 1971)

§Gunter Metken, Frankfurter Rundschau, 3 April 1971, in German <BBS 572>

§Anon., "The Composite Art of Blake", Times Literary Supplement, 10 December 1971, pp. 1537-39 (with 12 others)

*John Beer, "Blake at the Fitzwilliam", Cambridge Review, XCII (1971), 110-13 <BB #1142>

Duncan Macmillan, Blake Newsletter, V, 3 (Winter 1971-72), 202-6

§Morchard Bishop, Book Collector, XXI, 1 (Spring 1972), 133-34

Robert R. Wark, Blake Studies, IV, 2 (Spring 1972), 160-62 (with another)

§John E. Grant, Philological Quarterly, LI (July 1972), 643

§Jacques Lethève, Bulletin des bibliothèques de France, XVII (1972), 942, in French

1970

Pierpont Morgan Library Exhibition (1970)

No catalogue is known.

REVIEW

James R. Mellow, "William Blake: Put Upon Painter of the Patient Job", New York Times, 19 July 1970<BB>

[1970?]

§ William Blake Samuel Palmer and the English Visionaries: An Exhibition of the Engravings for William Blake's Master Work The Book of Job (San Francisco: Thackrey and Robertson [?1970]) 4<sup>o</sup>, 16 leaves.

1971 March 29

Sotheby sale of Major S.V. Christie-Miller (1971) <BB 181, 354>

Lots 34-35 were Poetical Sketches (X) and Urizen (C).

REVIEW &c

Robert N. Essick, "What is the price of Experience do men buy it for a song"; Blake at Auction 1971", Blake Newsletter, V, 3 (Winter 1971-72), 183-84 (prices and buyers for sales of 29 March, 15 June, 19 October, and 9 November 1971)

1971 May 21-June 4

An Exhibition of English Prints Blake to Sutherland May 21st-June 4th, 1971. Folio Fine Art 6 Stratford Place London W1N 0BH [1971].

72 entries, with prices, including under Blake 17 Virgil prints at £460 (#2*), Young, Night Thoughts (1797), £390 (#3), Job "1825", "Very fine proof impressions on French paper", £6,000 (#4*), plus Calvert (#18-22), and Palmer (#23-35).

1971 Spring

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

Fitzwilliam Museum Blake exhibition

REVIEW

Günter Metken, Frankfurter Rundschau, 3 April 1971

1971 June 15

*Christie sale of Important English Drawings and Watercolours (1971) <BB>

Lots 141-72 are detached leaves of the Blake-Varley sketchbook, with 20 reproductions.

REVIEWS &c

Geraldine Keen, "Sketches of Blake's visions for auction", Times [London], 10 May 1971, p. 14

Anon., "Blake notebook is split up for sale", Guardian, 12 May 1971, p. 9 (the Blake-Varley sketchbook "has recently been broken up" and the leaves will be sold at Christie's, "which is perhaps a pity") <BB #893>

*David Bindman, "Heads from Blake's head", Guardian, 26 May 1971, p. 16 <BB #1192>

Robert N. Essick, "'What is the price of Experience do men buy it for a song'; Blake at Auction 1971", Blake Newsletter, V, 3 (Winter 1971-72), 183-84 (prices and buyers for sales of 29 March, 15 June, 19 October, and 9 November 1971)

1971 October 26

Books: Art History, Literature, Topography including a collection relating to William Blake and Maps and Manuscripts The Property of F.E. Carpenter, Esq., G.L.

Miller, Esq., and Others To be Sold by Auction On Tuesday, October 26th, 1971 [by] Phillips, Son and Neale [1971].

The Blakes of G.L. Miller (No. 84-114) are dated 1863 ff.

1971 October 19

§Parke-Bernet Galleries. Sale 3246: Fine Books: Modern Illustrated Books: Oriental Miniatures: Illustrated Manuscript Leaves: Illustrated and Fine Books from the Fifteenth to the Nineteenth Centuries Including a Copy of William Blake's Book of Thel: Sporting Books (N.Y., 1971) 56 pp.

343 Thel [A] [$21,000 to Warren Howell].

1971 November 9

Christie sale of, inter alia, Gwen Lady Melchett (1971)

It included Butlin #57, 79, 102, 107, 116, 198 (Tiriel No. 1, 6), 396, 633 ("Widow Embracing her Husband's Grave" for Blair), 723.

REVIEWS

Geraldine Norman, Sale Room Correspondent, "Reversal in values of works by Blake", Times [London], 10 November 1971, p. 17 <BB #A2299, here replaced> (the nine Blakes sold for Gwen Lady Melchett at Christie's brought much more than they did when sold in 1958)

Robert N. Essick, "What is the price of Experience do men buy it for a song"; Blake at Auction 1971", Blake Newsletter, V, 3 (Winter 1971-72), 183-84 (prices and buyers for sales of 19 March, 15 June, 19 October, and 9 November 1971)

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

1971 November 19-1972 January 23

§Marie Cazort Taylor and Tanis Hinchcliffe. National Gallery of Canada. William Blake: A Man Together (Ottawa, 1971)

1971 December 8-1972 January 30

Geoffrey Keynes, William Blake's Water-Colour Designs for the Poems of Thomas Gray [at the] Tate Gallery (1971)The William Blake Trust <BB>

REVIEWS &c.

*Colin Cross, "Blake Revealed", Observer [London], XII (21 November 1971), 19-23, 25-26 <BBS 445>

Anon., "Blake's illustrations to Gray's Poems", Times [London], 24 November 1971, p. 13

Guy Brett, "Blake, Blake, burning bright", Times [London], 8 December 1971, p. 18 <BB #A1278>

Anon., "Commentary", Times Literary Supplement, 10 December 1971, p. 1550

John Russell, "Blake the craftsman", Sunday Times [London], 12 December 1971, p. 27

§Marina Viazey, "Blake", Arts Review, XXIII (18 December 1971), 772-73 <BBS 666>

*Arnold Fawcus, "William Blake's watercolour designs illustrating Gray's poems – and Mr. Paul Mellon", Connoisseur, CLXXIX (January 1972), 10-14 (explication of the 7 watercolours reproduced on the occasion of the Tate exhibition) <BB #1594>

*Dennis Sharp, "Blake into Print", riba journal, LXXI (February 1972), 80 (2 paragraphs) <BB #C2692>

Morton D. Paley, Blake, VI, 1(Summer 1972), 33-34

See G.E. Bentley, Jr., "The Accuracy of the Blake Trust Gray Catalogue", Blake Newsletter, VI, 4 (Spring 1973), 95; Geoffrey Keynes, "The Blake Trust Gray Catalogue and the Blake trust Facsimiles", Blake Newsletter, VII, 3 (Winter 1973-74), 64-66; and G.E. Bentley, Jr., "The Accuracy of the Blake [Trust] Reproductions", Blake Newsletter, VIII, 3 (Winter 1974-75), 88-89

1971

*The Blake Collection of Mrs. Landon K. Thorne. Catalogue by G.E. Bentley, Jr. Introduction by Charles Ryskamp. The Pierpont Morgan Library (N.Y.: The Pierpont Morgan Library, 1971) <BB>

REVIEWS &c

*G.E. Bentley, Jr., "The Thorne Blake Collection at the Pierpont Morgan Library, New York", Apollo, XCIV (1971), 416 (notice of the exhibition) <BB #1176>

David L. Shirey, "Pierpont Display Shows Blake as a Visual Artist", New York Times, 27 November 1971 (Blake "did not have the technical wherewithal to realize his vision")

Anon., "Is There a Natural Blake?", Times Literary Supplement, 28 April 1972, p. 470 (with 2 others)

John E. Grant, Philological Quarterly, LI (July 1972), 642-43

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

Robert N. Essick, Blake Newsletter, VI, 1 (Summer 1972), 26-28 (with 2 others)

D.V. Erdman, English Language Notes, X (September 1972), 32 ("a fine catalogue")

1971

Martin Butlin, William Blake (1757-1827): A Complete Catalogue of the Works of William Blake in the Tate Gallery (1971) <BB>

REVIEWS

§Anon., "The Composite Art of Blake", Times Literary Supplement, 10 December 1971, pp. 1537-39 (with 12 others)

§Anon., Times [London], February 1968

Robert R. Wark, Blake Studies, IV, 2 (Spring 1972), 160-62 (with another)

Michael Tolley, Blake Newsletter, VI, 1 (Summer 1972), 28-31 (with another)

?1971

§Alastair A. Auld. William Blake: Six Paintings in the Stirling Maxwell Collection, Pollok House ([1971])

1971

Bernard Quaritch, No. 910 English Literature and History (including translations) with some Eighteenth Century Literature (London, 1971) <Biblioteca La Solana>

70 "Mrs. Q ... together with a late reprint of the same ... in a morocco-backed portfolio. 1850", £50.0, $120.00

1972 March 16-April 23

Yale University Art Gallery, New Haven, Blake Illumines Gray. 16 March-23 April 1972.

The exhibition is known through a poster and announcement.

REVIEWS &c

§Marjorie Bruce-Milne, “‘Lost’ Blake Paintings on View”,
Christian Science Monitor, 14 January 1972

§Anon. “Blake and Gray.” Bookseller, 15 January 1972

§Anon., “Water-Colors by Blake to Be Shown at Yale”,
New York Times, 14 March 1972

§Fawcus, Arnold, “William Blake’s Watercolour Designs Illustrating Gray’s Poems--and Mr. Paul Mellon”, Connoisseur, CLXXIX, 1719 (January 1972)

*Peter Schjeldahl, “Blake: A Publicist For the Apocalypse”, New York Times, 16 April 1972 (An evaluation of the Gray watercolours, which are just published)

1972 April 13-July 28

§English Drawings and Watercolors 1550-1850 in the Collection of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mellon. Catalogue by John Baskett and Dudley Snelgrove, Foreword by Charles Ryskamp, Introduction by Graham Reynolds. [Exhibition at the] Pierpont Morgan Library, New York, 13 April-28 July 1972

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

The six Blakes, lots 74-79, include "Tiriel Supporting Myratana", three watercolours for Gray, and "Prone on the Lowly Grave" for Blair's Grave.

1972 May 16

Sotheby Parke-Bernet, Fine Books ... including ... a drawing by William Blake (N.Y., 1972)

[The "drawing by William Blake" is a false attribution.]

1972 May 22-23

§SothebyandCo., Catalogue of English Illustrated Books of the 19th and 20th Century (London, 1972) <Grolier Club>

"including books illustrated by Aubrey Beardsley, William Blake, Edward Calvert ...".

1972 November 1-1973 January 31

[Larry Gleeson], The Followers of William Blake: An Exhibition at the Henry E. Huntington Library and Art Gallery (1972) <BB>

REVIEW &c

§Robert Wark, "The Followers of William Blake", Huntington Calendar, November-December 1972

1972

§Bernard Quaritch, Private Press Books, with Some Other Limited Editions and a Section of Books by or about William Blake (London, 1972)

1972, 1979

Roger R. Easson and Robert N. Essick, William Blake: Book Illustrator: A Bibliography and Catalogue of the Commercial Engravings, Volume I (1972) <BB #709>, Vol. II (1979) <BBS>

See R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2005", Blake, XXXIX (2006), 181-82, for "Appendix: New Information about Blake's Engravings".

REVIEWS

Volume I

§Anon., Times Literary Supplement, 16 February 1973, p. 189

§Douglas Cooper, Books & Bookmen, XVIII (August 1973), 40-42

Deirdre Toomey, Blake Newsletter, VII, 1 (Summer 1973), 19

Irene H. Chayes, Studies in Romanticism, XIII, 2 (Spring 1974), 155-64 (with 5 others)
("remarkably full bibliographical descriptions")

D.V. E[rdman], Romantic Movement ... Bibliography for 1980 (1981), 74-75

1973 June 18-19

§Sotheby and Co., Catalogue of English Illustrated Books of the 19th and 20th Centuries (London, 1973) <Grolier Club>

Including "an extensive collection of books illustrated or engraved by William Blake, including publications of the Trianon Press".

1973 November 20-December 18

§Fitzwilliam Museum, William Blake Exhibition. 20 November-18 December 1973 (Cambridge, 1973)

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

The exhibition is known only through a poster.

1974 July 25

§Sotheby and Co., Catalogue of Printed Books (London, 1974) <Grolier Club>

Includes "Young, The Complaint, or Night Thoughts, illustrated by William Blake, 1797".

1974

§Poems by Mr. Gray ([Wellington:] National Gallery of New Zealand, 1974) 24 cm, 8 pp.

British Council exhibition.

1975 March 6-July 27

David Bindman, William Blake 1757-1827, Hamburger Kunsthalle; Städelsches Kunstinstitut und Städtische Galerie (Frankfurt am Main, 1975) <BB>

An enormous *poster (59.5 x 83 cm) for the exhibition reads Das Städel Zeigt Eine Ausstellung der Städtischen Galerei im Städelschen Kunstinstitut Frankfurt am Main, Schamankai 63 15. Mai-27 Juli 1975 ... Quickborner Offsetdruck <Victoria University in the University of Toronto>

REVIEWS &c

N.B. All reviews are in German and published in Germany except when noted otherwise

§Peter Engel, "Hauptthema Kunst um 1800", Augsburger Allgemeine, 21 January 1975 <BBS 462>

- §Anon., “Blake-werke im Städel”, Offenbach-Post [Offenbach/Main], 29 January 1975 <BBS 342>
- §Anon., “Frankfurter Städel zeigt Blake-Werke”, Main-Echo [Aschaffenburg], 29 January 1975 <BBS 345>
- §Anon., “Der Städel-Museum zeigt Blake-Werke”, Giessner Anzeiger, 30 January 1975 <BBS 345>
- §Anon., “Frankfurter Städel zeigt Blake-Werke”, Frankfurter Rundschau, 30 January 1975 <BBS 345>
- §Anon., “Städel zeit Blake-Werke”, Frankfurter Abendpost-nachtausgabe, 3 February 1975 <BBS 349>
- §Anon., “Städel zeit Blake-Werke”, Hanauer Anzeiger [Hanau/Main], 3 February 1975 <BBS 349>
- §Anon., “William Blake in Film”, Hamburger Abendblatt, 8 February 1975 <BBS 352>
- §Anon., “Blake exhibition for Germany”, Times [London], 4 March 1975, p. 12. in English
- §[S.N.D.], “William Blake in Hamburg”, Waiblinger Kreiszeitung, 5 March 1975; §Nürtinger Zeitung, 5 March 1975; §Kornwestheimer Zeitung [Kornwestheim], 5 March 1975; §Kreisnachrichten [Cawl], 5 March 1975; §Heidenheimer Neue Presse, 5 March 1975; §Leonberger Kreiszeitung, 5 March 1975; §Nord-Stuttgarter Rundschau [Stuttgart-Zuffenhausen], 5 March 1975; §Fellbacher Zeitung, 5 March 1975 <BBS 446-47>

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

- §T[heodor] H[ans] F[lemming], "Das Lebenswerk eines Visionärs", Die Welt [Hamburg], 6 March 1975 <BBS 472>
- §p[aul] t[heodor] h[offmann], "Grosser Auftakt zur Entdeckung eines 'grossen Unbekannten'", Hamburger Abendblatt, 6 March 1975 <BBS 512>
- §Terence Mullaly, "Big Blake show in Hamburg", Daily Telegraph [London], 6 March 1975 <BBS 581>
- §Georg Syamken, "William Blake 1757-1827", Berichte und Dokumente (published by the senat der Freien und Hansestadt Hamburg, Staatliche Bressestelle) [Hamburg], No. 438 (6 March 1975) <BBS 653>
- §Anon., "Blake-Ausstellung in Hamburg", Frankfurter Abendpost Nachtausgabe, 7 March 1975 <BBS 340>
- §H[ans] F[lemming], "Untwegs zwischen Himmel und Hölle", Die Welt [Hamburg], 7 March 1975 <BBS 472>
- §Karla Eckert, "Erfindungskraft auf Kleinstformat", Iserlohner Kreisanzeiger, 7 March 1975;
§"Zwischen Schrecken und Lieblichkeit", Neue Westfälische [Bielefeld], 7 March 1975;
§"Hamburg gibt William Blake schon die zweite Chance", Heilbronner Stimme [Heilbronner/Neckar], 7 March 1975;
§"Erfindungskraft auf kleinsten Format", Lübecker Nachrichten, 7 March 1975;
§Flensburger Tageblatt, 7 March 1975;
§Badische Neueste Nachrichten, 7 March

1975; §Giessener Allgemeine, 8 March 1975;
"Imagination ist meine Welt", §Esslinger-
Zeitung, 7-8 March 1975; Cannstatter
Zeitung [Stuttgart-Bad Cannstatt], 7-8 March
1975; §Oldenrugische Volkzeitung [Vecta], 7-8
March 1975 (abridged version); §"Maler, Philosoph, Prophet. William Blake neu entdeckt",
Rhein-Zeitung [Koblenz], 8 March 1975;
§"Hamburg Blake-Erfindungskraft auf kleinsten Format", Stader Tagenblatt, 8 March 1975;
§"Vorliebe fürs kleine Format",
Südkurier [Konstanz], 10 March 1975; §"Blake ging aufs Ganze", Schäbische Donau-Zeitung
[Ulm], 8 March 1975; §NWZ Göppinger
Kreisnachrichten, 8 March 1975; §Kreiszeitung
[Böblingen], 10 March 1975; §Teckbote
[Kirchheim/Teck], 10 March 1975; §Backnanger
Kreiszeitung, 10 March 1975; §Reutlinger
Nachrichten, 10 March 1975; §Schwäbisches
Tageblatt [Tübingen], 10 March 1975; §Alb-Bote
[Münsingen], 10 March 1975; §Zoltern-Alb
Kurier [Balingen], 10 March 1975; §"Der Maler
William Blake in der Hamburger Kunsthalle.
Werke von bestürzender Erfindungs-kraft",
Salgitter-Zeitung, 11 March 1975 (Dörrbecker [see below] comments: "Though the titles differ, all the articles by Mrs. Eckert ... have virtually the same text, which was published by the German press agency 'dpa'") <BBS 459>
§Rolf Gaska, "Weltenwurf in Bildern", Kieler
Nachrichten, 8 March 1975 <BBS 483>

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

- §Paul Theodor Hoffmann, “Die Beschwörung von Himmel und Holle”, Hamburger Abendblatt, 8 March 1975 <BBS 512>
- §Andreas Rossmann, “Dichtermalers, kaum bekannt”, Deutsches Allgemeines Sonntagsblatt [Hamburg], 9 March 1975 <BBS 627>
- §Will Jacobs, “Ein Nachfolger Füsslis”, Grafschafter Nachrichten [Nordhorn], 10 March 1975; §Neue Osnabrücker Zeitung, 10 March 1975 <BBS 524>
- §Hans-Eberhard Lex, “Der Seltsame Maler aus Soho”, Frankfurter Neue Presse, 11 March 1975 <BBS 550>
- §Detlef Wolf, “Visionen eines exzentrischen Charakters”, Mannheimer Morgen, 11 March 1975; Heidelberger Tageblatt, 11 March 1975 <BBS 683>
- §Doris Schmidt, “William Blake—Satan und Adam”, Süddeutsche Zeitung [Munich], 15/16 March 1975 <BBS 634>
- §Petra Kipphoff, “Das Kosmische und das Komische. Zu einer Ausstellung in der Hamburger Kunsthalle”, Die Zeit [Hamburg], 21 March 1975 <BBS 536>
- §George M. Gallweit, “Nahezu unbekannt: William Blake”, Schleswig-Holsteinische Landeszeitung, 22 March 1975 <BBS 482>
- §Evelyn Preuss, “In ‘Visionen Zukünftiges vorweggenommen”, Wiesbadener Kurier, 22 March 1975 <BBS 609>

- §Rosemary Winter, “William Blake – der visionäre Revolutionär”, Die Tat [Zurich, Switzerland], 22 March 1975 <BBS 681>
- §Anon., “William Blake” (Tip der Woche), Nationalzeitung [Basel, Switzerland], 27 March 1975 <BBS 350>
- §Anon., “Kunst: Gott Jahwe mit dem Pferdefusse”, Der Spiegel [Hamburg], No. 11 (March 1975) <BBS 346>
- §Eduard Beaucamp, “Blake oder der Austeig aus der Geschichte”, Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung, 22 March 1975; §pp. 44-49 of Das Dilemma der Avantgarde: Aufsätze zur bildenden Kunst (Frankfurt am Main, 1976) <BBS 362>
- §Herbert H. Wagner, “Träumer und Grübler”, Main-Echo [Aschaffenburg], 29 March 1975 <BBS 670>
- §Ursula Langpohl, tr., “William Blake–Dichter, Drucker, Prophet”, Hectograph published by the Hamburger Kunsthalle <BBS 544>
- §L.P.J. Braat, “William Blake, een zuivere en zeer verre ster”, De Tijd [The Netherlands], 4 April 1975, in Dutch <BBS 424>
- §pth [Paul Theodor Hoffmann], “Grosses Interesse an William Blake”, Hamburger Abendblatt, 4 April 1975 <BBS 512>
- §Wieland Schmied, “William Blake in groben Konturen”, Tagespiegel [Berlin], 6 April 1975 <BBS 634>
- §ej, “William Blake in Deutschland”, Die Tat [Zurich, Switzerland], 12 April 1975 <BBS 523>

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

- §Anon., “Nicht verlängert”, Hamburger Abendblatt, 25 April 1975 <BBS 347>
- §Georg Syamken, “Dämonen zwischen Buckdeckeln”, Westermanns Monatshefte, April 1975 <BBS 652>
- §Anon., “Blake-Ausstellung im Städel”, Saarbrücker Zeitung, 3 May 1975 <BBS 340>
- §Anon., Die Welt [Hamburg], 5 May 1975 <BBS 339>
- §Anon., “Ausstellungen”, Mannheimer Morgen, 5 May 1975 <BBS 339>
- §Anon., “Blake-Ausstellung Kommt ins Städel”, Frankfurter Rundschau, 5 May 1975 <BBS 340>
- §Anon., Schwäbische Donau-Zeitung [Ulm], 6 May 1975 <BBS 338>
- §Anon., “Kurze Kulturnotizen”, Pfortzheimer Zeitung, 6 May 1975 <BBS 346>
- §Anon., “Kirchentag mit viel Kultur”, Frankfurter Neue Presse, 9 May 1975 <BBS 346>
- §J. Sch., “Letzte Folge ‘Kunst um 1800’”, Braunschweiger Zeitung, 10 May 1975 <BBS 633>
- §Anon., “William Blake im Städel”, Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung, 14 May 1975 <BBS 351>
- §S.Z., “Unschuld und Erfahrung”, Frankfurter Abendpost-Nachtausgabe, 15 May 1975 <BBS 695>
- §Anon., “Die Erfahrungen eines Geisterseheres ”, Frankfurter Neue Press, 15-16 May 1975 <BBS 344>

- §Anon., “Blake-Ausstellung jetzt in Frankfurt”, Offenbach-Post [Offenbach/Main], 16 May 1975 <BBS 340>
- §roh, “Hoffmansschimmer”, Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung, 16 May 1975 <BBS 497>
- §Christa von Helmolt, “Die Vermählung von Himmel und Hölle”, Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung, 16 May 1975 <BBS 504>
- §Dieter Hoffmann, “Blake is Beautiful”, Frankfurter Neue Presse, 16 May 1975 <BBS 512>
- §Anon., “Staedel zeigt William Blake”, Hanauer Anzeiger [Hanau/Main], 17 May 1975 <BBS 349>
- §lh, “Eine phantastische Blüte aus dem trockenen England”, Frankfurter Rundschau, 17 May 1975 <BBS 497>
- §Günther Vogt, “Ein Urahn der Malenden Rebellen”, Frankfurter Allgemeine Nachtausgabe, 17 May 1975 <BBS 670>
- §Herbert H. Wagner, “Ein Visionär und Gedankenkünstler”, Giessener Anzeiger, 17 May 1975 <BBS 670>
- §Anon., “Mit 225 Katalognummern”, Wetzlarer Neue Zeitung, 20 May 1975 <BBS 347>
- §Alberto Arbesino, “Le Grande Mostre in Germania: Blake e Schiele”, Corriere della Sera, 22 maggio 1975, in Italian <BBS 354>
- §Anon., “Phantastische Malerei”, Fuldaer Zeitung, 23 May 1975 <BBS 348>
- §Doris M. Trauth, “Phantastische Blüte aus dem trockenen England”, Die Rheinpfalz, 24 May 1975 <BBS 663>

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

- §A.G., “Wirklichkeit aus der Eingebung”, Allgemeine Zeitung [Mainz], 25 May 1975 <BBS 481>
- §Christian Lenz, “William Blake”, Hectograph published by the Städelches Kunstinstitut (Frankfurt, May 1975) (a five-page abstract of the exhibition catalogue) <BBS 548>
- §Peter Winter, “Blake”, Das Kunstwerk, XXVIII (May 1975), 46-47 <BBS 681>
- §Martin Warnke, “Inszenierte Widersprüche”, Frankfurter Rundschau, 2 June 1975; §“Inszenierte Widersprüche: William Blake”, pp. 45-71 of Künstler, Kunsthistoriker, Museen: Beiträge zu einer kritischen Kunstgeschichte, ed. Heinrich Klotz (Lucern and Frankfurt am Main, 1979) §“Bucher Report”, Vol. 6
- §Anon., A.Z. Munchen, 8 June 1975 <BBS 338>
- §Gerhard Mayer, “Bilder aus dem Jenseits”, Wiener Wochenpresse [Vienna, Austria], 9 June 1975 <BBS 565>
- §Anon., Cellesche Zeitung, 11 June 1975 <BBS 338>
- §Andreas Rossmann, “Auf dem Suren eines Utopisten”, Mannheimer Morgen, 20 June 1975 <BBS 627>
- §Anon., “Um die Einheit von Vernunft und Religion in der Kunst”, Presseinformation des Press- und Informationsamts [Frankfurt, Sonderer], 2 zum 16. Evangelischen Kirchentag [June 1975] <BBS 349>
- §Lilian Schacherlk, “William Blake. Erneuerer der mittelalterlichen Illuminationskunst”, Philobiblon,

- Vierteljahresschrift für Buch-und Graphiksammler*,
June 1975, pp. 129 ff. <BBS 633>
- §Anon., “Blake Ausstellung sehr gut besucht”,
Frankfurter Rundschau, 4 July 1975 <BBS 340>
- §Anon., Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung, 5 July 1975
<BBS 338>
- §Anon., Off Duty [European Edition], July 1975, in English <BBS 338>
- §Ute B. Fröhlich, “William Blake – zwischen Mythes und Realität” Lady International, July 1975, p. 12
<BBS 476>
- §Rolf Herzog, Neue Zürcher Zeitung [Zurich,
Switzerland], 1-2 August 1975 <BBS 506>
- §Anon., Die Presse [Vienna, Austria], 9-10 August
1975
- §Diether Rudloff, “William Blake – ein Maler als Seher”, Die Kommenden, Summer 1975, published in 2 parts <BBS 629>
- §Anon., Gazette des Beaux Art, September 1975, in French
- §Angelika Krogmann, “Die Vermählung von Himmel und Hölle”, Die Christengemeinschaft [Stuttgart],
No. 10 (October 1975), 324 ff. <BBS 542>
- §Heidi Bürklin, “Kunsthalle [Hamburg]. Ausstellung:
William Blake”, Pantheon, XXXIII (1975), 262
<BBS 429>
- §T[heodor] H[ans] F[lemming], Weltkunst, XLV
(1975), 426-27 <BBS 472>
- §Christian Lenz, “Blake im Stadel. Ergebnisse der Ausstellung”, Zeitung-Kunst und Museen in
Frankfurt am Main, No. 3 (1975) <BBS 548>

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

§Peter Sager, Buch und Bibliothek, No. 3 (1976), 193-93 <BBS 630>

Detlef W. Dörrbecker, "Blake Goes German: A Critical Review of Exhibitions in Hamburg and Frankfurt 1975", Blake, XI, 1 (Summer 1977), 44-49, in English (includes an appendix of 108 German reviews and comments on the exhibitions, listed here on his authority) <BBS 382>

1975 June 18

§Samuel T. Freeman and Co. From the Libraries of the late Harold H. Kynett, Francis L. Randolph, Lewis Heizmann (of Reading, Pa.) and Other Estates and Accounts: First Editions, Rebecca Gratz, Lord Byron and William Blake Material (Philadelphia, 1975)

1976 February 24-March 27

Corlette Rossiter Walker, William Blake in the Art of His Time, University of California at Santa Barbara (1976) <BBS>

REVIEWS

Richard Ames, "Blake exhibit creative, restrained and scholarly", Santa Barbara News, 28 February 1976 <BBS 336>

§Beverley Jackson, "Thoughts about Blake", Santa Barbara News-Press, 9 March 1976

§Barbara Maria Stafford, Art Quarterly, NS II (Winter 1979), 118-22 (with 4 others)

Robert R. Wark, "Facets of William Blake: Demand Several Shows", Los Angeles Times, 21 March 1976, p. 88 <BBS 672>

1976 March 2-5

Catalogue[of the University of California (Santa Barbara) Art Galleries exhibition for the Blake conference 2-5 March 1976]

Fifteen mimeographed leaves with 99 entries (most of the original Blakes from the collection of R.N. Essick). The catalogue was expanded (to 94 pp.), annotated, and illustrated in the catalogue of William Blake in the Art of His Time (24 February-27 March 1976) <BBS>

1976 April 29-30

§Hotel Drouot, Bibliothèque de Sir A.; livres anciens, éditions aldines; architecture, antiquités, décoration, histoire naturelle, ouvrages de William Blake, livres illustrés modernes, Deuxième partie (Paris: Hotel Drouot, 1976)

1976 May-June

§Österreichisches Museum für Kunst (Vienna), Buchkunst von William Blake, an exhibition of Blake Trust facsimiles (1976)

Apparently there was no catalogue.

REVIEWS, in German

§Buchsbaum, Wiener Zeitung, 9 May 1976

§Walter Zeleny, Salzburger Volksblatt, 11 May 1976
<BBS 695>

§Anon., Wochenpresse [Vienna], 12 May 1976

§Anon., Die Presse [Vienna], 8 [?14] May 1976

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

1976

Tate Gallery Blake exhibition (London, 1976)

Apparently there was no catalogue.

REVIEW

William Feaver, "Time for Hallelujahs: William Feaver on the Tate's William Blake exhibition", Observer [London], Sunday, 12 March 1976, p. 25 (though "the specialists and the credulous may well be disappointed", "the best response" is to say "Hallelujah, Hallelujah") <BBS 470>

1976

Victoria & Albert Museum Blake exhibition (London, 1976)

There was apparently no catalogue of the exhibition.

REVIEW &c

*Arnold Fawcus, "Blake's Job", Illustrated London News, CCLXIV (December 1976), 63, 65-67 (about the exhibition at the Victoria & Albert and the "astonishingly accurate", "almost perfect" three-volume facsimile of Job to be published by [his] Trianon Press "next year") <BBS 469>

1977 March 19-May 29

*Donald by A. Wolf, Tom Dargan, and Erica Docterow, William Blake: The Painter as Poet: an Exhibition Commemorating the 150th Anniversary of the Artist's Death ... [at Swirbul Library Gallery, Adelphi University, Garden City, N.Y.]

REVIEWS, Notices, &c

Anon., "Garden City", New York Times, 10 April 1977

Anon., "Art. William Blake Show. Books of William Blake Displayed at Adelphi", New York Times, 26 April 1977

David L. Shirey, "Art: Ideas Revealed Through Swirls", New York Times, 15 May 1977

*Ruth Fine, Blake, XI, 2 (Fall 1977), 112-14

1977 October 26-28

§Sotheby Parke Bernet and Co., Catalogue of Illustrated Books of the 19th and 20th Centuries (N.Y., 1977) <Grolier Club>

Includes "Young's Night Thoughts, 1797, illustrated by William Blake, and his Illustrations to the Book of Job, and those for Thornton's Pastorals of Virgil".

1977, 2000

G.E. Bentley, Jr. Blake Books: Annotated Catalogues of William Blake's Writings in Illuminated Printing, in Conventional Typography and in Manuscript and Reprints thereof, Reproductions of his Designs, Books with his Engravings, Catalogues, Books he owned, and Scholarly and Critical Works about him (Oxford: At the Clarendon Press, 1977) <BB>B. ... New Preface and Post Script by G.E. Bentley, Jr. 2000. Facsimile of the Original 1977 Edition Published by Oxford University Press (Mansfield Centre, Ct 065320: Published by Arrangement with Oxford University Press by Martino Publishing, 2000) 8°, xxxvii, 1117 pp.; ISBN: 157898243X

See G.E. Bentley, Jr., "A Supplement to BLAKE BOOKS", Blake, XI, 3 (Winter 1977-1978), 136-77.

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

In 2000, there are two additions to the 1977 publication: (1) "Preface (2000) Blake Discoveries and Publications 1975-1999: An Evaluation" (pp. 1-15) and (2) "Post Script 2000: Blake Discoveries and Publications 1975-1999: A Checklist" (pp. 1-37 [after the index]).

See Blake Books Supplement (1995).

REVIEWS

Brian Alderson, Times [London], 1 September 1977

Joseph Anthony Wittreich, Jr, Wordsworth Circle, IX (September 1978), 290-92 <BBS 367>

For a response, see G.E. Bentley, Jr, "The Disconcerting Riches of Blake Books", Wordsworth Circle, X (1979), 126-28

Anon., British Branch of the Friends of the Osborne and Lillian H. Smith Collections Newsletter, No. 20 (October 1977), 3 ("magisterial")

Anon., Choice, XIV (October 1977), 1021

Robert N. Essick, Blake, XI, 3 (Winter 1977-78), 178-99 (lists hundreds of important corrections) <BBS 383>

Adrian Eeles, Times Literary Supplement, 27 January 1978, p. 100

Andrew Lincoln, Review of English Studies, XXXIX, 115 (August 1978), 347-49 ("indispensable")

Ronald Paulson, Georgia Review, XXXII, 1 (Summer 1978), 435-43 (with 7 others) (an "absolutely essential reference work")

D.V. E[rdman], English Language Notes, XVI (September 1978), 27-28

M[artin] D[odsworth], English, XXVII (1978), 200-1

- Morton D. Paley, Papers of the Bibliographical Society of America, LXXII (1978), 396-400 ("an especially valuable reference tool")
- Jeffrey Stern, Book Auction Records Quarterly (1979), 5 ("a remarkable achievement")
- Stuart Curran, Modern Language Review, LXXV, 2 (April 1980), 367-70
- Max F. Schulz, Eighteenth Century ... Bibliography, NS 3 for 1977 (1981), 170-71 ("here is God's plenty for the most insatiable Blakean")
- John E. Grant, "Review Article: Who Shall Bind the Infinite and Arrange It in Libraries? William Blake's Writings and Blake Books", Philological Quarterly, LXI (Summer 1982), 377-304 (with another)
- Michael Gassenmeier, Anglia, CII (1984), 248-59 (with another)

1977<sup>832</sup>

- Bernard Quaritch, No. 979 English Literature Printed After 1700 and Associated Items (London, 1977) <Huntington>
- 47 Hayley, Life of George Romney (1809),
"contemporary straight-grained green morocco, gilt, all edges gilt, back faded and a little rubbed", $300
- 48 Hayley, Triumphs of Temper (1803),
"contemporary calf, rebacked; with a neat inscription on front en[d]paper", $375.00
- 50 John Scott, Poetical Works (1782), "contemporary

---

<sup>832</sup> The airmail copy to the Huntington bears the date-stamp of arrival on "DEC 19 1977".

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

calf, gilt panelled back, the joints repaired skilfully at an early date. There are two editions bearing the date 1782 with identical title pages. In the first the verso of A<sub>4</sub> is occupied by 15 lines of Errata. In the second edition this leaf is blank and the errata, with one exception, are corrected in the text. The copy offered here is of the first edition." $200.00

1977-78 Winter

§Edwin C. Epps, Jr., "Specializing in William Blake, the 18th century, the PreRaphaelites", List 5: William Blake. (Columbia, South Carolina, Winter 1977-78) 2 pp. of hand-lettered text Offers commercial book-illustrations.

1978 January-February 26

Fogg Art Museum [Harvard University] exhibition of "William Blake (1757-1827)"

No catalogue was issued. It is known only through the

Notice

§Typescript press-release

1978 March 9-May 21

Martin Butlin, William Blake [catalogue of an exhibition at the] Tate Gallery (1978) <BBS>

REVIEWS

Anon., "Blake at the Tate", Times [London], 31 August 1977, p. 10 (announcement of the exhibition)

Anon., "Blake at the Tate", Mid-Sussex Times, 2 March 1978<BBS 340>

- Anon., “Blake”, Hampstead & Highgate Express, 3 March 1978 <BBS 340>
- *D.M., “Blake’s best at the Tate”, Arts Antiques, 4 March 1978, p. 18 <BBS 556>
- *David Bindman, “Blake’s Visions of Eternity”, Sunday Times Magazine [London], 5 March 1978, pp. 1, 40-47, 49 <BBS 373>
- *William Feaver, “Fiery visions”, Observer Magazine [London], 5 March 1978, pp. 18-20, 23 <BBS 470>
- Anon., “Blake exhibition at Tate”, Scotsman, 6 March 1978 (press-release about the exhibition) <BBS 349, 341>
- Anon., “Exhibition”, Press and Journal [Aberdeen], 6 March 1978 (first paragraph of the press-release) <BBS 341>
- Anon., “Exhibition”, Courier [Dundee], 6 March 1978 (first paragraph of the press-release) <BBS 341>
- Anon., “Art Show”, Journal [Newcastle upon Tyne], 6 March 1978 (first paragraph of the press-release) <BBS 341>
- Anon., “Art Show”, Journal [Newcastle upon Tyne], 6 March 1978 (quotes the first paragraph of the press-release in the Scotsman) <BBS 339>
- Anon., “Blake at Tate”, Financial Times, 6 March 1978 <BBS 340>
- Anon., “Blake drawings from Milton on show”, Western Mail [Cardiff], 6 March 1978 <BBS 341>
- *Anon., “Event of the Day”, What’s On In London, 9 March 1978 <BBS 344>

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

- Anon., "Rare work by Blake on show", Eastern Daily Press [Norwich], 6 March 1978 <BBS 348>
- *Peter Senn., "Artist", Daily Mirror [London], 9 March 1978 <BBS 636>
- Anon., "Art", Guardian, 11 March 1978 <BBS 339>
- *Terence Mullaly, "William Blake burning bright", Daily Telegraph [London], 11 March 1978 <BBS 581>
- *Edward Mullins, "The Visions of William Blake", Telegraph Sunday Magazine [London], No. 75 (26 March 1978), 36-42 <BBS 581>
- Michael Shepherd, "Visions of Blake", Sunday Telegraph [London], 12 March 1978 <BBS 637>
- *Paul Overy, "Blake the seer and Rowlandson the voyeur", Times [London], 14 March 1978, p. 12 (on the exhibitions of Blake at the Tate and Rowlandson at the Royal Academy)
- *David Piper, "The Spirit of William Blake", Financial Times, 14 March 1978 <BBS 606>
- Anon., "Blake Loans from the States", American, 17 March 1978 <BBS 341>
- *Michael Shepherd, "Still burning bright", What's On In London, 17 March 1978 <BBS 637>
- *Caroline Tisdall, "Beyond the senses: Caroline Tisdall considers the major Blake exhibition at the Tate Gallery", Guardian Weekly, 19 March 1978 <BBS 661>
- Grahame D. Phillips, "Unrevealing view of Blake", Guardian Weekly, 16 April 1978 <BBS 603>

- *Andrew MacKenzie, "Art on Show by Andrew MacKenzie: Emigrant art works return to London", Morning Telegraph [Sheffield], 20 March 1978 <BBS 556>
- *Pauline Hunt, "Tyger at the Tate", Cambridge Evening News, 22 March 1978 <BBS 517>
- *Theo, "Nuclear Tonic", News Letter [Belfast], 22 March 1978 <BBS 659>
- *Denis Thomas, "Lines by Blake", Listener, 22 March 1978 <BBS 659>
- Tom Phillips, "The heraldry of heaven and hell", Times Literary Supplement, 24 March 1978, p. 349 (an idiosyncratic account) <BBS 604>
- John Spurling, "Corners of Paradise: William Blake Tate Gallery", New Statesman, XCV (24 March 1978), 408-9 <BBS 645>
- *Michael Young, "Reason and Imagination: Michael Young views William Blake at the Tate Gallery", Times Educational Supplement, 24 March 1978 <BBS 694>
- §Mark Stevens, "Pictures from Paradise", Newsweek, 27 March 1978
- *Edward Lucie-Smith, "Blake at the Tate", Illustrated London News, March 1978 <BBS 554>
- Martin Baillie, "Portrait of Blake as a painter", Glasgow Herald, 4 April 1978 <BBS357>
- §*Bernard Levin, "Ecstasy indeed in Blake's blinding light." Times [London], 4 April 1978, p. 14
- Gertrud Mander, "Augenmensch und Mystiker", Stuttgarter Zeitung, 4 April 1978, p. 23, in German

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

*John McEwen, “Not Like Some Immortal”, Spectator, CCXL (8 April 1978) <BBS 568>

For a comment, see Désirée Hirst, “Blake the traditionalist”, Spectator, CCXL (22 April 1978), 18 <BBS 510>

*Robert Hughes, “The Gentle Seer of Felpham: London’s Blake Retrospective”, Time, CXI (10 April 1978), 48 50 <BBS 516>

*Frank Davis, “Who’s afraid of William Blake? Frank Davis sees the Tate Gallery’s major exhibition”, Arts & Antiques, 15 April 1978, pp. 10-11 <BBS 449>

John Griffiths, “Blake assessed”, Tablet, 15 April 1978 <BBS 495>

*Arthur Moyse, “Fie to You, Sir”, Freedom, 29 April 1978, pp. 12-13 (caviar for the masses) <BBS 580>

Theodore Crombie, “Round the Galleries: Things in Heaven and Earth”, Apollo (April 1978) <BBS 445>

*Anon., “An age through two pairs of eyes: 1. Blake the visionary. 2. Rowlandson the satirist”, London Hilton Magazine, April-May 1978 (on the exhibitions of Blake at the Tate and Rowlandson at the Royal Academy) <BBS 339>

Edda Schmitt, “Kosmische Geister in Wasserfarben: Unheimliche Begegnung vor 200 Jahren – Tate Gallery zeigt William Blake”, Frankfurter Neue Press, 6 May 1978, in German

Karl-Heinz Bohrer, “Geometrie des schrecklichen Ausdrucks: William Blakes gezeichnete Visionen – Eine Ausstellung der Londoner Tate Gallery", Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung, 16 May 1978, p. 24, in German

*William Vaughan, "The Arts in Europe. Great Britain. William Blake", Connoisseur, CXCVIII (May 1978) <BBS 668>

Anon., "Blake at the Tate Gallery", Book Collector, XXVII (1978), 159-60, 163-64, 167-68 (the exhibition is "a triumph" [p. 167]) <BBS 340>

Ruth E. Fine, "Blake at the Tate", Blake, XII, 1 (Summer 1978), 42-55 <BBS 384>

Gwen Stone, "William Blake: A Retrospective Exhibition at the Tate", Visual Dialog, IV, 1 (Fall 1978)

David Bindman (bis), "William Blake – an exhibition and a Book", Burlington Magazine, CXX (1978), 418-21 (with another) <BBS 374>

§Fenella Crichton, Pantheon, XXXVI (1978), 284

§Theodore Crombie, Apollo, CVII (1978), 329

§Vivien Lowenstein, Arts Review, XXX (1978), 151-52

§Christopher Neve, Country Life, CLXIII (1978), 902-3

§Ronald Paulson, Georgia Review, XXXII (1978), 435-43 (with 7 others)

Martin Butlin, "Thoughts on the 1978 Tate Gallery Exhibition", Blake, XIII, 1 (Summer 1979), 16-32 ("Blake must be seen as one of the greatest of the visual artists that Britain has produced" [p. 23]) <BBS 388>

§Anne K. Mellor, Art Journal, XXXIX (1979), 76-78 (with 3 others)

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

1978 May-June

Huntington Library and Art Gallery “Prints by Blake” (1978)

No catalogue is known.

REVIEW

Robert R. Wark., “Prints by Blake”, Huntington Calendar: An Informal Account of Happenings in the Library, Art Gallery, Botanic Gardens May-June 1978, pp. 2-3 <BBS 672>

1978 October 19-November 10

G. Inqli James, Images of William Blake: Exhibition at the Arts and Social Studies Library, University College, Cardiff (1978), 1 sheet

Typescript catalogue of 48 photographs and facsimiles.

1978 November 1

Christie sale (1978) <BBS 128>

REVIEW &c

Lily Zimmerman, Publicist, “Blake’s Songs of Innocence and of Experience”, Auction News from Christie’s, X, 5 (November 1988), 4 (“Christie’s is proud to offer” Songs [BB]) <BBS 696>

1978<sup>833</sup>

Bernard Quaritch, No. 985 English Literature from 1700 Including Some Autograph Letters (London, 1978)

---

<sup>833</sup> Huntington date-stamp "MAY 16 1978".

<Huntington>

- 27 Cumberland, Thoughts on Outline (1796), "original boards, rebaked", $250.00
- 28 Flaxman, The Iliad (1805), "new half calf on the original boards with paper label", $125.00
- 30 Gay, Fables (1793), "contemporary mottled calf, rebaked, the original gilt panelling neatly laid down", $400.00
- 32 Hayley, The Triumphs of Temper (1803), "contemporary calf, rebaked; with a neat inscription on front end-paper", $475.00

1978

Bernard Quaritch, No. 992 English Literature from 1800 Including Some Autograph Letters (London, 1978)
<Biblioteca La Solana>

- 58 Malkin, A Father's Memoirs (1806), "early half calf, joints cracking", $400.00
- 59 J.T. Smith, Nollekens and His Times, Second Edition (1829), "boards, calf backs", $300.00

1979 March 29-May 13

§Diana L. Johnson. "William Blake (1757-1827)." Fantastic Illustration and Design in Britain, 1850-1930. [Catalogue for an exhibition] ... March 29-May 13, 1979 at Museum of Art, Rhode Island School of Design etc. (Providence: Rhode Island, 1979) Pp. 49-50.

1979 June 13

Christie sale <BBS 123>

Songs (D) sold for £70,000.

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

REVIEW

Anon., "Blake Book Fetches A Record $140,000", New York Times, 14 June 1979<BBS 340>

[1979] September 6-October 31

§William Blake Samuel Palmer and the English Visionaries. Thackrey and Robertson, 2266 Union Street, San Francisco, Ca 567-4842 September 6-October 31 [1979<sup>834</sup>].

My only information about the exhibition derives from a *poster (34.4 x 61 cm): William Blake Samuel Palmer and the English Visionaries. Thackrey and Robertson, 2266 Union Street, San Francisco, Ca 567-4842 September 6-October 31 [1979]. Saint Heironymous Press <Victoria University in the University of Toronto>

1979 November 15-December 20

§P. and D. Colnaghi, Exhibition of English Drawings and Watercolours (London, 1979)

74 Blake's "The Witch of Endor" <Butlin #74>.

1979 November

§Woodspurge Books [Edwin C. Epps, Jr.] Special List 79-2: William Blake – A Supplement to Catalogue One. (November 1979) 3 pages

1979

---

<sup>834</sup> The printer of the poster, David Goines, says that it was designed and printed in 1979, probably in a run of 500 (minimum) to 1,500 copies (maximum) -- perhaps 950-1,250 (as John Windle reports to me in an e-mail of 30 Sept 2013).

Pierpont Morgan Library Blake exhibition (1979)

No catalogue is known.

REVIEW

§John Ashbery, "Blake and the Fuseli Circle", pp. 71-73 of Reported Sightings: Art Chronicles, 1957-1987, ed. David Bergman (N.Y., 1989) (reprint of a review [1979] of the exhibitions of Blake at the Pierpont Morgan Library and of the "Fuseli Circle in Rome" at Yale) <BBS 354>

1980 August 8-October 2

[Andrew Bogle.] William Blake: ILLUSTRATIONS OF THE BOOK OF JOB; Henry Fuseli, THE THREE WITCHES OF MACBETH and Associated Works. [Exhibition at the] Auckland City Art Gallery August 8-October 2 1980([Auckland: Auckland City Art Gallery, 1980])

A 17-page catalogue in typescript for Blake's 22 Job engravings, 8 works by Fuseli, and others by Alexander Runciman and Richard Westall.

The Blake section is reprinted in the National Art Gallery of New Zealand catalogue of 11 February-25 March [1981?].

1980 October 21-22

§Sotheby Beresford Adams, Printed Books (Chester, 1980) <Grolier Club>

"with a selection of English illustrated books by various artists including William Blake".

1980 November 13

§Sotheby Parke-Bernet and Co., Eighteenth and Nineteenth

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

Century British Watercolours and Drawings: ... by William Blake ... John Constable ... Joseph Mallord William Turner ... Which Will Be Sold by Auction ... Thursday, 13th November 1980 (N.Y., 1980) 201 pp.

106 "Ugolino" <Butlin #208>

107 A study for "The Good Farmer" <#120A>

108 "Searching Among the Dead on a Battlefield" <#197A>

1980

§From Blake to Miró: Fine Prints by 19th & 20th Century European and British Masters (London: William Weston Gallery, [1980]) Weston Catalogue No. 3 44 pp.

The catalogue includes prices.

[1981?] February 11-March 25

*Andrew Bogle. William Blake: ILLUSTRATIONS OF THE BOOK OF JOB [Exhibition at the] National Art Gallery, 11 February-25 March [?1981] ([Wellington, New Zealand: National Art Gallery, (?1981)])

Except for the illustrated title page, this is identical to the Blake section of the Auckland City Art Gallery catalogue of 8 August-2 October 1980.

1981 September 4[?]-October 4

Pierpont Morgan Library, "William Blake Watercolors and Illuminated Books"

No catalogue of the exhibition is known.

REVIEW

John Russell, "Sendak and Friends at the Morgan

Library", New York Times, 4 September 1981 (review includes Morgan exhibitions of Sendak and Mozart)

1981 September

§Estate Book Sales [catalogue of] William Blake.
(September 1981) 5 pp.
Secondary materials.

1981

Martin Butlin, The Paintings and Drawings of William Blake
(1981) <BBS>

See Butlin, "Paintings and Drawings of William Blake (1981): Some Minor Additions", Blake, XVII, 4 (Spring 1984), 159.

REVIEWS &c

*Martin Butlin, "The Catalogue of Blake's Designs Completed, and a Last Minute Inclusion", *Blake
Newsletter*, IX, 2 (Fall 1975), 48-49

§Michael Mason, Times Literary Supplement, 11
September 1981, p. 1044

§Robert H. Getscher, ARLIS//INA Newsletter,
December 1981(with another)

§Anon., Choice, XIX (1981), 60

I.H. C[hayes], Romantic Movement ... Bibliography for 1980 (1981), 78-79

§Eric Shanes, Turner Studies, I (1981), 45-47

*Harold Bloom, New York Times, 3 January 1982, p. 4
("exemplary")

§Brian Alderson, Times Higher Education Supplement,
15 January 1982 (with 2 others)

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

- §Peter Parker, New Statesman, 29 January 1982, pp. 18-19
- §Zachary Leader, Art Book Review, I, 1 (March 1982) (with 3 others)
- §Maurits Engelborghs, Deutsche Warande en Belfort, CXXVII, 4 (May 1982), in German (with 2 others)
- §Jean H. Hagstrum, Modern Philology, LXXIX, 4 (May 1982), 445-51
- §Morris Eaves, Studies in Romanticism, XXV, 1 (Spring 1982), 147-54
- *Robert N. Essick, Blake, XV, 4 (Spring 1982), 22-65 (an important series of corrections, extensions, and evaluations) <BBS 393>
- §Irene Tayler, Art Journal, XLII, 1 (Spring 1982), 66-69
- §Jerrold Ziff, Art Bulletin, LXIV, 4 (December 1982), 673-75
- §David Brown, Art International, XXV (1982), 111-12
- §Michael Ferber, Yale Review, LXXI, 2 (1982), ix-xiii
- §Kenneth Garlick, Notes and Queries, NS XXIX (1982), 451-54
- §John Hayes, Journal of the Royal Society of Arts, CXXX (1982), 594-95
- §Peter Quennell, Apollo, CXV (1982), 295
- §William Vaughan, "Blake and the Interpreters", Art History, V (1982), 106-9 (with 2 others)
- §David Bindman, Burlington Magazine, CXXV, 963 (June 1983), 370-71
- §Jonathan Wordsworth, Review of English Studies, XXXV (1984), 92-95

§Morris Eaves, Studies in Romanticism, XXV, 1
(Spring 1986), 147-54

1982 January 27-March 28

*Götz Czymmek, Druckgraphik von William Blake aus der Sammlung Neuerberg Ausstellung in der Graphischen Sammlung des Wallraf-Richartz-Museum vom 27. Januar bis. 28. März 1982 (Cologne, 1982) In German <BBS 298>

It includes prints from Songs of Innocence (Y).

REVIEW

Anon., “Ausstellungen Im Studiensaal der Graphischen Sammlung 27. Januar bis 28. März 1982 Druckgraphik von William Blake aus der Sammlung Neuerburg”, Museum der Stadt Köln Januar bis June 1982 [December 1981] (the Blakes are Innocence [Y] and Job), in German <BBS 339-40>

1982 February 5-March 28

William Blake to David Hockney: a private collection of British Prints [exhibited at the] Ashmolean Museum (1982)
<BBS>

REVIEW

§Celina Fox, Times Literary Supplement, 26 February 1982, p. 215

1982 September 15-1983 February 15

*David Bindman, William Blake His Art and Times [Catalogue of an exhibition at] The Yale Center for British Art [15 September-14 November 1982, and at] The Art Gallery of Ontario [3 December 1982-15 February 1982]

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

(London, New Haven, Toronto, 1982) B. §(London, 1988)
<BBS>

REVIEWS, &c

David Bindman, "Yale/Toronto exhibition", Blake,
XIV, 2 (Fall 1980), 108 (proposed for 1982-83)
<BBS 390>

Tracie Rozhon, "Search Reveals 'Missing' Print by Blake", New York Times, 26 September 1982
("One woman [Mrs William T. Tonner], a renowned Blake fancier, had left her magnificent collection to the Philadelphia Museum of Art years ago [c. 1972]. But when everything was sorted out, the curators there discovered that a very important print ["Newton" colour print <Butlin #307>], was missing from this bequest." She had left other things, including her mansion in Glen Foerd, Pennsylvania, to the Lutheran Church of America, so Bindman and a curator went there and found it with a Blake water colour [?"Moses Striking the Rock" <Butlin #445>]. The print had not been included in the bequest because it was thought to be only a print.)

*Edward Lucie-Smith, "The fiery vision of William Blake is burning bright", Smithsonian, XIII, 6
(September 1982), 50-59 <BBS 555>

K[aren] M[ulhallen], "Blake: His Art and Times",
Canadian Forum, LXII, 723 (September 1982),
42 <BBS 580>

- *John Russell, “Compelling Images Are Blake’s Hallmark”, New York Times, 3 October 1982, p. H27 <BBS 629>
- §Kenneth Baker, Boston Phoenix, 28 October 1982<BBS 359>
- *I.N., “Pursuing the Fiery Vision of William Blake – Artist, Poet, Radical Romantic – in a Radiant New Show”, Vogue, October 1982, p. 82 <BBS 582>
- §Anon., Allgemeine Zeitung, 24 November 1982, p. 25
- §Anon., “William Blake: His Art and Times”, Yale Center for British Art: Calendar of Events, Preview of Exhibitions, September-December 1982
- *David Hume, “Poet, prophet, artist, mystic: AGO exhibition offers rare glimpse into the mind of William Blake”, Toronto Star, 4 December 1982, p. F5 <BBS 516>
- *John Bentley Mays, “The Vision of Blake: brilliant, disturbing: William Blake – social revolutionary, working man, poet, painter, eccentric, Christian visionary, ‘a man perfect in his way, and beautifully unfit for walking in the way of any other man’ – meets the public today in a glorious exhibition of his tempera watercolors and engravings at the Art Gallery of Ontario”, Globe and Mail [Toronto], 4 December 1982, p. E1 <BBS 566>
- §Gillian MacKay, Maclean’s, 13 December 1982, p. 52

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

- *Anthony Bannon, “Blake’s Genius Burns Bright: once-in-a-lifetime exhibition in Toronto”, Buffalo News, 19 December 1982<BBS 360>
- *Katharine A. Lochnan, “The Art of William Blake Comes to Toronto”, The Gallery: a Publication of the Art Gallery of Ontario, IV, 10 (December 1982), 1 (background of the exhibition) <BBS 553>
- §*Karen Mulhallen, Canadian Forum, LXII, No. 723 (December 1982-January 1983), 33-34
- Morton D. Paley, “Toronto and Yale: William Blake: His Art and Times”, Burlington Magazine, CXXIV, 957 (December 1982), 789-791 (“a Storehouse of Intellectual Riches”) <BBS 598>
- Rob Kelly, “Blake at AGO: A terrible beauty”, Excalibur [York University, Toronto], 21 January 1983<BBS 533>
- *John Bentley Mays, “Blake draws 70,000 across AGO threshold”, Globe and Mail [Toronto], 7 February 1983<BBS 566>
- §Donna Gold, Horizon, January-February 1983, p. 9
- *Kenneth Baker, “Northern lights: Seizing the Blakean fire”, Boston Phoenix, 15 March 1983, pp. 6, 13 (reviews the symposium and exhibition and two other Blake books) <BBS 359>
- §Martin Butlin, Master Drawings, XXII, 1 (Spring 1983), 62-64
- *Ruth E. Fine, Blake, XVI, 4 (Spring 1983), 226-32 <BBS>

- W. L. Pressly, "The Art of William Blake", Art Journal, XLIII 1 (Spring 1983), 77-80 <BBS 609>
§Anon., Choice, XX (1983), 964
I.H. C[hayes], Romantic Movement ... Bibliography for 1982 (1983), 80-81
§Edward Larrissy, "Horses of Instruction", Art History, VI (1983), 478-81 (with others)
*Richard V. Lee, M.D., "The Generalist: A Jaundiced View. XXVI. A Message from Mister William Blake", American Journal of Medicine, LXXV (1983), 902-4 (the Blake exhibition at Toronto should prove "a revelation" particularly for "Contemporary medicine"; "it will be wise for physicians to keep Blake in mind" <BBS 547>
*Carter Ratcliff, "William Blake", Print Collector's Newsletter, XIII (1983), 209-11 <BBS 618>
G. E. Bentley, Jr., "Blake in Glory", University of Toronto Quarterly, LIV, 3 (Spring 1985), 297-99
Martin Butlin, Blake, XXII (1988-89), 105-10
§David Fuller, British Journal for Eighteenth-Century Studies for 1982, pp. 207-8

1982 October 3-31

Fogg Museum of Art, Harvard University. Blake exhibition

No catalogue of the exhibition is known.

REVIEW &c.

John Russell, "Compelling Images Are Blake's Hallmark", New York Times, 3 October 1982, p. H27 (review of the exhibition at the Yale Center for British Art. The Fogg Art Museum exhibition

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies of its collection of 55 watercolours, 28 engravings, and 2 books of engravings runs through 31

October)

1982 October 3-31

Widener Library, Harvard University. Blake exhibition
REVIEW &c.

John Russell, "Compelling Images Are Blake's Hallmark", New York Times, 3 October 1982, p.
H27 (review of the exhibition at the Yale Center for British Art. The Fogg exhibition "coincides with a show of Blake's illustrated books at the Widener Library")

1982 October 7

§Swann Galleries, *Art & Architecture: American Art, Oriental Art, Ceramics, Jewellery, William Blake, Furniture,
Antiquities, Topography, etc.* (N.Y., 1982)

1982

*T[iit] Kodar, *William Blake Books in Scott Rare Books
Special Collections [of York University]*. A New Edition
(Toronto: The Author and Printer T. Kodar, 1982) 4°, 23 unnumbered mimeographed pages, no ISBN

The only original work is Blair's Grave (1808).

1983 March 15-April 17

Joseph Viscomi, Prints by William Blake and His Followers
[at the] Herbert E Johnson Museum of Art, Cornell University (1983) <BBS>

REVIEW

Raymond Lister, Blake, XIX, 2 (Fall 1985), 80-83
(with another)

1983 September 10-October 31

Casa di Dante in Abruzzo Castello Gizzi Blake e Dante
(1983) <BBS>

REVIEWS &c, in Italian unless otherwise noted

§*Helen Duffy, “Un visionaire: William Blake”, tr.
Carbon, Vie des Arts, XXVII, 110 (Mars-Mai
1983), 62-63 In French <BBS 457>

Martin Butlin, Blake, XVII, 4 (Spring 1984), in English

§Francesco Desiderio, “La mostra dei dipinti di Blake un success per la Casa di Dante”, Il Tempo
d’Abruzzo, 5 Settembre 1983 <BBS 452>

§Anon., “Blake e Dante: Mostra Patrocinata della
Regione Abruzzo dal 10/9 al 31/10 Castello di
Torre de’ Passeri (PEA) Ampli Servizi da Radio
(7Giorni7)”, Pescara, 7-13 Settembre 1983, p. 6
(press release) <BBS 341>

§Anon., “La Mostra ‘Blake e Dante’ nella Casa di Dante in Abruzzo”, Rotary International [Pescara],
Luglio-Agosto-Settembre 1983, p. 16 <BBS 347>

§Anon., “Il Dante di Blake a Torre de’ Passeri: La mostra verrà inaugurata il 18”, La Gazzetta, 9
settembre 1983, p. 6 <BBS 343>

§Anon., “Il ‘Dante’ di Blake in mostra a pescare:
Stasera l’Inaugurazione al de Cecco: Saranno presenti Gaspari, Rognoni, Spadaccini, Casalini e

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

- gli ambasciatori di Australia e Gran Bretagna”, Il Tempo d’Abruzzo, 10 Settembre 1983 <BBS 343>
- §*Fortunato Bellonzi, “L’artista che parlava con gli angeli: Le Illustrazioni Dantesche di Blake per la Prima Volta in Italia”, Il Tempo, XL, 247 (10 Settembre 1983), 3-4 <BBS 365>
- §*Antonio Buccili, “Un mostra su Blake grande illustratore: Da Oggi a Torre de Passeri”, Abruzzo: Il Messaggero, 10 Settembre 1983 <BBS 427>
- §*Renato Barilli, “Un artista incontro a Dante: Straordinaria mostra di Blake a Pescara”, arte, 18-19 Settembre 1983 <BBS 360>
- §Anon., “Il ‘Dante’ di Blake a Torre de’ Passeri: Prima Mostra in Italia sui Grande Illustratore Inglese”, risveglio del molise e del mezzogiorno, XXIII, 9-10 (settembre-ottobre 1983) (press release) <BBS 343>
- §Leone Piccioni, “Quando Ungaretti si misurò con quel ‘visionario’: Sessanta Composizioni, in un Lungo Lavoro di Traduzione dal 1930 al 1965”, Il Tempo, XL, 247 (10 Settembre 1983) <BBS 605>
- §Franco Simongini, “Vedera nelle cose il riflesso delle idee transcendecti: Rabbia e Candore nell’Esistenza di un Rivoluzionario che amava Michaelangelo”, Il Tempo, XI, 247 (10 Settembre 1983), 3 <BBS 639>
- §Francesco Desiderio, “Il Bene e il Male nelle tele di William Blake: Folla di Visitatori alla Mostra della Illustrazioni Dantesche al Castello de’ Passeri”, Il Tempo, 12 Settembre 1983 <BBS 451>

- §*Stefano Gilbert, “Centodue Capolavori per la ‘Divina Commedia’: Esposti i celebri disegno dell’inglese William Blake per il poema dantesco”, Gente, XXVII, 40 (14 Ottobre 1983), 3, 172 <BBS 484>
- §D.D.G., “La Mostra ‘Blake e Dante’ a Torre de’ Passeri in ottobre”, l’Eco del Sud [Messina], XXVI, 7 (30 Settembre 1983) <BBS 481>
- §Gabriele Di Cesare, “La ‘casa di Dante’ e una mostra di Blake: Benemerite iniziative dei prof. Corrado Gizzi”, Abruzzo: Amata Terra Nostra, Settembre 1983 <BBS 452>
- §*Liana Bartolon, “William ‘Blake, il grande visionario che ha interpretate Dante”, Gazia, No. 2223 (2 October 1983), 23 <BBS 360, 423 (spelled “Bertolon”)>
- §Renato Sigismondi, “Riflessioni filosofiche sul pensiero di William Blake”, Abruzziopress, 3 October 1983 <BBS 639>
- §Leo Strozzi, “Quel Blake rivoluzionario: Una Mostra Dantesca al Castello Gizzi”, Pescara, 28 Settembre-4 Ottobre 1983 <BBS 648>
- §*Flamino Gualdoni, “William Blake: Il Dante del ‘maledetto’”, Il Giorno [Milano], XXVIII, 41 (14 ottobre 1983) <BBS 496>
- §*Anon., “Un angelo all’Inferno Grandi mostre | ‘Blake e Dante’”, Il Messaggero, 15 ottobre 1983, pp. 4-5 <BBS 339>
- §*Anon., “La ‘Divine Commedia’ nell’illustrazioni di William Blake: Una Mostra di Acquerelli al Castello Gizzi di Torre dei Passeri”, L’Osservatore Romano, 20 ottobre 1983, p. 2 <BBS 343>

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

- §Anon., “Castel Gizzi e Tate Gallery un gremellaggio ben riuscito”, Gazetta, 21 ottobre 1983 <BBS 343>
- §Antonella Anneda, “Blake nell’inferno dantesco”, il manifesto parole, 22 ottobre 1983 <BBS 338>
- §*Dede Auregli, “La Dipinta Commedia: Esposte, per la prima volta in Italia, le tavole che William Blake designò, nel 1824, per illustrare il poema dantesco: e anche per cambiarsi e il contenuto”, L’Unità, 22 Ottobre 1983 <BBS 356>
- §Francesco Desiderio, “Miglia di visatatori al Castello Gizzi per ammirare le opere di William Blake: Verso la Chiusura l’Eccezionale Rassegna alla Casa di Dante”, Cronaca di Pessaro, 27 ottobre 1983 <BBS 452>
- §*Anon., “William Blake poeta dell’immaginario interprete della pittura fantastica: Una delle più complesse e rappresentative personalità della pittura inglese”, Gazetta, 28 ottobre 1983 <BBS 352>
- §*G. Barberi Squarotti, “Ma non si può mettere Dante in soffita: Doppo tante riserve e le polemiche degli Anni Sessanta che lo consideravano una ‘lettura inutile’, il poeta della ‘Commedia’ ora é riscoperto, Ecco come e perchè”, Stampa, 29 ottobre 1983 <BBS 645>
- §D.D.G., “A Torre de’ Passeri il ‘Dante’ di Blake”, Marsica Domani, VII, 11 (31 October 1983) <BBS 481>

- §Anon., “Attivita della casa i ‘Dante: A Torre de Passeri”, l’araldo abruzzese [?October 1983] <BBS 339>
- §*Anon., “Blake e Dante (Intervista con Fortunato Bellonzi)”, Oggi e Domani, XI, 10 (ottobre 1983) <BBS 341>
- §Francesco Desiderio, “Mostra ‘Blake e Dante’”, Abruzzo Oggi, VI, 31 (ottobre 1983) <BBS 452>
- §Anna Ventura, “Un poeta – una poesia: Corrado Gizzi: Rappresentante di un’epoca storica e letteraria, scrittore di elevato impegno culturale”, Marsica Domani, VII, 11 (31 Ottobre 1983) <BBS 668>
- §Ugo Crescenzi, “Una mostra che favorisce l’Elevazioni Culturale”, Abruzzo [October 1983], p. 34 (a note by the Assessore regionale alla Cultura) <BBS 444>
- §Gabriele Di Cesare, “Mostra ‘Blake e Dante’”, Abruzzo, VI, 31 (ottobre 1983) <BBS 452>
- §*Silvio Graziosi, ed., “Blake e Dante a Torre de’ Passeri”, regione abruzzo, Anno XII (ottobre 1985), 39-56 It includes
- §*Silvio Graziosi, “In 20,000 al Castello Gizzi” (pp. 39-40)
- 2     *”Conversando con corredo Gizzi” (pp. 40-41)
- 3     Francisco Desiderio, “Una vita nuova” (p. 41)
- 4     *Elia Gizzi, “Un avvenimento da ventimilia visitatori: Blake e Dante” (pp. 42-51 [sic])

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

- 5     *Giuseppe Belino, "I gioioso calle: Blake e Dante" (pp. 47-48 [sic]) <BBS 493>
- 6     *Renato Barilli, Fortunato Bellonzi, Liona Bartolon, Martin Butlin, Claudia Corti, Luigi Paola Finizio, Stefano Ghiberti, Corrado Gizzi, Ursula Hoff, Franco Simongini, Ferruccio Ulivi, "Blake e la critica" (pp. 52- 56) <BBS 493>
- §*Mariano Apa, "Blake visionario: A Torre dei Passeri nel Castello Gizzi", L'Umanità, 4 novembre 1983, pp. 3-4 <BBS 353>
- §*Tommaso Pisanti, "Tutti i titani del cosmo: Torre de' Passeri/Esposti alla Casa di Dante i disegni acquarellati preparati da William Blake per la incisioni della Divina Commedia", Il Matino, 5 November 1983, p. 5 <BBS 607>
- §*Giuseppe Mariani, "Blake nella 'Casa di Dante'", Abruzzopress, III, 39 (14 November 1983) <BBS 559>
- §*Gi Pi, "Blake e Dante: All'Inferno con l'Ottimismo delle Fede", Borghese [Milano], LXXXVII, 47 (20 novembre 1983) <BBS 605>
- §*Luciano Luisi, "William Blake il visionario: Una mostra di incisioni per la 'Divina Commedia' ripropone la singolare figura dell'artista inglese", Il Gazzettino di Venezia, 25 novembre 1983 <BBS 555>
- §*Luciano Luisi, "William Blake: Una lectura dantis visionaria e imaginative", il Carabiniere, XXXVI, 11 (November 1983) <BBS 555>

§*Anon., “William Blake nella casa di Dante col castelli Gizzi”, Pescara economica, IV (1983), 291 <BBS 352>

§Martin Butlin, Blake, XVII, 4 (Spring 1984), 160-61 <BBS 396>

1983

David Bindman, The Shadow of the Guillotine: Britain and the French Revolution. With Contributions by Aileen Dawson and Mark Jones. (London: British Museum, 1989) <BBS 374>

Blake is dealt with in Bindman, “William Blake and the Revolution” (pp. 170-73, No. 160-64) and in **“Revolution as myth: public art and private dissent”* (pp. 66-74) (“Blake ... saw the French Revolution in an apocalyptic light from the beginning” [p. 67]).

REVIEWS

§Linda Colley, London Review of Books, 22 June 1989, pp. 12-13

§David Kelley, Times Literary Supplement, 30 June-6 July 1989, p. 720

§*Anon., Gazette des Beaux-Arts, 6S CIV (1989), 12

§John Gage, Burlington Magazine, CXXXI (1989), 495-97

§Lionel Lamburne, Apollo, CXXX (1989), 50-51

§Barry Venning, Turner Studies, IX, 2 (1989), 53-54

§Marcus Wood, Print Quarterly, VI (1989), 339-41

1983

*Robert N. Essick. The Separate Plates of William Blake: A Catalogue (1983) <BBS>

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

For addenda, see Robert N. Essick, "A Supplement to The Separate Plates of William Blake: A Catalogue", Blake, XVII, 4 (Spring 1984), 139-44, and Essick's "New Information about Blake's Engravings" for The Separate Plates, see his "Blake in the Marketplace", Blake (1993, 1995-1996, 1998-2000, 2002-2003, 2006-2008, 2012).

REVIEWS

- §Anon., Choice, XXI (1983), 262-63
- §Anon., Gazette des Beaux-Arts, 6 S, CII, 1378 (1983), 19-20
- §David Fuller, Durham University Journal, NS LXXV, 1 (1983), 141-43
- I.H. C[hayes], Romantic Movement ... Bibliography for 1983 (1984), 80-81
- §Anthony Payne, Book World [Washington Post], III, 3 (1984)
- §Anon., Choice, XXI (October 1983)
- §M. Baridon, Dix-huitième Siècle, XVI (1984), 513
- §Stephen D. Cox, "Recent Work on Blake", Eighteenth-Century Studies, XVIII (Spring 1985), 391-405 (with 7 others)
- David Scrase, Blake, XX, 2 (Fall 1986), 64-66
- §Joseph Viscomi, Wordsworth Circle, XIX, 4 (Autumn 1988), 212-18 B. Also accessible in his "Collected Essays on Blake and His Times", q.v.

1983

**A Catalogue of the Lawrence Lande William Blake Collection in the Department of Rare Books and Special*

Collections of the McGill University Libraries (Montreal, 1983) <BBS>

§Scharbach, Deborah. Index to A Catalogue of the Lawrence Lande William Blake Collection in the Department of Rare Books and Special Collections of the McGill University Libraries (Montreal: Department of Rare Books and Special Collections, McGill University Libraries, 1990) 21 cm, 26 pp.

REVIEW

G.E. Bentley, Jr, Blake, XXI, 1 (Summer 1987), 33-34

1983

Bernard Quaritch, New Series: Bulletin 11 A New Miscellany of English Books 1700-1900 (London, 1983) <Biblioteca La Solana>

- 10 Varley, Zodiacal Physiognomy (1828), "text lightly foxed, but a sound uncut copy in full new calf antique"], on the back cover is a reproduction of Ghost of a Flea, $2,500.00
- 11 Hayley, The Triumphs of Temper (1803), "uncut copy in original blue-grey boards, tan paper spine, the hinges cracked but cords quite sound", $475.00

1984 September-October 28

Huntington Library and Art Gallery Blake exhibition (1984)

Apparently there was no catalogue.

REVIEW &c

*Anon, "Blake Exhibit", Huntington Calendar: An Informal Account of Happenings in the Library, Art Gallery, Botanical Gardens, September-

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

October 1984, p. 3 (announcement of “An Exhibition of the Drawings and Watercolors by William Blake in the Huntington Collection”, chiefly Milton designs, which “will remain until October 28”)<BBS 341>

1984 December 17

Sotheby sale (1984) <BBS 293>

Sale of coloured Night Thoughts (X).

REVIEW

Karen Mulhallen, “The Crying of Lot 318; or, Young’s Night Thoughts Colored Once More”, Blake, XIX, 2 (Fall 1985), 71-72 (the Dimsdale copy) <BBS 398>

1984

*Joseph Viscomi, Blake at Cornell: An Annotated Checklist of Works by and About William Blake in the Cornell University Libraries and the Herbert F. Johnson Museum (1984)

REVIEW

D.W. Dörrbecker, Blake, XXVI, 3 (Winter 1992-93), 85

1985 January 10

§Swann Galleries, Modern Illustrated Books, Art & Architecture and Related Subjects, Ceramics, William Blake, Plates from Diderot (N.Y., 1985) <Grolier Club>

1985 Summer

Bernard Quaritch, New Series: Bulletin 31 Miscellany Seven, English Literature (London, 1985) <Biblioteca La Solana>

- 9 Varley, Zodiacal Physiognomy (1828), "six plates (all bound at end) ... slight browning throughout, two plates shaved, slightly affecting one signature and one plate number ... in full new calf antique ... A copy in our own Bulletin 11 (1983) has passed to an institution overseas", $3,000.00
- 42a Gay, Fables (1793), "entirely untrimmed in the original blue-grey boards, very skilfully rebacked retaining the original labels and endleaves, preserved in a fold-over cloth case within cloth chemises ... on superfine wove paper", $3,000.00

1985

Robert N. Essick, The Works of William Blake in the Huntington Collections: A Complete Catalogue (1985) <BBS>

REVIEWS

- §Anon., Drawing, VIII, 3 (September-October 1986)
- I[rene] H. C[hayes], Romantic Movement ... Bibliography for 1985 (1986), 85
- §Martin Butlin, Burlington Magazine, CXXIX, 1009 (February 1987), 123-24
- *G.E. Bentley, Jr, Blake, XXI, 3 (Winter 1987-88), 114-16
- §P. Malekin, Review of English Studies, XL (November 1989), 573-75 (with another)

1985

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

§Fitzwilliam Museum, The Sir Geoffrey Keynes Collection [of works by Blake and his circle, 1985] (Cambridge, England, 1985)

The exhibition is known only through the typescript handlist of the exhibition (by David Scrase?), 1985 [Collection of R.N. Essick].

1986 May 3-July 13

National Gallery of Scotland Department of Prints and Drawings exhibition of "William Blake Prints and Drawings" (Edinburgh, 1986)

Apparently there was no catalogue.

REVIEW &c

Anon., "William Blake: Prints and Drawings", National Gallery of Scotland News, May-June 1986, 1 un-numbered page (announcement of a small Blake exhibition) <BBS 352>

1986 Spring

§Ben Abraham Books. William Blake and His Circle. Spring 1986. (Toronto, 1986)

59 items.

1986 June 11-July 11

Wildenstein [Gallery], William Blake and His Contemporaries: A Loan Exhibition in Aid of the Fitzwilliam Museum, Cambridge, ed. Michael Jaffe (London, 1986) <BBS>

REVIEWS

- *Judy Egerton, "London: William Blake at Wildenstein", Burlington Magazine, CXXVIII (1986), 619-621 <BBS 461>
- *Nicholas Powell, "Bizarre Brotherhood", Apollo, NS, CXXIII (1986), 429-31 <BBS 608>
- *Patricia Seligman, "William Blake and His Contemporaries: Wildenstein", Arts Review, XXXVIII (1986), 330 ("a feast for scholars") <BBS 636>
- §David McKitterick, Book Collector, XXXVI (1987), 305-20 (en passant)

1986 September

Ben Abraham Books Catalogue 6. William Blake.
September 1986 (Toronto, 1986) <BBS303 dates it 1985>
222 items.

1986 Winter

Bernard Quaritch, English Literature Catalogue 1066
(London, 1986) <Biblioteca La Solana>

- 7 Varley, Zodiacal Physiognomy (1828), "uncut throughout, washed and with discreet restoration to some margins to tear on final leaf; the sewing is modern; preserved in a folding cloth box with morocco label ... Copies from our own Bulletins 11 (1983) and 31 (1985) have now passed to overseas institutions", $3,000.00
- 8 Hayley, The Triumphs of Temper (1803), "Large Paper ... Full russet niger morocco, gilt, by Bedford", "[SOLD]"
- 9 Ritson, ed., A Select Collection of English Songs

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

(1783), "title pages to volumes I and II guarded, the two prefatory essays in volume I transposed and without the fly-title to Part One in the same volume ... full green Regency style morocco, gilt, by Lewis", $1,250.00

There is a separate reproduction of "Blake: Items 7, 8 and 9"

1986

National Gallery of Scotland Department of Prints and Drawings exhibition of "William Blake Prints and Drawings" (1986)

Apparently there was no catalogue.

REVIEW &c

Anon., "William Blake: Prints and Drawings", National Gallery of Scotland News, May-June 1986, 1 un-numbered page (announcement of a small Blake exhibition) <BBS 352>

1987 January

Ben Abraham Books Catalogue 7. William Blake. January 1987 (Toronto, 1987) <BBS304, dates it 1986> 207 items.

1987 May, 1988 May 31-June 9

§University of Colchester (Essex) Exhibition of Blake's Songs May 1987, and The Blake Society at St James' Church, Piccadilly, London, 31 May-June 9 1988.

An exhibition of enlarged photographs of Songs (Z). My only evidence for the exhibition is in Stanley Gardner's Some

Notes on Blake's SONGS OF INNOCENCE AND OF EXPERIENCE
([Colchester], 1988) <BBS 482>

1987 July 14-August 31

§Fitzwilliam Museum, William Blake and His Contemporaries. 14 July-31 August 1987 (Cambridge, England, 1987)

The exhibition is only known through a poster for it.

1987 November 13

§Christie, Manson and Woods, Printed Books and Manuscripts: The Properties of the Estates of ...Margaret M. Sullivan ... (N.Y., 1987)

46 America [R]

1987 November-1988 February

*Huntington Library and Art Gallery, William Blake and His Contemporaries and Followers: Selected Works from the Collection of Robert N. Essick, An Exhibition at the Henry E. Huntington Library and Art Gallery November 1987 through February 1988 (1987) <BBS>

REVIEWS &c

*Anon., "William Blake: Exhibit opens, enriches Huntington as the center of Blake studies", Calendar [of] The Huntington Library, Art Collections, and Botanical Gardens November-December 1987, 1 (announcement) <BBS 351>

*Robert N. Essick, "William Blake: Essick on the exhibition", Calendar [of] The Huntington Library, Art Collections, and Botanical Gardens November-December [1987], 2 <BBS 465>

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

Anon., "William Blake: Exhibition Catalogue, Other Huntington Blake Publications", Calendar [of] The Huntington Library, Art Collections, and Botanical Gardens November-December [1987], 3 <BBS 351>

*Suzanne Muchnic, "The William Blake Who Knew Exactly Where to Draw the Line", Los Angeles Times, 5 January 1988, Part 4, pp. 1, 4 <BBS 580>

M[ark] T. S[mith] and D.V. E[rdman], Romantic Movement ... Bibliography for 1987 (1988), 116-17

1987

*Printmaking in Britain 1775-1965: Two Centuries of the Art of the Print in Britain [at the] William Weston Gallery. Catalogue No. 1 (1987, Year 20, Issue No. 203). (London: William Weston Gallery, 1987)

Blake is 96-100, Palmer 101-5.

1987

§William and Victoria Dailey [catalogue]. William Blake Poet Printer Prophet (Los Angeles, 1987)

30 items.

1988 May

Bernard Quaritch, Catalogue 1087, The English Romantics (London, 1988) <Biblioteca La Solana>

Each (except for lot 32) is said to be "From the Library of Lord Clark".

23 Blair, The Grave (1808), "Occasional light foxing,

- mostly to the title and in blank margins ... with the prospectus for Stothard's Canterbury Pilgrims; later leather-backed dark red cloth, rubbed and worn" £900.0.0
- 24 Cumberland, Thoughts on Outline (1796), "uncut, in later half-leather (rubbed). The legend 'Anche io sono pittore' is present as a slender cancel pasted onto the title ... There is a neat stylistic revision in ink on p. 40, which an early annotator ('R.T.S.') claims as evidence that 'this copy was also the one possessed by G. Cumberland Esq., hence his writing or underlining any letters", £900.0.0
- 25 Cumberland, Outlines from the Antients (1829), "some foxing and minor marginal water-staining. Contemporary green half morocco rubbed and slightly worn", $450.00
- 26 Flaxman, Hesiod (1817), "lacks the engraved half-title. Some occasional light foxing, mostly marginal. Old half calf, worn, spine chipped", $250.00
- 27 Fuseli, Lectures (1801), "small stains in blank margins of the first and last leaves; modern half black morocco", $375.00
- 30 Lavater, Essays on Physiognomy (1789, 1792, 1798) "contemporary full blue straight-grain morocco, gilt, g.e., red morocco lettering-pieces, three covers scraped ... with minimal foxing", with a reproduction, $1,250.00
- 31 Malkin, A Father's Memoirs (1806), "later half leather, rubbed and worn", $375.00
- 32 Salzmann, Elements of Morality (1792), "plate 2

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies with lateral tear repaired ... contemporary half calf over marbled boards, fore-edges of boards attractively lined with vellum", $1,250.00

Varley, Zodiacal Physiognomy

35 Wollstonecraft, Original Stories (1791),

"contemporary plain calf", $1,500.00

Thornton, ed., Virgil, 2 vols., later morocco, with a reproduction

1988 October 28-1989 April 30

Kimerly Rorschach, Blake to Beardsley: The Artist as Illustrator, Rosenbach Museum & Library (1988) <BBS>

REVIEW, &c

§Anon., Rosenbach Newsletter, September 1988, pp. 1-
2 (announcement)

1988 November 1-2

Christie sale (1978) <BBS 128, 270 fn 90>

Sale of Songs (BB).

REVIEWS &c

Rita Reif, "Blake by Blake", New York Times, 28
October 1988, The Living Arts (in a section on Auctions, Robert Essick is quoted from a telephone "interview" about the Christie sale) <BBS 620>

*Robert N. Essick, "A Copy of William Blake's 'Songs of Innocence and of Experience'", Christie's International Magazine, VIII, 8 (October-November 1988), 22-23 (announcement of the sale, with some "speculations" about "Blake's reasons for producing its unusual characteristics”)

<BBS 464>

Lily Zimmerman, Publicist, “Blake’s Songs of Innocence and of Experience”, Auction News from Christie’s, X, 5 (November 1988), 4 (“Christie’s is proud to offer” Songs [BB]) <BBS 696>

1988 November 1-24

Verena Immerhauser. Vala: Arbeiten zu Blake, Berner Galerie, 1-24 November 1988 (1988), in German

No catalogue was issued.

REVIEW

D.W. Dörrbecker, Blake, XXX (1996-97), 82-87 (with three other exhibitions) (the shimmering plastic veils “irritated and fascinated the eye” [p. 82])

1988 November

§Jack Tilton Gallery. Literary Vision: November 1988, A.R. Ammons, John Ashbery, William Blake, William Burroughs, e.e. cummings ... (N.Y., 1988) 28 cm, 30 pp.

1989 March 21

**The Larger Blake-Varley Sketchbook Which Will Be Sold at Christies ... 21 March 1989* (London, 1989) <BBS>

REVIEWS &c

*David Bindman, “A second Blake-Varley Sketchbook discovered”, Christie’s International Magazine (March-April 1989), 2-4 (the first announcement of its rediscovery and prospective sale) <BBS 373>

Sara Jane Checkland, “Scepticism over Blake sketchbook”, Times [London], 22 March 1989, p.

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

178 (the sale was a “flop” because the Sketchbook failed to meet its reserve of £450,000; the scepticism concerns the sale and reserve, not the authenticity of the Sketchbook) <BBS 436>

D.V. E[rdman], Romantic Movement ... Bibliography for 1988 (1989), 113

1989 April 27-August 6

**Wunderblock: Eine Geschichte der modernen Seele*, ed. Jean Clair, Cathrin Pichler, and Wolfgang Pircher (Vienna, 1989) for the Wiener Festwochen In German <BBS 374>

*David Bindman. “William Blake: Dichter, Drucker, Maler”, tr. Monika Seidel (pp. 69-81) (a general account of Blake’s work in Illuminated Printing)

1989 April 10-14

English Illustrated Books of the Late Eighteenth Century: Exhibition of Works from the Library’s Collection [at the Barr Smith Library, University of Adelaide. This exhibition has been prepared to complement an address given to the Friends of the Special Collections ... by Gerald E. Bentley on the topic “The great illustrated book publishers of the 1790s and William Blake” (Adelaide: Barr Smith Library of the University of Adelaide, 1989) Exhibition Catalogue No. 14 16 leaves, 30 cm.

Introduction by Susan Woodburn and Elizabeth Lee.

[1989 May]<sup>835</sup>

---

<sup>835</sup> Essick annotated his copy “May 1969”.

Bernard Quaritch, Catalogue 1104 English Books, A New Selection (London, 1989) <Biblioteca La Solana>

- 12 Varley, Zodiacal Physiognomy (1828), "six plates (all bound at end), ... stitched, uncut throughout, washed and with discreet restoration to some margins and to tear on final leaf; the sewing is modern; preserved in a folding cloth box with morocco label ... Copies from our own Bulletins 11 (1983) and 31 (1985) have now passed to institutions overseas", $4,500.00

1989 December 15-1990 February 19

Brooklyn Museum exhibition of Job engravings (1989-90)

Apparently there was no catalogue.

REVIEW

Anon., "Blake's Job Engravings at the Brooklyn Museum", Blake, XXIII, 4 (Spring 1990), 213 <BBS 406>

1989

Martin Butlin and Ted Gott, William Blake in the Collection of the National Gallery of Victoria (Melbourne, 1989) <BBS>

REVIEWS &c.

§Zara Guthrie, Ormond Papers, VI (1989), 153-56

D.W. Dörrbecker, Blake, XXV, 1 (Summer 1991), 20 (in "William Blake and His Circle")

David Bindman, "Melbourne William Blake", Burlington Magazine, CXXXI, 1,042 (January 1990), 75 (the exhibition and catalogue are "exemplary")

*Robert N. Essick, Blake, XXV, 2 (Fall 1991), 94-96

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

David B. Brown, "Blake in Australia", Print Quarterly, XII (1995), 87-88 (it gives "a rounded introduction to Blake's mind and methods")

1990 June 28

§Christie, *Important Old Master Prints and British Colour
Linocuts: the Properties of the Trustees of the Hirshhorn
Museum and Sculpture Gardens, the Trustees of the Phillips Academy, Andover, Massachusetts, the Viscount Scarsdale and the Kedleston Trustees and from Various Sources ...*
(London, 1990)

Lots 7-8 are prints by William Blake

[1990?] July 8-31

§The Antique & Book Collector, Katharine House. William Blake, Samuel Palmer & Edward Calvert: Original Prints.
([?1990])

56 items.

1990 September 1-October 28

**William Blake (Yanagi: Blake no deai): William Blake (Great Encounter: Yanagi and Blake)* (Tokyo, 1990) In Japanese and English An exhibition at the Nihon Mingeikan:
The Japan Folk Crafts Museum <BBS>

REVIEW

*Diana Hume, "Great Encounter: Blake and Yanagi",
Daily Yomiuri, 13 September 1990<BBS 517>

1990 September 25-November 25

**William Blake: William Blake: 25 September-25 November 1990*. [Catalogue of an exhibition at] The National Museum of Western Art, Tokyo [Tr. Koji Yukiya, Chikashi Kitazaki, and Akiya Takahashi] (Tokyo, 1991)<BBS>

7 *David Bindman. "'Watashi jishyin no kokoro ga watashi no kyokai de aru', Blake to Paine to French Kakumei ['My own mind is my own church': Blake, Paine and the French Revolution]." Tr. Kozo Shioe. Pp. 40-51. In Japanese (In America, "the debates between Orc and Urizen ... appear to be conducted in terms of the revolution controversy between Burke and Paine and their respective followers"; the title quotation is from Paine. The essay is silently reprinted, under the English title only of course, as Chapter 9 [pp. 112-33] of Reflections of Revolution: Images of Romanticism. Ed. Alison Yarrington and Kelvin Everest [London and N.Y.: Routledge, 1993] "Papers from a conference held at the University of Leicester in July 1789".)

REVIEWS

D.W. Dörrbecker, Blake, XXV, 1 (Summer 1991), 11-12 (in "William Blake and His Circle")

*G.E. Bentley, Jr., "Blake as Craftsman and Artist: Two Exhibitions in Tokyo", Blake, XXVI, 4 (Spring 1993), 168-70 (with another) (the exhibition and catalogue of the National Museum of Western Art make "a major contribution to Blake understanding" [p. 170]).

1990 September 1-October 28

**William Blake*(Yanagi: Blake no deai):William Blake(Great Encounter: Yanagi and Blake). 1990.

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

REVIEWS

D.W. Dörrbecker, Blake, XXV, 1 (Summer 1991), 12-13 (in "William Blake and His Circle")

*G.E. Bentley, Jr., "Blake as Craftsman and Artist: Two Exhibitions in Tokyo", Blake, XXVI, 4 (Spring 1993), 168-70 (with another) (the exhibition and catalogue of the Japan Crafts Museum represent an "idiosyncratic accomplishment ... perhaps ... fitting for the idiosyncratic William Blake" [p. 170])

[1990 October]<sup>836</sup>

Bernard Quaritch, Bernard Quaritch Catalogue 1132 English Books & Manuscripts (London, 1990) <Huntington>

8 Malkin, A Father's Memoirs (1806), "(the folding map of the imaginary land of Allestone neatly repaired); mid-nineteenth-century dark blue straight-grain morocco, gilt, skilfully and sympathetically rebaked ... [with] a presentation inscription from Malkin to one Dr. Pett. It later belonged to Thomas Dixon, the self-educated cork-cutter of Sunderland ... who gave it to William Michael Rossetti in 1873. Rossetti's autograph note on the front endleaf records the gift", $1,250

1990

Fitch, Donald. Blake Set to Music (1990) <BBS>

---

<sup>836</sup> The Huntington copy bears the datestamp "OCT 30 1990".

For *Donald Fitch, "Blake Set to Music: Supplement 2001", see Blake, XXXV (2001), 40-61.

REVIEWS

D.W. Dörrbecker, Blake, XXV, 1 (Summer 1991), 11

§Bryan N.S. Gooch, Notes [tout court], XLVIII, 1 (September 1991), 107-8

§William S. Brockman, American Reference Books Annual, XXII (1991), 505-6

§Choice, XXXIII (1995), 577+

G.E. Bentley, Jr, Blake, XXX (1996), 25-31 ("Fitch's search for music set to Blake texts seems to have been wonderfully comprehensive" [p. 27]; the Appendix here [pp. 28-31] lists addenda and corrigenda)

[1990]<sup>837</sup>

Bernard Quaritch, Catalogue 1120 English Books & Manuscripts (London, 1990) <Huntington>

- 14 "[Elizabeth Blower]", Maria: A Novel, 2 vols. (1785), "B1 in I bound after B11, a few marginal tears, D11 defective at fore-edge affecting five letters, clean tear in H2 ... in contemporary dark blue half morocco and marbled boards, from the Gell family library at Hopton Hall in Derbyshire", [no mention of plates], $2,500.00

1990

---

<sup>837</sup> Annotated at the Huntington "28 May 1990".

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

§William Blake: The Book of Job and Dante's Inferno.
(Buffalo: Fine Arts Academy, 1990) 19 pp.; ISBN:
0914782789

Apparently the brochure of an exhibition.

1991 May 9-11

Sotheby sale (1991) <BBS 80, 258>

REVIEWS &c

*Nancy Bialler, "William Blake discoveries", Sotheby's Preview (April-May 1991), 16-17 (about "The Chaining of Orc", "The Man Sweeping", and the relief-etching with three Virgil designs which "we believe ... was probably designed and executed by Blake" [p. 17])<BBS 371-72>

§Geraldine Norman, "Blake Print Cleans Up at Sotheby's New York Sale", Independent [London], 14 May 1991 (on the prices of "The Man Sweeping" and "The Chaining of Orc" [$60,500]) <BBS 589>

*Peter Fischer, "Die Mysterien des William Blake: Druckgraphik in New Yorker Versteigerungen", Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung, 25 Mai 1991, p. 31 in German (about prices at the sale) <BBS 471>

1991 July 10-November 3

[Robin Hamlyn], William Blake and his Followers, Tate Gallery (1991) reprinted in the Salander O'Reilly Galleries catalogue of 4 November-31 December 1992.

REVIEWS

- §David Lee, “William Blake (and His Followers)”, Arts Review, XLIII, (4 October 1991), 494 <BBS 547>
- *Tom Lubbock, “Divine forms with a cartoon ‘whoosh!’”, Independent [London], 28 July 1991<BBS 554>
- Tim Hilton, “The hellish realist: He was too rebellious to hold quiet conversation with the angels. Tim Hilton on the paintings of William Blake”, Guardian [London], 21 August 1991, p. 28 <BBS 509>
- John McEwen, “William Blake and His Followers [at the] Tate Gallery”, Sunday Telegraph [London], 25 August 1991, p. xxiii (announcement) <BBS 568>
- *James Hall, “Divine Intervention: James Hall on the status of William Blake, long exiled from the National Gallery, but now re-evaluated in an exhibition at the Tate”, Independent [London], 27 August 1991, p. 12 <BBS 499>
- *John McEwen, “The genius in the basement: John McEwen on William Blake at the Tate”, Sunday Telegraph [London], 8 September 1991<BBS 568>
- §*Dominique Vergnon, “William Blake et ses Amies”, L’Œil [Lausanne], No. 434 (September 1991), 83, in French <BBS 668>
- §Angus Stewart, Spectrum, October 1991 (with 2 others)
- §Ginger Danto, “Blake and his Followers”, Art News, XCI (January 1992), 138
- D.W. Dörrbecker, Blake, XXVI, 3 (Winter 1992-93), 84

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

[1991 October]<sup>838</sup>

Bernard Quaritch, Bernard Quaritch Catalogue 1150 English Books & Manuscripts (London, 1991) <Biblioteca La Solana>

- 14 Malkin, A Father's Memoirs (1806) [as in Quaritch Catalogue 1132 (October 1990), except for the price], £680.0.0
- 67 Hayley, Life of... William Cowper, Vol. I-II 1803; Vol. III (1804), supplementary Pages (1806), "4 vols. bound in three, 4to.; the Life bound without half-titles ... the 'Weather-House' plate in volume II is in the second state ... Contemporary polished half calf and green marbled boards, with red morocco labels and vellum corners ... Also bound in ... is the first published edition of Thomas Gisborne's Ode to the Memory of William Cowper (London, 1800, lacking the final leaf of advertisements)", £800.0.0 A separate reproduction shows the chapel with the Cowper monument
- 68 Letter from William Hayley to John Johnson, 27 November 1803 with references to Hayley's Life of Cowper [BR (2) 173-74], partially quoted, £1,200.0.0

1991 October

---

<sup>838</sup> Essick wrote on the title page "Oct. 1991".

Records of the William Blake Bicentenary Celebrations (1955-59), MS 615 Department of Manuscripts and Special Collections, Hallward Library, University of Nottingham. ([Nottingham: University of Nottingham, October 1991])

A 5-page printed catalogue of "minutes, correspondence, photographs of Blake's paintings, news cuttings, agreements and financial material ... given to the Library in 1991 by Mr John Pyke, whose wife, then Miss D. Vaughan, assisted the committee in its work".

1991

Robert N. Essick. William Blake's Commercial Book Illustrations: A Catalogue and Study of the Plates Engraved by Blake after Designs by Other Artists (1991) <BBS>.

For Essick's "New Information about Blake's Engravings" for William Blake's Commercial Book Illustrations, see his "Blake in the Marketplace", Blake (1992, 1995-1996, 1998-1999, 2002, 2006-2008, 2011).

REVIEWS

§Martin Butlin, Burlington Magazine, CXXXIV, 1068 (March 1992), 192-93

§D. Ichiyama, Choice, XXIX (April 1992), 1216-17

§Andrew Wilton, Print Quarterly, IX, 2 (June 1992), 211-13

Jon Mee, Book Collector, XLI, 1 (Spring 1992), 123-24 ("fills a gap")

§Michael Ferber, Word & Image, VIII, 3 (July-September 1992), 283-84

Susan Matthews, BARS Bulletin & Review, No. 3 (October 1992), 14-15 ("an essential research tool for those working on Blake")

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

- S.L.M., Gazette des Beaux-Arts (October 1992), 19, in French ("Catalogue extrêmement précis et rigoureux")
- Andrew Wilton, "William Blake's Commercial Book Illustrations", Print Quarterly, IX (1992), 211-13 (the work is "characteristically punctilious", "a remarkably convincing and confidence-inspiring survey" [p. 213])
- *G.E. Bentley, Jr., Wordsworth Circle, XXIII (1992), 233-35 (a "most impressive contribution of original scholarship" [p. 234])
- D.V. E[rdman], Romantic Movement ... Bibliography for 1991 (1992), 85-86
- D.W. Dörrbecker, Blake, XXVI, 3 (Winter 1992-93), 84 (in "William Blake and His Circle")
- §David Fuller, "Blake as an Illustrator", Durham University Journal, NS LIV, 1 (January 1993), 115-19 (with another)
- G.E. Bentley, Jr (bis), "Blake the Professional", Antiquarian Book Monthly, XX, 4 (April 1993), 31-32 ("magisterial"; the review was commissioned by Wordsworth Circle and is reprinted here by permission of its editors)
- Peter Kitson, Year's Work in English Studies, LXXII (1993), 277 ("careful and detailed", "an essential research tool")
- D.W. Dörrbecker, Blake, XXVIII, 3 (Winter 1994-95), 103-10 ("this catalogue raisonné deserves the highest possible praise for its reliability" [p. 107]; an Appendix [pp. 108-10] contains minor corrigenda)

Robert F. Gleckner, Eighteenth Century ... Bibliography, NS XVI for 1991 (1998), 332-33 (a “splendid book”)

1991

§*The William Blake Collection in the George Grey Rare Books Room Auckland Public Library. (Auckland, Australia: Auckland Public Library, 1991) 8 pp.

1991

G.E. Bentley, Jr with the assistance of Keiko Aoyama. Blake Studies in Japan: A Bibliography of Works on William Blake Published in Japan 1911-1990. (Toronto: Privately Printed, 1991)

Apparently this is an early version, in typescript, of the work published in 1994 covering 1893-1993; I had entirely forgotten it until I encountered the review below.

REVIEW

D.W. Dörrbecker, Blake, XXVI, 3 (Winter 1992-93), 83

1992 February 6

§Swann Galleries, Art & Architecture and Related Subjects; William Blake, George Grosz, Decorative Art, Ceramics, Antiques Modern Art, Oriental Art, Costume (N.Y., 1992) <Grolier Club>

1992 September 5-October 10

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

§Nikolaus Utermöhlen. 1992 Nikolaus Utermöhlen "An Infinite Painting" on A Vision of the Last Judgment by William Blake 1808. Zwinger Galerie, Berlin, 5 September-10 October 1992

"In lieu of a catalogue, the gallery issued an 'artist's book' in an exceedingly small (and expensive) edition" (Dörrbecker, below).

REVIEWS &c.

§Anon., Die Tageszeitung, 15 September 1992. In German (very brief)

D.W. Dörrbecker, Blake, XXX, 3 (Winter 1996-97), 82-87 (with 3 others) ("the artist's references to a Blakean model [are] ... a fairly banal attempt to dignify with iconographical content ... [an] experiment in replacing the old-fashioned brush with a xerox machine", producing "a decorative color rhythm quite appropriate for a postmodern ice cream parlor" [p. 83])

1992 November 4-December 31

**William Blake: Paintings, Watercolors and Drawings* [exhibited 4 November-31 December 1992 at Salander-O'Reilly Galleries, Inc.] Essays by Martin Butlin and Robin Hamlyn (N.Y.: Salander-O'Reilly Galleries, Inc., 1992) <BBS>

Lawrence B. Salander, "Acknowledgements" (pp. [5-6]); Martin Butlin, "The Art of William Blake" (pp. 9-12): "This exhibition concentrates mainly on Blake's public aspirations as an artist" (p. 9); Robin Hamlyn, "William Blake: The Apprentice Years" (pp. 13-16) (reprinted from the 1992 Tate catalogue of that title).

The 40 reproductions include all 33 works exhibited. The "descriptive paragraphs" are from Butlin, The Paintings and Drawings of William Blake (1981) and elsewhere.

REVIEW

*Holland Cotter, "Blake, on loan and for sale", New York Times, 4 December 1992, p. C23 (the exhibition "is not to be missed") <BBS 443>

1993 May 1-June 26

**William Blake and His Circle*. [Exhibition] 1 May-26 June 1993 [at the] Hunterian Art Gallery: University of Glasgow ([Glasgow: Hunterian Art Gallery, 1993]) 8°

Paul Stirton, introduction (pp. 3-4).

1993 May 18-August 8

*Robin Hamlyn. William Blake: Independence and Innovation [Catalogue of an exhibition] 18 May-8 August 1993 [at the] Tate Gallery (London: Tate Gallery Publications, 1993)

"Biographical Note" (p. [2]); Robin Hamlyn, "Independence and Innovation" (pp. [3-7]); rudimentary descriptions of 30 works by Blake of 1779-89 plus 21 by other artists.

REVIEWS, &c

§*Rachel Barnes, "Fields of vision", Guardian [London], 23 August 1993, Supplement p. 6
§Theatreprint, XCIII, 6 [1993]

1993 October 2-November 28

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

*[Robin Hamlyn and Andrew Moore.] William Blake: Chaucer's Canterbury Pilgrims. [Catalogue of an exhibition 2 October-28 November 1993 at Norwich Castle Museum] (Norwich: Norfolk Museums Service, 1993) [Norfolk and Norwich Festival]

A valuable six-page catalogue of designs by Blake and Stothard for Chaucer, with Andrew Moore, "Introduction" (p. 2) and new evidence, in the shape of drawings by Stothard for an engraving of Chaucer's Pilgrims in 1793, that leads Robin Hamlyn to conclude that "Cromek and Stothard can be exonerated from the charge [by Blake] of plagiarism" (p. 4).

1993 October 4-November 6

*William Blake in Durham Libraries: An Exhibition [of the holdings of Durham University and Dean and Chapter Libraries] in Durham University Library Main Library and Palace Green Sections October 4th-November 6th 1993 [Catalogue by David Fuller. Durham, 1993]

"The most significant items ... exhibited here are ... Job ... Blair's The Grave [1808] ... and the considerable number of commercial book illustrations" (p. 4).

1993 November 18

§Swann Galleries. Rare Books: Art and Architecture, Bindings, William Blake, Color Plate Books ... (N.Y., 1993), 245 lots

1993 November 30

**Books and Prints by William Blake from the Collection formed by the late Frank Rinder, Esq. To be sold by Christie's (London) 30 November 1993*

Thirteen works were sold [by the heirs of Mrs Ramsay Harvey], of which the most important were **Marriage* (L) (ESTIMATE: £8,000-£12,000) [sold for £28,000 to John Windle for R.N. Essick], **Milton* pl. 38 (ESTIMATE:£20,000-£30,000 [sold for £55,000 to John Windle for R.N. Essick]), **Jerusalem* (C) ("Estimate on request" [sold for £560,000 to an Anonymous Collection]), **Jerusalem* pl. 25 (ESTIMATE: £2,000-£3,000 [sold for £2,400 to John Windle for R.N. Essick]), 4 Virgil pulls proclaimed with some fanfare as "relief etchings" (ESTIMATE: £10,000-£15,000 [sold for £53,000 to the dealer Nicholas Lott]), "The Man Sweeping the Interpreter's Parlour" first and second states, George Richmond's copy of Job (1826), and Job ([1874]).

N.B. The Rinder copy of No Natural Religion (E) did not appear in the sale apparently because Joseph Viscomi had demonstrated that it is not an original.

REVIEWS &c

*Llewellyn, David, "William Blake's Jerusalem", Christie's International Magazine, November-December 1993, pp. 36-37 (a summary of the poem heralding the sale of the Rinder copy at Christie's)

H.R. Woudhuysen, "Blake's books", Times Literary Supplement, 26 November 1993, p. 16

*Anon., "Books and Prints by William Blake from the Collection formed by The Late Frank Rinder, Esq. [to be offered by Christie's] London, Tuesday, 30 November", Christie's International Magazine,

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

November-December 1993, pp. 88-89
(reproductions of four works for sale with estimates of their prices)

*Robert N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 1993, Including a Report on the Sale of the Frank Rinder Collection", Blake, XXVII, 4 (Spring 1994), 103-29

1993 November

§Ben Abraham Books Catalogue 12. William Blake.
November 1993 (Toronto, 1993)
166 items.

1993

**William Blake: The Poetry Bookshop List 86 (West House, Broad Street, Hay-on-Wye via Hereford HR3 5DB [1993])*
171 items of 1806-1990 for sale.

1994 March 24

§Samuel T. Freeman and Co, Books at Auction, Sale 637
(Philadelphia, 1994)
Includes William Blake.

1994 July 16-October 16

§*Robin Hamlyn. William Blake: Art & Revolution. Exhibition at the Tate Gallery, 16 July-16 August 1994. 8 pp.

REVIEW

*Michael Horovitz, "A new display devoted to William Blake has opened at the Tate Gallery. Poet Michael Horovitz explores the obsessions of this 18th-century visionary and discovers that his message, and his artistic methods, still speak to us in the late 20th century", Daily Telegraph [London], 30 July 1994, pp. 12-13 ("Mr Blake is not sleeping, only dead")

1994 August 1-14

Exhibition 1794-1994 the bicentenary of The Songs of Innocence and of Experience Tyger Tyger: An Interior for William Blake Open Monday to Sunday 1st to 14th August [in]The House of William Blake, 17 South Molton St, Mayfair, London [1994]

A poster-catalogue listing 135 works from telephones and Fluorescent Tube Lampshades to "a prophetic cake" (as the invitation describes it) and Autosterograms, priced at £25 to £17,000.

According to an information sheet, The House of William Blake is to be "a centre for the dissenting imagination", with "a core business" "working at the forefront of the computer technology" and developing in three stages: (1) "to secure the apartment where Blake lived;" (2) "to open [sic] the upper three floors;" and (3) "to acquire the whole building" and create "a theatre or auditorium in the basement, a coffee shop & art gallery on the ground floor, with each of the three upper levels dedicated to one aspect of Blake's life: words, images and the human heart." Its first publication (unrelated to William Blake) is T.J. Heath, A Tyger's Tale illustrated by Gerald Fitzgerald (London: The House of William Blake, 17 South Molton Street, London W1Y 1DE [1994]); ISBN: 0952413906, a tiny accordion work, about 1"

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

x 1", with tale about a honey-loving tiger on one side and Japanese text on the other.

See also Simon Tait, below.

1994 September-1995 January 15

**William Blake's Illuminated Prints, 1788-1822*: [An exhibition September 1994-15 January 1995 at] The Huntington Library, Art Collections, and Botanical Gardens ([San Marino, California, 1994])

A stiff sheet folded to make eight 8° leaves, with a "Handlist to the Exhibition" with prints from fourteen Illuminated Books in the Huntington plus some loans (pp. 6-7), with Robert N. Essick, untitled introduction (pp. 2-5).

REVIEWS &c

*Anon. "'William Blake's Illuminated Prints': Opens September 27 in the Huntington Gallery", Calendar [of] The Huntington Library, Art Collections, and Botanical Gardens, September-October 1994, p. 3

David Weiner, "Illuminated Blake", Los Angeles Reader: The Free Weekly City Magazine, XVI (23 September 1994) (a response to the exhibition)

*Meg Sullivan, "Huntington has pictures to go with Blake's words", Daily News, [San Gabriel Valley, California] 27 September 1994, pp. 1, 15 (a herald for the Huntington exhibition, largely based on an interview with Robert Essick. The same text, attributed to "New York Times Service", appears in Anon., "Blake's art burns bright", Globe and Mail [Toronto] 15 October 1994, p. C26, and doubtless elsewhere.)

*Janette Williams, "More than words: Blake exhibit has illustrated poetry", Pasadena Star-News, 28 September 1994, p. A3

*Farrell, John. "William Blake exhibit very illuminating: 'William Blake's Illuminated Prints' opened Tuesday in the Huntington Library, displaying more than 90 pages in a show of brilliant colors and vivid lines", Cheers! San Gabriel Valley Newspapers, 30 September 1994, p. 32

*William Wilson, "William Blake's Vision Shines in His Prints at Huntington", Los Angeles Times, 4 October 1994, pp. F1, F5 ("Blake's work ... looks as if it could have been made right here in Angeltown within living memory"; Blake is "the spiritual father of L.A.'s Beat Generation")

Brad Zukovic, "William Blake: A Creator, Not a Mystic", Los Angeles Times, 15 October 1994, p. F6 (protest against "the terrible groaner of pegging the man [Blake] as a 'mystic' and a 'metaphysical seer'" in William Wilson's review)

*Chia-Ling Nahn-Chang, "Professor [Essick] curates museum exhibit", Highlander, XLIII, 6 (1 November 1994), B3, 6 (the Huntington Blake exhibition "is a rare collection to be enjoyed by all")

Robin Hamlyn, "William Blake at the Huntington", Journal of the Blake Society at St James, I (Spring 1995), 22-26 (Essick's William Blake at the

William Blake and His Circle

Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

Huntington, written "in his customary scholarly, crystal-clear and accessible style, ... is both an invaluable guide to the Huntington Blake holdings and an important addition to the Blake literature" [p. 25])

1994 October

§Yerba Buena Books, William Blake. (1994) Typescript
77 items.

1994 November

Adam Mills Rare Books Occasional List (Cottenham, Cambridge, [November 1994])

The catalogue is entirely devoted to "William Blake 1757-1827", No. 1-10 books with Blake's commercial engravings, No. 11-41 with editions and scholarship.

1994

G.E. Bentley, Jr., with the assistance of Keiko Aoyama. Blake Studies in Japan: A Bibliography of Works on William Blake Published in Japan 1893-1993. In Commemoration of the Twentieth Anniversary of the Foundation of the Japan Association of English Romanticism 1994 (Tokyo: Japan Association of English Romanticism [26 December] 1994) 4°, pp. i-xxv, 1-190, 17 reproductions; ISBN: 4755302056

"Introduction" (pp. xv-xxii); there are almost a thousand entries, many of them not in Blake Books (1977) or Blake Books Supplement (1995).

For an earlier version, see 1991 above.

See also Anon., "Blake Studies in Japan", Eigo Seinen, CXL (1994), 49; Keiko Aoyama, "Blake Studies in Japan ...", Shoshi Sakuin Tenbo, XIX (1994), 1-27, and her "Blake Studies in Japan ...", Igirisu Romanha Gakkai Kaiho, No. 18 (1994), 24-25.

REVIEWS

Yoko Ima-Izumi, Blake, XXIX, 3 (Winter 1995-96), 82-88 (mostly a useful "necessary historical explanation" concerning the Japanese Blake scholars discussed in the "valuable introduction" to Blake Studies in Japan [p. 82])

Noriko Kawasaki, Igirisu Romanha Kenkyu, Igirisu Romanha Gakkai: Essays in English Romanticism, Japan Association of English Romanticism, No. 19-20 (1996), 178-80, in Japanese (highly esteemed)

Karen Mulhallen, Papers of the Bibliographical Society of Canada: Cahiers de la Société bibliographique du Canada, XXXIV (Fall 1996), 198-200 (high praise)

C.S. Matheson, University of Toronto Quarterly, LXVI (Winter 1996-97), 344-46 (with another) ("meticulous" and "invaluable")

1994

*William Weston Gallery Catalogue No. 1, 1994 (Year 27, Issue No. 249), William Blake: 1757-1827: The Complete series of original engravings for The Book of Job With an outstanding fully documented provenance directly from John Linnell who commissioned the series from Blake (London: William Weston Gallery, 1994)

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

All Blake's plates are reproduced and offered individually.

1995 June

§Adam Mills. Occasional List: William Blake 1757-1827: Facsimile Editions (Cottenham, Cambridge: Adam Mills, June 1995)

12 minor Blake items, some from the Raymond Lister Collection.

1995 February 6-17

The Genitals are Beauty: a mixed media exhibition 6-17 February 1995 [at the] House of William Blake Design & Advertising ([London: The House of William Blake, 1995)

The catalogue is a small brown paper bag listing (with prices) 42 items in knitting, T-shirts, automata, vases, &c., with no apparent relationship to Blake save, occasionally, the titles, e.g., "The Lineaments of Desire". It is accompanied by a collection of 47 self-portraits of genitalia, entitled The Genitals are Beauty (London: House of William Blake, February 1995), c. 4" x 4", fastened with a pin; ISBN: 0952413914

REVIEWS

[Tim (Heath) and Meredith (Davies)], "Tyger! Tyger! An Interior for William Blake", Journal of the Blake Society at St James, No. 1 (Spring 1995), 40-41 (an account of the two exhibitions at The House of William Blake, on house-furnishings [August 1994] and on The Genitals are Beauty, including statistics for the latter, e.g., "Visitors who were hugely embarrassed 9")

Keri Davies, Blake, XXIX, 3 (Winter 1995-96), 102-3 (the genitalia exhibition "tied together a roomful of genitals with some of the kitschy inheritance of St. Valentine's Day")

1995 April 3-May 25

*Dieter Löchle, William Blake--Roof'd in from Eternity: Erschienen als Begleitheft zur Ausstellung vom 3. April bis zum 25. Mai 1995 in der Universitätsbibliothek Tübingen (Tübingen: Universitätsbibliothek Tübingen, 1995) In German See Löchle below.

REVIEW

D.W. Dörrbecker, Blake, XXX, 3 (Winter 1996-97), 82-87 (with 3 others)

1995 July

§Antique & Book Collector (Marlborough, Wiltshire, July 1995)

An exhibition and sales catalogue includes some of Blake's commercial book-illustrations detached from their parent volumes and, aslots 25-27, Songs (o) pl. 24 ("Nurse's Song" from Innocence), 18 ("The Divine Image"), and 38 ("Nurse's Song" from Experience), at £2,250 each.

1995 July 2-August 6

§Jaume Plensa, "One thought fills immensity", Städtische Galerie, Göppingen, Germany, 2 July-6 Aug 1995. In German

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

REVIEW

D.W. Dörrbecker, Blake, XXX, 3 (Winter 1996-97), 82-87 (with 3 others) (Blake's Proverbs are blind-stamped on polyester panels in "a highly personal interpretation of Blake" [p. 85])

1995 July 11-October 15

**William Blake and Patronage* [Catalogue of an exhibition] 11 July-15 October 1995 [at the] Tate Gallery (London: Tate Gallery, 1995) 4°, 8 pp.

Robin Hamlyn, "Introduction" (p. [2]); "William Blake 1757-1827" (pp. [2-7]), especially about John Hawkins, Thomas Butts, and William Hayley. Some of the 48 entries are not by Blake.

1995 July 14-October 29

§Antonio Rivera. Bodas del Cielo y del Infierno: Exposición sala Antonieta Rivas Mercado Del 14 de julia al 29 de octubre [1995] (Mexico, D.F.: Museo de Arte Moderno, 1995) 71 pp.; ISBN: 9686600132 Bilingual in Spanish and English

1995 December

**The Blake Collection of Joseph Holland & Vincent Newton With Additions from our Inventory*. John Windle List Twenty-Six (San Francisco: John Windle, [Dec] 1995) 4°, 52 pp., 17 reproductions

"The Blake Collection of Joseph Holland [1910-94] and Vincent Newton" (p. [v]). A very handsome catalogue with 241 entries (lots 1-193 from Holland-Newton, lots 194-236 from Stock, lots 237-41 "Auction Purchases for the Record", priced at $5-$60,000 and "Price on Enquiry".

1995

*G.E. Bentley, Jr. Blake Books Supplement: A Bibliography of Publications and Discoveries about William Blake 1971-1992, being a Continuation of BLAKE BOOKS (1977) (Oxford: Clarendon Press, 1995) 8°, xviii, 789 pp., 13 reproductions; ISBN: 019812534X

"Introduction" (pp. 1-9); "Blake Discoveries, Scholarship, and Criticism" (pp. 10-30).

REVIEWS

Bruce Tice, Antiquarian Book Monthly, XXII, 10 (November 1995), 76 (it is "necessary reading" "for those wishing a comprehensive overview of the current state of Blake studies .... 'Every word and every letter is studied and fits into its place'")

James King, English Studies in Canada, XXIII (1997), 240-42 (it "does not attain quite the same high standards" in Part VI as Blake Books did [p. 241])

Bernice Bergup, American Reference Books Annual, XXVII (1996), 524 ("Scholars ... can only applaud his thoroughness")

C.S. Matheson, University of Toronto Quarterly, LXVI (Winter 1996-97), 344-46 (with another) ("exemplary")

David Worrall, Blake, XXXII, 2 (Fall 1998), 46-48 ("Blake Books/Records/Supplements" are "such a Herculean set of labors, and such wonderful achievements" that they should be merged and published on CD-Rom [p. 48])

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

David Worrall (bis), Year's Work in English Studies, LXXVI for 1995 (1998), 396-97 ("encyclopaedic and indispensable")

Michael Phillips, Burlington Magazine, CXXXIX (1997), 338-39 (with 8 others) (in Blake Books and Blake Books Supplement, "the information is there, of all kinds in great detail")

1995

Dörrbecker, D.W. "In ... Cambridge & in Oxford, places of Thought": Blake in British Theses, 1950-1994 (Trier an der Mosel, 1995) 8°, 14 pp.

"Introduction" (pp. 3-5) plus a list of 78 M.A., M.Litt., M. Phil., Ph.D. (and D.Phil.) dissertations from Index to [British] Theses. "Corrigenda to Previous Checklists" (p. 13) covers chiefly those published in Blake (Winter 1992-93).

For information on how to obtain copies, see Blake, XXIX, 1 (Summer 1995), 35

1995

The Poetry Bookshop, Author List No. 1: William Blake (Hay-on-Wye, Wales: The Poetry Bookshop, 1995) 3 leaves, 51 entries

[1995]<sup>839</sup>

Bernard Quaritch, Bernard Quaritch Catalogue 1208, English Books Eighteenth and Nineteenth Century (London, 1995) <Huntington>

---

<sup>839</sup> Dated by Essick "1995".

- 18 Hayley, The Triumphs of Temper (1803), "large paper ... in contemporary smooth calf, spine gilt in six compartments (neat restoration to upper joint), bound by Edmund Lloyd of Harley Street whose signature is stamped in gilt on the inside edge of the front cover", £1,200.0.0
- 19 Lavater, Aphorisms (1788), "wanting the half-title ('Aphorisms. Vol. I') which was almost inevitably cancelled because no further volume was published; a little spotting ... in old half calf, spine and corners neatly renewed", £600.0.0

1996 February 2-April 7; April 17-June 2

William Blake: visiones de mundos eternos (1757-1827). [Exhibition] 2 de febrero-7 de abril de 1996 [at the] Sala de Exposiciones de la Fundación "la Caixa", Madrid. [Tr. Gabriel Sánchez Espinosa, Russell B. Sacks, and Elvira Villena] (Madrid: Fundación "la Caixa", 1996) 4º, 262 pp., 180 reproductions; ISBN: 8476645376 In Spanish B. William Blake: visions de mons eterns (1757-1827): [Exhibition] 17 d'abril-2 de juny de 1996 [at the] Centre Cultural de la Fundacio "la Caixa", Barcelona. [Tr. Ignasi Sardá, Russell B. Sachs, Elvira Villena] (Barcelona: Fundació "la Caixa", 1996) 4º, 262 pp., 180 reproductions; ISBN: 8476645384 In Catalan

The two catalogues are identical except that (1) the Madrid version is in Spanish and the Barcelona version in Catalan {the Catalan titles are given within curly brackets below} and (2) Plates 28f-i in the Madrid version are mislabeled and in the wrong order but are correct in the Barcelona version.

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

Note: The reviews indicate that 180 works were exhibited in Madrid and 150 in Barcelona.

Robin Hamlyn is the Comisaro or Curator of the exhibition. The book (A) consists of Luis {Lluís} Monreal (Director General, Fundació "la Caixa"), "Presentación" {"Presentacio"} (p. 11), "Foreword" (p. 217): A prime reason for organizing the Blake exhibition is "the fact that his work is not present in any Spanish museum or collection".

Robin Hamlyn, "William Blake (1757-1827)" (pp. 12-29 in Spanish {and Catalan}; pp. 219-28 in English): A general account for a Spanish audience.

Francisco Calvo Serraller, "Blake y Goya: convergencias y divergencias entre dos mundos" {"Blake i Goya: convergencies i divergencies entre dos mons"} (pp. 31-42); "Blake and Goya: Convergence and Divergence between Two Worlds" (pp. 229-35): Concerns "Flaxman's possible influence on Goya" (p. 231), with an aside on Fuseli and a paragraph on Blake.

Estella de Diego, "La invención de William Blake" {"La invenció de William Blake"} (pp. 43-52); "The Invention of William Blake" (pp. 237-42): "Blake is pervaded by life", and "it is hard to tell just how much the Surrealists actually read of Blake" (pp. 240, 237).

*[Adela Morán and Montserrat Gómez], "Catalogo" {"Catalog"} (pp. 53-210, with descriptions only of the 180 colour plates reproduced, which include Innocence[X], Europe [B], and the Job engravings [1826]); "Catalogue" (pp. 243-59 in English of all 188 items exhibited).

"Bibliografia" (pp. 211-13); "Literature" (pp. 261-62).

REVIEWS &c, in Spanish unless otherwise noted

Anon., "Un Maldito entre Nosotros", tiempo [Madrid],

13 November 1995

Anon., "Balthus, Ensor, Blake & Barcello", ABC [Madrid], 29 December 1995

*Ramón Mayrata, "William Blake el Profeta Furtivo", El Pais [Barcelona], 27 January 1996

*Felipe Pereda, "William Blake: Dibujos Grabados y Palmas de un Profeta del Siglo XVIII", El Mundo [Barcelona], 28 January 1996

*Alvaro Delgado-Gal, "William Blake, un visionario", ABC [Madrid], 2 February 1996, p. 34

*Anon., "Blake reivindica la 'libertad del artista': Se exponen por primera vez en España 180 obras del pintor y poeta", El Pais [Barcelona], 2 February 1996, in Catalan

*Isabel Hurtado, "William Blake, en poeta que cambió el arte británico del siglo XVIII: Inventó una nueva forma de expresión plástica que combina el dibujo y el texto: La Fundación La Caixa ofrece una muestra de la obra completa [sic] del artista inglés", Ya [Madrid], 2 February 1996

*Miguel Angel Trenas, "'La Caixa' muestra en Madrid la obra gráfica del pintor y poeta William Blake", La Vanguardia [Barcelona], 2 February 1996

*J. A. Alvarez Reyes, "Las visiones de William Blake: la Fundación La Caixa muestra 180 acuarelas y grabados del dibujante romántico que permanecerán expuestas hasta el próximo 7 de abril", Diario 16 (Madrid), 2 February 1996 (with a paragraph about "Relación Blake y Goya")

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

- *Anon. (Efe<sup>840</sup>), "La Caixa presenta hoy en Madrid las 'visiones eternas' de William Blake: Sus escritos y cuadros influyeron notablemente en románticos y simbolistas", Diaria de León, 2 February 1996
- Anon. (Efe), "La Fundación la Caixa muestra en Madrid mas de 180 obras de William Blake", El Correo [Sevilla], 2 February 1996
- *Anon. (Efe), "'Visiones eternas', de Blake, en La Caixa de Madrid: La muestra reúne más de 180 dibujos y grabados del artista londinense del siglo XVIII", Alerta (Santandar), 2 February 1996, in Spanish
- Anon. (Efe), "Las visiones eternas de William Blake se exponen en la Fundación La Caixa", El Ideal Gallego [La Coruña], 2 February 1996, in Catalan
- *Anon. (Efe), "'William Blake: visiones de mundos eternas reúne en Madrid más de 180 trabajos del artista: La muestra se inaugura hoy en la fundación La Caixa", Diario de Noticias [Pamplona], 2 February 1996
- *Anon. (Efe), "Las visiones eternas de William Blake, a través de dibujos, acuarelas y grabados: La exposición del pintor británico reúne simbólico", La verdad [Murcia], 2 February 1996

---

<sup>840</sup> Efe (or EFE) is a news-agency; the Efe entries often repeat whole paragraphs verbatim.

Anon. (Efe), "Le Fundación La Caixa acoge la muestra 'William Blake: visiones de mundos eternas': Su la institución, con sede en Madrid, pueden verse 180 obras del artista", Sur [Malaga], 2 February 1996

Anon. (Efe), "Exponen en Madrid mas de 180 obras del poeta y pintor británico William Blake", El Correo Español [Bilbao], 2 February 1996, in Catalan

Anon., "Esposicion de Blake", Diario de Navarra [Pamplona], 2 February 1996 (1 paragraph)

Anon. (Agencias), "Las visiones eternas de Blake, en Madrid", Atlantico Diário [Vigo], 2 February 1996

*Miguel Morán Turina, "Visiones eternas: Por primera vez puede verse en España la obra de William Blake", Diario 16 (Madrid), 3 February 1996, p. 9

Anon., "William Blake", Revista Iberia, 7 February 1996, in English and Spanish

Anon., "Las visiones de William [sic] en la fundación La Caixa", Cordoba, 8 February 1996

*Anon., "Mundos Externos", tiempo [Madrid], 12 February 1996 (one short paragraph)

Anon., "La Caixa patrocina una exposición y un catálogo de William Blake", Gaceta de los Negocios [Madrid], 14 February 1996, in Spanish

Anon., "William Blake", Comunidad Escolar [Madrid], 14 February 1996 (one short paragraph)

*Elena Delgado Castro, "Las visiones interiores de un artista inglés: William Blake, por primera vez en España: Se reúnen en Madrid 180 dibujos

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

- acuarelas y grabados del pintor", Ya [Madrid], 16 February 1996, p. 60
- Anon., "Héroes clásicos", El Mundo [Barcelona], 17 February 1996; April 1996 (almost identical), in Catalan
- *Anon., "William Blake: 'El hijo pródigo'", semanal antenna [Madrid], 18 February 1996, pp. 32-35
- *Perez Gállego, "Madrid muestra la obra pictórica del poeta William Blake: William Blake nos ofreció unas visiones de mundos eternos que a hora se recogen en una brillante exposición organizada por la Fundación La Caixa en la capital de España", Heraldo de Aragon [Zaragoza], 19 February 1996
- *Anon., "Los héroes de William Blake", Guía del Ocio [Madrid], 19 February 1996 (one paragraph)
- *Anon., "Visiones de mundos eternos en Fundación La Caixa", Cinco Días, 23 February 1996, p. 35 (one paragraph)
- *Julián Gállego, "William Blake: Meditaciones Poéticas", Bianco Negro [Madrid], 25 February 1996, pp. 30-35
- *Anon., "Entre el paraíso y el infierno: William Blake en la Caixa", Epoca [Madrid], 26 February 1976, 2 pp.
- *Anon., "William Blake, por primavera vez en España", el nuevo lunes [Madrid], 26 February 1996, in Spanish
- *Lydia Garrido, "William Blake", El Siglo [Madrid], 26 February 1976, p. 53

- *Juan Giron Roger, "Más allá de la mirada de un visionario: William Blake, en la Fundación La Caixa", Dinero [Madrid], 26 February 1996, pp. 96-97
- *Anon., "William Blake: Una Mirada Diferente", Revista Belles Artes, February 1996, pp. 4-5; Casa & Jardín [Madrid], March 1996, pp. 4-5
- Anon., "William Blake", Revista Arte Omega, February-March 1996, p. 59
- *Marcos-Ricardo Barnatan, "El tigre de Blake", El Mundo [Barcelona], 9 March 1996
- *Juan Carlos Melagón, "Los paraísos perdidos de Blake: La obra del poeta y pintor visionario", Guía del Ocio [Madrid], 11 March 1996
- Anon., "'Los mundos eternos' de William Blake: Salas de la Fundación 'La Caixa', Madrid", Nueva Alcarria, 15 March 1996 (one paragraph)
- Anon., "Los paraísos perdidos", El Mundo [Barcelona], 23 March 1996, in Catalan
- Anon., "William Blake, genio y visionario", Ideal [Granada], 23 March 1996
- *Pedro Alfageme Ruano, "Sublime William Blake", El Correo [Sevilla], 24 March 1996
- *Juan J. Luna, "Las imágenes de Blake", Tribuna de Actualidad, 25 March 1996, pp. 66-67
- *Alpy, "Blake, romántico y visionario", Córdoba, 28 March 1996
- *Anon., "Poeta y pintor", Economics [Madrid], March 1996 (one paragraph)
- *Anon., "William Blake", Ronda Iberia, March 1996, p. 7 (one paragraph)

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

- *Anon., "William Blake", Nuevo Estilo [Barcelona], March 1996, p. 78 (one paragraph) In Catalan?
- *Anon., "William Blake, visiones de mundos eternos", Correo del Arte [Madrid], March 1996, p. 35
- *Pilar Gómez, "William Blake: Artista simbolista", Reseña [Madrid], No. 270 (March 1996), p. 41
- *Harry Kampianne, "William Blake, peintre-poète", Muséart, March 1996, p. 101 In French
- *Luis Racionero, "William Blake: El profeta de la New Age", Ajoblanco [Barcelona], March 1996, pp. 58-61 In Catalan?
- *Guillermo Solana, "El demiurgo ambidiestro: William Blake, visiones del mundos eternas", Arquitectura Viva [Madrid], March-April 1996, pp. 61-63
- §*E. Flórez, "William Blake, visión de mundos eternos", Goya, No. 251 (March-April 1996), 309-10
- Anon., "Romanticismo sublime", El Mundo [Barcelona], 1 April 1996 In Catalan
- *Anon., "William Blake", Tribuna de Actualidad, 1 April 1996 (one paragraph)
- *Anon., "'Los mundos eternos' de William Blake: Salas de la Fundación 'la Caixa', Madrid", Nueva Alcarra, 5 April 1996
- *Anon., "William Blake", El Pais [Barcelona], 12 April 1996
- *Anon., "William Blake, l'avanlguarda actual vista al segle XVIII", Avui [Barcelona], 12 April 1996 In Catalan?

- *Jorge Muñoz, "William Blake", inversión, 12 April 1996, pp. 57-58
- *Anon., "Los mundos eternos de William Blake", Guía del Ocio, 12-18 April 1996
- *Anon., "Innovadores de distinto signo", El Periódico [Barcelona], 14 April 1996, in Catalan
- Anon., "Barclani, William Blake", El Mundo [Barcelona], 14 April 1996, in Catalan?
- *Olga Spiegel, "Sublime William Blake", La Vanguardia [Barcelona], 14 April 1996, 3 pp. In Catalan?
- Anon., "Spain, Barcelona", International Herald Tribune, 15 April 1996 In English
- Anon., "Exposiciones: William Blake", El Periódico [Barcelona], 16 April 1996 In Catalan
- *Catalina Serra, "El arte visionario de Blake, en Barcelona: La Fundación La Caixa exhibe mas de 150 obras del creador inglés", El Pais [Barcelona], 17 April 1996, in Catalan
- Olga Spiegel, "Una exposición muestra al Blake dibujante y grabador", La Vanguardia [Barcelona], 17 April 1996 In Catalan? [a different story than the one above]
- *Marie-Claire Uberquoi, "La Fundació la Caixa reúne acuarelas, dibujas y grabados de William Blake: Ningún museo-español tiene obra de este precursor del romanticismo: Las imágenes más fascinantes del artista corresponden a los monotipos", El Mundo [Barcelona], 17 April 1996, in Catalan

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

- *Maria Angela Molina, "La sicodelia visionara de William Blake, en la Fundació la Caixa", ABC [Barcelona], 17 April 1996, in Catalan
- *Anon., "La Fundació 'la Caixa' descubre las profecías y visiones de William Blake", ABC [Barcelona], 17 April 1996, in Catalan
- *Monse Frisch, "L'obra de l'il·lumant' William Blake arriba per primer cop a Barcelona: La Fundació La Caixa exposa un ampli conjunt de debuijos i gravats de l'innovador artista i poeta britanic", Avui [Barcelona], 17 April 1996, in Catalan
- Anon., "Muestu sobra las visiones de William Blake", El Periódico [Barcelona], 17 April 1996, in Catalan
- Anon. (Efe), "La Fundació 'la Caixa' exposa 150 pintures del poeta William Blake", Punt Diari [Girona], 17 April 1996
- Anon., "S'inaugurar avui a Barcelona l'exposició de William Blake", Diari de Girona, 17 April 1996
- M. Carme Gironès Oms, "Proposar William Blake", Avui [Barcelona], 19 April 1996, in Catalan
- *Anon., "Des del 19 d'abril al Centre Cultural de Barcelona: 'William Blake, visions de mons eterns'", Panorama ([Barcelona: Fundació "la Caixa"] Abril 1996), 1, 16, in Catalan (announcement of the exhibition)
- *Anon., "William Blake en la Caixa de Barcelona", Museos, April-May 1996, 2 pp., in French

- *Glória Bosch, "Un artiste visionaro: William Blake en el Centre Cultural de la Fundació 'la Caixa'", Guía del Ocio, 2 May 1996
- Anon., "Barcelona Art: 'William Blake – Visions of Eternal Worlds'", Wall Street Journal, 3 May 1996, in English
- *Toni Días, "William Blake, un visionari incompres", Revista Barcelona, 6 May 1996, p. 15, in French
- *Herve Gauville, "Virée catalane pour Blake le roc: Arts: A Barcelona, deux cents [sic] œuvres de William Blake, poète britannique du siècle dernier, artiste visionnaire et précurseur des conceptuels et minimalistes", Libération, 9 May 1996, in French
- *M. Montserrat Castillo, "Blake: visiones de monstruets", Avui [Barcelona], 9 May 1996
- *Tina Casademont, "Les visions eternes del William Blake dibuixant", Punt Diari [Girona], 12 May 1996, 2 pp.
- *Anon., "William Blake", La Vanguardia [Barcelona], 14 May 1996 In Catalan?
- *Alan Fleischer, "La Agenda de Hoy: Dia para propuestas inovadoras: contemplar edificies areque téctonicos naveganda por Internet, asistir a una muestra de coches de jugueta o ver peliculas del siempre conliovertido Alan Fleischer", El Periodico de Catalunya [Barcelona], 14 May 1996, in Catalan
- Antoni Morell, "La Fundació 'la Caixa'", Opinió [Andorra], 19 May 1996, p. 13
- Anon., "William Blake, la Fundació la Caixa", El Nou [Osona i Ripolles], 31 May 1996

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

- *Anon., "William Blake: Hasta el 2 de Juni – Fundació La Caixa Barcelona", Casa & Jardin [Madrid], May 1996, p. 28 (one paragraph)
- *Anon., "William Blake: un recursor a la Fundació 'la Caixa'", Barcelona informació cultural, May 1996 (one paragraph), in Catalan?
- *Sara Armada, "William Blake (1757-1827): Visions de Mons Eterns: Centre Cultural de la Fundació La Caixa de passeig de Sant Edan", Revista Barsalona, May 1996, in Catalan
- *Hans Möller, "La aventura vitalle William Blake", Economics [Madrid], May 1996, pp. 70-71
- *Anon., "Visiones de William Blake", Regió 7 [Manresa], 1 June 1996; 3 June 1996
- *Roman Caselé, "Incisione e Presagi: La Fundacio la Caixa presenta a Madrid e Barcelona una mostra di William Blake", Arte in: Bimestrale di critica e d'informagune delle arti visione, Anno IX (June 1996), 53-54
- §Anon., "Blake Drawings Take a Trip to Spain", p. [6] of Rosenbach Newsletter, No. 31 (Spring 1996) (on the loan of works to the exhibition), in English
- *Flor García, "William Blake: Aguest enigmàtic artista, poeta i gravador londinene ha estat protagonista el mes de maig d'una important exposició a la Fundació 'la Caixa'", Revista Illustradeó, July-August 1996, in Catalan
- *María Correas, "Más allá: William Blake: Visiones de mundos eternos Fundación 'La Caixa'", Gaceta de Belles Artes, No. 6 ([1996]), 34-35

*Shantigarbha. "Visions of Eternity: Blake in Madrid: Exhibition at Fundacion 'la Caixa', Madrid, February-April 1996", Urthona, No. 6 (1996), 83 ("an important event"), in English

1996 July 9-October 6

§William Blake: Illustrations to Young's NIGHT THOUGHTS. [Exhibition at the] Tate Gallery, 9 July-6 October 1996 (London: Tate Gallery, 1996) 8 pp.

Catalogue and essay by Robin Hamlyn.

1996 November 14

**Eighteenth and Nineteenth Century British Drawings and Watercolours. Auction: Thursday, 14 November, 1996, Sotheby's* (London: Sotheby's, 1996)

Blake's 28 Bunyan watercolours and the drawing of "The First Temptation" (Paradise Regained) from The Frick Collection (all reproduced in colour in various sizes) were offered (ESTIMATE: £260,000-£340,000) but apparently attracted not a single bid; after the sale they were sold to an Anonymous collector, i.e., Alan Parker.

REVIEW

*Henry Wemyss, "Blake Watercolours from The Frick Collection: An exquisite group of watercolours have an intriguing history which is unravalled", Sotheby's Preview, November 1996, 18-19 (a herald of the sale)

1996 December 4-5

... Periodicals, Manuscripts & Ephemera, etc. ([auction sale by Foncie] Mealy, Dublin, 1996)

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

The Blakes included lots 263-64, 297, 302, 303, 331, 385, 564-66, 579-88, 635, 637, 729, 797, 1247. Perhaps the most remarkable entry was that for Bewick's Virgil (1821)<BB>, Vol. I (?all published), ESTIMATE: £150-£200 [sold for £3,000].

1996?

William Blake: [Sale catalogue of] R.A. Gilbert (Bristol: R.A. Gilbert, [?1996])

An 11-page list of 330 Blake items for sale en bloc (without price).

1997 February 1-April 6

**"Among Whores and Thieves": William Hogarth and THE BEGGAR'S OPERA* Ed. David Bindman and Scott Wilcox (New Haven: Yale Center for British Art; The Lewis Walpole Library, 1997)

*Jessica Todd Smith, "Hogarth, Blake, and The Beggars' Opera." Pp. 80-84.

1997 February 2-May 4

§Six Centuries / Six Artists. National Gallery of Art, Washington, D.C., 2 February-4 May 1997.

Includes 30 works by Blake.

1997 April 2-July 6

*Patrick Noon. The Human Form Divine: William Blake from the Paul Mellon Collection (New Haven and London: Yale University Press [for the] Yale Center for British Art),

1997) 4°, pp. i-vii, 1-87, 61 colour plates; ISBN: 030007174 (cloth)

The catalogue (pp. 75-87) is preceded by Patrick McCaughey, "Preface" (pp. vii-viii) and Patrick Noon, "Introduction" [chiefly a history of Mr Mellon's collections]; (pp. 1-12) is "adapted" in his "A 'Mad' but Compelling Vision: At the heart of the British Art Center's collection is a trove of delicate works on paper by the English poet and artist William Blake. A show opening this month illustrates the breadth and depth of his durably disturbing appeal", Yale Alumni Magazine, LX, 6 (April 1997), 26-32.

REVIEWS

*Milton Moore, "'The Human Form Divine: William Blake': A Man for all Millennia", The Day [Connecticut], 13 April 1997, C1, 5 (chiefly derived from an interview with Patrick Noon; the exhibits are "visually stunning")

*Deborah Solomon, Wall Street Journal, 23 April 1997, p. A16 (a "fascinating show" which shows that Blake, "the British Van Gogh", "is about as unbuttoned as they come" and that his "etchings grow hairier and hotter over time")

§*Anon., "The human form divine: William Blake from the Paul Mellon Collection", Drawing, XVIII (Spring 1997), 120-21

*William Zimmer, "William Blake, Home-Grown and Dazzling", New York Times, 14 June 1997 (with another)

§R. Kimball, "The human form divine: William Blake from the Paul Mellon Collection", New Criterion, XV (June 1997), 55-56

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

§*S. Bayliss, On Paper, I (1997), 24-27

§Robert Orme, Art Book Review, V, 2 (March 1998), 44-45

G. Inqli James, Burlington Magazine, CXLI, 1157 (August 1999), 485-86

1997 April 13-July 6

The Visionary Company: Blake's Contemporaries and Followers. [Catalogue of an exhibition] April 13-July 6, 1997 [at the] Yale Center for British Art ([New Haven: Yale Center for British Art, 1997) 4° height, 12° width, 20 pp., no ISBN

The little work consists of:

Anon., "Blake's Contemporaries and Context". Pp. 2-4

Jessica Todd Smith, "Visioning the Visionaries: Images of and by Blake's Followers." Pp. 5-7.

Anon., "Checklist of the Exhibition." Pp. 7-19.

1997 September 21-1998 January 19

§National Gallery of Canada. William Blake: Illustrations of the Book of Job (Ottawa, 1997)

1997 November 1-1998 11 January

§*Malcolm Cormack. William Blake: Illustrations of the Book of Job. Virginia Museum of Fine Arts, November 1 1997-January 11 1998 (Richmond: Virginia Museum of Fine Arts, 1997)

It includes reproductions of "a complete set of Blake's twenty-one engravings" for Job, plus watercolours from the Pierpont Morgan Library, drawings from the Fitzwilliam Museum, and copies ("the New Zealand set") from the Yale Center for British Art.

1998 June 22-September 6

**William Blake and his Circle: Exhibition Guide, Birmingham Museum and Art Gallery, June 22-September 6 1998* (Birmingham: Birmingham Museum and Art Gallery, 1998) 4°, 8 pp., 47 entries.

The exhibition consists of 17 Blakes and 26 works by Calvert, Francis Oliver Finch, Fuseli, Linnell, Palmer, Richmond, James Smetham, Stothard, and Varley.

REVIEWS &c

**Dave Freak, What's On: Birmingham and Central England, 13-26 June 1998*, p. 28

Anon., "Midlands & North West Previews", Art Review, July/August 1998 ("A programme of theatrical events, readings, lectures and children's workshops has been organised by the Museum to complement this significant exhibition")

**Terry Grimley, "Visions of a new Jerusalem: Terry Grimley welcomes a rare public showing for Birmingham's William Blake collection", Birmingham Post, 30 June 1998* ("The heart of Birmingham's Blake collection consists of six" Dante watercolours)

**Anon., "William Blake & His Circle", What's On: Your Leading Leisure Guide, July 1998*, p. 35 ("All but four of the images on show in this exhibition ... are owned by Birmingham Museum & Art Gallery")

1998 July 11-October 11

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

William Blake Hangaten [Exhibition of William Blake's Engravings]. Kanagawa Kindai Bijutsukan Bekkan. [Kanagawa Fine Arts Museum] (Kanagawa, Japan, 1998) In Japanese

A sheet folded in three with:

Hidefumi Hashi. "Blake no Hanga ni miru Jukosa to Shinpisei [Depth and Mystery in Blake's Engravings]."

"Sakuhin Kaisetsu [Works Commentary]."

"William Blake Ryakunenpu [Short Chronicle of William Blake]."

"Shuppin Risuto [List of Exhibits]."

The works exhibited were Young's Night Thoughts (1797), Blair's Grave, Virgil's Pastorals (1777), Job (1826), and Dante (1838), all from the Kanagawa Modern Fine Art Museum.

1998 Autumn

*John Windle, Antiquarian Bookseller. List Twenty-Nine: William Blake (San Francisco: John Windle, Autumn [November] 1998) 8°, [50] pp., 221 lots, no ISBN Chiefly books with Blake's commercial illustrations, reprints of his art and poetry, and books about him.

1999 April 22-25

Sotheby, The Estate of Mrs. John Hay Whitney<sup>841</sup> (N.Y., 1999) <Victoria University in the University of Toronto>

535 The First Book of Urizen (E), with colour

---

<sup>841</sup> The Whitney collection comes from estates on Long Island, Saratoga Springs (N.Y.), Beekman Place (N.Y.), St James (London), and Georgia.

reproductions of pl. 1, 9, 12, 18, 22, 26 (ESTIMATE: $500,000-$700,000) [$2,300,000 (plus $200,000 Sotheby fee plus 10-15% agent's fee) to Nancy Bialler of Sotheby's on the telephone for an Anonymous collection]

REVIEWS &c

Sharon L. Lynch (Associated Press Writer), "William Blake Book Brings $2.5M", Yahoo! [electronic] News AP Headlines, 7:23 PM ET, 23 April [1999] ("It was thought to be the highest price ever paid for a piece of English literature, said Selby Kiffer, Sotheby's senior vice president")

Holland Cotter, "Rare Blake Book Sells for $2.5 Million at Sotheby's", New York Times, 24 April 1999, p. B14 (Urizen [E] "was bought by a private collector who made the bid by telephone")

Anon. (AP), "William Blake book is sold for $2.5m", Boston Globe, 24 April 1999, 10

Anon., "£1.5m for William Blake book", Daily Telegraph [London], 24 April 1999

Anon., "Blake book sells for £1.5m", Guardian [London], 24 April 1999

Anon. ("Journal Sentinel wire reports"), "Rare book auctioned for $2.5 million", Milwaukee Journal Sentinel, 25 April 1999

Anon., "Whitney Sale of Books and Manuscripts Includes Book By Blake, $2.5 Million", Antiques and The Arts Weekly, 30 April 1999, p. 99 ("There was applause ... as William Blake's First Book of Urizen sold for $2,532,500 ... after a heated bidding battle among eight bidders")

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

Anon., "Going, Going, Gone ...", Blake, XXXII, 4 (Spring 1999), 150 (on the sale of Urizen [E] to an anonymous buyer for $2,500,000)

Dr Elizabeth B. Bentley, "Urizen in New York City",
Blake, XXXIII, 1 (1999), 27-30

1999 April 28-June 30

§Tyger of Wrath. [Exhibition 28 April-30 June 1999 of the Blakes in the National Gallery of Victoria, Melbourne,
Australia]

**Tyger of Wrath*: A comprehensive website of 176 works online, which accompanied the exhibition at the National Gallery of Victoria, from 28 April to 30th June 1999.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Anon., Blake, XXXII (1999), 150

1999 May 13-14

Sotheby, catalogue (London, 1999)

122 Blair, The Grave (1813), folio "coloured in [sic] hand throughout, portrait frontispiece of Blake by Schiavonetti after Phillips, plates washed, bleached and re-sized, slightly browned, some slight spotting (chiefly to margins) of some plates, occasional offsetting to text, later blue straight- grained morocco gilt by C. Herring, inner dentelles gilt, unobtrusive repairs to boards, rebacked, collector's quarter blue morocco
box, bookplate of Thomas Adam (sold in the Woodin sale, Parke Bernet, 6 January 1942, lot
60[]) [Keynes 82], 344 by 275 mm, folio

The colouring of the first plate (engraved additional title) is probably contemporary, and there are possibly some traces of original colouring in the subsequent plates. However, at least two of the colours in these plates (pink and verdigris) are post-1840, and the plates appear to have been extensively re-coloured at some time after this date. £3,000-5,000

[1999 November]<sup>842</sup>

Bernard Quaritch, Bernard Quaritch Catalogue 1267 Art and Architecture (London, 1999) <Biblioteca La Solana>

- 16 Cumberland, Thoughts on Outline (1796), "a little marginal spotting, bound in early nineteenth century dark blue half calf, lettered in gilt; some repairs to the spine and with endpapers replaced ... inscribed at the head of the title 'with the Author's compts.' and with a note on p. 49 'all these numbers in Mr. Tassie's new Catalogue have been since changed' ... the motto on the printed titlepage has been corrected by hand", £1,200
- 17 Cumberland, "An album of prints by George Cumberland (1754-1848) assembled by his son George Cumberland, Jr. for presentation to the publisher, Mathew Gutch of Bristol 1848. Sm. 4to, presentation letter, 2 pp., from Cumberland's son, dated January 1849, black-bordered offprint from a Bristol newspapers [sic] with an obituary of Cumberland by John Eagles, August 11, 1848,

---

<sup>842</sup> Annotated by Essick "Nov 1999".

William Blake and His Circle

Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies pasted to the front inner cover. Mounted in the album are 13 etchings by Cumberland comprising the poem 'To the Nightingale', proofs of the frontispiece to Lewina, The Maid of Snowdon 1793 and the small tail-piece (aquatint by Cumberland and Stothard) to the same book, a portrait of Iyo, a Chinese merchant from Canton, etched in London in 1785, an unidentified coastal landscape, a river scene with a figure resembling Blake intended for A Poem on Landscapes 1793, a small unidentified landscape of a gateway with a portcullis, a small portrait of a bearded old man in a fur hat, a portrait identified in manuscript as of John Highmore and another similar of the Rev. S. Breadon, a portrait of John Horne Tooke reading and a view of his house at Wimbledon, and a small aquatint of 'a Saxon monument at Lord Holland's near Ramsgate'. The prints mounted on sheets of Whatman 1846 paper in an album of marbled boards, leather spine perished and contents loose, manuscript paper label on upper cover .... George Cumberland, Jr. seems to have assembled several of these little albums of his father's etched work as there is one in the Bristol City Art Gallery (with 14 etchings) and there were two in the collection of Sir Geoffrey Keynes (with 14 and 27 plates, some duplicating the Bristol specimens)", with a reproduction, £1,200.0.0<sup>843</sup>

---

<sup>843</sup> Acquired for La Biblioteca La Solana.

- 23 Flaxman letter to William Hayley, 28 August 1786, extensively quoted, £750.0.0

1999

Stephen's College (Columbia, Missouri) Exhibition of Blakes from Thomas Dillingham's collection (1999)

No catalogue is known.

REVIEW &c

Anon, "Blake at Stephen's College", Blake, XXXIII, 3 (Winter 1999-2000), 95

1999 December 17-2000 April 24

British Museum Department of Prints and Drawings. The Apocalypse and the Shape of Things to Come. Ed. Frances Carey (Toronto and Buffalo: University of Toronto Press, 1999)

David Bindman, "William Blake: Prophet and History Painter." Pp. 219-23 of Chapter 5 (pp. 208 ff.): "The English Apocalypse".

REVIEWS &c

Anon., "The Apocalypse and the Shape of Things to Come: Room 90 (Prints and Drawings Gallery) British Museum, 17 December 1999-24 April 2000", Blake, XXXII, 3 (Winter 1998/99), 86 (announcement of an exhibition and its catalogue with a section by David Bindman on "millenarianism in England from the mid-seventeenth to nineteenth centuries")

Mei-Ying Sung, Blake, XXXV (2001), 61-63 ("The exhibition gave Blake a major part in the section on English Apocalypse")

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

2000 April 11-June 25; September 15-November 19

**William Blake 1757-1827. 11.4-25.6 2000* (Tennispalatsi: Helsingin kaupungin taidemuseo; Tennispalatset: Helsingfors stads konstmuseum [2000]) 4°, 188 pp., 55 reproductions; ISBN: 9518965447 In Finnish and Swedish
Tuula Karjalainen, "Sipuhe" (p. 6), "Företal" (p. 7).
"Johdento" (pp. 8-15).

2000 September 15-November 11

William Blake 1757-1827. [Catalogue by David Bindman and Simon Baker, tr. Simon V. Turner, of an exhibition at the Imperial Stables, Prague Castle] (The British museum: The British Council, 2000; "Printed by CZ, Brno.") 4°; ISBN: 8086010325 107 reproductions, including all of Job.

Ladislav Kesner, Sr, Head of the Exhibition Department, Prague Castle Administration. [Introduction.] P. 5.

Brett Rogers, Deputy Director, Visual Arts, British Council. [Introduction.] P. 6.

Anthony Griffiths, British Library Department of Prints and Drawings. [Introduction.] P. 7.

"Introduction." Pp. 8-10.

"Commerce and Imagination: Blake and the making of prints." Pp. 11-29.

"Emerging Synthesis: History painting to Illuminated printing 1779-89." Pp. 20-29.

"Confronting Revolution: the Prophecies of the 1790s." Pp. 30-41.

"Colour Printing liberated: The 'Books of Designs' 1794-96." Pp. 42-59.

"Return to vision: Night Thoughts and Felpham to Jerusalem 1797-c. 1818." Pp. 60-89.

"The Last Years c. 1818-27." Pp. 90-124.

"A Chronology of Blake and His Times." Pp. 125-27.

2000 October 18-November 17

Blake's Heaven: A Tribute Exhibition to William Blake at Scolar Fine Art Gordon Samuel 35 Bruton Place London W1J 6NS ... In association with James Huntington-Whiteley 38 Hopefield Avenue London NW6 6LH ... [2000]

The exhibition was in two parts; the first, 18-27 October, was of modern British religious art and pastoral landscape, the second, 1-17 November, was works after Blake by contemporary (20th Century) artists.

James Huntington-Whiteley, introduction. Pp. 4-5. ("Blake should be seen as an inspirational rather than an influential figure".)

The Blake section includes some very striking images, such as Rabindra Singh (b. 1966), "after Blake's Temptation and Fall" (Paradise Lost), which shows Eve plucking hand-grenades from the Tree of Life, and Amrit Singh (b. 1966), "The Beast of Revelation--after Blake's 'Beast of Revelation'", which shows a lurid monster rising from the sea with seven heads including William Clinton (most prominently), Margaret Thatcher, Idi Amin, a blind-folded bishop, and Hitler.

REVIEWS

Moncrieff, "The Doors of perception are open at Scolar", Art Newspaper, XI, 107 (October 2000), 73-74

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

*John Russell Taylor, "Around the galleries", Times [London], 8 November 2000, p. 21 ("a very illuminating exploration of the way in which Blake has continued to influence British art right through the 20th century and into the 21st")

2000 November 9-2001 February 11; March 27-June 24

**William Blake* (London: Tate Publishing, 2000) 4°, 301 pp., 286 pl.; ISBN: 1854373145 Comprehensive online information on the exhibition is still in 2004 at <<http://www.tate.org.uk/britain/exhibitions/blake.htm>>.

The Abrams hard-cover version of the Tate exhibition catalogue adds a "Checklist of Works Exhibited at The Metropolitan Museum of Art" (pp. 299-304), with far fewer works than in the Tate exhibition and some additions.

Catalogue of major exhibitions at the Tate Gallery (London 9 November 2000-11 February 2001) and, somewhat reduced, at the Metropolitan Museum of Art (N.Y. 27 March-24 June 2001). The 288 reproductions, reduced or expanded in size somewhat capriciously, include a number of duplicates and "Laocoon" (A), all nine surviving drawings for Tiriel, all 12 Large Colour Prints, and Marriage (L, M).

Anon. "Sponsor [Glaxo Wellcome]'s Foreword." P. 6.

Stephen Deuchar. "Foreword." P. 7. ("The present Tate Britain exhibition, though even larger in scale, does not seek to supersede the great 1978 [Tate] undertaking but to complement it .... The project as a whole was conceived and inspired by Robin Hamlyn".)

Robin Hamlyn and Christine Riding. "Acknowledgements." P. 8.

Robin Hamlyn and Christine Riding. "Preface." P. 9.

*Peter Ackroyd. "William Blake: The Man." Pp. 11-13. (The essay is remarkable only for knighting "Sir William Hayley" [p. 13].)

*Marilyn Butler. "Blake in his Time." Pp. 15-25.

*Christine Riding, David Blayney Brown, Elizabeth Barker, Ian Warrell, Lizzie Carey-Thomas, Martin Postle, Martin Myrone, Michael Phillips, Noa Cahaner McManus, Robin Hamlyn. "Catalogue." Pp. 29-293.

REVIEWS &c

Tate Exhibition

*Stella Gambling, with additional contributions by

Anthony Dyson, Liz Ellis, and Malcolm Livingstone, "Note for [primary and secondary school] teachers and group leaders", 20 pp., online. It consists of Stella Gambling, "William Blake" (pp. 10-15), Anon., "Blake's wide appeal for young minded people of all ages and decades" (p. 16), Anthony Dyson, "William Blake: The Practical Man" (p. 17), Liz Ellis, "William Blake and the Voice of the Unheard" (p. 18), and Malcolm Livingstone, "Sitting Sly – a teacher's version of Blake" (pp. 19-21)

Anon., "Blake Exhibition: Advance Notice", Journal of the Blake Society at St James, No. 4 ([September 1999]), 84 (at the Tate Gallery, November 2000-February 2001)

Anon., "Exhibition at the Tate", Blake, XXXIV, 1 (Summer 2000), 32

*Tom Lubbock, "Details Competition", Independent on Sunday [London], 13 August 2000 ("Glad Day" "is a good example of Blake's blatancy")

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

- *Louise Jury, "Arts world bows to Blake the 'Soho nutcase': A poet and artist dismissed as mad in his lifetime is to be honoured by Tate Britain, writers and pop stars", Independent on Sunday [London], 17 September 2000, p. 11 (Alex James says that "Blake kind of invented the idea of a Soho nutcase, which is what I've always aspired to")
- Anon., "Tate Britain, Millbank", Blake Journal, No. 5 (September 2000), 97
- *Anon., "Tate Britain: William Blake", Living Music, inserted in Evening Standard [London], September 2000
- *Waldemar Januszczak, "Visions of the Damned: He saw things. He heard voices. And he believed the end of the world was just around the corner. Is it any wonder that, almost 200 years after William Blake's death, we are just beginning to decipher the method behind the painter-poet's madness? Waldemar Januszczak reports", Sunday Times [London], 15 October 2000
- *Blake Morrison, "The People's Prophet: Wordsworth thought him mad; T.S. Eliot noted his 'unpleasantness'; and Yeats chose to rewrite him. Yet almost two centuries after his death, William Blake seems utterly in tune with the age. On the eve of a major Blake retrospective, Blake Morrison explains why the 'Cockney Nutcase' has the last laugh over his critics", Independent on Sunday [London], 15 October 2000, pp. 18-22, 24 (a well-done herald of the Tate Blake exhibition)

*Peter Ackroyd, "The Key to Blake's Vision: Next month Tate Britain mounts the first major exhibition of William Blake's art in over 20 years. Anxious yet arrogant, practical yet visionary, this 'daydreamer to the point of genius' remains misunderstood. But in such contradictions lies the secret to his character", Daily Telegraph [London], 21 October 2000, pp. 1, 8

Blake 1: the painter: *Words Matthew Collings. "Blake's progress: Like today's YBA's, William Blake felt compelled to shock and provoke. But that's where the similarity ends. On the eve of his Tate Britain blockbuster, we celebrate a great painter and visionary", Observer Magazine [London], 22 October 2000, pp. 36-38 (Blake "produced works that obviously are nothing but deep")

Blake 2: the poet: *Neil Spencer, "Into the mystic: Visions of Paradise to words of wisdom ... an homage to the written work of William Blake", Observer Magazine [London], 22 October 2000, pp. 43-44 ("Why is Blake back? Because we sense in his texts and paintings, poems and prophecies, in his arduous but committed life, a glimpse of the fully human, of the transcendent entwined with earthly realities")

As continuations (pp. 43-44) there are paragraphs by

A Ian Sinclair, novelist ("We force the poet on to a Procrustean bed, squeezing and shaping him to fit our fantasies")

William Blake and His Circle

Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

- B    Andrew Motion, Poet Laureate ("Living at a sharp angle to life he often told the truth by telling it slant")
- C    Tom Paulin, poet and critic ("Blake was important to me when I was growing up in Belfast in the 1960s")
- D    Billy Bragg, singer ("My song 'Upfield' was inspired partly by Blake")
- E    Sir John Tavener, composer ("We would indeed be poverty-stricken without Blake")
- F    Alan Moore, Graphic novelist ("From Hell, my book about Jack the Ripper ... has lots of references to Blake; him seeing a spectre at his house in Hercules Road, for example")

*Michael Bracewell, "blake's high priestess: Throughout her career, rock iconoclast Patti Smith has had one hero – the artist William Blake. Here she explains to Michael Bracewell how his unique view of the world came to be enshrined in her work", Sunday Times Magazine [London], 28 October 2000, pp. 35, 37, 39 ("one of my favourite things about Blake, [is] that the last thing he sent out for [on his deathbed] was a new pencil, so he could draw his wife. That says it all for me")

*Nigel Reynolds, "Blake's 100 Jerusalem works go on show for first time", Daily Telegraph [London], 2 November 2000, p. 12 (the 100 prints of Jerusalem will all be shown "in Britain" for the first time at the Tate exhibition)

John Glancey, "Twixt heaven and hell: Blake's life was one of squalor and frustration; most people thought him mad. No wonder he dreamed of a green and pleasant land, says John Glancey", Guardian, 9 November 2000

William Blake. [Exhibition] 9 November 2000-11 February 2001 [at the] Tate Britain ([London: Tate Britain[November] 2000]) 8°, 16 pp. (an introduction to the exhibition)

*Anon., "In preview: Blake's progress", Printmaking Today, Autumn 2000 ("All hail the great leader!")

*Sir Nicholas Goodison, "A British Visionary: Sir Nicholas Goodison examines the enduring appeal of William Blake and looks at the Art Fund's special relationship with his work", Art Quarterly, Autumn 2000 (about the 200 Blake works in public collections acquired with the assistance of the National Art Collections Fund)

Helen Sumpter, "William Blake", Evening Standard [London], 2 November 2000

*Birch, "Young British Artists", Private Eye, 3 November 2000 (a cartoon: "Think how much he could have achieved, with a really good agent!")

*Sarah Hemming, Daily Express [London], 3 November 2000, p. 56 (a herald of the Blake exhibition and 4 others)

*Anon., "Blake Addict Ticket offer", Independent [London] week-end review, 4 November 2000 (tickets for four Blake events organized by the Tate)

*Richard Dorment, "pick of the week: William Blake", Telegraph [London], 4 November 2000

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

- *Mark Irving, "Visions, woes and tales of the City: Born and bred in London, poet and artist William Blake became the city's greatest critic. Mark Irving reports on Tate Britain's tribute to a radical reputation", Financial Times, 4-5 November 2000
- *Anon., "Eye of the Tyger: the best of Blake at the Tate", Independent on Sunday [London], 5 November 2000 (caption for a picture)
- *Louise Jury, "The best of Blake from Albion and beyond: The poet and artist's greatest works have been brought together at Tate Britain", Independent on Sunday [London], 5 November 2000
- *John McEwen, "Opening this week: William Blake", Sunday Telegraph [London], 5 November 2000, p. 20
- *Anon., "Opening this week: William Blake", Sunday Telegraph [London], 5 November 2000
- *Alan Taylor, "Dark Satanic Thrills: William Blake was often dismissed as a crank in his lifetime, but as a new exhibition on his life reveals, this poet and painter with an extraordinary imagination was a complex visionary not easily pigeon-holed", Sundayherald [London], 5 November 2000, pp. 16-20
- *Anon., "Arts Programme of the Day", Independent [London], 6 November 2000, p. 16 (announcement of the BBC Omnibus programme on Blake)
- *Maev Kennedy, "Vital relic of artist who stamped indelible mark on visual imagination", Guardian

- [London], 6 November 2000, p. 10 (a herald for the Tate exhibition)
- *Anon., "Today's Viewing Choice", Times [London], 6 November 2000, p. 32 (announcement of [inter alia] the BBC Omnibus programme on Blake)
- *Patrick Stoddart, "Critic's Choice", Daily Express [London], 6 November 2000 (a précis of the BBC Omnibus programme on Blake)
- *Kevin Jackson, "The A-Z of William Blake", Independent [London], 6-11, 13-18, 20-25, 27-30 November, 1-2, 4 December 2000 ("X is for Catherine Blake ... Because she was illiterate")
- *Tom Lubbock, "Heavenly Bodies: William Blake: The Naked Truth", Independent [London], 7 November 2000, Tuesday Review p. 1. ("William Blake: was he a nudist? ... Even if the tale is untrue, it's still significant" [p. 1])
- *Richard Cork, "Nor did his sword sleep in his hand: William Blake, the iconoclast's iconoclast, gets his due--200 years on--at the Tate. Richard Cork can only applaud", Times [London], 8 November 2000, p. 20
- *Richard Dormant, "Poems for the eyes: The Tate's William Blake show is overloaded with the artist's spectacular but dense works", Daily Telegraph [London], 8 November 2000, p. 22
- *Samantha Ellis, "Mystic realist: Angels, demons and many-headed beasts burst out of William Blake's works, and even in his books poetry plays second fiddle to pictures .... Tate Britain, SW1 from

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

tomorrow ...", Evening Standard [London], 8 November 2000

*Claire Allfree, "Art Review: william blake", Metro [London], 9 November 2000, p. 22 ("it's a staggering, awe-inspiring exhibition")

*Jonathan Glancey, "'Twixt heaven and hell: Blake's life was one of squalor and frustration; most people thought him mad. No wonder he dreamed of a green and pleasant land, says Jonathan Glancey", Guardian [London], 9 November 2000, p. 12

*Anon., "Best Documentary: Blake Night, BBC Knowledge, from 8pm", Daily Express [London], 10 November 2000, p. 65 (announcements of two BBC programmes: (1) "William Blake Night", the centrepiece of which is "The Ancients", "a drama about his later years", followed by (2) "Blake's Heaven" [comments by celebrities])

*Paul Johnson, "A very English genius who just loathed soap: A major exhibition now open shows how Blake's vision can still inspire us", Daily Mail [London], 10 November 2000 ("a huge and beautiful exhibition"; "Blake and Catherine would dance naked in the garden, 'like Adam and Eve' as he put it")

*James Rampton, "Pick of the Day", Independent [London], 10 November 2000 (announcements of two BBC programmes: (1) "William Blake Night", the centrepiece of which is "The Ancients", "a drama about his

- later years", followed by (2) "Blake's Heaven" [comments by celebrities])
- *Brian Sewell, "Still burning bright, the tiger touched by angels", Evening Standard [London], 10 November 2000, pp. 32-33
- *Gabrielle Starkey, "Choice", Times [London], 10 November 2000 (announcement of the BBC Knowledge programme called "William Blake Night")
- *Anon., "The spirit of William Blake – still burning bright today", Independent [London], 11 November 2000 (an editorial)
- *Richard Cork, "Richard Cork's Choice: William Blake", Times [London], 11 November 2000
- *Sholto Byrnes, "V. Old Labour sees the signs of free love", Independent on Sunday [London], 12 November 2000, p. 30 (Michael Foot says that Blake's "Jerusalem" lyric is a hymn to free love)
- *Charles Darwent, "Order vs chaos: it's the great Blake debate", Independent on Sunday [London], 12 November 2000, pp. 4-5 ("Icky pieces of faux-archaic-Sienna with a dash of half-digested Michelangelo thrown in, these are interesting not as works of art so much as artefacts"; "madness is his method", but the exhibition gives "a sense of order that is at most misleading")
- *Mark Hudson, "So could Blake, master of word pictures, really paint as well?", Mail on Sunday [London], 12 November 2000, p. 80 (in the pictures, "the unwavering mood of manic

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

exaltation becomes exhausting"; "I don't believe he was a great artist in the absolute sense")

Waldemar Januszczak, "First Tate Britain lost its way. Now, by dedicating a huge show to mad old William Blake, it reveals it has lost all reason, says Waldemar Januszczak", Sunday Times [London], 12 November 2000 ("Visiting the Blake show is like being chained to the soapbox of a ranting religious lunatic at Speaker's Corner"; the "Blake show ... has little real art in it")

For a response, see *Elizabeth Forrest, "Flying with Angels", Sunday Times [London], 19 November 2000 (in a letter to the editor, she says she was "disappointed and sad" to read Januszczak's essay)

*John McEwen, "Total immersion with new age man", Sunday Telegraph [London], 12 November 2000, p. 8 ("a stupendous exhibition")

Donald Parsnip, "Donald Parsnip's Weekly Journal: Today, some lessons in the game of art and a tribute to the great William Blake", Independent on Sunday [London], 12 November 2000 ("Don't Miss! naturist day at the Tate Gallery as part of the great Blake moment followed by grand tiger burning event")

Anon., "A jewel in her crown", Independent on Sunday realitymagazine [London], 12 November 2000 (the "latest collection [of jewellery by Philippa Kunisch] was designed especially for the William Blake retrospective")

- *Sarah Kent, "Blake's progress: Saluting the visionary art of William Blake", Time Out Magazine [London], 15 November 2000
- *Daniel Coysh, "Successfully taking on an old cliché: Daniel Coysh takes a trip to a new exhibition of the work of William Blake and is impressed with the results", Morning Star [London], 15 November 2000
- *Anon., "Gathering of Blake work at the Tate", West End Extra [London], 17 November 2000
- *Joanna Carey, "Joanna Carey takes an illuminating journey through the visionary universe of William Blake", Times Educational Supplement, 17 November 2000
- *Charlotte Higgins, "What to say about ... William Blake at Tate Britain", Guardian [London], 17 November 2000 ("Point out that William Blake has been all things to all people")
- *Paul Levy, "Must-See Museum Shows: London's 'William Blake,' 'Impression' and 'Brand New'", Wall Street Journal, 17 November 2000 (a "beautifully laid-out show" with a "splendid, hefty catalogue" and "an astonishingly well-done Web site")
- *Cedric Porter, "God's revolutionary: Immortal hands: Lambeth's role in the career of artist and writer William Blake is just one strand in a fascinating exhibition that looks set to establish Blake's reputation as a great artist, as well as a great writer. Cedric Porter takes a closer look at the man who was William Blake", Pulse (south london's top new

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies and used-car guide), 17 November 2000, pp. 1, 7 (the Adam-&-Eve in the garden story illustrates Blake's "non-conformism")

*Anon., "Exhibition of the week: William Blake", Week, 18 November 2000 (a pastiche of reviews)

*Martin Gayford, "Moments of true greatness", Spectator, 18 November 2000, pp. 71-72 (the exhibition is "indigestible, with its enormous quantities of large images", but "Blake had moments of true greatness")

*Sarah Kent, "Cerith Wyn Evans", Time Out Magazine [London], 22-29 November 2000 (in "homage to William Blake", Evans "created 'a contemporary celestial scenario' with lights and a glitter-ball which creates 'a truly cosmic experience'")

*Andrew Graham-Dixon, "The Ghost of a Flea (c1819-20) by William Blake", Sunday Telegraph Magazine [London], 26 November 2000 (an account of "this week's picture"; "There is something suspiciously hucksterish about the whole performance")

*Louisa Buck, "Blake and the rock goddess: Seventies icon Patti Smith is in town to pay homage to a fellow maverick poet. Louisa Buck met her", Evening Standard [London], 30 November 2000, p. 27 ("I feel like I'm walking with Blake, that he's here with me")

*Kevin Jackson, "The Thursday Interview: Patti Smith: More than a rock chick: She was a punk before punk was invented. Now Patti Smith reads the Romantic poets and even believes in Jesus. Has she finally grown up?", Independent [London], 30 November 2000 (like Robert Mapplethorpe she "was really into Blake")

*Dr Thomas Stuttford, "Medical Briefing: Was Blake mad or just bizarre", Times [London], 30 November 2000, p. 10 (today probably "Blake would be treated with ... an atypical anti-psychotic drug")

§Patti Smith ("New York's priestess of punk"), tate: The Magazine (November 2000)

*Anon., "Exhibition of the Month: William Blake", London Magazine, November 2000

*Anon., "Poet and prophet", Artist, November 2000

*Martin Gayford, "Blake's heaven: William Blake: visionary, fruitcake, or Regency rock star? Martin Gayford looks for answers at Tate Britain's revelatory new show", Harpers & Queen, November 2000 ("He was too magnificently weird to be mainstream")

*Sue Hubbard, "Still Burning Bright: Poet and artist William Blake was ridiculed as an eccentric mystic in his day, self-publishing his own books and painting his visions. Now, as Tate Britain hosts a major Blake show, Sue Hubbard looks at his apocalyptic legacy", Art Review, November 2000, pp. 41-43

*Stephen Patience, "Exhibition Diary: William Blake: Tate Britain", World of Interiors, XX (November 2000), 155

William Blake and His Circle

Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

- §*M. Kramer, "William Blake", Magazine Antiques, CLVIII, 5 (November 2000), 636
- §*J.-L. Gailemion, "William Blake: l'imagination c'est la vie", Connaissance des Arts, No. 577 (November 2000), 96-103, in French
- §*S. Guégan, "William Blake: le seigneur des anneaux", Beaux Art Magazine, No. 198 (November 2000), 88-94, in French
- §*D. Sausset, "Blake halluciné", L'Oeil, No. 521 ([Lausanne], November 2000), 82, in French
- Anon., "Blake Exhibition at Tate Britain", Blake, XXXIV (Fall 2000), 62-63 ("almost verbatim" quotations from the Tate's "press releases")
- *Jon Mee, "Revisions of the Prophet", Times Literary Supplement, 1 December 2000 (with another) (it includes a long analysis of the "Vision of the Last Judgment" picture and praise of "Marilyn Butler's splendid essay")
- *Anon., "'William Blake, our apocalyptic visionary, was celebrated. The waters rose over our green and pleasant land'", Observer [London], 3 December 2000
- John Aizlewood, "Performance: Patty Smith St. James's Church, London", Guardian [London], 4 December 2000 ("Blake aficionado Patti Smith simply takes 90 minutes to show why she adores him"; "lovely")
- Nick Hasted, "Songs of innocence and experience: Pop: Patti Smith, St James's Church, Piccadilly, London", Independent [London], 5 December

2000 ("She leaves to a roaring ovation and returns in tears, deeply grateful. Blake would have been proud")

*Michael Phillips, "Don's Diary", Times Higher Education Supplement, 8 December 2000 (on what he did for Blake from Saturday to Saturday)

Frank Kermode, "At Tate Britain", London Review of Books, 14 December 2000, online

*Dr Kathleen Raine, "Man of Vision: With the work of William Blake the subject of a major exhibition now at the Tate Britain, London, Dr Kathleen Raine, poet, mystic and scholar, pays tribute to this imaginative 18th-century genius", Lady, 19 December 2000, pp. 32-33 ("That Blake's work so well embodies what Plotinus describes is borne out by the ... [exhibition] at the Tate Britain")

*Mary Ambrose, "A Tyger at the Tate: One of history's most influential poet-artists gets a vast show in London. Mary Ambrose asks whether this clarifies the works of William Blake or crushes viewers with information", Globe and Mail [Toronto], 28 December 2000, p. R4

*Sue Herdman, "Blake's heaven: The artist and poet William Blake railed against Georgian society and lived a life of poverty. Yet the brilliant, mythical world he created has earned him a unique position at the heart of British art", H&A, December 2000, pp. 40-41 (in interview with Christine Riding)

*Anon., "Powerful imagination on Millbank", Artist, December 2000

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

- Tim Marlow, "A noble dissent", tate, No. 23 (Winter 2000), 3 (an editorial asserting that Blake's works seem "both opaque and wonderfully clear")
- *Anon., "Blake Illuminated", Royal Academy Magazine, Winter 2000
- *Matthew Collings, "Blake and Today's Art– Not Related: Blake was apocalyptic, 'Apocalypse' isn't", Modern Painters, Winter 2000, pp. 60-62 ("let's not say he has a burning relevance for today's modern art. He would have a burning bonfire for it" [p. 62])
- *Jamie McKendrick, "Painter and Poet: William Blake's passionate vision", Modern Painters, Winter 2000, pp. 32-35 ("a sense of awe seems a fitting response")
- *Joe Muggs, "Blake's Heaven: William Blake's luscious unreason still challenges after 200 years, says Joe Muggs", Pure, I (Winter 2000), 114-16
- *Anon., "William Blake: England's artist prophet", Lancet, CCCLVII (6 January 2001), 75
- *Lucy Fisher, "Burning with Talent: Artist, engraver, poet and thinker, William Blake is honoured in a show as ambitious as his output", Time, 8 January 2001, pp. 48-49 ("He was such a one-off")
- Anon., "Blake's Big Year", Globe and Mail [Toronto], 29 January 2001, p. R1 (a puff for the Tate exhibition)
- *Kevin Jackson, "Under the influence: How many 18th-century artists still passionately inspire musicians, writers and painters? William Blake does. As his Tate exhibition ends, Kevin Jackson previews Friday's grand celebration", Independent [London]. 1 February 2001 (on the evolution of the plans for the celebration)

Nick Hasted, "A show that breathed fire into Blake: First Night: The Tygers of Wrath: Purcell Rooms London", Independent [London], 3 February 2001, p. 12 (on performances as "the finale" of the Tate exhibition)

*Warren Hoge, "Blake's Tygers (And Much More) Burning Bright at the Tate", New York Times, 1 February 2001, pp. E1-2, reprinted as "The Dizzying World of Blake: The Mystical, Radical Poet-Painter Is on Show in London", International Herald Tribune, 3-4 February 2001

Anon., Blake vs. Glaxos Smith Kline (11 February 2001) (a leaflet [seen online] given out at a demonstration on the last day of the Blake exhibition at the Tate protesting the neglect by the pharmaceutical company, the sponsor of the exhibition, of Africans with AIDS)

Paul Kingsnorth, "Worth Seeing: William Blake Exhibition at Tate Gallery", Ecologist, February 2001, online

*Anon., "Celebrating Blake", The Hindu, Sunday 4 March 2001 and online

§Anon., "[William Blake Revived: Tate Britain]", [Art World], No. 1961 (March 2001), 36-39, in Korean

*David Bindman, "London and New York: William Blake", Burlington Magazine, CXLIII. 1176 (March 2001), 172-74 (on the literary focus of the

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies exhibition; "Tate Britain can claim to have done Blake proud" [p. 174])

§*S. Baker, "William Blake. Tate Britain, London", Art on Paper, V, 4 (March-April 2001), 84

§Kenneth Baker, San Francisco Chronicle, 9 April 2001

John Commander, "Blake at the Millennium", Book Collector, L (Spring 2001), 77-83 (the catalogue is "impressive" and "done with panache", but "Ackroyd seems on auto-pilot" [pp. 82, 83])

*Thomas Kilroy, "Conversing with angels: Like Joyce and Pound, Blake suffered a particular kind of failure, the failure to communicate everything", Irish Times, 2 June 2001 (with another) (the catalogue "makes a handsome introduction to this astonishing artist")

Anon., "Art Guide", New York Times, 8 June 2001

David Fuller, "William Blake", Apollo, CLV (August 2001), 56-57

John Loughery, "The Example of Alfred Stieglitz", Hudson Review, LIV, 2 (Summer 2001), 286 ("I liked the exhibition at the Met for its intermittent display of the politically-minded Blake")

§Barthélémy Jobert, "William Blake á la Tate Gallery", Nouvelle de l'estampe, CLXXVI (2001), 33-35, in French

Michael Grenfell, Blake Journal, No. 6 (2001), 79-80 ("All in all, then, a veritable millennial celebration of Blake's art")

- §Robin Hamlyn, and Michael Williams [i.e., Phillips], “Department – Books – William Blake”, ARTnews,
C, 5 (2001), 152
- *Laura Cumming, "Visionary or anti-enlightenment scourge? The 'Cockney nutcase' was both – and much more besides", [Journal not identified, n.d.]
- *Hodgson, Elinor. "All that we see is vision",
<http://worldbookdealers.com/home/nw/nw0000000213.asp> (about the Tate Blake exhibition)

Metropolitan Museum exhibition
2001 March 27-June 24

- §Sally Hoban, "William Blake: England's Artist Prophet", Lancet, CCCLVII, 9249 (6 January 2001), 75-76
- *Michael Kimmelman, "A Visionary Whose Odd Images Still Burn Bright", New York Times, 30 March 2001, pp. B29, 31 (the New York exhibition, a third the size of that in London, is "touching and beautiful if you have a taste for Blake's art")
- *Leo Carey, "Books Current: 'The Author & Printer W Blake'", New Yorker, 9 April 2001, p. 18 (with 2 others) (the Butler essay suggests that "Blake deliberately cultivated eccentricity")
- §M. Stevens, "Homemade heaven", New York, XXXIV
(9 April 2001), 109
- §Hilton Kramer, "A Mystery and Genius: Blake is a Conundrum", New York Observer, 15 April 2001 (viewers should "acquaint themselves with Blake's poetry before seeing this show")

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

- *Jerry Salz, "Wild Thing", Village Voice, XLVI, 15 (17 April 2001), 40, 43
- *Souren Melikian, "William Blake: The Image and the Words", International Herald Tribune, 21-22 April 2001 ("much of his graphic oeuvre [is] difficult to take")
- *Herb Greer, "Frozen Fire: The Visionary World of William Blake", World and I, XVI, 1(April 2001), pp. 90-97 (Blake's work is "an astounding achievement" [p. 96])
- *Matthew Gurewitsch, "The Gallery: Images of Blake's Mythology", Wall Street Journal, 9 May 2001, p. A24
- *John Updike, "Therefore I Print", New York Review of Books, 17 May 2001, pp. 9-10, 12 – also given in §<http://www.nybooks.com/nyrev/WWWfeatdisplay.cgi??20010517009r> ("I found the exhibit itself a bit cave-like, and confusing ... though certain images of uncanny vividness and unabashed loveliness continue to glow in the mind")
- *Jed Perl, "Jed Perl on Art: Off the easel", New Republic, CCXXIV (4 June 2001), 33-43 ("There is something essentially unsettled about Blake's achievement" [p. 36])
- §R. Hughes, "Chatting with the devil, dining with the prophets", Time, XLVII (18 June 2001), 79-80 [not in the Canadian edition]
- §*A. MacAdam, "William Blake: Metropolitan Museum of Art", Art Newspaper, C (June 2001), 128

- Ratnagarbha, "Nietzsche's diary: A biased and eclectic view of what's new in the world of art and culture", Urthona: art and buddhism, No. 15 (Spring 2001), 55 ("a feast for Blake lovers and an excellent way for newcomers to be introduced to his graphic works")
- Anon., "Met Exhibition through June", Blake, XXXIV (Spring [July] 2001), 159 (part of the Tate exhibition will be shown at the Metropolitan Museum in the spring)
- *Vincent Carretta, "Exhibition Review", Eighteenth-Century Studies, XXXIV, 3 (2001), 440-45 (with another) (it is "a very major exhibition" [p. 440])
- §L. Gordan, "William Blake: The Exhibition", Antiquarian Book Monthly, XXVIII, 314 (2001), 20-35
- §Barthélemy Jobert, Revue de l'art, CXXXII (2001), 87, in French (with another)
- §John Loughery, "'Alfred Stieglitz and His New York Galleries' at the National Gallery; Vermeer and William Blake at the Metropolitan Museum", Hudson Review, LIV, 2 (2001), 286
- §Carter Ratcliff, Art in America, LXXXIX (2001), 116-23
- *G.E. Bentley, Jr., "The Blake Exhibition at Tate Britain, 9 November 2000-11 February 2002, and at the Metropolitan Museum, 27 March-24 June 2001, and their Catalogues", Blake, XXXVI (November 2002), 64-66 (it was "a major exhibition", "mounted with enormous éclat and puffery", and the catalogue is "useful and

William Blake and His Circle

Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

responsible” and “very generously illustrated, though the reproductions vary capriciously in size” [pp. 65, 66])

§Morton D. Paley, Studies in Romanticism, XLI, 2 (Summer 2002), 349-51

§Jadviga M. Da Costa Nunes, “Visionaries, Realists, and Reformers: Exploring the Creative Impulse in Nineteenth Century Art”, Nineteenth Century Studies, XVI (2002), 157-79

The 68 reviews &c in the Independent and the Independent on Sunday are doubtless related to the fact that The Independent was a sponsor of the Tate exhibition.

An online checklist for the exhibition at http://metmuseum.org/special/william\_blake/blake\_checklist.htm included some works not in the printed catalogue, according to R.N. Essick, “Blake in the Marketplace, 2001”, Blake, XXXV (2002).

2000

G.E. Bentley, Jr. Blake Books (2000)

See 1977 above.

2000

*John Windle, Antiquarian Bookseller. Catalogue Thirty-One: William Blake (San Francisco: John Windle, 2000) 4°, 48 pp., 237 entries; no ISBN.

An enterprising, rewarding catalogue with a number of great rarities.

2000

*Robert Woof, Stephen Hebron, with Pamela Woof.
"William Blake 1757-1827." Pp. 181-93 of English Poetry 850-1850: The First Thousand Years with some Romantic Perspectives ([Grasmere] The Wordsworth Trust, 2000)

The Blake entries are the coloured Canterbury Pilgrims (lot 14, Fitzwilliam), Songs (AA and P), with reproductions on the cover and lots 113-118.

2000 December 1-2001 March 25

§*Vicki Robson, Burning Bright: The Visionary Art of William Blake, 1757-1827. National Library [of New Zealand] Gallery, 1 December 2000 to 25 March 2001. This exhibition is based on the collections of the Alexander Turnbull Library (Wellington, New Zealand, 2000)

A poster.

2001 April

*John Windle Antiquarian Bookseller. Catalogue Thirty-Two: William Blake (San Francisco: [John Windle, April], 2001) 4°, viii, 80 pp., no ISBN

"Introduction" (v-vi), book owned by Blake (lot 1, Quincy, with a reproduction of the title page), *separate plates (lots 2-24), *Writings and Illustrations by Blake (lots 25-150), "Books about Blake" (lots 151-385), "Exhibitions and Sales Catalogues" (lots 386-404), *"Samuel Palmer" (lots 405-10).

2001 September 15-October 31

*William Blake: Dreamer of Dreams: [An exhibition] September 15-October 31, 2001 [of the] Special Collections Division of Jackson Library, The University of North Carolina, Greensboro ([Greensboro, North Carolina: Jackson

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

Library, 2001]) 4°, 19 unnumbered pages, 38 colour reproductions; no ISBN

An essay on Blake (not a catalogue) with reproductions presumably of what was exhibited, mostly Blake Trust facsimiles; Illustrations of the Book of Job is the library's "only original Blake title". See <http://library.UNCG.Edu/depts/speccoll/exhibits/blake>.

2001 October 8

Christie,*The Library of Abel E. Berland: Part I: Important English Literature, Science and Philosophy* [to be sold at auction on] Monday, 8 October 2001 (N.Y.: Christie's, 2001) 4°

- 6     Songs of Innocence (J) (ESTIMATE: $1,000,000-$1,500,000) [sold for $941,000 to Anon. (i.e., Justin Schiller acting for Maurice Sendak)]

The description records for the first time that the leaves "exhibit [a set of] stab-holes in the gutter margins ... [which] appears to match" the earlier of the two sets of stab-holes in the Innocence in Songs (E). [According to BB 414, these three stab holes are "about 5.0 cm from the top and 3.5, 3.4 cm apart".] The catalogue concludes "on the basis of this new evidence ... that Blake himself made up copy J as it stands today, with its complement of 21 [rather than the normal 31] plates". (Dr Michael Phillips is thanked in the Christie Price-List for advice about Innocence [J].)

However, this "new evidence" of stab holes merely demonstrates that the Innocence prints (pl. 2-27, 53-54) in Songs (E) were once stabbed together with Innocence (J) (pl.

2-12, 16-18, 22-27, 54).<sup>844</sup> Clearly this stabbing was intended merely to keep these Innocence prints together; no one would suggest that Blake intended to issue together a copy of Songs of Innocence with 20 duplicate prints in it. The "new evidence" therefore scarcely bears upon when and by whom the prints in Innocence (J) were collated.

And in fact even newer evidence indicates that stab holes in Innocence (J), q.v., do not at all match those in the Innocence in Songs (E).

REVIEWS &c

Anon.(Reuters), "Outrageous fortune needed for Shakespeare Folio", Chicago Tribune, 11 September 2001, Section 1, p. 4 (Abel Berland's Shakespeare folio ([1623] [ESTIMATE: $2,000,000-$3,000,000] and Songs of Innocence [J] [ESTIMATE: $1,000,000-$1,500,000] will be sold at Christie's [N.Y.]

*Richard Lloyd, "Blake's visions: William Blake lived in the realm of his own imagination – and his art allows us to see inside it", Christie's magazine, December 2001, p. 12

2001 October 15-2002 January 14

§Régis Michel. La peinture comme crime: ou, la part maudite de la modernité. Musée du Louvre, Hall Napoléon (Paris: Éditions de la Réunion des musées nationaux, 2001) ISBN: 2711843084 In French

---

<sup>844</sup> On the same evidence, one might wonder whether Songs (I), printed in brown, with three stab-holes 3.4 and 3.4 cm apart, may not have been stabbed with Innocence (J) and the Innocence prints in Songs (E); Songs (I) was apparently given by Blake to Thomas Phillips who painted his portrait in 1807.

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

There are sections on Blake ("Blake ou le mal(e) absolu"), Fuseli, Goya, and Romney, inter alia.

Turnbull Library and the National Library of New Zealand.

[2001 October]<sup>845</sup>

Bernard Quaritch, Barnard Quaritch Art and Architecture Catalogue 1291 (London, 2001) <Biblioteca La Solana>

- 36 [Lavater], "Portrait engraving by William Blake.
London, J. Johnson, 1800 ... 320 x 252 mm ...
Second state ... a little foxing at the right hand margin", reproduced on p. 36, £550

2002 January 26-March 31

**Prints by William Blake: "Portions of the Eternal World".*
[An exhibition] 26 January-31 March 2002 [at the] University of Virginia Art Museum (Charlottesville: University of Virginia Art Museum, 2002) 4°, 16 pp.; no ISBN

Jill Hartz (Director), "Foreword" (p. 3)

Stephen Margulies (Curator), "Prints by William Blake:
'Portions of the Eternal World'" (pp. 4-13)

Anon., "Checklist" of 12 black-and-white etched or engraved works (pp. 14-15) from "the Collection of a Private Foundation" (Young's Night Thoughts [1797], Job [1826],
Dante [1838], and For the Sexes pl. 1-6, 11-13, 15 [i.e., pl. 3-
8, 13-15, 17]) and from the Albert H. Small Special Collections Library, University of Virginia.

REVIEWS &c

---

<sup>845</sup> Annotated by Essick "Oct. 2001".

- *Anon., "Exhibitions: 'Portions of the Eternal World': Prints by William Blake January 26-March 31, Octagonal Gallery and Main Gallery", University of Virginia Art Museum (Spring 2002), [p. 4]
§*Ruth Latter, "Artistic Prophet", Daily Progress [newspaper, Charlottesville, Virginia] 7 February 2002, Section D, pp. 1-2

2002 March-May

*Scott Krafft. The Commercial Mr. Blake: William Blake As Book Illustrator and Copy Engraver: An Exhibition at the Charles Deering McCormick Library of Special Collections, Northwestern University Library March-May 2002 ([Evanston, Illinois: Northwestern University Library, 2002])

A leaf 35.4 x 21.5 cm folded in three.

A flyer contrasting Blake's "remarkably unmarketable dreamworlds of his prophetic illuminated books" with the "'commercial' works ... after his own designs" exhibited here, including Blair's Grave, Hayley's Ballads (1805), Young's Night Thoughts (1797), Illustrations of the Book of Job, and Blake's separate portrait of Lavater.

REVIEW

Wendy Leopold, "Presenting the Commercial Mr. Blake", Northwestern University Observer online, XVIII, 5 (24 October 2002) (says the exhibition was October-21 December 2002)

2002 May 22-June 22

*Ian McKeever. William Blake's 'Jerusalem', The Emanation of the Giant Albion: [an exhibition] 22 May-22 June 2002 (London: Alan Cristea Gallery, 2002) 4°, 63 pp., no ISBN

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

Francis Carey, "Ian McKeever, William Blake's Jerusalem The Emanation of the Giant Albion" (pp. 7-13).

McKeever's twenty-one carborundum etchings are said to be based on (but they do not visually echo) Blake's Jerusalem except that some of them are on typeset pages of Blake's text.

2002 September 26

§Swann Galleries. Modern Press and Illustrated Books: Including William Blake, Jean Cocteau ... (N.Y., 2002)

2003 January 19-May 25

*[Robert N. Essick.] Vision and Verse: William Blake at The Huntington. The Huntington Library, Art Collections, and Botanical Gardens, Mary Lou and George Boone Gallery, January 19-May 25, 2003.

A sampling of captions from the 198 entries [33 from the collection of Robert Essick]; there was no separate catalogue.

REVIEWS &c

*Robert N. Essick, "Showcasing Blake's Vision and Verse: Major exhibit captures essence of renowned artist/poet", Calendar [of] The Huntington Library, Art Collections, and Botanical Gardens, January-February 2003, pp. 2-3

Anon., "Around Pasadena: Blake works exhibit to open at Huntington Library", Pasadena Star News, 2 January 2003

*Leah Ollman, "He set imagination free: William Blake's complex metaphysics inspired ridicule in his lifetime. But for artists today, he simply inspires”, Los Angeles Times, 19 January 2003, p. E56. There are separate sections with comments about Blake by the artists DeLoss McGraw (Blake’s “best work is embarrassing”, therefore good), Tom Knechtel (“Blake is how I think”), Nancy Jackson (“He ... went into the darkness, the unknown ... and he sent back messages that we can all learn from”), and Sharon Ellis (“It’s this clarity of vision ... that continues to startle”)

Anon., “William Blake at The Huntington”, Sierra Madre Weekly, 30 January 2003 (Entirely paraphrased from the captions)

*Martin S. Gonzalez, “Experience ‘Vision and Verse’”, Pasadena Star-News, 13 February 2003, pp. 31-32 (198 works were on display, including 33 from the Essick Collection)

Matt Bamberg, “One-tank trip: A taste of Europe at the elegant Huntington”, Palm Springs Desert Sun, 16 February 2003

Frank, Peter, “British Invasion: They’re coming: Exhibitions of U.K. artists William Blake and Lucian Freud plus Anglo’d Americans John Singer Sargent and R.B. Kitaj march into L.A.”, Angeleno (May 2003), 142-43

2003 March 15-2004 January 25

**A Private Passion: 19th-Century Paintings and Drawings from the Grenville L. Winthrop Collection, Harvard University.* [An exhibition at the Musée des Beaux-Arts, Lyon, March 15-May 26, 2003; The National Gallery, London, June 25-September 14, 2003; and The Metropolitan

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

Museum of Art, New York, October 23, 2003-January 25, 2004.] Ed. Stephen Wolohojian with the assistance of Anna Tahinci ([New Haven:] Yale University Press; [N.Y.:] The Metropolitan Museum of Art, 2003) 4°; ISBN: 1588390764

David Bindman, "William Blake" (p. 338); the Blakes are No. 144-54, and No. 171-74 are Flaxman drawings for Dante, The Odyssey, and Aeschylus.

2003 March 31-May 2

**William Blake at Syracuse University: An Exhibition of Works from the Syracuse University Art Collection and Special Collections at E.S. Bird Library. Introductory Essay by Domenic J. Iacono. Louise and Barnard Palitz Gallery, Syracuse University Lubin House 11 East 61st Street New York, New York ([N.Y., N.Y.?: 2003]) Oblong 4°, 52 unnumbered pages, 79 reproductions (34 from Innocence[Q], 13 from Gay, Fables[1793], 22 from Job[1826])*

2003 May

§*Peter Nahum at The Leicester Galleries. Medieval to Modern (London: Leicester Galleries, 2003)

Sale catalogue reproducing in colour the Job reprint of 1874, all on one page.

2003 June

§Adam Mills. Blake List (Cottenham, Cambridge: Adam Mills, June 2003)

33 minor Blake items

2003 August 9-November 1

§William Blake: Inspiration and Illustration. [Exhibition at Graves Art Gallery, Sheffield, 9 Aug.-1 Nov. 2003.

Nick Todd, “Foreword”; Sian Brown, “William Blake: A Short Biography”; Robin Hamlyn, “What Inspired Blake?”

2003 November 27-December 27

**The Glad Days in the Reception of Blake in Japan: The International Blake Conference “Blake in the Orient”: A Concurrent Exhibition* [27 November-27 December 2003 at Kyoto University Museum] Organized by Masashi Suzuki and Steve Clark(Kyoto: The Blake Conference Committee, 2003) 4<sup>o</sup>, ii, 93 pp., no ISBN In English (pp. 1-53, 93) and Japanese (pp. 54-92)

Masashi Suzuki and Steve Clark, “Preface.” Pp. 1-2, 54.

Sori Yanagi, “Message.” Pp. 3, 55. About his father.

*Anon., “The Glad Days in the Reception of Blake in Japan.” Pp. 5-6, 56. (“Our Exhibition aims to show how Blake was received in the early period of his introduction into Japan, mainly through documents.”)

Kozo Shioe, “On the ‘[Taro] Nagasaki Collection’.” Pp. 7-9, 57-59. (His 52 Blakes went mostly to Kyoto City University of Arts.)

The catalogue entries, first in English and then in Japanese, are by Kozo Shioe and Yumiko Goto. Each section begins with a short essay.

Part I consists of “Japan’s Encounter with Blake”, subdivided into “1 Master Writers of the Meiji Period and Blake” (pp. 11-14, 65), “2 The Introduction of Blake’s Art by Soetsu Yanagi and the Shirakaba Group” (pp. 15-20, 66-68), “3 Blake Exhibitions Organized by Shirakaba” (pp. 21-25,

William Blake and His Circle

Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

69-70), and “4 The Development of Blake Reception and the 100th Anniversary of the Death of Blake” (pp. 26-37, 71-77).

Part II, “Japanese Blakeans”, consists of “1 Ryusei Kishida and the Artists of the Shirakaba Group” (pp. 38-45, 78-81), “2 Kagaku Murakami and Kokuga Sosaku Kyokai” (pp. 46-50, 81-82), and “3 Blake Collector: Taro Nagasaki” (pp. 51-53, 83-84).

See also The International Blake Conference (2003) in Part VI.

REVIEW

Yoko Ima-Izumi, Blake, XXXVIII (2004-2005), 109-15
 (“The catalogue of the exhibition will long stand as one of the most solid and reliable accounts of Blake’s legacy in Japan” [p. 115])

2003

Jarndyce Catalogue CLV: The Romantics: Part One: Byron, Blake, Bowles, Campbell, Clare, & Other Authors A-C (London, [autumn 2003]) 8<sup>o</sup>, 818 lots
 The Blakes are No. 1-24.

2003

*John Windle Catalogue Thirty-Six (San Francisco: John Windle, [October] 2003) 4<sup>o</sup>, iv, 88 pp.; no ISBN 403 Blake entries at $3.95 to $68,750 and “Price on application”, including include his tempera of “The Virgin Hushing the Young John the Baptist” (1799), Job, Blair’s Grave (1808, 1813, 1870) (6 copies), and Stedman’s Surinam (1796) with contemporary colouring.

2004 February 24

Printed Books and Maps [to be sold] Tuesday 24 February 2004 [by] Bonhams 101 New Bond Street, London W15 1SR ([London: Bonhams, 2004])

It included 47 Blake lots, with 18 letterpress books with Blake prints.

2004 April 4-August 31

*Cathy Leahy. William Blake. [Exhibition at the] National Gallery of Victoria (Melbourne, Australia: National Gallery of Australia, 2014) 28 cm, 112 pp.; ISBN: 9780724103805 104 reproductions, some of them double page, including all 14 prints from Innocence (X), all 22 Job engravings, and all their Dante watercolours.

Tony Ellwood. "Foreword." (P. 4) ("This publication, which presents the NGV's Blake holdings, accompanies the exhibition of William Blake.")

REVIEWS, &c

*Dr Rachel Kohn, "William Blake's Erotic Spirituality", The Spirit of Things [online], 30 March 2014 (a broadcast interview with Marsha Keith Schuchard and Catherine Leahy)

Sandra Kerbent, "William Blake Exhibition @ the NGV", Weekend Notes [online] [Melbourne] [2014]

2004 May 5

**William Blake's Good and Evil Angels: Property of the Greentree Foundation from the Collection of Mr. & Mrs. John Hay Whitney, New York May 5, 2004.* This lot will be offered aslot 5, [Sotheby] Sale 7989, Impressionist & Modern Art

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

(N.Y.: Sotheby, 2004) 4°, 19 pp. (one a fold-out page); no ISBN

Anon., "The Greentree Foundation: Mrs. John Hay Whitney" (p. 6).

*David Bindman, untitled, about the colour-print (pp. 8-19). ESTIMATE: $1,000,000-$1,500,000. [It was sold for a record price of $3,928,000 (including buyer's commission) to a collector in Europe not previously associated with Blake.<sup>846</sup>]

2004 June 22-September 19

**Heaven in a Wild Flower: William Blake's Book of Job. Curated by Phillip Prodger. St Louis Art Museum, 22 June-19 September 2004.*

A flyer for the exhibition of "selections from the Saint Louis Art Museum's rare proof edition of the Book of Job".

2004 June

Ruthven Todd. Handlist, University of Leeds, The Library, MS 470 Blake letters and papers of Ruthven Todd (Digitised June 2004) Online. 56 pp.

Over 300 letters from Bentley, Butlin, Erdman, Essick, Paley, Rosenwald, et al, plus miscellaneous papers, with index.

2004 July 1-August 1

---

<sup>846</sup> For details of the sale, see R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2004", Blake, XXXVIII (2005).

§[Christopher Bucklow and William Blake.] “I Will Save Your Life.” ([London: Riflemaker, 2004]) One folded sheet 58 x 77 cm

“Published on the occasion of an exhibition held at Riflemaker, London, July 1-Aug. 14 2004.”

Christopher Bucklow is a contemporary photographer (b. 1957); Riflemaker is the name of the Gallery at 79 Beak Street, Regent Street, London W1F 9SU; the name derives from the building’s former use as a gunshop. The exhibition is not related to the copy of “Albion Rose”: (E) found in Ezekiel Baker, Thirty-Three Years Practise and Observations on Rifle Guns (1813).

2004 July 6-October 31

*Robert Woof, Howard J.M. Hanley, Stephen Hebron. Paradise Lost: The Poem and its Illustrators [An exhibition 6 July-31 October 2004] (Grasmere: The Wordsworth Trust, 2004) 4°, viii, 226 pp., 55 Blake reproductions (including all 12 from the Thomas [Huntington] set of Paradise Lost); ISBN: 1870787943

An admirable work with splendid reproductions. The work consists of

Allan Guest, “Sponsor’s Preface” (p. vi)

Robert Woof, “Foreword” (pp. vii-viii)

*Howard J.M. Hanley, ““Thou hadst a voice whose sound was like the sea’: Seeing Milton’s Voice” (pp. 1-53, including “William Blake”, pp. 23-24)

*Robert Woof, “The Romantics and Milton” (pp. 55-76)

“Catalogue” of 83 entries (pp. 77-221) including (47) Marriage ([H]), (48) Milton ([A]), (49) Paradise Lost

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies drawings from the Thomas (Huntington) set, (50-53) Paradise Lost drawings from the Butts set, and (54) a previously unrecorded undated letter from Blake to John Linnell

Anon., "Appendix: The Reverend Joseph Thomas" (p. 227)

REVIEWS &c

*Adrian Mullen, "Paradise Lost: the poem and its illustrators", Westmorland Gazette, 2 July 2004, p. 3

*Anon., "Rare Drawings on Show", Keswick Reminder, 2 July 2004

*Kate Rees, "Rare visions of heaven and hell", Cumberland News, 2 July 2004

Anon., "Paradise lost", Carlisle News & Star, 3 July 2004

*Dalya Alberge, "Returned: Blake's pictures of Paradise Lost", Times [London], 5 July 2004

*Anon., "Poet's Drawings Go On Display", News & Star, [?Whitehaven] 5 July 2004

*Anon., "Blake Watercolours Return to UK for Exhibition", Scotsman, 5 July 2004

*John Ezard, "Paradise regained: Blake's visions on show", Guardian [London], 6 July 2004, p. 6 ("Arguably, the legacy of Blake's ideas is now as great as the influence of Wordsworth's nature poems")

*Ian Herbert, "Paradise found: Blake works back in UK", Independent (London), 6 July 2004 ("The bicentenary of [Blake's] Milton is being celebrated")

- *Anon., “Blake watercolours back in Britain for the first time in nearly a century”, Irish News (Belfast), 6 July 2004
- *Anon., “In Pictures: Paradise Lost exhibition”, BBC News, 6 July 2004
- *Anon., “Blake paintings for Grasmere”, North West Evening Mail (Barrow-in-Furness edition), 6 July 2004
- Anon., “Blake works at exhibition”, Birmingham Express & Star, 6 July 2004
- *Anon., “Paradise found at Grasmere”, North West Evening Mail (Barrow-in-Furness edition), 8 July 2004
- Anon., “Reading in paradise”, East Cumbrian Gazette, 8 July 2004
- *Anon., “Top author inspires pupils”, Westmoreland Gazette, 9 July 2004 (about Tom Pullings opening the exhibition)
- *Anon., Untitled, Church Times, 9 July 2004 (merely a reproduction with caption)
- Kate Rees, “Plenty of dark material at Paradise Lost exhibition”, Cumberland News, 16 July 2004 (on the opening of the exhibition by Phillip Pullman, author of His Dark Materials)
- *Tom Paulin, “This way to paradise: Milton’s great poem – an English republican allegory – has inspired generations of writers and illustrators. Now their work has been gathered together at Wordsworth’s cottage. Tom Paulin drops in for a visit”, Guardian Review [London], 17 July 2004,

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

pp. 14-15 ("Twelve illustrations by Blake ... from the Huntington ... dominate the exhibition")

*Anon., "Paradise regained", Week, 20 July 2004

*Matthew Sturgis, "Poetic works: Matthew Sturgis hopes a new show will reinstate Milton in the national consciousness", New Statesman, 23 August 2004, pp. 29-30

*Anon., "If you're only going to see one thing this week ... Art: Milton: Paradise Lost, the Poem and Its Illustrators", Guardian [London], 23 August 2004, p. 15

*Anon., "Wordsworth trust: A dozen rare Blake drawings in UK for the first time in nearly a century", Lancashire Today, August 2004

*Clive Wilmer, "Prophet of life and Liberty: The Romantics' sympathy for the Devil, and John Milton", Times Literary Supplement, 17 September 2004, pp. 18-19 (with another)

*Anon., "Paradise Regained", Heritage (Milton Keynes), September 2004

2004

**Blake at Work*. Exhibition at the Tate Gallery without printed catalogue.

<<http://www.tate.org.uk/serlet/CollectionDisplays?roomid=2780>>.

An admirable, ground-breaking exhibition, using captions from Joyce H. Townsend and Robin Hamlyn, ed., William Blake: The Painter at Work (2003).

REVIEW

Professor Dr Antoine Capet, “Blake at Work Exhibition: Tate Britain, London”, Online at H-Museum, the H-Net Network for Museums and Museum Studies <<http://www.h-museum.net>>, 28 July 2004. 2 Printed in Blake, XXXVIII (2004-5), 115-19 (“a magnificent introduction to ‘art appreciation’ from the point of view of the media used” [Blake, p. 115])

“GEB Books: Illustrated Books c. 1770-1830 chiefly those written or illustrated by William Blake, George Cumberland, John Flaxman, or published by F.J. Du Roveray, John, Richard, and Thomas Edwards, Thomas Macklin, plus Illustrated English Bibles before 1830 and Related Scholarship In the Collection of G.E. Bentley, Jr. Given by Beth and Jerry Bentley in 2005 to Victoria University Library (Toronto).” Compiled in Toronto and Dutch Boys Landing Winter, Spring, and Summer 2000 and amplified occasionally thereafter ([Toronto: Privately Printed in 5 copies, October 2004]) 4<sup>o</sup>, xxx, 365 pp., typescript.

2005 March 6-May 9

§Grabadores del Inframundo: Jacques Callot, William Blake, Francisco de Goya, Honoré-Victorin Daumier, Marzo 16-Mayo 9, 2005. [Ed. Beatriz Gonzalez and Carolina Vanegoes] (Bogota [Colombia]: Biblioteca Luis Angel Arango, Banco de la Republica, 2005) 28 cm, 76 pp.; ISBN: 9586641562 In Spanish

2005 April 20-21

§Bloomsbury Auctions, Private Press Limited Editions, Children's & Illustrated Books and Performing Arts (London,

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

2005) <Grolier Club>

Includes "William Blake, Trianon Press".

2005 May

§William Blake list of Henry Sotheran Ltd (London, May 2005)

2005 August-September 4

**Cloud & Vision.* Curated by Danielle Arnaud, Jordan Kaplan and Philip Norman and presented at the Museum of Garden History, London, summer 2005 (London: parabola, 2005) 4°, 44 pp.; ISBN: 095476174X

The "catalogue" includes

Daniell Arnaud, Jordan Kaplan, and Philip Norman.

"The Harmony of Opposition". Pp. 1-2. ("Why commission artists and writers to produce new works exploring his [Blake's] ten years living and working in Hercules Road".)

*Michael Phillips. "Blake's Lambeth." Pp. 3-11. (The accompanying flyer says that this is "an edited form of his essay 'William Blake in Lambeth'" [History Today, L, 11 (November 2000), 18-25].)

Jon Newman. "William's Footprint." Pp. 12-17. ("We look in vain within Blake's work for a ... sense of Lambeth" similar to that of Felpham [p. 12].)

Tim Heath. "To be Divine in a Digital Age." Pp. 18-21. ("Blake would have enjoyed our multimedia age" [p. 19].)

Polly Gould. "The Floating Press." Pp. 22-23. ("I work at a copperplate printing press ... on view to the public".)

Manuela Ribadeneira. "Without Contraries is no progression." Pp. 24-25. ("Like almost all great poets, he [Blake] was an enemy of dualism”; “This text is taken from ‘Innocence and Experience’ written by Keith Sagar in 2002 as it appears on www.keithsagar.co.uk”).)

*Brian Catling. “Lambeth tenant Extracted reflections on Blake’s Ghost of a flea.” Pp. 26-27. (Illustrated by juxtaposed representations of Disney’s Jiminy Cricket and Blake’s Ghost of a Flea.)

Phil Coy. Untitled specifications for Auto-cue Monitor and Manual. Pp. 28-29. (According to the first essay above, “Phil Coy’s Auto-Cue (Jerusalem) works to include the audience as participants in the recitations of Blake’s lyrics. The words scrolling through the auto-cue are presented backwards”).)

David Burrows. Untitled page from “Comic Book, work in progress, 2005”. Pp. 30-31.

David Burrows. “The Sick Rose.” Pp. 32-33. (A commentary.)

Annie Whiles. Untitled. Pp. 34-35. (“I came across Glad Day 1794”).)

Andy Harper. Untitled. Pp. 36-37.

Sarah Woodfine. Untitled. Pp. 38-39. (Visual thoughts on Blake’s garden, presumably in Lambeth.)

Tracy Chevalier. “Blake’s Garden.” Pp. 40-42. Reprinted in an extended form on pp. 12-15 of Women Reading William Blake, ed. Helen M. Bruder (2007). (She is “writing a novel about Blake” called Blake’s Neighbours which begins with the Blakes naked in their garden, even though “Blake scholars have effectively demolished the Adam and Eve story as apocryphal” [p. 40].)

The exhibits are by David Burrows, Brian Catling (one of the three “new collections of writings”; The Pittancer, on

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies which he is working “is centred around [sic] Blake”, Tracy Chevalier, Phil Coy, Polly Gould, Andy Harper, Tim Heath, Jon Newman, Michael Phillips, Manuela Ribadeneira, and Annie Whiles (“She works with embroidery and appliqué”).

REVIEWS

Andrew Limbith, “Celebrating William Blake: Andrew Lambirth visits an exhibition in the first museum of garden history”, Spectator, 6 August 2005, p. 39 (the exhibits by 21st Century artists are “feeble” and “vulgar”, the pamphlet is of “staggering banality and awfulness”, and the catalogue “is the best thing about the project”)

Raymond Edwards, “Blake takes a back seat”, Catholic Herald, 19 August 2005 (All except the topographical essay by Michael Phillips form “a dire collection of art school pretentiousness”)

2005 October 16-2006 May 7

§René Zechlin and Ciara Healy. Blake and Sons: Alternative Lifestyles and Mysticism in Contemporary Art. Catalogue of an exhibition held at the Lewis Glucksman Gallery, Cork, Ireland, 16 October 2005-29 January 2005 and the Model Arts and Niland Gallery, Sligo, Ireland, 24 February, 2006-7 May 2006 (Cork [Ireland]: Lewis Glucksman Gallery [2005]) 24 cm, 143 pp.; ISBN: 9780950244099

It includes Christopher Bucklow, “This Is Personal: Blake and Mental Fight.” Pp. 131-39.

2005 November

**Catalogue Forty: William Blake and His Circle: Books of Scholarship, Books of Beauty.* [Ed. Robert N. Essick] (San Francisco: John Windle, Antiquarian Bookseller, [Nov] 2005) 4°, 104 pp., 431 lots; no ISBN

An admirable catalogue, including

- 1 Blake's receipt of 5 July 1805
- 68 Quincy's English Dispensatory (1733) with "William Blake his Book" on the title page
- 11-13 Multiple sets of Job
- 20-23 Blair's Grave
- 65-67 Young's Night Thoughts (1797)

plus "Works by Blake's Circle: John Flaxman, Henry Fuseli, and Thomas Stothard" (lots 405-12), "Blake's Followers, Including Samuel Palmer, Edward Calvert, and George Richmond" (lots 413-23), and "The Wrong William Blake" (lot 424).

2006 February 2-April 19

**Flaming Pages: The Illuminated Books of William Blake.* University Art Gallery, California State University, East Bay [Hayward, California] (2006) The Art of the Book [No. 4] Online

Linien Graham, introduction (2 p.).

An exhibition of Blake Trust facsimiles. There is no catalogue of the exhibition.

2006 February 15-May 1

*Martin Myrone. Gothic Nightmares: Fuseli, Blake and the Romantic Imagination. With essays by Christopher Frayling and Marina Warner and additional catalogue contributions by Christopher Frayling and Mervyn Heard.

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

[Catalogue of an exhibition 15 February-1 May 2006 at Tate Britain] (London: Tate Publishing, 2006) 4<sup>o</sup>, 224 pp.; ISBN: 9781854375822

The catalogue consists of

Michael Frayling. "Fuseli's The Nightmare: Somewhere between the Sublime and the Ridiculous." Pp. 8-20.

Marina Warner. "Invented Plots: The Enchanted Puppets and Fairy Doubles of Henry Fuseli." Pp. 22-29.

Martin Myrone. "Fuseli to Frankenstein: The Visual Arts in the Context of the Gothic." Pp. 30-40.

The catalogue is organized into "The Nightmare: Fuseli and the Art of Horror" (No. 1-8, pp. 43-51) "Perverse Classicism" (No. 9-30, pp. 53-71), "Superheroes" (No. 31-52, pp. 73-99), "Gothic Gloomth" (No. 53-73, pp. 101-21), "Witches and Apparitions" (No. 74-98, pp. 123-45), Martin Myrone and Mervyn Heard, "The Phantasmagoria" (No. 99, pp. 146-49); "Fairies and Fatal Women" (No. 100-23, pp. 151-75), "Revolution, Revelation and Apocalypse" (No. 124-51, pp. 177-205), Christopher Frayling and Martin Myrone, "The Nightmare in Modern Culture" (No. 152-57, pp. 207-12).

The catalogue is rewardingly learned and very generously and handsomely illustrated; it focuses upon Fuseli and the Gothic, but there are 33 Blake reproductions, particularly in the section on Revelation.

REVIEWS

Audrey Niffenegger, "Creatures of the Night: As Tate Britain's major spring exhibition Gothic Nightmares opens this month, Audrey Niffenegger

- succumbs to the dark seductions of Blake and Fuseli”, Guardian, 4 February 2006 online
- §Brian Sewell, Evening Standard, 17 February 2006
- §Tom Lubbock, “The Body Abominable”, Independent [London], 20 February 2006, pp. 46-47
- §Tara Pepper, “The Lure of the Gothic: a New Tate Britain exhibit demonstrates why grotesque images are still so effective in portraying our hidden demons”, Newsweek, 20 February 2006
- §Jackie Wullschlagen, “Dawn of Our Violent Dreams”, Financial Times, 27 February 2006, p. 11
- *Stéphane Guégan, “Gothic Nightmares: Sombres rêveries à la Tate Britain”, Beaux Arts Magazine, No. 260 (February 2006), 124, in French
- Brian Dillon, “Gothic Nightmares: Tomb Raiders”, Modern Painters (February 2006), 60-65
- Alan Riding, “To sleep, perchance to have a Gothic nightmare”, International Herald Tribune, 3 March 2006, p. 24
- Kelly Grovier, “‘She is mine and I am hers!’ Henry Fuseli, voyeurism, and the dark side of the canvas”, Times Literary Supplement, 10 March 2006, pp. 16-17
- §Stéphane Guégan, “Gothic Nightmares: Fuseli, Blake and the Gothic Imagination”, Tribune de l'Art, 24 March 2006
- Martin Myrone, “A Taste for Horror: How did the Age of Reason give birth to the Gothic, with its emphasis on the irrational and supernatural? Martin Myrone, curator of a major new exhibition at Tate Britain, argues that the British taste for

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

Gothic art was the product of uncertainty, change and revolution”, Fourteen Times: The World of Strange Phenomena, March 2006, pp. 32-40

§M. Farine, “Supernaturel”, L’Oeil, No. 578 (March 2006), 81, in French

§F. Whiteford, “Gothic Nightmares: Tate Britain”, World of Interiors, XXVI, 3 (March 2006), 195

*§Martin Butlin, “Gothic Nightmares”, London Magazine, February-March 2006, pp. 28-35

§David Bindman, “Fuseli”, Burlington Magazine, CXLVIII (2006), 364-65

2006 May 2

**William Blake: Designs for Blair’s GRAVE* [Sotheby’s auction] Tuesday, May 2, 2006 (N.Y.: Sotheby, 2006) 4°, 84 pp. (including 14 pp. about Sotheby’s), 50 reproductions including the 20 lots, 10 of them “actual size”; no ISBN

A very handsome, responsible catalogue, printed in red and black, with coloured reproductions.

Nancy Bialler with the assistance of Robert N. Essick, “William Blake Designs for Blair’s Grave.” Pp. 7-16. Essick also assisted with the catalogue of the watercolours.

The 20 lots consist of

- 1 Title page (ESTIMATE: $180,000-260,000 [$650,000 to Anon.])
- 2 “The Meeting of a Family in Heaven” (ESTIMATE: $280,000-$360,000 [$500,000 to Sievking])
- 3 “Death of the Strong Wicked Man” (ESTIMATE: $1,000,000-$1,500,000 [$1,400,000 to Anon (for the Louvre)])

- 4 “The Grave Personified”, a massive seated, moth-winged female with outspread arms and hands holding poppies (ESTIMATE: $1,000,000-$1,500,000 [$800,000 to Price])
- 5 “While Surfeited Upon Thy Damask Cheek”, a young couple at a graveside (ESTIMATE: $700,000-$1,000,000 [$520,000, bought in])
- 6 “The Reunion of the Soul & the Body” (ESTIMATE: $900,000-$1,200,000 [$900,000 to Anon.])
- 7 “The Soul Hovering over the Body” (ESTIMATE: $700,000-$1,000,000 [$520,000, bought in])
- 8 “The Descent of Man into the Vale of Death” (ESTIMATE: $700,000-$1,000,000 [$480,000, bought in])
- 9 “The Day of Judgment” (ESTIMATE: $1,500,000-$2,000,000 [$1,100,000, bought in])
- 10 “Death’s Door” (ESTIMATE: $1,000,000 -$1,500,000 [$750,000, bought in])
- 11 “The Soul Exploring the Recesses of the Grave” (ESTIMATE: $700,000-$1,000,000 [$550,000 to the Rothmans])
- 12 “The Gambols of Ghosts” (ESTIMATE: $700,000-$1,000,000 [$520,000, bought in])
- 13 “The Counsellor, King, Warrior, Mother & Child, in the Tomb” (ESTIMATE: $700,000-$1,000,000 [$500,000, bought in])
- 14 “The Death of the Good Old Man” (ESTIMATE: $550,000-$700,000 [$700,000, bought in])
- 15 “A Father and Two Children Beside an Open Grave” (ESTIMATE: $350,000-$550,000 [$280,000 to Anon.])

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

- 16 "Heaven's Portals Wide Expand to Let Him In", Christ floats with attendants towards an angel-crested archway (ESTIMATE: $350,000-$550,000 [$280,000 to Essick])
- 17 "Our Time is Fixed", eight women with the thread of fate plus six babes and a crescent moon (ESTIMATE: $350,000-$550,000 [$280,000 to Anon.])
- 18 "Christ Descending into the Grave" (ESTIMATE: $350,000-$550,000 [$280,000 to Parker])
- 19 "Friendship", two men with laced hands walk towards a river and a radiant city (ESTIMATE: $180,000-$260,000 [$270,000 to Parker])
- 20 The red morocco portfolio in which the drawings were found, reproduced also as the covers (ESTIMATE: [$4,200 to Windle])

No. 1-3, 6-11, 13-14, 18 were engraved in the 1808 edition.

The news of the discovery and the proposals for selling the drawings created a journalistic and scholarly uproar:

*Colin Cleadell, "Blake's lost work found 165 years on", Telegraph [London], 31 January 2002

*Colin Blackstock, "William Blake illustrations are found after 165 years", Guardian Review [London], 31 January 2002, online

*Martin Butlin, "New Risen from the Grave: Nineteen Unknown Watercolors by William Blake", Blake, XXXV, 3 (Winter 2002), 68-73 (these 19 designs for Blair's Grave [1805] constitute "arguably the most important" Blake discovery since 1863)

- Karin Goodwin, “Blake’s ‘lost’ art earns Glasgow sellers £3m ... but it will stay hidden”, Sunday Herald, 2 February 2003 and <http://www.sundayherald.com/print31098> (on the sale by Libby Howie of the Blair watercolours)
- Anon., “Lost Blake paintings fetch £5m: A clutch of William Blake watercolours which were found in a second-hand bookshop have sold for £5m.”, BBC News, 19 February 2003 and <http://newsvote.bbc.co.uk/mpapps/pagetools/print/news.bbc.co.uk/1/entertainment/arts/2> (about the sale of the Blair watercolours to an overseas buyer)
- *William Bennett, “Blake’s paintings found in bookshop fetch £5m”, Daily Telegraph [London], 19 February 2003, p. 3 (reproduces the watercolours of “Death’s Door”, “Death of the Wicked Strong Man”, and “The Soul Exploring”)
- John Shaw, “Unknown Blakes sell for £5 m.”, Times[London], 19 February 2003, p. 5 (the drawings for Blair’s Grave were “found by chance [by two book dealers] in a second-hand [Glasgow] bookshop”; “The Tate Gallery had been prepared to pay £4.9 million for them, but a dealer [Libbie Howie] acting for an anonymous client” bought them for a trifle more)
- *Martin Bailey, “From £1,000 to £10 million in two years for newly discovered Blake watercolours: A set of 19 watercolours by William Blake was sold to a Glasgow bookshop for a pittance in 2000. It was then recognized and sold to an overseas collector. An export licence deferral is now

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies expected and Tate would like to acquire it”, Art Newspaper.Com 2003 <<http://www.theartnewspaper.com/news/article.asp?idart=11037>> (an account full of original matter about the ownership and sale of Blake’s watercolours for Blair’s Grave)

Anon., “Blake paintings may leave UK: The future of a set of watercolours by William Blake remains uncertain as the foreign buyer decides whether to take them abroad”, BBC News, 13 March 2003 and <http://news.bbc.co.uk/go/pr/fr/-/1/hi/entertainment/arts/3024811.stm>

*Will Bennett, Art Sales Correspondent, “Collector buys lost Blake paintings for £5m (Filed: 19/02/2003)”, BBC News, 13 March 2003 and <http://www.telegraph.co.uk/core/Content/displayPrintable.jhtml;\$sessionid\$VMRP14VRC>...

§Anon., “Collector Buys Lost Blake Paintings for £5 Million”, Sunday Telegraph [London], 27 April 2003

British Department of Culture, Media, & Sports 20 March 2005
(www.culture.gov.uk/globalpress\_notices/archive\_2005/dcms051\_05.htm)

Anon., “Beyond the grave: ban saves lost Blake paintings”, Herald [Glasgow], 30 March 2005, online

Anon., “Britain halts export of rediscovered William Blake watercolours”, Baltimore Sun, 30 March 2005, online

- Anon., “Britain stops export of Blake Paintings”, Kansas City Star, 30 March 2005, online
- Anon. [Associated Press], “Britain Stops Export of Blake Paintings”, Newsday, 30 March 2005, online
- Sherna Noah, “Blake Paintings Barred from Leaving U.K.”, News.Scotsman.com, 30 March 2005, online
- *Anon., “Bid to save Blake art for nation”, BBC News, 31 March 2005, online
- Danielle Demetriou, “Export Bar placed on Blake paintings”, Independent [London], 31 March 2005, online
- *Nigel Reynolds, “Export ban on Blake’s vision of ‘Blair’s Grave’: 19 watercolours commissioned for the poet (not the Prime Minister) could stay in Britain – if £9m can be found”, Telegraph [London], 31 March 2005 (the “anonymous collector living in America ... recently applied to remove them from Britain but Miss Morris [Arts Minister] announced a temporary export stop of up to six months yesterday to allow a public collection in this country to come up with a ‘matching’ offer of £8.8 million, excluding VAT”)
- Anon., “Entertainment; Blake watercolours barred from leaving country”, Keralanext.co [India], 31 March 2005, online
- Anon., “Export of lost Blake watercolours held up”, Toronto Star, 31 March 2005, p. A31 (“A British buyer now has until May 30 to ante $16.5 million

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

(U.S.) to keep the works [drawings for Blair's GRAVE] in Britain")

*Maeve Kennedy, "Export Bar on Blake pictures", Guardian [London], 31 March 2005, online
First to Inspire Christian Magazine
(www.lst2inspire.co.uk/blairsgrave.php), 31 March 2005

Anon., "Bid to keep paintings in Britain", Icscotland.co.uk [?March 2005], online

Hastings, Sheena. "William Blake and the Book Dealer." Yorkshire Post, 1 April 2005, online
(about Dr Paul Williams (age 76) of Ilkley who found Blake's watercolours [which he then thought were coloured engravings] in a Glasgow bookshop)

*Anon., "Export stop to save Blake watercolours", Rare Book Review online <www.rarebookreview.com> (2005) (Caledonia Books (Glasgow) sold Blake's 19 Blair watercolours to Paul Williams and Jeffery Bates for £950, who valued them at £1,000,000, offered them to the Tate for £4,900,000, paused to settle a law-suit with Caledonia Books "who said they had not recognized the true significance of the items they had sold", and sold them for "more than £5 million" to "an anonymous collector living in America"; "their price has now spiralled to £8.8. million", and "Tate Britain is said to be reviewing its position on the paintings")

Anon., "Government bans export of William Blake Engravings", InTheNews.co.UK, 1 April 2005, online (The “Engravings” are Blake’s watercolours for Blair’s Grave)

Anon. [Associated Press], “Britain forbids export of Blake watercolors”, Relish [Winston-Salem, North Carolina], 3 April 2005, online

*Anon., “Arts Minister Defers Export Of William Blake’s Works”, Artdaily.com, 19 April 2005, online

§M. Bailey, “Will Tate save a set of William Blake’s watercolours?”, Art Newspaper, XIV, 158 (May 2005), 30

Anon., “Export Stop to Save Blake Watercolours”, Rare Books Review, XXXII (May 2005), 6

George, “Sotheby’s as Corporate raider?”, Future Modern, 15 February 2006 online (about the New York Times article [by Vogel])

Anon., “Auction to Split Up Rare Set of Blake Watercolors”, ArtInfo, 16 February 2006 online (Four brief paragraphs from the story by Carol Vogel, “Art Experts Protest Sale ...”, New York Times, 16 February 2006)

§Anon., “Selling Out William Blake: Paintings Up for Sale”, New York Times, 16 February 2006

*Carol Vogel, “Art Experts Protest Sale Of Rare Set of Blakes”, New York Times, 16 February 2006, pp. B1, B7 (with a correction on 28 Feb 2006 about the title of a Blair drawing). B. “Blake watercolors land at Sotheby’s after a desperate struggle”, International Herald Tribune, 17 February 2006, on line (a history of the designs, announcement of their sale at Sotheby’s [N.Y.] on 2 May 2006, and,

William Blake and His Circle

Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies fairly incidentally, assertion that two “Art Experts [Martin Butlin and Sir Nicholas Serota, Director of the Tate Gallery are] Upset Over Auction That May Break Up Rare Set by Blake” (as the heading on p. B7 has it); Butlin says “that selling them individually at auction was [i.e., would be] ‘absolutely philistine’”)

Andrew Dickson, “Dismay as Blake auction splits collection”, Guardian [London], 17 February 2006 (Tim Heath of the Blake Society says that to break up the set of Grave watercolours “is an affront to everyone who loves Blake”)

Anon., “William Blake and ‘The Grave’”, New York Times, 20 February 2006, p. A18. B. §Anon., “William Blake and ‘The Grave’”, International Herald Tribune, 21 February 2006 (the argument that, because one of the Blair watercolours is now in Yale, the set is now broken up and can appropriately be sold piecemeal “is nonsense”; “This is an auction that should not take place”)

Anon., “Opinion: No Justification for Splitting Up Blake’s Watercolors”, ArtInfo, 6 March 2006 online, citing New York Times today

*Martin Bailey, “Dealer’s decision to break up William Blake album branded ‘philistine’: The Tate could not raise the money to buy this unique portfolio. Will a US museum save it before it is dispersed at Sotheby’s?”, Art Newspaper, No. 167(16 March 2006), 8, online (“The decision to break up the album [was] made by London dealer Libby Howie on behalf of a small group of investors”; the “application for a UK export licence ... was made by a family trust registered in the British Virgin Islands”)

*Harry Eyres, “Dark days for Blake’s spiritual illuminations”, Financial Times, 15-16 April 2006, p. 26 (“These Blakes should have a room to themselves somewhere”)

*Martin Bailey, “Spinning Blair’s Grave: How the British government feared an announcement on the deferral of an export licence for Blake watercolours could tarnish the prime minister”, Art Newspaper, No. 168 (April 2006), 3 (the office of Prime Minister Tony Blair feared that a reference to “Blair’s Grave” on the eve of the announcement of an election might be misconstrued, and the headline “Arts Minister defers export of ‘Blair’s Grave’” was altered to “... export of 19 rediscovered watercolours”)

§*R.M. Healey, “Grave Mistakes: ‘Discovered’ William Blake Set Broken Up at Auction”, Rare Book Review, XXXIII, 2 (April/May 2006), 6-7

Souren Melikian, “Louvre leads bidding for lost Blake work”, International Herald Tribune, 3 May 2006 (“a private group of benefactors, including Société des Amis du Louvre and a collector, Antoine Prat” paid $1,680,000 [sic] at Sotheby’s [for “The Death of the Strong Wicked Man”])

*Carol Vogel, “Rare Watercolor Collection Auctioned Piece by Piece”, New York Times, 3 May 2006 (Nicholas Serota of the Tate: “It is heart-breaking

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies that this exceptional group of [Blake's Blair] watercolor illustrations should be broken up")

Colin Cleadell, "Market news: Blake, Phillips auctioneers and Max Ernst: Colin Cleadell rounds up all the latest news from the fine art and antiques market", Telegraph [London], 9 May 2006 (the Blake sale at Sotheby's on 1 May had "very mixed results")

*Susan Moore, "Bleak Blake: A Picasso and a Van Gogh are estimated to fetch at least $40m. each in new york, where a dispersal of Blake watercolours leaves a sour taste", Apollo, CLXIII (May 2006), 96-98 ("The saga of the [Blake] drawings ... is a tale of cupidity and duplicity too depressing to relate")

*Faye Hirsch, "Blake sale falls flat", Art in America, XCIV, 6 (June-July 2006), 43

"Sotheby's Press Release" (2006) calls it the "Greatest Blake Discovery in 100 Years: Lost Watercolors to Be Sold by Sotheby's in New York: Most Important Offering of works by the Artist Ever to Appear at Auction [sic] Estimated to Bring $12/17.5 Million on May 2, 2006: Watercolors Will Be Exhibited in London [9-15 March], Paris [20-24 March], Chicago [27-28 March], Los Angeles [11-12 April] and New York [31 March-5 April, 28 April-May 1]"; the vendor is described as "a European based private collector"

REVIEWS &c

A fold-out sheet (3 leaves) announcing the sale.

§Jeremy Loft, "Blake Watercolours Export Barred", Country Life, 31 March 2005

- Sour ten Melikian, "Art: Louvre leads bidding for lost Blake work", New York Times, 2 May 2006 (a description of the sale; the [unidentified] watercolour for the Louvre went for $1,680,000)
- Anon., "The watercolour windfall worth £5m.", Scotsman, 13 May 2003
- *Didier Rykner, "Dix-neuf aquarelles de William Blake interdites temporairement de sortie du Royaume Uni", Tribune de l'Art, 16 mai 2005 online, in French
- §Carol Vogel "The splintering of a masterpiece", New York Times, 15 February 2006
- §Anon., "Blake collection to be broken up and sold in New York", Independent [London], 17 February 2006
- *Didier Rykner, "Les aquarelles de Blake pour Designs for Blair's Grave dispersées aux enchères", Tribune de l'Art, 17 February 2006, in French
- Andreas Whittam Smith, "Paintings that really are worth saving for the nation", Independent [London], 20 February 2006
- §Anon., "19 Blakes tumble out of attic", Bahrain Tribune, 5 April 2006
- *Nancy Bialler, William Blake Designs for Blair's GRAVE: Nineteen Watercolors ([N.Y.: Sotheby's, 2006])
- *Anon., "Greatest Blake Discovery in 100 Years: Lost Watercolors to Be Sold by Sotheby's in New York: Most Important Offering of Works by the Artist Ever to Appear at Auction Estimated to Bring $12/17.5 million on May 2, 2006", New-Antiques

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

online

- *Will Bennett, "Art sales dream discovery turns to dust", Telegraph [London], 2 May 2006 (very full and useful)
- *Didier Rykner, "Les Amis du Loures acquèrent un aquarelle de William Blake pour Designs for Blair's Grave", Tribune de l'Art, 3 May 2006, in French
- *Paul Jeromack, "Bomb-a-Rama." artnet.com (29 June 2006) (a summary of the sale: "If one wants to illustrate exactly how the art market operates on a rarefied plane of greed, callousness, stupidity, lawsuits and dishonesty, the saga of the Blake album tells you all you need to know")
- *Colin Cleadell, "Blake's lost work found 165 years on", Telegraph [London], 31 January 2002
- *Colin Blackstock, "William Blake illustrations are found after 165 years", Guardian Review [London], 31 January 2002, online
- *Martin Butlin, "New Risen from the Grave: Nineteen Unknown Watercolors by William Blake", Blake, XXXV, 3 (Winter 2002), 68-73 (these 19 designs for Blair's Grave [1805] constitute "arguably the most important" Blake discovery since 1863)
- Karin Goodwin, "Blake's 'lost' art earns Glasgow sellers £3m ... but it will stay hidden", Sunday Herald, 2 February 2003 and <http://www.sundayherald.com/print31098> (on the sale by Libby Howie of the Blair watercolours)

- Anon., “Lost Blake paintings fetch £5m: A clutch of William Blake watercolours which were found in a second-hand bookshop have sold for £5m.”, BBC News, 19 February 2003 and <http://newsvote.bbc.co.uk/mpapps/pagetools/print/news.bbc.co.uk/1/entertainment/arts/2> (about the sale of the Blair watercolours to an overseas buyer)
- *William Bennett, “Blake’s paintings found in bookshop fetch £5m”, Daily Telegraph [London], 19 February 2003, p. 3 (reproduces the watercolours of “Death’s Door”, “Death of the Wicked Strong Man”, and “The Soul Exploring”)
- John Shaw, “Unknown Blakes sell for £5 m.”, Times[London], 19 February 2003, p. 5 (the drawings for Blair’s Grave were “found by chance [by two book dealers] in a second-hand [Glasgow] bookshop”; “The Tate Gallery had been prepared to pay £4.9 million for them, but a dealer [Libbie Howie] acting for an anonymous client” bought them for a trifle more)
- *Martin Bailey, “From £1,000 to £10 million in two years for newly discovered Blake watercolours: A set of 19 watercolours by William Blake was sold to a Glasgow bookshop for a pittance in 2000. It was then recognized and sold to an overseas collector. An export licence deferral is now expected and Tate would like to acquire it”, *Art Newspaper.Com2003<<http://www.theartnewspaper.com/news/article.asp?idart=11037>> (an account full of original matter about the ownership and sale of Blake’s watercolours for Blair’s Grave)

William Blake and His Circle
Part IV: Catalogues and Bibliographies

Anon., “Blake paintings may leave UK: The future of a set of watercolours by William Blake remains uncertain as the foreign buyer decides whether to take them abroad”, BBC News, 13 March 2003 and <http://news.bbc.co.uk/go/pr/fr/-/1/hi/entertainment/arts/3024811.stm>

*Will Bennett, Art Sales Correspondent, “Collector buys lost Blake paintings for £5m (Filed: 19/02/2003)”, BBC News, 13 March 2003 and <http://www.telegraph.co.uk/core/Content/displayPrintable.jhtml;\$sessionid\$VMRP14VRC>...

§Anon., “Collector Buys Lost Blake Paintings for £5 Million”, Sunday Telegraph [London], 27 April 2003

British Department of Culture, Media, & Sports 20 March 2005
(www.culture.gov.uk/globalpress\_notices/archive\_2005/dcms051\_05.htm)

Anon., “Beyond the grave: ban saves lost Blake paintings”, Herald [Glasgow], 30 March 2005, online

Anon., “Britain halts export of rediscovered William Blake watercolours”, Baltimore Sun, 30 March 2005, online

Anon., “Britain stops export of Blake Paintings”, Kansas City Star, 30 March 2005, online

Anon. [Associated Press], “Britain Stops Export of Blake Paintings”, Newsday, 30 March 2005, online

Sherna Noah, “Blake Paintings Barred from Leaving U.K.”, News.Scotsman.com, 30 March 2005, online

*Anon., “Bid to save Blake art for nation”, BBC News, 31 March 2005, online

Danielle Demetriou, “Export Bar placed on Blake paintings”, Independent [London], 31 March 2005, online

William Blake and His Circle

Part V: Books Owned by the Wrong William Blake

*Nigel Reynolds, “Export ban on Blake’s vision of ‘Blair’s Grave’: 19 watercolours commissioned for the poet (not the Prime Minister) could stay in Britain – if £9m can be found”, Telegraph [London], 31 March 2005 (the “anonymous collector living in America ... recently applied to remove them from Britain but Miss Morris [Arts Minister] announced a temporary export stop of up to six months yesterday to allow a public collection in this country to come up with a ‘matching’ offer of £8.8 million, excluding VAT”)

Anon., “Entertainment; Blake watercolours barred from leaving country”, Keralanext.co [India], 31 March 2005, online

Anon., “Export of lost Blake watercolours held up”, Toronto Star, 31 March 2005, p. A31 (“A British buyer now has until May 30 to ante $16.5 million (U.S.) to keep the works [drawings for Blair’s Grave] in Britain”)

*Maeve Kennedy, “Export Bar on Blake pictures”, Guardian [London], 31 March 2005, online
First to Inspire Christian Magazine
 (www.lst2inspire.co.uk/blairsgrave.php), 31 March 2005

Anon., “Bid to keep paintings in Britain”, Icscotland.co.uk [March 2005], online

Hastings, Sheena. “William Blake and the Book Dealer.” Yorkshire Post, 1 April 2005, online
 (about Dr Paul Williams (age 76) of Ilkley who found Blake’s watercolours [which he then thought were coloured engravings] in a Glasgow bookshop)

*Anon., “Export stop to save Blake watercolours”, Rare Book Review online <www.rarebookreview.com> (2005) (Caledonia Books (Glasgow) sold Blake’s 19 Blair watercolours to Paul Williams and Jeffery Bates for £950, who valued them at £1,000,000, offered them to the Tate for £4,900,000, paused to settle a law-suit with Caledonia Books “who said they had not recognized the true significance of the items they had sold”, and sold them for “more than £5 million” to “an anonymous collector living in America”; “their price has now spiralled to £8.8. million”, and “Tate Britain is said to be reviewing its position on the paintings”)

Anon., “Government bans export of William Blake Engravings”, InTheNews.co.UK, 1 April 2005, online (The “Engravings” are Blake’s watercolours for Blair’s Grave)

Anon. [Associated Press], “Britain forbids export of Blake watercolors”, Relish [Winston-Salem, North Carolina], 3 April 2005, online

*Anon., “Arts Minister Defers Export Of William Blake’s Works”, Artdaily.com, 19 April 2005, online

§M. Bailey, “Will Tate save a set of William Blake’s watercolours?”, Art Newspaper, XIV, 158 (May 2005), 30

Anon., “Export Stop to Save Blake Watercolours”, Rare Books Review, XXXII (May 2005), 6

William Blake and His Circle

Part V: Books Owned by the Wrong William Blake

George, “Sotheby’s as Corporate raider?”, Future Modern, 15 February 2006 online (about the New York Times article [by Vogel])

Anon., “Auction to Split Up Rare Set of Blake Watercolors”, ArtInfo, 16 February 2006 online (Four brief paragraphs from the story by Carol Vogel, “Art Experts Protest Sale ...”, New York Times, 16 Feb 2006)

§Anon., “Selling Out William Blake: Paintings Up for Sale”, New York Times, 16 February 2006

*Carol Vogel, “Art Experts Protest Sale Of Rare Set of Blakes”, New York Times, 16 February 2006, pp. B1, B7 (with a correction on 28 Feb 2006 about the title of a Blair drawing). B. “Blake watercolors land at Sotheby’s after a desperate struggle”, International Herald Tribune, 17 February 2006, on line (a history of the designs, announcement of their sale at Sotheby’s [N.Y.] on 2 May 2006, and, fairly incidentally, assertion that two “Art Experts [Martin Butlin and Sir Nicholas Serota, Director of the Tate Gallery are] Upset Over Auction That May Break Up Rare Set by Blake” (as the heading on p. B7 has it); Butlin says “that selling them individually at auction was [i.e., would be] ‘absolutely philistine’”)

Andrew Dickson, “Dismay as Blake auction splits collection”, Guardian [London], 17 February 2006 (Tim Heath of the Blake Society says that to break up the set of Grave watercolours “is an affront to everyone who loves Blake”)

- Anon., “William Blake and ‘The Grave’”, New York Times, 20 February 2006, p. A18. B. §Anon., “William Blake and ‘The Grave’”, International Herald Tribune, 21 Feb 2006 (the argument that, because one of the Blair watercolours is now in Yale, the set is now broken up and can appropriately be sold piecemeal “is nonsense”; “This is an auction that should not take place”)
- Anon., “Opinion: No Justification for Splitting Up Blake’s Watercolors”, ArtInfo, 6 March 2006 online, citing New York Times today
- *Martin Bailey, “Dealer’s decision to break up William Blake album branded ‘philistine’: The Tate could not raise the money to buy this unique portfolio. Will a US museum save it before it is dispersed at Sotheby’s?”, Art Newspaper, No. 167(16 March 2006), 8, online (“The decision to break up the album [was] made by London dealer Libby Howie on behalf of a small group of investors”; the “application for a UK export licence ... was made by a family trust registered in the British Virgin Islands”)
- *Harry Eyres, “Dark days for Blake’s spiritual illuminations”, Financial Times, 15-16 April 2006, p. 26 (“These Blakes should have a room to themselves somewhere”)
- *Martin Bailey, “Spinning Blair’s Grave: How the British government feared an announcement on the deferral of an export licence for Blake watercolours could tarnish the prime minister”, Art Newspaper, No. 168 (April 2006), 3 (the office of

William Blake and His Circle

Part V: Books Owned by the Wrong William Blake

Prime Minister Tony Blair feared that a reference to “Blair’s Grave” on the eve of the announcement of an election might be misconstrued, and the headline “Arts Minister defers export of ‘Blair’s Grave’” was altered to “... export of 19 rediscovered watercolours”)

§*R.M. Healey, “Grave Mistakes: ‘Discovered’ William Blake Set Broken Up at Auction”, Rare Book Review, XXXIII, 2 (April/May 2006), 6-7

Souren Melikian, “Louvre leads bidding for lost Blake work”, International Herald Tribune, 3 May 2006 (“a private group of benefactors, including Société des Amis du Louvre and a collector, Antoine Prat” paid $1,680,000 [sic] at Sotheby’s [for “The Death of the Strong Wicked Man”])

*Carol Vogel, “Rare Watercolor Collection Auctioned Piece by Piece”, New York Times, 3 May 2006 (Nicholas Serota of the Tate: “It is heart-breaking that this exceptional group of [Blake’s Blair] watercolor illustrations should be broken up”)

Colin Cleadell, “Market news: Blake, Phillips auctioneers and Max Ernst: Colin Cleadell rounds up all the latest news from the fine art and antiques market”, Telegraph [London], 9 May 2006 (the Blake sale at Sotheby’s on 1 May had “very mixed results”)

*Susan Moore, “Bleak Blake: A Picasso and a Van Gogh are estimated to fetch at least $40m. each in new york, where a dispersal of Blake watercolours leaves a sour taste”, Apollo, CLXIII (May 2006),

96-98 (“The saga of the [Blake] drawings ... is a tale of cupidity and duplicity too depressing to relate”)

*Faye Hirsch, “Blake sale falls flat”, Art in America, XCIV, 6 (June-July 2006), 43

*Martin Bailey and Georgina Adam, “‘The break-up could and should have been avoided’: A unique William Blake album has been dispersed forever, probably on behalf of an investor from the Gulf”, Art Newspaper, 1 June 2006, online (the company that offered the collection of Blair watercolours, which is “registered in the British Virgin Islands”, probably made no profit)

E.B. Bentley, “Grave Indignities: Greed, Hucksterism, and Oblivion: Blake’s Watercolors for Blair’s Grave”, Blake, XL, 2 (Fall 2006), 66-71 (an account of the break-up of the set of illustrations for The Grave, with prices and buyers; eleven watercolours were sold for $7,102,640 [including premiums] “which is about what they [the vendors] are believed to have paid for them in 2002, viz. £4,900,000. They still have eight watercolors, for which $4,810,000 was offered and rejected at the 2006 sale” [p. 71])

2006 July 20-September 15

William Blake: Visionary and Illustrator. [Catalogue of an exhibition at] Rare Books & Special Collections, Thomas Cooper Library, University of South Carolina, July 20-September 15, 2006. 4<sup>o</sup>, 22 leaves; no ISBN

Patrick Scott, “Preface.” P. 1

William Blake and His Circle

Part V: Books Owned by the Wrong William Blake

The modest teaching exhibition includes chiefly Blake Trust facsimiles and 26 works with Blake's commercial book illustrations, some of them acquired not long after the founding in 1805 of South Carolina College, the precursor of the University.

REVIEWS

Anon., "USC holding exhibit on poet, artist William Blake", Gaffney Ledger, 21 July 2006, online

*Pat Berman, "Romancing the plate: Blake engravings bring artist's heavenly visions down to Earth", State [Columbia, South Carolina], 25 August 2006

2006 September 15-October 28

"All Genius Varies": A display celebrating William Blake (1757-1827) at the Bodleian Library 15 September-28 October 2006.

A 4-leaf flyer describing 9 important Blake works in Bodley, in conjunction with the "Blake and Conflict" conference at University College, Oxford. 22-23 September 2006.

2006 September 16-2007 January 1

§Robert Cook, Under God's Hammer: William Blake versus David Shrigley. [An exhibition in the] Art Gallery of Western Australia (Perth: Art Gallery of Western Australia, 2006) Art in Focus 22 x 24 cm, 47 pp.; ISBN: 0975809881

2006 October 30-December 15

[Robert C. Brandeis.] *William Blake & his Contemporaries: An Exhibition Selected from the Bentley Collection at Victoria

William Blake and His Circle
Part VI: Biography and Criticism

---

University [in the University of Toronto held in] Victoria University Library, Toronto October 30-December 15, 2006 (Toronto: Victoria University Library, 2006) Large square 8°, 36 pp., 39 reproductions; ISBN: 0969525761

Robert C. Brandeis, "Introduction". P. 5.

Maureen Scott Harris, "Portrait of a Collector." P. 36.
Reprinted from Vic Report, XXXV (2006).

The reproductions include the unique Marriage (M) (entire),<sup>847</sup> the Riddle MS (recto and verso), Visionary Head of ?Henry VIII, Linnell oil sketch of Mrs George Stephen, Stothard watercolour of "Infancy" (for "The Seven Ages of Man"), and Henry Tresham's oil of Anthony and Cleopatra (for the Boydell Shakespeare). There are separate sections on William Blake, George Cumberland, John Flaxman, Henry Fuseli, John Linnell, Thomas Stothard, and Henry Tresham, mostly in the context of Blake.

REVIEWS

*C.S. Matheson, Blake, XLI (2007-8), 131-33 ("The Bentley collection is both an entity and the emanation of a distinguished scholarly collaboration")

Anon. [?Nicholas Barker], "Exhibitions", Book Collector, LVII (2008), 105-12 (on pp. 107-8 is a factual summary of the catalogue)

[November] 2006

---

<sup>847</sup> Marriage (M) (the first 2 pp. reproduced), Songs pl. 39, and an electrotpe of the Songs were exhibited in Extra muros / intra muros: A Collaborative Exhibition of Rare Books and Special Collections at the University of Toronto: The Thomas Fisher Rare Book Library, University of Toronto, September 25-December 22, 2006 (Toronto: University of Toronto Library, 2006).

William Blake and His Circle

Part V: Books Owned by the Wrong William Blake

*John Windle, Catalogue Forty-Two: Blake Plates (San Francisco: John Windle, [Nov] 2006) 4<sup>o</sup>, 24 unnumbered pages, 97 reproductions; no ISBN

John Windle, "Introduction" (p. [3]).

There are 93 lots for sale, mostly Blake prints removed from books, each very briefly described and reproduced on a greatly reduced scale. The most remarkable lots are:

- 5 Engraved title page from "the very rare folio proof edition of [Blair's] The Grave, issued in 1808 ... colored, clearly by a contemporary hand, and the coloring has a very strong connection to Blake's and Mrs. Blake's palette"
- 7 "Chaucers Canterbury Pilgrims", 5th state, on india paper mounted on heavy wove paper, $22,500
- 76 Songs pl. 23 ("Spring"), colour-printed, trimmed to the design only with irregular outlines, P.O.E. (Price on Enquiry) [from The American Blake Foundation Library]
- 77 Songs (o) pl. 24 ("Nurses Song" from Innocence), in grey ink on paper with "partial Whatman watermark", trimmed close to the print, P.O.E. [sold to Victoria University in the University of Toronto]
- 78 Songs (o) pl. 38 ("Nurses Song" from Experience), printed in red on wove paper without watermark, P.O.E. [sold to Victoria University in the University of Toronto]
- 79 Songs (o) pl. 53 ("The School Boy"), printed in orange on unwatermarked wove paper, P.O.E. [sold to Victoria University in the University of Toronto]

William Blake and His Circle
Part VI: Biography and Criticism

-
- 85-87      There is No Natural Religion (G<sup>1</sup>), pl. a4, a6, b3, “rudimentary color printing” in olive-brown on unwatermarked wove paper, P.O.E. [from The American Blake Foundation Library] [sold to R.N. Essick]
- 90      “Morning Amusement” and “Evening Amusement” (Watteau-Blake), “printed in sepia, with touches of hand-coloring in blue and rose, cleaned and repaired”, $7,500 [sold to Victoria University in the University of Toronto].

2007 January 11-March 21

William Blake: Under the Influence. Exposition at the British Library 11 January to 21 March 2007.      Electronic “pressrelease”

It “features unique items lent or donated by writers and artists who have been inspired in some way by Blake’s life and work, including Tracy Chevalier, Philip Pullman and Patti Smith”.

REVIEWS

§*Michael Glover, “Angels and demons”, Independent [London], 12 January 2007, pp. 2-4

Anon., “Notes on a famous Tyger”, Times [London], 12 January 2007

§Anon., “Following the Trail of the ‘Tyger’ Poet”, Los Angeles Times, 12 January 2007

§Rare Book Review, February-March 2007

2007 February

§Charles Cox Catalogue 54 (February 2007)

William Blake and His Circle

Part V: Books Owned by the Wrong William Blake

- 199 “Bernard Quaritch’s Wholesale Stock. Annual Results”, a folio ledger of business records with “the statistics on William Blake’s Book of Ahania (1895) [William Griggs facsimile (n.d.)], Songs of Innocence [and of Experience], ed. E.J. Ellis] (Quaritch, 1893) and the three-volume Works of 1893 edited by Yeats and Ellis (small and large paper)”.

2007 March 31-June 10

*Simon Martin, Martin Butlin, Robert Merrick. Poets in the Landscape: The Romantic Spirit in British Art. (Chichester: Gallant House Gallery, 2007) 20 Blake reproductions 120 pp.; ISBN: 9781869827014

The volume was “Published on the occasion of the exhibition ... [in] Gallant House Gallery, Chichester 31 March-10 June 2007.”

The exhibition revolves around William Hayley. The sections relevant to Blake are Simon Martin, “Everything except the Poetry: William Hayley and Romantic Patronage 1775-1805.” Pp. 17-25, 115-16.

Martin Butlin, “The Pastoral Vision: Blake, Palmer and the Ancients 1805-1850.” Pp. 41-45, 116-17.

REVIEWS

§Anon., Independent [London], 31 March 2007

*Andrew Motion, “Songs of Experience: From William

Blake to the Romantics of the 1940s, artists took refuge in capturing the idyll of the countryside.

William Blake and His Circle
Part VI: Biography and Criticism

---

- Andrew Motion finds little peace but much beauty in their work”, Guardian [London], 7 April 2007
- *Richard Moss, Culture/History, No. 24 (17 April 2007), online
- §Charles Derwent, Independent on Sunday [London], 25 April 2007, p. 1572
- Robin McKie, “The other life of Walter Hussey: We have one man to thank for much of the thrilling British painting show at Chichester’s beautiful Pallant House”, Observer, 29 April 2007
- §Andrew Lambirth, Spectator, June 2007, p. 45
- §Alex Butterworth, “Enduring Visions: William Blake continues to exert a profound influence over modern artists and writers”, RA Magazine, No. 94 (Spring 2007)
- Melany Hughes, Art Book, XV, 2 (May 2008), 26-27, online

2007 April 7-2008 April 6

*Bindman, David. Mind-Forged Manacles: William Blake and Slavery. With an essay by Darryl Pinckney. With 66 illustrations (London: The British Museum; Arts Council; Southbank Centre Hayward Publishing, 2007) Square 8°, 147 pp.; ISBN: 9781853322594

An exhibition at Ferens Art Gallery, Hull (7 April-20 May 2007), Burrell Collection, Glasgow (3 November [2007]-6 January 2008), and Whitworth Art Gallery, Manchester (26 January-6 April 2008)

It consists of 77 (sic) illustrations plus

Ralph Rugoff and Roger Malbert, “Foreword.” Pp. 7-9.

William Blake and His Circle

Part V: Books Owned by the Wrong William Blake

David Bindman, "Mind-Forged Manacles: William Blake and Slavery." Pp. 10-21.

Darryl Pinckney. "'In My Original Free African State.'" Pp. 22-28.

Anon., "William Blake's Printing Technique." P. 44.

Anon. "William Blake Biography." P. 146.

Anon. "Glossary." P. 147.

REVIEWS

§C. Pickstone, "William Blake: Impression Spectacular Bodies", Month, XXXIII, Part 12 (2007), 497-98 (review of the Tate exhibition and of Spectacular Bodies at the Hayward Gallery)

Jason Whittaker, Year's Work in English Studies [for 2007], LXXXVIII, 1 (2009), 732

Jeremy Tambling, Blake, XLIV (2011), 143-44 (with another) ("some of Bindman's interpretations ... seemed oversimplifying")

2007 April 30-October 21

§Blake, and Slavery and the Radical Mind. Tate Britain exhibition 30 April-21 October 2007

REVIEWS

*Sara Allen, "Blake, Slavery and the Radical Mind at Tate Britain", 24 Hour Museum News, 5 August 2007, online

*Hew Lewis-Jones, "Mind in Chains Two Exhibitions devoted to Blake and slavery reveal an artist of baffling ambiguities as well as savage power, writes Hew Lewis-Jones", Apollo, November

2007, online (on the exhibitions at the Tate and Hayward Gallery)

2007 June 23-October 7

§[Rembrandt to Thibaud. Including Artist Books by William Blake Exhibition at the California Palace of the Legion of Honor (San Francisco, 2007)]

An accompanying volume is §Robert Flynn Johnson, Karin Breuer, Louise Siddons, Rembrandt to Thibaud: A Decade of Collecting Works on Paper (San Francisco: Fine Arts Museums of San Francisco, 2007)

2007 July 13-September 30, October-December

*Matthew Hargreaves. Great British Watercolors From the Paul Mellon Collection at the Yale Centre for British Art. With an introduction by Scott Willcox (New Haven and London: Yale University Press, 2007)4°, 223 pp.; ISBN: 7980300116588

Exhibited at the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts, Richmond (13 July-30 September 2007) and at the State Hermitage Museum, St Petersburg, Russia (October-December 2007).

The works exhibited include some by
William Blake (pp. 68-77)
John Varley (pp. 124-29)
Cornelius Varley (pp. 130-31)
Samuel Palmer (pp. 178-81).

2007 August 7-November 18

*David Bindman, Stephen Hebron, Michael O'Neill. Dante Rediscovered: From Blake to Rodin (Grasmere: The

William Blake and His Circle

Part V: Books Owned by the Wrong William Blake

Wordsworth Trust, 2007) 4°, xii, 259 pp.; ISBN: 9781905256228 (case bound)

David Bindman. “‘Nature worse than Chaos’: Blake’s Dante”. Pp. 31-38 of “Artists Discover Dante.”

A very impressive catalogue and exhibition, including Blake reproductions as Fig. 4, 10-17, 21, 28, 30, 32, Catalogue No. 17, 23, 30, 36, 38-39, 43-44, 46-47, 49, 51-52, 55, 58, 61-64, 67-68, and Fuseli and Flaxman.

REVIEWS &amp;c

*[David Bindman and Stephen Hebron.] Dante Rediscovered: From Blake to Rodin. (Grasmere and London: The Wordsworth Trust, 2007) Oblong 4°, 24 unnumbered pages plus covers; no ISBN. (“This booklet accompanies the exhibition Dante Rediscovered”)

§Sue Hubbard, “Divine inspiration”, Times [London], 1 September 2007

A.N. Wilson, “Dante inspired a wealth of genius”, Telegraph [London], 19 November 2007, online

2007 October 6-2008 January 13

§British Vision: Observation and Imagination in British Art 1750-1950. Ed. Robert Hoozee, Museum voor Schone Kunsten, Ghent, 6 Oct. 2007-13 Jan. 2008. (Ghent, 2007) 424 pp., ISBN: 97808014469408

Introductory essays by John Gage and Timothy Hyman, “William Blake, The Sea of Time and Space” by David Bindman.

The Blakelots, 231-48 from the Yale Center for British Art, include Songs of Innocence [F] pl. 2-3, 13, 15, 25, Urizen

William Blake and His Circle
Part VI: Biography and Criticism

---

[C], pl. 11, 17, 23, Jerusalem (E), pl. 26, 46, 61, 100, Dante water colours, and “The Sea of Time and Space”.

2007 October 7-December 2

§Every eye sees differently: presented in collaboration with the great unsigned: Charles Avery, Dira Bell, Haiko Blenkinstein, Ernesto Caivano, Kerstin Kartscher (London: The Drawing Room, Tannery Arts, 2007) 1 sheet (folded), 21 cm

“Published on the occasion of an exhibition at the Drawing Room, 7 Oct.-2 December 2007, to mark the 250th anniversary of William Blake’s birth”, with an essay by Irene Bradbury.

2007 November 1-2

Sotheby, Prints (N.Y., 2007)

The descendants of Heinrich Neuerburg of Cologne offered Songs of Innocence (Y<sup>1</sup>):

- *16 “Introduction” (pl. 4); ESTIMATE: $3,000-$5,000
[sold for $28,000 to John Windle for R.N. Essick]
- *17 “The Shepherd” (pl. 5); ESTIMATE: $35,000-$45,000
[sold for $109,000 to John Windle for R.N. Essick]
- *18 “The Little Black Boy” (pl. 9-10); ESTIMATE: $45,000-$65,000
[sold for $193,000 to John Windle for R.N. Essick]
- *19 “The Chimney Sweeper” (pl. 12); ESTIMATE: $3,000-$5,000
[sold for $73,000 to Alan Parker]

William Blake and His Circle

Part V: Books Owned by the Wrong William Blake

*20 “The Divine Image” (pl. 18); ESTIMATE: $5,000-$10,000 [sold for $121,000 to John Windle for R.N. Essick]

*21 “A Cradle Song” (pl. 16-17); ESTIMATE: $10,000-$15,000 [sold for $115,000 to Alan Parker<sup>848</sup>] all reproduced in colour.

[N.B. According to BBS 120, Dr Walter Neuerburg placed Innocence (Y), consisting of pl. 4-18, “on permanent deposit in 1978 in the WALLRAF-RICHARTZ-MUSEUM, Cologne”; the ownership and location of the seven leaves (Y<sup>2</sup>) with pl. 6-8, 11, 13-15 are not alluded to in the Sotheby catalogue.]

2007 November 3-2008 June 1

§William Blake: “I still go on / Till the Heavens & Earth are Gone.” Exhibition at Tate Britain 3 November 2007 to 1 June 2008.

The exhibition focuses upon 8 newly discovered colour-prints from Thel, The Marriage of Heaven and Hell (including pl. 16), and Urizen (including pl. 23), together with 13 new lines accompanying the prints.

REVIEWS &c

Vanessa Thorpe, “Fresh finds unveil Blake’s mystic world: Tate Britain showcases eight lost watercolours with handwritten texts by visionary poet,” Guardian [London], 11 November 2007,

---

<sup>848</sup> Prices and buyers derive from R.N. Essick, “Blake in the Marketplace, 2007”, Blake, XLI (2008). The underbidder for the Essick lots was Parker and for the Parker lots Essick.

William Blake and His Circle
Part VI: Biography and Criticism

---

seen online (about the Tate exhibition of the newly-discovered prints (not watercolours) for Small Book of Designs (B), each with “startling” verse)

Anon., “Long-lost Blake watercolours shown for 1st time”, CBC News, 12 November 2007, seen online

2007 November 20

“Innocence & Experience 2007. “Southbank Mosaics (73 Waterloo Road, London), exhibition 20 November 2007.

According to a publicity release, it was an exhibition of “translations of William Blake’s Lambeth work ... [?as mosaics] made by [37] artists and volunteers for installation in Centaur street”. Apparently there was no catalogue.

2007 November-2008 February

**William Blake at 250: an exhibition from November 2007 to February 2008 [in the] University of Iowa Libraries 8°; a 2-leaf description of the exhibition*

“Exhibit Planning: Mary Lynn Johnson, John Grant, Eric Gidal, Judith Pascoe, Greg Prickman”. The exhibits are facsimiles plus “Commercial Engravings and Book Illustrations”.

2008 January 26-April 28

Colin Trodd. Blake’s Shadow: William Blake and his Artistic Legacy. University of Manchester exhibition summary online (Manchester: The Whitworth Art Gallery, 2008)

2008 November 14-2009 February 1

§Blake’s Shadow: William Blake and His Artistic Legacy –

William Blake and His Circle*Part V: Books Owned by the Wrong William Blake*Exhibition at Seoul National University Museum of Art (2008)

It includes works by Flaxman, Calvert, Palmer, Fuseli, Stothard, Ford Madox Brown, Walter Crane, Frederic Shields, John Everett Millais, Dante Gabriel Rossetti, Simeon Solomon, G.F. Watts, and “British artists working in the 20th and 21st century”. “Blake, more than any other figure in British culture, is constantly recast and reformed in high and popular culture.”

REVIEWS*Manchester

“Julian Cope’s opening speech at the exhibition Blake’s Shadow: William Blake and his Artistic Legacy, The Whitworth Art Gallery 26 January-20 April 2008”, 4 pp., online

Robert Clark, “Blake’s Shadow, Manchester”, Guardian [London], 26 January 2008, online

Jeremy Tambling, Blake, XLIV (2011), 143-44 (with another) (Blake’s Shadow seemed “patchy”)

Seoul

*Penelope Thompson, Art’n About in Korea, 6 Dec 2008, online

§Anon., British Council (2009) online

2008 March 11

§Bonhams, 18th & 19th Century British Watercolours and Drawings (London: Bonhams, 2008)

Works by Blake (lot 27 Blake, “Two studies of a baby’s head ... Estimate £10,000-15,000”), Flaxman, Linnell, Palmer, and Varley.

2008 March 19-April 19

William Blake and His Circle
Part VI: Biography and Criticism

---

*Grant Scott. Wings of Fire: The Illuminated Books of William Blake. [An exhibition at the Martin Art Gallery, Muhlenberg College (Allentown, Pennsylvania: Muhlenberg College, 2008)] 4<sup>o</sup>, 16 pp. (including covers), no ISBN

A handsomely produced description of an “exhibition [which] culminates a senior seminar titled ‘The Blake Gallery’ ... curated by the students and me” (Grant Scott). The exhibition features facsimiles from private collections and Muhlenberg’s **“Canterbury Pilgrims”* (3rd State) and a *coloured copy (G) of Night Thoughts (1797).

REVIEW

*James Rovira, Blake, XLII, 3 (Winter 2008-2009), 110-11

2008 June [3 ff]

**William Blake: An Exhibition of Prints, Books and Facsimiles June 2008* Offered by Henry Sotheran Limited In Conjunction with John Windle Antiquarian Bookseller (London: Henry Sotheran Limited, 2008) 4<sup>o</sup>, 38 pp., 105 lots (most reproduced in colour), plus 18 “Trianon Press Facsimiles”. Also online

Lots 2-54 are members from dismembered books.

For an essay keyed to the catalogue, see Chris Saunders, “Eye of the Tyger ...”, Rare Book Review, August-September 2008.

2008

Robert Hartley Cromek & Thomas Hartley Cromek: With Records of Blake and Turner & Other Contemporary Artists: A Major Unpublished Archive of Manuscripts and Drawings

William Blake and His Circle

Part V: Books Owned by the Wrong William Blake

[offered for sale] By John Hart [bookseller of Binham, Norfolk] and Chris Johnson, 2008) 4<sup>o</sup>, [48] pp.

DESCRIPTION: The archive is 9 vols., folio, 4<sup>o</sup>, and 8<sup>o</sup>, c. 1,000 pp.

Volume One: T.H. Cromeck, “Memorials of the Life of R.H. Cromeck, Engraver, F.A.S. Edinburgh. Editor of the ‘Reliques of Burns’; ‘Remains of Nithsdale and Galloway Song.’ With the unpublished correspondence on these works and other papers relative to his professional and literary career. Collected and edited by his son”, 4<sup>o</sup>, 200 pp., preface dated 23 December 1864,<sup>849</sup> includes a list of R.H. Cromeck’s engravings, fair copy

Volume Two: Album of autograph letters collected by T.H. Cromeck for the biography of his father, 4<sup>o</sup>, 85 leaves

Volume Three: T.H. Cromeck, manuscript notebook relating to Gilchrist’s life of Blake “etc.”, dated December 1863, 4<sup>o</sup>, c. 115 pp. <extracts on rectos, T.H. Cromeck’s comments on versos >

Volume Four: Album of letters and manuscripts largely relating to Thomas Bewick, 4<sup>o</sup>, 52 pp.

Volume Five: John Pye, [22] autograph letters [3 September 1862-1 August 1866] to T.H. Cromeck relating to R.H. Cromeck, [J.M.W.] Turner, Pye, and the History of Engraving, 8<sup>o</sup>, 66 pp.<sup>850</sup>

---

<sup>849</sup> In a letter of 9 August 1979 Dennis Read told me that the original copy of the Memorials dated 25 July 1865 was in the possession of Mr Wilfred Warrington, Cesterton’s, Yattendon, Near Newbury, W. Berks, RGH16 OXD (in 1979). A photocopy of this version is quoted in Blake Records Supplement (1988), 58 and BR (2) 224, 262.

<sup>850</sup> Tatham’s letter of 11 April 1829 about Catherine Blake is quoted in

William Blake and His Circle
Part VI: Biography and Criticism

---

Volume Six: T.H. Cromek, MS “Recollections of conversations with Mr John Pye, London, 1864-4 [sic in catalogue], with other matters relating to men of his time” , signed by T.H. Cromek, May 1863, 4<sup>o</sup>, 80 pp.

Volume Seven: Thomas Hartley Cromek, manuscript Introductory Lessons in Hebrew Grammar, 6 November 1861, 4<sup>o</sup>, 62 pp.

Volume Eight: T.H. Cromek, an essay on the origins of Stothard’s Canterbury Pilgrims, foolscap, c. 150 pp., first section (pp. 1-75) dated 16 October 1851

Volume Nine: T.H. Cromek, manuscript record of his paintings with dates and purchasers, 31 December 1834-December 1872

HISTORY: (1) Compiled by T.H. Cromek (1809-73, the son of R.H. Cromek), from whom it passed to (2) “Mrs. [Mary C.] Warrington [1804-1907], at Worsborough Hall, near Barnsley, the grand-daughter of R.H. Cromek”;<sup>851</sup> and thence by 1979 to her grandson (3) Paul Warrington (b. 1909) of Stafford House, 59 York Place, Harrogate, Yorkshire;<sup>852</sup> (4) Sold at Sotheby’s (London), 17 July 2008, lot 9, for £20,000; (5) Offered in the catalogue of John Hart and Chris Johnson (2008), no price printed; sold in Winter 2009 to PRINCETON UNIVERSITY LIBRARY.

---

Blake Records Supplement (1988), 90-91 and BR, 495-96, 871.

<sup>851</sup> Robert Burns, Works, ed. W. Scott Douglas (1877), II, 292, referring only to the “Memorials” (according to a letter to me from Dennis Read).

<sup>852</sup> Dennis Read provided me with a Cromek genealogy according to which T.H.Cromek’s daughter Mary (1840-1907) married John Warrington (1820-1908), and their son Austin Warrington (1879-1953) married Isabella Wimpenny (1874-1970) and begot Paul Warrington (b. 1909). Austin’s brother Thomas Warrington (1881-1937) married Ursula Paul (1877-1964) and begat 8 children including Wilfred Warrington (b. 1910). Paul and Wilfred Warrington therefore are cousins.

William Blake and His Circle

Part V: Books Owned by the Wrong William Blake

2008 October 7--2009 January 4

§Angels and Imagination. New Art Gallery, Walsall (Walsall, 2008) online

REVIEW

Freya McClelland, “William Blake: Angels And Imagination at New Art Gallery, Walsall”, 24 Hour Museum City Heritage Guide, 29 October 2008, online

2008 December 12-2009 March 29

§**William Blake: The River of Life* at Tate Liverpool (Liverpool, 2008)

2008?

The New York Public Library Blakes are catalogued and each plate is reproduced online, including America (L), Europe (F in the Berg Collection), and Milton (C).

2008

The Collection List of the Blakes in the library of Victoria University in University of Toronto was added in 2008 to the William Blake Archive.

2008

Essick, Robert N. “William Blake and His Circle and Followers: A Catalogue of the Collection of Robert N. Essick Compiled by the Collector.” ([Altadena: Biblioteca la Solana, 2008]) 869 pp., typescript.

Extraordinarily, indeed uniquely, comprehensive, from original watercolours and books to postcards and posters, meticulously catalogued.

2008

§Christine Riding. Cecil Collins and William Blake. Tate Britain (2008).

An exhibition apparently without a published catalogue.

2009 April 2-June 28

**William Blake (1757-1827): Le Génie visionnaire du romantisme anglais* [Exhibition] sous le direction de Michael Phillips avec le collaboration de Catherine de Bourgoing. [Tr. from English by Jeanne Bouniort.] Petit Palais – Musée des Beaux-Arts de la Ville de Paris 2 avril-28 juin 2009. (Paris: Petit Palais / Paris musées [2009]) 4°, 256 pp., 173 reproductions, including all Europe (B), The Ghost of Abel (B), The Marriage of Heaven and Hell (M), and all the watercolours for Milton, “On the Morning of Christ’s Nativity”; ISBN: 9782759600779 In French

The text is chiefly a collection of very brief essays:

Bertrand Delanö. “Prèface.” P. 11.

*Gilles Chazal and Daniel Marchesseau. “Avant-propos.” Pp. 13-14.

*Daniel Marchesseau. “Exposer Blake à Paris: une mission de reconnaissance.” Pp. 17-20.

*Yves Bonnefoy. “Un prophète de l’écriture.” Pp. 23-37. (“Blake a été mal connu en France.”)

*Michael Phillips. “William Blake, graveur visionnaire.” Pp. 39-61, 209-10.

*Martin Butlin. “L’Art de William Blake.” Pp. 65-73, 210.

William Blake and His Circle

Part V: Books Owned by the Wrong William Blake

*Mark C. Crosby. “L’apprentissage de William Blake, 1772-1779.” Pp. 75-77, 210.

*David Alexander. “William Blake, graveur d’interprétation.” Pp. 79-81, 210-11. (In June 1788 William Blake, engraver of St James’s Parish, took as an apprentice Thomas Owen for a fee of fifty guineas.)

*Angus Whitehead. “Blake dans son atelier.” Pp. 83-85, 211.

*Elizabeth C. Denlinger. “Catherine Blake, une esquisse.” Pp. 86-87, 211.

*Robert Simon. “Les Chants d’innocence et Les Chant d’expérience.” Pp. 91, 96, 99, 211. (In the “première édition (1789)” of Songs of Innocence, the second plate of “The Ecchoing Green” shows the boy’s cricket bat as “incurvée selon l’usage”, but in the 1820s the bat is straight according to the new standard of the time.<sup>853</sup>)

*Jon Stallworthy. “Les chant syncopés du poète, une étude linguistique.” Pp. 101-3, 211. (The “nouveau rhythm ‘syncopé’ de Blake” consists of “la suppression d’une syllable que l’on attendrait normalement dans un vers anapestique (par exemple ‘When the tongues | of the chil | dren are heard | on the hill’).”

*Saree Makdisi. “Blake et la politique.” Pp. 105-7, 211.

Jon Mee. “William Blake et Thomas Paine.” Pp. 108-9, 212.

---

<sup>853</sup> No copy of either version is cited or reproduced. My own survey of reproductions of Songs copies B (1789), E (1789), W (1825), and c (posthumous) shows the cricket bat with exactly the same curvature. The dates derive from Joseph Viscomi, Blake and the Idea of the Book (1993), 376-381.

William Blake and His Circle
Part VI: Biography and Criticism

---

Bethan Stevens. “Visions des filles d’Albion, féminisme et esclavage?” Pp. 111-12, 212.

Andrew Lincoln. “America et Europe, la prophétie comme Histoire.” Pp. 115-16, 212-13.

Jared Richman. “Blake et Milton.” Pp. 137-44, 213.

*Morton D. Paley. “Jérusalem et les derniers ouvrages de William Blake.” Pp. 147-49, 213.

*Martin Myrone. “Blake et le gothique.” Pp. 153-55, 213.

*Andrew Loukes. “Les Portraits de poètes pour William Hayley.” Pp. 156-59, 213.

*Troy Patenaude. “L’exposition de Blake à Londres en 1809-1810.” Pp. 161-63, 213-14.

*John Barrell. “Les relectures de Geoffrey Chaucer par Blake.” Pp. 164-65, 214.

William L. Pressly. “Les prédécesseurs de Blake: Mortimer, Fuseli et Barry.” P. 166-67, 214.

Martin Postle. “Blake, Reynolds et la Royal Academy.” Pp. 171-72, 214.

*Anthony Dyson. “William Blake, graveur au trait.” Pp. 175-78, 214-15.

*David Fuller. “Les illustrations de Blake pour La Divine Comédie.” Pp. 181-82, 215.

Suzanne R. Hoover. “La renommée de Blake en Angleterre et aux États-Unis.” Pp. 187-88.

Céline Mansanti. “La réception de l’œuvre de Blake en France de 1868 à 1947.” Pp. 190-91, 215.

David Steel. “William Blake et André Gide.” Pp. 194-95, 215.

Peter France. “Le poète William Blake traduit en français.” Pp. 200-2.

William Blake and His Circle
Part V: Books Owned by the Wrong William Blake

Daniel Marchesseau. “La pérennité de Blake chez trois artistes du XX<sup>e</sup> siècle.” Pp. 205-7. (Francis Bacon, lithograph based on the life mask of Blake; Jean Cortot, “Éloge de William Blake”, acrylic; Louis de Brocguay, oil on canvas, apparently unrelated to Blake.)

*Catherine de Bourgoing. “Éléments biographiques.” Pp. 217-21. (A chronology 1757-1863.)

*Catherine de Bourgoing et David Fuller (n<sup>o</sup> 138 à 142 [Dante watercolours]). “Notices des œuvres” (i.e., catalogue of the 163 works in the exhibition<sup>854</sup>). Pp. 223-50.

Often the reproductions seem unrelated to the essays they accompany.

REVIEWS &c, the essays in French unless otherwise noted

*Anon. (Agence France-Press), “William Blake au Petit Palais à Paris”, Arts visuels, 2 April 2009 (cyberpresse.ca)

*Anon., “William Blake au Petit Palais”, Actualité Paris,

3 April 2009

*Lorène de Bonnay, “Les Illuminations de William Blake”, Femmes.com, 3 April 2009

*Julie Malaure, “Exposition – ‘Mad Blake’ au Petit Palais”, Le Point, 5 April 2009

*Craig McGinty, “William Blake at the Petit Palais”, This French Life, 7 April 2009, online (the notice gives no indication that he has seen the exhibition)

*Anon., “William Blake du 1 avril au 28 juin”, France

---

<sup>854</sup> The catalogue strangely omits numbers 1, 17, 24, 89, 97, 118-19, 153-55, 160-62, 164, 172-73 but adds 27 bis, 94 bis and ter.

Inter, n.d., online

Anon. (press release), “Le génie visionnaire de romanticisme anglais”, Evene: Toute la Culture, 10-12 April 2009, online

Anon., “William Blake, Le Génie Visionnaire”, paris étudiant, April 2009, online

§*Céline Chicha-Castex, “William Blake: Graveur et Poète Visionnaire”, Art & Métiers du Livre, No. 271 (March-April 2009), 44-57 (with 21 color reproductions)

*Grant F. Scott, Blake, XLIII, 2 (Fall 2009), 61-64 (“succeeds admirably”, “a magnificent introduction to Blake’s versatility and range”), in English

§Dominique Blanc, “William Blake génie visionnaire”, Connaissance des Arts, No. 670 (2009), 16-23

§Meredith Davis, caa.reviews (2009)

§Jean-Loup Bourget, “William Blake: Albion–Babylone–Jérusalem”, Critique [Paris], LXV, 745/746 (2009), 562-70 (with another)

Amandine Rabier, “William Blake: le plus visionnaire des romantiques anglais”, L’Oeil, No. 612 (April 2009), 72-75

*Jean-David Jumeae-Lafond and Didier Rykner, “William Blake: Le Génie visionnaire du romantisme anglais”, Tribune de l’Art, 5 June 2009

§*María Paz Amaro, “William Blake: la exposición de 1809”, Istor: Revista de historia internacional, No. 38 (2009), 92-99 In Spanish

§Georges Raillard, “Exposition – William Blake”, Quinzaine littéraire, No. 990 (2009), 17

William Blake and His Circle

Part V: Books Owned by the Wrong William Blake

Philippa Simpson, Blake, XLV (Summer 2011), pp. 37- 38 ("It is hard to excuse the large overlaps among several of the essays", and the catalogue of Blake's graphic work is oddly supported by "the concentration upon Blake's writings") in English

2009 April 20-October 4

*Martin Myrone, ed. Seen in my Visions: A DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE OF PICTURES (London: Tate Publishing, 2009 [distributed in the United States and Canada by Harry N. Abrahams, N.Y.]) 8°, 128 pp., 19 reproductions; ISBN: 9781854378637

Martin Myrone. "Introduction: The grand Style of Art restored." Pp. 7-37.

Anon. "Bibliographical Note." Pp. 38-39. (About the Descriptive Catalogue.)

A Descriptive Catalogue of Pictures (1809). Pp. 41-86. (Omits Blake's Index.)

"Illustrations of the [11] Surviving Works." Pp. 89-101.

"Indexes to A Descriptive Catalogue." Pp. 103-27. (A modern index, not Blake's, including headings such as Accident, Cartoons, Pencil.)

REVIEWS &amp;c

§Arifa Akbar, "Recreated: The exhibition that broke William Blake", Independent [London], 18 December 2008 (a puff)

Charlotte Higgins, "Blake retrospective: Tate stages 1809 show", Guardian [London], 18 December 2008 (the Tate will show at least 9 of the 11 surviving works from the 1809 exhibition and republish the Descriptive Catalogue)

Anon., Globe and Mail [Toronto], 21 December 2008
(announcement of the partial recreation of Blake's 1809 exhibition)

Anon., "Blake in Paris", Blake, XLII, 3 (Winter 2008-2009), 111

§*Peter Ackroyd, "Genius Spurned: Blake's Doomed Exhibition is Back", Times [London], 4 April 2009

*Louise Jury, "Blake's Progress 200 years on; [Canterbury] Pilgrims join re-creation of 1809 show", Evening Standard [London], 16 April 2009

Mona Bobe, "'Pelerini din Canterbury', într-un remake al singurei expoziții solo din viața lui William Blake", Ultima Ora, 16 April 2009, online, in Romanian

*Anon., "Blake painting fights old battle", BBC News, 17 April 2009, online ("a painting [of Chaucer's Canterbury Pilgrims] by William Blake is to be displayed alongside the 19th century work [by Stothard] which stole its thunder"; it is "a last minute loan")

*Anon., "Blake v Stothard", London Art News, 19 April 2009, online

*Richard Dorment, "William Blake exhibition – Tate Britain, review. Richard Dorment applauds the decision to restage a 200-year-old William Blake exhibition, despite its obvious shortcomings", Telegraph[London], 20 April 2009

*Alexa Baracaia, "Slated William Blake show revisited by Tate Britain", thelondonpaper, 20 April 2009,

William Blake and His Circle

Part V: Books Owned by the Wrong William Blake

online

*Anon., "Blake exhibition at Tate Britain", View London.co.uk ([?20 April 2009])

Mike Collett-White (Reuters), "Tate recreates Blake show", Globe and Mail [Toronto], 21 April 2009, p. R5

*Brian Sewell, "William Blake's 1809 Exhibition", Evening Standard [London], 24 April 2009 (Blake's Descriptive Catalogue shows "blundering ignorance" and "silly polemics"; "This is an exhibition of interest only to those for whom Blake is a sacred cow")

Robin Blake, "William Blake at Tate Britain", Financial Times, 25 April 2009 ("the Tate's tribute to the most loveable of all English artists ... is rather melancholy, and very touching")

§Tom Lubbock, "William Blake: The art of a 'lunatic'?" In 1809, an exhibition by William Blake was derided by critics and buyers alike: At the Tate's revival of that show, Tom Lubbock explains just how wrong they were", Independent [London], 27 April 2009 (Largely about Robert Hunt's review)

*Andrew Kirkby, "Blake – Madman or genius?" Planet Eye Traveler, 29 April 2009

*Anon., "Blake Exhibition at Tate Britain", viewLondon.co.UK online(?April 2009)

*Laura Cumming (Observer), "Exhibition", Guardian Weekly [London], 1 May 2009, p. 36

*Ashley Eldridge-Ford, "London Journal: Reintroducing William Blake", Art We Love

online, 19 May 2009

§Martin Butlin, “Blake in London”, Burlington Magazine, CLI, 1276 (July 2009), 487-88)

Paul Flux, Albion Magazine (Autumn 2009), online (it leaves an "impression ... of worthiness")

*Alexander Gourlay, Blake, XLIII, 3 (Winter 2009-2010), 96-100 (The exhibition “is no more successful than the original in communicating Blake’s ideas”)

§Andrew Lambirth, Art Book, XVII, 2 (2010), 73-74

2009 September 11-2010 January 3

William Blake’s World: “A New Heaven is Begun”. Pierpont Morgan Library and Museum (N.Y., 2009)

An exhibition from the Morgan’s holdings, divided into I Engravings [separate, 8], II Friends and Followers (8), III Book of Job watercolours and watercolour portrait of Blake in a blue coat after Phillips, IV Continental Prophecies, V L’Allegro and Il Penseroso watercolours, and VI Job engravings, Urizen, Visions, and watercolours, accompanied by a recording of Charles Ryskamp’s lecture “Collecting William Blake” (about his own collection, now in the Morgan). There was no catalogue, but the 92 pictures are reproduced on the Morgan web-site.

REVIEWS &c<sup>855</sup>

---

<sup>855</sup> Reviews of the exhibition only (there was no catalogue), omitting mere notices in New Yorker, 3 Aug, 12 Oct 2009; artdaily.org, 17 Aug 2009; Antiques and the Arts Weekly, 28 Aug 2009; edge, 1 Sept 2009; New York Times, 6, 13, 14, 23 Sept 2009; Curated, 8 Sept 2009; Architectsnewspaper, 9 Sept 2009; Record, 10 Sept 2009; artcritical.com; 7-13 Sept 2009; New York, 13 Sept 2009; Time Out New York, 10-16 Sept 2009; Arts-Journal, 15 Sept 2009; Newsday [Long Island], 18 Sept 2009, 1 Jan 2010; New York, 21 Sept 2009; Connecticut Post, 22 Sept

William Blake and His Circle

Part V: Books Owned by the Wrong William Blake

- *Anon., “Poet, Painter, Engraver, Creator of Illuminated Books: New Morgan Exhibition Presents the Genius of William Blake. Show Includes the Seldom Seen Complete Book of Job Watercolour Series – Among Blake’s Greatest Works”, Pierpont Morgan press release, online, 2009 (over 100 works are exhibited)
- *Anon., The Morgan Calendar of Events, Fall and Winter 2009, 2 (events included “Blake in Poetry and Song: An Evening with Patti Smith” and her daughter Jesse, 19 November, and a lecture by Joseph Viscomi, “Blake’s Enlightened Graphics: Illuminated Books and New Technologies”, 8 Oct) Pierpont Morgan Library Media Preview, online, 10 September 2009 (includes Charles Ryskamp’s gifts)
- *Evan Mantyk, “Blake’s Anti-Atheism on Display at Morgan Library”, Epoch Times, 10 September 2009, online
- *Holland Cotter, “The Palace of Excess Imagination”, New York Times, 11 September 2009, pp. 23, 25-26 (largely fictitious, about Blake in pubs with the Archangel Gabriel and Socrates)
- *Barbara Hoffman, “He’s hellbent on purgatory”, New York Post, 11 September 2009 (“there’s a helluva

---

2009; News-Times [Danbury, Connecticut], 24 Sept 2009; Artnet.com, Sept 2009; On the Promenade [N.Y.], Sept 2009; Selectism, Sept 2009; MHNA: The Murray Hill Neighborhood Association Newsletter, Autumn 2009; Week, 22 Dec 2009; *Anon., NY Art Beat [2010]; artcalendar.com, dates unknown; Artlog; *Anon., Art Wolf.com; ExploreLI.com; L Magazine; MBO; nycgo.com.

William Blake and His Circle
Part VI: Biography and Criticism

---

lot of hell at the Morgan”)

*Lance Esplund, “Artist as Oracle: Morgan’s exhibition of the work of William Blake reminds us of the artist’s many gifts”, City Arts, 15 September 2009, online

*Judith H. Dobrzynski, “Extra Credit For The Morgan”, Arts-Journal, 15 September 2009

*Jill Krementz, “Photo Journal: William Blake’s World”, New York Social Diary, 15 Sept 2009 (32 reproductions), online

*Anon., AO Art Observed<sup>TM</sup>, 17 Sept 2009, 5 pp., online

*Beatrice V. Thornton, “William Blake at the Morgan Library”, MagazineAntiques.com, 17 September 2009

Arielle Concilio, “William Blake and the Imagination at the Morgan Library and Museum”, Columbia Daily Spectator, 22 September 2009

*Drew Toal, “William Blake’s World: A New Heaven Is Begun”, Time Out New York, 24-30 September 2009, online

*Anon., “William Blake’s World: ‘A New Heaven is Begun’ at The Morgan Library”, artrepublic.com, September 2009

Anon., Art Newspaper, September 2009 (about Patti Smith singing)

*Anon., Week, 16 October 2009, online

*Graham Fuller, “Extreme Blake”, Arts Desk, 18 October 2009, 6 pp., online

**World Journal*, 24 October 2009, online, in Japanese

Anon., “Blake Illuminations At Morgan”, Northport

William Blake and His Circle

Part V: Books Owned by the Wrong William Blake

Journal, 8 October 2009

*Thomas Micchelli, “William Blake’s World: ‘A New Heaven Is Begun’”, Brooklyn Rail, October 2009, online

*Marjorie Welish, “Extreme Art: The creative talent of William Blake and Eighteenth-Century French drawings are at the Morgan Library”, New York Observer, 9 November 2009

*Chloe Malle, “William Blake’s Heavenly Imagination”, Daily Beast.com, 12 November 2009, 4 pp.

*Anon., “Blake in Poetry and Song: An Evening with Patti Smith”, Week, 18 November 2009

*Anon., “William Blake @ The Morgan: Tyger, Tyger!”, eCognoscente.com [N.Y.], November 2009

*Greta Berman, “William Blake: Praise the Lord With Stringed Instruments”, Juliard Journal online, XXV, 3 (November 2009)

*Peggy Roalf, “William Blake: Sympathy for the Devil”, Design Arts Daily, 8 December 2009, online

Menachem Wecker, “Did William Blake Know Hebrew? Did the poet and artist know the Kabbalah from his mystical studies?” Jewish Daily Forward, 11 December 2009, also online (“Blake had not even mastered the letter alef”)

Michaelanthony Mitchell, “William Blake at the Morgan”, Mapcidy, 18 December 2009, online

Richard Goodman, Fine Books & Collections, 5 pp.,

date not known

*Morton D. Paley, Blake, XLIII, 4 (Spring 2010), 149-151

*Anon., ArtMagick, online, date unknown

James Rovira, Blake, XLIV, 3 (Winter 2010-11), 110-111. (The exhibition included Phillips's "reproductions" of copperplates and prints from them of Songs [18 plates and prints], America pl. 1, Europe [5], and "inking daubers, historical pigments, ..."; "Illustrations of the exhibition and of some of the Phillips copperplates and impressions are online at ...<http://www.blakequarterly.org>".)

2009 April 20-October 4

*Martin Myrone, ed. Seen in my Visions: A DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE OF PICTURES (London: Tate Publishing, 2009)

REVIEW

Jason Whitaker, Year's Work in English Studies, X, 1 (January 2011), 652-53

2009 [November]

**William Blake: A Catalogue of Books by and about Blake and his Circle from 1775-2008 Mainly from the Collections of Roger and Kay Easson and Roger Lipman with Additions from Stock. Catalogue 46* (San Francisco: John Windle Antiquarian Bookseller, 2009) plus a CD of the whole in lieu of index and a keepsake reproduction of Leonard Baskin's watercolour bust of Blake after the life mask 4°, xii, 164 pp., 48 reproductions (in black-and-white version, in colour in the versions on CD Rom and online); no ISBN

A very handsome and rewarding publication; "this may be the largest bookseller's catalogue of books by and about Blake and his circle ever to have been issued" (p. ix). The 1706 lots are priced at from $5.00 to $89,500 (for Hayley, Designs [1802] (Bentley-Essick copy) plus Sold and P.O.A. (Price on Application). (A distressing (to me) number are marked "Not in Bentley".)

William Blake and His Circle

Part V: Books Owned by the Wrong William Blake

[2009]

Bernard Quaritch, Around Rousseau, Bernard Quaritch List 2009/19 (London, 2009)

- 50 [Darwin], The Botanic Garden, Vol. I (1791), Vol. II (1789), "very occasional spotting to vol. I, offsetting to title from frontispiece, and from other plates to facing pages, ... in contemporary speckled calf, with gilt-tooled spines and gilt borders to sides, gilt morocco lettering pieces, with the armorial bookplate of Sir George Shiffner in both vols., and the contemporary ownership inscription of one A. Lewis 1795 to front free endpaper in both vols.", with two copies of a print, £2,500.0.0

2009

§[Exhibition of prints from Michael Phillips's facsimiles of Blake's copperplates.] Cornell Fine Art Museum, Rollins College, Winter Park, Florida, 2009.

Simpson and Sibylle Erle. Tate Britain, London, 8 November 2010-4 April 2011

There was no catalogue. The exhibition was associated with the publication of Sibylle Erle, Blake, Lavater and Physiognomy (2010).

REVIEW

Martin Butlin, Burlington Magazine, CLIII (2011), 608
(with another) (Butlin dates the exhibition January-
March 2011)

2010 June 19-July 10

**William Blake: Engravings for The Book of Job and Other Prints.* Larkhall Fine Art Ltd Exhibition 19 June-10 July [2010] (Bath, 2010).

Exhibition with only an invitation-card.

2010 August 3-October 2

\[Robert Brandeis and Karen Mulhallen.] Remember Me! Blake in Our Time: A Keepsake Book In Celebration of An Exhibition and Symposium on the Life and Art of William Blake (1757-1827) [at]Victoria University, Toronto* [Toronto: Victoria University Library, 2010] Horizontal 8°, 64 pp., 38 reproductions, 61 exhibits; ISBN: 9780986707100

The exhibition focuses particularly on works acquired since the gift (2005) of the Bentley Collection of Blake and his contemporaries (see the Victoria University exhibition of 30 October-15 December 2006), including the extra-illustrated Bray, Life of Thomas Stothard (1851) (see pp. 13, 22, 24-25), Diario de los Niños (1839-40) (pp. 16-17), Varley, Zodiacal Physiognomy (1828) (pp. 18-19), Stothard, “The Fall of Rosamond” (1783) (pp. 22-23), Watteau, “Morning [and] Evening Amusement” (1783) (pp. 26-28), Morland, “The Idle Laundress” and “The Industrious Cottager” (pp. 29-31), “Chaucer’s Canterbury Pilgrims” (1810) (pp. 34, 36-37), “Spring” (pp. 46-47), and Remember Me! (1824, two copies, one with the rare colour-printed slip-case) (pp. 52-55).

William Blake and His Circle

Part V: Books Owned by the Wrong William Blake

Marriage (M) is reproduced entire.

N.B. The undated draft letter by William Hayley addressed to “Dear Poet & Philosopher” (laid into a copy of Hayley’s Triumphs of Temper [1803]) was almost certainly sent to Erasmus Darwin, not “to William Blake” (p. 21). The letter recommends “my excellent friend Flaxman who is just returned [in 1794] from Rome” as a sculptor for a monument to Wedgwood. (Flaxman’s monument to Wedgwood is in Stoke-on-Trent church.)

The exhibition and catalogue were associated with Blake In Our Time: A Symposium Celebrating the Legacy of G.E. Bentley Jr and The Future of Blake Studies (28 August 2010) organized by Karen Mulhallen and the launch of Blake in Our Time: Essays in Honour of G.E. Bentley Jr, ed. Karen Mulhallen (2010).

“Pod-casts on-line” in video and audio of the exhibition (still photos) and symposium were recorded in “Blake in Our time: A Symposium Celebrating the Future of Blake Studies & the Legacy of G.E. Bentley, Jr.” at the E.J. Pratt Library of Victoria University in the University of Toronto. The symposium part consists of

Karen Mulhallen . “Welcome and Introduction.”

Robert N. Essick. “Collecting Blake.” (About great collectors of the past, not about his own major collection.)

Joseph Viscomi. “Recovering the Earliest Versions of Blake’s Oddest Book.” (About the Song of Los.)

Mary Lynn Johnson. “Blake’s Pictures at ‘The Salterns’ and How Captain Butts Challenged his Sister’s Inheritance.”

Angus Whitehead. “Blake & George Cumberland’s ‘Pocketbooks’.”

William Blake and His Circle
Part VI: Biography and Criticism

---

John E. Grant. “Songs for Thomas Butts: Visions of the ‘Title Page’, ‘Earth’s Answer’, and ‘The Tyger’.”

Dennis Read. “Disputing the Sins of His Father: Thomas Cromek contra Gilchrist.”

Garry Leonard. “Without Contraries Is No Progression: Did Blake Invent Modernist Cinema?”

Stephen Nachmanovitch. “Job Returns – A Music and Multimedia Meditation on Blake’s Illustrations of the Book of Job.” Introduced by Brian Corman.

Mark Crosby. “Blake’s Seal.” (The images with which he sealed his letters.)

Keri Davies. “Brother Blake and Sister Blake and the Lost Moravian History of William Blake’s Family.”

Susanne Sklar. “The Mouth of a True Orator: Jerusalem’s Operating Instructions.”

2010

§Riding, Christine. Art and the Sublime: Terror, Torment and Transcendence (London: Tate Publishing, 2010) 19 pp.

An exhibition especially of J.M.W. Turner, William Blake, John Martin, and Douglas Gordon.

2011 January 26

Property from the Collection of Charles Ryskamp Sold for the Primary Benefit of Princeton University, Sotheby (N.Y.), 26 January 2011, online

*149 William Blake, “A Woman Enthroned, Two Figures on each side”, pen and black ink (late 1770s) <Butlin #88> (ESTIMATE: $7,000-$10,000 [sold for $5,313 to John Windle for Robert N. Essick])

William Blake and His Circle

Part V: Books Owned by the Wrong William Blake

- *208 “Sketches for America and Other Books and the Lion Lying Down with the Ox (Verso)” <Butlin #226>, 26.3 x 20 cm, given by Grace Lansing Lambert to Charles Ryskamp 1969 (ESTIMATE: $30,000-$50,000 [sold for $56,250 to John Windle for Robert N. Essick])

2011 March 12-June 27

Huntington Library. Born to Endless Night: Paintings, Drawings, and Prints by William Blake Selected by John Frame (San Marino, California: The Huntington Library, 2011)

Apparently there was no catalogue.

2011 March 22

Sale 18784 Books, Maps, Manuscripts and Historical Photographs, Bonham's (London, 22 March 2011) <seen online>

- 24* Poetical Sketches ([Y]) (ESTIMATE: £60,000-£80,000) [sold for £60,000 plus "buyer's premium" of £12,000 = £72,000 to John Windle for Robert N. Essick].

2011 March 29

Sale 19386: Papers & Portraits: The Roy Davids Collection Part II, Bonham's, London, New Bond Street, 29 March 2011, online

- 264 Blake's letter to Ozias Humphry of 18 January 1808 (A) (ESTIMATE: £50,000-£60,000) [not sold]

2011 March

Omnium Gatherum, Catalogue 48 of John Windle (San Francisco, 2011) 4°

A gorgeously illustrated catalogue with splendid treasures including

- *28 Job (1826), “Proof” set, including the printed *label (unpriced) and Linnell’s draft prospectus plus “the original hand-lettered wrappers”
($82,500) [previously offered in Windle Catalogue
46 (2009), lot 8; Essick bought the draft prospectus and the wrappers]
- *29 George Cumberland’s card (1827) printed in pale brown, no indication of whether this copy is recorded in Essick, Separate Plates ($17,500)
- *30 Hayley, Little Tom (1800), Muir’s excellent facsimile [1886] ($750)
- *31 Gay, Fables (1793), “very tall, possibly large-
paper” ($1,500)
- *32 Hayley, Ballads (1805), “very fine copy with large margins showing the plate marks. Bookplate of Lord Eversley”, “with the first three plates in the first state” ($6,750)
- *33 Malkin, A Father’s Memoirs of his Child (1806)
($1,875)
- *34 Stedman, Surinam (1796), “large-paper copy”, “every plate with fine original coloring” (3 heightened with gold), “virtually identical” to a copy sold to Bob Essick in 2000, in “Contemporary marbled boards” ($29,750)

William Blake and His Circle

Part V: Books Owned by the Wrong William Blake

2011 November 29-2012 February 19

§ William Blake exhibition at the Pushkin Fine Arts Museum, Moscow.

The exhibition was organized with help from the British Council, with 150 exhibits from the Tate, British Museum, Victoria & Albert Museum, National Portrait Gallery, Fitzwilliam Museum, Whitworth Art Gallery, Petworth House, and "Britten-Pears Foundation (Aldeburgh)".

The apparatus includes an inter-active education program.

REVIEWS, Puffs, Videos, &c<sup>856</sup>

*Joy Neumeyer, "Mysterious visions", Moscow News,
12 December 2011, seen online

Anon., "Blake Exhibition in Moscow", Blake, XLV, 3 (Winter 2011-12), 103 (Announcement of "The first major exhibition of Blake's works in Russia ... at the Pushkin State Museum of Fine Arts")

2011 December 10-2012 June 3

§ Mead Art Museum, Amherst College Blake exhibition

REVIEW/Notice

*Anon., "A New Blake for Amherst, On View through June 12012." Amherst College online notice
(Blake's tempera of "The Raising of Jairus's Daughter" was given by Dr Henry deForest

---

<sup>856</sup> By January 2012 there were 3,343,000 accounts of the Pushkin Blake exhibition on the World Wide Web; the first hundred I saw seem to be merely publicity. I have not tried very hard--indeed scarcely at all--to find reviews of the Moscow exhibition, both because the vast majority of them simply re-cycle publicity hand-outs from the Museum and because I can't read Cyrillic script.

Webster, '48)

2011 [December 11]

[John Windle.] Pictorial Blake: A Catalogue of recently acquired original Blake Illustrations from a Private Collection, along with the reference library and a complete run of the Blake Trust Publications, and other facsimiles. Also Blake facsimiles from the Biblioteca La Solana, printed by Robert N. Essick (San Francisco: John Windle Antiquarian Bookseller, 2011) 4<sup>o</sup>, 80 pp., 135 reproductions; no ISBN

There are 249 lots, No. 1-118 being mostly single prints by Blake taken from commercial books.

*"A Note on the Blake Facsimiles from the Biblioteca La Solana" (pp. 76-79).

247-48     Prints pulled in July and August 2011 from "relief photo-etchings "on copper and zinc made "in the 1970s" by "professional craftsmen" and Robert Essick of No Natural Religion pl. a2, Songs pl. 3, 8, 18, 24, 33, 47, America pl. 1-2, 12, 14, and The Ghost of Abel pl. 1-2 using "intaglio ink" and J Whatman | 1794 or 19th Century or "modern" paper.

The Windle catalogue reproductions include all 22 for Job (1826), all 13 for Blair's Grave (1813), and all 43 for Young's Night Thoughts (1797).

2011

§*Christopher Baker. English Drawings and Watercolours 1600-1900 [in the] National Gallery of Scotland (Edinburgh: Trustees of the National Gallery of Scotland, 2011)

The Blakes in the National Gallery of Scotland (pp. 42-

William Blake and His Circle

Part V: Books Owned by the Wrong William Blake

49) include Blake's "Hecate" <Butlin #317>, "God Writing on the Tables of the Covenant" <#448>, and "Job Confessing his Presumption to God Who Answers from the Whirlwind" <#461>. There are also sections on John Flaxman (pp. 114-16), Samuel Palmer (pp. 234-40), and Thomas Stothard (pp. 333-38).

2011 Autumn

§Rosebery's Auctions (London, 2011)

Sold For Children pl. 15.

2011 November 28-2012 February 2012

§Exhibition of "William Blake and British Visionary Art, Pushkin State Museum of Fine Arts, Moscow, 28 November 2011-19 February 2012", and its §catalogue, Уильям Блейк и британские визионеры. Каталог выставки [Uil'yam Bleik i britanskije vizionery. Katalog vystavki] [William Blake and the British Visionaries: Exhibition Catalogue] (Moscow: Krasnaya ploshchad', 2011), 248 pp.; ISBN: 9785915210485 800 roubles. In Russian

REVIEW

*Vera Serdechnaya, Blake: An Illustrated Quarterly, XLVII, 1 (Summer 2013), 77-79, plus large, unlabeled photographs of the exhibition, pp. 79-81 (The "lavish" catalogue included works by Blake's successors; "the queue [was] half a kilometre long", but the responses were mostly perplexed)

2012 März 15-Juni 17

§Agnes Husslein-Arco and Thomas Zaunschirm. Gold.

William Blake and His Circle
Part VI: Biography and Criticism

---

(Vienna: Österreichische Galerie Belevedere; Munich: Hirmer, 2012) In German
The exhibition included Blake.

2012 April 26-27

Sotheby. Prints. (N.Y., 2012)

Sold from Songs of Innocence (Y)

- 42 *"The Blossom" [pl. 11] (ESTIMATE: US $40,000-$60,000) [$74,500 to the photographer Adam Fuss<sup>857</sup>]
- 43 *"The Lamb" [pl. 8] (ESTIMATE: US $35,000-$45,000) [$40,625 to John Windle for Victoria University in the University of Toronto]<sup>858</sup>
- 44 *"Laughing Song" [pl. 15] (ESTIMATE: US $40,000-$50,000) [$80,500 to an anonymous collector on the telephone]
- 45 *"The Echoing Green" [pl. 6-7] (ESTIMATE: US $70,000-$100,000) [$116,500 to the dealer James Cummins for Northwestern University]
- 46 *"The Little Boy Lost" [pl. 13] (ESTIMATE: US $10,000-$20,000) [$59,375 to John Windle for Robert N. Essick]
- 47 *"The Little Boy Found" [pl. 14] (ESTIMATE: US $35,000-$45,000) [$68,500 to John Windle for

---

<sup>857</sup> See §Adam Fuss and Andrew Roth, Ark ([Kolkata [India]: Adam Fuss], 2007). 43 cm, 35 pp. According to the colophon, it was "Designed by Adam Fuss and Andrew Roth. 333 signed and numbered copies, printed by Anderson Printing House and Laurens and Co. Press, Kolkata, India. Engraving by William Blake, 1776. All daguerrotypes, 2004."

<sup>858</sup> Prices and buyers here derive from Robert N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2012", Blake, XLVI, 4 (Spring 2013).

William Blake and His Circle

Part V: Books Owned by the Wrong William Blake

Robert N. Essick]

2012 July 2 – October 21

William Blake (1757-1827). Visiones en el arte británico.
Exhibition from 02.07.2012 to 21.10.2012 at CaixaForum
Madrid. Paseo del Prado 36, Madrid

Organized by Tate Britain and produced by Obra Social "la Caixa". Curated by Alison Smith, London. No catalogue was published.

74 works by Blake, including watercolours, etchings, drawings and paintings, and pieces by British artists influenced by him: Cecil Collins (1908-1989), John Piper
(1903-1992), Graham Sutherland (1903-1980), Ceri Richards
(1903-1971) and Eduardo Paolozzi (1924-2005).

A poetry reading celebrating Blake was held on July 5 at 21 pm. Spanish poets Antoni Marí (coordinator), Antonio
Martínez Sarrión, Jorge Riechmann, Jordi Doce and Carlos Marzal read their poems and Songs of Innocence and Experience.

REVIEWS &c<sup>859</sup>

All are in Spanish save for two in English and one in Galician

*Anon., (Efe) "William Blake", Noticias médicas
[Madrid], 1 July 2012, p. 38

*Anon., (Efe) "La obra visionaria de William Blake llega a CaixaForum Madrid", Diario de Mallorca
[Mallorca], 3 July 2012, p. 51

---

<sup>859</sup> According to the Web CaixaForum entry on 19 Oct 2012, there were "47,000 results" for the Blake exhibition. I have been somewhat selective in recording them.

- Concha Carrión, “El arte visionario e incomprendido de William Blake llega a Madrid”, La opinión de A Coruña [La Coruña], 3 July 2012, p. 55
- *Anon., (Efe)“El arte incomprendido de William Blake, en Madrid”, La opinión de Murcia [Murcia], 3 July 2012, p. 45
- Anon., (Efe)“El arte visionario de William Blake”, El Día [Santa Cruz de Tenerife], 3 July 2012, p. 49
- *Anon., (Efe)“Una muestra lleva el arte visionario e incomprendido de Blake a Madrid”, El norte de Castilla [Valladolid], 3 July 2012, p. 38
- *Anon., (Efe)“El arte incomprendido de William Blake aterriza en CaixaForum”, El día de Córdoba [Córdoba], 3 July 2012, p. 42
- M.D. Colpisa, “El inconformismo del creador William Blake está de vuelta”, El adelanto de Salamanca [Salamanca], 3 July 2012, p. 22
- *Begoña Marín, “El arte del pintor, poeta y visionario William Blake llega a CaixaForum”, La gaceta de los negocios [Madrid], 3 July 2012, p. 27
- *Anon., (Efe)“El arte incomprendido de William Blake, en CaixaForum Madrid”, Diario de noticias [Pamplona], 3 July 2012, p. 63
- *Concha Carrón, “El arte visionario e incomprendido de William Blake”, Heraldo de Aragón [Zaragoza], 3 July 2012, p. 43
- *Concha Carrón, “El arte incomprendido y visionario de William Blake”, Lanza [Ciudad Real], 3 July 2012, p. 48 (A shorter, edited version of the previous article)
- *C. David Carrión, “William Blake, el místico

William Blake and His Circle

Part V: Books Owned by the Wrong William Blake

maldito”, La razón [Madrid], 3 July 2012, pp. 64-65

*Antonio Lucas, “Blake, el espíritu romántico de la disidencia”, El Mundo [Madrid], 3 July 2012, pp. 43-44

*A. Serrano, “Visiones de William Blake”, 20 minutos [Madrid], 4 July 2012, p. 15

*Raúl Álvarez, “Visionario y dinamitador”, Guía del ocio [Madrid], 6 July 2012, p. 76

*Ángeles García, “Visions of Britain”, El País (English edition) [Madrid], 6 July 2012, p. 4 In English

*Pilar Ortega, “Los delirios de William Blake”, El Mundo (La luna de metrópoli) [Madrid], 6 July 2012, p. 41

*Elena Vozmediano, “William Blake, pozo sin fondo”, El Mundo (El Cultural) [Madrid], 6 July 2012, pp. 26-27

Nieves Fontova, “El visionario del mundo”, El correo español [Bilbao], 7 July 2012, p. 12

*C. Méndez, “Murillo y William Blake para el verano”, Expansión [Madrid], 7 July 2012, p. 35

*Ángeles García, “Profecías de William Blake”, El País (Madrid Domingo) [Madrid], 8 July 2012, p. 16

*Antonio Rojas, “Un artista visionario. Huellas isleñas de William Blake”, Canarias 7 [Las Palmas], 11 July 2012, pp. 29-31 (Points out Blake’s influence on two artists from the Canary Islands: Néstor Martín-Fernández de la Torre and Tomás Morales)

- *Natividad Pulido, “Blake. De profeta a icono contracultural”, ABC [Madrid], 12 July 2012, p. 49
- *Pablo Sobisch, “William Blake”, El País (On Madrid) [Madrid], 13 July 2012 p. 26
- *Luis Ángel Vega, “Dos oscuros del Siglo de las Luces”, La nueva España [Oviedo], 14 July 2012, p. 70
- *Virginia Miranda, “Inconformismo británico”, El siglo [Madrid], 16 July 2012, p. 56
- *Anon., “Los delirios del gran pintor”, Supertele [Madrid], 21 July 2012, pp. 90-91
- *Delfín Rodríguez, “William Blake, el visionario”, ABC Cultural [Madrid], 21 July 2012, pp. 24-25
- *Marisa García, “Los delirios de Blake”, Teleprograma [Madrid], 23 July 2012, p. 92
- Mila Trenas (Efe), “Las diez exposiciones del verano”, El norte de Castilla [Valladolid], 23 July 2012, p. 34
- *Anon., “El genio desconocido”, Vanity Fair [Madrid], 1 August 2012, p. 95
- *Anon., “William Blake”, Viajar [Madrid], 1 August 2012, p. 47
- *A. San Juan / C. Velasco, “Diez exposiciones para este verano”, Las provincias [Valencia], 16 August 2012, p. 26
- *Ana Rodríguez de la Robla, “Imagen, poesía e inconformismo: el arte libre y total de William Blake”, El diario montañés [Santander], 17 August 2012, p. 4

William Blake and His Circle

Part V: Books Owned by the Wrong William Blake

- *Anon., “William Blake. Visiones en el arte británico”, El País (On Madrid) [Madrid], 31 August 2012, p. 26
- *Ana Echeverría, “Esotérico”, Historia y vida [Madrid], September 2012
- *Anon., “William Blake y su particular visión del mundo”, Llei d’art, September 2012, p. 81
- Anon., “El legado de Blake, en Caixaforum”, Ausbanc, September 2012
- Gudi Moragues, “Cita con los grandes”, Última hora (El domingo) [Palma de Mallorca], 2 September 2012
- Javier Alonso Sandoica, “¿Estaba loco William Blake?”, ABC (Alfa y omega) [Madrid], 6 September 2012, p. 34
- *Guillermína Royo-Villanova., “For Goodness Blake”, La Razón [Madrid], 6 September 2012, p. 48
- *Anon., “El lunático que inspiró a los Stones”, La voz de Galicia [Vigo], 8 September 2012, pp. 6-7
- *Anon., “Con vocación de eternidad”, Diario de Jerez [Jerez de la Frontera], 9 September 2012, p. 52
- *B. García Suárez, “Antidogma”, Correo farmacéutico [Madrid], 10 September 2012, p. 37
- *Jorge Muñoz, “Grabados de Blake y Goya. Renace la moda por los monstruos”, Inversión [Madrid], 21 September 2012, pp. 62-64 (Includes charts with recent auction prices of works by Blake and Goya)
- Anon., “Con vocación de eternidad”, Diario de Cádiz

[Cádiz], 22 September 2012, p. 49

*Martín Carrasco, “Blake, entre el bien y el mal”,
Hoy[Badajoz], 29 September 2012, p. 42

Salvador García-Bodaño, “A creación alucinada”, El correo gallego [Santiago de Compostela], 7 October 2012, p. 3 In Galician (Galician-Portuguese)

*Mauro Armiño, “De la calle a los museos”, El siglo [Madrid], 15 October 2012, pp. 52-53

Michelle Ferreiro, Blake, XLVII, 2 (Fall 2013), pp. [40-43] In English

2012 September 7

§Skinner Auctions. (Boston, 2012)

30 For Children: The Gates of Paradise pl. 10, "plate size" (i.e., platemark) 8.8 x 12.0 cm. In fact, this is For the Sexes: The Gates of Paradise pl. 10, W.A. White facsimile (c. 1913) (8.8 x 12.0 cm). <BB #46, BBS p. 80><sup>860</sup> The dimensions of Blake's plate are 6.3 x 9.3 cm.

2012 December 6

*Christie. Old Master Prints. (London, 2012) Online.

96 Blake's *Enoch lithograph<sup>861</sup> purchased by Edward Croft Murray from Colnaghi's in 1957 for £3; ESTIMATE: £100,000-£150,000 [sold for £170,000 (hammer price) to, it is rumoured, a U.S.

---

<sup>860</sup> Information from R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2012", Blake, XLVI, 4 (Spring 2013).

<sup>861</sup> The Enoch lithograph is also reproduced in Essick, ut supra. The leaf is 33.1 x 23.8 cm on wove paper without watermark.

William Blake and His Circle

Part V: Books Owned by the Wrong William Blake

institution]. The *Cumberland writing on the verso shows through on the print; "a made up paper loss in the upper subject, a short repaired tear and pale stain in upper right, otherwise in good condition".

2013 January 30

*Sotheby, Old Master Drawings (N.Y., 2013)

285 "The Gambols of Ghosts According with their Affections Previous to the Final Judgement", watercolour, reproduced (ESTIMATE: $400,000-$600,000) [sold for $722,500; at its previous sale on 2 May 2006, lot 12, it was bought in at $520,000]

REVIEW, &c

Gleadell, Colin, "William Blake, Craigie Aitchison and Tracey Emin work up for sale", Telegraph, 29 January 2013 ("The Gambols of Ghosts" will be in "tomorrow's sale")

2013 January 31

*Christie Sale 2675, Old Masters & Early British Drawings & Watercolors Including an Important Canadian Collection and a Distinguished Private Collection (N.Y., 2013)

147 "An angel, arms upraised, with another figure" <Butlin #692 53-54, Smaller Blake-Varley Sketchbook, p. 53> (20.7 x 15.5 cm), "indistinct inscription[s] in the hand of John Varley 'Hotspur ...' on the recto and "is allways [sic] to keep your self collected" on the verso, reproduced (ESTIMATE:

$12,000-$18,000)[$22,500 to Victoria University in the University of Toronto]

2013 January

Peter Harrington, Exceptional Books and Manuscripts, Catalogue 90 (London, 2013)

- 2 Young, Night Thoughts (1797), "ownership inscription of George Kelly, 1823", £12,500

2013 [January]

*Lowell Libson Limited. British Paintings & Works on Paper (London: Lowell Libson, 2013) <seen online 9 January 2013>

*"William Blake 1757-1827. The meeting of a family in heaven."<sup>862</sup> Pp. 44-49. Watercolour from the Tulk Album, very interesting. [No price; reported on Libson's web-site in September 2013 to have been sold to a "Private Collection, USA"]

*"William Blake, 1757-1827. Studies for 'America: A Prophecy' and an early treatment of 'Job'." Pp. 50-55 [no price<sup>863</sup>]. Very interesting sketches.

2013 February 8-June 23

Stella Halkyard. Burning Bright: William Blake and the Art of the Book. John Rylands Library, University of Manchester (2013)

According to Burning Bright, below, the undertaking is

---

<sup>862</sup> See Martin Butlin, "Harpers and Other Drawings: The Case for a Unified Composition", Blake, XLVII, 2 (Fall 2013).

<sup>863</sup> It was "Still offered on Libson's web site, early March 2014", according to R.N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2013", Blake, XLVII, 4 (Spring 2014).

William Blake and His Circle

Part V: Books Owned by the Wrong William Blake

a project for the students of Colin Trodd.

A "booklet to accompany the exhibition" is:

*Anon. Burning Bright: William Blake and the Art of the Book ([Manchester, 2013]) 22 pp., 22 reproductions; no ISBN. On line, seen 15 February 2013

There is no list of what was exhibited. There is some éclat about the statement that "many of these works had previously lain undetected" (p. 4). Their obscurity to the students may be explained in part by the fact that the section on "Further Reading and Resources" omits Roger R. Easson and Robert N. Essick, William Blake: Book Illustrator (1979), R.N. Essick, William Blake's Commercial Book Illustrations (1991), BB, BBS, and "William Blake and His Circle" (Blake [1994 ff.]), which record the Manchester works reproduced here.

REVIEW &c.

*Anon., "Blake etchings discovered at the John Rylands Library", University of Manchester News <seen online 22 January 2013> ("They discovered that a large proportion of the books Blake engraved had found their way into the Rylands collection including a number of engraved illustrations by the artist." Many of them will go into the exhibition "next month" called "Burning Bright": William Blake and the Art of the Book", 8 February-23 June 2013)

*Sibylle Erle, Blake: An Illustrated Quarterly, XLVIII, 3 (Winter 2014-15) [pp. 24-28] ("None of what was on display was actually new"; she felt a "sense of disappointed excitement")

2013 April 9-10

Christie's, The Collection of Arthur & Charlotte Vershbow
(N.Y., 2013)

- *64<sup>864</sup> Songs of Innocence and of Experience (p), bound in "late-19th-century English green roan, sides panelled with triple gilt fillets and blind roll-tooled border, spine gilt in compartments with fleurons and lettering, gilt edges, marbled endpapers, laid-paper flyleaves", "printed in grey-black ink", "brief autograph description of the book laid in". Sold by the Pasadena bookseller Alice Parsons Millard (1873-1938) to Caroline Boeing Poole (1884-1932); acquired in 1977 by Bernard M. Rosenthal (b. 1920), who sold it in 1979 to the Vershbows. The otherwise unique selection of plates "corresponds precisely with copy d (printed in sepia ...)" (ESTIMATE: $100,000-$150,000) [sold for $100,000 ($123,750 with buyer's premium)]<sup>865</sup>
- *65 "The Waking of Leonora" <Butlin #338>, preliminary watercolour for Bürger, Leonora (1796) tail-piece (p. 16) (ESTIMATE: $60,000-$80,000) [sold for $170,000 ($207,750 with

---

<sup>864</sup> Details are as in BBS pp. 112, 130 unless noted above; BBS says it was sold by Mrs George Madison Millard of Pasadena for $100 to Mrs John Hudson Poole (née Boeing). The birth-and-death dates are not in BBS.

<sup>865</sup> Beginning in March 2013, "Christie's charged the buyer 25% on amounts up to $75,000, 20% on amounts thereafter to $1.5 million, and 12% on amounts above $1.5 million ... Sotheby's charged 25% on amounts up to $1 million, 20% between $1 and $2 million, and 12% thereafter" (Robert N. Essick, "Blake in the Marketplace, 2013", Blake, XLVII, 4 (Spring 2014)).

William Blake and His Circle

Part V: Books Owned by the Wrong William Blake

buyer's premium) to an unidentified buyer]

2013 May-October

§Hayley Flynn, Landscape in Blake exhibition at Tate Britain.

Apparently there was no catalogue.

2013 June 14-23

E-Bay. A veteran bookseller of Bath offered a facsimile of Songs of Innocence and of Experience ([St Dominic's Press, "1920's"]), "54 printed pages", bound in pale blue card, with a calligraphic MS title on the cover ("Songs of | Innocence & | Experience") and spine and, in the same hand, a gift-inscription from Eric Gill to his son-in-law Denis Tegitmeier (d. March 1987): "Denis T. from | EG | 25.Dec.1931".

The reproductions show the title pages of Songs [pl. 1], Innocence [pl. 3], and Experience [pl. 29], printed in reddish-brown, 12 x 15.5 cm, with red framing lines round the design (2 on pl. 1, 1 on pl. 3, 29), numbered in red ink within the top right corner of the framing lines (1, 3, 29, implying an over-all order of pl. 1-54). There is no colouring, but on pl. 1 the fig-leaves are outlined in black ink. Sold for £390.

Probably these are the prints from the facsimile of the Songs by Quaritch (1893).

2013 June 25

§Bonham's, Fine Books and Manuscripts (N.Y., 2013)

3,217 Blair, The Grave (1808), quarto, uncut, in original boards worn and rebaked, "paper label upper cover", quarter morocco slipcase, inscription of 22

William Blake and His Circle
Part VI: Biography and Criticism

---

February 1816 by James Neagle["Mr Neagle" was an original subscriber] (ESTIMATE: $2,000-$3,000) [not sold]

2013 July 3

§Sotheby, Old Master and British Drawings (London, 2013)
160 "Joseph Ordering Simeon to Be Bound" <Butlin #158>, pen and watercolour over pencil, 48.2 x 33.8 cm, reproduced (ESTIMATE: £20,000-£30,000) [£27,500 to John Windle on behalf of Robert N. Essick]

2013 July 5-September 1

Revolutionary Light: Blake, [Anish] Kapour, Turner.
Whitworth Art Gallery, Manchester (2013).

The Blake's are his designs for "Hymn on the Morning of Christ's Nativity" and "The Ancient of Days".

2013 August

Bernard Quaritch, English Books and Manuscripts, New Acquisitions Summer 2013, Music, Poetry, the Stage, Beckford, Byron, Milton, Broadsides, Translation (London, 2013) <Huntington>

32 Hayley, The Triumphs of Temper (1803), "in contemporary marbled calf, spine gilt with wheel motif, red morocco label; ownership inscription of Louisa Anne Hope dated 1807, bookplate of her descendant Julius Hope, Baron von Szilassy", £650.0.0

2013 September 17

William Blake and His Circle

Part V: Books Owned by the Wrong William Blake

Sotheby, Prints & Multiples--Old Master, Modern and Contemporary (London, 2013)

- 1 Job (1826), "'Proof' edition", from the estate of Mrs Adolph (Bucks) Weil, Jr (ESTIMATE: £15,000-£20,000) [£31,250 hammer price with buyer's premium]

2013 October 29

Christie, The Collection of Arthur & Charlotte Vershbow, Part Four: The Neoclassical, Romantic, Symbolist and Modern Periods. 29 October 2013 (N.Y., 2013)

- 784 Bürger, Leonora (1796) (ESTIMATE: $3,000-$4,000) [$3,000 to John Windle for a private customer]
- 785 Young, Night Thoughts (1797), with the "Explanations" leaf, tall (42.5 x 33.2 cm), uncut (ESTIMATE: $10,000-$15,000) [$10,000]
- 786 Hayley, Triumphs of Temper, 12th edition (1803), lacks half- title (ESTIMATE: $800-$1,200) [$813 to John Windle for stock]
- 787 Hayley, Ballads (1805), "Original boards, paper spine label, uncut", with a slipcase (ESTIMATE: $1,500-$2,000) [$2,500]
- 788 Blair, The Grave (1808), large paper proof, text watermarked "J Whatman 1801", bound by Charles Hering in Cathedral Style (ESTIMATE: $10,000-$15,000) [$12,500]
- 789 Blair, The Grave (1813), text watermarked "Edmeads & Pine 1802" or "Edmeads & Co 1811", "all finely hand coloured", "POSSIBLY THE

William Blake and His Circle
Part VI: Biography and Criticism

---

MASTER COPY, COLORED BY BLAKE".

"According to Martin Butlin, the present copy appears to have been colored by Blake himself"; "Butlin proposes that the coloring of this copy is consistent with Blake's coloring scheme, and two plates show 'heavy areas' typical of his coloring." "The Death of the Strong Wicked Man" and "The Reunion of the Soul & the Body" are reproduced showing very Blake-like colouring, especially in the red flames (ESTIMATE: $60,000-$80,000) [$93,750]

- 790 Virgil pen, ink, and water-colour drawing for "Colinet and Thenot" (ESTIMATE: $40,000-$60,000) [$40,000 to Windle for Robert N. Essick]
- 791 Virgil (1821), "wood and steel-engraved plates", signed on a flyleaf by "S.K. Blake", with Frances Hofer's bookplate (ESTIMATE: $5,000-$7,000) [$17,750]
- 792 Job (1826), "original buff boards", paper label, wove paper (ESTIMATE: $30,000-$50,000) [$68,750]
- 793 Marriage of Heaven and Hell ([Camden Hotten], 1868) (ESTIMATE: $700-$1,000) [$688 to John Windle for stock]
- 794 Facsimile of What Is Believed to Be the Last Replica of the Songs of Innocence and of Experience (Quaritch, 1893) (ESTIMATE: $500-$700) [$688 to John Windle for stock]
- 795 Auguries of Innocence (1959), wood engravings by Leonard Baskin (ESTIMATE: $800-$1,200) [$1,188]

William Blake and His Circle
Part V: Books Owned by the Wrong William Blake

2013

Tennyson Research Centre (Lincoln Central Library, Lincoln, England), online exhibition of Tennyson's copy of Blake's Job devised by Sibylle Erle
<<http://lincstothepast.com/exhibitions/tennyson/tennyson-blake-and-the-book-of-job>>

2014 April 4-August 31

§**William Blake*, National Gallery of Victoria International, Melbourne, 4 April-31 August 2014 and its catalogue.

*Cathy Leahy. William Blake. [Exhibition at the] National Gallery of Victoria (Melbourne: National Gallery of Victoria, 2014) 28 cm, 112 pp., 104 reproductions, some of them double page, including all 14 prints from Innocence (X), all 22 Job engravings, and all their Dante watercolours; ISBN: 9780724103805.

Tony Ellwood. "Foreword." p. 4 ("This publication, which presents the NGV's Blake holdings, accompanies the exhibition of William Blake.")

Reproduces in colour every Blake work in the collection, including 36 Dante Watercolours; Europe pl. 11, First Book of Urizen pl. 21, Jerusalem pl. 51, Songs of Innocence and of Experience (X) pl. 13-14, 16-19, 23-25, 27, 35-36, 53-54; Job (1826) much reduced in size, Blair's Grave (1808) (frontispiece and pl. 11-12), Chaucers Canterbury Pilgrims, Young's Night Thoughts (coloured copy Y, Night III title page and p. 95).

REVIEWS

Rachel Kohn, "William Blake's Erotic Spirituality", The

William Blake and His Circle
Part VI: Biography and Criticism

---

Spirit of Things, 30 March 2014 (a broadcast interview with Marsha Keith Schuchard and Catherine Leahy)

*Claire Knowles, Blake: An Illustrated Quarterly, XLIX, 1 (Summer 2015), [48-55] (The exhibition is rewarding, and "The catalogue ... would be a welcome addition to any Blakean's library".)

Sandra Kerbent, "William Blake Exhibition @ the NGV", Weekend Notes [Melbourne] [2014]

2014 April 5-May 3

Sapientia Ubi Invenitur. Espacio Valverde, calle Valverde 30, 28004 Madrid. Curated by Antonio Betancor (Madrid, 2014)
In Spanish

All the reproductions are of Job "Proof" plates numbered "1", "8", "11", "13", "18", "20", "21" which show how Blake served as inspiration for eight young Spanish artists.

2014 May 19

Bloomsbury Auctions, Important Books, Manuscripts, & Works on Paper (London, 2014)

99 Songs of Innocence and of Experience [Ed. James John Garth Wilkinson] (London: 1839), preface dated 9 July 1839, second issue lacking "The Little Vagabond", presentation inscription from W.M. Wilkinson to Elizabeth R. Wilkinson dated 4 January 1839 ESTIMATE: £1,000-£1,500 [not sold]

2014 May 27-July 6

"Une minute ... un secret": Exposition au Château de Nérac [Aquitaine, France] sponsored by L'Association William

William Blake and His Circle

Part V: Books Owned by the Wrong William Blake

Blake (2014), whose President is André Furlan.

The online account of it suggests that the only work exhibited is Blake's engraving after Hogarth for The Beggar's Opera, apparently the copy belonging to the Château, with manuscript additions attributed to Blake.

2014 June 18

Bonhams auction, Books, Maps, Manuscripts, and Historical Photographs (London, 2014) Seen online

- 71 "Unpublished proof of an engraved vignette, [1791]", "oval device enclosing ships at sea, surround with anchor, cannon, flags and banner with motto 'cuncta mea mecum', signed in the plate lower left 'Blake'" above the muzzle of a canon, image 5.6 x 7.5 cm, sheet size 25.0 x 19.0 cm, designed for the "title-pages" of John Gabriel Stedman, Narrative, of a five years' expedition, against the Revolted Negroes of Surinam (1796), presumably one of "above 40 Engravings from London, Some well Some very ill" that Stedman received in December 1791; "I wrote to the Engraver Blake to thank him twice for his excellent work" (BR (2) 62). "The vignette ... as it appears in the book varies in a number of ways: an additional flag has been added to the mast of each ship, the clouds have been amended and Blake's signature has been removed", reproduction; ESTIMATE: £1,000-£1,500 [to VICTORIA UNIVERSITY IN THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO]
- 72 Job (1826), wove paper, watermark J. Whatman

Turkey Mill, 1825, 37 x 25 cm, "FINELY AND RICHLY PRINTED IMPRESSIONS", "one of 100 copies issued shortly after the initial 215 'Proof copies", "bound in slightly earlier [sic] crushed red morocco", "Provenance: Henry Cunliffe (1826-1894), bookplate; thence by descent to the present owner"; ESTIMATE: £25,000-£35,000 [sold for £27,500 including the buyer's premium]

- 73 Songs of Innocence and of Experience [i], "44 relief etchings, including 3 decorated titles, 2 pictorial frontispieces, and 39 plates ... printed in grey ink on wove paper, several sheets watermarked J. Whatman 1831, plate 23 hand-coloured, plate 48 on a slightly smaller sheet of thinner paper (240 x 185 mm.), pencilled numbers at upper right corners, occasional light dust-soiling at edges, a handful of spots, plates 6-7 and 13 with notch at one edge, plates 12-13 with nineteenth century pencil notes in margin, final plate bumped at fore-edge, preserved in red morocco pull-off box ... A SUBSTANTIALLY COMPLETE COPY", with "plates 1-14, 16-29, 33-36, 38-43, 46, 48-49, 52-54. (Bentley erroneously records this copy having plate 30 instead of plate 29.) ... acquired by Henry Cunliffe (1826-1894); thence by descent to the present owner", reproductions of pl. 1 (combined title page), pl. 3 (Innocence title page), pl. 23 ("Spring", second plate), and 42 ("The Tyger"); ESTIMATE: £50,000-£70,000[for £62,50 including the buyer's premium, to VICTORIA UNIVERSITY IN THE

William Blake and His Circle

Part V: Books Owned by the Wrong William Blake

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO]

2014 July 10*Bloomsbury Auctions, Bibliophile Sale (Godalming, 2014)452 Songs of Innocence and of Experience [Ed. James John Garth Wilkinson] (London: 1839), as in the 19 May sale [£1,054]2014 July*Sophie Schneineman Rare Books, on-line catalogue for the Melbourne Book Fair, no catalogue numberVirgil, Pastorals (1821), 2 vols., "original contemporary sheep, skilfully rebaked, Great copy", illustrated, £24,000Young, Night Thoughts (1797), "generously margined copy in 20th century brown half morocco by Riviere", £12,5002014 October 17-November 7*Henry Sotheran Limited [and John Windle]. William Blake (London: Henry Sotheran Limited, 2014) 4<sup>o</sup>, [ii], 42 pp., 93 lots; no ISBN

An exhibition and sale, consisting chiefly of prints taken from contemporary books (including two prints by Samuel Palmer) (lots 1-49), facsimiles, and editions illustrated by others (lots 53-62), contemporary books with Blake engravings (lots 63-72), and facsimiles (lots 75-86). The most important are

51 Job ("1825"), with the bookplate of Henry Cunliffe, £57,000

William Blake and His Circle
Part VI: Biography and Criticism

---

- 52 George Cumberland's card, £12,750
- 64 Young, Night Thoughts (1797), with bookplate of Bernard, Lord Coleridge, and signatures of "J.T., Mary, and Jane Coleridge", £11,150
- 67 Hayley, Triumphs of Temper (1803) with the signature of R.M. Rossetti, 1868, £625

2014 November 22-2015 March 16

Huntington Library and Art Gallery. Eccentric Visions: Drawings by Henry Fuseli, William Blake, and Their Contemporaries (San Marino, California: The Huntington Library, 2014)

Apparently there was no catalogue.

2014 November

Sophie Schneineman Rare Books, "William Blake & His Followers", on-line catalogue, no catalogue number

Virgil, Pastorals (1821), 2 vols., illustrated, £25,000

Young, Night Thoughts (1797), illustrated, £12,500

2014 November

Sophie Schneideman Rare Books, William Blake and His Followers (online), includes Job, "Proof" printing on "French" wove paper (£65,000)

2014 December 4-2015 March 1

*Michael Phillips [and Colin Harrison (Senior Curator European Art, Ashmolean Museum)]. William Blake: Apprentice & Master (Oxford: Ashmolean Museum, 2014) 30 x 23.2 cm, i-vi, 7-272 pp., 341 illustrations! (many not by Blake, rarely true size, often trimmed, including Europe [B] in various sizes); ISBN: 9781854448288

William Blake and His Circle

Part V: Books Owned by the Wrong William Blake

Alexander Sturgis. "Director's Foreword." P. [7].

[Michael Phillips.] "Author's Acknowledgements." P. 9.

"William Blake: Apprentice & Master: Introduction." Pp. 11-15.

Part One: Education

I "Childhood and Pars's Drawing School 1757-1772." Pp. 19-25.

II "Apprentice Engraver 1772-79". Pp. 27-37.

III "Westminster Abbey." Pp. 39-47.

IV "The Royal Academy Schools." Pp. 48-59.

V "Out into the World. 1779-1785." Pp. [60]-65.

VI "First Poems." Pp. [66]-69.

VII "The Manuscripts of An Island in the Moon and Tiriel." Pp. [70]-79.

VIII "Master of His Trade 1785-1791." Pp. [80]-85.

Part Two: Innovation

IX "'A Method of Printing which Combines the Painter and Poet'." Pp. [88]-101.

X "'Illuminated Printing'." Pp. [102]-[107].

XI "Songs of Innocence, 1789." Pp. [108]-11.

XII "No. 13 Hercules Buildings, Lambeth 1791-1800." Pp. [112]-21.

XIII "The Marriage of Heaven and Hell 1790-1793." Pp. [122]-29.

XIV "The Manuscript Notebook and the Creation of Songs of Experience." Pp. [130]-[43].

XV "Colour Printing before Blake." Pp. [144]-[51].

XVI "The Large Colour Prints of 1795." Pp. [152]-63.

XVII "'Fit Audience find tho' Few'." Pp. [164]-79.

William Blake and His Circle
Part VI: Biography and Criticism

---

XVIII "Blake's Last Residence: No. 3 Fountain Court, The Strand. c. 1820-1827." Pp. [180]-85.

XIX "'A Correct and Finished Line Manner of Engraving'." pp. [186]-205.

XX "Illustrations to Dante." Pp. [206]-[15].

Part Three: Inspiration

XXI Martin Butlin. "The Interpreter and the Ancients." Pp. [218]-23.

XXII Colin Harrison. "Samuel Palmer 1805-1881." Pp. [224]-[31].

